Tax Assessor for City Is Urged Again By C L U To Equalize Taxing Figures

Also Tells City Dads a Tax Increase Preferred to Reduction in Essential Public Services

The working people of this city would continue the public services that are essential to a fine city rather than reduce them to keep the same tax rate, said Central Labor union last Monday evening in discussing the adoption of a city budget which is not suffcient to operate city functions adequately.

It was called to the attention of the delegates that taxpayers during the last year were saved $250,000 in reduced fire and accident insurance premiums, such reduction being caused by active work of the fire and police departments.

It was also pointed out that a 10-cent tax boost would cost the working man only about three dollars annually, but if the schools were cut to eight months, the teachers would lose one month's salary. Their salaries are already ridiculously and pitifully inadequate for them to maintain themselves in the manner necessary to their station.

The city dads were also urged to create the office of city tax assessor who could make more fair the tax assessments of various property holders. It is charged that many pieces of property in the city are assessed on a lower basis than individual home owners. As it is now, the city must accept the figures on assessments made by the county.

Here is what CLU said:

"Whereas, it appears from press reports and other sources that the city is faced with three alternatives: (1) to increase the tax rate on realty and personality, (2) to levy a tax on motor vehicles, or (3) to decrease the various services which the city furnishes to its citizens; and,

"Whereas, the services rendered are already below an acceptable minimum in many departments and to reduce them will deprive the masses of the citizens for whom the government is operated of essential services necessary to a progressive city; and,

"Whereas, by the published statement of the mayor himself, Chattanooga has the lowest per capita taxes of any city in the

Washington. — Organized labor will form the spearhead of a national campaign in defense of the liberties and rights of democracy at the coming convention of the American Federation of Labor in Cincinnati, O. The League of Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy will stage a mass demonstration during the convention, Thursday evening, Oct. 5, to initiate a broad and comprehensive program for the defense and extension of all rights and liberties that follow from our democracy.

The League, with William Green as honorary president and Matthew Woll as president, will work primarily with the forces of organized labor. As a co-ordinating and directing force the league will give vital impetus to the constant struggle for the preservation of our rights and liberties. Although the league's initial efforts will be concentrated within the forces of organized labor, the program of the league will later extend its activities to include all the forces of our democracy that carry on the fight against any weakening of our democratic principles and processes.

Importance of Task Stressed.

In the invitation to all organized labor to participate in the Cincinnati demonstration, Matthew Woll stressed the importance of the task before labor in the defense and extension of our own democracy.

"With so much of the world resorting to war, prejudice, torture, imprisonment, exile and execution of minorities, and with so much effort being made to fan the flame of prejudice and hate in our own country, it is our inescapable duty to do all in our power in support of American freedom, democracy and human rights.

Biggest Danger Within.

"Organized labor has long been steeled in the fight for the rights and liberties of democracy. As men and women we have fought with courage and success for the right to receive a just and living wage.

"We have fought and fought bitterly for the right of assembly and speech. In all our struggles we have helped make our democracy an example to the world.

"Now there is a great and immediate danger that all we have built will be torn down. The greatest danger, however, is not on the battlefields of Europe, but within our own nation. We face the real threats to our democracy and freedom in the direct and autocratic control that war time regulations would place upon us.

"In war democracy always loses, in principle as well as in practice. Added to this we have and will continue to have in increasing volume and force propaganda of every form imaginable. The propaganda that will be ground out will help in most instances every force but the force of reason, tolerance and justice. Democracy will be under fire.

Labor to Do Full Duty.

"Whether democracy can withstand and repel the attack depends upon the concerted and united defense of every lover of democracy. We of organized labor have proven our loyalty to democracy and will not be found wanting in this crisis.

"We shall defend and lead others to defend that democracy, never forgetting that our first and most important line of defense is right here at home."

Oakland, Cal. — Officials of Steam Fitters Union, Local 343, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced with gratification the finalization of an agreement with the Bay District Ice Cream Manufacturers' Association covering refrigeration employes in both Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

The wages and hours provisions of the agreement are regarded as excellent. They provide for the 8-hour day, 5-day week; time and one-half for the first four hours with double time thereafter; $170 a month for journeymen the first year, $180 a month the second year; journeymen employed on a per diem basis shall receive $1 an hour the first year and $1.10 thereafter.

Foremen will be paid $220.50 the first year and $231 thereafter; apprentices will receive a minimum of 50 cents an hour. Employers are required to furnish and launder special uniforms.

The agreement stipulates that only members of the union shall be employed and that no union member shall be discharged because of union activity.

The agreement also provides that it shall not be a violation of the contract for any employe to refuse to serve or handle any products of any individual, firm or corporation while such individual, firm or corporation is under lockout, or is under a strike recognized by either the Central Labor Council of Alameda or Contra Costa counties or the Building and Construction Trades Councils of Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

If Cannot Operate Own System, Why Contribute to Private One.

At its meeting last Monday evening the Central Labor union sent a resolution to the city commission offering a suggestion concerning the cutting down of expenses. Because of lack of revenue, the city board has indicated that the necessary services of the city to its citizens will be reduced. Among these services cut down will be the schools operated by the city. Commissioner McMillan has indicated that there will be only an eight-months term.

Central Body called attention to the fact that for some years the city has donated to the University of Chattanooga the sum of $5,000 annually in the form of scholarships. Delegates took the position that if the city could not operate its own system of schools, it should not continue to contribute to a private institution, and the following resolution asked that the practice be discontinued:

"Whereas, the budget just adopted by the city of Chattanooga has been reduced by some 4 per cent, which is necessary, according to the board of commissioners, because of lack of funds and revenue; and,

"Whereas, it has been publicly stated by various commissioners, if not all of them, that the necessary public services must be reduced in scope; the commissioner of education has gone so far as to say that the term of our public schools will be shortened because of lack of funds; and,

"Whereas, taxpayers have been repeatedly invited by the mayor of the city to point out to him constructive suggestions to assist the city in its dilemma; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the board of commissioners is hereby requested by the Chattanooga Central Labor union to cease paying the sum of $5,000 to the University of Chattanooga each year as a contribution for scholarships or otherwise; be it further

"Resolved, That it is our opinion that if the city is unable to adequately operate our city schools it is most illogical to donate money to private institutions, even though it be a worthy one."

DRUG STORE "GETS RIGHT" WITH LABOR

Dr. Bradley Comes Into City and Declares His Store Must Be Union.

Local 574, Culinary Workers, announced last Monday that their union shop card had been put back into the Bradley & Bandy drug store at Sixth and Market. The card was removed because of a misunderstanding on the part of someone in the management.

Dr. Bradley, in charge of the company, came into the city and immediately remedied the whole affair. He insisted that his store must remain fair to organized labor, and the card was put back.

Organized labor congratulates the attitude taken by Dr. Bradley.

President Mahon Reports Increased Membership and Five Hundred Agreements in Effect

Cincinnati, O.—The twenty-sixth convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, opened here Sept. 11 with a large attendance of delegates from all divisions.

The Amalgamated Association was organized in Indianapolis in 1892 and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in 1893.

It is the policy of the association to resort to arbitration disputes that are not adjusted by direct negotiation between union representatives and representatives of the employers. This practice results in a minimum of work stoppages.

International President W. D. Mahon in his report said the association has over 10,000 members and has in the neighborhood of 500 agreements covering wages and working conditions throughout the United States and its territorial and island possessions and Canada.

High Taxes Held Taking Jobs—

Burden of Taxation Is Heaviest On Labor, New York Group Says

Albany, N. Y.—Asserting high taxation as a creator of unemployment and declaring that "labor should be the strongest force in the country today for reduced taxes," Henry M. Champion, speaking for the state budgetary emergency committee, a private organization, asserted that taxes paid to state and local governments in New York would make up the payroll of a million workers.

State and local taxes had reached a total of $3,500,000 a day, he said, and these taxes must be met out of the pockets of those gainfully employed in business, in factory and on the farm.

Taxes Depressing Industry

If the total of New York's share of Federal taxes were added, he went on, the amount would meet the payroll of nearly two million workers.

Champion said the regional director of the social security board reported that in 1937 taxable wages in New York state totaled $4,225,000,000, and that the average male worker earned $1,211. With taxes half as much as the amount labor received for its services in industry, Champion said, the effect could not but be "depressing to industry and to wages in the state, retarding buying, driving people out of business and creating unemployment."

Worker Hardest Hit

"Every one has been hit by taxes, but no one group more seriously than the worker who pays invisible taxes every time he pays rent, buys food, clothes and other necessities for himself and his family," he concluded. "The average family in New York state has a tax bill of more than a dollar a day, or nearly $400 a year, which is equivalent to one-third of the average worker's income.

"A reduction in this heavy tax bill would mean that much more left in the hands of the worker, the farmer, the housewife, the consumer, business and industry to stimulate opportunities for better wages and more real jobs."

House Committee to Investigate Labor Board Mails Out 60,000 Questionnaires

Washington.—Backed up with a $50,000 appropriation, the special house of representatives committee set up last summer to investigate the administration of the national labor relations act by the national relations board has mailed 60,000 questionnaires to labor organizations and employers as a preliminary to public hearings which will begin about Oct. 15, Representative Howard W. Smith, of Virginia, chairman of the committee, announced.

These questionnaires dig to the bottom of every aspect of relationship between the labor board and labor unions and employers. According to Edmund I. Toland, general counsel of the committee, the mass of information included in the replies will be of great assistance in analyzing the board' policies.

Questions Submitted to Unions.

In the questionnaire to the labor organizations the investigating committee asks, among other things:

"What was the attitude generally or specifically of the board's representatives toward your organization or any affiliated union or organization or toward any of the charges filed or to be filed?"

"Have any activities of the board or policies of the board or its agencies and employes interfered with (or aided) your growth and functioning as a collectiv bargaining agency?"

The committee also asked the unions whether they had encountered delays or obstructions on the part of the board or employes in handling of petitions for certification and whether any activities or policies of the board or its agents interfered with or aided the union's growth and functioning as a collective bargaining agency.

Employers Are Interrogated.

The questions addressed to employers included the following:

"Did the trial examiner direct the reporter to omit from the record any part of the proceedings?

"Did he examine or cross-examine your witnesses? Or witnesses for NLRB? If so, to what extent?

"Please furnish also whatever information you can on the attitude and conduct of the attorneys for NLRB before and during the hearing; the attitude and conduct of the trial examiner before and during the hearing and the cost of the hearing to your company as well as the effect, if any, the results had upon your community."

Employers were asked to state also the effect of settlements arranged by the board on their business, on their relation with their employes, and "whether or not the probable cost to you of a regular hearing upon the complaint was presented to you as a reason for accepting the settlement."

The committee is also seeking to ascertain the approximate cost to the employers of taking part in board hearings and of the relationship of the attorneys for the unions to the attorneys for the board.

The two questionnaires listed over 100 questions. To each one was attached a copy of the house resolution authorizing the investigation.

In addition to Representative Smith, the other members of the house committee are Representatives Arthur D. Healey, of Massachusetts; Abe Murdock, of Utah; Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, and Harry N. Routzohn, of Ohio.

Business Must Aid in Solving Problem Of Unemployment, O'Mahoney Says

Atlantic City, N. J.—Unemployment is as much the problem of business as of the government, Senator Joseph C. O'Mamoney, of Wyoming, chairman of the temporary national economic committee told the National Petroleum association in convention here.

He said that although American industry had done "remarkably well" in approaching the unemployment problem, it still "had not done enough." If business and industry do not join in solving that problem, he said, the government "goes broke."

"I freely confess," he said, "that we on the committee are lacking in experience and ability for our jobs. But we unite in a desire to serve business. We're not looking for victims, nor is the department of justice in its anti-trust investigation. We're looking for a way out. We need it. Look overseas. Europe is bankrupt, starting a new war with the last one not paid for and our own country has piled up a $40,000,000,000 debt."

2 FIRMS RENEW LADIES HANDBAG UNION PACT

The agreements provide for all the terms and conditions contained previously, such as the forty hour week, minimum wages of fourteen dollars a week, a closed union shop, etc.

In addition there is provision for a general increase in wages for all workers of about ten per cent.

Mass Buying of Union Label Goods Quickest Way to Bring Lasting Recovery, Says I. M. Ornburn

Washington, D. C.—Concerted union label buying action is the best possible insurance of permanent jobs, higher wages, shorter hours and better working conditions, I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. L. union label trades department declared in a Labor Day address over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Buying of union label goods and services, Ornborn, added, "will create purchasing power derived from the payrolls of private industry and thus reduce federal taxes required for relief and governmental projects." He continued:

"Through the creation of greater purchasing power there will be a greater demand for the products of American farmers as well as the goods of manufacturers.

"In general, an intensive union label-buying campaign will speed recovery and will be the quickest means through which America can return to lasting and permanent economic security.

"Permit me to appeal to American consumers by asking two questions. How can America recover from these periodical depressions if all consumers do not buy merchandise that is made under American Labor Union standards?

"The answer to these questions is 'they cannot.' It is impossible for America to have any degree of prosperity if consumers continue to buy foreign-made and other unfair products made in sweatshops where wages are so low that the workers are unable to sustain themselves with the necessities of life—to say nothing of the comforts and luxuries that may be purchased by workers with the prevailing wages established in every community by the American Federation of Labor.

"We cannot expect American and unionized industries to continue to pay standard union wages if American consumers do not buy the goods which are manufactured in these industries.

Union Label Buying Vital

"Americans — especially union men and women—must consume the products of our own unionized manufacturers or they will have to go out of business.

"I prophesy that when industry becomes completely unionized that the mass purchasing power will be sufficient to absorb the maximum of our mass production. I shall also predict that as soon as American consumers become union label-conscious, America will return to the greatest era of prosperity it has ever known."

Public Expects Labor To Make Peace, Says Secretary Perkins

Washington, D. C.—In a statement declaring that "a united labor movement is essential if wage earners are really to experience their gains," Secretary of Labor Perkins reiterated the Roosevelt administrations' desire for labor peace.

Miss Perkins told a Columbia Broadcasting System audience that the A. F. of L. and CIO leaders should practice what they preach—collective bargaining — to settle their own troubles in the same way that employer-employe disputes are ironed out.

"The public has long heard the cry of labor leaders for the right of collective bargaining with industry and labor sitting down together," she said. "Consequently that public expects competent, honorable labor leaders to sit down with each other and negotiate a settlement of those differences which are by no means insurmountable when there is a real will to reach an agreement.

"The longer the controversy runs the more disastrous it will be to a healthy and prosperous labor movement."

CANDY WORKERS STRIKE IN MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The entire organized labor movement in Minneapolis is supporting the members of Food and Candy Workers Union No. 20120, A. F. of L. affiliate, in their strike against the Creamette company for decent wages.

The union demands a 5 cents an hour increase for all employes. Among the fifty-two strikers are sixteen women. Pay for women workers has been 40 to 45 cents an hour, and for the men 50 to 60 cents an hour. Despite the reasonableness of these demands, the creamette concern refuses to grant the increases.

Watch the Price Gougers!

Profiteering with war conditions as an excuse seems headed for trouble. Labor, consumers' organizations and governments, national and local, realize the danger of profiteering in the necessities of life and are alert to fight it at every turn.

The coming American Federation of Labor convention at Cincinnati will undoubtedly denounce profiteering and discuss and act on a program to make it tough for the price gougers. State and city labor organizations can be depended upon to take similar action. Local unions and individual union members can help by watching prices and reporting any attempts at gouging to the proper authorities. Unremitting vigilance and determined action can drive the gouger to cove..

Unite on One Great Aim

It took the united struggles of several generations of workers to win the rights which labor enjoys today. Organized labor in the past has found solutions for its problems through reason and practical common sense; and organized labor is not less competent today. With the same determination and effort and will the different groups of American life must lay aside their differences and selfish viewpoints and unite on the one great aim—the expansion of industry, the raising of our levels of living, and the supreme necessity of all—getting men back to work and keeping them there!—Matthew Woll.

A Good American, Mr. Tabb

Attorney Ben Tabb last Friday made one of the most beautiful impromptu talks before the city commission that we have been fortunate to hear. The strength of his words was in the apparent fact that they came from a deep inner conviction.

Mr. Tabb, like others in the room, had sat through a siege of diatribe between the commissioners. He had listened to the city officials declare that lack of revenue would seriously cut necessary public services, and he had also understood the selfish work of "pressure groups", who own large blocks of property, protest tax payments.

Although Mr. Tabb was present on other business, he gently but kindly chided the commissioners for name-calling and discord. He stated that he was fortunate enough to be able to own property, and he felt he was fortunate to possess the privilege of paying his just share of taxes.

He pointed out that in European dictator countries property is confiscated and hatred is taught in the schools. He thanked God his parents were fortunate enough to "catch the boat" a generation ago to come to this country where children are taught to think rather than what to think, where human beings have human rights, and where people may own property.

He also stated he had always observed that whatever you enjoy you must pay for it. If we want public schools, fire protection, good streets, playgrounds and garbage service, we must pay for it.

We salute Mr. Tabb! Would that there were more real Americans like him who are loyal to American traditions rather than loyal to individual selfish interests.

War and Profits

Far-sighted business concerns realize that after war comes deflation and cuts or elimination of profits. One of the world's largest copper companies, Kennecott, acknowledges that armament production in Europe resulted in heavier copper demand last year. But it points out the other side of the picture, which business and indeed every element of the population, would do well to keep in mind.

"A higher standard of living which would gradually come about through an assured peace, would do more to increase consumption of copper than any temporary demand created by a major conflict with its inevitably disastrous consequences," the company commented in a letter to stockholders.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

 Louise Tinker, Correspondent ******

Most of you, we are sure, have read that Bradley & Bandy is back in the fold—a move that we are very proud of. We had several nice talks with Dr. Bradley and he assured us that he has not and does not want any fight with organized labor, adding, "It's a great thing." We urge our people to give their support to this union house.

Tuesday uight, Oct. 3, is our regular meeting night. We expect you to be present.

The HOME PLATE is NON-UNION.

If you have changed your address let us know so that you will continue to get your paper.

A good union man is not the jealous individual who rails against the union, threatens to pull away and smash it to pieces and have no more to do with it because So-and-So made a better suggestion in the meeting, which was adopted instead of his.

He is not the one who goes around abusing everybody and everything and saying by his every act that there is no good in anything or anybody but himself and his own doings.

He is not one who acquaints his employer with all the private affairs of the union.

He is not one who absents himself from meetings of his local and criticizes those who do attend for what they do.

He is not one who promotes disorder at the meetings of the union and who persists in showing disrespect to the presiding officers and others who address the meeting.

He is not so selfish but that he can give due credit to the conscientious work and utterances of others.

HARRY'S PLACE, MAYPOLE and the STEAK HOUSE are NON-UNION.

Resolutions

WILLIAM J. McCAIN

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in His divine wisdom to send His messenger of death and take from our midst our Brother William J. McCain, general secretary of the Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, who died Sept. 8, 1939; and,

Whereas, Brother Secretary McCain was for many years a true and faithful member of the Iron Workers, and our organization has lost a loyal member and the nation one of its most active workers and friends of organized labor; and,

Whereas, his passing leaves a gaping void in the hearts of his family, friends and associates; be it therefore

Resolved, That Local Union No. 584 stand in silence for one minute in tribute to his memory; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy be spread upon the minutes of his local union, and a third copy be sent to the international office of the Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers for publication in our official journal.

Bad Breath May Show You Need This Help!
Bad breath is sometimes due to bad teeth and often due to sluggish bowels.
It offends. And to neglect it may invite a host of constipation's other discomforts: headaches, biliousness, loss of appetite and energy. Don't let constipation slow you down. Take a little spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT tonight. In the morning there's an evacuation that's generally thorough. You feel fine again!

Prompt Help For A Listless Child

Scolding won't help a boy or girl who is listless, dull or cross from constipation. But, here's something that will!

If sluggish bowels have your child headachy, bilious, upset, give him a little Syrup of Black-Draught tonight. Like the original famed BLACK-DRAUGHT, its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative. Helps impart tone to the bowel muscles.

Children like the taste of Syrup of Black-Draught. It is an all vegetable product. When simple directions are followed, its action is gentle, but prompt and complete. Comes in two sizes: 50c and 25c.

Senator Walsh Named To Civil Liberties Unit

Washington, D. C.—Senator Elbert D. Thomas, of Utah, chairman of the senate committee on education and labor, announced the appointment of Senator David I. Wal'., of Massachusetts, to fill the vacancy on the senate civil liberties committee, occasioned by the death of Senator Murphy in 1936. Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, is chairman of the civil liberties committee and Senator Thomas the other member.

In announcing Senator Walsh's acceptance, Senator Thomas said that Mr. Walsh, when chairman of the education and labor committee, himself originally appointed the civil liberties committee.

"His coming to the committee thus assures proponents of civil liberties the services of a champion of the program from the beginning," Chairman Thomas added.

The recent session of congress just before adjournment appropriated $50,000 to enable the civil liberties committee to make an investigation of the alleged activities in opposition to trade unions and civil rights of the Associated Farmers and other groups on the Pacific coast.

TEACHER TALK

Plan to attend the first membership meeting of the school year at Dickinson on Saturday, Oct. 14, at 10 o'clock. The business will be conducted with dispatch so that you can get away by 11:30.

Applications for membership are coming into the office at a pleasing rate. Young teachers who have just finished their probationary period are joining up, and some former members are applying for reinstatement.

One man whose dues had been in arrears reports that on a trip west during the summer he saw so many union teachers and heard so much about their work that he is thoroughly sold on the federation.

Another teacher is turning in four applications a fine example to the rest of us.

Again we remind you that our new offices are 206-207 Ferger building, down the hall from where the union grew up to its present estate.

As we go to press, plans are being considered for a lecture here by one of America's best known personalities. If all goes well, we think you'll be delighted with the project.

The city budget, as we write this, has not yet been finally adopted, but events thus far make manifest to us once more the fact that Chattanooga is not education-minded. Convinced that they have good schools, the public cannot see why more money is needed than is now appropriated for educational purposes. Our labor friends are a gratifying exception. When taxpayers ask for a hike in the tax rate, it's news! And that is just what the Central Labor union did Monday night.

AFL Auto Workers Union Wins Strike in Chicago

Chicago, Ill.—A settlement was reached here ending the auto workers strike at the plant of the Revere Copper and Brass company. The walkout began June 22 and affected 550 employes. The strikers were members of Local No. 447 of the United Automobile Workers Union of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Daniel Hurley, a conciliator of the United States department of labor, announced the ending of the strike after conferences with company officials and representatives of the union.

Hurley said the employes returned to work at the pay scale which was in effect prior to a reduction in August, 1938. The wage cut amounted to eight per cent. and was accepted unwillingly. Last June the union demanded the restoration of the old scale, which was refused. The strike followed.

WRONG WAY TO WIN RECOVERY!

Thrirty-three AFL Unions Win Increases In New Pact With Anaconda Copper Co.

Washington, D. C.—An agreement has just been unanimously ratified by 33 American Federation of Labor craft unions whereby the Anamonda Copper company will pay to all metal crafts and building trades workers in Anaconda, Great Falls and Butte, Montana, 50 cents a day more than before. The agreement raises the basic minimum 75 cents a day.

Other gains include recognition of the principle of seniority and establishment of rules and regulations under which jurisdictional demarcations will be accepted by the company.

In the opinion of A. F. of L. leaders, the agreement is noteworthy as an example of how 33 craft unions have carried on successful collective bargaining negotiations over a period of five years with a company in which the CIO has an overwhelming majority of workers—miners and smeltermen.

Peace Plan Provided

John P. Frey, president of the A. F. of L. metal trades council, who is recognized as godfather of the Anaconda plan, asserts that the method of handling disputes, which is re-established by the agreement just ratified, is the most satisfactory method incorporated in any trade union agreement. The steps are to be taken in handling complaints are as follows:

1—The local first tries to adjust the grievance with the foreman.

2—Failing to get satisfaction, the business agent is called on.

3—If the business agent fails, the representative of the international union takes a hand.

Two More Steps

4—Next the dispute is referred to the Industrial Relations Committee appointed by the local metal trades council. There is no trifling when this body steps in because the agreement provides that the plant manager must take up the dispute at once with the committee. Since 1934 no dispute has gone beyond this stage without adjustment. Neither side wishes to see a dispute go to the last court.

5—But if the manager and the committee can not reach an acceptable adjustment in fifteen days, the dispute goes to the president of the Anaconda company and to the president of the metal trades department and the building construction trades department of the A. F. of L.

Brass Companies Increase Wages

Waterbury, Conn.—The American Brass company has announced a general 10 per cent. wage increase for 11,000 employes in plants throughout the country.

At the same time, the Chase Brass & Copper company, with 5,000 employes, announced a similar wage increase for factory employes.

BRITISH SEAMEN STRIKE; HIGHER WAGES DEMANDED

New York, N. Y.—Sixty-nine British seamen brought to New York on the Aquitania to man two British oil tankers consigned to a British port struck here. They demanded that their $36 a month wages be raised to the American scale of $78 a month, and that they get $5,000 war risk insurance each.

Syracuse Company Signs Pocketbook Union Pact

Newark, N. J.—The officers of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers Union were elated over the success of Samuel Reinlib, president of the union, in signing an agreement with Julius Resnick, Inc., Syracuse, N. Y. The company is the largest firm in the pocketbook industry, employing over 600 workers in its Syracuse factory.

President Reinlib announced that the main provisions of the agreement are:

All workers receive a wage increase of between ten and twenty per cent.

The shop is to be operated as a closed union shop where all workers employed by the firm must be members in good standing of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers' Union.

The firm is not to remove its factory from its present location and is not to give out work to any outside shops unless its own workers are fully employed, and then only to union shops which are in contractual relations with the international.

The agreement also provides that no worker is to be discharged without sufficient cause; that there shall be equal division of work in the slow periods, and impartial machinery for the adjusting of disputes.

The agreement is signed for two years and four months, to expire Dec. 31, 1941, with the understanding that in a year from now the union and the firm are to negotiate wage adjustments.

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

Label Leaguers report that they had a very fine meeting as guests of Local 175 in their new home on McCallie last Friday night. All of them were delighted with the nice quarters the Electricians have fixed up for themselves.

Joe Payne, of the Retail Clerks, was the lucky person who won the attendance prize for this month—he wins a selection of Christmas cards with his name printed on them—union-labeled, of course.

Perhaps it is a bit early, but since we are on the subject of Christmas cards, you can get them from Harry Maupin or Paul Reynolds. There are beautiful selections and you can get 50 for a dollar, with your name printed on them. They also have other selections that are more expensive. All cards have the union label on them.

U.S. Must Stay Out of War, A.F.L. Council Declares

"We Favor Our Nation Offering Mediation Services for Peace, and Hope that Warring Countries May Be Prevailed Upon to Accept Them; But With That We Refuse to Go Further."

Cincinnati — The United States must stay out of the war in Europe and maintain neutrality both "in spirit and in act." This was one of the outstanding demands made by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in their report to the annual convention of the federation here.

While condemning the various persecutions instituted by the totalitarian governments in Europe, the council called upon the nations to use "the instrumentalities of peace in the settlement of international disputes," and held that "we should take a firm stand for peace and against involvement in European wars."

On the subject of American neutrality and the duty of the United States to remain outside of the present conflict in Europe, the council said:

"The president of the United States has issued two proclamations, one establishing our neutrality under international law and the other putting into effect the arms embargo made mandatory by the neutrality law. The embargo lists the goods prohibited and lists the nations affected.

"The president has declared his intention to call an extra session of congress to consider neutrality in the light of European developments.

America Must Avoid Involvement in European Wars.

"The American Federation of Labor protests against the aggression which precipitated war among the nations in Europe. We protest against the persecution of minorities in totalitarian nations. We protest against racial persecution and the development of racial hate. We plead for the substitution of freedom, democracy and tolerance among all people and in all nations throughout the world.

"We are unalterably opposed to our own nation becoming involved in European conflicts. We favor the exercise of neighborly and mediatorial influence by our government in all efforts to promote peace and to compose differences between nations. But, in doing this, we insist that our government shall pursue a judicious policy, exercising care and caution and a firm determination to avoid involvement in European conflicts or in European wars.

Condemns Autocratic Government.

"It is the opinion of the Executive Council that the fifty-ninth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor should emphatically and decisively declare itself against autocracy in government, let it be nazi, fascist or communist.

"We call upon nations of the world to utilize the instrumentalities of peace in the settlement of international disputes. We plead for the substitution of conference, negotiation, and the settlement of controversies in the conference room, in place of war and war preparations.

"We as a part of the institutional life of the nation, declare that it is our firm and unalterable purpose to serve in every possible way in the preservation of our democratic form of government, the protection of our free institutions, the enjoyment of the right of free assemblage, free speech, free press and religious freedom.

"We call upon all people who share this point of view to join with us in the protection of our

H. V. KALTENBORN TO SPEAK HERE

Famous Radio Commentator Sponsored by Teachers' Federation

By PAUL LONG

Kaltenborn will come to edit the news for Chattanooga on Saturday, Oct. 16, under the sponsorship of the federation.

For some time the executive committee and George McCoy's lecture committee have been looking for a sure-fire successor to Dodd for us to bring to town, and now we have him.

H. V. Kaltenborn knows the European situation better than anyone else who will talk about it. Every year for more than thirty years he has traveled abroad studying foreign problems and interviewing statesmen. He was in Europe when the war started, and was game enough to fly to Germany after having spoken plainly about Hitler for years. (He was not allowed to remain, as you probably read.)

It was he who first brought radio broadcasting to the trenches. This was in the recent Spanish war. We quote from the Readers Digest of February, 1939:

"Taking a coil of cable over his arm, Mr. Kaltenborn stepped across a hundred yards of bullet-swept field and took up his position in the shelter of a haystack. He was a solid, substantial figure in a well-cut business suit and pince-nez, a Phi Beta Kappa dangling across his ample vest front;

Suspension of Brewery Workers' Recommended

Typographical Union Also Faces Suspension for Non-payment of Special Tax Assessment Levied in 1937; Delegates Are Silent on Chance for Seats, But Present Credentials

Recommendation of the suspension of the international union, United Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers of America, with headquarters on Vine street, was contained in the executive council report of the American Federation of Labor, prepared for presentation to the fifty-ninth convention of the federation which opened Monday in the Netherland Plaza.

The council in its report recommended suspension of the brewery union, one of its oldest internationals, because "it challenged the authority of the American Federation of Labor itself by seeking an injunction to restrain it from exercising its legal and moral rights to settle jurisdictional controversies." The brewery union has a membership of 42,000.

Ancient War.

The drastic step of suspension would bring to a climax an ancient war between the brewery union and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America.

For years the brewery union has refused to relinquish to the teamster's union its truck drivers. That is the crux of the dissention.

The matter was thought disposed of by the A. F. L. at its 1933 convention in Washington, when the convention adopted a recommendation of the executive council that "teamsters and chauffeurs in the brewery industry properly belong to and come under the jurisdiction of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs."

However, in March of last year the brewery union filed a petition in the district court of the District of Columbia to restrain the A. F. L. and the teamsters' union from carrying out the will of the convention as expressed at Washington in 1933 and at San Francisco in 1934.

Also facing suspension is the International Typographical union for non-payment of a special assessment levied in 1937 to finance a so-called "war chest" in the early struggle against the Congress for Industrial Organization.

The credentials committee reported favorably late Monday on the seating of 512 delegates to the A. F. of L. convention—but it made no report on the delegates from the Typographical and Brawers' unions that are threatened with possible suspension. Reports on these two delegations will be submitted later.

Two of the six I. T. U. delegates, President Claude M. Baker, Indianapolis, and Michael M. Di Pietro, Tarrytown, N. Y., declined comment on probable rejection of their claim to convention seats. Baker said only that they would present their credentials today. The other four are Elmer E. Manning, Minneapolis; Henry E. Clemens, Los Angeles; William H. Harris, Detroit, and Glenn L. Mitchell, Indianapolis.

Clyde Barfoot, former member of the Chattanooga Baseball club, has entered the restaurant business. He and Mrs. Barfoot have taken over the management of the former Lane and Crowley restaurant. We urge our friends and the people of organized labor to give these operators their support.

Street Railway Union Wins Increased Wages

South Bend, Ind.—An increase of 10 cents an hour was won by street car and bus operators, members of Division 996 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, employed by the Northern Indiana Railway, Inc., South Bend Motor Bus company and South Bend Motor Sales company.

The hearings were held from Aug. 25 to Sept. 2 before A. Fred Wiedman, chairman; Judge George A. Schock, arbitrator for the union, and A. W. Johannes, arbitrator for the company. O. David Zimring presented the case for the Amalgamated.

The award, signed Sept. 11, made the increase retroactive eight months to Jan. 1 and extended the same percentage increase to all employes of the track department, line department, shops and garage, who are members of the Amalgamated.

The award brings the wages of operators to 65 cents an hour and represents a gain equal to the total amount of all increases which have been granted them since the last arbitration in September, 1935.

INSPECTOR ADVISES ON ELECTRICAL SAFETY

October ninth is the anniversary of America's biggest and most costly fire. It was on Oct. 9, 1871, that the fire started which reduced a large part of Chicago to ashes. Each year the week which contains this regrettable anniversary—this year the week of Oct. 8-14, is observed nationally as Fire Prevention Week.

Cleaning up and fixing up around the house, are the orders of the week, and Asst. Electrical Inspector Wm. L. Williams reminds us that this check up should include due attention to electrical wiring and appliances. Any hazards of an electrical nature which may have developed during the year, should be eliminated now. The use of electricity in homes has been gaining at a rapid rate, but this need not mean an increase in electrical fires if simple safety rules are observed, says Mr. Williams. The following suggestions have been made to keep your electrical installation in safe working order:

1. Lamp sockets which have broken keys, or have pull chains which no longer work, and sockets which are coming apart, should be replaced. The same applies to switches that don't make good contact, and receptacles that will not hold attachment plugs securely.

2. If temporary extensions to the wiring have been made through the use of flexible cords, and these have been left in place to serve as permanent wiring, they should be removed and a safer, more permanent type of wiring should be substituted.

3. Examine all attachment and extension cords in the house for hazard due to injury or wear. If cords on lamps are worn to the point of exposure of copper conductors or damage to the insulation, they should be replaced at once. This also applies to the heater cords used on flatirons and other appliances. If heater plugs and attachment plugs are broken so that "live" terminals are exposed, or if bolts to hold these plugs together have been lost, the plugs should be discarded and replaced by new ones. In purchasing new cords, make sure that their quality is up to the minimum standard for safety established by Underwriters' Laboratories. Approved cords carry the Underwriters' label.

4. Short circuits of wires or short circuits in appliances cause fuses to blow out. The blowing of fuses should not be looked upon as an unfortunate occurrence, but as an important signal that some unsafe condition has arisen. Find the faulty equipment and remove it from the circuit before the fuse is replaced.

5. If fuses blow out when too many lamps and appliances are connected to a circuit, it means that the circuit is over-loaded. Either a fewer number of appliances must be connected, or an additional circuit must be installed.

6. Fuses should be examined to see if they have been tampered with in any way. The fuse is the safety valve of the wiring system, and fuses should never be altered in any way. There will be no temptation to "defeat" fuses if a few extra fuses are kept on hand. The recommended rating for fuses used in homes is 15 amperes.

No War Boom Big Enough To Put All Idle to Work Is Likely, WPA Chief Warns Nation

Washington, D. C.—It is too early to make definite predictions as to the effect of the European war upon unemployment here, Col. F. C. Harrington, works projects commissioner, said in an address broadcast from Washington.

Harrington warned against overoptimism regarding a boom in the United States resulting from the war and asked business and industry not to ask the WPA to dismiss any more workers because of predicted jobs to come from the conflict.

"Since the beginning of this calendar year," he said, "the WPA rolls have been reduced by a total of a million, three hundred thousand. This was done in the expectation by Congress of sufficient improvement in private business to absorb these workers. There has been some improvement in business, but certainly no boom. In fact, private employment is not very much higher than it was on Jan. 1.

Eight Million Still Idle

"Every year about 600,000 young workers enter the labor market in excess of those older workers who leave the labor market. Right now, in addition to the approximately two million WPA workers, there are almost eight million unemployed workers available for private industry.

"If this nation, as we all hope, keeps out of the war, our present unemployment of ten millions may be reduced next summer by one-sixth of even one-fourth. This still leaves us with a very large number of unemployed."

The WPA commissioner warned also against the economic consequences of the war.

Must Strengthen U. S. Economy

"It ought to be clear," he declared, "that we cannot found our American prosperity on the tragic sufferings of a European war. We should rather seek to protect our economy from the inevitably disastrous consequences of that war. It will be followed by profound economic disorder in Europe, and perhaps by economic collapse. The more we rely on war business to help us, the more serious will be the economic dislocation in this country when that war business suddenly stops.

"Our American economy needs to strengthen its own basis right here at home. We need to continue the work we have begun, and in which we have made good progress in the last seven years—that of creating a sound national economy in which there are fair wages, fair prices and fair profits. It is in this direction that true prosperity lies."

No Gag Rule Wanted

Labor believes in full and free debate on controversial questions and will have no sympathy with any attempts to gag debate in congress on the neutrality or other issues. Hints that "cloture" may be used to shut off full neutrality debate have appeared. Whether anything of the kind will be tried remains to be seen.

Attempts to curtail debate are at variance with democracy and are certain to arouse protest among all believers in the principles on which the United States was founded. This does not mean that the public will approve filibustering or other mere time-killing tactics. But it does mean that the nation expects thorough consideration of the neutrality issue, with full discussion of all aspects of the problem.

"Never Again," Says Nation

A great epidemic of influenza similar to the death-dealing outbreak of 1918, after the United States entered the world war, "may well be expected in association with the present war," says Dr. Thomas M. Rivers, of the Rockefeller institute.

Memory of the terrible 1918 scourge is undoubtedly one of the things steeling the resolution of the people of the United States to keep this nation out of war. And they know that the "flu" epidemic was only one of the many disastrous consequences of the war—consequences which are still with us.

Is it any wonder the "never again" determination is strong?

No Basis For Soaring Prices

Answering the question, "how well stocked is the nation's larder?" the United States Department of Agriculture says:

"The answer is that there is on hand now or in prospect an abundance of virtually all kinds of food. There's enough to supply this country amply for the coming year. In many cases, not only is there enough, but some to spare."

The Department of Agriculture is the authoritative source of information on this nation's crops.

In view of the department's statement, is there any reason for marked increases in the prices of food stuffs?

Organized labor is convinced that there is not and is making its position perfectly clear at the Cincinnati A. F. of L. convention.

Protecting Fair-Minded Employers

Employers who want to pay fair wages have nothing to fear from minimum wage laws. In fact, they have every reason to support such laws, as they are a protection against unscrupulous competitors who exploit their employes. This is being borne out by experience in New York state, where minimum wage scales are in effect for women and minor employes in the laundry, beauty service and confectionery industries. The law is proving beneficial to employers, workers and the public. Frieda S. Miller, head of the State Department of Labor, tells the story in one paragraph.

"The administration of the minimum wage law," Commissioner Miller says, "has shown fair-minded employers that they will not face unfair competition from the wage-cutting, chiselling, minority group; has shown employes that the state is concerned with their receiving a wage sufficient to secure them adequate maintenance and to protect their health; and has shown the public that as additional women employing industries are covered they need no longer underwrite inadequate payrolls through charity and relief."

"Sentinels on Guard"

The labor papers are sentinels on guard throughout the country for the cause of mankind. They are extremely valuable advocates of the cause of the wage-earners. The labor movement owes to the labor papers a great debt of gratitude for giving voice to labor's cause when often other avenues of publicity are closed. Every possible support should be given to the bona fide labor press to strengthen it for still greater work that lies ahead.—American Federation of Labor.

408 New Charters Issued by A. F. L.

List Includes One International Union, 23 Central Labor Unions, 322 Local Trade Unions, and 62 Federal Labor Unions.

Cincinnati, O.—The outstanding success of the organizing work performed by the American Federation of Labor in the past year was set forth in the report of Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison to the convention of the federation here giving the number of new unions chartered by the A. F. of L. Executive Council.

During the 12 months ending August 31, 1939, there were 408 charters granted. Of this number one was issued to the Seafarers International Union of North America.

Twenty-three central labor unions were chartered in the following towns and counties:

Indiana—Dearborn county.
Iowa—Fort Madison, Iowa City.
Louisiana—Bastrop, Winnfield.

BUY XMAS GIFTS WITH UNION LABEL, ORNBURN URGES

Washington, D. C.—Labor organizations throughout the nation have been urged by I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L. union label trades department, to inaugurate a union label Christmas gift buying campaign.

Local union label committees were instructed to call on all local firms presenting them with a copy of the 1939 Union Label Catalog Directory so that merchants would place their orders for merchandise with manufacturers whose products are union-made and whose services are union.

"Build-Up": Way to Ease Women's Pain

Many weak, run-down women are in a vicious circle. Their undernourishment often leads to what is called functional dysmenorrhea and its symptoms — headaches, nervousness, irritability, intermittent cramp-like pains — from which many women suffer. Surest way to break the vicious circle is by building strength and energy, which so many find may be done with the help of CARDUI. It stimulates appetite, aids digestion, and thus helps in this "build-up" of physical resistance. Women also report that, if taken just before and during "the time," CARDUI helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

Street Railway Union Wins Increased Wages

South Bend, Ind.—An increase of 10 cents an hour was won by street car and bus operators, members of Division 996 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, employed by the Northern Indiana Railway, Inc., South Bend Motor Bus company and South Bend Motor Sales company.

The hearings were held from Aug. 25 to Sept. 2 before A. Fred Wiedman, chairman, Judge George A. Schock, arbitrator for the union, and A. W. Johnannes, arbitrator for the company. O. David Zimring presented the case for the Amalgamated.

The award, signed Sept. 11, made the increase retroactive eight months to Jan. 1 and extended the same percentage increase to all employes of the track department, line department, shops and garage, who are members of the Amalgamated.

The award brings the wages of operators to 65 cents an hour and represents a gain equal to the total amount of all increases which have been granted them since the last arbitration in September, 1935.

Senator Walsh Named To Civil Liberties Unit

Washington, D. C.—Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, chairman of the Senate committee on education and labor, announced the appointment of Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, to fill the vacancy on the Senate civil liberties committee, occasioned by the death of Senator Murphy in 1936. Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, is chairman of the civil liberties committee and Senator Thomas the other member.

In announcing Senator Walsh's acceptance, Senator Thomas said that Mr. Walsh, when chairman of the education and labor committee, himself originally appointed the civil liberties committee.

"His coming to the committee thus assures proponents of civil liberties the services of a champion of the program from the beginning," Chairman Thomas added.

The recent session of Congress just before adjournment appropriated $50,000 to enable the civil liberties committee to make an investigation of the alleged activities in opposition to trade unions and civil rights of the Associated Farmers and other groups on the Pacific coast.

Gospel of Sunshine

"The balances of the world are n and the weights of the world right. Build a pair of scales the world and be sure of one g—men will weigh you in your n scales."

There was once a baker who ght the butter he used from a ghboring farmer. He became picious that the butter did not gh a pound and weighed it for eral days, finding it short, and had the farmer arrested for short weight.

At the trial, the judge asked the farmer if he had any scales.

"Yes, of course," the farmer said. "But I do not have any weights."

The judge asked him how he weighed the butter without weights.

"That's easily explained, your honor," said the farmer. "I bought my bread in one pound loaves from the baker and I have been using his one-pound loaf as a weight for the butter. If the weight of the butter is wrong, he is to blame himself."

Tucson Lumber Company Signs Drivers Contract

Tucson, Ariz.—The Tucson local of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, reported the negotiation of an agreement with the Corbett Lumber company covering the company's drivers.

Charles Patterson, business agent of the local, said the agreement, which runs for one year, makes the Corbett company the first and only lumber company in this area that is union throughout.

WHO SAID "PROFITEERING"?

The European war was two days old when grocery stores announced a jump in prices for meat, flour and sugar.

Some of us can remember what happened in 1917, when food jumped out of reach and millionaires were created overnight at the expense of the bellies of the people.

If this is a sample of what we must expect before the war is well started, it is time for the federal government to find means of restraining present owners of our food supply, or we may have a little war of our own.

With more than ten million unemployed citizens it has been no small problem to feed them in the past nine years, and to use the excuse of Hitler's war to boost prices is little short of criminal.

Organized labor is congenitally opposed to dictators at all times, but if this country is unfortunate enough to get into the present disturbance we can expect the worst.

Meantime, however, it develops upon somebody with authority to stop the present inclination to profiteer in foodstuffs before the situation becomes more serious.

but, as a slight concession to the adventurous nature of his trip, he wore a steel helmet over his thinning hair. He watched the battle for hours, occasionally hearing the swish of bullets through his haystack. Once he had to go out and mend the cable where an exploding shell had broken it. It took nine hours to establish radio connections, but finally America heard from the haystack the dignified, well-modulated tones of Mr. Kaltenborn. He analyzed the war picture in clipped, precise diction, bringing out every syllable and consonant—a habit acquired in those early days when radio transmission was not so good as now. His remarks were punctured by the occasional rattle of machine guns and bursts of artillery. It was the first time the noise of actual battle had been heard on the radio."

He wrote another new chapter in radio history when he broadcast, a month ago, from London one night and from New York the next.

We are fortunate to get him, for he has been in tremendous demand throughout the country for lecture engagements.

More Strength Advocated for Labor To Help Nation Uphold Peace Ideals

Madness exists today not only in the outside world, but in our own house, former Senator George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union of North America, warned yesterday in calling upon labor to strengthen its own ranks to help the nation uphold the ideals of peace in the world.

The former senator from Tennessee said we may scorn the possibility of a dictatorship in the United States, but he warned that we can not say that "it can't happen here" when "our own house is divided."

Speaking before an assembly of members of his own union at Hotel Gibson in a session preliminary to the opening of the American Federation of Labor convention, the speaker, although he made no specific mention of it, obviously was referring to the Congress of Industrial Organizations — American Federation of Lamor split.

It is not unreasonable, he continued, to consider a dictator in America as the result of its entering war, adding that influences seeking our participation are already at work.

"Laws of the government are suspended in times of war—and are very difficult to get back again," he explained.

He said that labor, therefore, as a component of the all-important triumvirate of industry, comprisinfi itself, the investor, and the management, should "stand up to be counted," and should strive to make the partnership among the three more active, thereby doing labor's part to restore sanity to the world.

This strength, he pointed out, will serve also as a cushion against the shock of an economic result of war—depression.

"It is not for us to say that we know depression," he warned, "for what we have experienced will be only a pink tea party compared to what could come."

This calls for more mutual understanding among the members of the partnership among the three the interest of one another and of the republic of the United States we should be ready to invite our employers to the conference table and be ready to make our contribution toward the restoration of order in the world, Berry held.

If there ever has been any value to collective bargaining, it is 1,000 per cent more important now, in a situation, such as exists in Europe, that challenges all of the finer things for which trade unions stand, he contended.

It must be remembered that the member of a local no longer is judged by his ability to use violence, as was the case years ago, for now statesmanship, diplomacy, and the desire of labor to sit at the conference table with the investor and manager, now reigns, he reminded.

Buttons Cry Cause Of 30-Hour Week At AFL Session

Large red-and-blue buttons, blossoming on lapels of more and more American Federation of Labor leaders at the Hotel Netherland Plaza and crying the cause of the 30-hour week, were traced yesterday to a spry and smart little New Yorker named Harry Van Arsdale, Jr.

Van Arsdale and big Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, of which he is business manager, have set out to bring the country around to the six-hour day and five-day week. That, they contend, will put America's 10,000,000 unemployed back to work.

They are spreading buttons, matches and stickers at the convention. They have an "educational campaign" on in New York. They are circularizing the country.

Incidentally, in gathering data, Van Arsdale said, they discovered one union that has had the thirty-hour week for thirty years, the Hebrew Typographical union in New York.

Local 3, he explained, has had experience with all sorts of work weeks. It tried the four-day eight-hour, three-day eight-hour, and the five-day seven-hour week, before settling into the five-day six-hour. They even tried taking less money, on their employers' argument that less money would mean more work, but it resulted in both less work and less money, he said.

It must be remembered that the member of a local no longer is judged by his ability to use violence, as was the case years ago, for now statesmanship, diplomacy, and the desire of labor to sit at the conference table with the investor and manager, now reigns, he reminded.

Springfield, Ill.—The delegates to the Illinois State Federation of Labor adopted unanimously a resolution favoring the 30-hour week as a method to reduce unemployment by making more jobs available in industry for the millions of workers now unemployed. The convention adopted the slogan, "Six-hour day, 30-hour week, with no reduction in pay."

The convention also favored an increase in the maximum old age pensions in Illinois and the elimination of the piece-work system in industry.

H. V. Kaltenborn, whom the federation is bringing to Chattanooga for a lecture at Memorial Auditorium on Dec. 16, has sent us, among other information about himself, the following notes about "Reporting a War." We think you will find them interesting.

REPORTING A WAR

This summer I spent three weeks in Europe, on a flying trip, doing twenty-seven broadcasts, but spending most of my time interviewing key men on the political situation. In both England and France I talked with leading members of the cabinet and exchanged news and views with the American ambassadors. I also had revealing talks with such men as Ernst Hanfstaengel, my Harvard classmate, now a fugitive from Hitler's staff. In Paris, I interviewed Paul Reynaud, minister of France, and came to agree that he is perhaps the strongest personality in France's war cabinet. I had only a brief stay in Berlin, but at last caught some of the atmosphere of the German capital the week before war began. I saw war preparations in England and on the Continent, even in Chartres, France, where they have loosened every pane of the precious stained glass in the great cathedral, ready to remove it in case of bombardment. And I had gone there in the hope of escaping

LOCAL PLUMBERS' UNION REQUESTS HEAD OFFICE TO RE-INSTATE DOBBS

Delegate Ed Bork, Jr., representing Local 43, Plumbers and Steamfitters, reported to Central Labor Union last Monday evening that Joe Dobbs was reinstated in the union the previous Friday.

E. S. Stacy, secretary for Local 43, informed The Labor World that the reinstatement is not yet final. The action must go before the national headquarters of the Plumbers' union. The local here has requested their high office to take favorable action by cancelling the $1,000 fine that was assessed against Dobbs when he was expelled for CIO activities.

According to Delegate Bork, the membership of the local here were convinced that Dobbs had not made any attempt to organize dual building trades crafts and that he had ceased his CIO affiliation.

KALTENBORN TO BE HERE DECEMBER 16, NOT OCTOBER 16

Last week The Labor World made a grievous error, believe it or not. It stated that H. V. Kaltenborn would appear in Chattanooga on Saturday, Oct. 16.

The date is wrong! It should have read Saturday, Dec. 16.

We are sorry for the confusion caused. We could give an alibi, but will refrain. It is just one of those things that sometimes happens in any printshop.

Cement Workers Win Union Pact After Long, Drawn-Out Dispute

Chicago.—Settlement of a long, drawn-out dispute between the Medusa Portland Cement company, of Dixon, Ill., and Cement Workers Union, Local No. 21517, was announced here by William Schoenberg, president, and Toney Gallo, secretary-treasurer, of the National Council of United Cement Workers, with which the union is affiliated.

Under the terms of an agreement signed by President Schoenberg and J. B. John, general manager of the company, the union was recognized as the sole collective bargaining agency for all employes of the Dixon plant, minimum wage rates, effective Jan. 1, 1940, were established, and provision was made for time and one-half for overtime, Sundays and holidays, vacation with pay and senority rights.

A concerted drive against the Medusa company, launched by the national council, was largely responsible for bringing the company into line with the union. Charges made by the union had been upheld by a National Labor Relations Board examiner.

Ship Operators Reject Dock Union's Demand

New York,—The New York Shipping Association, which represents the steamship owners in negotiations with the International Longshoremen's Association, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, rejected the demands of the I. L. A. for wage increases and submitted a counter proposal to renew the terms of the present contract, which calls for $1.05 an hour, $1.60 an hour for overtime, and a 44-hour week.

The union demanded a new agreement including $1.15 an hour, $1.75 an hour for overtime, and a 40-hour week.

President Joseph P. Ryan of the International Longshoremen's Association said the union delegation that met with the shipowners would take the counter proposal under consideration. The present agreement expires Sept. 30.

Mr. Ryan also revealed that the employers' group agreed to the union's request to reopen the contract every six months if any question arose regarding adjustment of wages.

A. F. L. Lumber Workers Win Two More Victories

Portland, Ore.—The Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has won two more victories in the Portland field. The National Labor Relations Board has certified Local No. 2879 as the bargaining agency for the employes of the Kingsley Lumber company and Local No. 2878 as the agency for employes of the Southeast Portland Lumber company.

Brewery Workers Union Very Active

Local 79, Brewery Workers, continues to grow in membership and interest, according to Secretary Erskine Fischer.

Ten new members were initiated at the last meeting of the union and the membership is increasingly interested in all labor affairs.

Secretary Fischer wishes all members to take note of the fact that regular meetings of the Brewery Workers Union will be held at the Electricians Hall, 723 McCallie, in the future. The first Thursday night in each month is the meeting date.

Executive board meetings will also be held at the Electricians Hall on the third Tuesday nights of each month.

All members are urged to remember the change in meeting place.

WILMINGTON BAKERS WIN CLOSED SHOP AGREEMENT

Wilmington, Del.—Officials of Bakers Union Local No. 6 of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, announced the negotiation of a closed shop agreement with the Huber Baking company. The contract, covering 71 employes, includes a 40-hour week, wage increases, seniority rights and vacations with pay.

"Movie Boys" Are All Set For Annual Party

Local 259, Moving Picture Machine Projectionists, has its plans in good shape for its annual banquet to take place this Sunday night (or rather, Monday morning). The banquet starts at 11:30 p.m., due to the hours of work at the theaters.

The committee on arrangements, composed of P. R. Neligan, W. C. Belcher, A. C. Kamin, George D. Overend, L. N. Vick, J. W. McDowell, C. E. Curle and R. B. Lowry, have been busily engaged, and the toastmaster, J. B. Lowry, the mayor of Broad street, has been noticed lately muttering to himself, so he will be letter perfect as usual.

And there will be special guests, the chief of whom is expected to be the national president, George Brown. The executive boards from the locals in Birmingham, Atlanta, Nashville, Knoxville and Memphis have been invited.

T. R. Cuthbert will give a brief talk on public power.

Various local officials in the labor movement have been given the coveted invitations, and it appears that the main grill room at the Patten Hotel will see one of the smoothest of the movie affairs yet.

N. L. R. B. Overrules California Court Decision Upholding A. F. L. Oral Closed-Shop Contract

Decisions reached by judges of state courts with regard to the validity of oral closed-shop agreements negotiated by A. F. of L. unions are evidently not regarded by the National Labor Relations Board as having legal standing when the decisions violate the bias of the board for the C. I. O.

This policy is seemingly set forth in the board's ruling requiring the Mason Manufacturing company, of Los Angeles, Cal., to reinstate certain employes allegedly discharged a number of months ago because they refused to join Local No. 15 of the Upholsterers International Union of North America, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

The Upholsterers Union claimed it had an oral closed-shop agreement with the Mason company making membership in the union a requisite for employment.

The company applied for an injunction prohobiting the C. I. O. from picketing its plant. The Los Angeles Superior Court, which heard the case, decided that an oral closed-shop agreement had been made between the A. F. of L. affiliate and the company in the fall of 1937. But the board's favortism for the C. I. O. evidently was not to be reduced by a definite decision, arrived at by a full investigation, of the Los Angeles Superior Court that the oral closed-shop agreement was legal and binding. The board decided that the oral closed-shop agreement was non-existent. Here is the way the board phrased its ruling:

"The board found that it was not bound to accept the contrary finding of the Los Angeles Superior Court that an oral closed-shop contract had been made in the fall of 1937."

In the language of "Porky" in the film comic, "That's all, folks!"

SPOKANE LUMBER WORKERS SIGN UP FOUR COMPANIES

Spokane, Wash.—Officials of Local No. 2552 of the A. F. of L. Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union announced the negotiation of agreements with the Diamond, Ohio and Federal Match companies and the Spokane Woodworking company.

In addition to improving the conditions under which the men work, the agreements guarantee seniority rights and provide protection against discrimination of any nature.

The Federal Match company contract requires improvements in the plant designed to add to the safety and comfort of the employes.

Not a Proper Question!

In 1828 the Lancaster (Ohio) school board refused the use of the school house for a proposed debate as to whether railroads were practical or not. The minutes of the school board read:

"You are welcome to use the school room to debate all proper questions, but such things as railroads are impossibilities and rank infidelity. If God had designed that His intelligent creatures should travel at the frightful speed of 15 miles per hour by steam, He would have foretold it through His holy prophets. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls to Hell."

...ve International Unions Have Their ...eadquarters in Cincinnati

...lders, Metal Polishers, ...Brewery Workers, Railway ...Clerks and Hotel and Restaurant Employes Direct Their Organizations From Ohio's Second Largest City.

...Cincinnati, O.—For the fourth ...e the trade union movement of ...cinnati acted as hosts to the ...gates to an American Federa... convention.

...In 1896, the convention that ...ected Frank Morrison to the sec...taryship of the American Feder...ion of Labor, met here. In 1922 ...d again in 1932 the unions affili...ed with the A. F. of L. assem...ed in Cincinnati. On Oct. 2, ...39, the American Federation of ...abor delegates once more came to Cincinnati to open the deliberations of the fifty-ninth convention of this democratic federation of working people.

According to a summary prepared by W. E. Horne, executive secretary of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes International Alliance and Bartenders International League of America, five national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have their headquarters in Cincinnati.

Molders International Union

Oldest mong them is the International Molders Union of North America, founded in 1859, with a notable record of accomplishments and with offices in the Edwards Building at 528 Walnut street. John F. Dunachie, editor of the official journal of the union, recently issued a review commemorating the 80th anniversary of that organization, telling an instructive story of American labor for every trades unionist interested in the genesis of our present labor movement.

Metal Polishers International Union

The Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers and Helpers International Union, organized in 1880, maintain headquarters at 514 Main street. W. W. Britton, general secretary and editor of the "Metal Polisher, Buffer and Plater," official organ of this organization, published semi-monthly, issued a significant number of this journal commemorative of the fiftieth anniversary of the international union. The anniversary edition included an historical article entitled, "Our Trail of Fifty Years," which gives a vivid account of the progress of this organization.

The Brewery Workers

The International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers of America, organized and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor continuously since March 4, 1887, have their headquarters in their own building at 2347 Vine street. The official journal of this pioneer among organizations is "The Brewery Worker," edited by Emil Reincke and Joseph Obergfell.

Railway Clerks Brotherhood

The Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes International Union occupy quarters in their own building. Under the leadership of George M. Harrison, with the assistance of Phil. E. Zeigler, editor of the Railway Clerk, their official organ, this organization has forged ahead to general recognition as one of the best railway organizations. Their headquarters building is located at the corner of Court and Vine street.

Hotel and Restaurant Employes

The Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and Bartenders International League of America have emerged from the "struggling organization" of a few years back to the fourth largest within the American Federation of Labor, and is proud to record the greatest membership in the history of their organization.

The union has 681 locals located in Hawaii, Alaska, Canada and the United States and an approximate membership of 210,000.

These five outstanding national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor greeted the delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention now in session with an enthusiasm that will write the name of Cincinnati high in the annals of cities that have acted as the host to the representatives of the organized labor movement.

"Safety with Light" Awards Made

Members of the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce which won highest award in the national "Safety with Light" Program, plot survey of their city's night traffic accidents. Survey disclosed that nine fatal streets in Long Beach accounted for 70% of all night accidents.

Surveys Stress Darkness Hazard; Lighting for Safety Urged

CHICAGO:—First place in the national "Safety with Light" contest, launched in March, 1939 by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been awarded to Long Beach, California, it has just been officially announced. Other national award winners were Denver, Colorado, and Dallas, Texas, which tied for second place, with San Francisco and Chicago at their heels. Des Moines, Iowa, Gary, Indiana, and Greeley, Colorado, also received recognition for outstanding activities.

The program conducted among its 600 member organizations throughout the country, already actively participated in by Junior Chambers of Commerce in 43 cities, is designed to eliminate the increasing traffic deaths due to inadequate visibility after dark and to the fact that street lighting in most cities today is 20 years out of date and not adapted to modern traffic.

The eight cities winning awards and the other 35 cities which conducted "Safety with Light" programs all made extensive use of the free material supplied by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, including educational literature, car cards, films, billboards, etc.

Important in the "Safety with Light" programs were the "Fatal Street Surveys" analyzing tens of thousands of individual accident records in the competing cities. So revealing were these surveys that Junior Chambers of Commerce were able to make recommendations for the installation of safety lighting on the specific basis of local records. In many cases, city officials requested that such a survey be made part of the Chamber's annual program.

For example, Junior Chamber surveys showed excess night accidents and fatalities cost Long Beach, California a total of $9,875,000 per year, or an average of $4,880 per mile of streets. Nine thoroughfares in Long Beach accounted for 70% of all night accidents. Twice as many night fatalities as day fatalities occurred on Long Beach Streets, despite the fact that only one-quarter of the traffic moves on them after dark.

The survey of the Denver Junior Chamber of Commerce revealed two particularly fatal streets representing only 1.4% of the total street mileage but accounting for more than 13% of all night accidents in Denver. In sixteen months on one street alone, five people were killed at night—none were killed in the daytime. Fifteen streets in Dallas, Texas, accounted for 35% of all of the city's night accidents. And so, in the case of each of the cities conducting surveys, the imposing hazard of after dark traffic was uncovered.

The national "Safety with Light" program has received such high praise from safety organizations, governmental bureaus, and individuals, that it will be intensified during the year 1939-1940. It is expected that at least 200 Junior Chambers of Commerce will undertake active programs.

Unemployment Still With Us

It is well understood that congress has been called into special session to deal primarily with the neutrality issue. Neutrality, however, is not the only important issue before the nation. There are others which are vitally important, including unemployment.

For close to ten years, the unemployment problem has resisted every attempt at solution. There are still millions without work in private industry. The "help wanted" sign is now appearing on factory gates where it has not been seen in years. This is good news—very good indeed—but there is no indication that all the idle will soon be put to work.

As labor has repeatedly pointed out, the unemployment problem must be tackled by a co-operative effort of every element in the nation. Launching of such an effort might well be considered by congress at the special session.

Congress might well, also, give serious consideration to correcting some of the manifest injustices and inadequacies of the present relief act, which cries aloud for revision. Betterment of the law would aid in the attack on unemployment and help to build national unity and strengthen confidence in democratic government.

U. S. Involvement Not Inevitable

American labor has taken its stand squarely against any involvement in Europe's war. It has shown no sympathy with the current fatalist opinion that America will inevitably be drawn into the holocaust. America will not be involved if it has the will to keep out, labor says.

Labor believes that America is the master of its destiny, not the pawn of Europe's conflicting forces, and that it can best serve civilization by refusing to be swept into the dance of death in the Old World. It believes with Alexander Hamilton that "it is ours either to be a grave in which the hopes of the world shall be entombed or a pillar of fire that shall pilot the race onward to its millennial glory."

Labor is determined to stick steadfastly to its task of helping to build a worthwhile civilization here. It knows that participation in war threatens to be a shattering blow to American democracy and all that this nation stands for, and it is committed to do everything possible to preserve peace.

A Message to My Many Friends of Organized Labor

Women: "Build-Up" To Relieve Pain

A weak, run-down, undernourished condition calls for attention!

Such a condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get its foothold. That's one thing which leads to much of women's suffering from headaches, nervousness, those cramp-like pains. A good way to relieve such pains, women by thousands have found, is by the proper use of CARDUI. It stimulates a lagging appetite, assists digestion and assimilation; thus helps build physical resistance to periodic pain. Taken just before and during "the time," many women also report that CARDUI helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

MORE ABOUT

Three weeks may not seem like much of a visit. But an experienced reporter can see a great deal in three weeks, if his way is paved by radio representatives, American diplomats and newspaper colleagues. Although war had not yet been declared when I flew from Southampton for New York, I knew it was on its way. Tension was everywhere. In England they were trying on gas masks. In Berlin, the Germans were laughing and saying, "Heil, Moscow." They were sure they could conquer Poland without unleasing a world war. Everywhere except in Berlin the verdict was the same—war by Sept. 6. They missed out only on the date.

Many people have asked me how I manage to read a bulletin at a glance and explain it without a pause. This is merely a matter of training and background. When a crisis occurs, I am only pouring out in a steady stream what it has taken me years to store up.

I have always spoken extemporaneously, even from my earliest days before the microphone. I go into the studio with only a few jotted notes. During the present war, as during last year's Czech crisis, I often dispense even with these and talk with only the news bulletins before me, as a focus.

The strain of any crisis or war upon the radio news staff is naturally great. Last year during the Czech crisis, many of us felt we would crack under the strain of broadcasting at all hours of the day and night for three unrelenting, breathless weeks. Sleep proved the greatest problem. Eating is relatively unimportant. We all eat too much anyhow and a crisis is a fine opportunity to lose weight.

At Columbia we now have cots in the studio for use in emergency. Cat-naps, I find, are quite as useful as long sleeps. For relaxation, I go now and then to the Harvard club and have a good sweat, a swim and a massage. The endless exhilaration of excitement and suspense carried me through the Czech crisis in fine shape, and at the end of the three weeks I felt no ill effects at all. But I did have to catch up on sleep.

This is my third war. The first I spent as an American volunteer and war correspondent forty years ago. During the second I was war editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. Since then I have followed the trail of bloody revolution in Germany, Italy, Russia, China and Spain.

I get no joy out of war. I would rather discuss a firemen's ball than spend one word combating the propaganda of the "Third Front." But while the war goes on, radio has its duty. It must give the news fully, fairly, freely, not only to North America, but to its large short-wave audiences in South America and Europe. It must tell the story behind the battle fronts. While knowledge makes for peace, and the truth can keep men free, I hope to remain at my post.

BAKERY UNION CONTRACT HAS WAR WAGE CLAUSE

Philadelphia, Pa.—The agreement negotiated by Local 492 of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, with the National Biscuit company here, contains a war clause providing for wage increases if living costs go up.

The agreement, covering 850 persons at the company's plant at Broad street and Glenwood avenue, stipulates that the company will meet with representatives of the union in three months to determine if living costs have been boosted, Joseph Mahon, business agent of the local, said. If living costs have been raised the company is to raise pay schedules in proportion.

According to Mr. Mahon, the contract, which runs for a year, provides the closed shop, two weeks paid vacations, time and a half for overtime up to eight hours a week, and double time for all in excess of eight hours.

The hourly pay of from 48 to 51 cents an hour for women is raised to 54 cents, and the men's pay range of 60 to 80 cents is boosted to 70 to 80 cents.

Electrical Workers' Union Signs Pact With State Public Utility District

Kelso, Wash.—Hailed by union men as the best agreement of its kind in the entire field of public ownership of power, a contract has been signed by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Cowlitz county, Washington, Public Utility district.

The contract assures power company employes a continuation of the existing wage scale and working conditions upon transfer of private electric facilities to public ownership in Cowlitz county.

Herman Lafky, attorney for the power district, said, "Many employes now under private employment will be materially benefited by the agreement. Wages will be standardized in the contemplated merging by the public utility district of all private electric properties.

"All differences or grievances shall be settled by arbitration."

It is expected that the numerous other public power districts in Washington and Oregon will follow the example of that in Cowlitz county and open negotiations with the I. B. E. W.

Breath Bad, Logy? You May Need This

Just as the lighthouse flashes a friendly warning to sailors, so Nature sends out headaches, bad breath, biliousness, which often warn of constipation.

Too many misunderstand or neglect these symptoms and thereby may invite a host of constipation's other discomforts: sour stomach, belching, loss of appetite or energy.

Its long life and popularity testify to BLACK-DRAUGHT'S merit.

One Single Thought

This government must lose no time or effort to keep the nation from being drawn into war. . . . Our acts must be guided by one single hard-headed thought—keeping America out of war.—President Roosevelt.

New Advantage of Progress

I have just thought of one new advantage of progress. What a help television, younger sister of radio, will be in the present war. Radio brings the shrieks of air-raid alarms, the cries of lost children, and the moans of the wounded into our homes. Television will do even better. It will show you in a picture on your bedside radio the gassed and the mangled as they crawl about their bombed homes and their battlefield. Sweet are the uses of civilization.—Helen Essary in Times-Herald, Washington, D. C.

Attention! Communists

Well, Comrade Stalin has embraced Comrade Hitler. This no doubt has come as a shock and surprise to that array of fellow travelers who have tried to hurry the American workers into the communist fold in this country. They have shouted "fascist" at every democrat who has dared to point out that Russia is no different in structure, method or intent from Hitler's Germany. They have used every adroit and open trick of cheap propaganda to belittle the American Federation of Labor, and any co-operative group based on the voluntary principle when it has tried to stem the tide of intellectual dishonesty and verbiage spread by propagandists attached to the communist party. Repeatedly propagandists have shouted, "Russia is different. Hitler is bad, but Stalin is good. He has quality, and the hope of the workers and the world depend upon Comrade Stalin." All this is, of course, simply bunk, an effort to preserve a popular front by a distortion of truth and fact.—Journal of Electrical Workers and Operators.

Praise for Unions

All in all, we've got to hand it to the unions. They've been good to us. They keep us on our toes and by mutual understanding we've been able to work together.—R. H. Shainwald, executive vice-president, the Paraffine Companies, Inc.

American Reactionaries

Our difficulties are the special difficulties attending a stage of development no other country has reached. The American reactionaries are not those who look to our revolutionary past for guideposts for the revolutionary present; the principles of growth that hurried us from the horse-and-buggy age into the automobile age while we were digesting millions of aliens from everywhere are more likely to stand the strain of another transition than any borrowed principles. The reactionaries are those who look abroad and imagine that Old World systems, fascism, communist, even tradition-bound democracy, offer anything to help us. The worst of these systems go back to where we never were; the best are in the process of catching up.—Anne O'Hare McCormick, in the New York Times.

Shavian Sanity

American publicists have adopted the habit of greeting every cryptic utterance of George Bernard Shaw, the antique Irish-British playwright, as a publicity stunt. Shaw has given sufficient reason in his numerous jibes obviously designed maliciously to puncture American self-sufficiency and needle our editors into innocently defending home and country, to Shaw's probable delight.

Shaw's comment on the still-pending European war, however, is not so light-hearted. Everybody's ready to slaughter his neighbors, he observes. "Why? Am I mad?" he asks. The answer is that he isn't, but that most of Europe is.—St. Louis Star-Times.

LOCAL 1212

T. R. UNDERWOOD, JR.

Local 1212 sorrowfully reports at little Milton Ronald Ponder, weeks-old son of Bro. and Mrs. H. Ponder, died Sunday afternoon at a local hospital.

Bro. J. C. Baker is also reported off duty on account of the death of Mrs. Baker's brother.

We extend great sympathy to the families and friends of these brothers.

Bro. B. McSpadden is reported to be improving from his stroke which he has been suffering for about ten days.

Bro and Mrs. F. T. Gamble announce the birth of a son Oct. 3.

Mrs. Russell Wheeler was married to J. M. Ramey on Sept. 24, which accounted for the sudden disappearance of Bro. Ramey. Bro. Ramey and his bride left immediately after the ceremony for a trip through the Great Smokies. We wish them the best of luck in their new adventure, also send our deepest sympathy to the unlucky man, or was she lucky?

Bro. E. H. Dorsey and family returned from their vacation Monday.

Bro. Parker has opened a unit stand at Main and Market and solicits union men down to see him and help him get started.

Bro. M. R. Bire spent his vacation in Cincinnati, O., witnessing the World's Series.

Bro. R. M. Barrows and family spent their vacation in South Carolina visiting two of their sons, Charles and Earl, who are enlisted in the Marines.

I understand Bro. Lonnie Harbin had a blood test made the other day and found that 95 per cent of it was bean soup. But, of course, I don't know, I just heard it, so we will have to check up and find out.

Bro. Don Gault is considering on running for sheriff of Walker county, Georgia. Good luck, Bro. Don, and don't forget to bring around the cigars.

OPPORTUNITIES

To every man God has given a place, a work and a destiny. Happiness and success depend on finding your place and your work. There is some one thing which you can do. You can do it better than anything else. You can do it better than anybody else can do it. If you don't do it, it will remain undone for all time and eternity. Let no man deceive you. You are not a cipher in the divine thought. You are in the world and there is some special work in the world for you to do. Success and happiness depend on finding your place in the plan of God. It is your business to find your place. "Man is man and master of his destiny." Man is the victim of circumstances, but man is the biggest circumstance in the realm of the circumstantial. God has a man for every emergency and an emergency for every man.

Commercial Telegraphers' Union Maps Big Drive to Organize Western Union Employes

Chicago. — With the books cleared of all debts, and with an increased per capita, the Commercial Telegraphers' Union's eighteenth regular convention adjourned here, with plans laid for increased activity in organizing the Western Union Telegraph company.

All officers were returned for a two-year term, International President Frank B. Powers and International Secretary-Treasurer W. L. Allen by acclamation. Members of the general executive board are G. R. Pawson, Toronto, chairman; Arthur Markel, secretary, Washington, D. C.; John B. Alcorn, Detroit; W. V. McEwen, Winnipeg, and James P. Meagher, New York City.

President Powers and I. J. McDonald, of Chicago, were elected delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention.

War Risk Insurance Asked

A strong resolution was adopted which demanded bonuses and insurance for radio officers on ships which are routed through war zones.

Other resolutions called upon the American Federation of Labor to set up a marine trades department; expressed thanks to President Green and Director of Organization Frank P. Fenton for their aid in the Western Union organizing campaign, and opened the way for setting up of an airways communication division.

As their contribution to the desire for a clear desk, the two international officers and Chief Clerk Frank C. Rausch voluntarily waived back salaries amounting to nearly $17,000. Organizers are to be relieved of the need of explaining to Western Union employes that the CTU is not "debt-ridden." Officers also took a considerable salary cut as an additional contribution to the organizing campaign.

"Labor Unity" Bid Rejected

An attempt by the CIO dual union to gain publicity by a bid for "labor unity" turned out to be the occasion for considerable CTU newspaper space which, stressed the angle that the CIO had spent $100,000 trying to wreck the CTU and failed. The convention unanimously voted to refer the dual union to a letter addressed to John L. Lewis last fall by the CTU's general executive board. This letter, which Lewis acknowledged by referring the CTU to Mervyn Rathborne, president of the CIO group, pointed out that the American Communications Association had squandered $100,000 and two and a half years without accomplishing anything because Western Union employes would have nothing to do with a communist-influenced organization.

Lewis was requested to "refrain from interfering with a bona fide industrial organization" and to give the CTU "the chance to show that we CAN DO THE JOB of organizing Western Union."

The subsidy of CIO to the dual union continued in spite of the appeal to Lewis, but after another year of CIO activities, the CTU reported it represented 7,000 Western Union employes by membership or proxy signatures at the convention.

Paper Makers Local 362

By HARRY BEDOIT

As this is the first time our local has taken advantage of the privilege of a write-up in the Labor World, I will try to make these few lines as interesting as possible.

As summer is about over our local can look back and see what good times we had last season. Through the generosity of the management of the Tennessee Paper Mills we were able to organize and equip a ball team.

Although we finished in the cellar, Lewis Williams, the manager of the team, has higher and better hopes for next year.

Another happy event was our picnic held just recently.

Through the kindness and generosity of Mr. Murphy, superintendent of the Tennessee Paper Mills, we had the use of his place on Signal Mountain for the picnic. Mr. Murphy also donated a large hog which was barbecued to-a-tee. There were plenty of refreshments for men, women and children. The membership wishes to thank Mr. Murphy and the committee, Paul Lex and John Christian, Jr., for the splendid time which they had. Of course, we can't have good times always, for sometimes there is a dark side to the picture. Bro. Daley Denton injured his knee and was in the hospital for several weeks. We are glad he is able to be back at work.

Bros. Erskine and Shorty Johnson lost their father recently. Bros. John Christian, Jr., and Fred Greer are on the sick list. We hope they will recover soon and be back at work. As winter is approaching, Bros. Laymen, Williams and Travis are looking around for some shoes, as the barefoot season is about over. Bro. Charlie Reed was seen looking for a hat to cover that bald head of his.

The farmers' division of the mill reported good crops this season. Bros. Ike McKissick and George Durham said they have more sweet potatoes than they know what to do with.

Bro. O. R. Fitts has recently moved into his new home.

Bros. Herman Norris, Henry Outlaw and Homer Doyle are the mountains boys. They claim that mountain dew is fine in the early mornings.

This finishes our report for this time. John Christian, our king fish, wishes a full attendance on our next meeting night, at 7:00 o'clock Saturday night, Oct. 14.

Will see you there.

REOPENS SUIT BY PRINTING TRADES COUNCIL

Union to Get Appeal in Label Case for Alleged Infringement

The suit started two years ago by the Hudson County Allied Printing Trades Council to restrain the Master Printers Union of New Jersey from using a label so similar to that of the Allied Trades as to deceive the public, and which was dismissed then by Vice-Chancellor Charles M. Egan, has been ordered reopened.

At the time the suit was started in April, 1937, the vice-chancellor dismissed the complaint on the ground that no evidence had been produced that anyone had been deceived by the Master Printers' label.

In September, 1938, the Printing Trades Council filed another petition asking that the case be reopened, as it had come into possession, since the first hearing, of positive proof that the public had been deceived by the label. Vice-Chancellor Egan then referred the matter to Special Master J. Stanley Griffin, who took evidence from both litigants and yesterday he filed his report with the recommendation that the case be reopened.

In his report Mr. Griffin stated that the testimony taken by him showed that the label was deceptive and that it had been accepted by persons who believed they were getting the Printing Trades Council label. He specifically mentioned John Ganowski, owner of the Bergen Hatters, Inc., of 2982 Boulevard, Jersey City, who testified that he had been deceived by the label.

Mr. Griffin's report in full follows: "I therefore respectfully find and report the facts stated in the petition for re-hearing as true and that the testimony and exhibits produced before me prove to my satisfaction that the label used by the defendant corporation, Master Printers' Union of New Jersey, has actually deceived persons of ordinary intelligence and that the complaintant is therefore entitled to the relief prayed in its petition."

Vice-Chancellor Egan will now set a date for a hearing on the special master's report. Representing the Printing Trades Council in its application for a re-hearing was Reuben Massarsky and representing the Master Printers were Morris G. Friedman and Samuel Cooper.

Liberty Magazine Prints Splendid Racket Expose

The following is a duplication of a story published by Liberty magazine on June 17 of this year. It was written by Rupert Hughes, and The Labor World has been granted full permission to re-print. We hope that every business man and trades-unionist will read every word, and while doing so you will recognize "Bill" as the fellow that has called you in Chattanooga. The Labor World has repeatedly warned against such rackets that have been imposed on unsuspecting victims here.

"THEY'VE GOT YOUR NUMBER"

By Rupert Hughes

(Reprinted from Liberty)

To you and to nearly every one who has a telephone this must happen nearly every day, much as it does to me:

Brrrrrrrr!

"Hello!"

"This you, Rupert?"

Tentatively, "Yes?"

"How are you? How you doin'?"

"I'm all right. Who's this?"

In a hurt tone: "Why, this is Bill!"

"Bill who the hell?"

"Why, Billy Wickieup, of course."

I don't remember Billy Wickieup, but I have a memory that is perfectly unreliable; so I make up in cordiality what I lack in recollection. He goes on:

"Say, Rupert, some of the boys are getting up a little dance for the Disabled Veterans (or the Disabled Orphans, Milkless Babes, Hungry Newsboys, or the Firemen's Pension, or the What Not?) and the boys asked me to help 'em out. I know you're in sympathy with everything good. How many tickets can I send you? They're only a dollar apiece. I'll send you ten. Or can I make it twenty five? The boys—"

"Send me five."

"Good for you, old boy! Have the check or cash ready, will you? I'll send the tickets right over. Leave the money at the door if you're going out."

Or the lay might be:

Lovemans Awards Union-Made Clothes

S. L. Williams and W. L. Chamberlain won first and second prizes for guessing nearest to the weight of a large stone which has been displayed in the window of Lovemans men's store. The rock was suspended in such a manner as to demonstrate the rugged strength of the seams of a pair of union-made work pants, manufactured by Sweet-Orr company.

The actual weight of the stone was 96 pounds, but there was a wide variation in the guesses turned in during the past few weeks. The guesses were examined Monday morning after the stone had been officially weighed. Mr. Williams, of 50 N. Market, as first prize winner, gets a pair of work pants of the brand advertised, and Mr. Chamberlain, an employe of Mertin's, gets a work shirt from the same line.

WPA WORKERS MUST SHOW NEED FOR JOBS

Check-Up Will Be Made Every Six Months Beginning October 1, in Accordance with Work Relief Act.

Washington, D. C.—Every one of the hundreds of thousands of workers refused employment by private industry and temporarily employed on relief jobs under the Works Projects Administration will hereafter he required to show their need for WPA employment every six months. A decree setting forth this new policy was issued by the Works Projects Administration in accordance with the provision of the revised relief act stipulating that periodic inquiries regarding the need of WPA workers be made.

Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, said the first nation-wide check-up of the economic conditions of those employed on relief projects would be well underway by Oct. 1.

Although information would be obtained from the WPA workers themselves, Col. Harrington said he did not propose to rely exclusively on their statements, but, in addition, would seek information from former employers, social agencies and other agencies to determine whether there had been changes in the WPA employes eligibility for work relief. He added that those found not in need would be dismissed.

700,000 Are Dismissed From WPA Projects

Washington, D. C.—Over 700,000 workers were dismissed from the Works Projects Administration rolls under the 18-month rule during July and August, according to a report by Deputy Commissioner Howard O. Hunter. He added that lists had been reduced to 1,600,557 on Sept. 6, reflecting the final dismissal of persons who had worked 18 months continuously on WPA projects.

A. F. OF L. LEAVES DOOR OPEN FOR RETURN OF ITU

Cincinnati.—The door for return of the suspended International Typographical union to the A. F. of L. was left open by final action of the A. F. of L. Executive Council, meeting here following adjournment of the convention.

The council voted to notify the I. T. U. of its suspension for failing to pay an assessment for the federation's organizing campaign, but declined to withdraw support of the Allied Printing Trades Council label or order the state federations and local labor councils to suspend or expel printers' unions.

Such punitive action will not be taken, it was announced, until an effort is made by one group of I. T. U. leaders to have the assessment paid, and until the final decision of the printers is made known in a nationwide referendum.

Chancellor Foust heard the pleas of both sides in the city salary suit Wednesday. All the evidence, as is usual in such cases, has been presented previously in the form of depositions, so the contest is now in the hands of the chancellor. Expect a decision within a few weeks' time.

Building Trades Notes

Under auspices of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, some twenty representatives of the building trades in Tennessee met in Nashville last Monday and Tuesday to confer with Commissioner of Highways C. W. Phillips. The Chattanooga delegation was composed of Grover Tittle, O. E. Cook, W. W. Orr and Almand Crawford.

Last Tuesday saw Bricklayer Dave Parks in Hiwassee.

M. H. Catrette, business agent for the iron worker local in Knoxville, paid a business visit to Chattanooga Monday.

Charles Crawford, young son of Operating Engineer Almand Crawford, received a fall last week which resulted in a fractured collar bone. He is getting along nicely, according to latest report.

J. H. Shoemaker, member of the Iron Workers, spent the week-end at Ocoee.

Charter Installed For Monroe B. T. Council

'MOVIE' BANQUET IS HUGE SUCCESS

29th Birthday Party Review Shows Good Condition

Local 259, International Association of Theatrical and Stage Employes of United States and Canada, enjoyed a fine review of its progress over its twenty-nine-year history last Monday morning. The occasion was a birthday party, given each year, and this last one was a complete success, with President Burson Lowry acting as toastmaster.

The list of invited guests was quite large, including the executive boards of the local in Nashville, Memphis, Atlanta, Knoxville and Birmingham. Other guests were R. M. Cooke, T. R. Cuthbert, the executive board of Central Body and C. H. Williams, of the U. S. Conciliation Bureau.

Brother Ed Healy, the oldest member of the local, led off with a few reminiscences. The international office was represented by R. E. Morris, of Mobile.

AFL Contracts Cover Distillery Workers

Cincinnati, O. — Approximately complete saturation of the distillery industry by unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor was reported by the A. F. of L. executive council to the annual convention of the federation, in session here. In their account of the progress made among distillery workers the council said:

"Organization activities in this field are carried on by organizers who work directly through the national council which was organized some time ago.

"These organizers have negotiated agreements covering practically all of the workers in the industry.

"We are happy to report that we have made good progress in this field."

Wars Are Engendered by Autocratic Governments, A.F.L. Council Asserts

Holds That International Peace Would Prevail If the People in the Dictator-Controlled Countries of Europe Enjoyed Democracy in Government.

Cincinnati, Ohio—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor deprecated in strong language the regime of armed force by the totalitarian governments of Europe, which is expressed in the invasion of other countries and the sacrifice of untold multitudes of human beings in the inhuman struggle for power.

The basic reason underlying the present war in Europe, the Council declared is "the substitution of dictatorial and autocratic control of government of democracy and democratic procedure in the administration of governmental affairs."

In discussing the "Conflict Between European Nations," the council said:

"Since the submission of our last report, the war in Spain was terminated. That bitter conflict resulted in the loss of thousands of lives and in the destruction of millions of dollars worth of property. The horrors of war in all its extreme phases during the Spanish conflict were brought home to the people in all nations throughout the world.

Dictators Seize Ethiopia, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland

"Mussolini, the ruler of Italy, in addition to the seizure of Ethiopia several years ago, invaded helpless Albania during the past year and through force of arms compelled that nation to submit to the dictatorial control of his fascist government.

"Germany, under the leadership of Hitler, invaded Austria, destroyed its independence and subjected it to German control. In like manner, Hitler led his armies into Czechoslovakia, seized that country, took over the boundary fortifications and substituted nazism for democracy. Czechoslovakia is now a German-controlled nation. Next, Hitler turned to Danzig and invaded that territory.

"Poland called upon Great Britain and France for military aid against the invasion, as promised in their treaties. Great Britain and France made protests and exhausted every diplomatic resource for peaceful adjustment, and only then issued ultimatums preceding a declaration of war against Germany.

"No one can adequately appraise the state of mind caused by fear, anxiety and uncertainly among the masses of the people of European nations at the present moment.

"The council feels that it can with perfect propriety repeat what it stated in its report a year ago. It is of the opinion that war preparations and war grow out of the substitution of dictatorial and autocratic control of government for democracy and democratic procedure in the administration of governmental affairs.

"We are confident that if the people who reside in totalitarian nations were in control of their government, if in these nations there were a rule of the people, by the people and for the people, that war and the threat of war would no longer disturb the peace of the world.

"We can not help but believe that the masses of the people in Germany and other autocratically controlled countries are peace-loving people, men and women who abhor war as the masses of the people do here in America. We are confident their state of mind is similar to that which exists here. We are certain there would be no threat of war if the final decision regarding war were vested in the peoples of these nations.

Communism, Nazism and Fascism

"The American Federation of Labor has consistently and repeatedly declared itself against Nazism, Fascism and Communism.

"Dictators who control under these autocratic forms of government shape the destinies of the nations they control and of the people who are subjected to their will.

"Freedom, democracy and democratic forms of government mean international peace; while dictatorship, autocracy and totalitarian forms of government mean war, territorial aggression and chaos and confusion in international relationships."

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly

Senator Tom Connally of Texas was orating in the senate on the neutrality issue.

He noticed only about twenty senators were in the chamber getting the benefit of his speech. He interrupted his address to say:

"Mr. President, I realize there is a world series going on on the outside, but there is another world series going on in Europe,

"That's the world series with which the senator from Texas is more concerned."

He noted that "the absence of some senators is at times advantageous," which was evidently a delicate way of saying that he didn't mind if some of his opponents stayed away while he was speaking.

Senator Connally was rebuking his colleagues for being more interested in baseball than the European war.

European war is more important than baseball, but after all, why isn't it a good sign that senators and other Americans are interested in baseball, perhaps even at times to the exclusion of European affairs?

Continued preoccupation with European bloodshed and tragedy is hard on the nerves. Human beings can't stand tragedy all the time. They need a change. Interest in baseball and other purely recreational activities is good for the soul.

It is easy to overdo dwelling on the affairs of Europe. We have troubles of our own. As often pointed out in this column, there are lots of things at home that need our attention and need it badly.

Unemployment, for example. We haven't solved it, despite tremendous efforts. What chance is there to solve it if we concentrate on Europe's problems to the exclusion of all else?

"We place the problem of getting the unemployed back to work in private industry as our first concern," the executive council of the American Federation of Labor told the Cincinnati convention.

"We know," the council added, "that idle plants can be brought into operation, idle capital can find investment in productive private enterprises and idle men be put to work producing the things they need for a decent living.

"After seven years of partial recovery, we still find ourselves today with 10,000,000 who have no work in private industry; and at no time in these seven years has unemployment been less than 7,500,000."

The worst of the matter is that as the executive council pointed out, "our nation has all the elements necessary to provide an adequate living for every American family; we lack only co-ordination of effort."

That "co-ordination of effort" is the vital thing. We must have it to put the vast army of idle to work.

If Americans keep their minds on Europe, progress in getting "co-ordination of effort" is likely to be slow.

There has been too much delay already. Widespread and long lasting unemployment is a continuing threat to democracy, a continuing basis for the discontent that provides a fertile soil for the growth of fascist and other anti-democratic movements.

Written around the face of the old sundial were the words, "It is later than we think." What if this applies to America?

American interest in baseball won't solve unemployment. But it shows Americans can and are thinking of something besides war in Europe and indicates they have the capacity for interest in home affairs. Which gives hope they will attend to their knitting and won't drop all interest in domestic affairs, especially the all-important matter of unemployment.

New Office Workers Unions Total Thirty

Cincinnati, O.—Definite progress in forming unions of office and white collar workers was reported by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to the annual convention of the federation here. The report said:

"We have been carrying on an active campaign among office and white collar workers, including insurance agents, under the direction of the Office Employes International Council which was formed at the Denver convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"We have added to the present membership in the last year 39 new charters.

"We have negotiated many satisfactory agreements, providing for better wages and improved working conditions.

"We earnestly request the wholehearted support of the state federations of labor and city central labor unions in bringing these workers under the banner of the American Federation of Labor."

Machinists Settle Tool Co. Trouble

The Labor World received this letter this week:

"On Feb. 1, 1938, this council wrote you a letter advising you that the Plomb Tool company, of Los Angeles, was upon our official unfair list and asking you to use your best efforts to have your members refrain from purchasing their products.

"We are happy to report that this matter has been satisfactorily adjusted. An agreement has been signed with the Metal Trades Council here that is satisfactory to the unions involved, namely, the machinists, metal polishers and the blacksmiths.

"The the regular meeting of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council held Oct. 9, 1939, the Plomb Tool company was removed from our official unfair list, and we are writing you to advise you of this fact, and to request that you give this letter the same publicity that was given the one of Feb. 1, 1938.

"Plomb is one of the few tool companies working under a satisfactory contract and we want to co-operate with them. You may notify your members that Plomb is entitled to their patronage."

Lowry Wipes Slate Clean

The editor of this paper knows now how the fish feels when the barbed hook sinks into its mouth and he is irresistably pulled in to the land. Except many times the fish succeeds in getting off the hook.

Toastmaster Burson Lowry, at the Movie Operators' banquet this week, gave us the experience, while at the same time he wiped a lot of scores off for the practical jokes played on him.

Here is how it happened: Four days before the banquet he informed us that we would be expected to deliver a prepared address on "Public Power," which he thought quite appropriate because of our recent appointment to the Power Board.

We thereupon started to work. We dug up facts and figures. For four days we worked hard, and when the night of the banquet rolled around, we were prepared to make oratorical history.

We were duly and flatteringly introduced. We rose to our feet and said, "Mr. Toastmaster . . . " but the orchestra crashed forth with a bar of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." Well, that was all right. Just recognition of our popularity and stuff. We cleared our throat and started off again, only to receive another large blast from the orchestra. A third attempt met the same result, only all the lights went out and the banquet was declared over.

It was a good gag and Burson got even.

Five-Day Week Progress

Reports on trade union benefits made to the American Federation of Labor included figures revealing that 1,442,610 members are working a five-day week. In addition, the compilation discloses 624,515 members enjoying vacations with pay, the A.F. of L. Executive Council reports.

This is solid progress—progress that only organized workers could make. That the A.F. of L. will do its best to assure continuance of this progress is shown by the Executive Council's comment on the report.

"We heartily endorse the efforts of A.F. of L. organizations in their campaign to secure a five-day week and vacations with pay for their members and urge them to include these provisions in their agreements wherever possible," the council says.

Housing Project Saves Money for Toledo

Chicago.—Toledo, O., is saving $11,746 a year on municipal services to the former slum area now accommodating Brand Whitlock Homes, government low-rent housing project, the National Association of Housing Officials notes.

The saving was revealed in an analysis by the Toledo Housing Authority which itemized costs for juvenile delinquency, tuberculosis, child welfare, fire and police protection, refuse collection and other services.

Cost figures for these services before the slum area was built over with new low-cost housing stood at $13,811. Under present circumstances the city is expending $2,065.

AFL Union Chosen By Insurance Agents

Philadelphia, Pa.—The agents employed by the Baltimore Life Insurance company at their Philadelphia office voted overwhelmingly for the American Federation of Labor to represent them in collective bargaining at an election here conducted by the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board. There were only two dissenting votes.

This is the second office of the Baltimore Life which has voted for the A. F. of L. Last October the Washington (D. C.) office chose the American Federation of Labor and the agents have been working under a union contract ever since.

George L. Russ and Ralph U. Boyer, A. F. of L. organizers, were instrumental in bringing about the results favorable to the American Federation of Labor unions in Washington and Philadelphia.

Morrison Elected Secretary Emeritus Of the American Federation of Labor

Cincinnati Convention Regrets His Retirement as Secretary-Treasurer and Plans a Testimonial of Appreciation for His Forty Years of Service as an A. F. of L. Official.

Cincinnati, O.—Accepting with deep regret the determination of Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, to retire on Dec. 31, after serving the federation as an official continuously since 1896, the annual convention of the A. F. of L. adopted a resolution expressing appreciation for his lifetime of devotion to the interests of the workers and elected him to the office of secretary emeritus of the American Federation of Labor.

"It is with profound regret we learn of the unalterable determination of our honored and respected secretary-treasurer, Frank Morrison, to retire from active service and no longer to seek continuance in the office and undertake the duties and responsibilities he has so ably and devotedly filled during these many years with credit to himself and honor to the American Federation of Labor.

"In view of his long, uninterrupted and invaluable services to our cause and organization, as an expression of our ever enduring appreciation of the contributions made by him to labor in general and to the American Federation of Labor in particular and as an indication of our desire to manifest in adequate and appropriate form not only our high regard for his sterling qualities but as an expression of our sincere regard for his future welfare and well being, be it

"RESOLVED, That the Executive Council be authorized and directed to have prepared and engrossed in suitable manner resolutions setting forth our everlasting appreciation for long and invaluable services rendered by Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison, to be presented to him under circumstances worthy of and in keeping with that spirit of fraternity, friendship and good will that prompts these expressions, and be it likewise

"RESOLVED, That we hereby do elect Frank Morrison secretary emeritus of the American Federation of Labor to become effective immediately upon tremination of his present period of office, and that as a retirement compensation he shall be entitled to and will receive the sum of $6,000 annually, payable in such manner as will best suit his convenience and requirements."

for their pension fund. They asked me to get you to take a little ad."

"I never advertise."

"Oh, I know; but for a cause like this—"

"I never advertise."

"We can put in just a card saying 'From a Friend of the Force,'

"It may come in handy some day when you get held up for speeding."

"I never speed."

"Oh, I know, but things happen. Anything can happen. And the motorcycle boys take care of their friends. They can save you many a ticket or a trip to the court. And it's for a worthy cause. The boys are building up a pension fund for their widows and orphans, and you know what heroes they have to be."

"If they need money, why publish a magazine? It's slow and complicated and it will cost more than it will ever earn."

"Not if their friends stand by. All the good folks are coming in. Let me put you down for a little twenty-five dollar ad. All your friends are taking them."

"I never advertise."

"Then you can subscribe to our—their magazine. Only three dollars a year. I'll send a messenger over for it."

"No, I think not."

"But, Rupert, old boy, it's not like you to refuse to help widows and orphans."

If you say no, you feel a brute. If you say yes, you feel a fool—as I felt when I met the county sheriff and he told me that the motorcycle boys did not have a magazine of their own, and if they did they couldn't discriminate between citizens who advertised and those who didn't without losing their jobs pronto. The publishers of the magazine had no connection with the force.

Between the fear of being a cheap dupe to swindlers and a deaf-mute to deserving causes, the heart of the averagely human being swings in suspense and usually falls, with a resulting harvest of hundreds of millions of dollars of misplaced money.

Particularly hard to deny are requests for the use of my name and/or my wife's as patron and/or patronesses for this or that affair. It costs nothing and it puts our names up among high social figures we are not apt to mingle with otherwise. It costs nothing down; but nearly always afterward there comes a batch of tickets to the dance, banquet, benefit, or whatever. It looks churlish to send them back when your own name is on the letterhead of transmission.

This telephone teasing goes on all the time. I used to wish that there were some place to turn to for advice as to the honesty of the applicants and the merit of their offerings. It was cheaper for me to submit than to investigate, but it was hateful to be cheated.

One day a strange voice called me to the telephone and, instead of soliciting a contribution, said, "Your name is being used as a sponsor for the So-and-So ball."

"Yes; I authorized it."

"That's all we wanted to know, sir. We're just checking up. Sometimes names are used without permission, or at least without understanding."

"Who uses them so?"

"The crooks who get up these affairs."

"What crooks? Who are you, anyway?"

"This is the intelligence service bureau."

"What's that?"

"It's an organization kept up by voluntary subscriptions of the merchants, Bankers, and others, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, the police department, the district attorney's office, and the social service department. We've put through an ordinance requiring all solicitors to take out licenses. But even if they do, they abuse the privilege."

"But this ball is for a patriotic purpose."

"That's their smoothest graft. Your pockets are never easier to pick than when you're cheering somebody who's waving the grand old flag."

That is pretty sickening. The bureau prosecuted one man who had collected over a hundred thousand dollars in two years under the guise of protecting our sacred liberties—and his.

As time went on I referred many appeals to the bureau and was saved from many a more or less complete crook.

At last I investigated the investigators, and was dumbfounded by the magnitude of the graft they were dealing with, the variety and ingenuity of the methods, and the often infamous chicanery involved.

The Los Angeles bureau has been at work for thirteen years. It was the first in the country and had a slow and difficult start. But it has succeeded in dragging Los Angeles from its supremacy as the easiest sucker town in the country and placing it among the most difficult. The bureau has handled over forty thousand cases and its files contain almost innumerable names and records.

It seems to me that every large community should have a similar organization to save it from squandering fortunes on charity appeals that are either downright fraud or upright waste. In countless instances the solicitors are plain racketeers; in others they are more or less honest promoters who keep most of what they collect.

The swindle by telephone is keeping perhaps ten thousand workers busy. It is an industry so specialized that it has a language all its own.

The voice that tickles your ear is friendly and intimate. If you could trace it to its source you would doubtless find that it comes from what is known to the craft as a "boiler room." Here are gathered as many telephones as can be used without the listeners hearing the other solicitors. Suites of rooms in cheap hotels or in private houses, preferably on the outskirts of town, are rented, where the telephone service is unmetered and unlimited. Each of the telephony salesmen or saleswomen makes from eighty to a hundred calls a day in a sweet, sticky, flypapery voice.

In front of each telephoner is a stack of index cards known as "tap cards" made up from sucker lists collected in various ways, and bought, rented, or borrowed in exchange for others.

You yourself are known as a tap. Your card has your name, business, house and office address, telephone numbers, and a record of what subscriptions you have made to what appeals, for how much, and when.

If you yield without a struggle you are called an EM—easy mark, of course. If you refuse to respond to telephone solicitors, you are a TD—a turndown.

The appeals made to you are listed by abbreviations; as MBF, meaning Milk for Babes Fund. Just what you fell for is given another letter; as T for ticket to a dance, banquet, barbecue, or whatever; M for a subscription to a magazine; S for a purchase of seals; A for an advertisement; D for a plain donation. In each case the initials of the solicitor are added.

Then there are the symbols such as tramps chalk on your gatepost indicating whether or not you are good for a poke-out, or are a skinflint, or keep a dog. The telephone salesmen write you down as an EM or a TD, and add GPU if you are a good pick-up; that is to say, you are willing to leave the money to be picked up by a messenger, usually a motorcyclist, who gets a commission on all he collects, and who does not always turn it all in—for there are grafters who graft on grafters, like the ad infinitum fleas. The high art of hijacking is in high favor, and sometimes the motorcycle messenger who calls at your house and picks up the money you squeezed out for an irresistable appeal to your warm heart crosses out the EM on your card, marks you down as a TD, and spends your money on his private pleasure.

If you can be trusted to mail in your money, the tickets or seals can be mailed to you and you are labeled a supreme sucker—STM, "Safe to mail."

Wives come in for a special consideration, since wives are the bane of the business. Women are far less gullible in this field than men. They like to do their own shopping and see what they are buying. And experience has taught them to suspect anything their husbands fall for, from blondes to bonds. So your tap card may bear such letters as ATW, meaning "Avoid talking to the wife."

Yet the solicitor prefers talking to men at their homes because they are more easily reached and in a more yielding mood.

The operative cost, whether of rackets or of promotions honest or dishonest, is necessarily high. It is not easy to wheedle money from people even for the best causes, as the poor souls who manage Community Chests are all too well aware.

I worked on the first Community Chest drive ever made in Los Angeles, and I was horrified to find how large a proportion of the population never gives a penny to a charity. One carpenter who earned $75 a week reluctantly yielded half a dollar, which represented his first and his sole contribution to the poor.

Getting money from the public is like getting gold from ore or oil from deep strata. The easiest way is offer some entertainment like a dance or a benefit, a banquet or a barbecue, a patrons' list, seals which can be stuck on envelopes—some appeal to vanity or selfishness.

Appeals to patriotism, civic pride, and political passion are good, too. A man is ashamed or afraid not to be conspicuous when the flag is being waved. The national colors are flown over some of the most piratical appeals.

The anti-communism and the anti-nazi emotions have been worked for immense sums. Appeals for help for the Spanish government or the insurgents [illegible]

...n short, the bureau helps ... put an end to prison or into exile; but there are numberless cases which they call borderline, and which you and I have neither the time nor the ability to investigate.

Sixteen years ago the creator and director of the Los Angeles bureau, Florian DeDonato, Jr., conceived the idea of such a service. He went into the inside of the boiler rooms and learned the methods and the tricks of the trade then in use. New tricks are invented every day, of course, and the ingenuity of the swindlers has to be matched by eternal vigilance.

DeDonato found it hard at first persuading business men that he could save them the time and toil of looking into the incessant appeals, and also save them from the nauseating experience of giving generously to plausible thieves or to the semirespectable promoters whom he calls "100-per-centers," whose belief is in "the survival of the slickest." Now he has the sponsorship and co-operation of the chamber of commerce, the police department, the Department of Social Service, the offices of the district attorney and the sheriff.

His office initiates investigations and issues a confidential bulletin on all new appeals. It keeps a vast number of files giving the records of solicitors, many of whom are ex-convicts. Ex-convicts are often found working for religious organizations. Some of the "evangelists" are themselves ex-convicts of dubious redemption. But more often the religious body is itself victimized by the promoters who slyly suggest ways of raising funds or move in on plans already under way and turn them into sources of graft.

The Intelligence Bureau, whose methods ought to be copied in every sizable town, furnishes a card, to be hung conspicuously in outer offices, warning that all appeals are turned over to it for investigation before contribution. The bureau has put through a city ordinance requiring all solicitors to take out a license, which is issued only after investigation. The solicitor is given all the details, purposes, methods, sponsors, and everything important to know. The bureau has distributed half a million copies of this questionnaire, but only about fifty of them have been filled out. In spite of its vigilance, solicitation of the worst sort goes on.

A great many solicitors pocket the funds they collect, and vanish. Others give up only a small portion of their intake; and in this field lies the greatest waste of public sympathy for worthy causes.

DeDonato showed me the final sheet of one such solicitation for a splendid movement. The promoter collected $18,000 from well-wishers, gave an intemized list of expenses totaling $17,460, leaving $540 for the philanthropy. I saw others in which, for example, $16,000 was collected and less than $4,000 cleared.

The first thing the promoters go after is important and influential names. Thus the most successful, influential and generous citizens are used as a blind for their transactions.

DeDonato has recently been working on one swindle of huge proportions carrying the names of several judges on the so-called "Advisory Board." With the cooperation of the police, he put a dictograph in one of their boiler rooms and he showed me the phonograph record of a conversation. The manager came into the room and told the operators something like this:

"I just got a letter from Judge Blank this morning. He's raising a holler because we used his name in ways he hasn't authorized. You know, we've been saying, 'Judge Blank ask me to ask you to join him in subscribing to this noble cause,' Well, that's out. And I guess we better lay off all the judges for a while."

The solicitors prey on one another. Telephone solicitors may be spies who steal sucker lists, and work off counterfeit tickets or seals, or collect subscriptions or advertising fees which they never turn in. Or they may send motorcycle messengers to pick up your contribution before the official messenger reaches you. When he comes back empty-pocketed he will be accused of swindling the swindler, and that is a cruel, feelings-hurting accusation; to be charged with stealing what some other thief stole before you could get to it!

A group of disabled veterans is in desperate need of money and hopes to raise a few hundred dollars by a dance and entertainment. A promoter hears of it and approaches the committee.

"Boys," he says, "I'm for you a hundred per cent, and I know the ropes as you don't. Let me take the trouble off your hands. I'll give you all we make minus my commission and the expenses, which I'll account for down to the last penny. How many does that dance hall hold?"

"Two thousand."

"Fine! We'll sell five thousand tickets."

"But the hall only holds two."

"Ah, nine tenths of 'em never show up. We'll carry all the expenses—printing, selling, distributing, collecting. Won't cost you a cent, and we'll pay you the whole net proceeds."

The disabled veterans are overjoyed. They've found a friend at last. They figure out what they will do with all that money.

The promoter may print and sell only the five thousand authorized tickets. But if the going is good he may print five thousand extra, or even more. Any number of people will buy twenty-five or fifty tickets and throw them away or give them away. The promoter may get up a program and sell advertisements, which are mainly friendly contributions. He may even publish extra sets of these, duplicating the covers and the favored positions and turning them in to the victims when he sends his collector round.

The dance is packed to suffocation. The disabled veterans are jubilant. The next day they call for the settlement. The figure that five thousand tickets at a dollar each equal $5,000, with programs, ... the telephone ..., the delivery ... the room ... salaries, ... commissions, gasoline, general overhead, and the modest percentage of perhaps 40 per cent have piled up into a mountain. The promoter says, "I'm mighty sorry, boys, but we had hard sledding. Those tickets took a lot of selling. But I'm proud to hand over your $5,000—"

"Ah!" says the delighted disabled.

The promoter says, "Less, of course, the expenses. Here are all the items. They total $4,643.17."

"Oh!" say the benighted disabled.

The promoter beams. "Leaving you a net of $356.83! And here's our check for it."

"Ugh!" says the enlightened and further disabled veterans.

A harrowing incident in the files was a dinner dance got up by a veterans' organization to pay a debt incurred in the burial of a number of their deceased members. The promoter made a "smart" affair of it at a smart hotel and charged ten dollars a ticket. He took in $3,340, and charged off for expenses $3,303.49, giving the veterans the balance—$36.51.

They had exhausted the resources of their friends and the pathos of their appeal, a great deal of money had been collected, and they had nothing to show for it except the undisturbed debt.

A struggling Catholic church in need of funds was persuaded to issue a souvenir book. Its gross sale was $1,800, of which the church received $400.

Churches are peculiarly victimized and no fund is too small for the grafters, who take on little jobs while working up big ones.

The most revolting thing about their work is the sob stuff they use, the tremolo voice and the heartrending eloquence. A most eloquent appeal for funds to cure and rescue narcotic addicts, and the use of seals carrying a white cross and a motto, "Save Youth from Dope," proved to be a racket. But it had brought the racketeers $50,000 before it was broken up.

This should be a warning to those of us addicted to taking the dope injected into us by telephone.

Some time ago a great three-day festival was given in Los Angeles for a milk fund sponsored by a club which was to keep 25 per cent for its own building fund. Three or four important charities were named as the beneficiaries and an elaborate entertainment was provided by volunteers. A program filled with advertisements was sold. The sale of tickets and programs brought in $10,585.62. The net proceeds were $390.68. One of the charities whose name was freely used received $145.87, another $31.25.

A project to establish a clinic for babies was carried through a forty-day campaign and $16,000 was taken in. But the disbursements were such that the clinic received only $4,500. It was lucky, at that.

A big benefit dance for the blind brought in $4,778. So many tickets were sold that the government received a tax of $431. Yet the blind received only $733.

The appeal to pity is fairly good, the appeal to snobbery and glitter is better; but the appeal with what DeDonato calls a "whip" in it is best. And best of all whips is the appeal for a policeman's fund. The solicitors and collectors often wear uniforms or show badges. They are usually men no longer, if ever, connected with the force. All such solicitations with a certain threat of the whip are against public policy, forms of intimidation. The police profit little or none.

Only last week, while I was working on this manuscript, my secretary was called by a telephoner soliciting for a "police benefit." When he declined the tickets, he was told in an ominous voice:

"So you don't like the police, eh? Oh, all right."

That would frighten any one who did not know that the police here do not authorize such solicit

Railroad men are useful, as labor unions of every sort. So every new municipal building, hospital, bridge, church brings a gaudy souvenir book. They promise the profits to some worthy object and few of them turn anything worth the while.

I could quote hundreds of cases of bilking the public into huge subscriptions which furnish next to no benefit to the worthy organizations sponsoring them. At best they are an atrocious waste of energy; at worst they are shameless robbery.

Los Angeles has stronger laws than almost any other community against fraudulent solicitations, but they have not prevented the collection of about $375,000 this same twelvemonth by pure racketeering.

Other communities must be suffering even worse blood-letting.

The worst of it is that these plunderers, like professional beggars, harden our hearts or dull us from the honestly unfortunate whom we would gladly help if we could be sure of them. They train us into the habit of saying no and tightening our purse strings against victims of cruel misfortune—

Pardon me a moment.

Remington-Rand Case Hearing Is Stopped

Middletown, Conn. — Federal Judge Thomas W. Swan, in an order issued at his summer home in Guilford, Conn., abruptly ended a hearing here before a trial examiner of the National Labor Relations Board of charges of unfair practices brought against Remington-Rand, Inc., by the Equipment Workers Union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

The union alleged that the Remington-Rand company dominated seven independent unions in Remington-Rand plants in Middletown and in four New York cities.

Judge Swan in his restraining order required the board to show cause why it should not be permanently enjoined from proceeding with the case on the ground that it lacked jurisdiction. The show cause order is scheduled for argument before the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York on Oct. 2.

Suffering Women Welcome "Build-Up"

A simple method is saving many women much pain and discomfort! It is based on the knowledge that women's headaches, nervousness, and cramp-like pain often are symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to a weak, run-down, undernourished condition. That so many women find relief from these painful symptoms through the CARDUI "build-up" is easy to explain. By improving the appetite, assisting digestion and assimilation, CARDUI helps to build physical resistance against periodic pain. Thousands of women also report that CARDUI, taken just before and during "the time," helps to ease periodic pain.

Boycott German Products Until Nazi Persecution Ends, AFL Council Says

Cincinnati, O.—There should be no diminution of organized labor's boycott against German products until the nazi persecution of minorities is ended, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor declared in their report to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here.

"Pursuant to the action and instructions of previous conventions" the council said, "an official communication was addressed to all national and international unions and to all state federations of labor, central labor unions and directly affiliated local unions, calling upon all to continue to apply the boycott against German goods and German services until Dictator Hitler ceased his persecution of minority groups in Germany, including the Jews, the Catholics and Protestants.

"The response to the appeal made was most gratifying. Many organizations created committees for the special purpose of calling upon merchants, friends and working men and women to co-operate in the application of the boycott declared by the American Federation of Labor.

"The executive council renews its recommendation that the fifty-ninth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor reaffirm the declarations previously made in conventions of the American Federation of Labor, in favor of a boycott against German goods and German services, until Hitler and his totalitarian government in Germany ceases persecution of Jewish people because of racial hatred and because of their minority position, and of the Catholics and Protestants who seek to exercise freedom to worship in accordance with the dictates of conscience."

AFL Forms 166 New Locals Among Miscellaneous Group of Workers

Eight Thousand Working Men and Women Included in the New Unions; International Unions Are Also Assisted in Their Organization Work.

Cincinnati, O.—The large number of working men and women employed in a number of miscellaneous industries received improved economic conditions during the past year through the activities of the American Federation of Labor in organizing them into A. F. of L. unions. This was strikingly revealed by the report of the A. F of L. Executive Council to the annual convention of the Federation, in session here, describing the achievements among these workers.

In addition, the A. F. of L. rendered valuable services to a large number of national and international unions.

In an accounut of their work in these fields the executive council said:

"We have made remarkable progress in organizing the workers in the miscellaneous groups. We have chartered over 166 locals from July 5, 1938, to July 26, 1939, organizing approximately 8,000 workers in the miscellaneous field, that is, brush workers, salt workers, gypsum mill workers, organ makers, refrigerator workers, warehousemen, optical workers, drug company employes, bag makers, sugar refinery workers, green house workers, fishery employes, newspaper employes (varied), fertilizer workers, colored freight handlers and others too varied to be mentioned at this time.

"The growth of organization in this field is certain to bear fruit during the coming year because many of these miscellaneous groups have a large potential membership among the unorganized.

"In many of these industries there are a large number of unorganized workers. The American Federation of Labor organizing staff has given a great deal of assistance to international unions in cases before mediation, conciliation, arbitration boards in various states and in National Labor Relations Board cases, in most instances assisting international unions in conferences with employers as well as during strikes.

"The international unions to which special assistance has been extended are the following:

"The Laundry Workers International Union, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes; United Leather Workers International Union, International Glove Workers' Union of America, International Metal Engravers' Union, International Ladies Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers Union; United Brick and Clay Workers, The Commercial Telegraphers Union of North America, Seafarers' International Union of North America, United Textile Workers of America, International Union Progressive Mine Workers of America.

"The officers and members of national and international unions, state federations of labor and city central labor unions have rendered most valuable assistance in all of this organizing work. In addition, the organizers of the American Federation of Labor have endeavored in every way possible to see that the affiliated unions were protected in their jurisdictional rights under the constitution of the American Federation of Labor."

Keep Out of Europe

I will never vote to send troops to Europe to fight in any war. I am unalterably opposed to our country's becoming involved in the rivalries and the hatreds of the European continent. Our policy should be to go about our peaceful missions, without fear of anyone and without anyone's favor, taking sides with none and free from entanglements with all.—Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York.

Propaganda Flood Here

Since the world war we have become acquainted with the propaganda applied by the several contending countries to win our support. They all maintained subterranean propaganda agencies in our country. Today we are again being flooded by propaganda for the same purpose, propaganda which is intended to blind our eyes, win our sympathies or arouse our prejudices so that some one else can profit by the sentiments they have created in our minds.—John P. Frey, in opening address to A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department convention.

Housing Should Be Improved

In each generation, unless we choose affirmatively, inaction determines our choice for us. All over, in urban and rural America, our housing should be improved. Only planned, concerted, purposeful action by all who are equipped to improve housing can give the result we recognize as essential to our progress and our well-being.—President Roosevelt, in message to United States Building and Loan League.

Union Wisdom Confirmed

Years ago the members of the International Association of Machinists discovered the sinister purpose of communist activity in the trade unions, and learned that communist party members gave prime allegiance in all matters affecting labor, not to their trade union, but to a party whose program was to seize control of the union in the interest of the communist movement. As a result of this experience, the membership by convention action resolved to exclude all members of the communist party and its controlled dual labor groups from acquiring or retaining membership in the union. The wisdom of the policy excluding communists from membership in our organization, demonstrated many times before, has again been confirmed by the startling revelations of the special congressional committee investigating un-American activities.—H. W. Brown, acting president, International Association of Machinists, in Machinists' Monthly Journal.

Falsehood Repeats Itself

New York City.—The publishing firm of E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., reports many rush orders for Sir Arthur Ponsonby's "Falsehood in Wartime," a collection of the distortions in truth from 1914 on to the close of the first world war and which the firm says offers many striking parallels to the propaganda of today.

Social Security
QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q.—When does the payment of monthly benefits under the old age insurance plan begin?

A.—Benefits are payable beginning Jan. 1, 1940.

Q.—To whom will monthly benefits be paid?

A.—The amendments have broadened the plan to take into consideration the security of the family unit. In addition to the benefits paid the retired worker, the law now provides monthly supplementary benefits for his wife, if she is 65, and for his dependent children under 18. It also provides monthly survivors' benefits for aged widows with such children in their care, and for aged dependent parents of workers who die where there is not a widow or minor children surviving.

Q.—What are the requirements for receiving monthly benefits beginning in January, 1940?

A.—To receive benefits as soon as they become payable next year, a worker must have reached the age of 65 and retired; must have been employed in work covered by the system for six calendar quarters after 1936; and, in each of these quarters, his covered wages must have come to at least $50.

Q.—How many workers are now covered by the old-age and survivors' insurance provision of the act?

Stop signs means stop and nothing else. Slow signs mean slow enough so that accident will not happen. Always give signals when stopping or making a turn and be sure to look before turning to make sure it is safe to do so. When the streets are slick we should be very careful in turning curves and not go so fast that the car will not stop in case of emergency. Watch out for children playing on the sidewalks and streets; also watch the elderly people as they cannot move as fast and some cannot hear as well as they should, so give them all the consideration possible for—

War-Wage Boost Won By Oil Tanker Crew

New York.—A number of major American oil companies here granted a 50 per cent increase in wages, life insurance, and a policy covering the loss of personal effects to licensed officers and members of the crew employed on American oil tankers operating to European danger zones.

The Standard Oil company and the Socony-Vacuum Oil company were included among the companies that increased wages.

In insuring the lives of tanker crews the oil carriers agreed to pay their beneficiaries a year's salary between $2,000 and $5,000.

A. F. of L. Opposes Dismemberment Of United States Labor Department

Executive Council Declares Transfer of Employment Service to Federal Social Security Agency "Sets a Precedent Which Unless Reversed Will Make the Department of Labor Only an Empty Name."

Cincinnati, Ohio.—The dismemberment of the United States Department of Labor, begun by the removal of the U. S. Employment Service from the department under the plan for the reorganization of governmental departments was strongly condemned by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in their report to the annual convention of the federation in session here.

Pointing out that the Labor Department was established by Congress in 1913, following repeated demands made by the American Federation of Labor during many years, and that since its establishment a number of governmental services directly connected with the welfare of labor, including the U. S. Employment Service, have been added to the department, the executive Council said:

"When the Social Security Act was drafted and enacted in 1935, it provided old age benefits on a contributory basis, unemployment compensation and public assistance. When this legislation was in the making the American Federation of Labor favored locating its administration within the Department of Labor, because old age benefits and unemployment compensation are rights of labor. However, the administration was made independent.

"As soon as unemployment compensation reached the stage of benefit payments, administrative difficulties began to accumulate. The executive agencies for the payment are the public unemployment offices which are under federal and state departments of labor. No legislative thought had been given to coordination of functions and control.

Transfer to Federal Social Security Agency Deplored

"The employment service is the Department of Labor's response to its mandate to provide working people with 'better opportunities of employment.' The lives of working people and their families are organized around their jobs. Through all their producing years, they are in and out of employment service for help in getting new jobs or better jobs.

"The employment service is one agency about whose location in the Department of Labor no question developed. It is primarily a labor service. It was, therefore, a most unexpected and unwarranted reversal of what we had built up by half a century of struggle and persistent effort, when, under authority to reorganize governmental departments, the executive order of the president transferred the U. S. Employment Service to the new Federal Security Agency, and to which were transferred also the U. S. public health service, the Office of Education and the National Youth Administration.

Labor Department Should Administer Both Old Age Benefits and Employment Service

"The American Federation of Labor believes that from the standpoint of efficient management a much wiser decision would have been to have separated the direct assistance functions of the Social Security Board from its insurance function, and to have transferred old age benefits and unemployment compensation of the Department of Labor, where the administration of these agencies so directly affecting the welfare of labor could be unified and coordinated with all of the undertakings to promote the welfare of those who work.

Withdrawal of Employment Service Deprives Department of Most Important Function

"Transferring the employment service from labor's own department to any other agency, however good in itself, takes from the Department of Labor the very heart of the functions it is directed to perform and sets a precedent which unless reversed, will make the Department of Labor only an empty name. Dismembering of state departments of labor has been serious during the year, but this blow at the federal Department of Labor nullifies the act creating the department.

"We recommend that the American Federation of Labor do everything in its power to reverse decision dismembering the Department of Labor and that we are prepared to insist that the functions and the services of the Department of Labor be increased and extended by adequate appropriations and the necessary authorizing legislation until the Department of Labor is really able to promote the welfare of all those dependent upon work for incomes.

Department's Scope Should Be Extended, Not Contracted

"Our conception of the scope of the groups to be served by the Department of Labor has steadily expanded. The coverage of labor laws should be expanded to cover all labor—whether agricultural, industrial, commerce or service. The functions of the Department of Labor should expand accordingly. The department should be truly the Department of Labor so that labor's voice may be heard in the president's cabinet when decisions affecting labor are discussed and decided."

Music Festival Bans Non-Union Orche

New York.—Officials of the American Federation of Musicians, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, were elated over the announcement by Mayor LaGuardia that the New York Philharmonic orchestra had been substituted for the non-union Boston Symphony orchestra in the program of the music festival for concerts on Oct. 5 and 6.

Mayor LaGuardia said the substitution had been arranged after conferences with the representatives of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and spokesmen for the musicians union. The music festival is scheduled to start Oct. 2 and run for one week.

Edward Canavan, assistant to Joseph N. Weber, international president of the American Federation of Musicians, announced that, due to the conferences that now no union members, including Paul Whiteman, Benny Goodman and Fred Waring, would be asked to participate in the festival. The Boston orchestra gave its last concerts.

The fight of the union against the Boston orchestra, the only major American symphony orchestra employing non-union musicians, began 20 years ago because of the will of the late Henry Lee Higginson, who founded the orchestra and provided that as long as his endowment was used the musicians were not to be unionized. The Boston outfit was previously criticized by Mr. Canavan because "it refuses its musicians from Europe and does not give American musicians a chance."

Friends of Better Housing Press Fight for Expanding USHA Program Measure

Washington, D. C.—Though Senate bill 591, the administration's bill to expand the slum-clearance and low-rent housing program of the United States Housing Authority, was smothered by a coalition of reactionary Republicans and Democrats in the closing days of the last session of Congress, indications are that the measure is far from dead.

Indignant groups and individuals throughout the country have lost no time in censuring Representatives who blocked consideration of the bill in the House, after it had overwhelmingly been passed by the Senate and had been favorably reported by two House committees. Representatives who voted to consider the bill but who are known to be indifferent or opposed to the proposed expansion of the public housing program, are also being buttonholed by irate voters as part of a vigorous campaign to insure passage of the bill when it comes up for vote in the House at the next regular session.

Cox to Back Housing

Southern A. F. of L. Chieftain George Googe reports that Representative E. E. Cox of Georgia, New Deal critic and an influential member of the rules committee, will carry out his previously announced intention of supporting housing, despite his recent activities in the House in helping sabotage S. 591

When Congressman Albert E. Austin, of Greenwich, Conn., came before the Connecticut State Federation of Labor convention at New Haven recently, he was astonished to find himself under fire for his adverse vote on the housing bill. Several delegates tore to pieces Austin's excuses for having failed to be for the public housing program. A vote of censure on Representative Austin was proposed, but was dropped out of courtesy to the federation officials who invited Austin to speak.

Labor Groups Active

Among the many smaller A. F. of L. groups who recently have taken up the cause of housing are the Matchworkers.

The housing committees of both the A. F. of L. and the CIO have reported to internationals, state labor federations and local affiliates on the housing votes and positions of the various Congressmen. Local labor and consumer groups in all parts of the country are joining in the fight to get rid of the dums or else get rid of the Representatives who are trying to wreck the housing program.

At last report, 260 local housing authorities had been set up throughout the United States to build and manage low-rent dwellings with USHA assistance, and the number is growing rapidly. An increasing amount of support in carrying out local housing programs has been given by alert civic and trade union groups. In Montana, for instance, the Cascades County Trade and Labor Assembly (AFL) has been particu-

Cincinnati.—The 59th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor voted to continue efforts to obtain final passage of the bills for expansion of the low-rent housing and slum clearance program of the United States Housing Authority. Bills for the expansion have been reported to both houses of Congress and will be acted upon in 1940.

On Death of JAMES CARTWRIGHT

Brother James Cartright, a loyal member of Local No. 1882, East Chattanooga, died Sept. 30, 1939.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in the Divine mercy to take unto Himself our beloved friend and brother, James Cartright, and remove him from our midst, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of our departed brother to say that in regretting his removal from among us we mourn for one who in every way is worthy of our respect and esteem as denoted a Christian to his church and as a union man to his local; be it further

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Cartright we recognize that his local union and church has lost an upright, faithful member and the union and church at large a fearless exponent of their principles; be it further

Resolved, In the passing of Brother Cartright the membership of Local No. 1882 loses a faithful and beloved brother as was evidenced by his wife and a large number of friends and brothers of the late brother to pay their last respects. TEACHER TALK

Naturally those of us who teach in the city system are tremendously interested in the forthcoming decision of the salary suit by the chancellor. Just before going to press we called the federation's lawyer about it, and he said that he expected the decision any day. Of course the case will be appealed by whichever side loses, first to the court of appeals, then to the Tennessee supreme court, the ultimate object being to determine the constitutionality of the law which the city has been violating these several years.

Chairman McCoy appointed chairmen of various subcommittees so that work could begin at an early date. General admission tickets of 55c and reserved seat tickes of $1.10, federal tax included, were decided upon for the lecture.

Telegraphers' Head Sees Danger to Nation in Grip Of Communications Group

Cincinnati.—Danger of Communist control of labor organizations in the communications industry in the event of American involvement in war was pointed out by Frank B. Powers, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union in speaking before the American Federation of Labor convention here.

Following the action of the convention in going on record as supporting all possible efforts to organize telegraph employes under the banner of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, President Powers told the delegates of the progress of the organizing campaign among Western Union employes. He criticized the Postal Telegraph company for signing a "closed shop" agreement with the CIO union and pointed out the agreement provides wages materially under the scale of CTU telegraphers employed by the Associated Press, United Press and International News Service.

Commenting on activities of the CIO union, which he denounced as a "Communist outfit," Powers said:

"We are not at war now, but we may be. The commercial communications industry is one of the first lines of defense. The marine radio officers are also in the first line of defense, and there should be no finger of suspicion pointed at any organization, calling themselves an American organization and having to defend themselves from Communist leadership.

"This CIO crowd is controlled and dominated by the Communist party, and there is no question about the danger to the communications industry of the country."

Later, Powers issued a statement on the Postal Telegraph company and the CIO union, in which he said:

"One of the telegraph companies believes in advertising. This morning, using a messenger with an enlarged telegram, this company obtained by an old familiar trick a photograph of President Green holding one end of the telegram.

"I am quite willing that this company, the Postal Telegraph Co., receive a little free advertising. This is the company which signed a closed shop contract with a Communist-controlled CIO union, thus turning its back on 50 per cent of its employes who had voted in opposition to the CIO or refused to vote in a CIO election.

"We have charged for several years that this CIO organization, which John L. Lewis has subsidized to the amount of more than $100,000 of good miners' and garment workers' dollars, is Communist-controlled. Only recently a witness in Washington testified under oath that he either knew or had reason to believe that Mervyn Rathborne, president of the American Communications Association, was a Communist.

"So let the delegates remember that in these times when the communication industry is so vital to the nation's welfare that one of the telegraph companies, the Postal Telegraph company, has seen fit to force its employes into a closed shop agreement with the CIO dual union and is seeking your favors by what it believes to be smart advertising."

Capital G. T. U. Ratifies W. U. Agreement

Cincinnati.—Frank B. Powers, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, announced here that the Washington (D. C.) C. T. U. membership had ratified an agreement with the Western Union Telegraph company.

Powers said the agreement covers 800 Washington employes, including messengers, clerks, operators and testing and regulating workers. He said it provided for increases in salary for employes in brackets below $110 a month.

News Chapel Voices Sorrow On Brooks' Death

On Oct. 5, 1939, there passed to his reward our friend and coworker, W. A. Brooks, of the News chapel. "Bill," as he was familiarly known to most of us, had worked at his job as usual that day and appeared to be in his customary good health, but that night he died, apparently while asleep.

The deceased was born at Coal Creek (now Lake City), Tenn., Feb. 20, 1880. He joined Knoxville Typographical Union No. 111 April 6, 1902. Later he came to Chattanooga and for the past twenty-eight years, except for a short period, he had worked for the News. He was very loyal to union principles, and his friends were numbered by his acquaintances.

The following resolutions are offered:

"Whereas, our brother, W. A. Brooks, having departed this life, leaving relatives and a host of friends to mourn his passing; and,

"Whereas, by his example to his fellow-men in spreading good feeling and comradeship, we have all benefited by his presence among us; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by Chattanooga News chapel, That we greatly deplore the death of our friend and brother member and express to the members of his family our deepest sympathy in their loss; but we bow to the will of Him who giveth all life. Be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, a copy be given The Labor World and that they be spread on the minutes of the chapel.

"Respectfully submitted,
"D. N. POWER,
"H. S. KENNEDY,
"ARCHIE M. UNDERWOOD."

Labor Relations Board Inquiry Is Postponed

Washington, D. C.—Representative Howard W. Smith, chairman of the House special committee to investigate the administration of the National Labor Relations Act by the National Labor Relations Board, announced that the hearings scheduled to begin early in November will be delayed beyond the middle of the month.

Committee investigators, it was stated, are collecting data which include returns from over 60,000 questionnaires that were sent to participants in labor board cases.

Lubin Visions Little Work For the Jobless

Detroit, Mich.—The people who are hoping that a gigantic upswing in business will provide jobs for millions of the unemployed did not derive much enthusiasm from the talk given by Isador Lubin, U. S. commissioner of labor statistics, before the American Retail Federation here. He said employment statistics "don't point to any tremendous boom which will absorb any large fragment of the unemployed in the near future."

What Next?

A coin-operated letterbox, called the "Mailomat," has been installed in New York City's main postoffice. "Mailomat" enables the public to mail anything from a penny post card to a 22-cent air mail special delivery letter without buying a stamp. A coin is inserted in a slot, a dial twisted to select the desired postage value, the letter inserted in another slot and away it goes, automatically stamped and deposited in a U. S. mailbox.

State Fund Urged For Workers' Compensation

American Federation of Labor Also Condemns Lax Administration of Compensation Laws.

Cincinnati, O.—Strong condemnation of the faulty administration of state laws covering compensation for accidents and occupational disease was registered by the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here.

Pointing out that the recently enacted Arkansas workmen's compensation law had been suspended until a popular referendum can be held the executive council said that the enactment of occupational disease compensation laws by Idaho and Maryland has brought the number of states with such laws up to 25.

With regard to a number of the occupational disease laws the council said many of them "carry provisions of doubtful benefit to workers. The insurance companies have been actively promoting a type of bill that places the controlling authority in a medical board, a provision which has this year been incorporated in the laws of Arkansas, Maryland, Idaho and Pennsylvania. Advisory medical opinions, furnished by impartial experts paid by the state are one thing. Binding decisions by a board of doctors who are not full-time state employes, but who are permitted to practice and do practice for insurance companies and employers, is quite another thing. A much more liberal and realistic interpretation of a compensation law is to be expected when claims are decided by lay referees, aided and guided but not superseded by medical experts."

Administration Is Undermined

Turning to the administration of workmen's compensation laws in general the council declared:

"While organized labor in the states has year after year carried on a battle to extend the coverage of compensation laws and to liberalize the benefits, hostile interests (led by insurance companies) have been undermining the administrative sections of these laws, thus indirectly but effectively depriving workers of the very rights that have been won. While these provisions are often so obscure that slight changes may seem comparatively harmless, recent experiences point to the need for careful scrutiny.

Insurance Lobby Nullifies Benefits

"The insurance lobby has shown itself repeatedly willing to trade small increases in benefits for procedural amendments whose significance is not easily apparent. Thus in Pennsylvania, an increase in the percentage of weekly wage was 'traded' for other amendments to the law which more than counterbalance this supposed gain, and interposed many legal technicalities between the claimant and his award. The Pennsylvania worker who is injured after the new law took effect may lose his rights under the act entirely, simply because he has failed to file formal notice of the accident even though the employer had full knowledge of the accident and the injury. The employer or carrier is no longer penalized for persuading the worker to agree to a lump sum commutation which is actually in violation of the act."

In acting on this report of the executive council the convention recommended "aggressive action with a view to remedying lax interpretations in existing workmen's compensation laws, so as to fully protect the right of the worker."

In addition the convention recommended that workmen's compensation laws be administered by the Labor Department, or a commission created specifically for this purpose, one member to represent labor, the member to be recommended by the state federation of labor."

As a further effort to remedy existing abuses under workmen's compensation laws the convention recommended to the state federations of labor "that they continue in their endeavor to secure complete coverage under these laws, and the establishment of a state fund for the payment of all benefits under the workmen's compensation act."

1940 Union Label Exposition Planned By Union Label Trades Department

Cincinnati, O.—The Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor climaxed its most successful year with the holding of its annual convention here.

Preliminary plans were discussed for setting up another giant union label exposition next year if it can be done in conjunction with the 1940 American Federation of Labor convention. This exposition is expected to surpass even the original one held in Cincinnati during May of 1938.

In an address to the delegates at the Union Label Trades Convention President William Green stressed the growing importance in the nation's economic life of the union label, the union shop card and the union button.

By way of illustration, he informed the delegates that a few weeks ago when he gave a new international charter to the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers, the first thing the officers of that union asked for was how it would be possible for them to obtain a union label.

Mr. Green also recalled that at a conference in his office recently between an employer and union representatives on the negotiation of a new wage contract, both the employer and the union officers sought him for permission to use the union label.

Other employers all over the country, Mr. Green declared, are now beginning to realize that the union label on their product is a potent selling factor because the great bulk of the nation's purchasing power lies in the purses of union workers and their families.

Matthew Woll was re-elected president of the department and Lee M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer.

Supreme Court Agrees to Review Important NLRB Cases Involving A.F. of L.-CIO Controversies

Washington, D. C.—The Supreme Court, in its first business session of the 1939-40 term, agreed to consider a number of important cases testing the power and authority of the National Labor Relations Board.

One of the most important cases to be reviewed is the West Coast longshoremen's case, involving a controversy between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. A lower court decided against the A. F. of L., holding that a labor union may not appeal to the courts from an NLRB certification of another union as collective bargaining agent.

A. F. of L. to Fight Decision

On June 21, 1938, the board certified the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union as the exclusive bargaining agent for longshoremen on the Pacific coast. It was the first certification involving an entire geographical area and was based, the board explained, on the fact that between 1934 and 1937 collective bargaining on the Pacific coast had been carried on on a coast-wide basis at the insistence of the International Longshoremen's Association (A. F. of L.)

The A. F. of L., attacking the board's right to make the certification, was confronted by a ruling that it was not a "final order" and therefore not subject to review by the courts. The federation told the Supreme Court that the Court of Appeals had conceded that the order was "definitive, adversary, binding, final and in this case struck at the very roots of petitioners' (A. F. of L.) union and destroyed its effectiveness in a large geographical area of the nation," but that it could not be reviewed because it was not made in the language of a command.

Other Labor Cases

Agreed to review the method employed by the NLRB in conducting run-off elections among employes to determine their collective bargaining agent. The appeal was brought by the board after a lower court disapproved the run-off election held among employes of the Consumers Power Co. plant, Jackson, Mich.

Refused to consider an appeal brought by the Cudahy Packing Co., from a U. S. Circuit Court decision upholding an NLRB order finding the concern guilty of unfair labor practices.

Agreed to hear the appeal of the NLRB from a Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals decision setting aside a board order which found the Waterman Steamship corporation guilty of unfair labor practices.

Guild Members Lose

The court denied the petition of six employes of the Bayonne (N. J.) Times for review of a New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals decision holding them guilty of contempt of court. The employes, all members of the Hudson County Newspaper Guild, were convicted of violating a Chancery Court injunction prohibiting them from using a sound truck during a guild strike against the Times last November.

The court denied the petition of a New York decorating firm for review of a Second Circuit Court of Appeals decision in a case in which the company sought a judgment declaring the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers to be acting in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Rambusch Decorating Co., New York, began the legal action after union decorators struck a Roanoke, (Va.) project, demanding a wage increase from 75 cents to $1.50 per hour. The union invoked a constitutional provision that in projects where two localities are involved the higher pay scale shall prevail.

The company charged that the provision of the union constitution operates to restrain interstate commerce by making it impossible for contractors with home offices in high wage areas to compete with those located where wage scales are lower.

SAFETY HINTS

The song, "There's No Place Like Home," is true about lots of things, and now the safety records prove to us that there's no place like home for accidents. We know we must observe rules of safety on our particular job because if we do not, we are going to either lose time or possibly our jobs. Therefore, we are careful that we conduct ourselves in accordance with the rules and regulations. But when we leave our jobs to go home, we are prone to leave our safety on the job and not take it home with us

Here are a few very important safety suggestions that, if observed, we may be sure that our home accidents will be reduced.

1. Be sure that open fires and heaters are guarded by screens to avoid catching our clothing on fire.

2. Do not use kerosene or gasoline to start a fire—use paper and kindling, thereby eliminating explosions.

3. Exercise all possible care in handling kettles of boiling water and other hot liquids, and avoid being scalded.

4. Keep all stairways clear of chairs, toys, wire, ropes or anything that might cause a fall.

Over 30,000 people lost their lives due to accidents in the homes of America during the year 1938, and over 4,000,000 were injured, either temporarily or permanently. While traffic accidents are decreasing, home accidents are increasing. So remember that haste makes waste—carelessness causes suffering.

Wage Strike Closes Mexican Light Plants

Press dispatches from Mexico City announced that a strike of electrical workers against three electric companies with headquarters in Puebla, Oriza and Cordoba cut off electric light and power in five Mexican states.

The dispute arose in connection with negotiations for a new collective agreement. The workers demanded a 39 per cent increase in wages, which was later reduced to 29 per cent and finally to 14 per cent. The officials of the companies refused to pay more than a 7 per cent increase, which the workers refused to accept.

Office Workers Are Hit By Factory Methods

Startling information that assembly-line methods are being installed among white collar workers was recently given by Thomas Amlie, former Wisconsin congressman, in an address before members of Office Workers Union No. 16456, Milwaukee, Wis.

Mr. Amlie said that the application of the factory system in offices develops a change in the attitude of the workers, manifested in their tendency to lose interest in their work.

He declared that an extra emphasis was being placed on efficiency, which he illustrated by the statement that meters are placed on typewriters in a New York office which register the mistakes made by typists with wages determined by the number of mistakes recorded.

Mr. Amlie said a person of average ability has much less chance of getting along today because mechanization has extended so rapidly and entered so many fields that he is lost.

Union Officials Freed By Kansas City Judge

Kansas City, Mo.—Lee Quisenberry, business agent of the Truck Drivers Union, and George Stewart, business agent of the Bakers Auxiliary Union, A. F. of L. affiliates, were discharged by Judge Ben Tert in the circuit court here on an indictment charging them jointly with interfering with lawful employment. The complaining witness, a grocer, charged that Quisenberry and Stewart had threatened him with bodily harm if he did not stop selling a certain product held to be unfair by labor unions. The defendants waived a jury trial. Judge Tert found that the indictment was not warranted by the testimony.

To Ease Women's Pain: "Build-Up"

Do you suffer periodically from headaches, nervousness, irritability, restlessness or cramp-like pains? If so, here's good news! These may be symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea, which is so often caused by undernourishment. By improving the appetite, digestion, assimilation, through the proper use of CARDUI, women by thousands find they are able to build strength, energy, and nerve-force. Thus periodical pain is relieved for many users of CARDUI. By taking it just before and during "the time," women by thousands report that CARDUI also helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL CHATTANOOGA

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1939

A Real Exigency

"The science of government is the most abstruse of all sciences; if, indeed, that can be called a science which has but few fixed principles, and practically consists in little more than the exercise of a sound discretion, applied to the exigencies of the state as they arise. It is the science of experiment."

These are the words of a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, expressed in 1821.

And the sooner some of our alleged statesmen get that sort of a picture of what they are really trying to do, the sooner will the American people get a break in the handling of our national interests.

"* * * sound discretion, applied to the exigencies of the state as they arise"—that is the real touch stone. And all of the fol-de-rol about the holy words and inviolable principles and vested interests and the rest of the mystic phrases which are used to befuddle the mind, may very well be done without, if our legislators and administrators can get their brains clear enough to understand what some of the exigencies of the state really are.

Right here, we arise to call attention again to the fact that there are still about 10 million unemployed, who have a valid claim to a place in our economic system besides being on a "dole" of some kind. And that this is a real exigency of the state, which, if the state does not pay attention to, is likely to become an exigency for some other people.

Labor Leaders As Preachers

One of the interesting features in connection with the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor is the traditional practice of the officers and delegates occupying pulpits in a number of churches on the first Sunday during the sessions of the convention. On these occasions the labor officials ignore the materialistic work connected with managing the everyday affairs of their unions and ascend into the spiritual aspects of the organized labor movement.

This practice was continued this year at Cincinnati, Ohio, the program being arranged by James Myers, industrial secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

The general theme of the Sunday services was the Church and Labor, with a number of outstanding union leaders discussing the subject.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, spoke at the Ninth Street Baptist church; Herbert H. Elvin, fraternal delegate from the British Trade Union Congress, spoke at the Madisonville Methodist church; Spencer Miller, Jr., director of the Workers' Education Bureau of America, delivered a radio address under the auspices of the Council of Churches and also preached at Calvary Episcopal church; Professor George Counts, president of the American Federation of Teachers, spoke at the Lincoln Park Baptist church; John B. Robinson, vice-president of the Journeymen Barbers International union, spoke at the St. Peters Evangelical Congregational church; Roy M. Brewer, president of the Nebraska Federation of Labor, spoke at the Columbia Baptist church; M. P. Webster, vice-president of the Sleeping Car Porters, spoke at the A. M. E. Zion church, and Kenneth I. Taylor, president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor, spoke at the College Hill Presbyterian church.

It goes without saying that the members of these Cincinnati churches received well-defined and constructive information regarding the mutual relationship that should exist between organized labor and organized religion, for surely higher living standards and better economic conditions for the masses in America, which are among the objectives of organized labor, are certainly not opposed by the Church.

Sliding Scale Retirement Fund Urged by Bulow

Washington, D. C.—Senator Bulow, chairman of the Senate civil service committee, asked the Civil Service Commission to study the feasibility of fixing the contribution of government employes to the retirement fund on a sliding scale according to salary levels as a means of securing liberalized limits for optional retirement.

Under existing law all government employes are assessed at the uniform rate of 3½ per cent. Senator Bulow said one proposal which he had considered would provide for graduated deductions based on salary. For example, salaries up to $1,500 would be assessed 3½ per cent; salaries of $1,500 to $2,000, 4 per cent; salaries from $2,000 to $2,500, 4½ per cent, and salaries above $2,500, 5 per cent.

Wage Increase Gained in Childs Restaurants

New York, N. Y.—Officials of Chain Service Restaurant Employes Union, Local No. 42, an A. F. of L. affiliate, announced that the union members had ratified a new two-year agreement with the Childs company calling for a wage increase totaling $70,000 in the first year with a provision that permits either side to reopen wage discussions at the end of nine months. If no agreement is reached at that time the dispute is to be submitted to arbitration.

The agreement averted a threatened strike of 3,200 employes in restaurants operated by the Childs company.

Robert G. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the union, said the immediate wage increase would be limited to about 1,200 kitchen workers, representing the lowest-paid group of Childs' employes. The pay of these workers will be raised from $15 to $16 a week. The 48-hour week is retained in the new agreement.

AFL Refuses to Support Anti-Chain Store Bill

Cincinnati.—An attempt to put organized labor on record as supporting the Patman bill to tax chain stores out of existence ended in failure when the 59th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor ordered a resolution endorsing the bill referred to the executive council. The convention also directed the council to make a study of existing industrial relations between chain stores and organized workers.

The resolution, offered by the delegation representing the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union, provoked a long and sharp debate. Harry C. Bates, head of the bricklayers' delegation, spoke in support of the resolution, which attacked chain stores, endorsed the Patman bill and made thinly veiled insinuations against union officials who opposed the bill.

Debate was opened by recommendation of the resolutions committee that the resolution be sent to the executive council.

Bates' attack on chain stores and support of the Patman bill was answered by I. M. Ornburn, of the Union Label Trades Department; Patrick J. Gorman, president of the Meat Cutters; C. C. Coulter, secretary of the Retail Clerks; John B. Haggerty, president of the Bookbinders and of the Allied Printing Trades Council, and John O.Connell, of the San Francisco Central Labor Union.

The speakers told in detail of progress made in unionizing the A. & P. and other chain stores, with particular reference to their own organizations, piling up for the record an impressive record of union growth and gains in the chain store industry throughout the nation.

When a vote was taken, only Btates and one other member of his delegation registered disapproval of the committee's report.

Job Placements in Private Industry Increases, Unemployment Benefits Claims Drop During August

Washington, D. C.—Continued improvement in job opportunities during August was reflected in a 20 per cent increase in the number of placements in private industry made by the public employment offices, and a decrease of more than 28 per cent in claims for benefits received by state unemployment compensation agencies, the Bureau of Employment Security of the Social Security Board announces.

Placements in private industry reached a new all-time high of 254,000—34 per cent higher than in August, 1938—with total placements, public and private, numbering nearly a third of a million. Although applications for work received during the month came to nearly 1.3 million, 14 per cent more than in July, the substantial gain in placements reduced the active file of persons seeking work through the public employment offices of 5.8 million, the lowest level since December, 1937.

Placement Gains General

Gains in placements were general throughout the country, with the most marked increases reported in the South Atlantic area and on the Pacific coast. In Virginia and North Carolina, placements were almost double the number made in July. Only ten states and Alaska reported reductions from the previous month.

Increases in the number of applications for work occurred principally in the larger industrial states of the east, middlewest and Pacific coast areas. Over 550,000 of the total number of applications were new registrations, of which almost one-fifth occurred in New York.

Although the number of claims for benefits filed by jobless workers decreased substantially during August, the amount of benefits paid by the state unemployment compensation agencies during the month totaled $44,500,00, 25 per cent more than in July. The increase shown for the country as a whole was due mainly to the larger amounts paid in Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Michigan and Montana, although 28 other states reported more moderate increases.

Sharp Increases in Two States

The sharp increases reported by Illinois and Montana reflected their first full month of benefits payments, both states having first begun to receive claims for benefits on July 1. The number of claims filed in these two states dropped sharply in August, following the usual pattern of states in the early stages of benefit payments.

The Cherry Tree

Fifty-ninth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor is now history.

As usual, a record of constructive achievement was made. The convention spoke on matters of vital importance. Every decision was made after full discussion and consideration. No dictums were handed down from on high and ratified by "rubber stamp" delegates. Questions were brought out in the open, examined from all angles and all views given an airing. Then the convention spoke, exemplifying democracy and democratic procedure in its best aspects.

Perhaps most important of all subjects before the delegates—important to every man, woman and child in the United States—was the matter of keeping this nation out of the European war. Reiteration of labor's determined stand against war was of course to be expected. The convention made its declaration in the plainest kind of language.

"The only way by which we can avoid being drawn into the present European war is to definitely determine that we will not, that under no circumstances will we enter into any national policy which would include the use of armed force, except should our shores be attacked," the convention said.

In that it spoke for the vast body of citizens of the United States.

The convention, however, did not shut its eyes to the principles involved in the European conflict. It declared that the A. F. of L. recognized that "continuance and expansion of parliamentary government in Europe is involved in the present war. It made known its unswerving opposition to all forms of dictatorship and its firm championship of democracies. But the convention saw clearly that by keeping out of war and by holding itself in readiness to aid peace efforts, the United States would be serving the cause of civilization.

"There may come a time," it said, "when the warring countries would welcome some great neutral nation taking the lead in mediatorial efforts."

Unpleasant subjects were not dodged at Cincinnati.

Labor's disappointment with the working out of certain New Deal legislation, its suspicion of certain tendencies in government, however well meaning, was voiced before the convention.

Seeming public hostility to organized labor, as indicated by recent legislative attempts to restrict the rights of unions, was discussed.

The forthright Daniel J. Tobin expressed the fear that the tide of public opinion had begun to turn against the labor movement. And he didn't spare union officials.

"If we as labor leaders cannot see the handwriting on the wall we are not the kind of leaders the workers who depend upon us need," he said.

Mr. Tobin touched on a situation which every thoughtful union member knows is of deep concern to the labor movement.

The convention drove home the truth that in organization lies the salvation of the workers. It emphasized the message that the hope of the producing classes, both city and country, is in economic organization, now as in the past and future.

To this end it urged a union-forwardcampaign and said:

"It is of the utmost importance to labor that the coming year should be one of activity in organizing workers and in educating them in the principles of trade unionism that they may be able to protect themselves and advance their interests socially, politically and economically."

September Employment Higher In New York State Factories

Albany, N. Y.—The number of workers employed in New York state factories increased 4.1 per cent from the middle of August to the middle of September, while total factory payrolls rose 3.0 per cent during the same period, Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller reports. The fact that many plants were closed during part of the time reported this month for the observance of religious holidays or Labor Day accounted for the smaller gain in payrolls than in employment. Gains in factory employment and payrolls are usual for September. The average gains from August to September, over a year period have been 2.8 per cent for employment and 3.9 per cent for payrolls.

The New York State Department of Labor's index of factory employment, based on the average of the years 1925-27 as 100, rose to 87.4, 8.9 per cent above the September, 1938, level. The corresponding payroll index, at 82.6 was 9.6 per cent above last year's figure.

Big Tasks Confronting Labor

We have still to find jobs in private industries for millions of workers and assure to the thirteen millions of families now living on less than $750, an income that will provide them minimum standards of living necessary to comfortable living. . . . We must provide all workers assurance of income against those emergencies which prevent workers from earning their regular incomes. . . . Of immediate concern is the determination of a national health policy and provision for medical care for all.—American Federationist.

Misery Can't Bring Prosperity

I feel it is a serious mistake for us to found any hopes for real prosperity on the miseries of war-torn Europe. When the war is over, much of our war business will collapse suddenly, and we may be a great deal worse off than before we got it. In any case, the European war cannot possibly solve our economic problems here in the United States.—Mrs. Florence Kerr, assistant commissioner, WPA.

War Brings No Good

Defense Fund For A. F. of L. Local Trade And Federal Labor Unions Has Good Balance

The defense fund set up by the American Federation of Labor for the directly affiliated local trade and federal labor unions is in sound financial condition, Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison reported to the annual convention of the federation at Cincinnati, O.

"During the year," the report said, "$150,000 was transferred from the defense fund to the general fund as a charge against federal labor unions for additional expense of servicing and special organizing campaign."

The report showed that on Aug. 31, 1938, the balance in the defense fund was $436,774.96. The receipts for the twelve months ending Aug. 31, 1939, totaled $256,958.58. Of this sum $32,095 was paid in strike benefits, $2,175 in assistance to members of striking unions, and $7,500 as an affiliation fee to the Workers Education Bureau. In addition, $150,000 was transferred from the defense fund to the general fund, leaving a balance in the defense fund on Aug. 31, 1939, of $591,963.54.

Farm Product Prices Up Sharply in Month

Washington. — Prices of many farm products advanced sharply during the month ended Sept. 15 as the general index of prices received by farmers rose 10 points, U. S. department of labor reports. Though terminal market prices indicate some declines since Sept 15, the level reported is the highest since January, 1938.

The 10-point increase in the index of prices received is the largest monthly change recorded since the devaluation of the dollar in the spring of 1933. It sharply reversed the downward trend in the index that had continued almost uninterruptedly for the past two and one-half years.

Washington, D. C.—The Department of Labor reported that in the 47 housing projects built by the Public Works Administration in various sections of the country at a total cost of approximately $96,000,000 the average dwelling unit cost was $4,473, or $1,270 per room.

BETTER HOUSING

Legion Groups in Line

Even with the knowledge that all of the USHA's initial loan funds have been allocated, scores of local housing authorities are filing requests for earmarking with the USHA and are going ahead with project plans, spurred on by the realization that public housing was set up as a permanent program.

The brightest spot in the housing picture to date is the popular and organizational support that has made itself felt the moment that current housing was seriously challenged. Housing is no longer housing backed solely by professional housers, trade unionists, social workers, and "starry-eyed idealists." It is significant that many groups of the American Legion in Connecticut, Massachusetts, West Virginia and the District of Columbia have voted to support housing legislation.

Farm groups are likewise joining the fight; President O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation having been one of the first to rally to the support of housing. Since the adjournment of Congress great interest has been shown in the proposal to extend federal assistance to rural housing projects.

Public Housing Seen Imperative

Administration leaders declare that with war in Europe, the public housing program becomes even more imperative than when the current housing legislation was first introduced to meet the peace-time housing deficit carried over, in part, from the last war. Whether or not America stays neutral, workers are being drawn from normal occupations into the war industries. Under such conditions private residential building is likely to be even more seriously retarded than it has been in recent years. The virtual standstill in private construction in this country in 1914-18 is cited. Higher rents and greater shortage of low-rent accommodations for low-income workers and their families are in prospect.

Many New Dealers were completely taken by surprise by the adverse housing votes at the last session. This time they have their eyes open. They are urging that the steam be turned on reactionary Congressmen well in advance to insure favorable action on S. 591 at the earliest possible moment in the regular session.

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA CENTRAL LABOR UNION

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE EARNERS

Vol. XXIV. CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1939 Number 26

WPA IS ASKED IF LABOR HALL CAN BE SECURED

A telegram has been sent to WPA Administrator Harrington to ascertain if a labor temple can be constructed in Chattanooga with WPA funds. The labor movement has long been in need of such a service to its many thousands of citizens, in the way of recreation, education and housing for its meetings, both public and private.

The Labor World has been informed that such a procedure has been worked out here in Chattanooga. It is understood that the American Legion secured possession of a piece of land in St. Elmo and deeded it over to the city, whereupon the city made a WPA project for a community center, secured the money from WPA as a project, and constructed it.

After the site was improved, it is reported that the city thereupon gave back the land and the building to the legion for operation.

According to newspaper reports the newly approved WPA project for Probasco park is to be done the same way.

It is currently believed that such a procedure would be equally applicable to the Central Labor union.

"MILT" COOKE IS BACK HOME AGAIN

Milton S. Cooke, member of Chattanooga Typographical union, returned to Chattanooga last Friday after a stay of several months at the Union Printers Home in Colorado Springs. From his appearance the treatment received at the home was successful. He has picked up some 30 pounds in weight and he is apparently on the road to complete recovery.

The Printers Home is maintained by the International Typographical Union. Its hospital is completely and scientifically equipped and nowhere in the world can its great service be excelled.

Thomas J. Lyons Heads New York State Labor

Albany, N. Y.—Thomas J. Lyons is president of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York City. For 20 years he was secretary-treasurer of the Railway Express Agency Employes Union and then became general organizer of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

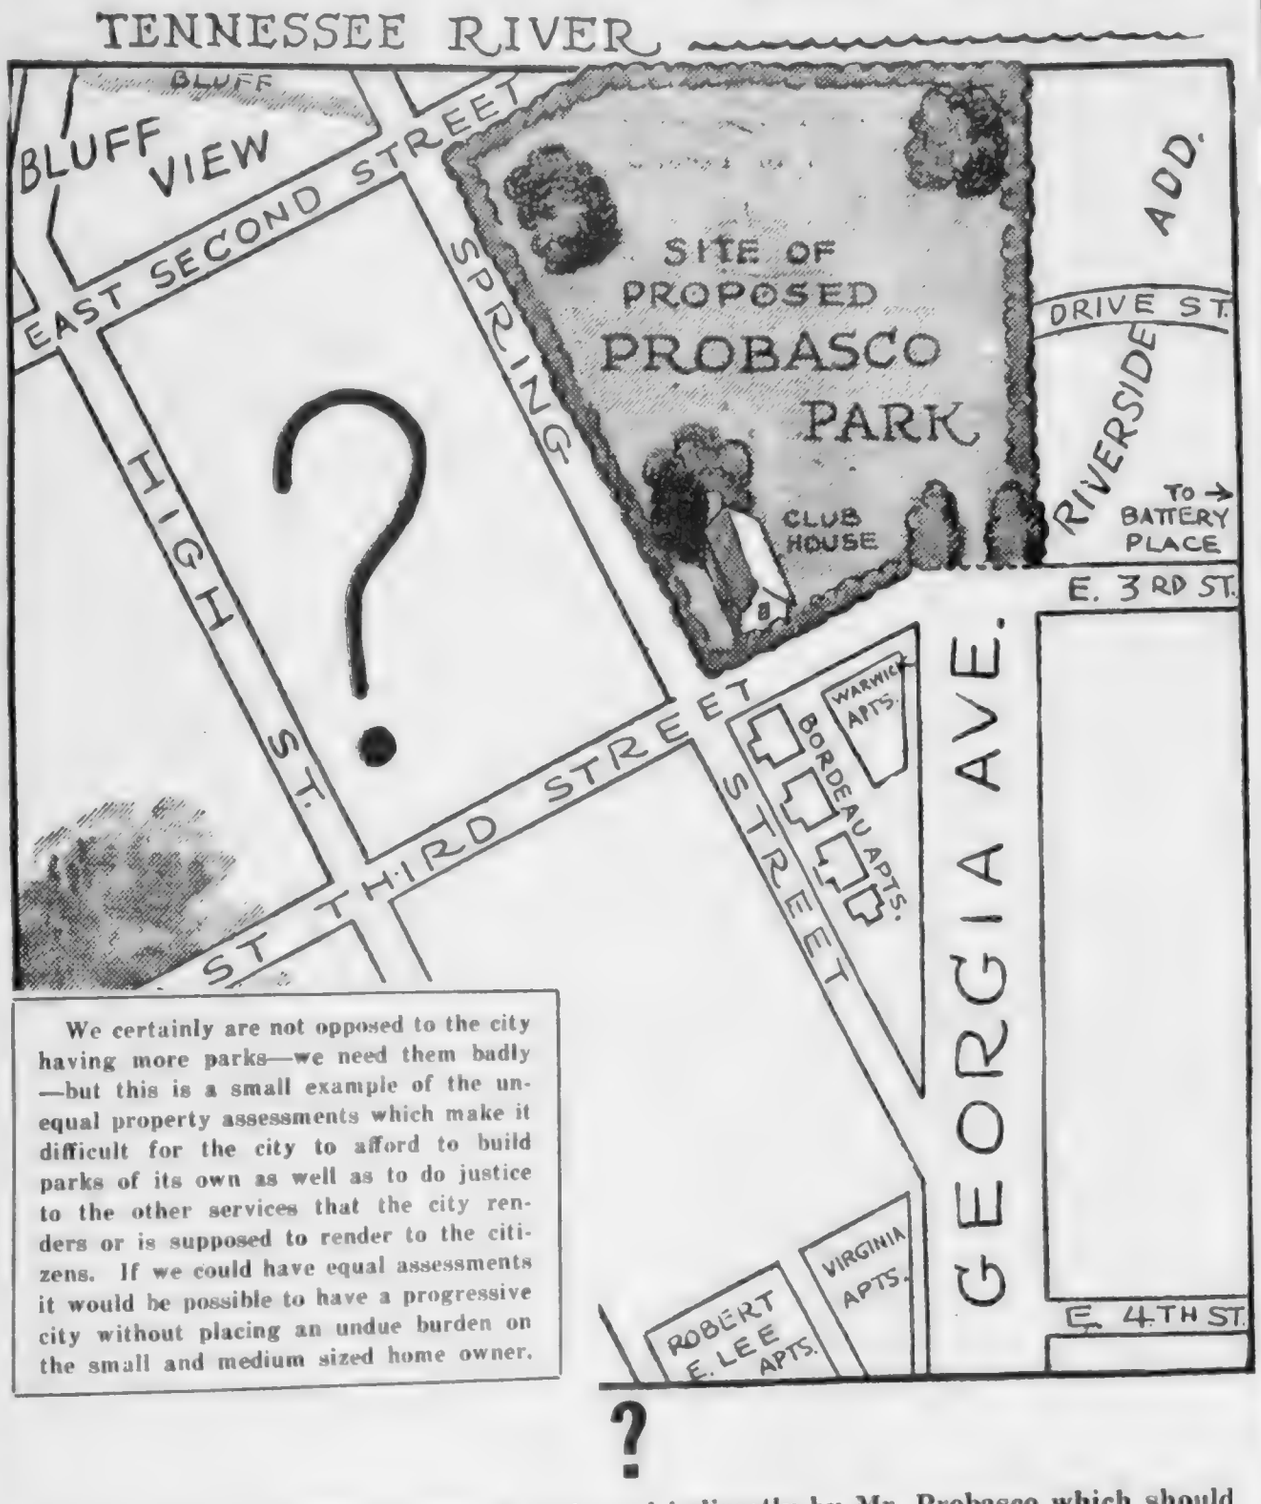
'PROBASCO PARK' GIFT MIGHT SHED LIGHT ON UNEQUAL TAX ASSESSMENTS AND CITY BUDGET REDUCTION



We certainly are not opposed to the city having more parks—we need them badly—but this is a small example of the unequal property assessments which make it difficult for the city to afford to build parks of its own as well as to do justice to the other services that the city renders or is supposed to render to the citizens. If we could have equal assessments it would be possible to have a progressive city without placing an undue burden on the small and medium sized home owner.

Question marks property owned directly and indirectly by Mr. Probasco which should be immensely improved in value after federal money is spent on land next to him.

And They Talk for a Sales Tax . . . Or Looking a Gift Horse in the Mouth

This article must necessarily have two titles, because both are tied together. The editor is of a curious nature as well as argumentative. For years we have heard the argument that property taxes must be lessened. Property owners are overburdened, and a sales tax would relieve already overburdened property owners, they say. All of which may be true, except sales tax proponents are careful not to say that the relieved owners would be the favored large property holders, but not the individual home dwellers.

Take, for instance, the magnanimous "gift to the city" of a splendid park by Mr. Scott Probasco. Let somebody take it, please, because some $41,000 of OUR money will be spent on it in "improvements," and it will honor the donor through posterity by bearing his name.

We said we were curious. Especially curious when a very rich man with a palatial home, and automobiles, and paintings, and several millions of dollars of other assets and a nine thousand dollar personalty declaration gives something away. The morning paper said that Mr. Probasco a year ago refused to accept $30,000 for the park site. The tax books show that he has paid taxes on an assessed value of about $8,000, which indicates that somebody was possibly being gypped—and it was not Mr. Probasco. If he was offered $30,000 it is safe to presume that it is worth that much. On just a 50 per cent assessment he should have been paying on an assessment of $15,000 for lo these many years. In other words, the city and county should have been collecting $570 annually instead of $304, or thereabouts.

But here is the peculiar thing about this grand donation toward the public weal, whereby a few of us poor people who live in this territory can walk and graze and think without paying carfare with, possibly, special dispensation of the sponsors of the project. Immediately to the west of this munificence, Mr. Probasco personally and through his bank owns a tract with an assessed valuation of some $48,000, which, if assessed in the same ratio of his heart's overflow, might be worth $100,000.

Will this park, improved by some $41,000 of our money, injure the value of Mr. Probasco's other holdings adjacent to the park?

Well, we ask you.

And anytime we can swap a rabbit for a horse, would we do it?

Well, just try us.

TEACHERS WILL DECIDE COURSE ON SALARY SUIT

The federation lost the city salary suit in the chancery court last week, but we do not believe the possibilities of the case have been exhausted. Accordingly, the board of directors will be asked at its November meeting to agree to taking it to the circuit court of appeals.

Your correspondent made the trip to Knoxville last Thursday to hear Kaltenborn. That Chattanooga is in for a real treat is our verdict, for he is as entertaining and informative speaker as we've heard.

If you know anyone in your district who has been approved for membership in the federation, but who has not yet appeared to take the obligation, urge him to do so at the next opportunity, which will be the board of directors' meeting of next Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the Hotel Patten.

Retail Clerks Sign Up Big Department Store

Agreement Negotiated by A. F. of L. Affiliate With Philadelphia Firm Covers 1,200 Employes.

Philadelphia, Pa. — Local No. 1390, Retail Clerks International Protective Association, A. F. of L. affiliate, has been certified by the State Labor Relations Board as sole bargaining agency for 1,200 employes of N. Snellenburg & Co.

Lon J. Marquis, international vice-president of the union, said the contract scheduled to follow the certification would be the first union shop agreement with a large department store in the United States. It will provide for a 44-hour week, overtime pay, seniority, grievance machinery and arbitration. In addition there is a so-called "war clause," which permits the union to seek wage increases if the cost of living is boosted, the wage increases being subject to arbitration.

"The contract as drafted," Mr. Marquis pointed out, "is unique in that is sets up a committee of both union and management to increase efficiency and eliminate waste without injury to union members."

A "job analysis" to determine how to spread a retroactive monthly pay roll increase among the employes will be started immediately by a joint union-management committee, Marquis said.

The union represents sales people, cashiers, packers, wrappers and window trimmers, but not office workers and those included in the building trades, elevator operators and restaurant staffs.

Chain Store Tax Ruled Invalid

Louisville, Ga.—A special chain store tax levied by the city of Augusta was ruled invalid by Judge Robert M. Hardeman of the Middle Georgia superior court circuit, who described the tax as "arbitrary, unreasonable and excessive."

The court enjoined permanently collection of the tax scaling up to $1,200 per store.

In his decision, Judge Hardeman took the same position as that of organized labor in opposing the tax.

Higher Wages, Shorter Workweeks For 690,000 Wage Earners Now Effective, Officials Report

Washington, D. C.—Wage increases for 690,000 American workers went into effect at midnight of Oct. 23, according to estimates made by the Wage and Hour Division, U. S. Department of Labor.

At the same time, an estimated total of 2,382,500 workers, employed in every state of the union, had their hours reduced from 44 to 42 per week, or will receive overtime pay at the rate of time and one-half the regular wage rate for hours worked in excess of that number.

These changes are statutory provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act which automatically increase the minimum wage from 25 to 30 cents an hour, and reduce the regular work-week from 44 to 42 hours. Higher increases in wages have been established after recommendation of industry committees, for the hosiery and textile industries.

Two Wage Orders Issued

A wage order effective Sept. 18, set the minimum of 32½ cents per hour for all employes in the seamless branch of the hosiery industry, and a minimum of 40 cents per hour for all employes of the full-fashioned branch of the industry. A second wage order, effective Oct. 24, established a minimum wage of 32½ cents for all employes in the textile industry. These wage orders increase the minimum wage of 221,000 workers above the statutory 30 cents an hour.

The act provides that industry committees must, as rapidly as possible without causing curtailment of employment, increase the minimum wage level, industry by industry, until the minimum of 40 cents per hour is established for all industries. The act sets Oct. 24, 1945, as the statutory date on which 40 cents per hour must be paid to all workers engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

Over 12,600,000 Benefit

Revised estimates of all workers covered by the act, Wage-Hour Division officials said, indicate that with increased employment over last year, a total of more than 12,600,000 are entitled to its benefits.

One-third of the 690,000 who have received increases in wages live in the southern state and are employed in sawmills, textiles, cotton seed oil and fertilizers.

Nine out of ten employes who are receiving increased wages, or a reduction in hours, are employed in sawmills, millwork, furniture, textiles, knit goods, men's clothing, women's clothing, shirts and collars, boots and shoes, cotton seed oil, and fertilizers. These twelve industries employ three-fourths of the wage earners in manufacturing who have received less than 30 cents an hour. Employes who have been working in excess of 42 hours per week are not, however, concentrated in the southern states. This condition has been true of Pennsylvania, New England, Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky.

1940 Housing Census Should Provide Basic Data for Effective National Building Program, Straus Asserts

Washington.—The first nation-wide census on housing next year will throw a revealing light on "how the other half lives," the United States Housing Authority believes.

The result of the survey should be of immense value to the entire building industry, too, in that it will provide a wealth of information to guide the construction of better homes at lower cost, asserted Nathan Straus, administrator of the housing authority, which agency took the lead in urging legislation for the census.

The survey, which will start next April and will embrace every state, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, will be made in conjunction with the 1940 census of population.

Fundamental Facts Sought.

Among the fundamental facts which it is expected the survey will bring to light are the following:

Total number of dwellings under the American flag, types and style of structures, essential household facilities (i. e., plumbing, cooking, refrigeration, etc.), age, condition and state of repair, amount of overcrowding and doubling-up of families, the monetary values of homes occupied by owners, the rentals charged for leased dwellings, present mortgage status of dwelling properties, the costs of home financing.

Hailing the housing census as a most important and much needed contribution to the better housing movement in this country, Straus urged co-operation in it by the public generally and particularly by all organized groups interested in housing.

Much Data Now Lacking.

"The forthcoming United States census of housing," he said, "should unquestionably provide basic data vital to the planning of an effective national housing program for all the various income groups of our population. When the census findings are compiled and published, they should stand as a challenge as well as a chance for private capital and government to cooperate in producing better homes at lowest cost.

"Better homes can be built at lower costs only when investors constructors and producers of construction materials have authoritative and comprehensive information concerning the exact type of housing required in definite localities. With this data on a nation-wide scale they can plan effectively and economically on a nationwide scale. Such data is not available today. Virtually all that is known is that students of the subject estimate that about one-third of the approximately 35,000,000 families in this country live in structures that are unsafe or insanitary."

This is not our war. We cannot bring peace to Europe by taking more war to Europe.—Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas.

Factory Employment Reported Gaining 700,000 Since July

Washington.—Seven hundred thousand more factory workers were employed on Oct. 15 than there were on July 15, Secretary of Labor Perkins estimated in issuing public the department of labor's preliminary employment report for October.

Almost 300,000 persons returned to work in manufacturing industries between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15, bureau of labor statistics reported. Miss Perkins estimated that factory employment between Sept 15 and Oct. 15 increased by 200,000. The increase from July 15 and Aug. 15 was 200,000.

To what extent, if any, the war situation is reflected in this increased manufacturing activity is not revealed by the reports received from industries, and cannot be estimated, Miss Perkins said.

However, the preliminary reports show that among the major industries in which substantial employment gains were made were iron and steel, cotton goods, woolen goods, meat packing plants and electrical machinery and equipment. Decreases, except in the canning industry, were small and largely seasonal in character.

TO PRINT AS TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL CHATTANOOGA

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1939

The Difference

The synonyms for "union" shop and "non-union" shop, respectively, are "democracy" and "autocracy." In the union shop the workers are free men. They have the right of organizing in trade unions and to bargain collectively with their employers through representatives of their own choosing. Employees in the non-union shops are like cogs in a machine. They have nothing to say as to conditions under which they will work, but must accept any wages, hours and working conditions that may be fixed arbitrarily by the employer.

—Samuel Gompers.

ILO Effective Peace Force

What is the most effective instrument for world peace?

The International Labor Organization, is the answer given by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

Endorsing the continued support given by the United States Government to the ILO and expressing the hope that a lasting peace will soon arrive, the council told the Cincinnati A. F. of L. convention:

"Until that time, however, we should do all in our power to encourage our government to continue its support and to co-operate as closely as possible with the International Labor Organization as the most effective instrument for peace in the world today."

John G. Winant, director of the International Labor Office, reports that the office at Geneva is functioning at normal, despite the war. This means that it is continuing its efforts for improvement of labor and economic conditions in all nations. Such improvement, by removing important causes of distrust and antagonism between nations, is the basis of stable peace throughout the world. Organized labor is fully aware of this fact, hence its stout support of the ILO and its work.

Progressive Step Urged

The federal government would make progress toward becoming a model employer if it would establish the five-day and 35-hour week for federal employes and pay them a minimum of $35 a week, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said at a dinner of federal employes in Cincinnati.

There seems to be no good reason why the shorter work week and higher pay should not be inaugurated in the federal service, with good results both for the workers and the government.

With the five-day week in effect, Uncle Sam would be justified in expecting more from his employes and undoubtedly he would get it. If he didn't, he could soon obtain greater efficiency by raising government pay so as to attract a larger proportion of efficient workers to federal service.

How You Can Help

Did you ever stop to think that the labor press is one of the best avenues of education open to the trade union movement? The American Federation of Labor has time and time again emphasized this and has never lost a chance to impress it upon the members of organized labor. You can help to make the labor press an even greater avenue of education than it is by giving it your heartiest support. Here this means supporting and "boosting" this paper at every opportunity.

Might Be a Good Idea

Barber George Perry, holding forth at the Patten Barber shop, has a good idea which we want to pass on to the labor movement for its consideration.

The present successes and strength of the labor movement in Chattanooga and the nation were not achieved overnight or during this generation. In fact, present benefits enjoyed by all working people were originally made possible through the thought and sacrifices of men and women of the past generations, some of whom are still alive and with us today.

We are sure that in the various local unions of Chattanooga some of its members can proudly claim fifty years of continuous service and membership in organized labor.

These pioneers could well be honored and recognized by the present generation. Would it not be well to have a banquet with these revered 50-year members as guests of honor? A bouquet dedicated to their memories years hence would be much sweeter if presented while they can smell its fragrance.

Encourage the Parent-Teachers

The Chattanooga High School Parent-Teachers' Association has promised an investigation of the city department of education. That such an investigation is needed should be evident to anyone who reads the newspapers. Comparisons of city teachers' salaries with those of Knoxville and other Tennessee cities' teachers, and even with those of Hamilton county, reveal the grossest of disparities in this largest item in the education budget; the problem of proper distribution of state high school funds has been argued for more than two months; not everyone understands how light bills can be lower if the debtor allows them to accumulate; new courses requiring expensive equipment have been added to what the commissioner of education calls a "starving school system"; even within the system no rhyme or reason obtains in teachers' salaries. A long list could be made of the sort of conditions that would justify an investigation.

We hope the P.-T. A. will bear in mind that the many services they have done in the past in Chattanooga have been performed for the children directly, with the assumption that the department of education was providing adequately for the teachers. This is not the case, and it behooves everyone that wants decent public schools in this city to support an inquiry that would bring the facts to light.

As the High school group pointed out, no particular official is under fire. Honest, efficient administrators have nothing to fear from the proposed action.

We hope the P.-T. A. will have the courage and the zeal to carry out their investigation.

Tax Collector As Educator

Machinery represents an investment by the employers: to have the plant ready for use, there must be something put in, ahead of operation.

Labor is something you can go out in the market and find, any time. There is no charge on the employer for maintenance of labor, during periods when the plant is not being used. Labor is supposed just to be there, somehow; perhaps like Topsey, just having "growed," and then stood around until somebody wanted it.

At least, that is the old conception of the situation, with reference to the supply of labor. But, do you know that there are really some new ideas coming into circulation about that? These ideas have been seeping in through several sources, and perhaps as convincing a source as any has been the tax collector; who had to find the money for unemployment relief; which was necessary to pay for the cost of feeding and clothing and housing working people who had been too long unemployed; which working people were, very inconveniently, citizens and voters; having influence with legislators because they could vote for or against them.

It all seems a bit silly, when these are the people who need the commodities; who are able and willing to make these commodities; and who can and do make the machines which are necessary for the making of the goods they need; and who are citizens, controlling more or less directly the making of laws which govern the uses of property.

May we suggest, that the folks who are at present in control of the switches governing the economic powers and activities of this nation, pay a little attention to their functions as holders of the levers.

I adhere to the opinion that the greatest service that the United States can possibly render democracy in the world is to preserve democracy in the United States.—Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri.

Senator Lee Warns of War Setback to Progressive Legislation

Ithaca, N. Y.—Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, told the New York State Teachers' Association of the Southern Zone that "war hysteria" may cause us to sweep aside recent gains in social and economic legislation.

Lee said he feared a "war stampede may be used by many opposed to new deal legislation."

"We must cling to all progress and advancement in social and economic fields," he added. "... Europe and Asia now under ... law of the jungle, this country must persist in the promoting ... the general welfare."

Defense Fund For A. F. of L. Local Trade And Federal Labor Unions Has Good Balance

The defense fund set up by the American Federation of Labor for the directly affiliated local trade and federal labor unions is in sound financial condition, Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison reported to the annual convention of the federation at Cincinnati, Ohio.

"During the year," the report said, $150,000 was transferred from the defense fund to the general fund as a charge against federal labor unions for additional expense of servicing and special organizing campaign."

The report showed that on Aug. 31, 1938, the balance in the defense fund was $436,774.96. The receipts for the twelve months ending Aug. 31, 1939, totaled $256,859.58. Of this sum $32,095 was paid in strike benefits, $2,175 in assistance to members of striking union, and $7,500 as an affiliation fee to the Workers' Education Bureau. In addition, $150,000 was transferred from the defense fund to the general fund, leaving a balance in the defense fund on Aug. 31, 1939, of $591,963.54.

New Pact Gives Printers Vacations With Pay

New York City.—A new two-year contract between the Publishers' Association of New York and Typographical Union No. 6 providing for wage increases and paid vacations has been signed.

"The vacation provision," said Elmer Brown, president of the union, "sets up a new and permanent milestone of progress in the printing industry. It not only will give our members a two-week annual holiday, but will help to provide employment for substitutes to take their places. The substitute vacations will be in ratio to the extent of their employment."

Calling All Cars, Calling All Cars

There were 4,040 drivers killed and 195,780 drivers injured a child in 1937. All the children were under the age of 14. Each driver gave in his report of the accident one of the following reasons for an excuse:

1. I didn't see the child in time to do anything.
2. The child was too quick for me.
3. I depended on the child doing what an older person would have done but did not.

The failure of these drivers was wholly or partially due to the fact that they did not know or did not keep in his mind how the mind of a child works. There are five points which a driver must keep constantly in mind in regard to children:

1. They act before they think.
2. They do the unexpected thing.
3. They lack judgment, especially the younger ones.
4. They are always impatient, and refuse to wait.
5. When they play their minds are all on the play, they do not hear or see your approaching car.

The investigations of accidents in which children were killed or injured, reveal the following typical actions of children:

1. Suddenly darting across the street.
2. Playing in the street.
3. Chasing a ball into the street.
4. Riding bicycles and roller skates.
5. Playing around parked cars.

With the above facts regarding the failure of drivers and the actions of children, every driver should be convinced that he must observe the following rules:

1. When children are anywhere near drive as if the unexpected will happen. Children on the sidewalk should be a slow sign, and children in the street should be a very cautious or stop sign for every driver.
2. Look ahead, not only to see the child in time, but to anticipate what he will do next.
3. Don't depend on a child doing what an older person would do.
4. On the streets where children are at play cut your speed and keep your car under control.

Many accidents to children occur because the driver miscalculates the speed and stopping distance of his car.

One of the most valuable facts a driver can have and should keep constantly in mind is this: When traveling 40 miles per hour and a child should dash into the street keep in mind the fact that from the moment the driver's brain sends the message to his foot and before the brakes are applied one second has elapsed. During that second his car has traveled 60 feet, and then 104 feet more before the brakes can stop the car.

Remember this fact and you will avoid many accidents.

IF THAT CHILD IN THE STREET WERE YOUR CHILD, HOW WOULD YOU DRIVE?

James Whitcomb Riley contributes a poem this week that we have enjoyed. We still appreciate poetry and we think this one of his best. It was taken from the Butcher Workman, and is:

"SOMEP'N COMMON"

Somp'n 'at's common-like, and good
And plain, and easily understood;
Somep'n 'at folks like me and you
Kin understand, and relish, too.
And find some sermint in 'ats hits
The spot, and sticks and benefits.
We don't need nothin' extra fine;
'Cause, take the run o' minds like mine,
And we'll go more on good horse-sense.
Than all your flowery eloquence;
And we'll jedge best of honest acts
By Nature's statement of the facts.
So when you're waitin' to express
Your misery, or happiness,
Er anything 'at's wuth the time
O' telling in plain talk or rhyme—

As ef the Lord wuz listenun.

Ernst Is Elected Secretary-Treasurer Of Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union

Cincinnati, O.—The general executive board of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees International Alliance and Bartenders International League of America, at its fall session at the Gibson Hotel here, elected Hugo Ernst, former international vice-president for the San Francisco area, to succeed the late Robert B. Hesketh, in the office of secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Ernst, who has already assumed his office, has a distinguished record of service in his own international union as well as having served the general labor movement effectively in his home state of California, where, besides serving as an international vice-president, he has served on innumerable occasions as the personal representative of General President Edward Flore.

Secretary-Treasurer Ernst was also a delegate of his international union to the A. F. of L. convention, of which Edward Flore is a vice-president and member of the executive council. Mr. Ernst has made no announcement of future plans although it is anticipated that he will remove his residence to Cincinnati. A close student of the labor movement of his own and other countries, a fluent speaker and clear analyst, the addition of Mr. Ernst to the executive branch of his organization adds additional strength.

General President Flore, who presided at all sessions of the executive board of his international, expressed himself as highly pleased at the action of his board in the election of Mr. Ernst, who he described as "one of the outstanding members of our great organization."

"Build-Up": Way to Ease Women's Pain

Many weak, run-down women are in a vicious circle. Their undernourishment often leads to what is called functional dysmenorrhea and its symptoms — headaches, nervousness, irritability, intermittent cramp-like pains—from which many women suffer. Surest way to break the vicious circle is by building strength and energy, which so many find may be done with the help of CARDUI. It stimulates appetite, aids digestion, and thus helps in this "build-up" of physical resistance. Women also report that, if taken just before and during "the time," CARDUI helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

The Cherry Tree

One of the most cheering things in the present situation is industry's lack of enthusiasm for war profits. Industry evidently realizes pretty generally that war profits are a delusion and a snare. They may be grand while the going is good, but after the war—my, what a headache!

Industry and business have voiced this view repeatedly since war began in Europe. There has been very little licking of chops over prospects of juicy war gains. Instead, industrial leaders and business organizations have been slamming at the idea that war means fat profits and have been to the fore in urging that the United States keep out of war.

Barney Baruch, who knows a thing or two about profits and profit-making, says there'll be no war profits if America is involved in the European conflict. There is one outstanding fact paramount in possibilities of This country's involvement in war, he said recently.

"No one will gain and there will be no profits."

"You can put this in your pipe and smoke it," he said. "If we get involved in the war, nobody is going to make the profits that they may think they will make.

"A ceiling will be fixed on prices and taxes will be increased and nobody will gain.

"If anybody thinks they can make a profit out of war, they're crazy."

Mr. Baruch's statement may be rather sweeping but in the main he is right. War would bring profits to some, in all probability, but whether they could hang on to them is another matter.

As Mr. Barush intimates, war taxes are likely to play havoc with war profits. But human nature being what it is, hope of war profits is bound to persist. If war should come to America, industry and business will hope and strive to profit. Nor would expectation of profit be confined to the employing class. Workers would expect to profit through increased employment opportunities and high pay.

A disastrous slump after the war could easily more than wipe out all gains, for both capital and labor. We haven't forgotten that a slump came after the world war, in 1921 and 1922.

And a shattering bust came only eleven years after the ending of the war, following a period of what passed for abounding prosperity, but which wasn't prosperity for large groups, as for example, the farmers.

Plenty of people believe that the great depression was a direct result of our futile crusade to make the world safe for democracy.

Industry's lack of faith in war profits is undoubtedly a factor in its firm opposition to war. In that it is standing side by side with the great masses of the people.

Industry and business are asking adequate defense, but are opposing any move or policy that might draw us into war. Wall Street organs have joined with labor in urging strict American neutrality.

With other Americans, industrial and business leaders have no faith in the idea that we can make Europe over. That, they are convinced, is a task for Europe and for Europe alone. If Europe can't do the job, others can't either, they strongly suspect.

Social Security QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q.—How are Old-Age and Survivors Insurance monthly benefits calculated?

A.—Benefits are figured on average monthly wages instead of the total wages a worker has received as was the case under the original Social Security Act.

Q.—Will the new method of figuring benefits make any important change in the procedure already established by the Social Security Board for the maintenance of wage records?

A.—No. Employers will continue to send to the Collector of Internal Revenue their tax returns along with the detailed statement of the wages earned by each of their employees; and the Social Security Board will continue to record these earnings on the individual ledger sheets of the millions of workers for whom accounts have been established.

Q.—What is the new formula for calculating monthly benefits?

A.—The insured worker will receive as a basic benefit 40 per cent of the first $50 of his average monthly earnings in covered employment, plus 10 per cent of his average wage over $50 and up to $250 a month. He will receive an additional 1 per cent of his basic benefit for each year in which he has earned at least $200 in covered employment.

Q.—As an example, suppose a man has been receiving an average monthly wage of $100 since beginning of 1937 and chooses to retire when he reaches the age of 65 at the beginning of 1940. What would his monthly benefit amount to?

A.—He would receive $25.75 a month—40 per cent of $50; or $20 plus 10 per cent of the remaining $50, or $5; plus 3 per cent of the basic benefit of $25, or 75c; making a total of $25.75.

Q.—Suppose this man is married and his wife is at least 65 years of age?

A.—In that case, his wife would be entitled to a benefit equal to one-half of her husband's benefit, or $12.87, making a total monthly payment to the old couple of $38.62.

een Challenges Lewis to Submit Actual C.I.O. Membership Figures

s the A. F. of L. Makes Its Dues-Paying Membership Public; Asks Why the Rebel, Dual Outfit Refuses to Reveal the Facts With Regard to the Number Who Pay Dues to the C. I. O.

definite challenge to the leadip of the C. I. O. to make pubreliable information regarding number of working men and en who pay dues to that dual nization was made by William n, president of the American eration of Labor, in his closing rks to the fifty-ninth annual ention of the federation at Cinati, Ohio.

ur reports have been frank pen," Mr. Green said. "We evaded nothing. A true and st financial report has been tted to this convention. We not claimed a membership. have reported a membership. paid-up membership of the rican Federation of Labor was presented to this convention.

"We hear no echo from the Pacific. No word reaches us from the western coast as to the paid-up membership of our rebel, rival, dual union. Our paid-up membership is here, given to the public We demand that this dual movement do likewise—let the people know what they have got.

"One of the proposals made by our committee negotiating peace was that a public accountant examine the records of the American Federation of Labor and the records of the C. I. O. in order to determine and ascertain and make public the paid-up membership of both organizations. That proposal was rejected.

"Deception, Bluff and Bluster"

"Why don't they make their membership public? Can they forever live on deception and bluff and bluster? The public eventually will know, and then the day of reckoning will be at hand. Labor throughout America and the public at large are entitled to know the membership of organized labor.

"We will submit it here. We welcome the public accountant to examine our books. We ask these people to do likewise, and if they have got 4,000,000 members we will know it.

"If they have only got a baker's dozen we will know it also, and then we will know whether we are dealing with an organization, which has a baker's dozen or whether they have a respectable membership.

"You can always proceed when you get the facts. Why are they hiding the facts? What is the purpose behind it? Why this deception, why this secrecy?

A. F. of L. Records Are Open

"There is none of that in the American Federation of Labor, for our books are open, our records are open, our conventions are open. We are a great democratic institution, maintaining that vital principle, honesty, integrity, frankness and open dealing with the membership and with the public as well."

Drivers Sign Up Frisco Publishers Association

Five-Day Week of Forty Hours and Standard Wages Gained for 265 Employes by A. F. of L. Affiliate.

San Francisco, Cal.—Terms of a new two-year agreement between the Newspaper and Periodical Drivers Union, local 921, and the San Francisco Publishers Association, including provisions for a five-day, forty-hour week with no pay reduction, were announced by the Pacific Coast Labor Bureau, which aided the union in the negotiations. The union is affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, American Federation of Labor.

1 Five-day, forty-hour week, with pay to stand at the present $42 a week, plus $13.50 a week for car allowance:

2. Hiring to be done through union hall;

3. Sections of the contract covering wages and car allowance subject to discussion ata the end of the first year, provided written notice is given before that time by either party.

Under the revised agreement, union members will move from a six-day, forty-eight-hour work base to a straight five-day, forty-hour week. Approximately 265 employes are affected.

In line with the basic union principle that there should be no wage reduction where the number of working hours is reduced, the union refused to accede to the publishers' proposal for a pay cut be taken in return for the five-day week. Much of the negotiation, extending over a period of more than two months, was concerned with this point.

Conclusion of the negotiations marked another step in the steady growth of the drivers' union, which previously has registered such gains for its membership as the closed shop, seniority provisions and vacations with pay.

The forty-hour week represented a major advance on the problem of hours. In contrast to the new agreement, it may be recalled that at the time the union was organized, the average work week totaled from 60 to 70 hours.

Union spokesmen who met with the publishers were Jack Goldberger, John Healy, Charles Griff and John Watso, members of the negotiating committee, and Sam Kagel of the labor bureau.

29 MILWAUKEE LAUNDRIES SIGNED UP BY A. F. O FL.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Officials of Laundry Workers' Union No. 174, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced that all of the larger laundries in Milwaukee are operating under agreements with the union.

Paid vacations and thirty hours of work weekly to all steady employes now prevail in the laundry industry here due to the agreements.

Ten of the laundries are under a full closed shop agreement. The other 19 accepted a modified closed shop clause which requires all present members of the union to remain in good standing and that all new employes must be hired through the union.

Delegates to AFL Convention Voices Labor's Strong Support of League for Human Rights

Cincinnati.—Delegates and friends of the American Federation of Labor gave enthusiastic support to the plea of William Green to all labor and all liberal forces to resist the attacks of "spreading totalitarian encroachment," before a mass meeting held in Convention Hall, Hotel Netherland Plaza, by the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy, of which Mr. Green is honorary president and Matthew Woll is president. Green's address was carried to the nation over the coast to coast Mutual network.

Other speakers were Alexander F. Kerensky, former premier of Russia; Luis N. Morones, former president of the Mexican Federation of Labor (C.R.O.M.); and Gerhart H. Seger, former member of the Reichstag. Matthew Woll, president of the league, acted as chairman.

Red-Nazi Pact Denounced

Referring to the Moscow-Berlin pact, Mr. Green said, "It is an ugly, brutal and hateful spectacle, but it should be a highly educational one to Americans. The mask has been stripped off Communism and Nazism. At last they are exposed to the light as partners in tyranny. No longer can they pose before us as idealists. The gruesome masquerade is over."

"Finally," Green declared "America must be on the alert to guard and protect itself from being undermined. No political or propaganda agency financed by a foreign government should be permitted to function in this country. Every American should make it his duty to examine and analyze statements derogatory to the American form of government. And American organizations, such as the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy, under whose auspices this meeting is being held tonight, should be encouraged to continue their efforts to expose the false teachings of Communism, Nazism and Fascism."

Woll Scores Threat to Liberty

Mr. Woll characterizes the motivation of totalitarian propaganda "as real and actual." He declared, "For the man in the street, as one examines the totalitarian state and judged by the results of their policy and their program, one can say—and is impelled to say without the slightest hesitation—that it means death not only to the trade union movement but death to freedom, death to the right of religious conscience, death to education and science; indeed to those very aspects of our life which we count as among its most precious possessions. When labor opposes the totalitarian state and all that it stands for, it does so out of some knowledge of the effect of totalitarianism on the labor movement."

A declaration that the United States must take the initiative in mobilizing all the constructive forces of the world for the difficult taks of world reconstruction which lies ahead and without which the present war will have been fought in vain, was made by Mr. Kerensky.

No Hope Seen in Stalin

He said that it was necessary "to stop the international terror of totalitarian dictatorships." It was extraordinary, said Mr. Kerensky, that the western democracies easily believed Stalin when he "lured them into the trap of the Popular Front." "It is my duty to say that all hopes that Stalin may tomorrow betray Hitler and return to collaboration with the democracies is a wicked illusion and a complete absurdity," he continued.

Mr. Morones gave this warning, "The insidious and brutal hand of totalitarianism reaches across oceans and across international boundary lines to corrupt and break down the institutions of democracies and it even seeks out some of its professing leaders and it is critically necessary that there be agencies on guard, particularly such agencies as the league which is the sponsor of this meeting tonight."

Nazi Hand Is Long.

Mr. Morones continued, "We know that nazi, fascist and communist forces have actually invaded the nations of these American continents, in preparation for whatever eventuality the madness of their brutal regimes may conceive. We know that in some of the twenty-one nations the advance preparations have been costly and thorough. We have reason to believe that there have been alliances with men who speak with the tongues of democracy, while their hands are clasped in embrace with the alien forces of naziism, fascism and communism.

"But of this I want you to be sure, and perhaps it is my most earnest message to you tonight; the working people of Mexico are as devoted to the principles of freedom and democracy as are those of any nation. I ask you to remember that for much more than a decade our struggle for liberty has continued. Having fought so much for an ideal, it is the simple truth that the ideal has become a part of our very being."

Gehart Seger traced Hitler's existence in Germany to Germany's defeat in the last world war to the Treaty of Versailles and to the economic depression that fell upon Germany in 1930. Mr. Seger warned that all efforts should be made in the present world war and the peace that will follow to guard against another Versailles treaty and to safeguard against the long train of calamities and depressions that naturally result in a war of major importance.

League Purposes Indorsed.

The meeting adjourned with an enthusiastic vote of approval of the following purposes of the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy:

"We affirm it as the purpose of this meeting and of the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy;

"1—To mobilize the forces of labor and its friends in defense and extension of the principles and practices of democracy, freedom and human rights;

"2—To bring about a more concrete and specific understanding of the advantages of democracy as a way of organized social existence;

"3—To oppose vigorously, by organized effort, the subversive and insidious operations of dictatorships and their agents within this country;

"4—To reaffirm our faith in the Bill of Rights, by actively and jealously guarding every provision thereof;

"5—To oppose every manifestation of racial, religious or economic bigotry and to be especially alert against the propaganda of bigotry directed against our nation by the dictatorships;

"6—To extend this defense, so far as may be possible, to all the nations of the Americas, in co-operation with their labor movements, and all other liberal groups to the end that they may be assisted in resisting the encroachments of alien dictatorship propaganda;

"7—To safeguard the rights of the masses of our people against unwarranted bureaucratic oppression that might arise in times of emergencies, so far as may be compatible with national welfare."

The League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy will immediately carry on its campaign to organize forces of labor and democracy in this country against the totalitarian propaganda invasion from its offices at 570 Lexington Avenue, New York City; and 609 Carpenters' Building, Washington, D. C.

Besides William Green, honorary president, and Matthew Woll, president, the league officers include: David Dubinsky, vice-president; Edward F. McGrady, secretary; Hon. Jeremiah T. Mahoney, treasurer; Chester M. Wright, director of public relations, and Charles E. Handy, executive secretary.

NEW "PACT" SIGNED

Cincinnati.—Germany and Russia signed another non-aggression pact at the meeting of the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy. Gerhart Seger, once a member of the German Reichstag and now persona non grata with the Hitler regime, said he had just concluded such a pact with Alexander Kerensky, who sat beside him on the speaker's platform. Kerensky, head of a short-lived liberal Russian government in 1917, replied he was willing to enlarge it to a mutual assistance pact "to get rid of Hitler and Stalin."

Prompt Help For A Listless Child

Scolding won't help a boy or girl who is listless, dull or cross from constipation. But, here's something that will!

If sluggish bowels have your child headachy, bilious, upset, give him a little Syrup of Black-Draught tonight. Like the original famed BLACK-DRAUGHT, its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative. Helps impart tone to the bowel muscles.

Children like the taste of Syrup of Black-Draught. It is an all vegetable product. When simple directions are followed, its action is gentle, but prompt and complete. Comes in two sizes: 50c and 25c.

Labor Committee Hits Plan for Formation Of "Spy" Group

New York City.—Speaking in the name of 22 unions, said to be both A. F. of L. and CIO, the Brooklyn Labor and Citizens Committee protested against the formation by Sheriff James V. Mangano of Kings county of a body of 3,000 civilians to ferret out "subversive" activities in Brooklyn."

"We object to your civilian spy bureau on the specific ground that the whole history of vigilante bodies has been one of ugly harassment an doppression of organized labor," the committee declared in an open letter to the sheriff. "Whatever their original pretext—and one form or another of superpatriotism has been most often picked on—such vigilantes invariably wind up with a drive against labor leaders, labor organizations and their members.

Labor Must Go Forward

It is of utmost importance to labor that the coming year should be one of activity in organizing workers and in educating them in the principles of trade unionism that they may be able to protect themselves and advance their interests socially, politically and economically. We urge union-forward campaigns for every state and city by every state federation of labor and city central body for the territory over which each organization is jointly and separately responsible.—From annual report of A. F. of Executive Council, to Cincinnati convention, Oct. 2.

The same people who can deny others everything are famous for refusing themselves nothing.—Leigh Hunt.

Life Is Feared For Gerald Foley With Pneumonia

Gerald Foley, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, is at the point of death in a Nashville hospital. He has been unconscious since last Saturday evening, when he took a sudden turn for the worse at his home.

Long distance call by The Labor World Wednesday afternoon to Vice-President Vester brought the information that pneumonia had set in, and that all hope for Brother Foley had been abandoned.

Foley is in his third term as president of the federation, having been elected first in Jackson, Tenn., in 1937. He was re-elcted without opposition in Johnson City the next year, and last June in Nashville, the delegates unanimously acclaimed him again.

For many months Brother Foley has been in very bad health, with recurring periods of near recovery.

He is a plumber by trade and is president of the Nashville Building Trades Council. During his activities in the labor movement he has held nearly every post of trust.

A. F. L. Asks Court To Quash Teamster Indictment

Judge Padway Says Sustaining the Indictment Charging Washington (D. C.) Local With Violating Sherman Anti-Trust Act Would Put Legal Standing of Labor Back Over 100 Years.

Washington, D. C.—Judge Joseph A. Padway, counsel of the American Federation of Labor, moved in the United States district court here to dismiss the indictment of Local No. 639 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America and five officials of the brotherhood for alleged criminal conspiracy to win a jurisdictional controversy involving the Operating Engineers Union.

The indictment, brought by the Department of Justice, accused the Teamsters Brotherhood local and its officers with violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Judge Padway said that if the legality of the indictment were upheld the labor movement would be thrust back to where it was in 1806 when unions were declared to be "unlawful conspiracies." He also pointed out that the Clayton Anti-Trust Act exempted unions from the provisions of the Sherman Act.

TEACHER TALK

The board of directors Wednesday evening voted to appeal the city salary suit to the court of appeals.

More new members were obligated at that meeting, and still other applicants for membership were approved. We're growing nicely.

The committee on revision of the constitution of Local 246 has completed its study and will soon present its tentative draft to the federation. Mrs. Nancy Lea Smith is chairman of this committee.

The federation plans to investigate the practice of hiring substitute teachers and moving them about from one school to another so that no one will become suspicious. Names of these teachers do not appear in the directory. This we know to be a practice in the county system, extending over a period of some years.

The workers' education group is sponsoring a course in parliamentary law which meets every Wednesday evening at 7:30 to 9 o'clock in the ILGWU hall in the Ferger building. All federation members are invited to attend.

Plans of the lecture committee are rapidly taking shape, and a capacity house is hoped for when Kaltenborn "edits the news" in Chattanooga.

Musicians Union Fights Lockout of Radio Band

Philadelphia, Pa. — Frank P. Liuzzi, president of Local No. 77 of the American Federation of Musicians, A. F. of L. affiliate, said the A. F. M. national office had called out orchestras in affiliated station WPEN in protest against the Philadelphia stations lockout of its band. Liuzzi declared the dismissal of the 13-man orchestra at WPEN was a violation of an existing contract between the American Federation of Musicians and the National Association of Broadcasters, of which, he said, WPEN was a member.

A renewed recommendation that all national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor whose constitutions include discrimination against colored workers take up this subject at their next conventions with a view to ending such discrimination was adopted at the recent A. F. of L. convention at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The color discrimination was was brought to the attention of the convention in a resolution introduced by Delegates A. Philip Randolph and Milton P. Webster, of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

The resolution, in the intent of which the convention concurred and recommended it to the A. F. of L. Executive Council "in the spirit of which it is submitted," read as follows:

"Whereas, the color bar and various subtle forms of race discrimination, some open and others disguised, operate to curtail the right of negro workers to various jobs, without regard to skill, training and experience; and,

"Whereas, race discrimination by trade unions tends to divide the workers upon a basis of race and color, thereby playing into the hands of the employer who fundamentally cares no more for a white worker than he does for a black worker; and,

"Whereas, whenever a trade union excludes a worker merely because of race or color, such exclusion weakens the entire labor movement, and lessens its power to fight for decent wage rates, humane hours of work and improved working conditions that will assure living standards commensurate with health, comfort and decency; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That this 59th annual convention, assembled in Cincinnati, Ohio, in harmony with past declarations, go on record calling upon all national and international unions and departments, to eliminate the color bar and all forms of discrimination which serve to exclude workers from membership on account of race or color; and be it further

"Resolved, That the president and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor again call upon the conventions of national and international unions whose constitutions have color clauses and that practice discrimination against negro workers, to create a committee to report on the question of the color bar and various forms of race discrimination to their next conventions, for discussion and abolition."

A. F. L. Unions Win Labor Board Decision

Chicago.—The International Union of Operating Engineers and the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, A. F. of L. affiliates, have been designated by the National Labor Relations Board as bargaining agents for groups of Chicago Malleable Casting company employes. The board decision took the power from the C. I. O. steel workers organizing committee which won the representation of the groups in an election held in April, 1938.

WESTERN UNION ORDERED TO DISESTABLISH COMPANY UNION

Washington.—The national labor relations board has ordered the Western Union Telegraph company to disestablish and withdraw all recognition from Association of Western Union Employes as the representative of any of its employes for the purposes of dealing with the company concerning grievances, labor disputes or other conditions of employment.

In addition, the board ordered the company to reimburse its employes for all amounts deducted from their wages as dues paid to the association by the check-off system since July 5, 1935.

Bus Drivers Win Wage Boost, Paid Vacations

Staten Island, N. Y.—A 15-cent increase in hourly rates of pay was one of the extraordinary gains recently won by bus operators who are members of Division 726 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America in a settlement with their employers, the Staten Island Coach company.

In place of the previous top rate of 70 cents an hour reached at the end of three and one-half years, the men will receive, after two years of service, a maximum of 78½ cents from Aug. 1, 1939, to July 31, 1940; 82½ cents from Aug. 1, 1940, to Jan. 31, 1941; and 85 cents during the last six months of the two-year contract.

Because of the change in the time in which the maximum is reached, a substantial part of the men will receive an increase of over 20 cents an hour and in some instances nearly 25 cents over the two-year period.

An additional step forward was the establishment of vacations. For the year 1939-1940 the men will receive one week's vacation with pay, and, beginning Aug. 1, 1940, the period will be increased to two weeks.

Combined with the impressive victory in wages and vacations, excellent improvements in working conditions were also won. Hereafter, the men will be allowed travel time, 15 minutes for pull-out and turn-in, overtime pay after eight hours, and the check-off.

IGLU Initiates Bingo Games

The Chattanooga local of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union has announced regular Saturday evening bingo games at its hall in the Ferger building.

Stating that frequently Saturday night is an "off" night for entertainment, the answer to the puzzle would be something cheap for the pocketbook of the worker and something that is a lot of fun. The games will be cheap enough, costing one cent each.

The first party will be Saturday, Nov. 11, and will occur every Saturday thereafter. The starting gun will go off at 7:30 p.m.

Supreme Court Rejects Union Plea For Review of Picketing Decision

Washington, D. C.—The Supreme Court on Oct. 23 denied the petition of the Milk Wagon Drivers Union of Chicago for review of an Illinois supreme court decision prohibiting the union from picketing the plant and products of Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc.

The court acted in an unusual manner. When the case was first filed, it received an incomplete record of the proceedings in the Illinois courts. The union presented the missing documents and moved that the court accept them.

In its action, the court granted the motion to accept the additional papers. Having considered them with the portion of the record first filed, it then denied the review sought by the union.

During the depression the union sought to abolish the "vendor" system of milk delivery under which non-union men acting as independent contractors delivered milk for certain Chicago dairies, including Meadowmoor. The union wanted the dairies to do the delivering, paying milk drivers union wage scales.

The union undertook a picketing campaign, placing "unfair" signs on highways in front of stores handling Meadowmoor products. An Illinois trial court issued an injunction, on complaint of Meadowmoor, prohibiting acts of violence, but permitting picketing. The Illinois supreme court ordered an injunction outlawing picketing.

New Higher Minimum Pay Under Wage-Hour Law Affects Only Small Fraction of Workers

Washington.—While the total number affected is considerable, taken as a whole, the relative incidence of the effect of the application of the wage-hour law's new higher hourly minimum wage is only about 5.5 per cent of all employes covered by the law. The higher wage, which went into effect on Oct. 24, affects 690 thousand out of the 12.6 million covered; and it reaches only about 17 per cent of the whole number of gainfully employed workers. That is because only 690,000 workers, out of the 12.6 million employed in connection with interstate commerce, have been receiving less than 30 cents an hour. That makes it almost painless. It is estimated that the average increase in wage per hour will be about 2½ cents.

More to Get Shorter Week.

Another effect is in the shortening of the work week. Here, 1.6 million will get either the shorter work week of 40 hours, or will get the overtime. Of those who have been getting an average of $11.00 per week for 44 hours at 25 cents per hour, it will mean at the present an increase to $12.60 for the 42-hour week.

Those who have been working 40 hours a week at 25 cents will get the increased wage of 30 cents, amounting to $2.00 increase per week. It is estimated that this will count up to a total increase, in such payrolls of about $2 million a week, or $100 million a year. Relative to a total manufacturing wage of $10 billion in 1937, that amounts to about 1 per cent increase in the purchasing power of workers employed in manufacturing industries.

Food Processors Chief Foes.

Only one-third of this increase in the hourly wage will affect the southern states, while the northern states will be affected by only one-third of the incidence of the shorter work week. The Barden amendment would exempt 2,000,000 workers in the food processing industries.

Principal opponents of the wage-hour act are found in the food processing industries. For instance, in a parish in Louisiana, four school busses were found parked among the shrimp canneries, bringing the school children to the canneries instead of to school. Doubtless local sentiment supported this action. But it is exceptional, the nation over.

Investigation of Building Industry Not Directed Against Labor, Attorney General Declares

Washington, D. C.—The Department of Justice investigation of conditions in the building industry "is not directed against labor and is not going to be," Attorney General Frank Murphy told reporters.

Murphy conferred for more than an hour with A. F. of L. President Green and five associates. The conference, Murphy said, was to obtain the views of the American Federation of Labor on pending litigation and to discuss plans of the Justice Department for future investigation.

Others at the meeting included John P. Coyne, president of the A. F. of L. Building and Construction Trades Department; Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters Union, and Joseph A. Padway, general counsel of the A. F. of L.

Murphy refused to discuss any concrete results of the conference, but said that it had been "very helpful" and that he was "very pleased with the results."

The union leaders, he said, came "asking for nothing, but merely to present their views on the rights of labor in the current investigation."

He said that he made it plain to the labor leaders that there would be no persecution of labor in the investigation and that its rights would be strictly observed.

Labor Must Press On

Growing opposition to the labor movement and other reactionary tendencies call for intensification of union organization efforts, the American Federation of Labor executive council pointed out in its report to the Cincinnati convention.

"The increase in union growth during the past year has been accompanied by increased hostility to the labor movement . . . Results . . . are obvious in repressive labor laws in states and dismemberment of state departments of labor and in the failure of Congress to enact needed labor legislation," the council said.

The council emphasized that the remedy for the situation to which it referred lies in greater organization of the workers. "We must dedicate our increased economic strength to the advancement of the welfare of the workers and mobilize our strength and resources to secure recognition of our rights and advancements of our interests," it declared.

In brief, the council emphasized the truth that there is no substitute for union organization, which is the basis of the strength and continued growth of the American Federation of Labor.

A Step in Advance

There is bitter opposition to the Wage-Hour Act, among a certain quite limited coterie of employers of cheap labor. These are engaged mainly in the food industries, and it is curious to note that only one third of those receiving less than 30 cents an hour are located in the South.

The estimated increase in the total payrolls, from the application of the increase in the minimum wage of 25 cents to 30 cents an hour, which became effective October 24, is about $100,000,000. Next year the other slice will be added, when the standard wage will be raised to 40 cents an hour. That will have a wider swath, also, and probably may raise a louder howl from those whose profits will be affected. Meanwhile, less than 750,000 will be affected, out of a total of 10 million, by the direct wage increase, which is only about 5.5 per cent of the total manufacturing roll.

The shorter standard work week will affect a larger number, who will draw over-time for all wages over 42 hours. This should have some effect on spreading the work among a larger number of workers. But where that would entail more equipment, employers are likely to find it cheaper to pay the overtime.

At any rate, it is another step toward a goal, all too ineffective, which was really set in the days of the NRA.

How To Be Up-to-Date

The press is a most powerful weapon in the hands of those who know how to use it and keep it bright. Every working man should make it his duty to subscribe for his local labor paper—the one written in the special interest of union labor and for local information about the doings of labor in his own city. Furthermore, union members should be informed on all topics, which concern the interests of the toilers.

The labor movement has far higher questions to solve than those which are presented to our views in the daily controlled press by anti-union interests. To be up to date and to become enabled to understand his position as a working man he should read papers written for his interest.—Bakers' Journal.

Good for You, Judge Davies

We were delighted to read of the outcome of a violation of the Wage-and-Hour law charge against a manufacturer in Sparta, Tennessee. A clothing firm in that small town was haled before U. S. District Judge Elmer Davies for a hearing. They were convicted last week.

And look what Judge Davies did to them! He gave them a six thousand dollar fine and ordered back pay restored to the workers. Twenty-seven other counts with suspended fines were also tacked on in case the company in the future stepped from the narrow path of law observance.

We applaud Judge Davies. If a few more judges would sock wage-hour law violators in the South with such vigor, we think that a good lesson would be learned by other employers who insist on a "right" to pay workers starvation wages.

Armistice Day

Saturday, Nov. 11, we will be observing Armistice day in memory of our soldiers that fought and gave their lives in the World war.

War is a terrible thing to think about with its accompanying permanent disabilities and deaths, but wars cannot compare with accidents when we are considering lives lost due to accidents and permanent disabilities due to them.

Below are some figures that show us some very interesting and appalling facts about accidents, and when we consider that at least 90 per cent of these accidents were preventable we find a lot of food for thought.

During the World war, 50,510 American soldiers were killed in battle and died of wounds in the eighteen months the United States was engaged in the war.

During 1938 (a twelve-month period) in the United States 94,000 people lost their lives due to accidents.

The most important wars that the United States has engaged in during its history are: Revolutionary war, War of 1812, war with Mexico, Civil war (both Union and Confederate forces), war with Spain, and the World war.

During the twenty-six years from 1913 to 1938 there were 2,324,000 lives lost due to accidents.

So while we are thinking about our boys that sacrificed their lives in the World war, let us resolve that we will each do our part to stop this needless killing of people due to accidents. Let's not leave the job of preventing accidents to some organization, but let's all cooperate with any and all agencies so that we will prevent at least a large number of accidents in the future.

Remember, ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS THE PRICE OF SAFETY.

"It will not be sufficient for us ...insulate our republic from the war in Europe. That alone will not bring real contentment and security to our citizens. A home-building program for every city in the United States where slums exist and proper housing is the need, should be our ambition.

"A program of this character pays dividends in improved morale, better health, less crime, and studier citizenship.

"On the material side, it might be recalled that our housing program provides markets for material manufacturing, profits for contractors, and earnings for our unemployed.

"Aesthetically, it removed the ugly scenes of blighted areas and replaced them with the beauties and the wholesomeness of the modern home wheever it has been undertaken.

Program Pays Dividends

"A housing program is not all a costly venture, for it not only pays dividends in the higher qualities of citizenship, but it liquidates its costs in the rentals, the taxes and the relief savings which are its direct results.

"The housing authorization which failed in the last regular session of Congress should be taken out early in the next session and approved by both houses, as expeditiously as possible so that this splendid program might be carried forward."

Two Assessments Imposed On UMWA Membership

Washington.—The United Mine Workers of America (CIO) announces its executive board had levied two $1 special assessments on its membership. The assessments are expected to yield approximately $800,000.

Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy said the bituminous miners would be assessed in December and January, and anthracite workers would be assessed in January and February.

The union indicated that some of the $800,000 anticipated yield may be for political efforts in the 1940 campaign.

"The year 1940 will be crucial for labor, not only in economic matters, but also with respect to social security and labor legislation," the UMWA announcement said. "It is now evident that the groundwork is being laid for repressive, anti-labor, anti-social legislation. Our organization must be in a position to meet every issue and to challenge every adversary."

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

»»»» Marie Jones, Correspondent ««««

Oh—er—pardon me, folks! I just dropped in, but I guess I'll stick around awhile. You know this column has four lines around it and there seems to be no exit, so here's yours truly for the time being. Just draw up your chairs and let's get acquainted.

We had a good meeting Tuesday night. You should have been there. Erskine Mabee was elected to act as our business agent temporarily with Mrs. Beulah Ogle, the financial secretary, as his assistant.

Miss Louise Johnson at Smith's has been ill. We are glad to see her out again and hope to see her back to work soon.

Taylor Hartman has deserted us for a while for the dry cleaning business.

Our former correspondent and business agent, Louise Tinker, resigned to take a better position in Alabama as organizer. We wish her luck in her new undertaking.

Uh—Oh—I am just dying to tell you a secret. But this is all I will tell. There is to be a wedding in the Culinary Workers. Don't tell anybody that I told you and I'll try to tell you all about it next week. Until then . . . Cherrio!

No Shortage of Skilled Mechanics For National War Emergency Work, Machinists Union Declares

Washington, D. C.—The International Association of Machinists has transmitted a letter to the secretaries of war and navy denying "increasing numbers of statements that war emergency work is handicapped by lack of skilled workmen." Declaring that any difficulties in "bringing the man and the job together" is due to "failure of the machinery" for this purpose, the association offers to place at the disposal of the departments "every facility we possess in order that the facts may be ascertained and speedy efforts for the remedy of the situation may be put into motion."

Waiting Lists Not Used

"Evidence from our records indicates that there is now no shortage of trained mechanics," Emmett Davison, secretary-treasurer of the association, said. "At the present time, there are approximately 20,000 machinists, members of this union, out of employment."

It is also stated that there are waiting lists at navy yards of qualified mechanics, but that these lists are not being used. On the other hand, men are "being hired through the haphazard method known as over-the-counter." In some cases, at least, this is said to be due to an effort to induce first class machinists to accept "employment at lower ratings."

The alleged lack of "tool and die makers and similarly highly-trained specialists" arises in part from the fact, Davison says, that "large numbers in the very prime of their skill and efficiency have been refused employment merely because they had reached 40 years of age."

In offering all the facilities of the association to the task of recruiting the necessary trained mechanics, Davison declares that an opportunity for great service is afforded and that the union's ability to speedily reach every member "provides the best facilities through which contact may be established" and that the union records will also provide facts as to the "individual training, experience and availability."

Govt. Waterways Corporation Signs Pay Pacts With Three Unions

Washington, D. C.—The Commerce Department announces that the government's Inland Waterways corporation has signed wage increase agreements with three unions.

The pay increases, which total $20,000, will go not only to union members employed by the corporation, but to all employes.

The wage agreements were signed with the International Longshoremen's Association, the inland boatmen's division of the National Marine Union and the National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association. The contracts are retroactive to May 17, 1939, and will run for one year.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson approved the corporation's board of managers' recommendation that the same additional pay be provided to all employes of the corporation not covered by the union agreements.

Women: "Build-Up" To Relieve Pain

A weak, run-down, undernourished condition calls for attention!

Such a condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get its foothold. That's one thing which leads to much of women's suffering from headaches, nervousness, those cramp-like pains. A good way to relieve such pains, women by thousands have found, is by the proper use of CARDUI. It stimulates a lagging appetite, assists digestion and assimilation; thus helps build physical resistance to periodic pain. Taken just before and during "the time," many women also report that CARDUI helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

Union members and their friends can give a big impetus to union organization and union conditions by doing one thing when they buy Christmas presents.

That one thing, of course, is to "buy union." Which means demanding the union label on everything they buy and by insisting on being served by union men and women.

"Buy union" may mean some slight inconvenience, in a few cases. It may be a little hard to find certain things bearing the union emblem, but in most cases there will be no difficulty.

Anyway, suppose there is? Are union members to be turned from their purpose by a little difficulty? If they had been in the past, there would be no labor movement in America today.

Just a little thought will reveal some of the ways in which Christmas "buying union" will boost organized labor. It will increase employment of union men and women by increasing sales of union goods and services. Increased employment of union members will enlarge union membership and fatten union treasuries.

"Buy union" will strengthen the position of organized workers in negotiating with their employers.

If employers are benefiting substantially from the sale of union label goods, they can hardly refuse to look with favor on requests for higher pay and improved working conditions.

Higher pay anywhere increases the national purchasing power and helps employment.

"Buying union" will make manufacturers more disposed toward unionization of their working forces and will lead to more unionized plants and service establishments.

These desirable results, and others, are promoted by union label buying any time, but union label buying for the holiday season is especially effective, because of its great volume.

Perhaps the saddest [illegible] thinking will [illegible] very well but it's [illegible] to think of getting [illegible] promises.

[illegible] Now is the time to [illegible] and buy union [illegible] on the counters. [illegible] the early bidder on the [illegible] gets the best of [illegible] at the lowest prices. [illegible] we can pay wages [illegible] prices of goods that are [illegible] and have not been produced [illegible] by [illegible] labor.

And [illegible] is to help [illegible] who are union [illegible] and who [illegible] Christmas. When [illegible] shopping, put the [illegible] in mind that [illegible]

Now, as people [illegible] with [illegible] business [illegible] [illegible] to some legal [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] out of work [illegible] to strike [illegible] any [illegible]. But the great body of [illegible] can help [illegible] a lot, get their Christmas goods [illegible].

Business and industrial improvement of the past two or three months is putting money to work, adding to the army of labor unions. Unionized shoppers [illegible] this army of labor augments [illegible] their friends, [illegible] how to demand union [illegible] on goods, [illegible] immediate response [illegible] seem to be apparent.

Let's make it a "Merry Union Label Christmas," says I. M. Ornburn, of the A. F. of L. Union Label Trades Department.

Widespread and consistent union label buying would make Christmas 1939, truly a Merry Christmas for all organized labor.

...w Motion Picture Smashing Wallop ... Corruption and Strengthener of ...ir Play in American Democracy

...Y CHESTER M. WRIGHT

...shington, D. C.—I have just ... the motion picture, "Mr. ...h Goes to Washington."

...oosting motion pictures isn't ...usiness or any part of it.

...t boosting sound, decent, clean ...ciples and supporting democracy is my business, just as it is the business of every American today.

This picture does that and it does a better job than anything else I know of in recent times.

The National Press club, in Washington, sponsored the national premiers of the picture.

It is the story of a young man, unskilled in politics, and particularly unskilled in discovering dirty tricks, who was appointed to the United States Senate by a fluke of politics.

Strikes Out at Bossdom

This young man, Jefferson Smith, a crusader for decent opportunities for boys in his home state, is broken over the barrel by the state boss and his subservient senior senator, until, all ready to quit, he starts a fight back that is a bird and a beauty. He smashes right and left and the wallops he lands on bossdom, servile politicos and a kept press and scared radio will bring delight to every heart that hasn't got a black spot in it somewhere.

Because of the fact that the rookie senator looks with reverence upon the nation's capital dome, with awe at the statue of Lincoln, with a patriotic fever at the seat where Daniel Webster sat in the Senate and which the rookie now occupies.

Good Picture to See

But what the harpies do to this clean youngster—until he finds out about their fiendish ways. And how they struggle to maintain their hold after he begins his amazing and dramatic battle.

It is something to see!

While the dictators wage their war, this is a healthy picture for Americans to see. It doesn't touch the war—it just shows how dirty mean and greedy men can be and it brings to life the nobility of the principles of American freedom.

Makes Americanism Live

It brings them to life and fits them into the every day scheme of things, so that it becomes so very clear that they are not just made for Sundays and holidays such as Fourth of July.

The great film smashes not only at dirt in political life—it takes its purifying wallop at dirt and meanness and corruption and treachery WHEREVER it is.

It should be a swell purge for a lot of men who are not in politics at all.

The picture probably will be an Academy Award winner and a great money-maker. It is too bad that it can't be shown to every American free, just because it is what is so sadly needed.

Revives Faith in Democracy

I think no crook could sit through it; I think no coward could stand it; I think no wielder of the smear could look at himself in a mirror afterward without seeing something behind the reflection; I think it is a picture just that powerful and good.

I think those who still cling to idealism, to a belief in human decency, to a full and complete faith in democracy, with find themselves stronger—and feeling a little surer that their faith is right and that somehow there is a vindication for those who do not abandon their faith. See this picture.

Garment Workers Appeal Ruling in Donnelly Case

St. Louis.—Counsel for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has filed an appeal in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals from a court order of U. S. District Judge Andrew Miller forbidding them from interfering with the company union of the Donnelly Garment company, or its customers.

The file contained a 3,630-page record of proceedings in the case, which has been in the courts since July 5, 1937.

The Donnelly company, a Kansas City dress making concern, obtained a temporary restraining order against the union in 1937, in the court of U. S. District Judge Merril E. Otis in Kansas City. The union carried its appeal to the supreme court, which refused to consider it on grounds of no jurisdiction.

In June, 1938, Judge Caskie Collet granted a motion to reopen the case, then disqualified himself. Judge Miller, of North Dakota, handed down a permanent restraining order early this year.

It was this order which has just been appealed to the circuit court of appeals.

«QUOTES»

CIVIL LIBERTY IS VITAL

If, in the atmosphere of war, we allow civil liberty to slip away from us, it may not be long before our recent great gains in social and economic justice will also have vanished. For a nation that is calloused in its attitude toward civil rights is not likely to be sensitive toward the many grave problems that affect the dignity and security of its citizens. . . .
—Attorney General Frank Murphy.

FREE—BUT NOT CLEARED

Nearly 10 months after Tom Mooney's pardon a majority of the California supreme court has consented to let Gov. Olson commute the life sentence of Warren K. Billings. Welcoming this belated action, we regret that the court did not recommend an unconditional pardon for Billings. If Mooney is innocent of the San Francisco parade bombing, and of that we have long been convinced, so is Billings. They were convicted by the same testimony, since exposed as sordid perjury. Both are equally entitled to have their records cleared of that charge.—Washington Daily News.

KEEP BILL OF RIGHTS!

The Bill of Rights is a fighting ground for the preservation of American liberty in the present emergency and in the threatened war. . . . We can get and keep justice only if we keep the Bill of Rights. If we save the Bill of Rights, we can rewrite the Constitution if necessary and get justice, but if we save the Constitution and lose the Bill of Rights—God help the country!—William Allen White.

Cecil Custer Quits As A. F. G. E. Head

Washington, D. C.—Cecil E. Custer, chief of the budget and planning division of the Civil Service Commission, resigned as president of the American Federation of Government Employes. Mr. Custer, elected president at the Atlantic City convention of the federation a few weeks ago, said he was forced to resign because of ill health.

Trenton, N. J.—Officials of the New Jersey Labor Department estimated that at least 100,000 working men and women in the state gained benefits from the increase in minimum hourly wage rates to 30 cents and the reduction in the length of the work week to 42 hours which went into effect Oct. 24 under the Federal Wage and Hour Act.

The reason why so few marriages are happy is because young ladies spend their time making nets, not in making cages.—Swift.

$55,000,000,000 Posted In Wages Under Social Security Act

Washington, D. C.—The Social Security Board announces it has recorded wages totaling $55,000,000,000 paid since Jan. 1, 1937, to commercial and industrial workers covered by the old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act. The board stated these wages would be used in determining the size of the monthly checks which will be sent to beneficiaries. Under the law benefit payments start in 1940.

The board explained that this total represented more than 238,000,000 pay-roll items reported by employers — 74,000,000 in 1937; 114,000,000 in 1938, and approximately 50,000,000 in the first half of the present year. Estimates place the total for 1939 at approximately that for the preceding year.

Wisdom

The critics of democracy have the easiest of tasks in demonstrating its inefficiency. But there is something even more important than efficiency and expediency, namely, justice. And democracy is the only social order that is admissible, because it is the only one consistent with justice. The moral consideration is supreme—Robert Briffault.

Paper Makers Local 362

By HARRY BEDOIT

Well, folks, it's time for another big broadcast from Papermakers No. 362.

Our sick list has dwindled down to Brother Lew Hostetter, who is ill with pneumonia. Hurry and get well, Lew, the Old Men's Sewing circle is missing you.

Brother Si Perkins wants me to correct what I reported in the last issue. He said that he didn't drop the weight on his foot. He just stuck his foot out and the weight fell on it.

We are sorry to report that Brother O. R. Fitch lost his little son, O. R. Junior.

During the lunch hour the other day the following discussion was heard: Lem Holiday, Tom Heard and several other of the colored gentry were discussing the financial condition of the country. "Youse all wrong, Tom," said Lem. "Dey is no money shortage. I asked my bankuh is he out of money, and he took me in de vault and showed me piles and piles of money. And I says, 'Could you let me have a little?' and he says 'Sho could. Has I any collatrul?' Ah hasn't. Now dat's what's the mattuh wid dis country. Dey is plenty of money but we's just running short on collatrul."

Just found out what made Leland Heard and Will Berry late for the graveyard shift this week. As they were coming to work they cut through the field behind the barns and a mule stuck its head out and hee-hawed at them. When they stopped running they were out in the suburbs of Pudville.

Speaking of Pudville, the mayor, Freddie Campbell, was telling Commodore Rance Cox was still wet (behind the ears).

The Travis boys were eating in the Greasy Spoon one of the coldest days of the season. D. Lawson came in and left the door open. Tunk Travis balled out, "Shut the door. You must have been raised in a barn." As D is a sensitive soul this seemed to hurt his feelings. As Tunk Travis went out he said to D.: "I didn't mean anything." O. said, "It is alright. It always makes me homesick when I hear a jackass bray."

One of the new members asked, "What kind of a fellow is this Buck Lawson?" "Oh, he's alright," says Fibber McGee. "He's the sort of a fellow who tells you that something left him speechless and talks about it an hour and a half."

Believe it or not, but Brother Jake Smith and his boys laid off the other day to cut some okra stalks as they were out of wood. Okra sure grows big on Jake's farm.

As it is near the end of the year and next month is nomination and election of officers, it would be well to be studying who would be best suited for the job of carrying on the work.

As Saturday night is meeting night, I'll be seeing you.

Mail Early, Farley Urges

Washington, D. C.—Postmaster General James A. Farley has appealed to the public to mail Christmas packages early so that all postal employes who can be spared may spend Christmas day with their families.

He said Christmas day work would be voluntary for regular employes or classified substitutes. Regular employes, he said, have the option of receiving either overtime pay or compensatory time for Christmas work.

CITY ACCEPTS GIFT OF PROBASCO PARK

Proposed Park Improved by WPA Will Be Operated By City Without Reservation

At Tuesday's commission meeting the city of Chattanooga was offered a fine gift of a park between the Battery Place and Tennessee river by the American Legion. The land for the park was donated by Mr. Scott Probasco, himself a legionnaire, to the American Legion. Value of the land has been set at $30,000, since it has been stated Mr. Probasco refused to accept an offer made to him for that price.

The American Legion is to add $24,000 to a WPA grant of $41,000. The city will sponsor the project and will be the sole owners and managers of the recreation center after completion.

The American Legion is to be congratulated for this fine piece of civic enterprise.

LOCAL LINEMAN KILLED IN PLUNGE FROM POLE AT TROY LAST THURSDAY

Earl L. DeWeese Knocked from Troy (Ohio) Municipal Light Pole to Death by 4,000 Volt Shock

Plunging 40 feet to the sidewalk from atop a utility pole after coming in contact with a high tension wire carrying 4,000 volts at Troy, Ohio, last Thursday afternoon, Earl L. DeWeese, 31, lineman, member of Chattanooga Local 846, was instantly killed.

He had been employed by the Troy municipal light and power plant for the past six months. He had just completed three connections on a power line, assisted by a fellow worker, who had descended the pole. DeWeese lowered his tools and started down when his hand contacted the "hot" line. The shock knocked him off the cross-arms and his body turned over in the air to strike head first on the concrete.

Earl Louis DeWeese was a native of Sidney, Ohio, born to Mr. and Mrs. Lon DeWeese on May 2, 1908. He leaves a widow.

Interment took place in Troy last Saturday.

Life Insurance Agents Held Entitled To Out of Work Benefits in Colorado

Denver.—The Colorado supreme court has ruled that life insurance companies must make payments into the state unemployment compensation fund to protect their agents against loss of their jobs.

The ruling was made in a test suit filed by the Equitable Life Insurance company of Iowa.

The high court upheld a Denver district court decision. It ruled that life insurance agents are "servants" and not independent contractors under the act, since agents must comply with all general and special instructions issued by their company."

Major life insurance firms had refused to pay on the grounds their agents in various states are independent operators.

The agreement covers 48 workers employed by the company at its two shops at Forty-first and Fifty-first streets.

Trustee Is Asked to Enforce Poll Tax Collection Statute

Central Body last Monday evening appointed a committee of three to confer with County Trustee Joe Richardson with an offer to assist him, if desirable, in an effort to perfect a complete collection of poll taxes from every available citizen in the county. The receipts from the poll tax are supposed to go toward the upkeep of our school systems. It is evident that a small percentage of poll tax payers have been reached. The law requires that everyone between the ages of 21 and 50 must pay such a tax.

Organized labor has consistently opposed the use of the poll tax as a prerequite for voting. However, since it is the law now, labor insists that every person should pay it until such time as the voting qualification is removed.

The resolution in full follows:

Whereas, in the past several years there has been a growing sentiment for the removal of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting; and,

Whereas, those in favor of retaining the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting have used as their primary argument that the poll tax is necessary to provide funds for maintaining a good public school system; and,

Whereas, it is generally understood and agreed that for political reasons there has never been a sincere and genuine attempt to collect the poll tax from those who are liable for its payment; and,

Whereas, the failure to collect said tax works to disfranchise many intelligent voters to the satisfaction of political leaders whose power depends on a small vote; and,

Whereas, it is the sworn duty of the county trustee to make a sincere effort to effect collection of said poll tax; and,

Whereas, the public school system of both the city and county are greatly in need of additional revenue at this time; and,

Whereas, a complete collection of the poll tax would raise the revenues from this source $50,000 or more per year above the present totals, which money could be used to great advantage in our schools; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Central Labor Union of Chattanooga go on record as requesting the county trustee to make every effort to collect said poll tax from all citizens who are liable; and be it further

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to meet with the county trustee of Hamilton county, and ascertain from him the extent of his efforts during his term of office to collect said taxes, reporting back to the next regular meeting of this body.

You will remember that the New York Chamber of Commerce recently led a fight to reduce the cost of education. So many protests have come to them from teachers' organizations and individual educators that action on the proposed report of the chamber has been postponed for further study. The New York local of the A. F. T. are no slouches when it comes to a real fight with the foes of public education.

The Georgia Association of School Administrators yesterday called for an extra session of the general assembly to consider nothing but the problem of school finances after Hughes Spalding, Atlanta attorney and former chairman of the board of regents, called them "suckers" for "taking it on the chin" as long as they are without adequate support for schools.

Spalding told the delegates that the common school system of Georgia will never get the support it deserves until teachers organized themselves into a body powerful enough to make state legislators "jump instead of laugh" when they yell for help.

Empty Promises.

"As long as I can remember, candidates for office have courted the school group; have promised them everything and given them practically nothing," the attorney said. "Teachers may not know it, and they may not realize it, but they have been what people in the business world call suckers. They have taken this condition supinely.

"Teachers are professional people, highly educated and cultured,

Tennessee Stove Firms Continue On Unfair List

Unfair employment conditions continue to exist in the plants of Phillips & Buttorf Manufacturing company, Nashville, and the Dixie Stove company, of Cleveland, Tenn. Organized labor and their friends are being advised by the Stove Mounters and Porcelain Enamelers union.

Both firms have been placed on the unfair list of Local No. 80, Nashville, and Local No. 12, Cleveland, and in a recent communication from Chester Dixon, secretary of the latter local, unionists and their friends are urged to communicate with both companies and request that the unfair conditions be terminated.

A supporting paragraph of Dixon's letter, signed by A. E. Johnson, union label director of the international union, Belleville, Ill., calls attention to the fact that the Loyal Knight Stoker, manufactured by the Original Stove company, of Belleville, is union made and bears the label of the Stove Mounters' union.

Chamber of Commerce Head Scores Organized Business for Failure To Improve Labor Relations

Chicago.—Vigorous denunciation of the failure of business to act tions by O. W. Otto, manager of and improve its own labor rela- the Lansing, Mich., Chamber of Commerce, featured the 25th annual convention of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, held here.

This failure, said Otto, had given radical labor leaders every opportunity to capitalize upon a bad situation.

"Labor Here to Stay."

"If the policies and thinking of chambers of commerce had been sufficiently advanced it would have been more difficult to incite costly strikes which have paralyzed business, created bitter feeling and deprived employes of needed payrolls," Otto told representatives of more than 400 cities and all of the forty-eight states who attended the convention, adding:

"Labor has the same right to organize as has business. Labor is here to stay. Yet we find chambers of commerce that never paid any attention to labor organizations until the Wagner labor relations act became the law or until a serious threat affected one of its prominent members."

Paternalism Held Invited.

Too many business groups actually invited government interference and paternalism by asking the government for help in a situation which they could have handled, Otto declared. Government, he said, would not have so many encroachments into the field of agriculture, banking, transportation, education and even retailing and wholesaling if business had kept in step with the times.

Otto also criticized business' attitude on taxation and spending, saying:

"Too often chambers of commerce are inconsistent. They ask for a $1,000,000 WPA project in one letter and in the next breath dictate a fervent appeal to their congressmen asking that taxes be reduced."

Highest New Jersey Court Kills Four Injunctions Prohibiting Union Labor From Picketing

Trenton, N. J.—[illegible] temporary [illegible] issued by Vice-Chancellor Maja Leon Berry prevent picketing and other strike activities [illegible] ruled void by the court of errors and appeals, New Jersey's highest court.

The appellate court ruled that the writs [illegible] issued without sufficient proof of need and made no reference to the remedies afforded by the [illegible] law, which has been construed by New Jersey [illegible] the many of its labor decisions.

Basis of Berry's Decisions

In the case of the Urban Printing company, of Newark, the vice-chancellor had restrained the Cooks and Assistants union of the A. F. of L. from picketing on the ground such demonstrations were illegal when directed against a small business by a large union. In such instances, he added, "the inequality of bargaining power from which evolved the principle of collective bargaining is completely reversed and the employer is at the mercy of the union."

When the vice-chancellor enjoined the United Retail Employes of Newark from picketing the Red Cross shoe store at 103 Halsey street, Newark, he declared that picketing was illegal there because the strikers' jobs had been filled and the business was operating normally.

"Proof Must Be Clear."

In reversing Vice-Chancellor Berry in these and two other cases the court of errors and appeals asserted that proof for temporary injunctions must be "clear and convincing" even though they were necessarily granted in "haste."

"The charges must also be precise and particular," the court added, "and must themselves carry conviction. Upon the entire showing we are left unconvinced of the reasonable probability of complainant's contention."

Only One Real Union Label In Printing Trades

To Whom it May Concern:

It is the opinion of Chattanooga Allied Printing Trades Council that only bona fide union printing plants should be given preference in letting contracts for printed matter that bears the Allied Printing Trades Union Label, inasmuch as this label is the only printing trades label recognized by the American Federation of Labor.

Moreover, lithograph labels are not recognized by the American Federation of Labor or the Chattanooga Allied Printing Trades Council and any lithographer attempting to use the Allied Printing Trades union label is likely to embarrass his customer and, in some cases, subject himself to prosecution for illegal use of the label.

This statement ordered by Chattanooga Allied Printing Trades Council at its Nov. 9 meeting.

Are We Americans?

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

It is assumed by many Americans that the major problem facing the United States today is its possible relationship to the countries in Europe. Actually its most serious problem is whether we are a "United States," or whether we believe our chief interests are determined solely by our geographical position as states.

In certain sections of our country there is a feeling that because these areas appear to be safe in case of foreign invasion by battleships and airplanes, and because they are self-sufficient in the matter of food supplies, they need not be concerned by what happens to the rest of the country.

Some Americans are indifferent to the perils of war because they do not happen to live near the Atlantic or Pacific coast. But does anyone imagine that if the coast cities of our country were devastated by a foreign foe it would not affect the interests of the entire country?

Americans in such areas need to consider what the inventive genius in other lands may produce which will make possible the invasion of the areas in the United States which now regard themselves as altogether immune from possible attack because they are distantly removed from the coast.

However, it should be remembered that war may be waged against our country not only through the use of battleships and airplanes employed by a foreign enemy. Wars are waged through enemy propaganda—through the development of political differences, religious prejudices, class hatred, racial bitterness, industrial conflict and many other weapons which cunning enemies of democracy may devise and which they may organize and manufacture through their agents in America. It is against such perils that we need to be safeguarded.

More important than anything else is the necessity for the people of the United States to make up their minds what they really believe in as Americans, and to resolve that there are certain things for which they will unitedly stand. This would do more to prevent the entrance of the United States into this or any future war than would be accomplished by the building of battleships or airplanes. This "United Front" would make America unconquerable because the nations across the sea which may become our enemies would fear such a united American spirit more than they fear any other form of "Preparedness."

"Wan minute, Pat," said Biddy, softly. "Ye've set me thinkin'."

British Labor Wins Concessions

Trade union vigilance, not less essential in war time than in peace, secured important modifications in a war time measure by which the minister of labor proposed to assume dictatorial powers for the control of employment.

Under the control of employment act the minister may make orders which, unless the application of them were properly controlled, might operate to keep down wage standards.

The act empowers the minister to prohibit the advertising of vacancies by employers, except with his consent, and makes it compulsory for employers, in general, to engage workpeople through employment exchanges.

After an order is made, employers to whom it applies may not, without the consent of the minister, engage or re-engage any employe to whom the order applies.

Valuable Concessions Granted

Consultations between the ministry and the Trades Union Congress resulted in valuable concessions by the ministry.

First, it was agreed that existing trade union machinery, by which trade unions and employers co-operate in the placing of men in jobs directly will continue to operate. It will probably, in fact, be extended.

Secondly, the act now provides for a joint committee of employers and trade unions, under an independent chairman appointed by the ministry, to examine the terms of orders framed under the act.

The report of the committee will be put before parliament with the draft order.

In the words of the minister himself, the trade unions, on behalf of organized labor, have been given "a statutory right" to be consulted.

Right of Appeal Won

In the third place, workers are to have a right of appeal in the event of the minister withholding consent to engagement or re-engagement by an employer.

Such appeals will be put before the Courts of Referees which function under the Unemployment Insurance acts. It is provided that the minister shall not refuse his consent unless he is satisfied that an opportunity of suitable employment is available.

Compensation will be payable to any worker in the event of successful appeal against a decision of the minister.

The concessions secured by the Trades Union Congress indicate not only the value of trade union vigilance in difficult times, but the importance attached by the government to trade union co-operation in the war effort.

Steel Workers Close Plant at Johnson City

Johnson City.—Local 542, Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, came out on strike at the Johnson City Foundry and Machine company Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 8:05 a.m. The plant is completely closed down, with ten carloads of their steel tied up in Washington, D. C. Members of Local 542 are asking for a closed shop, classification of workers and increase in wages. Stanley Rounds, international representative of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, is in charge of the strike.

Mr. Rounds was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Central Labor union meeting, Friday night, Nov. 10. The Central Labor union pledged its financial and moral support to the steel workers. The meeting was also addressed by J. G. Pollard, international representative of the United Textile Workers, who is stationed at Elizabethton, Tenn., where organization work at the North American Rayon corporation and American Bemberg corporation is progressing fine, and the labor board has been petitioned for an election between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

President Long reported that two representatives of the wage and hour division of the department of labor from Nashville had spent the past three weeks in Johnson City, checking the Gloria Rayon corporation, who have been running a regular school, instead of paying wages and overtime according to law. Charges against this company were filed by the Central Labor union. The Gloria Rayon corporation works 400 or more employes, and is owned by the Burlington mills from North Carolina, who operate mills in several states.

The Johnson City Typographical union, No. 736, signed a three-year contract with the Press, Inc., local daily paper.

National Defense Program

We need, of course, to look to our national defense program. And we should include in such a defense program not only more airports and better roads, but also better health for our population, better housing for our low-income groups, the elimination of illiteracy and better education for all. A stable economy, good health and a contented people are important in terms of national defense.—Col. F. C. Harrington, Work projects Commissioner.

State Labor Heads Give Active Aid In National Fight to Expand Housing Authority Program

Washington.—Officials of the Pennsylvania labor movement took an active part in the recent conference of the Pennsylvania Association of Housing Authorities held in Pittsburgh.

James McDevitt, president of the State Federation of Labor, and a member of the Philadelphia Housing Authority, participated in the session on "Planning and Construction of Public Housing," a subject of utmost importance to organized labor. McDevitt took vigorous exception to some of the construction methods used on USHA-aided projects, and insisted that many of the new homes would be "nothing but concrete boxes." McDevitt declared that there has been oversimplification in planning some of the new developments.

A. F. of L. Supports USHA.

Edward Leonard, secretary of the Building Trades Council of Pittsburgh, a member of city council, and chairman of the Allegheny County Housing Authority, was chairman of this round-table session, one of five on various phases of public housing.

Throughout Pennsylvania, the A. F. of L. is actively supporting and working for an expanded United States Housing Authority program, which will be possible only if the house of representatives passes S. 591. This bill has already been passed by the senate, but in the closing days of the last session, a coalition of reactionary republicans and democrats blocked consideration of the bill. However, S. 591 is not dead. It will be on the house calendar for early consideration at the coming regular session of congress.

Indiana Labor in Line.

A similar conference held in Indianapolis, Ind., received the active support of the Indiana State Federation of Labor. Adolph Fritz, secretary-treasurer of the state federation, and one of the leaders in the fight for low-rental housing projects in Indianapolis, addressed an official letter to union leaders throughout the state urging their attendance at this conference and calling attention to the great need for decent low-rental housing for workers' families in Indiana.

Through the efforts of Secretary Fritz, a resolution indorsing and pledging support to the USHA program was introduced and passed at the convention of the Indiana State Federation of Labor held recently in Gary, Ind.

Democracy Essential to Labor

To the few who have the opportunity for special privilege, democracy does not seem so essential, but to the great mass of wage-earners and salaried persons, democracy is essential to justice, progress and satisfaction in living. Democracy is essential to a free labor movement and a free labor movement is essential to democracy.—American Federationist for November.

Can We Put Them to Work?

The European war is the greatest tragedy in the world. But we also have 10,000,000 unemployed. The world needs a demonstration that a free people can solve the economic disorders so that these 10,000,000 of our people can have productive jobs.—Herbert Hoover.

Building Lasting Prosperity

We have not learned our lesson well if we do not know that when a government embarks on a huge armament program with its inevitable war boom, there can be no arresting it; turning back would complete internal collapse of its whole false economic structure. A lasting prosperity for this country, built through expenditures for public works and housin gis the only answer, not excessive armament which bitter experience has taught us is a ghastly mistake.—National Council for Prevention of War.

...eral Court Halts Enforcement ...Textile Pay Increase Under ...r Labor Standards Act

...Orleans.—Judge Rufus E. ... senior jurist of the U. S. ...rcuit Court of Appeals, has ...an order staying enforce... ...f a wage increase ordered ...24 in the textile industry ...wage-hour administration.

...-hour officials said the stay ...plicable only to three firms ...posted the required $10,000 ...They said the 32½-cent ...e set by law would be en... ...in all other plants.

...it, scheduled to be heard ...ring the first week in De..., was brought by a commit... ...presenting approximately 300 ...ills, mostly in Mississippi, ...a, Texas and Georgia.

Challenging constitutionality of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the suit specifically opposes a two-and-a-half-cent an hour increase in the textile industry above the 30-cent-an-hour minimum wage scale which went into effect Oct. 24 in other industries.

In addition to attacking the wage-hour law's constitutionality the petitioner charges that the 32½-cent-an-hour minimum for all textile mills in the United States was discriminating against southern mill owners because of the alleged lower living conditions here.

The mill owners further contend that freight rates from the south into the north are higher than those from north to south and that allowance should be made in wages in order that southern goods might compete with those manufactured in New England states.

Paid Vacations Won By Milwaukee Bakers

Milwaukee, Wis.—Joseph Alberti, business representative of Local No. 244 of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, announced that the union had signed amendments to its contract with the National Biscuit company here under which about eighty-five of the concern's one hundred employes will get two weeks' vacation with pay.

It was explained by Mr. Alberti that the vacations with pay clause of the new agreement is applied to employes who have been with the company for five years continuously or longer. Those with one year or more of continuous service will be granted vacations of one week.

The renewed agreement also includes the all-union provision which the company signed a year ago.

R. R. INDUSTRY COMMITTEE

Washington.—Appointment of an industry committee of twelve members, headed by Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, to recommend a minimum wage for the railroad industry has been announced by the wage and hour division of the department of labor.

CEMENT DUSTERS ... by Dusty

The Southeastern Council of United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers has been called to meet in a special session Nov. 25, 1939, at Hotel Bankhead, Birmingham, Ala.

This special convention was called to consider many things that have come up in the transfer from direct affiliation with the American Federation of Labor to affiliation with the Cement. Lime and Gypsum Workers' International union, and not the least among these is the establishing of an office in this district for the Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers, the disposition of the Richard City situation, and numerous other matters which will be brought before the convention. Brothers J. W Ashley and V. O. Cunningham have been chosen to represent Local Union No. 1 at this convention.

Brother Glenn Parson, recording secretary of Local No. 1, who was injured in a fall from a freight car at the plant of the Signal Mountain Portland Cement company, is getting along very good and improving at his home in Jones Station, and we hope it will not be so very long until he can get back to his old job again.

Pretty Boy Marshall had a little experience with the law recently, but all is well that ends well. However, watch your step, Pretty Boy.

And that is about all the news from out our way, except that our company is paying out some $160,000 in dividends this year, and we are wondering about a Christmas bonus, Huh.

"Yet," and he paused for a moment, "during the last fiscal year their scale of pay was less than that of WPA laborers. During that year they lost approximately three months pay by relying on the statements of politicians. They are headed in the same direction this year, and when the showdown comes, will probably go on teaching and lose four months' pay. Politicians seem to know they can treat them as they please."

"No Pay, No Work."

Spalding agreed with the suggestion of Mark Smith, of Thomaston, that if teachers are not paid, they should not work, and indorsed an editorial that appeared in the Columbus Ledger stating that a law should be passed making it a misdemeanor for a teacher to work without compensation.

JAIL NEGRO WPA WORKERS

New Orleans.—Twenty-nine negro workers employed on a night shift of the WPA have been arrested charged with obtaining unemployment relief while they were obtaining work from the WPA. The state of Louisiana pays an out-of-work benefit to those who cannot secure employment. The negroes concluded they were just as good as the white folks who were holding two and sometimes three jobs with the state and city governments. Their only mistake was that they were caught.

Suffering Women Welcome "Build-Up"

A simple method is saving many women much pain and discomfort! It is based on the knowledge that women's headaches, nervousness, and cramp-like pain often are symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to a weak, run-down, undernourished condition. That so many women find relief from these painful symptoms through the CARDUI "build-up" is easy to explain. By improving the appetite, assisting digestion and assimilation, CARDUI helps to build physical resistance against periodic pain. Thousands of women also report that CARDUI, taken just before and during "the time," helps to ease periodic pain.

By HARRY BEDOIT

As there were just a few members present at our last meeting, not much business was conducted. Anyone attending couldn't help but see the big improvement that was made in painting and repairing the hall.

It was decided that if the Black Gang (those angels with dirty faces) were to have their wiener roast and blowout, it would be up to Paul Lex. Now, Paul, do your stuff. If you fail us, we will know who wears the pants at your house.

It is strange what one can learn at the Greasy Spoon. Brother R. C. Brown, the proprietor, was accused of putting sand in the sugar, but when he attempted to sand the salt, there was a big howl raised, and there is a movement on foot to compel him to abide by the pure food laws.

Hear ye, hear ye, Brother McKissick will give to his best cash customer a peck of meal with each bushel of sweet potatoes.

Any one hearing of a man chasing a squirrel wouldn't be news, but if a squirrel chased a man that's some news. Brother Jack Floyd, Skunk Travis and Tex Wells went squirrel hunting last week. We don't know who shot the squirrel, but it was but slightly wounded and highly enraged, for it took out after Jack and chased him to a tall tree. Jack said the first limb to that tree was about 20 feet from the ground. He was asked if he made the limb on the first jump. He said that he didn't going up, but caught it coming down.

Another big argument was satisfactorily settled today. Brother Ed Vandergriff, Sr., and Cat Schnee were discussing the ham and egg election in California. Cat said he knew that it would fail, for they don't have pigs out there like his. Now if that happened in Tennessee, his pig alone would be big enough to supply the ham, and Brother George Durham could supply the eggs. (The reason Cat built the pig pen under his kitchen window was to keep the pig in.)

One wonders what Si Perkins' neighbors did to him. You should see the awful color he painted those garage doors.

Grandma Denten says that Shorty Floyd and John Coleman use so much coal oil under that boiler that you can taste it in the steam.

The latest news from Pudville was that the Major authorized the Commodore to go ahead and build a large navy. Charley McCroy was elected goat catcher.

Any of the brothers passing through town stop in and see Lew Hostetter. Lew is still on the sick list, and lives at 520 Pine street, Apartment No. 15.

Brother Arch Douglas was contemplating buying a new suit (of overalls). Be sure they are union made, Arch.

Calling all brothers. Keep your eye on Shorty Laymon. Keep him out of beer parlors. He might not be as lucky as Hitler.

"Mother, I never can marry Clarence." "Why, daughter?" "Well, he doesn't believe in hell." "Now, daughter, go right ahead. Between you and I, we will soon convince him." Just heard C. S. Kelly was married some time last week. Don't know the particulars, but will say more later. Looks like Clarence will have to set 'em up. How about it, C. S.?

Old man McKissick came to work Monday on a crutch. Says he got caught in a steel trap. Don't know whether it was chicken or meal his neighbors missing.

Miles Green is a big darkey and L. B. Hinds is a little darkey. L. B. says, "Green, you know if I was big and strong like you I would go back in the mountains and get me the biggest bear and tear him apart with my two hands." Green says, "L. B., don't you just reckon theys some little bears there too?" So brothers, don't let the strong and willing do all the labor there is to do in the labor movement. If you look around and want to do your bit you can find the small jobs that will lift the load so that the big boys can go ahead.

So long. Will be seeing you later.

Strike Hits Three Milwaukee Hotels

The hotels affected by the strike out were the Plankinton, one of Milwaukee's largest hostelries, Kilbourn, managed by the Plankinton interests, and the Wisconsin hotel.

Twenty-seven other Milwaukee hotels have signed the union agreement, but the three strike-bound hotels refused to agree to for the closed shop.

The members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' local on strike comprise clerks, switchboard operators, bell boys, porters and maids. Operating Engineers Union No. 311 and maintenance men belonging to the A. F. of L. building trades unions also are out.

American Federation of Labor Opens Nation-wide Campaign

Eight Hundred Cooperating Local Committees Cover All Industrial Communities, Green Declares; Collective Bargaining Is Emphasized; Sit-Down and Slow-Down Strikes Are Rejected; National Director of Organization Fenton Also Inaugurates Organizing Drive in the Textile Industry.

Washington. — The American Federation of Labor announced the inauguration of a new nationwide organization drive.

More than 800 local committees in every industrial community in the United States have been enlisted in the campaign, President William Green revealed.

These committees, named by the city central labor bodies affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, have been instructed to make a survey of all unorganized plants in their districts. Once this survey is completed, meetings of the workers will be called and trained organizers of the American Federation of Labor will be assigned to help them unionize.

"We are proceeding to organize the unorganized workers of the country on a practical and orderly basis," Mr. Green explained. "Our purpose is to organize, not to mobilize. Our method is to convince the unorganized workers that unionization and collective bargaining can bring them great benefits.

"Let me make this clear. We are confident that American workers are intelligent enough to realize that self-organization will promote their best interests. We will tell them the facts. But we will refrain from sensationalism and ballyhoo. Furthermore, the American Federation of Labor rejects sit-down strikes or slow-down strikes. We believe such organizing methods hurt the workers instead of helping them. It is our purpose to stabilize industry by collective bargaining, not to destroy it and destroy the jobs of our members by coercive and revolutionary tactics."

At the same time, Frank P. Fenton, national director of organization for the American Federation of Labor, announced a special organizing drive in the textile industry.

In a letter sent to all staff organizers of the federation, Mr. Fenton disclosed he has received reports of disaffection in textile unions affiliaed with the C. I. O. He wrote:

"Thousands of textile workers are now desirous of coming back to the United Textile Workers of America and the American Federation of Labor and we feel that with a concerted movement we can restore to this international union its former position and membership."

C. M. Fox, president of the United Textile Workers of America, announced that the union has succeeded in obtaining numerous pay increases for its membership in the last few months. He declared that the union's executive board had instructed all locals to negotiate for 20 per cent wage increases. This order affects the cotton, woolen, knit goods and other branches of the organization.

Members are asked to bring canned goods to help fill the Christmas basket which the auxiliary is planning for some needy family.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

There is no greater obstacle in the way of success in life than trusting for somethin, to turn up, instead of going to work and turning up something.

Regret that at the last report of this writer Brother Gerald Foley's condition remains still unimproved. Organized labor and all his friends hope for a speedy turn in events and to have him back shortly with us to carry on the good work he has done for all.

Our sympathy is extended to Brother A. A. Martin on the death of his brother.

Thanksgiving!

FOLEY IS IMPROVING

Mrs. Gerald Foley called The Labor World late Wednesday night with the good news that Gerald Foley has improved to such an extent that his physicians are predicting his recovery.

President Foley has been unconscious in a Nashville hospital for more than two weeks, but Mrs. Foley says he has regained consciousness, and like the scrapper he is, Gerald is battling back.

Regardless of whether you celebrate Thanksgiving this week or next, Nov. 23 should be a day of Thanksgiving in Tennessee's labor movement.

Cincinnati Firm Sued In Tips-As-Wages Case

Cincinnati, O.—Can a corporation interpret tips as wages, and thus indirectly avoid the provisions of the fair labor standards act of 1938?

This question was presented here in a suit filed by the United States government charging the Cincinnati Union Terminal company with failure to comply wih he wage and hour regulations of the act as they apply to porters—"red caps."

According to Harold D. Jacobs, acting administrator of the wage and hour division of the U. S. department of labor, the company, which operates Cincinnati's $41,000,000 terminal, was "trying to use tops as wages and coercing the 'red caps' in reporting tips in excess of the amount they received."

Bakery Union Wins Wage Increase in Wilmington

Wilmington, Del.—The Wilmington local of the International Bakery and Confectionery Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, recently negotiated an agreement with the Huber Baking company here which established the 40-hour week and granted 100 per cent increase in wages.

Contract Is Signed With Silver Fleet Local Teamsters

H. F. Blansit, business agent for Local 515, Teamsters, announced that Wednesday night a closed shop contract was signed with the Silver Fleet Motor Express. Some fifteen men are involved. They received pay raises, reduction in work-week, and seniority.

Blansit also said that Atlanta Business Agent J. T. Odom, Nashville Business F. L. Medlin and Nashville Secretary C. A. Anderson attended Local 515 meeting last Monday evening.

International Representative Joe Williams also met with the local boys and those from Atlanta and Nashville to discuss general conditions.

Negotiations are now in progress with other trucking companies.

LABEL LEAGUE PLANS PARTY

The Chattanooga Label league is planning an informal dance and get-together on Saturday night, Dec. 2. The dancing will begin about 9:30 in the I. L. G. W. hall, immediately after the bingo games are over. Admission for dancing is to be only 10 cents, so come prepared to stay and dance after the bingo players have finished.

All union members are invited to both the bingo and get-together.

TEACHER TALK

Having made a survey of teacher opinion concerning the proposed change in schedule of the Christmas vacation, the executive committee drafted a letter to the commissioner listing the following objections to the curtailment of the holidays:

1. We see no saving of money for fuel or lights as a result of continuing the schools for three days of a winter month (involving five days of heating) which will be taken off of a spring month.

2. A change in the announced schedule will disrupt the vacation plans of many teachers, parents, and students, as well as school programs.

3. Many students of the high schools will be working during this period, which will seriously affect attendance in these schools.

Don't forget our party on Saturday night!

Tickets for the Kaltenborn lecture are now available. A fellow-unionist in your school will have some for you. Of course you will want to come and bring the family and friends. Remember the date: Dec. 16.

John Lawson Improving

"Johnny" Lawson, member of Local 79, Brewery Workers, is recovering from a very serious attack of double pneumonia.

"Brother Lawson is able to sit up now," reports Erskine Fisher, "and we hope to have him back with us soon."

Movie Operators Resent Grabbing Of Their Jobs

Members of Local 259, Moving Picture Machine Projectionists, are quite worked up over people who are not movie operators taking over their means of livelihood—and justly so.

The most flagrant injustice being done them is the leadership of Commissioner McMillan in sponsoring putting moving picture machines in public schools for the alleged purpose of "visual education." The rub comes in his plan to allow shows to be put on, for which an admission charge will be made. The machines will be operated by school boys, if the commissioner has has way.

"This is not fair competition to our employers, who pay taxes, heavy taxes, for doing business," said Felix Hamill, business agent of the union. "And the further result will be a crop of youngsters in the future with the idea that they are professional operators. All because they "ran" a 16-mm. machine for a few minutes."

Another stunt is for adults, some of them with cards of other local unions in their pockets, attempting to do the work rightfully belonging to the movie boys.

"Our members are highly skilled in projecting pictures on the screen in a manner that is pleasing as well as safe from fire hazards. We know our business because we have studied it. We ask our friends to insist that when any size moving picture machine, with silent or with sound, is used, that they demand that one of our members shall operate it. This jurisdiction belongs to us, and the A. F. of L. has concurred in it," Hamill continued.

Label League To Hear Kefauver

Members and friends of the Chattanooga Label league are invited to the regular meeting of the league on Friday night, when Congressman Estes Kefauver will address the delegates.

The meeting will open at 7:30, room 908, Patten hotel.

"VIC" HALLMARK SKIRTS DEATH IN SEVEN-FLOOR ELEVATOR FALL

About 4 p.m. Wednesday afternoon, V. W. Hallmark, Central Labor union officer, narrowly escaped death on two counts. He was worging in an elevator in a local office building with a very heavy safe in the cage. Being too great a strain, the elevator plunged seven floors to the basement.

"Vic" had presence of mind by climbing on top of the safe so as not to be crushed when bottom was hit. After the crash, flames burned him, but not seriously. He put the fire out himself and then checked in his chips temporarily.

An ambulance rushed him to Erlanger, where medical treatment was given. Latest report shows that he is a very lucky man, receiving only painful bruises and some burns on the arms and head. No bones were broken.

Apparently no internal injuries have been discovered.

SPEAKING OF "COCKEYED" SUGGESTIONS! By Baer

Life and Liberty

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Whatever else there may in the union of Russia and Germany, it has become apparent that both countries have agreed upon a nihilistic program, which would eventually destroy the cultural and religious life of the people, to say nothing of the economic freedom of the workers. The leaders in both countries held out the false hope that they were giving the people more power and independence, but it has been revealed in both countries that liberty has been wiped out—liberty in government, in industry and in religion.

We may flatter ourselves that America will forever be free from the influence and power of such leadership. But in this we may easily be mistaken, because there is no way whereby we may escape the tyranny of foreign political and economic pressure—unless we are prepared to destroy every element in our own country which is in sympathy with such a program wherever it shows itself.

That such influences are at work in our country, fostered and supported by alien groups or their representatives, there can be no doubt. These forces are trying to build up in America the same hatred and bitterness which exists in some other countries. They dare not come out in the open and frankly declare their real purpose. They hide behind declarations or phrases which have a patriotic flavor. At their public meetings they display the American flag, professing to express their allegiance to our country and what it stands for. But by every secret device and method which can possibly be employed, they are seeking to build up in this country deep and bitter hatreds. If they succeed, the greatest sufferers would be the workers of America.

The glory of America lies in the freedom which it gives to every citizen, no matter what or where he came from; whether he was born in the slums of the city, in a mansion on the avenue, or in a humble home on the farm; whether he be Protestant, Jew, Catholic or the representative of any other religion.

These facts have been recognized and accepted by Americans from the very beginning of our history. But it seems necessary at this time to remind the advocates of racial, religious and class prejudice that they will not be permitted in free America to undermine the very foundations of our country, which are based upon "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" for all its citizens.

MASTER BARBERS, UNION WIN EARLY CLOSING LAW

New Orleans.—The master barbers and the barbers' union have joined hands and secured the passage of a city ordinance closing all barber shops at 7:30 on week days and 10 p. m. on Saturdays with no Sunday work. The new law takes effect Nov. 15. Ninety per cent of the shop owners and employes joined in the movement.

National Debt Reaches All Time High Total

Washington.—The national debt is now more than $41,000,000,000, equivalent to approximately $315 for every man, woman and child in the country.

It reached that all-time high level recently, treasury department statistics indicated.

The aggregate federal debt would approximate $46,356,000,000 if the government's contingent liabilities were included in the computation.

New Librarian Scores "Witch Burners"

Washington. — Archibald MacLeish, librarian of congress, dedicated the library's new Hispanic room on Columbus day with a scholarly denunciation of wars and "all witch-burners in all centuries and all countries."

In his first speech since assuming his post, MacLeish deplored the change in world conditions from the time when "the value of the things of the spirit could be taken for granted" and when "it could be taken for granted anywhere in the civilized world that the free inquiry of the free spirit was essential to the dignified and noble life of man."

"Now, he said, these things no longer may be assumed, and scholars must proclaim their "faith in the life of the human spirit" and their "respect for the labor of poets and scholars."

He praised the establishment of the Hispanic room to collect the literatuer of all the Americas.

GETTING CARELESS

The salesman stopped at the house and asked the lady if he could interest her husband in an electric razor.

"He might be interested in your razor," she remarked, "for he shaves close onto once a year."

"Shaves once a year!" echoed the salesman. "I never heard of anything like it."

The lady nodded. "He used to shave twice a year," she drawled, "but that was when we had lady lodgers."

Watch Prices

The outlook for prices is vital to union members, as soaring prices could easily more than offset wage gains resulting from business and industrial improvement.

"A rapid rise in prices of food and other necessaries could cancel workers' increasing income and keep buying power at its present low level," the American Federation of Labor points out, in urging union members to watch prices and report any undue increase to federation headquarters.

The federation declares there has apparently been price profiteering in some of the recent price increases and says that by price profiteering it means "raising prices more than enough to cover legitimate costs."

Then the federation goes on to say that union members can perform an important service by reporting any undue price increases in goods they buy and by emphasizing that there is no reason for runaway prices, which this paper pointed out some weeks ago.

"There is no shortage of food in the United States, and supplies of practically all important staples are ample," the federation says. "Except in cases where prices are below production costs, there can be no excuse for large increases.

Fine Public Housing Record

What good housing, planned in accordance with modern conditions, can do toward making for a better life in America is illustrated by the record of the Parkside project in Detroit. The Baltimore Sun reports that the Parkside project, where 400 children play daily, has concluded its first year of operation with a record of no traffic accidents, no police calls, no cases of juvenile delinquency.

Thomas P. Danahey, real estate operator and formerly one of the most caustic critics of the project, is reported as saying he can now "annihilate" all the arguments which he advanced against public housing a few years ago.

The project's 3,000 tenants live on a 30-acre tract of land where all through traffic streets have been dead ended or diverted. Only driveways necessary for efficient use of project facilities have been retained. Grocery store, drug store, meat market, dry cleaning and other shops are situated in a special commercial area on the project site.

Fine Spirit of Labor

On page [illegible] of this issue of The Labor World, the Brewery Workers Local union, the men who bottle and deliver all the soft drinks in the Chattanooga area, joins the local hosts in extending welcome and best wishes to the Tennessee Bottlers' Association which begins its annual convention Monday.

The spirit of this welcome is typical of the attitude of organized labor in Chattanooga toward those lines of industry which recognize the high type of ability which naturally gravitates toward unionism, as it is also typical of the interest of organized labor in the improvement of operations which makes more jobs and better pay for workers and more stable profits for the management.

Nation to Battle Dread Disease

The people of the United States will soon wage a war of their own. While the nations of Europe send their armies, geared for death and destruction, into conflict, our people will rise to battle a foe far different than their fellowman. Others will fight to cripple and kill, we shall fight more valiantly to heal and cure the crippled.

Shortly every man, woman and child of our country will be marshaled in the nation's war against infantile paralysis. As one body this nation will unite to give health and strength, hope and relief, to its less fortunate citizens who suffer from the ravages of a disease that is heartless and ruthless in its attack.

We, as a democratic people partaking our belief in humanity, can triumph in this war with a just cause.

War Profits No One

The delusion that a war can produce stable prosperity was so exploded by what happened to us in the World's war that it appears almost unbelievable that any great advance should be placed on war orders that are now anticipated, and which at the very outset look precarious. In the end, when all the costs of the war, that is responsible has to be reported, the bill is so large that its repercussion is generally felt by all.

No war profits permanently part of the misery of other people, and we might as well realize it, for then we would not place so much dependence upon war orders. A worldwide peace is the most dependable asset for prosperity.

It is gratifying to see how uniformly all our prominent industrialists demand that there is no prosperity in war. While it could temporarily inflate the business volume, when it is all over the readjustment would turn out to be so severe it would dislocate our industrial machinery.—The Financial World.

T. R. UNDERWOOD, JR.

We are sorry to report that Brothers W. T. Manly and B. McSpadden are not doing so well. They are confined at home on account of illness. Let's all try our best to visit these two brothers and render any service to them and their families that we can. I know they will appreciate us visiting them because they get very lonesome sitting and laying around with nothing to do and not many to talk to. So let's all go out and see these brothers. We also have a few more on the sick list. They are Brothers J. B. Fisher, J. M. Varner, Burkhalter and J. C. Cork. Hope these brothers are back in harness soon.

Brothers R. A. Gardenhire, J. R. Kersey, Fred Crisp and R. M. Lanham are back on duty ofter being off sick.

The officers for 1940 were elected at our last meeting night and will take office Jan. 1. They are as follows: President, O. F. Olinger; vice-president, T. C. Stewart; recording secretary, L. B. Merriman, Jr.; financial secretary and treasurer, C. W. Brown; wardens, C. R. Bice and C. T. Reeves; sentinels, W. J. Shipley and C. L. Cooley; executive board, C. S. Elsea, C. W. Searcy, Willard Payne, G. T. Hunley, E. S. Smith, W. L. Gray and E. J. Self.

I just have to take time out to congratulate all of our new officers and wish them a happy and successful year. We are going to support you and help in every way possible, because united we stand, divided we fall. We are all going to get in the harness and pull together at the same time for the betterment of our local and all concerned. So let's all be at the next meeting. There are some very important things to be discussed and decided on. The meetings will be Thursday, Dec. at 6:30 p.m., and Friday, Dec. at 10 a.m.

Compensation.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive." The greatest reward comes to the giver, not the receiver; the reward is for the worker, not the idler. The world remembers with gratitude its sons and daughters who have given head, heart, or hand; for the receiver the world cares naught. "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven." In obedience to the Divine commands, which embrace all the avenues of good endeavor is found compensation which produces greatest satisfaction, and benefits of worthwhile value.

Washington, D. C.—A warning against bureaucracy was sounded and a plea for voluntary co-operation made by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, in speaking at a dinner here celebrating the 20th anniversary of the first International Labor Conference, held at Washington in 1919.

After pointing out that the International Labor organization is a policy-forming agency serving as an instrumentality for promotion of world peace through promotion of economic justice, Green continued:

"We, who demanded that the conditions of economic injustice which existed in this country should be relieved by emergency legislation, knew the dangers inherent in the creation of bureaucracy.

Asks Action Now.

"We warned against these dangers and asked employers in their own interest as well as that of labor and the public to join voluntarily with labor in establishment as quickly as possible of direct collective bargaining between capital and labor. We would have had no need for some of the legislation now in effect if we had been permitted to negotiate voluntary agreements between employers and employes.

"We repeat that urgent plea now. We plead with the captains of industry, the leaders of government and the millions of still unorganized workers to establish the processes of organization, collective bargaining and union contract in the place of the otherwise cumbersome and bureaucratic processes of government action."

John G. Winant, director of the International Labor Office, emphasized international labor organization and collaboration as an instrument for peace despite the European war.

Breath Bad, Logy? You May Need This

Just as the lighthouse flashes a friendly warning to sailors, so Nature sends out headaches, bad breath, biliousness, which often warn of constipation.

Too many misunderstand or neglect those symptoms and thereby may invite a host of constipation's other discomforts: sour stomach, belching, loss of appetite or energy.

Its long life and popularity testify to BLACK-DRAUGHT'S merit.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO HEAR APPEAL AGAINST AWARD TO RADIUM VICTIM

Washington.—The supreme court has refused for the second time to hear an appeal of the Radium Dial company, an Illinois corporation, in its attempt to appeal an award for injuries suffered in the company plant.

Catherine Wolfe Donohue was awarded $5,661 by the Illinois industrial commission because she was stricken with radium poisoning while handling the rare element.

Make Democracy Work

Our government is not perfect, but it comes nearer achieving the goal of opportunity, equality and happiness than any system in the world. It is our duty not to look for refuge in alien theories, but to put our shoulder to the wheel and make democracy work. . . . Let us join the fight against disease, poverty and bigotry. Let us strive for the full realization of the blessings of democracy.—Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of War.

Depression War-Born

In America there was no great opposition to the vast war expenditures of 1917-19. There has been and still is, however, great opposition to the vast expenditures made in these recent depression years. And yet, the depression came largely as a result of the war and of the universal economic dislocations caused by that war. The tragic thing is that men recognize the viciousness of this circle but seem unable to break it.—The Pathfinder.

Ruinous Taxes Certain

While the loss of human life and liberties would be the greatest price we would pay in another war, the risk of inflation and ruinous taxation would probably mean a lower standard of living for generations to come.—National Economy League.

HOTEL WORKERS VOTE AFL

New York City.—Without a dessenting vote, employes of the Mayflower hotel designated the New York Hotel Trades council, an A. F. of L. affiliate, as their collective bargaining representative in an election held in the offices of the state labor relations board. A total of 122 ballots was cast for the council and none against.

AFL Street Carmen's Union Organizes Bus and Truck Drivers of Big Concern In Face of Determined Opposition

St. John, N. B.—Not only has the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, beaten out the CIO and All-Canadian Congress of Labor in organizing the bus and truck drivers of the Scotia Motor Transport in New Brunswick, but the union has negotiated a satisfactory contract for the drivers and helpers on the buses and trucks.

Decisive A. F. of L. Victory.

This, despite the reputation of the S. M. T. as it is familiarly known, of being an exceptionally "tough transport entity toward its employes on wages and hours. Until the union organized the drivers and helpers, the conditions were very unfavorable, with low pay prevailing for long hours.

The CIO and A. C. C. L. strove desperately to take the S. M. T. drivers and helpers under their respective wings, but it was no dice for them. The men lined up 100 per cent with the Amalgamated association, and with district A. F. of L. leaders playing active roles in the organization. This despite previous failures by the other units to organize, and threats of a firing campaign by the company.

Full Union Recognition.

The A. F. of L. union gave the company until noon on a stipulated date to sign up or face a strike. At 11:30 the company assented and prominent in the contract was a clause calling on the company to give full recognition to the union. It was also agreed that a monthly conference will be held with representation from the union and company to discuss grievances that may develop within the previous month.

Readjustment of wages and working hours and seniority rights has been assured. For eight years the S. M. T. men had been unorganized and conditions in wages and hours had been deplorable.

Czeck Trade Unionists Continue Fight For Freedom From Exile in England

London.—Representatives of the free trade unions of workers and employes from the German speaking districts of the former republic of Czechoslovakia who are now in England, have addressed to the president of the republic, Dr. Benes, a statement declaring that they regard the destruction of Hitlerism and the reconstruction of an independent Czechoslovak republic to be one of the most important peace terms of democracy—as the German social-democratic workers' party declare it by its letter of Sept. 2, 1939.

"Sacrifices Made in Vain."

"Hitler's regime," says the statement, "has suddenly interrupted or completely destroyed that favorable social and economic development and that social progress which was, in the German-speaking districts of the former republic of Czechoslovakia, an essential result of the co-operation of free trade unions and public administration on the lines of democracy.

"The reconstruction of the Czechoslovak republic where the German workers and all the German inhabitants will be and must be a constructive element, will also mean the renewal of destroyed achievements and new opportunities to secure the social and economic principles of working men's life.

Fight for Civilization.

"We are well aware of the need for an urgent solution of the problems of international law caused by the agreement of Munich. Hitler has broken this agreement himself. The sacrifices for peace by dismembering the republic were made in vain.

"The representatives of the Sudeten-German free trade unions of workers and employes give all their strength to the struggle against the Nazi regime which is guilty of this war.

"We are struggling with you, Mr. President, together with England and France, for civilization against barbarism; for the right of suppressed nations and classes against brutal force; against the destroyers of the life of masses within the nations of central Europe; for social welfare, for peace, against Nazi instigators of war and warmongers; for the freedom of men, and for the rebuilding of a free Europe."

WINDOW WASHER STRIKE FOR INCREASE IN WAGES

Philadelphia, Pa.—A lot of dirty windows in Philadelphia stores, office buildings and hotels were left uncleaned when Local No. 125 of the Philadelphia Window Cleaners union, A. F. of L. affiliate, struck following the breakdown of negotiations with forty contractors. The union demanded a $3-weekly increase, bringing minimums up to $25 and $35, a 40-hour week and two weeks vacation with pay. Union officials said about 300 members were involved.

LABOR IS WARNED NOT TO EXPECT JOB BOOM DUE TO WAR

Labor Statistics Bureau Says Unemployed Army and Machinery Will Tend to Hold Down Wages During European War.

Washington.—The ever present menace of labor displacing machinery used by employers to block [illegible] working men and women was emphasized in a report by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, warning American workers against expecting wage increases and [illegible] because of the European war.

Going back to the outbreak of the World war in 1914, the bureau said that then practically all immigrant labor was barred from the United States, the result of which was the exhaustion of the supply of working men and women at a time of largest demands for labor made by war industry.

In contrast to the conditions prevailing in 1914, the bureau emphasized the large reserve of unemployed workers, approximately 10,000,000, now available which would serve to prevent the realization of demands for wage increases by those already employed.

Turning to the use which employers generally make of scientists to invent job-destroying machinery and the subversive policy of employers with regard to the application of this machinery, the bureau said:

"In addition, there are now improved machines and techniques that have been thoroughly tested and are readily available for use in increasing the productivity of labor whenever demands warrant their more extensive use."

All reason, all history, all our own experience show that wrongs cannot be righted and durable peace cannot be imposed on nations by force, threats, economic pressures or war.—Herbert Hoover.

Farm Regions, Small Communities Badly in Need of Better Housing, USHA Administrator Declares

Reading, Pa.—The farming districts and small towns and villages need decent housing as much as do the big cities, Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority, said in speaking at the Reading County fair.

Straus pointed out that employment of hundreds of construction workers on a housing project here at prevailing wages will mean more and better customers for the farm products of Reading county. He continued:

"There are some people, of course, who think that substandard housing is limited to our big cities and that therefore a low-rent public housing program would naturally be limited to our big cities. Nothing could be further from the truth! The housing problem in small towns and villages is every bit as serious as in the larger cities.

Farm Housing Problem Serious.

"Although the small town may not be troubled by the existence of large, overcrowded tenement areas such as we have in New York City or Philadelphia, it usually suffers from an acute shortage of good, low-cost dwellings and from an abundance of outworn, dilapidated shacks and shanties. Moreover, the housing problem of the American farmer is even more serious than the housing problem in our cities. Let me quote you a few figures that speak for themselves. In 1934 the department of agriculture surveyed the condition of more than half a million farmhouses throughout the country. One out of every four of these farmhouses had faulty foundations aid bad roofs. Four out of five had neither running water nor electricity.

"Although the USHA program is less than two years old, interest in the program on the part of small communities and rural areas has been growing rapidly. A large number of housing authorities have already been set up in small towns and counties. More than twenty-five loans have already been approved for housing authorities in communities under 25,000 population. In addition, plans are under way for the construction of separate homes for low-income farmers.

Program Under Development.

"For many months now the United States Housing Authority and the department of agriculture have been working together at developing a housing program to meet the needs of the low-income farmer. Although this program is still in its infancy, it has tremendous potentialities. A farm housing program will bring new joy and new happiness to life in the countryside. Just as 20th century machinery has already, to a large degree, been brought to the farm itself, the USHA program will bring 20th century living standards to the farm house. Moreover, it should provide a new bond between the industrial worker and the farmer.

"A housing program that provides better homes for both low-income worker and low-income farmers should go a long way toward making it still clearer that the basic interests of worker and farmer are identical and toward helping achieve that national unity upon which the future of our democracy will largely depend."

Some students of European affairs have been saying for a year or two that nazi emotionalism could not always sway Germany, that a "let down" in popular enthusiasm was approaching and that something more substantial than nazi oratory was needed to sustain a nation.

Now comes Hugh Gibson saying the same thing and intimating an upheaval in Germany may not be very far away. Gibson, former American ambassador to Belgium, says that unusual and rapid developments may be expected in Poland when factors fermenting under the surface "go sour."

Speaking before the Philadelphia Forum, the diplomat, recently back from Europe, described unrest in Germany and said "Hitler is dancing to any tune Stalin plays."

"The German people are tired, emotionally tired," he said. "They have been keyed up for too long a time."

If Mr. Gibson and others are correct, the war may end much sooner than expected and the world be spared tremendous destruction of life and property.

That British organized labor means to co-operate to the fullest extent with French labor in the prosecution of the war against Germany is shown by the recent action of the British Trades Union General council in approving proposals for establishment of an Anglo-French trade union council. The council, proposed by the International Federation of Trade Unions, would represent the French Confederation Generale du Travail and the British Trades Union Congress.

Reporting upon this proposal to the general council, Sir Walter Citrine emphasized the necessity for a closer link between the French and British trade union movements under war conditions. The trade unions in both countries were faced with problems, he said, upon which an exchange of experience would be invaluable.

It was accordingly proposed to establish a council consisting of five representatives of the T. U. C. General Council and five of the French Confederation, which would sit periodically in Paris and London alternately. In the Paris meetings the five T. U. C. members would meet not only the corresponding five members of the French Confederation, but the whole of the administrative committee of that body, and conversely in the London meetings the five French representatives would meet the full general council of the T. U. C. The general council approved this proposal and appointed five members as their representatives on the joint body which it is proposed to establish if the French Confederation also agrees.

"Peace among the peoples of the world depends not upon the mere existence of brute force, but largely upon the consolidation of the forces of decency. Peace cannot long exist upon a foundation of fear. Peace thrives only in an atmosphere of justice—justice founded upon righteousness and a determination to respect the elemental rights of all mankind."—William Green.

Employes in Forty-seven Stores of Union Premier Company Roll Up Majorities for A. F. of L. Affiliates.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Clerks and meat cutters employed by the Union Premier company, a food chain operating forty-seven stores in four states, voted overwhelmingly in favor of local unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, according to election results announced here. Voting was at the direction of the national labor relations board.

Results indicate a reversal of the 1-vote majority won last March by the C. I. O. over A. F. of L. That election was protested by the A. F. of L. units favored in the last count.

Among clerks, with 1,688 eligible to vote, 878 ballots favored the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, A. F. of L. affiliate; 174 favored C. I. O.; 86 voted for no union; 12 were challenged and 3 were void.

Among meat cutters with about 325 eligible to vote, 215 ballots favored the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. affiliate; only 7 favored C. I. O.; 8 voted for no union.

Warehouse workers had indicated their clear preference for A. F. of L. affiliation last March.

Vice-President Don Marquis, of R. C. I. P. A., and R. C. Coulter, international representative for the same group, said they expected contracts would be executed with Union Premier management within two weeks.

Workers concerned are employed in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey. Stores are known as Food Fairs.

In Baltimore the company is reported to have acquired six more large markets and union men say the contracts will cover hours, wages and working conditions in them as well as in the group specifically included in the election.

Strong organization campaigns have been under way for months in the four states. For the clerks, Vice-President Marquis and R. C. Coulter were assisted by Business Agent Henry Highland, Joseph McComb and A. L. Keiffer.

Ignoring Party Labels

(From the Washington Post.)

The election, for the fourth consecutive time, of Jasper McLevy as the socialist mayor of Bridgeport, Conn., is indicative of an interesting trend in American politics.

There was a time when party loyalties were so strong that party labels had a far greater bearing on the outcome of municipal elections than the qualifications of the opposing candidates. During recent years, however, voters have become more discriminating. Increasingly, they have been manifesting a wholesome interest in the men behind the labels and tending, more and more, to disregard the latter.

Jasper McLevy's political career is a case in point. He began campaigning for office a long time ago and for years the socialist tag debarred him from success. In 1933, however, as a result of a wave of discontent with the dominant democratic machine in Bridgeport, the voters elected McLevy mayor. And his administration has proven so honest, efficient and economical that every two years since then his fellow-citizens have voted him back into office with thumping majorities.

LOCAL UNION CERTIFIED

Washington.—The national labor relations board has announced certification of United Garment workers of America, Local 243, affiliated with the A. F. of L., as bargaining agency selected by a majority of production and maintenance employes of Gross Salesburg company, Galesburg, Ill.

LAW VS. MEN

(From the Electrical Workers' Journal.)

Those citizens who believe that democratic government should be a government of law rather than a government of men may well be disturbed by the performance of Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney-general. Even a layman can see that there is nothing in the Sherman anti-trust laws that refer to labor practices per se as being in restraint of trade. Indeed, when the Sherman anti-trust law was in the making, efforts were made by a large group of men in congress to write into the law the rule that it did not apply to trade unionists. Neither can a layman find court decisions as precedents for placing labor practices in the category of conspiracies in the restrain of trade.

And yet Mr. Arnold, as the government's chief trust buster, pursues his policy of investigating labor practices preparatory to bringing labor leaders into court as violators of the anti-trust law. We believe emphatically that Mr. Arnold is on shaky ground. We believe that he has his own private interpretation of the law and that he is not buttressed either by the law or court decisions. In other words, Mr. Arnold is acting as judge, prosecutor and jury. He is pre-judging the case.

Is this, or is it not, dangerous to democracy?

THE THIRSTY FELLOWS

The fervent temperance orator stopped in the midst of his speech and said impressively:

"My friends, if all the saloons were at the bottom of the sea, what would be the result?"

From the back of the room came the loud reply: "Lots of people would get drowned."

Decision Favors Man Who Refused to Join Union in Closed Shop

Harrisburg.—Workers who lose their jobs because they refuse to join a union at a union shop plant have been assured of state unemployment insurance benefits. The state unemployment compensation board of review handed down the precedent-setting ruling in the case of Edward J. Gaynor, of Norwood. Gaynor had refused to join a CIO union, and lost his job when the union won a "closed shop." The unemployment compensation division refused him aid, but the board of review set this refusal aside.

World's Oldest Union to Celebrate 125th Anniversary Next January

By FRED S. WALKER

Washington. — Columbia Typographical union, the oldest in continuous existence in the world, will celebrate its 125th anniversary on Jan. 7, 1940, with a banquet and dance in the Willard hotel, Washington.

First organized in 1815 as Columbia Typographical society its records indicate it has never missed a monthly meeting. In 1865 it celebrated its 50th birthday with a dinner what was a dniner, and public officials were present and assisted in disposing of a menu of viands unknown in these days. In 1915 a local theater was engaged for the union's 100th birthday celebration and many men prominent in political and labor affairs extolled the organization on its long and honorable career.

Strong for Arbitration.

Officials of the union claim that printers invented arbitration, and the fact that No. 101 had had an arbitration agreement with Washington newspaper publishers ever since 1886, with never a strike in all that time, seems to prove their claim. Similarly the union has had no trouble in commercial shops since 1906, arbitration usually concluding scale negotiations.

Columbia union even, back in the 90's, had an agreement with the Mergenthaler Linotype company, when the machine was new and men were needed to learn its operation. And, by the way, how many know that the Linotype was conceived and first constructed right here in Washington, by men who knew nothing of the printing business? A group of lawyers employed a Swiss machinist named Mergenthaler to build them a machine that would set type, and did just that.

Memorable Affair Planned.

The union has a committee headed by John B. Dickman, who was president in 1889 and 1937-1938, making arrangements for the affair, and they plan to make it a memorable occasion. Printing trades officials and others prominent in labor circles and public life will be asked to assist the printers in commemorating the important milestone in the life of the union. A banquet, with short speeches, followed by a dance will provide a program to satisfy all tastes.

N. Y. Milk Drivers Win Wage Boost Agreement

New York, N. Y.—The International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, after eighteen weeks' negotiation, finalized with representatives of milk dealers the lrst agreement ever drawn, covering all phases of milk distribution in the metropolitan area of Greater New York.

The agreement covers 16,000 workers and provides wage increases varying from $2 to $11 for practically all of them, which is practically a 4 to 25 per cent gain over present wage levels.

The Teamsters' Brotherhood is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Wharton Resigns As Machinists Chief

Ill Health Compels Veteran Leader to Retire After Having Served as Executive of A. F. of L. Affiliate Since 1926.

Washington.—Arthur O. Wharton has resigned from the presidency of the International Association of Machinists, because of ill health.

The Executive Council of the Machinists association accepted his resignation with profound regret. The retirement becomes effective on Nov. 30.

To succeed Mr. Wtarton the council elected Harvey W. Brown, who has been vice-president since 1921 and acting president for the past year during Mr. Wharton's leave of absence. Mr. Brown's term will run until a referendum election is held among the membership of the association.

Mr. Wharton is 66 years old. He has filled many important positions in the ranks of organized labor and government. In addition to being president of the International Association of Machinists he has been a vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and a member of the federation's executive council since 1930.

He was elected general chairman of the International Association of Machinists in 1903 and served as president of the Railway Employes' department of the American Federation of Labor from 1912 to 1918. Secretary of the Interior Lane appointed him adviser to the railway commission in January, 1918. William G. McAdoo, director-general of railroads, selected him as a member of the board of railway wages and working conditions, on which he served as vice-chairman and chairman until the board was dissolved in March, 1920, when he resumed his position as president of the A. F. of L. Railway Employes department. He was appointed a member of the United States Railway Labor Board by President Wilson in 1920, and was reappointed by President Harding for the term 1922-1927. He was appointed president of the International Association of Machinists effective July 1, 1926, elected president for the term July 1, 1927-July 1, 1929, and was re-elected for every term since then.

He has served for some time as a director of the Union Labor Life Insurance company. In addition, he was chairman of the committee that negotiated the first standard form of agreement between southwestern railways and machinists, boilermakers and blacksmiths in 1917. He was also appointed a member of the national labor advisory board of the national recovery administration in 1934, and was made chairman of the WPA labor policies board in 1935.

Buy Union for Christmas, Green Urges

Washington.—In a statement to trade unionists throughout the nation, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, says:

"Do your Christmas shopping early and don't forget to buy union.

"The union label on the gifts you buy for your friends and loved ones is just as appropriate to the spirit of the holiday season as the Christmas seals on the package in which you enclose them.

"In buying union you are helping yourselves as well as your fellow-union members. You are promoting the best interests of our country. You are striking a blow at sweatshop labor, child labor and other oppressive conditions. And at the same time you have the guarantee that the product carrying the union label which you buy is made in America by skilled union workers under high-standard union conditions.

"So I repeat—look for the union label when you do your holiday shopping."

The A. F. of L. Union label Trades department is issuing this statement, a union label Christmas gift poster and other literature regarding its campaign to urge all members of organized labor, their families and friends to purchase only union label articles for Christmas gifts.

AFL Union Certified For 11 California Fish Packing Cos.

Washington.—The national labor relations board, in a split decision, has certified Cannery Workers' Union Local 20986, American Federation of Labor affiliate, as sole bargaining agent for eleven fish packing companies at Monterey and Moss Landing, Cal. Board Member Edwin S. Smith, who has been accused by the A. F. of L. of being biased in favor of the CIO, dissented.

The A. F. of L. union won a majority of the votes cast by the employes at each company. Employes had a choice of voting for the A. F. of L. local, the Monterey Bay Area Workers Union No. 23 (CIO), or for neither.

Smith's dissent from the majority decision of Chairman Madden and William M. Leiserson said that "serious charges have been brought" which, if substantiated, would invalidate the results of the election."

He referred to objections filed by the CIO union to the conduct of the elections, stating that the companies had interfered in the elections and that the board's agents "permitted at the polling place the infusion of the intense rivalry prevailing between two labor organizations."

The majority decision said that the certificates on conduct of elections stating that the polling was "fairly and impartially conducted" were signed by all parties, including representatives of the CIO union.

Some gun stocks are now being made of molded plastics instead of the traditional walnut. So far, the plastic stocks have only been used on shotguns, but it is expected they will soon be made for rifles. There is a report that Germany has already equipped some of her military rifles with plastic stocks.

Federal Apprentice Committee Program Approved By American Federation of Labor

Broad Extension of Plan Is Urged by Cincinnati Convention.

Strong approval of the work being carried on by the Federal Committee on Apprenticeship, of the Division of Labor Standards, U. S. Department of Labor, was expressed by the recent annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The commendable work performed by the Apprenticeship Committee in the education and training of employed young people was brought to the attention of the convention in a resolution introduced by Delegate John P. Frey of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department.

The resolution, which the convention adopted, pointed out that the administrator of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 and the secretary of labor acting under authority of the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act recognized the intent of the United States Congress to establish a uniform national system of apprenticeship by designating the federal committee on apprenticeship as the agency to approve all apprenticeship agreements subject to those acts where a part of the wages are to be less than the established minimum.

The convention declared:

"That all federal agencies which employ or which regulate the employment of young workers in skilled trades be urged to formulate apprenticeship standards which meet those recommended by the federal committee on apprenticeship.

"The state federations of labor be requested to continue their constructive efforts to secure sound apprenticeship legislation, administered by state departments of labor, with adequate appropriations for administration, and establishing uniform standards and terminology.

"That because of the growing volume of apprenticeship work and its great importance to labor, management and young people, the Congress of the United States be requested to increase the appropriation for the administration and field work of the federal apprenticeship service."

Welcome

Tennessee Bottlers Association

BASED on more than a quarter of a century of friendly cooperation with the soft drink bottlers of Chattanooga, we find it a pleasure to join them—your local hosts—in a hearty welcome to the Tennessee Bottlers' Association, which begins its annual convention at the Patten Hotel Monday.

The Chattanooga soft drink industry has been 100 per cent union for more than twenty-five years, and the situation here might be pointed to as an ideal example of how the industry and organized labor can join hands to their mutual advantage.

Chattanooga bottlers are also 100 per cent union in their purchase of union made bottles, crates and such other union made supplies as are available.

Again, gentlemen, welcome and best wishes for a successful and profitable convention.

New A. F. of L. Secretary

GEORGE MEANY was elected secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor by the recent A. F. of L. convention at Cincinnati, Ohio, to succeed Frank Morrison, who was not a candidate for re-election after forty years of service as secretary and three years as secretary-treasurer of the federation. Mr. Meany, whose term of office begins Jan. 1, 1940, is a member of Local Union No. 463 (New York City) of the United Association of Plumbers and Steam Fitters of the United States and Canada; he was business agent of Local 463 for ten years, 1924-1934. He also served as secretary of the New York Building Trades council, and was mainly responsible for merging the two building trades councils in New York City, bringing together 150,000 building trades mechanics. For the past five years he has been president of the New York State Federation of Labor.

PRINTERS VOTE TO ESTABLISH FIVE-DAY WEEK BY 1940

Indianapolis.—The International Typographical union has voted to establish a five-day week in the entire printing industry by Jan. 1, 1942, Secretary-Treasurer Woodruff Randolph announced after tabulation of a referendum taken on Nov. 1. The vote in favor of the proposal was 33,204 to 15,664.

At present the printers operate on a six-day week of 6 hours and 40 minutes a day in some cities. Many local unions already have the five-day week.

Five other proposals were submitted. The union exempted members in military service from the payment of dues; authorized officers to use airplane transportation in emergencies; rejected a plan to reduce temporarily the pension and mortuary assessment; refused to authorize an increase in the executive council from five to six members, and refused to permit a temporary four-day week under certain emergency conditions.

Corn bins are now being made of steel. The federal government has ordered 40,000 steel bins, to be used by the Commodity Credit corporation to store corn turned over to it in payment of government loans to farmers. Each of the bins has a capacity of 2,306 pounds.

Supreme Court Review Asked on Conviction Of Union Picket

Washington, D. C.—The supreme court has received the petition of Byron Thornhill, Brownville, Ala., asking review of his conviction on a charge of violating a state anti-picketing law. He challenged constitutionality of the statute.

Thornhill, a member of the A. F. of L. Creosoters' union, was one of several strikers picketing the plant of the Brown Wood Preserving company, when he was arrested. He had urged a non-striking employe not to return to work.

Thornhill contended his right of free speech and assembly was violated by the law, which makes picketing a misdemeanor.

Union Button Wearing By Scabs Brings Fine

San Diego, Cal.—It doesn't pay for anti-union workers in San Diego to wear a union button.

A few weeks ago the California State Building and Construction Trades council issued a warning that it was a punishable crime for a non-union man to wear a union button.

The warning was issued because "scabs" in various parts of California had undertaken to secure jobs under false pretenses by wearing union buttons illegally obtained and pretending they were union members.

In San Diego, Patrick Nolan, secretary of the Building Trades council, made up his mind to clean out the anti-unionists who were violating the law. He preferred charges against "scab" roofers who were illegally wearing union buttons. The men were placed under arrest and tried before Judge Daney. Upon the submission of evidence which proved that the non-union workers were wearing union buttons in violation of the state law, Judge Daney found them guilty and imposed suitable fines.

Commenting on the action of the court, Secretary Nolan said:

"The union button is a badge of honor and we do not propose to allow any 'scab' to desecrate it in San Diego county. We will prosecute every case we find and hope union officials all over the state will do likewise."

Buy Only Union Label Xmas Gifts!

By I. M. ORNBURN, Secretary-Treasurer

A. F. of L. Union Label Trades Department

I wonder if American consumers know how they could make Christmas this year the merriest one in all history? It could be done if all purchase were were confined to only Union Label and American-made merchandise. It would be an economic boycott against the goods of nations at war. Above all, it would raise the labor standards of all American workers. The purchase of gifts that are made under union conditions would increase the purchasing power, which is the only method of restoring permanent prosperity to our beloved land.

During the Christmas shopping period more merchandise is purchased than during any other time of the year. While we do not desire to curtail our general drive for Union Label products and for union services, we urge every member of organized labor, his family and friends to demand the Union Label on all Christmas purchases because it fits into our general Union Label campaign.

The chief purpose of this Union Label Christmas gift campaign is to deliver to unionized manufacturers and "fair" merchants the Christmas trade of all labor unionists, their families and friends. Why not prove to these worthy merchants and manufacturers that a real benefit is derivel from placing this official emblem of collective bargaining on their goods? Each member of Labor Unions, Union Label Leagues and Women's Auxiliaries should become an individual sales agent for Union Label merchandise. If business and industry could be made to realize the vastness of labor's buying power by the spontaneous support of labor unionists and their friends, the greatest stimulus would be given to the American Federation of Labor that it has ever received in history. Let's buy only Union Label Christmas gifts!

Organization of Office Employes Progresses Rapidly, Weikel Declares

American Federation of Labor White Collar Workers Have Locals in One Hundred Cities, He Says—Mobilization of All Industrial Agents in A. F. of L. Is Visioned.

Washington, D. C.—Organization among office employes, including industrial insurance agents, is going forward at a rapid pace, according to Frank Weikel, president of the American Federation of Office Employes' International council.

Mr. Weikel disclosed that a number of new charters had been recently issued to these groups of white collar workers.

"For some time the American Federation of Labor," he said, "has carried on an organization campaign, and as a result interest is being shown among this vast army of wage-earners, who heretofore have not known organization.

"White collar workers in manufacturing establishments have seen the progress made by their fellow-workers in the production branches of their industry, and are now alive to the needs of the situation. They are asking for organization in all sections of the country and in many various industries.

"Organizations of office employes have nw been established in 100 cities throughout the country. Strenuous efforts are now being put forth to increase the membership of these organizations by a concerted organization drive. Officers of central labor unions, as well as the huge army of volunteer organizers, are now actively engaged in this work. We feel very much encouraged by the splendid response to our orfanization efforts.

"At the same time our organization campaign among industrial insurance agents is going forward. This vast group of wage-earners numbering one-quarter of a million, are sadly in need of organization. While our efforts have heretofore been centered in a few states, we have now broadened the scop of our campaign to include the entire United States.

"Requests for organization are pouring into headquarters of the American Federation of Labor daily and the insurance agents the entire country over are talking of organization within the American Federation of Labor.

"Contracts are being negotiated materially improving the working conditions and many minor grievances are being settled daily by the conferences between our organization and the insurance company officials.

"We can now definitely forsee the time within the very near future when the entire army of industrial insurance agents throughout our country will be under the banner of the American Federation of Labor."

TEACHER TALK

The party last Saturday night was enjoyed by all who attended, if smiling faces, enthusiastic game-playing and gulping of great quantities of refreshments mean anything. A liberal assortment of prizes made the bingo more interesting, and we are grateful for the contributions of a number of local merchants. Highlight of the evening was the skit written by Arlie (Casanova) Hoodenpyl and presented by him and Nancy Smith and Mrs. McCafferty.

The New York City teachers union really puts on a show when it wants to interest the public in teacher and school welfare. Asking for full state aid and elimination of cuts from the education, they have circulated a petition which is to have a cool million signatures. They have prepared a two-reel movie showing the work that is done in the schools. They are distributing a very snappy leaflet on the same subject. In addition, they are fighting vigorously the unsound practice, inaugurated this year, of replacing no teacher with a substitute until he has been absent for four days. Chattanooga and Hamilton county teachers can glean from this that pedagogs the world over have their troubles.

Chicago.—A second increase of 1 cent a quart in the price of milk in Chicago and suburbs went into effect on Oct. 12. It was the second 1 cent raise since Sept. 1 when the federal government began controlling the price paid to farmers.

Facing the Facts

With PHILLIP PEARL

There is one war in which America can no longer remain neutral. That is the labor war.

Those who directly condemn both the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O. for the initiation and continuation of the split in the labor movement, are giving the pretext of impartiality either to cloak their ignorance of the issues involved or to mask their enmity toward all labor.

Four years have gone on and the labor war is still on. By this time the facts have become so clear and the responsibility so certain that every thinking people with have no material excuse to follow labor news dispatches should be able to judge between the disputants.

But if this mental exercise is too much, we suggest to them—and to every citizen of the United States—merely to study the case history of one union, the International Ladies Garment Workers and draw their own conclusions.

Before discussing the achievements of this union let us examine here and now with the statements and officers of the American Federation of Labor, and we suggest that the judgment of their followers rests. First, because we are convinced we are right and the facts will support our position. Secondly, because we long as public opinion is neutral only the side of truth can prevail. Thirdly, because so long as the side of labor believes it is getting a square deal it will continue to be loyal, militant, united and the cause of labor peace will be corresponding to distant.

In the Wilderness

Now for the highly interesting story of the International Ladies Garment Workers union and its correspondence in the wilderness.

In [illegible] morning newspaper column one of the most bitter and [illegible] comment in the form of labor was published by John L. Lewis. It [illegible] on the growing prestige of the federation. Broad-Minded Union Generosity

It is interesting to note the allocation of $255,- and the support given by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

There may be those who will say that this is just the Jews giving to their fellow-communists. But this is emphatically not the case. Note that the largest amount was given to the joint distribution committee which is the chief distributing agency in behalf of Jewish refugees from Germany. Poland and Austria as well as other points in that general area. Other allocations are: For Christian refugees from Germany, $[illegible]; for Christian German refugees [illegible]; for French refugees, $[illegible]; for Italian refugees, $[illegible]; for Lithuanian refugees, $[illegible]; American Red Cross, $[illegible]; relief in Palestine, $[illegible]; and for [illegible] refugees and exiles, $[illegible] and others.

The [illegible] of the American workers' reply to the Jewish and Christian appeals for refugees. Such acts would be impossible if the spirit of class warfare, fostered by the Communists and their fellow-travelers, had been permitted to take hold.

Arnold Holds Labor Unions Are Subject to the Anti-Trust Laws

Assistant Attorney-General Declares He Is Undertaking to Overthrow by Court Procedure the Exemption of Unions From Prosecution Under Such Laws Firmly Established by Federal Legislation.

Washington.—Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney-general, rejected organized labor's claim to immunity from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust act and said the department of justice would proceed against unions in the same manner that the department proceeds against corporations.

This statement by Mr. Arnold, in the opinion of President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and other outstanding labor officials was clearly a violation of both the letter and the spirit of the Clayton anti-trust act, which specifically exempts labor unions from the provisions of anti-trust legislation.

Mr. Arnold's statement was made in a letter sent to the secretary of the central labor union of Indianapolis in reply to an inquiry as to the application of the anti-trust laws to labor unions.

In summarizing his proposal to torture and pervert the federal statutes into opposition to organized labor, Mr. Arnold said that he would prosecute "such boycotts, strikes or coercion by labor unions as have no reasonable connection with wages, hours, health, safety, speed-up system or the establishment and maintenance of the right of collective bargaining."

Olympia, Wash.—The state supreme court has held the city of Yakima anti-picketing measure to be illegal. The court stated:

"It is elementary the police power of municipalities derives from the state and can be exercised only in conformity with the general laws and the public policy of the state, as declared by the legislature."

The Yakima law, it held, conflicts with the public policy as declared by the legislature in 1933 [illegible]

The Yakima ordinance prohibits picketing of a place of business [illegible] by persons employed by the employer. Three months or more [illegible] have been so employed at the time of the picketing [illegible] would be done.

By HARRY BEDOIT

As the time rolls around again for another broadcast from the little one-watter over near Pudville, I am glad to say that the sick are all back at work.

Can't say so much for the cripples. Shorty Lamay, for instance. Several of the boys wanted to know what all the excitement was over in Shorty's neighborhood. Well, that is what was told to me. Of course I can't vouch for the truth of the statement. It was before pay day, and Shorty's better half said, "I want some flour." What! spend money for flour and not a drop of liquor in the house. I should say not," says Shorty. Any one who saw Shorty could tell that he was a poor hand in an argument. (How about it, Shorty?)

I have found out why Old Man Vandergriff had that happy look all last week. Little Eddy (Jr.) went 'possum hunting. Brought in four big ones.

Si Perkins would like to swap that pig he won for some chickens or anything of like value, as his back porch isn't big enough.

Shorty Floyd says if Grandma Denton would get around and fix some of the steam leaks he wouldn't have to use so much coal oil.

A certain party driving a brick colored Chevy failed to scotch on North Market street the other day. When last seen it was trying to climb a guy wire on a telephone pole. Better swap that car, buddy. I believe it's a jonah, anyway.

Anyone interested in organized labor and wants to see the busiest little place, just drop in on Brother T. R. Cuthbert over at The Labor World. Had that pleasure recently, and must say that I liked the way things were carried on. Brothers, we ought to feel proud that we have a live paper and that we have men and women in Chattanooga that are working to better our conditions. I want to compliment the wives of men in organized labor. You would be surprised to know that they read The Labor World more than the men, and that they do patronize those concerns that advertise in it.

Just last week (pay day) I saw a bunch of our boys and their wives at some of the stores that advertise in The Labor World. Whoop her up, brothers and sisters. The more we patronize those that advertise in our paper the sooner we get that cut on our per capita.

As last Thursday, Nov. 23, was Thanksgiving day for democrats in most states of this land of the free, lots of us will have to celebrate with the republicans this Thursday. But whatever political party we vote for, we should give thanks to Him who gave us this country. Every knee should bend and every head bow and thank God Almighty that those who founded this country of ours knew that if they succeeded that they would have to have spiritual help and guidance.

The economic conditions today are better than a few years ago. Let us not wait until another calamity hits us and then turn our thoughts to God, but let us give thanks now. Thanksgiving day should mean more to us than just a day to stuff ourselves with eats and drinks and wear ourselves to a frazzle with other pleasures. We all can see that there is a change coming over the world, and what is happening in Europe could happen to us, so let us give thanks to the Lord for that which we have and pray that we may have peace and prosperity, and spiritual guidance, that we may lighten the burdens of those that are less fortunate than we are.

As the holiday spirit has hit Chattanooga, and anyone who saw the crowds Saturday evening could see that things are a lot better than they were last year and some of the years before. That feeling that comes to us this time of the year when old grudges are forgotten, and the feeling that you would like to do something unselfish, why, it just sort of permeates the air. Just last week Glamour Boy said, "Hey! There is a cigar in my car. Go out and get it." Well, I thought the thing might be a joke or might be loaded, but it happened to be a good smoke. I just felt ashamed that I had misjudged Bill. Good old Bill with a heart as big as a watermelon (seed). Why, Bill would give you the sleeves out of his vest. So I guess the treat will be on me, Bill, so just meet me down at the Greasy Spoon restaurant and I will set 'um up.

Speaking of the Greasy Spoon, I overhead O. P. Couch and old man Lamay, who had ordered a beefsteak each, say, "It's not what you get to eat here that does you good. It's the exercise."

Shorty Johnson and Columbus Brown are in the dog house without flea powder. They were late to work last week. Promised the boss it wouldn't happen again.

Charles McCroy isn't a good catcher. He is champion hog raiser of Pudville. Just heard that he is the proud father of a 7-pound boy. Mother and child are doing well.

Si Perkins is a student of art. He was one of the critics of an art exhibit last week.

As things are on the up and up at the old paper mill, will sign off. Watch for next issue.

Sun Life Insurance Company Agents Elect A. F. of L. Union as Their Representative

Washington.—At a run-off election held by the national labor relations board among the agents of the Sun Life Insurance company in Washington, D. C., the Industrial and Ordinary Insurance Agents' Union No. 21354, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, was chosen to represent them in collective bargaining with the company. Twenty-one ballots were cast for the A. F. of L. union and 18 for no union.

The significant feature of this run-off election was that at a prior election held by the national labor relations board the A. F. of L. Industrial and Ordinary Insurance Agents' Local Union No. 21354 and the C. I. O. union were on the same ballot. The A. F. of L. union received 21 votes, the C. I. O. 1 vote, and no union 20 votes. Since neither union received a majority of the votes, the run-off election was necessary and resulted in the agents voting for the American Federation of Labor.

The organizers of the American Federation of Labor who were successful in organizing the agents of the Sun Life Insurance company in Washington, D. C., were George L. Russ and Ralph U. Boyer, respectively.

Good News for Organized Labor

IN THE first place, there has been no shortage of 1940 Ford Cars. The fact is that Mr. Ford has been building more cars per day than he ever has before at this season of the year. . . . The difficulty is that there is, and has been, such a tremendous demand for the new 1940 cars . . . and there is a reason. Now, here is the good news:

Production has been stepped up, and we are now in position to make delivery of almost any type of Ford Car. So come down and see the most beautiful Ford we ever built and try its performance.

FHA Head Predicts Home Building Will Continue at High Level Throughout Winter Months

Washington.—On the basis of [illegible] booked in November Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald predicted that home building activity will continue at a high level throughout the winter in many parts of the country.

The general outlook, in fact, is for the best winter building season in more than ten years, he said. Rapid progress [illegible] are throwing off the fall slump in activity and are putting a long season.

An examination of applications for mortgage insurance received in the first three weeks of November, he pointed out, showed an increase of almost 50 per cent in the number of new homes for the corresponding period of FHA operation over the corresponding weeks a year ago.

Building Keeps Up.

The number of new homes started each week in fact, instead of showing the usually sharp decline after the peak of the season at this time of the year, has been above the year's peak. Last week 9,000 new homes are being started each working day.

For example, during the week ending Nov. 19, 10,000 mortgage insurance applications were received on 9,644 new homes to be constructed under FHA inspection and commitments was issued on 8,163 new homes. The average number started each week for the five weeks ending Nov. 19 was 8,000 as compared to the [illegible] week in the year.

Reasons for Activity.

Being that we can't find anyone hurt it will have to remain a mystery. But by the looks of it I believe he either stuck it in a buzz saw or let a steamboat run over it.

Safe Use of Electricity In the Home

We are today depending more and more on electricity to do most of the things in and around our homes. Electricity is one of the most convenient forms of energy fo household use.

It serves not only to illuminate the home, but to supply power to various motor driven appliances and to supply heat for cooking, for radiant heaters, and other heating appliances. In addition to its convenience, electricity, when properly used, is safer than many other means of rendering similar service. It does away with the use of matches and the need of such things as kerosene and gasoline.

Electricity, when not properly safeguarded and used, can be dangerous to both life and property. Fires may be started and persons may be shocked if conditions are not right.

Accidents due to electricity may be classified in three groups:

1—Shocks to persons.
2—Burning of persons.
3—Burning of property.

In order that we may use our electric service safely, here are the most important points to observe:

Be sure that the electrical wiring in the house is safe and will stand inspection. Use properly rated fuses (15-20 amps. for lighting circuits and 30-50 amps. for water heaters and range). To over fuse or to put pennies behind burned out fuses is a very dangerous practice. Keep a supply of the different size fuses on hand.

To avoid shocks, be sure you purchase appliances from reliable dealers and that they are properly installed.

Avoid handling any electrical appliance or switch while in the bathtub or while in contact with water faucet or any other metal that may be connected with the ground. Avoid handling two separate appliances at the same time that are both plugged in. Avoid handling any line electrical appliances while you are standing on wet floor or while your hands are wet.

For lights in the basement, install porcelain sockets instead of brass shell sockets. A washing machine or ironer that may be operated in a basement should have a wire connecting their frames to a cold water pipe to prevent shocks to you should they become grounded.

Portable appliances such as irons, floor lamps, cleaners, waffle irons, percolators and others should be handled carefully and never dropped and the cords of these appliances should be inspected carefully at frequent intervals and replaced if necessary. Portable appliances should be turned off when not in use. Pressing irons left on ironing boards and not turned off have been the greatest cause of electrical fires. This hazard is greatly lessened by the type of iron having an automatic heat control. Any portable heating appliances for boiling liquids become dangerously overheated if left connected to the circuit after the liquid has boiled away.

Always open your entrance switch or pull the fuses on a circuit that you might be working on for any reason, and disconnect any appliances from the circuit before cleaning or repairing. Any motor driven equipment should be disconnected from the circuit before trying to clean or oil them.

If you buy any electrical toys for the children at Christmas, be sure they are the best and that the children do not play with them where they way come in contact with a radiator, faucet or any water pipe, while they are handling the toys while they are connected to a live circuit.

Temporary display wiring such as that for Christmas tree lighting should be carefully inspected to see that the insulation is in good shape.

Avoid having lamp bulbs in contact with cotton, and other inflammable decorative material. Temporary wiring of this kind should be inspected from time to time during its use to make sure that no injury has occurred to it.

Consider what God can do, and you will never despair of success. —Thomas Wilson.

U. S. CAN STAY OUT, WHEELER SAYS

New York City.—The United States can and must stay out of the war because a "strong, sane nation could insure peace from the next armistice," Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, declared here.

He told the Keep America Out of War congress that the feeling the nation would be drawn into the conflict was strong as late as three weeks ago, but was dying out.

"Courage and sanity are reasserting themselves," he said. "There is a growing belief that we can be the master of our destiny. . . . We can remain neutral if we really believe it in our hearts and to act."

Musicians Negotiating With Penn University

Philadelphia, Pa.—A truce was agreed upon between all music-seeking elements in the University of Pennsylvania campus and Local No. 77 of the American Federation of Musicians, A. F. of L. affiliate.

There are about 46 fraternities in with the debut of the Mask and Wig participants in musical presentations, which the debut of the Mask and Wig club show scheduled for Dec. 17 and a number of dances.

The musicians' union takes the position that the fraternities must employ union musicians. According to the terms of the truce union officials plan to talk over the situation with all of the 46 fraternities.

"Build-Up": Way to Ease Women's Pain

Many weak, run-down women are in a vicious circle. Their undernourishment often leads to what is called functional dysmenorrhea and its symptoms — headaches, nervousness, irritability, intermittent cramp-like pains—from which many women suffer. Surest way to break the vicious circle is by building strength and energy, which so many find may be done with the help of CARDUI. It stimulates appetite, aids digestion, and thus helps in this "build-up" of physical resistance. Women also report that, if taken just before and during "the time," CARDUI helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

I've often heard that it is always easier to find out what your neighbor is doing than what is happening right under your nose. Now I know that this is true, because last week while I wasn't looking, one of our members took a stroll down the matrimonial aisle. I promised him that I wouldn't mention their names in this week's column, so yours truly will just have to keep her word. We wish them both a lot of happiness.

R. H. Robson, at Smith's Restaurant, has been ill but has returned to work.

Richard McKenley, formerly at George's Place is now at the Busy Bee Sandwich Shop.

Mr. Albert Schlickling, operator of the Ratskeller, has returned from a vacation in Dixie.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Dorothy May Griffith, who died of a sudden attack of appendicitis early Wednesday morning. She was formerly employed at George's Place and at the time of her death she was working at the Post Office Grill. We extend sympathy to her family in their bereavement.

Too Many on Farms

Agricultural America continues to produce a population in excess of that for which it can provide jobs. Even should its productivive efficiency level off, agriculture could not, during the next twenty-five years, provide place for more than a fifth of the expected excess of births over deaths in rural regions.—WPA Research Report D

Our First Duty Is at Home

Our first and final duty is at home—not in Europe or not in Asia. We need not fear armed invasion by any means from any nation three thousand miles away. We can and should, therefore, devote ourselves to a solution of domestic problems — not European difficulties. The danger to the United States and to democracy come from within — not from without. We have nothing to fear from a mad dictator in Europe, but we do have much to fear from continued unemployment and an unsolved agriculture problem. These are the primary problems that face us and their solution must be found within the framework of traditional American principles.

We must keep peace with the world and at the same time extend the borders of economic and social justice at home. By making the United States a better place in which to live, by maintaining our sanity and reason, we best serve democracy, civilization and the world. — Senator Burton K. Wheeler.

EXPERIENCE DOESN'T TEACH

Wash White got a job in a sawmill. The boss put him in charge of a buzz saw, showed him how the saw worked, warned him of its dangers, and then went away.

Wash was fascinated by the shining, whirling saw. But was it, truly, as sharp and terrible as the boss had said? To test it, he touched it gently with his finger. B-z-z-z—and the finger was no more.

As Wash was ruefully tying up his hand in his bandana the boss came back.

"Hullo, there, Washington. What's the matter?"

"Buzz saw done cut off my finger, sah."

"How the dickens did that happen?"

"Ah dunno, sah," said Wash. "Ah just touched de darn contraption like dis an'—fo' de lan' sake, dere goes anudder one."

A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds.—Bacon.

Headache, Bad Breath Tell of More to Come

Just as Paul Revere's famous ride warned of the Redcoats' coming, Nature's messengers — headaches, biliousness, bad breath—often warn of faulty elimination.

Neglecting these signs may cause a host of constipation's discomforts: sour stomach, belching; no appetite or energy; mental dullness.

It's so easy to wake up your lazy insides. Just take spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. Its unusual help comes from its principal ingredient—an intestinal tonic-laxative which imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles.

Again our delegates to the Central Body showed up one hundred per cent. Come on, fellows, if your local thinks enough of you to appoint you as a delegate, surely you should think enough of yourselves to attend meetings. Sho' nuff, it's REALLY surprising some of the things we find out up there.

There is an old saying, and a true one it is, that a chain is as strong as its weakest link. If we went a strong organization, we should all pull together, thereby eliminating the weak links. Cooperation is the keynote of organized labor. Do your own share of the pulling.

Our sympathies to Bros. George Laws and Bill Pope.

The hunting season being open, Brother Broome, diked out in his hunter's outfit, took to the woods. "Nary' a thing he caught, though, but we point to him with pride, saying that he is an honest man. Is a city ordinance voted on "as a whole," or can a certain phase be voted on individually? Let's find out, fellows! Let's not let this board deprive us of our "room and board."

Jack and Jill went up the hill
To fetch a pail of water.
But the city ordinance halted them,
And said they hadn't orter.

UNION TRUCK DRIVERS AWARDED BACK WAGES

DUBUQUE, Ia.—Two former union truck drivers of the K-M company secured back wages totaling $150 and $125, respectively, following a charge filed with the national labor relations board asserting that they had been discharged because of union activities. The two employes were dismissed last July during a strike and not taken back. Under the award, the men received less than their full wages for the intervening period because they had accepted other work in the meantime.

Q. How long will a worker receive monthly benefits after he first gets on the rolls?

Q. Where may claims for old-age and survivors insurance be filed?

A. At any field office of the social security board.

Q. Are there any charges in connection with the filing of claims?

A. No. The social security board will render every service possible without charge.

DAD GIVES SON UNION OATH

Unusual Ceremony Took Place Sunday in Typo Meeting

Leslie Gardner's union obligation means more than is usually the case when an apprentice member is given his journeyman's card. When he looked into the eyes of the person administering the union oath, he saw the light of unionism shining from the eyes of his own father.

Alva Frank Gardner must have felt a thrill when was given the honor of starting his own son down life's trail as a trained craftsman in the Typographical union. Along with other employes in the composing room of The Chattanooga Times, Frank Gardner for the past five years or more had been carefully teaching the printing arts to young Leslie. In addition to the technical points of printing, Leslie was given from time to time a few pointers in unionism. It was not hard for him to learn lessons, because the whole Gardner family is firmly rooted in trades unionism.

Last Sunday, Leslie finished his apprenticeship and the day had arrived for him to assume the duties and prerogatives of a journeyman printer. Instead of the president of the local administering the obligation, as is usually the custom, "the old man" (as many boys affectionately think of their dads) was called forward to do the job.

And an honor it was to both the giver and the taker.

Wiretwisters

Electricians had a birthday last month. They are now 48 years old, with about 225,000 members. The first local was started in St. Louis when work was slack and they could give serious consideration to their problems.

—HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR—

Haven't missed any of the brothers, so guess none of them have headed for the gold pot in Georgia

—READ HOUSE UNFAIR—

The underground work and new street lighting jobs are just about completed—final tests are now being made.

—HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR—

Bill Lanzey took a day off and got married last week and was excused from attending last meeting. Congratulations, Bill!

—DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM?—

Had a good meeting this week—practically everybody had something, he wanted to get off his chest, so everybody was interested in all that went on.

—DOWN WITH POLL TAX—

Don't forget that the meeting nights have been changed . . . next meeting will be Dec. 18, 1939, at 7:30 sharp.

—HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR—

The old man finally has a night off now. Went to church Sunday night; Monday night was C. L. U.; Tuesday night, school; Wednesday night, B. T. C.; Thursday night, special meeting; Friday night, Label league, and Saturday night, HOME.

—DOWN WITH POLL TAX—

Was out visiting this week—looked over the white and colored housing projects. They seem to be coming along fine.

Typo Auxiliary to Meet Next Tuesday

Auxiliary 219, to Typographical Union 89, will meet in regular session next Tuesday night, December 12, at the Times Recreation room.

The meeting will be called to order at 8 p.m., and all members are urged to attend, since the annual election of officers will be held. Members dues must be paid up to date, in order to be eligible to vote.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

An "old-timer" is a fellow who remembers when he could buy a pound of steak for a dime, but forgets he worked an hour to earn the dime.

—HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR—

Don't forget to stand behind Brother O. E. Cook or Brother "Vic" Hallmark to get one of them seated on the housing board. That seat's been empty an awful long time.

—HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR—

Quite a few of the plumbers and steamfitters have taken an interest in bowling and you'll see them down most any Friday night after the meeting. It's good exercise and a lot of good clean fun. Come on down and join us and we'll see to it that "Tag" stays behind the foul line.

—READ HOUSE UNFAIR—

We're all wondering what Shaw has on Roland Payne to be able to get that half-pint of Old Lewis Hunter out of him—all free for nothing.

—DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM?—

There seems to be quite a bit of anxiety on the part of the Chamber of Commerce and smoke abatement committee over the extra amount of smoke which is bound to come on completion of the enormous apartments—one for white, one for colored—which are under construction now. Remember, we told them "where there's fire, there must be smoke," but they didn't seem to understand then when they could have done something about it.

—DOWN WITH POLL TAX—

Sympathies to Brother Charles Stacy on the recent death in his family.

—HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR—

We are very happy to state that all our brothers are working now.

—READ HOUSE UNFAIR—

It seems all our men on both the white and the colored housing are happy to be working under two men as fair and square as Bowden and Pechman. It's something to be able to satisfy that many men, so hats off to the both of you.

—HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR—

However did the Dunn Brothers get away with W. Lambdin's smoking tobacco?

—DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM?—

Guess that, in another month or so, Brother Kelly will be a full-fledged librarian.

—DOWN WITH POLL TAX—

Our reports from the Chattanooga building trades have been coming in alright, but we would like to have a more detailed report. Wonder if they should ask Brother Cuthbert to attend the meetings as a reporter and give us a detailed report in The Labor World, if he would be willing to do so?

—DOWN WITH POLL TAX—

It is the opinion of your writer that a sure way for all of us, who are working, to show our real Christmas spirit would be to join together and give baskets to some of those who are less fortunate than we. By working together as a whole we can purchase our goods from a wholesale house, thereby making our dollars go about twice as far as we could as individuals. All of you members of organized labor, friends and citizens who feel that you would like to make someone's Christmas a happy one, please send to this column any food, clothing or money you feel you can give, or communicate with Ed Bork, Jr., No. 30 Fort Wood apartment. Also, if you know of any families who are in dire need, send in their names and addresses. We have ten families on our list at present and expect to have many more, so please do all you can for these worthy people.

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

30-HOUR WEEK WOULD MAKE JOBS FOR IDLE

Washington State Labor Leaders Vision Smaller Unemployed Army Resulting From Shorter Hours.

Affiliates of the American Federation of Labor in the State of Washington are energetically backing the 30-hour week with the 6-hour day as an effective method of reducing unemployment.

The Executive Council of the State Federation of Labor at its recent meeting went on record for reducing the 40-hour week to the 30-hour week. In emphasizing the action of the Council, Robert Sheets, executive secretary of the State Federation, said 'the 30-hour week would create jobs for something like 8,000 more men in this State."

Pointing out that a 30-hour week nation-wide would work equally as well toward reducing the unemployment totals, Mr. Sheets continued:

"Puget Sound has the 30-hour week in most building trades industries and our wage scales compare with the best in the nation."

"If other groups would get behind the six-hour day plan, we'd soon see more and more jobs created and a healthier condition in the employment situation."

The Building Trades Council at its week-end convention instructed committees to negotiate 30-hour week agreements with highway contractors at the first opportunity, Sheets said, adding:

"We have hundreds of potential jobs awaiting the unemployed when these agreements are signed."

Pressman's Aux. Plans Xmas Party

Pressmens' Auxiliary No. 17, held the regular meeting last Tuesday afternoon and made plans for a Christmas party for the Pressmen and their wives

The party will be given at the home of Mrs. Doty, 1502 W. 46th street, on the night of December 16, and will begin about 8 o'clock.

Everybody is asked to bring some little gift (not more than 25 cents) and the gifts will be exchanged at the party.

TEACHER TALK

Be sure to come to the membership meeting of the Federation on Saturday at Dickinson Junior High school at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

—HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR—

Chancellor Foust has refused a rehearing on the city salary suit on the latest point proposed by our attorney, so appeal is being made to the state supreme court, where it will be tried at the next session, in all probability.

—READ HOUSE UNFAIR—

The latest caprices of the department of education put city teachers in much the same plight as the English clergy of the sixteenth century. You remember how they had to put their wives into cold storage from time to time, depending upon whether a Catholic or Protestant was on the throne. So it is with the city teachers, who make plans and alter them so fast that it would make your head swim. We hope the present plans of the department are to be relied upon. As a matter of pure fact, we do know one teacher who had originally planned to get married in the holidays.

—HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR—

At a special meeting of the board of directors Wednesday night student tickets and additional adult tickets were handed out to your representatives on that body. Let's get out and sell those tickets and make the Kaltenborn evening a huge success.

Nearly Million to Get Old-Age Benefits In 1940, Is Estimate

Washington, D. C.—Social Security Board officials estimate that approximately 912,000 persons will receive benefits during 1940—the first year payments are made under the old-age insurance plan of the Social Security Act.

The benefits will vary from $10 a month to a maximum of $85 a month.

RUFUS FERRELL DIES SATURDAY

Coca-Cola Executive Was Fine Example of Fair-Play

Rufus Edwin Ferrell, 58, vice-president and general manager of the Chattanooga Coca-Cola Bottling Company, died Saturday morning after a brief illness.

Mr. Ferrell had resided in Chattanooga since November, 1894, being connected with the Coca-Cola Bottling Company all that time. He had been vice-president and general manager for several years. He came here from Manchester, his birthplace.

He was a life-long member of the Presbyterian Church, his most recent affiliation being with the Signal Mountain Presbyterian Church, of which he was a member of the board of deacons. He was also a member of the Mountain City Club.

Mr. Ferrell was born in Winchester on June 13, 1881, the son of the late Thomas Ferrell, Sr., and Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Ferrell.

On Oct. 16, 1906, he married Miss Mabel Claire Young, who survives. Other survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Kate Ferrell Shadden and Mrs. Margaret Ferrell Finley; one son, Rufus Edwin Ferrell, Jr.; the following grandchildren: Gloria Ann Shadden, Vaden C. Shadden, Jr., Judith Margaret Finley and R. E. Ferrell III; and three brothers, Robert R. Ferrell of Memphis; Hugh D. Ferrell and Thomas S. Ferrell, both of Chattanooga.

During Mr. Ferrell's management of Coca-Cola in Chattanooga he negotiated and signed every union contract presented to his company. He served as an outstanding example that successful business do better working with union labor.

Local No. 79, Brewery Workers, at its meeting last night, adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas Divine Providence called to Him on Dec. 2, 1939, Rufus Edwin Ferrell, after a life rich in service to this community; and,

"Whereas, Mr. Ferrell, as vice-president and general manager of the Chattanooga Coca-Cola Bottling company, had many occasions to deal with employes of his company, during which time he established himself as a man of human kindness and fairness, which is in itself one of the marks of a true Christian gentleman; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by Local 79, International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers of America, that we have suffered a heavy blow in the loss of our true friend and employer, Mr. Ferrell; and be it further

"Resolved That we present his memory to his community as a model which could be profitably followed by all other employers; be it finally

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the bereaved family, a copy be spread on our minutes, and a copy be sent to our paper, The Labor World, for publication."

CIO Seeks to End Rebellion In Nova Scotia

Glace Bay, N. S.—Official cognizance has been taken by CIO President John L. Lewis of the almost continual rebellion in the United Mine Workers in District 26, the headquarters of the CIO in Canada. This rebellion has practically wrecked an attempt by the CIO to organize other trades in the district.

William Sneed, "a good will ambassador" from President Lewis, has arrived in the district from Washington, and is holding conferences in an effort to smooth over the differences within the CIO ranks. Sneed has been revealed as the personal emissary of Lewis, the latter having ordered the basic unit of the CIO to cease battling among themselves as it was greatly marring the general organization work of the CIO not only in the affected district but all through Canada.

The CIO organizers have been kept busy trying to keep their own locals in line without going outside the fold to form new locals and unions. Even on Cape Breton Island the U.M.W. and CIO base, this organization work has been intefered with. Sneed is expected to stay in the district until Christmas, so great is the problem with which he has to contend. On his hands for settlement he has factional fights between locals and the district executive and within the locals.

Firm Fined for Hiring Minors in Violation Of Wage-Hour Act

Chicago.—Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward imposed a fine of $1,500 on the Miller Gebhardt Co., makers of artificial flowers, in the first prosecution here for violation of the child labor provisions of the federal wages and hours law.

The company pleaded guilty to employment of children to make flowers at home.

Additional fines of $2,000 each were imposed against the company, Richard E. Gebhardt and Harry W. Miller, on pleas of guilty to violating the wages and hours law.

Fuel Truck Drivers Win Pay Increase

Philadelphia.—An 11-day strike of 1,900 coal and fuel truck drivers ended in victory for the workers, who won a new contract providing a three-cent-an-hour wage increase. The strike was directed against 71 dealers.

Local 470, Teamsters' union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, called the strike Nov. 15 after failure to renew a blanket contract.

The new agreement provides a wage of 78 cents an hour, a three cent increase. The strikers originally asked 80 cents while the dealers offered 77 cents.

Chicago Unions Ready to Press Fight On Board of Education's Plan for Big Expansion of Trade Schools

By JOSEPH A. WISE

Chicago.—The Chicago Board of Education apparently is due to encounter a lot of trouble over its planned expansion of trade schools. A number of the unions are getting ready to make an assault on the board as a result of the board's announced intention to greatly enlarge the existing trade schools. Committees have been appointed to look into the matter and make any recommendations deemed necessary.

It has been announced that an enlargement of the Washburn Trade School now under way will cost $387,000, and "will offer additional courses in the various trades and occupation." Plumbing, steamfitting, plastering, air conditioning, painting, paper hanging, welding, cutting stencils, woodwoork, motor testing, sheet metal work, motor testing, sheet metal listed. More than 5,000 students are enrolled at the Washburn Trade School.

A much more ambitious plan is designed for the South Side part of Chicago, where the big iron and steel mills are located. It is alleged that one of the big steel corporations is behind a plan to install a complete steel mill in a trade school in that part of the city. A big printing plant also is named as a part of the plans for the South Side school.

Trades Now Overcrowded

Union men express themselves as being sympathetic toward giving the boys and girls a chance, but they say that this is no way to go about it. The skilled trades in Chicago are overcrowded as matters now stand and the unions for years have had a big out-of-work surplus which the members have been taxed to support.

It is pointed out that it is criminal to add to this burden by throwing a bunch of novices on the market.

It is neither just to the skilled men already qualified to hold jobs nor to the children whom the Board of Education deludes with the belief that a finished workman can be turned out in a trade school, it further is pointed out.

Russia's Ultimate Goal

"Soviet Russia has no intention of imperiling Finland's independence and does not want to interfere with her internal affairs," Molotov, Russian premier, said.

Well, put that in your hat. There may be occasion to refer to it.

But along with it goes from Berlin: "There is an understanding here of the Russian need to secure an unimpeded route to the Baltic Sea."

The Russian army is not equipped for any Britzkrieg. They have no time for the mechanical toothless but the skill, nor the discipline of the Germans. But they do know what Russia has always had to overcome hordes, with some modern trap [illegible] and a [illegible] use of modern language in military and mechanical connections.

In that case, Canada might become the new headquarters of the British Empire. And the foreign policy of the United States would have to deal with a brand new set of facts—and neighbors.

None of this is rational—but neither is the war which Finland is making against Soviet Russia. It is out of Alice in Wonderland, with Satan handling it as a personally conducted affair.

Administering Labor Legislation

The American Federationist, official magazine of the American Federation of Labor, points out that persons who know labor problems and the labor movement are essential to good administration of labor laws. Mere theorists will not do, it shows.

"Not only the training, the understanding and the sympathies of those charged with such administration, have much to do with the results obtained," it says.

Administration of labor laws, the Federationist further points out, "has suffered seriously" because in many cases persons appointed as administrators have had no practical experience in labor problems or the conduct of unions. In other cases they have been Communists or other radicals "for whom their jobs are only opportunities to serve their revolutionary causes," the magazine remarks.

The Federationist has touched on a serious problem, one which needs to be called frequently to the attention of the nation.

Employment Increase of 1,600,000 Reported from May to November

Washington, D. C.—Preliminary Department of Labor figures show a gain in factory employment of 25,000 in the period from mid-October to mid-November, Secretary of Labor Perkins reported.

The increase, Miss Perkins said, was largely in steel, cotton textiles, electric machinery, aircraft construction and slaughtering. Normally, she said, seasonal employment declines in the canning apparel industries, resulting in a loss of approximately 135,000 jobs in the period.

Non-agricultural employment in the United States, the secretary said, has increased by 1,600,000 from May to November. The increase in mid-November, she added, was smaller than those which occurred between August and September and September-October but was at a greater rate than in any month during the period of rising employment of 1936 to 1937 except in December, 1936.

Increase in aircraft construction and steel, Miss Perkins said, probably were due to domestic needs and the national defense program and not war orders. She said the European war is still too recent to be reflected in increased industrial orders.

NLRB REFUSES TO TAKE JURISDICTION IN DISPUTE BETWEEN AFL UNIONS

Longview, Wash.—The National Labor Relations Board has declined to exercise jurisdiction in the dispute of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union and the Machinists', Boilermakers' and Electrical Workers' unions, all affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, involving employes of the huge Weyerhaeuser Timber Company plant in Longview.

The board ruled: "In conformity with prior decisions refusing to exercise jurisdiction in cases where wo or more unions, each affiliated with the same parent body, seek to represent the same employes, we will not exercise jurisdiction in the dispute."

The Lumber and Sawmill Workers have claimed jurisdiction over all employes in the plant, inasmuch as they have a contract with the Weyerhaeuser Company. The Machinists, Boilermakers and Electrical Workers have sought jurisdiction over men employed as machinists, boilermakers and electricians.

VACATIONS WITH PAY CLASSIFIED AS WAGES

San Francisco, Calif.—Under the terms of an award recently made by Albert A. Rosenshine, arbitrator, in the controversy concerning the Simmons Maintenance Company, employes of the company were ruled to be entitled to vacations with pay under circumstances providing that vacations are considered the same as wages.

Russell R. Dreyer, business representative of the Apartment House Employes' Union, Local No. 14, interpreted the ruling to mean that the termination of employment has no bearing on the employes' claim for pay in lieu of accumulated vacation privileges.

"This decision," Mr. Dreyer said, "carries out the principle long contended for by unions and a principle recognized by the United States Government and the courts that vacations are required wage liability."

Senator Mead Advocates Expansion Of Food Stamp Plan to Further Aid

Washington.—Senator James M. Mead, of New York, discussing the record of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation's food stamp plan for International Labor News Service, praised the plan and urged its continuation and expansion.

Mead declared that the plan, first experimentally for the last six months in his state at Rochester, has been definitely successful, and points to an intelligent, practical method for the solution of the nation's surplus problem. He said that consumers, retailers, and farmers benefit under the plan and that its expansion into other cities would have a salutary effect in stimulating retail business and in reducing relief costs to local communities.

Worth Held Proved.

"The food stamp plan has successfully passed its experimental stage and, with its worth proved, I favor an expansion of the program," said the senator. "Public and private agencies in New York state have watched the plan operate in Rochester and have seen with satisfaction the increase in the retail sale of certain surplus food commodities.

"For example, the retail sale of butter increased 28 per cent, of prunes 46 per cent, of flour 62 per cent, of corn meal 76 per cent, and of beans 200 per cent. Relief clients and, in some states, low-wage families have been direct beneficiaries. The addition of new surplus commodities in the plan will effectively help farm prices and will assist in the disposition of unwieldly surpluses.

Expansion Favored.

"I understand consideration is being given to an expansion of the program. I heartily favor such activity. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation deserves general commendation for its cautious and intelligent application of the plan.

"There are 40,000,000 Americans living in families whose average cash income is $9 a week. About 16,500,000 of these people are getting some sort of public assistance. These are the families who will benefit from an extended stamp program.

"I am urging the inclusion of additional New York state communities in the program as it is expanded."

Ladies' Garment Workers Union Veers Toward American Federation of Labor

Executive Board Serves Notice of Re-Affiliation Move at May Convention If Split in Organizatized Labor Movement Continues.

Washington, D. C.—The executive board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, whose membership numbers 250,000, may rejoin the American Federation of Labor next spring if by that time peace between the A. F. of L. and the CIO has not been realized.

This notice came in the form of a public statement by the board that when the national convention of the I. L. G. W. U. is held next May the question of reaffiliation with the A. F. of L. will be laid before the delegates representing the entire membrship of the union.

"We had hoped and we still hope," the statement said, "that by the time our convention takes place in May, 1940, peace will be realized so that we might join in a united labor movement.

"If peace is not accomplished by that time, the question of our continued independence or affiliation with the A. F. of L., to which we belonged for thirty-seven years, will be determined by our convention."

The statement declared that the union's attitude with regard to the supreme importance of peace in American labor has undergone no change.

"We still consider labor peace as a primary factor to the well-being and the progress of American workers," it proceeded.

Cites "Change of Position."

"Further more, we still are firmly of the opinion that the fundamental obstacles which stood in the way of a united labor movement when the CIO was organized, namely, the recognition of industrial unionism for the mass production indusries and a greater measure of democracy in union government, have largely disappeared with the substantial change of the position of the A. F. of L on these issues.

"The prospects of an early peace in the labor movement unfortunately are not bright at this hour. We regret that the several efforts of President Roosevelt in this direction have met with little success, though we are glad to know that the president had retained an abiding and sincere interest in the cause of labor peace.

"Our union still retains its position outside either the A. F. of L. or CIO. In refusing to join a permanent CIO organization last year, we decided to remain independent until peace is established in the labor movement or until our status is otherwise determined by a convention of our international union."

Best Christmas Business Since 1929 Predicted

Washington, D. C.—The best volume of Christmas business since the boom year 1929 is predicted by government economists.

Consumers, they say, have more money to spend than any time in the last ten years and are showing a greater willingness to buy.

The economists, who have access to current business reports, said that while dollar volume of Christmas sales will be the highest for the Roosevelt administration, it will still be substantially below that for December, 1929. However, they added, the quantity sold will compare favorably with the pre-new deal boom year.

Significant Gains Made By Unions in San Jose

Painters, Clerks and Restaurant Workers Link in Signed Agreements.

San Jose, Calif.—City-wide activity among American Federation of Labor unions in San Jose to increase their strength and secure progressive agreements with employers is indicated in recent gains registered here.

Local 507 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America announced the negotiation of a closed shop agreement with the San Jose Master Painters' association. The contract includes provisions for shop card working conditions and the universal time card system. Union officials said the stubs of the time cards will go to the union, thus providing a check for unemployment insurance and other benefits.

The hotel and restaurant employes' local union announced the opening of a new union restaurant, called the "Koffee Kup," located at 17 E. Santa Clara street.

The third and fourth unions to make known their achievements were the retail clerks and butcher workmen, whose officials and members expressed their gratification at the opening of another food shop by the Peninsula Stores where the employes are union members. In addition to employing union members, the new store, one of the most attractive in this area, was erected by union workers.

Serious Situation Created

Unthinking acceptance of the idea that workers of 40 or more are less desirable than younger workers creates a serious situation. Unemployment mounting with age means that it is increasingly difficult for older workers who lose their jobs to secure new ones. Yet there are workers who, during the middle years of life, are saddled with heavy responsibilities, and their lack of employment means both deprivation and added burdens for the young.—Virginia State Employment Service.

Parliaments and Democracy

On the day that Molotov charged in his speech at Moscow that England was virtually a fascist government, parliament met and laborites and liberals vigorously attacked the conduct of the war. The laborites charged that civil liberties had been invaded unnecessarily even for prosecuting the campaign for victory. As a result of this vigorous pressing against the Chamberlain government the war bill was radically revised and liberalized. Thus even in wartime democratic institutions attest to their resiliency and stability. Parliaments and congresses are the safety valve of the democratic system and are essential to the perpetuation of the democratic form. —Electrical Workers Journal.

Alcohol and Accidents

The time will come when driving after drinking will be placed in the same category with carrying concealed weapons, robbery, incendiarism and other misdemeanors about which there is absolutely no question in the public or official mind. It will come through legislation, improved court procedure and the development of adequate test methods. That time, unfortunately, probably is not near.—From "Lest We Regret," Travelers Insurance company.

T. R. UNDERWOOD, JR.

We sorrowfully report the death of Brother E. Varnes' father, Dec. We extend great sympathy to the family and friends of Brother Varnes.

— HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR —

We are glad to see that Brother Varner is well and back on the job again. I also notice that since he came back Brother John Cherry is all smiles again.

— DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM? —

The new uniforms are coming now and all are getting dressed up and strutting around like peacocks. Every man will be in full uniform by April, 1940, so if there are any photographers that need some good pictures just come around the car barn and I am sure we will be well pleased.

— DOWN WITH POLL TAX —

Brother W. T. Manly is reported getting nicely and is up walking around a little.

Brother E. McSpadden is reported not doing so good.

Brother J. B. Fisher is in Hot Springs, Ark., taking the baths for rheumatism and is reported getting fine.

We hope to see these brothers back on duty real soon. Be sure to go and visit these brothers.

— HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR —

Brothers R. M. Lanham and G. R. Hawk are back on duty after spending a few days in Florida trying their luck at fishing.

— READ HOUSE UNFAIR —

Railroad crossings are dangerous. STOP—LOOK—LISTEN.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL

Encouragement.

Failure is the vestibule to success.

We must fail, if need be, in order to succeed.

The glory of final success is worth the humiliation of repeated failures.

"When you get into a tight place and everything goes against you, till it seems as if you could not hold on a minute longer—never give up then, for that's just the place and time the tide will turn." Do not allow discouragements to linger long. Let the star of hope point the way. Keep the sunshine of love, laughter and work in your heart. Smile, be pleasant, be earnest, and work faithfully, and then you will not have time to get blue. If things go wrong, turn them off as lightly as possible. Blue days come to all, so receive yours with a smile; this enables you to sidestep the shadow and merge into the light. Liken them unto the clouds, and say, "Clouds, bring rain, and rain cause vegetation to burst forth from winter's prison walls to bless." So, work over the blue days in your mind, and turn them out as a part of the plan—a psychic good.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

Imagine a country in which there was no youth. This might not be one in which there were no people who had lived a comparatively short portion of their earthy space. It might be one in which the spirit of youth, which is enthusiasm, daring, idealism and, above all, undisillusioned hope, had been killed. It wouldn't be much of a country.

This is so true that the inexorable laws of nature unhesitatingly sacrifice the old for the new generation

Things just do not go on, with dinosaurs or men, unless the young generation gets the best of the breaks.

But one of the first flurries of reviving business was a clamor for skilled workers.

A quarter of a million youngsters coming onto the "labor market" each year and not enough trained workers to fill even the preliminary expansions of industrial activity. At least, so some have claimed.

— DOWN WITH POLL TAX —

And other reports say that a big percentage of the idle youth are unemployable, from physical by-products of undernourished and hopeless unemployment, by lack of training, or training in the wrong way or by inevitable loss of morale.

Light is thrown on the situation by a sample in Philadelphia. According to a survey made there, it appears that about one-half of the high school graduates of 1936 have succeeded in the ensuing two years, in getting some kind of an economic toe-hold.

Of the remainder, 36 per cent are still seeking jobs. The rest are apparently back at school, marking time. Or they have given up. Or something else has happened to them.

Of those who had been successful in getting some kind of job, only 30 per cent of those vocationally, in other words, specially trained, were receiving more than $15 per week.

— DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM? —

Security upon which to found a family, resources for what is called the "better life," on $15 per week?

More and more good people are thinking and talking and working with this problem. More and more are coming out courageously, refusing longer to blink facts.

More and more it is being borne in on those who feel realization and responsibility that the failures of today in this field cannot be repaired in the future. Whatever is done of injustices to the youngsters now coming up will leave its traces on the future of this nation to the end of time.

— HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR —

Each generation, as it achieves maturity and begins to see the end of its own road, is prone to vaporize a great deal about "handing on the torch."

In this case, we had better see that the said torch is not the sooty, smelly and very dimly lit smudge we are now carrying.

As is customary, with social problems, the awakening to this grim fact seems to be belated but there are indications that it is at hand.

But, as is again the customary thing, it will have to be extensively vocalized and discussed before action can be had.

Parents, and all others should perform at least the service of seeing that there is plenty said about the present situation and th prospects of those who will shortly have to take over the running of affairs.

Metal Trades Fight Use of Non-Union Parking Meters

Seattle, Wash. — Opposition of the Seattle Metal Trades' council to the city's plan to purchase Mark-Time parking meters probably will bring a postponement of meter installation in the city, municipal officers say.

The Metal Trades council, protesting the Mark-Time meter was not union made, threatened a boycott if they were installed.

Meanwhile, City Councilman David Levine injected a new angle into the dispute when he said that "no parking meter is 100 per cent union, as none has an agreement with the clockmakers' section of the International Jewelry Workers' union, of which I formerly was international representative."

Levine said that if the Metal Trades council persists in its stand against the Mark-Time machine "which will save Seattle the most money, my union will have yours and all other meters declared unfair because none uses union clocks, the most important part of the mechanism."

Women: "Build-Up" To Relieve Pain

A weak, run-down, undernourished condition calls for attention!

Such a condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get its foothold. That's one thing which leads to much of women's suffering from headaches, nervousness, those cramp-like pains. A good way to relieve such pains, women by thousands have found, is by the proper use of CARDUI. It stimulates a lagging appetite, assists digestion and assimilation; thus helps build physical resistance to periodic pain. Taken just before and during "the time," many women also report that CARDUI helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

Origin and Evil Effects of "Know-Nothingism"

"Now, as a matter of fact, we

"Know-Nothingism was ex-

"That is shown by the fact that throughout the nation of the possible voters in 1920 was 52 per cent. Only nine per cent of the eligible voters in South Carolina voted in 1936. Only seven per cent of the eligible voters in Mississippi voted in 1936. Only 29 per cent of the eligible voters of Tennessee voted in 1936, and only 24 per cent of the eligible voters of Texas voted in 1936, all indicating that the poll tax has practically barred the poor white and the Negro voters of the South.

bigotry and hate would swirl again and crush him in defeat. Therefore Know-Nothingism is not yet dead, Know-Nothingism is still alive.

"And just as the Catholics had to employ the ballot to protect their citizenship rights, the Negro workers, too, must have a right to use the ballot to protect their status in the nation. Just as you had Know-Nothingism against the Catholics you have anti-Semitism against the Jews. As a matter of fact, in certain of the public utilities they will not permit Jews to exercise any consideration in the handling of managerial affairs or labor in the field of labor in certain of the public utilities.

Thirteen Million Negroes Are "Practically Disfranchised"

"So that these various groups in the country who have been victims of persecution have seen the necessity of using the ballot to protect their rights. The Negroes constitute the largest single minority in America. The population of Negroes in America is larger than the population of Canada and larger than the population of the Baltic States.

"Negroes have the right to exercise suffrage in this country. They are not here upon sufferance, they are here upon right. The Negroes are American citizens. They were born here, they have helped to fell the forsets, they have dug the ditches, they have picked the cotton, they have picked the turpentine, they have built the country and they have also defended the nation with their blood. If there is any group in the country who have a right to exercise citizenship privileges it is the Negro people.

"So that I am very glad to note the attitude of the Resolutions committee on this resolution, because it is fundamental. Labor more and more is recognizing the necessity of employing political action to supplement their economic action That is shown by the fight for the National Labor Relations Act, workmen's compensation laws, the Federal child labor laws, the Social Security laws that make for the amelioration and the relief of the ills of the workers.

"But here you have in this country 13,000,000 Negroes who are practically disfranchised, and so the disfranchisement of the Negro people by the nullification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, through the devious method of the white primaries and the poll tax is the outstanding No. 1 disgrace to American democracy."

Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration February 9, 1927, and recorded in Book M, Vol. 21, page 317, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said M. A. F. L. Dry Cleaners Strike in St. Louis

Higher-Pay Walkout Involved 1,000 Employes of 41 Firms; Eleven Sign Union Contract.

St. Louis, Mo.—A wage increase strike involving about 1,000 workers in 41 dry cleaning establishments in St. Louis and St. Louis county was called by Local 366 of the Cleaners, Laundry, Linen and Towel Chauffeurs' union and Local No. 20 of the International Association of Cleaning and Dye House Workers, both affiliates of the American Federation of Labor.

The walk-out was ordered in an attempt to secure a 9 per cent wage increase for members of the Cleaners, Laundry, Linen and Towel Chauffeurs' union and a 15 per cent increase for members of the International Association of Cleaning and Dye House Workers' union.

Forty-one firms were closed at first, but eleven reopened after the owners signed tentative agreements with the unions.

Federal Court of Appeals Upsets Big Damage Award Against Union In Apex Sit-Down Strike Case

Philadelphia.—In an unanimous opinion of far-reaching importance to organized labor, the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals set aside a triple damaged verdict of $711,932 against the American Federation of Hosiery Workers for damage done to the Apex Hosiery Company's plant during a long sit-down strike in 1937.

The award was invalidated by the court on the grounds that the 48-day strike was not a "violation of the Sherman or Clayton anti-trust" acts, as the company contended, but that interference with the firm's interstate commerce business arose only from a "local" attempt to unionize the plant.

Court Raps Sit-Downers

A Federal District Court jury last April 3 returned a verdict for $237,310 damages, and the amount was tripled under the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws.

The Court of Appeals, however, denounced the conduct of the 200 sit-down strikers for allegedly wrecking knitting machinery, smashing furniture and fixtures, and declared the company probably would have had a good claim against the union in the state courts.

Strikers who seized the plant on May 6, 1937, and held it until June 23, did not have as their objective the interruption of interstate commerce, according to the court.

Strike Held Local in Effect

"On the contrary," the opinion stated, "their intent was to unionize the plant, an action local in motive and local in effect."

Although the Circuit Court intimated that the state courts constituted "the appropriate forum" in which the Apex Company should seek its damages, Sylvan H. Hirsch, counsel for the company, stated that he would appeal the case immediately to the United States Supreme Court.

The decision was a sweeping victory for all forms of organized labor, it was said, as the judgment, if upheld, would have given employers a "club" to combat strike activities.

ARCHBISHOP URGES END TO LABOR DIVISION

New Orleans.—Speaking before the New Orleans Trades and Labor Council, Archbishop Joseph F. Rummell expressed the hope that the present internal struggle in the ranks of labor would be brought to an early end and that labor factions would co-operate to take advantage of their opportunities. In this age, he said, there is a great opportunity for unification of labor which is now being dissipated by the present lack of unity.

A single grateful thought towards Heaven is the most complete prayer.—Lessing.

Can Labor Get Together?

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Organized Labor in this country is today stronger numerically than at any time in its history, the combined membership of the A. F. of L. and the CIO alone numbering about 8,000,000. But with this growth have naturally come new problems, both in Industry, and in the Labor movement itself, the solution of which requires statesmanship of a high order. These recently created problems will become increasingly complex, due, in part, to modern methods of production and distribution, the exchange of commodities between different countries, improved standards of living, and new forms of organization.

There is no patent method or formula which can guide us surely and accurately in their solution. But of this we may be sure—whatever the method that may be applied, it will require the cooperation of all the various groups concerned — Industry, Labor and the public. If any one of these groups fails to function fairly and adequately, the entire plan will go limping along, thus halting the progress of all concerned. And, naturally, there must be unity in the program of each of these representative groups.

The failure of Labor in this respect is generally admitted. Everybody, from the President of the United States down to the humblest worker whose job is imperilled by Labor's controversy, is asking the question: "Why can't Labor get together?" It is not our purpose just now to answer this question. The fact is, Labor itself knows full well why there are divisions in its rank. But—and here's the question which should be asked the critics—why pick on Labor because it can't agree at once on what should be done? There are other groups in this country which have long been at sword's points. Why haven't they gotten together?

For example, why don't the churches get together? Most of the various denominations have a common purpose and a fairly common program. But Methodist, Baptists, Lutherans, Presbyterians, and other major religious bodies in this country have not only been separated from each other but divided among themselves for scores of years some of them for nearly a century.

Why don't the various political parties which insist that they are deeply concerned about the social and economic welfare of the whole people agree even in their party ranks upon a common program and actively put it across? Why should the whole world be torn to pieces just now because of the fear of war between nations whose statesmen loudly profess their interest to be solely in the welfare of humanity as a whole?

And no matter who should be the spokesman for these or any other group, the whole truth would scarcely be told. Why expect Labor to publicly confess its faults and take its chances on getting a square deal? This is no apology for Labor in the present situation. But Labor is no different from any other group trying to work out its own problems in its own way.

In the last analysis, getting together is largely a question of leadership. Whether it be in the Church, politics, international relations, or Labor, it usually depends on some one man. Anyway, there's where it starts. And as far as Labor is concerned just now—there's opportunity for some one man in every community or local Labor body or national organization to step up boldly and make the fight for unity, even though he himself may take a pretty good licking—and from his own crowd.

Aproverb is a short sentence based on long experience.—Cervantes.

Senator Mead Prepares Bills to Aid Older Worker, Promote Low Cost Housing, Help Small Business

Washington, D. C.—U. S. Senator James M. Mead is preparing an ambitious legislative program during the lull between sessions of Congress. Loans to small business, the problem of the older worker, flood control surveys, drouth relief to New York State, extension of the Civil Service, curbs on war profiteering in food stuffs, refinancing of farm mortgages, aid to HOLC borrowers, public works, housing, and conservation head an imposing list of measures on which the Senator is devoting time and research. He will press for approval to consumers and labor after Congress reconvenes.

Small Business Aid

The Senator's new bill designed to aid banks in meeting the credit requirements of small business is being favorably received at Washington and throughout the country, it was said at his office. Approval of the plan which involves the creation of no new agencies nor the borrowing of additional public money is freely predicted in business and financial quarters.

Mead's resolution to investigate the question of age discrimination against middle-aged workers and older employables has been heartily endorsed by labor groups and will receive new impetus after January, it is expected.

He has several bills under consideration for the extension of the Federal Civil Service and for improvement in the postal service, subjects which have always been particularly close to him.

Profiteering Curb Sought

A curb on profiteering in foodstuffs during the European war has been the subject of many inquiries and suggestions by the Senator. He has suggested the advisability of a special joint committee of the House and Senate to watch price increases and to observe its treatment at the hands of Federal Departments.

The Mead bill for continuation of the PWA is still very much alive.

Labor Resents Destruction of Chattanooga News

KALTENBORN TO "COMMENTATE" AT AUDITORIUM SATURDAY NITE

A full house is expected at the Memorial Auditorium to hear H. V. Kaltenborn, most popular of the radio commentators and news analysts, at 8:15 Saturday evening. According to Mrs. Dorothy Wood McCurdy, program director of WDOD, Kaltenborn has the greatest following in the history of radio news editing as proved by broadcasting statistics. His appearance here is sponsored by the Chattanooga-Hamilton County Teachers' Federation.

The European war has created a tense interest in first-hand descriptions and interpretations by those who are and have been on the field of action. Kaltenborn, ace news analyst of the Columbia Broadcasting System, stands in the front ranks. His editions of the news are, to quote "Broadcasting," "factual, fair and objective; frank and unprejudicial and intensely loyal."

His crisp, clear professional voice skillfully draws the essential facts. His command of four languages enables him to digest what he hears and make his notes without translators. Before the mike he is completely at ease, talking freely without script. His quick-acting mind, with a wealth of experience and information, goes at once to the heart of the subject at hand with scarcely a pause for eliminating the non-essentials. A born public speaker, Kaltenborn is a "natural" for radio.

In 1922 the Brooklyn Eagle, the paper with which Kaltenborn was associated, began radio programs on current events. This experiment cost the Eagle its most enterprising employe and for more than 10 years Kaltenborn has been "editing the news" on the air.

But Kaltenborn is not a sensationalist. As John K. Lagemann has said, "In all his exploits, Kal-

Sad Misfortune for Mother of Robt. Tipton

Robert Tipton, well known member of the Dairy Workers' union, is receiving the sympathies of all because of a misfortunte to his mother. An infection made an amputation of a limb at the knee necessary. She is at Campbell's clinic, and latest report is that she is resting well.

New Delegates Obligated for Central Body

J. Oscar Miller Gives Another Musical Treat

Under direction of J. Oscar Miller, the Chattanooga Civic Chorus, formerly the Cadek Choral Society presented Handel's oratorio, "Samson," on Tuesday, Dec. 12, at the Memorial Auditorium.

A quartet from New York City including Florence Vickland, soprano; Lydia Summers, contralto; William Hain, tenor, and John Percival, bass baritone, assisted. Ottokar Cadek was concertmaster for the orchestra that accompanied the singers, and Frances Hall Hill and Carl Schiebe was at the piano and organ.

The story of "Samson" is one of the most dramatic of the Old Testament and Handel's music is a magnificent accompaniment for the Biblical text.

Smothering of Liberal Paper Would Be Blow To This Community

LOSS OF JOBS TO WORKERS ILL-TIMED

Persistent rumor of the closing of The Chattanooga News has created quite a bit of alarm in the labor movement, according to discussion at the Central Body meeting last Monday evening. Delegates reported that they had become convinced that an attempt is now being made on the part of a reactionary element to force The News "to the wall" through financial maneuvering.

It seemed to be the opinion that The Chattanooga News has for many years been the main representative of liberal thought in Chattanooga, and that the loss of this paper would be a great victory for the forces that stand for selfish interests to the harm of the masses.

Although the labor representatives realized that they were helpless to stop any relentless onslaught made by enemies of The News, they did exercise their right to protest in the following resolution:

Whereas, The Chattanooga News' editorial policies have been considered by most liberal thinking people in this community as most favorable to the "common people"; and

Whereas, unpublished rumors have become so persistent as to bear the appearance of facts that there is now in being a determined effort on the part of some individuals to close The News by reason of financial maneuvering; and

Whereas, it appears that the forces attempting to destroy The News are doing so with the goal in mind of destroying a liberal unit in our community life; therefore be it

Resolved, by Chattanooga Central Labor union, in regular session this December 11, that we deplore and resent any attempt to destroy a liberal newspaper, which would also throw out of employment a large number of Chattanooga workers; be it further

Resolved, that we tell this community that we hope The Chattanooga News will continue publication and that reactionary forces will be confounded in their efforts to destroy jobs of working people and also the champion of humane economic principles.

Label League Meets Dec. 22

Chattanooga Label League will have its next meeting on December 22 at the Patten hotel, according to announcement by President Marie Reynolds.

The meeting will start at 7:30.

Drivers Benefit From Gamble-Robinson Pact

Agreement Negotiated by A. F. of L. Affiliate Covers Four States.

Fort Dodge, Ia. — The recent blanket agreement negotiated by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, with the Gamble-Robinson Co., and its subsidiaries in Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, secured many new benefits for union members, according to reports made at a meeting of Iowa Drivers' Council here.

In the new contract the old compulsory arbitration clause is replaced by the provision that any controversy "shall be adjusted by negotiation by the union and the employer." There is also provision protecting the seniority rights of the employes.

The new wage scale includes substantial increases.

A separate rider covering the company's operations in Iowa calls for a weekly wage of $26.25 for country drivers with one year's service in any department.

The agreement runs for two years.

Bakers Use Three Million Union Labels

Chicago, Ill.—In less than a year three billions and a quarter of union labels on bread and bread wrappers were used, according to a statement of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America. The period covered was Jan. 1 to Oct. 1, 1939. The international union, through these gains in union label output, heads a large number of American Federation of Labor unions using union labels.

Pegler Criticized for Unwarranted Attacks on American Organized Labor

Editor's Note—Westbrook Pegler, a columnist whose articles are purchased and published by a considerable number of daily papers, frequently indulges in senseless diatribes against the American organized labor movement which are not supported by facts and which lack that elemental decency that should characterize criticism of any established institution or three-year-olds.

Recently The Hat Worker, the official organ of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International Union, affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, answered in an editorial some of Mr. Pegler's most scurrilous unfaithful slanders against organized labor. The editorial is contained in this article.

(Answer to An Attack on Unions by Westbrook Pegler)

UNFAIR ENOUGH

Westbrook Pegler, the columnist with the anti-union colic, has had another of his periodic fits of distemper about labor organizations.

Using a recent change of procedure on the part of the National Labor Relations Board for a spring board, he dives into a pool of vitriol on the "tyranny" of unions and "closed shop racketeers," and comes up gasping with a tearful plea for employers who are supposedly deprived of their rights and liberties. "Employers," he says, "still lack the right to speak freely—a right specifically granted by the Constitution but suspended by the (Labor) board with the high-handedness of a Soviet court deciding to knock off a handful of political dissenters and Americans who prefer not to belong to labor unions and thus pay cash tribute out of their wages to the funds of the New Deal, the Spanish Communists or the Communists' conspiracy against the United States may be compelled to join up and pay or forfeit their right to work for a living in their own country."

Mr. Pegler used to be a newspaperman himself once and knows that the copy desk would pin his ears back quicker than he could write "30" if he jimmied any such sentence as the above into a normal, journeyman report. But rhetoric and the requirements of lucid composition aside, let us try to pull out the monkey wrenches and spare screwdrivers, the oily waste and lunch scraps which he has purposely thrown into the assembly of his argument, and see what it is he is trying to say.

Let us dispose of the red herrings first. Mr. Pegler has dragged in some ripe ones purposely in order to smell up the place and make it impossible to stay with him long enough to answer him. Let us, nevertheless, take the ancient fish reading: "Americans who prefer not to belong to unions and thus pay cash tribute to the funds of the New Deal, the Spanish Communists, etc." The assumption of this piscatorial gem of argumentation is that real, red-blooded Americans will prefer not to pay "tribute" or dues to unions and that it is a crying shame that they should be obliged to do so.

This argument is as ancient as unionism and has been used by every boss and every union buster from the year One. Every mean, vicious sweat shopper, every owner of a company town who does not hesitate to dip into the pockets of his help by means of gyp prices in company stores, company schools and company cemeteries, will point out to the help the folly of belonging to a union and paying dues to "outsiders."

Mr. Pegler puts a little English on the ball by calling these "outsiders" the New Deal, Spanish Communists and "aliens with hatred for everything American." We don't know whom he means by the latter unless, perhaps, he has been looking too long in the mirror. If he means that union dues go to support Communists and Communist causes, he has failed to read the financial reports of most unions, reports that are more public than his own income tax returns or those of the newspapers that assume to preach financial and moral responsibility to all and sundry.

Challenges are just so many dead cats, but if Mr. Pegler insists on flinging decomposed felines around, we'll throw this one right back in his face. This union, and every union of standing in the labor community, is ready to match financial audits with any newspaper to which he sells his aseptic and virgin-pure masterpieces. It will be interesting to see who backs these newspapers, who controls them, what little and big grafts they encourage or condone, and whether they play straight with their readers or play handies with the advertisers and big wigs against the readers' interests.

Mr. Pegler, who has become an expert on trade unionism by reading his own columns, might also learn by examining the record of this and other organizations that the unions have been the most energetic, as well as the most successful, opponents of communism in this country. The unions have been far more consistent in their opposition to communist groups and juntas than some of the newspapers in which Mr. Pegler's acidulous columns appear.

Mr. Pegler and others have been trying to pin the red label on trade unions too often. It's a neat trick even if not so smart. But the truth is that the American labor movement, composed as it is of a cross section of the American people, is as communist as all America. And anyone who imagines that America is communist-dominated is either as curdled as Mr. Pegler or as loco as some of the commissars on Union Square. Both have been smoking reefers for the joy of seeing themselves big through the smoke.

Mr. Pegler primes his blunderbuss at the labor board and hits the unions with still another charge of powder. "The board," he says, "has done nothing noticeable as yet to curb fiendish acts of coercion by which labor racketeers with a strike on their hands . . . may terrorize the families of American citizens who stand on their right to retain their jobs. The employer may not even speak a word of sympathy to a persecuted American citizen who has the courage to oppose the union when a strike is on."

Mr. Pegler and others of his kind purposely nourish the falsehood that working people go out on strike for sheer joy or deviltry; that labor leaders are racketeers who mulct members and non-members alike; and that those who refuse to join a strike are exponents of noble and selfless devotion to American individualism.

Every one of these propositions is phony. A workingman does not risk his job and bread and butter recklessly; he does not put himself and his family in jeopardy except and until he has no other recourse to correct an evil he can no longer bear.

The number of dishonest men among labor leaders is so infinitesimal that the very discovery and exposure of any one of them creates a sensation. The standards of morality in the labor movement are incomparably higher than those in any other endeavor—infinitely higher than in politics, for instance, or in business or in the newspaper profession. Labor leaders are always in the public eye, subject to the scrutiny of their own members and the community at large.

As for the noble and self-sacrificing heroes who have "the courage to oppose a union when a strike is on," it does not take courage to do that, unless it be the courage of the dip and the sneak theif. A strike is no picnic. Even Mr. Pegler will concede that striker to go into action is bad enough, but to see him desert and cross

By BROWNIE HOPPER

Yessir! Old Santa is busy addressing his Christmas greetings. I hope you have your union-labeled Christmas cards, because I am afraid you will be too late if you haven't. There will be a lot of un-on-labeled good wishes going out from Chattanooga this year, what with Paul Reynolds, Harry Chapin and Elmer Crosby busy wishing them around.

— DOWN WITH POLL TAX —

Watch for the union-labeled stickers on some of your greetings and packages, too. The Typographical Auxiliary sponsors these stickers—this is No. 219's first opportunity to sell them, and I understand they are going strong. The proceeds from these stickers go to a "home fund" for the members of the Auxiliary, and the members plan to build it near the present Typographical Union Printers' Home in Colorado.

— HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR —

Hurry, hurry, hurry! Christmas is practically here and you'd better get busy on that shopping . . . me, too.

Remember to look for the union label and union-made gifts this year. You can find them for every member of the family.

May we suggest for HER (be it the girl-friend, wife or daughter) Phoenix hose with the union label or underwear—all barbizon slips, brassieres, nighties et cetera are union-made, including the silk.

You'd never go wrong, selecting a gift like these.

— READ HOUSE UNFAIR —

For HIM—since he is a good union man, he's sure to be more pleased to get a gift that bears a union label. You can get shirts, sox, ties, suits, overcoats, hats and all wearing apparel for men with the union label. If, by chance, you do not know what stores handle these union-made clothes, just telephone The Labor World. We will give you a list of them.

— DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM? —

For the kiddies: You probably won't be able to find union labels on the toys—but be sure to buy American-made toys.

— DOWN WITH POLL TAX —

And for that Christmas dinner—whether you are planning to have turkey, chicken or some other kind of meat, get it from a union meat market.

And buy union-labeled bread. . . . if you prefer to make some good biscuits, do NOT use Orient Flour. . . . it is non-union. Try Pillsbury's—it is union-made.

Do you serve egg-nog during the holidays? Grant Patten makes delicious egg-nog. Try it this year.

— DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM? —

Dear me—all this talk about Christmas makes me anxious for Santa to come on. And the old jolly gentleman will be here very shortly—so hurry on with your holiday shopping, or Santa and his reindeer, will win the race.

Picketing Ban Fought By A. F. of L. Unions

Ruling by Attorney General Read of Michigan That Pickets Must Be Directly Involved in a Labor Dispute Is Held Detrimental to Rights of Labor.

Organized labor in Michigan is up in arms against the ruling by Attorney General Thomas Read that pickets must be directly involved in a labor dispute in order to picket a job.

Attorney General Read's ruling was made in response to a request of L. J. Hammond, Lenawee County prosecutor, for an opinion on the legality of picketing in Adrian, Michigan, conducted by the Lenawee Building Trades Council. The Attorney General ruled that where no controversy existed between the employes and the employer, no strike was in existence and therefore picketing was not to be permitted.

In describing the subversive influence of Attorney General Read's ruling, Edward T. Thal, secretary of the Detroit Building Trades Council, said that if it is permitted to stand it will bar picketing to a large extent in Michigan. Mr. Thal also pointed out that the ruling of Attorney General Read in the Adrian case contradicted a former ruling made at the request of the State Labor Mediation Board in which picketing was construed to be lawful for the following purposes:

"To induce customers of a non-union shop to buy union-made goods.

"By a union against the employment of non-union labor.

"To secure an increase in wages and betterment in working conditions.

"By striking employes to induce employers' customers not to deal with him.

"To publicize that certain store windows are being cleaned by non-union labor.

"To publicize that a certain employer has been declared unfair to a labor union."

In outlining the scope of organized labor's opposition to the Read ruling, Mr. Thal said:

"The Detroit Building Trades Council and the Toledo Building Trades Council feel that this is a case that should be of interest to all labor in the State of Michigan, whether Building Trades Unions or otherwise. The Toledo Council is interested in the case because Adrian to some extent comes under the Toledo jurisdiction."

The case against Attorney General Read's ruling, it was announced, will be handled by Michigan attorneys, who will be under the direction of Judge Joseph A. Padway, counsel for the American Federation of Labor.

Only 41 cents out of every consumer dollar, on the average, goes to pay for the actual raw materials, labor and other manufacturing costs involved in producing the things we buy. The remaining 59 cents goes for expenses getting the finished products from the farm, mine or factory into our hands.

Lime Workers Strike For Higher Wages

Chicago, Ill. — William Schoenberg, president of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, announced that a strike had been called against the White Lime Company of Batesville, Arkansas.

According to Mr. Schoenberg, the company pays the workers 30 cents per car for loading two-ton cars, which amounts to an average wage of 18 cents per hour, which he claimed is a violation of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938.

The strikers demanded that the company place all quarry work on an hourly basis and establish a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour.

Philadelphia Bakers Win Paid Vacations

Philadelphia, Pa. — Officials of Matzo Bakers Union Local No. 106 of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, reported the negotiation of an agreement with B. C. Friedman & Sons providing for a closed shop, a minimum wage scale of $25.50 a week, one week's vacation with pay, improved sanitary conditions, and other standard union terms.

Union Contracts Give Higher Pay To Workers in 67 Chain Stores

Philadelphia. — Three thousand employes of Food Fair Markets in Pennsylvania stores of Pennsylvania, New York, Delaware and New Jersey will receive wage increases as a result of a temporary contract signed with American Federation of Labor unions.

Representatives of the employer and the A. F. of L. unions, the Retail Clerks International Protective Association and Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, after joint conferences before Harry Shapiro, agent of the national labor department, as proper agents for the contending parties.

Most of Workers Benefit

Under the agreement approximately 6,000 employes of the Food Fair stores will receive wage increases ranging from $1 to $5 a week. Those who will not receive increases are employes who are already receiving the wages provided in the agreement.

The agreement provides that the wage increases shall be retroactive to November 1, 1919, and that the contract shall remain in force until April 1, 1920.

Reasons for Increases.

The increases were granted by the employers, it is said, because of the increased cost of living and the fact that the Food Fair Markets have been operating on a profit basis.

Vice-President Morrison of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association, who was present at the conferences, stated that the agreement was the first of its kind ever signed in Philadelphia. It is the first time that the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association has signed an agreement with a chain store system.

Telegraphers' Union Now Favors Well Regulated Wire Monopoly Senate Committee to Be Told

Washington, D. C.—Good telegraph service for the public and protection of telegraph workers interests can now best be served by "a well regulated monopoly," is the opinion of the Commercial Telegrapher's Union, Frank B. Powers, CTU president, says in outlining a brief which the union is preparing for the Senate Telegraph Investigating Committee. Copies of the outline have been sent to Federal Communications Commission members.

President Powers says that while the CTU and American Federation of Labor has for years fought strenuously against a merger of telegraph companies, the union now sees a monopoly, with regulation of rates, services, labor conditions and protection from telephone, governmental and other competition as the only solution of present bad conditions.

Postal "Can't Be Saved"

"It is recognized by the CTU that it is no longer possible to save Postal Telegraphs from the consequences of long-continued bad management," Powers says.

He serves notice, however, that the CTU will protest with all its power against the "sacrifice of one Western Union worker's wages, right and other working conditions in order to salvage the wreckage of Postal's mismanagement."

"Postal employes deserve generous dismissal pay, probably from the merged company's treasury, or from the Government in the form of a loan," Powers adds.

To Fight CIO

The CTU head goes to say that his union will watch carefully against any attempt to bring into the Western Union any of the wage rates which "the Communist-dominated CIO 'union' has saddled onto the Postal employes in order to gain a foothold in the telegraph communications industry."

He reviews the history of the CIO organization's agreement with the Postal Telegraph Company following a strike in 1937, and then says:

"Labor as represented by the CTU and A. F. of L. does not intend to permit the domination of our Western Union members and sympathizers by this organization in order to provide jobs for Postal employes. We have nothing but sympathy for Postal employes—many thousands of whom are still CTU members or sympathizers—but some other solution must be found aside from bringing their low wages and their Communist leaders and organizers into the only remaining telegraph system of the nation."

Not "Dying Industry"

Powers declares that the telegraph industry is far from being a "dying industry" but charges it has been "strangled by unfair competition of the Bell System; lack of adequate protection by the Federal Communications Commission and very short-sighted and unintelligent management on the part of the Postal Telegraph since the I. T. & T. took over control in 1927."

Congress Has Power to Prohibit Sweated Labor, U.S. Court Says In Up-Holding Wage-Hour Act

Chicago. — Federal Judge William H. Holly has upheld the constitutionality of the wage and hour law.

The ruling was made in a case involving Montgomery Ward & Co. The big mail order house had refused a request by the government for time cards of a Kansas City, Mo., branch to show that wages and hours prevailed there. Its counsel argued that the request constituted "unreasonable search and seizure" and that the wage and hour law is unconstitutional in that it would deprive the company of property without due process of law.

"I am of the opinion that Congress had power to require the keeping of records and that the administrator may at his pleasure require their production," Judge Holly said.

Low Pay Spreads Crime

"Certainly," he added, "it cannot be maintained now that Congress, in the interests of the general welfare of the country, may not prohibit the shipment in interstate commerce of products of underpaid and sweated labor. Regulation of wages and hours is a proper exercise of the police power.

"Employer and employee do not stand on a plane of equality. Wages, especially those of unskilled labor, trend toward the lowest point on which the laborer can subsist. The resulting conditions are of interest not only to the wage earner but to the whole community. The slums of our great cities are, in large part, the fruits of low wages. Vice, crime and disease breed in these districts and spread throughout the community.

"I am of the opinion that Congress has power to prohibit the transportation in interstate commerce of goods produced in violation of the act."

Another Firm Fined

Judge Holly's decision was the first in the country regarding the constitutionality of the act.

In another case, Judge Holly fined the Allied Golf Corp., one of the nation's largest makers of golf balls and other supplies, $20,000. The company admitted it had falsified its records to avoid paying overtime and had not kept records of the goods manufactured under these illegal conditions. The fine, however, was conditional. The company was ordered to pay $2,500 at once, with its treasurer, Edward C. Raffel, paying the same amount. This will leave an unpaid balance of $15,000. This payment will be suspended if the amount due in overtime — approximately $5,000— is paid to its employes.

Congress Never Intended to Apply Anti-Trust Act to Labor Unions, Attorneys Tell Supreme Court

Chicago.—The United States Supreme Court has been asked to free labor unions from the "unnatural and unintentional restraints placed upon them by the decisions of the court in its erroneous assumption that it was the intention of Congress that labor unions should be included within the purview of the anti-trust acts."

The request was made in a brief filed by Attorney Daniel D. Carmell in behalf of Leslie G. Goudie, president of Joint Council No. 25, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, who was named as a defendant in the federal government's "milk trust" case. Others of Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, Local No. 753, an affiliate of the teamsters' brotherhood, were among the others indicted. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward recently decided against the government. The case is now before the Supreme Court.

Price Increases Not Banned

The brief asserts that "Congress never intended that the Sherman Anti-Trust Act should every apply to labor unions," saying:

"The final bill, as reported by the judiciary committee, declared illegal combinations in restraint of interstate trade or commerce which monopolizes or attempts to monopolize such trade and commerce. The bill was entirely silent about combinations to increase prices, though the original bill contained the labor proviso exempting certain combinations, whose tendency it was to increase prices. Certainly there was no valid reason why such provisos should have been included in this new bill. Thus we have the Senate unanimous in its desire to erempt labor from the provisions of the bill."

"Labor Not Included"

The brief sets forth that "Senators George and Hoar, determined supporters of the position that labor should be exempted from the Anti-Trust Act, were members of the judiciary committee which drew the final bill," adding:

"They supported the bill on the floor of the Senate. Though nothing was said, every previous utterance on their part showed a definite adherence to the position that labor was not included. There is nothing in the records of the debates of Congress which indicated that the senators who were supporting labor had changed heir mind about the desirability of drawing a bill which did not include labor.

Sherman's Stand Plain

"The title of the Sherman bill, which condemns so-called restraint of competition, was 'A Bill to Declare Unlawful Trusts and Combinations in Restraint of Trade and Production.' This was the title during all the discussions on whether the bill would apply to labor. If the Senate, when it passed the final bill containing a denunciation of 'restraint of trade,' meant by including such a denunciation to have the bill embrace the acts of labor unions, it is fair to assume that Senator Sherman meant the same when he entitled his bill one to declare unlawful 'combinations in restraint of trade and production'; yet, as he expressly declared on the floor of the Senate, he did not believe that it embraced labor unions."

A. F. of L. Backs Carmell

Joseph A. Padway, American Federation of Labor general counsel, joined with Attorney Carmell in asking the Supreme Court to overrule previous decisions holding the Sherman Act applicable to labor unions.

He asserted that the court in previous rulings "misunderstood" the history of the Sherman Act, which indicates Congress intended not to apply the law to labor organizations.

Union Label Gift Buying

What could be more appropriate than to dedicate the holiday shopping season this year to the great cause of the union label? It would be most appropriate because by urging Christmas shoppers to buy only union-made gifts they are also buying goods that are made in our own factories. . . . If all Christmas presents that will be purchased in 1939 were made in America, employment would be increased and taxation for relief purposes would be reduced to a minimum.—I. M. Ornburn.

Stalin's Shocking Crime

American opinion already has reached a decision regarding Russia's invasion of Finland. Compromise Offer Ends Taxi Strike

Kansas City.—A four-week strike of taxicab drivers ended when the union accepted a compromise offer by major companies.

The drivers had asked for a salary of $16 a week and 40 per cent of all weekly fares over $38. They accepted a $15 wage and 40 per cent of fares amounting to more than $42 a week.

Low FHA Home Financing Interest Rate Available in Every State

Washington, D. C.—In every state, funds for home financing under the FHA plan are available at private lending institutions at a maximum interest rate of 4½ per cent, Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald announces.

Since Congress in response to President Roosevelt's recommendation liberalized the National Housing Act in the winter of 1938, rapid expansion of the FHA system has taken place.

FHA records disclose that in the first nine months of 1939 over 500 private lending institutions joined the FHA system and qualified for lending under the insured mortgage program. As of Sept. 30, 12,369 individual institutions held contracts under the mortgage insurance provisions of the FHA, as compared with 11,847 institutions on Dec. 31, 1938.

"In a few areas, perhaps, old-fashioned lending practices with second mortgages and high interest rates may still be somewhat in vogue," said Administrator McDonald, "but generally these are giving way everywhere to the sound and enlightened principles of the FHA program. Most lenders now recognize the unsoundness of the old practices and are adopting the principles advocated by the FHA in the interest of their own safety.

"Protected by FHA insurance, lenders find they can afford to advance funds for home financing on terms which a short time ago would have been inconceivable. Likewise buyers are able on a sound basis to purchase homes which a short time ago would have been beyond their means."

GENERAL CIGAR CO. RECOGNIZES UNION FOR FIRST TIME

Allentown, Pa.—A 14 weeks' strike at the local plant of the General Cigar Company ended when the company agreed to recognize Allentown Local 91, of the Cigar Makers' International Union as bargaining agency for the workers. The company also agreed not to discriminate against workers who had been on strike.

Officials regard the settlement as a victory for the Cigar Makers' International Union, this being the first time the General Cigar Company has ever recognized a labor organization of any kind.

Organization work is progressing favorably in the other several factories of the General Cigar Company.

The strike was settled at a conference attended by representatives of the plant, members of the union and D. W. Kennedy and A. P. Bowers, third and sixth vice-presidents, respectively, of the Cigar Makers' International Union.

WHY ORGANIZED LABOR SUCCEEDS?

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Organized labor has been severely criticized from time to time by opponents of trade unionism because of the alleged [illegible] of some of its members, and because of the charge that the chief purpose of the trade union is to get as much as it can from employers, giving little in return. MORE ABOUT tenborn reveals the same curious mixture of hellfire daring and red plush common sense."

Mr. Kaltenborn considers his lectures a civic duty to America as his share in keeping America informed. "While knowledge makes for peace and the truth can keep men free, I hope to remain at my post," is his ideal expressed in his own words.

Widely listened to and respected by a vast audience for his unprejudiced interpretation of the news, because of his first-hand information gained through extensive traveling and many experiences, Mr. Kaltenborn has stated that he considers it his duty to give the news fully, fairly and freely.

The volume of Mr. Kaltenborn's fan mail gives some indication of the interest that the American people take in his editing of the news. The Czech crisis brought 50,000 telegrams, both applauding and condemning. Five hundred letters a week is ordinary mail, all of which he reads and answers carefully. His mail, he declares, "confirms my conviction that the job of a news analyst is both responsible and important, that my task is to calm emotions, not to incite them, that I must endeavor to convert unreasoning hatred to sanity and peace."

With the development of the Spanish revolution, radio had found the extemporaneous commentator it needed

Kaltenborn is noted as the first commentator to arrive at the scene of battle in the Spanish Civil War, where he struck out at a run across the fields from an abandoned farmhouse when the action began. Clutched in the fold of his right elbow, like a quarterback hugging the pigskin, he carried a microphone and a set of earphones attached to a long black cable which he played out behind him as he ran. Midflight a bomb exploded a hundred feet to his right. He plunged ahead to a haystack where he dug himself in and clamped on the earphones to await a distant signal.

He waited nine hours—four times the exploding shells cut his lines he repaired the damage by crawling back along the cable—finally, about midnight, Spanish time, came the voice of the assistant in far-away England saying that connection had been made all the way across the Atlantic 3,000 miles away. Over their evening repast, millions of Americans heard for the first time shots of warfare sent around the world. For fifteen minutes the man in the haystack talked into his microphone, pausing now and then to allow the rattling of machine guns to serve as exclamation points.

Kaltenborn is the first American to interview Mussolini. He has since interviewed Kai Shek, Eden, Chamberlain, Hitler and Benes. His comments on the character of these leaders are worth hearing, for he frankly analyzes them, their emotional make-up, their motives and their methods.

Baron Rudolph von Kaltenborn, captain of a regiment of Hessian guards, left Germany when in 1870 Hesse was annexed to Bismarck's Prussia, because he detested Prussian militarism. Aboard the ship he met Betty Wessels, a New York teacher returning from a tour of Europe. They married in New York and moved to Milwaukee. Hans Kaltenborn was their first child.

After nine years the family moved to Merrill, Wis., where Hans ran away to join a lumber crew as waterboy. He returned home later to work for his father at $3 a week until he was 19, when he ran away again, this time to enlist in the Spanish-American War. Rejected as underweight, he ate a dozen bananas and drank a quart of milk and was accepted.

Returning home after the war, he took the job of city editor on the Merrill Advocate at $9 a week. But a year and half away from home had spoiled young Hans for small town life. At 21 he had never heard a symphony, looked at a real painting or seen any of the famous persons he encountered now and then in the pages of the Advocate.

He discovered that he must have all of these things, and, in American tradition still flourishing at that time, set himself to the task of finding them, never doubting that he would find them if he worked hard enough. His strong faith in the individual's freedom to obtain anything he desired so long as he was willing to work hard enough for it sent Kaltenborn off to New York by freight train, to the Paris Exposition of 1900 by cattleboat, on a bicycle tour of Europe as a stereoscope salesman, to a cum laude degree from Harvard, to associate editorship of the Brooklyn Eagle and, finally, to his present position as dean of American radio commentators over CBS.

The comments of those Chattanoogans who heard Kaltenborn recently in Knoxville six weeks ago and in Macon, Georgia, last Saturday indicate that his analysis is even more brilliant, keen and concise than his fifteen-minute radio editions of the news. Another indication is the ovation given him recently at a Memphis appearance by an audience of 7,500.

Labor has a special stake in the effects of the European war on America. The coming of dictatorships to European countries saw the destruction of labor unions in those countries. American labor needs to understand what is happening so that it can protect itself from a similar fate.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

Donations are coming slowly for the Christmas baskets this writer asked for last week. These baskets are to be given to people who are really in need. Each case will be investigated before it is added to our list to make sure that the receiver is worthy and needs help. There is little over a week in which to investigate the cases, decide how many baskets we can give, buy the articles of food and deliver the baskets. So please, won't you see the writer of this column or call him at 6-7723 and give something—even if it is only a few cents it will help someone. Remember that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

Brother Hugh Malone almost bought himself a good birddog the other day. Funny how he bites so much. Better watch out, Hugh, you almost got bit that time.

What! with this cold spell, you're likely to have some bursted water pipes. If you do and are in doubt as to whom to call, just ask Brother O. E. Cook.

Read in the daily papers about these school children being hit by the car in Red Bank and thought it would be a good idea if each and every member of organized labor would join in the safety drive and help to prevent such accidents which could easily be fatal to some child—perhaps your own.

Teamsters' Agreements Cover State of Maine

Wages Increased and Hours Reduced in Contracts With Seventeen Large Trucking Firms.

Portland, Me.—The officials and members of Truck Drivers Local No. 340 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, are definitely proud of their achievements within the last two years in organizing truck drivers in Maine and securing progressive agreements with trucking concerns.

Under the leadership of President Raymond Conary and Financial Secretary David Hastings, the union has increased its membership from 162 in October, 1937, to a membership of about 800 truck drivers employed by firms having union contracts throughout the state.

During the past two years, seventeen agreements have been negotiated with wages ranging from 40 to 55 cents an hour for a 54-hour week. In the spring of 1938 the first agreements was legally abrogated resulting in a new agreement providing wage increases ranging from 50 to 67 cents for a 48 to 54-hour week.

As the result of a vigorous organizing campaign, the scope of the union's activities have been extended from Portland to practically every section of the state, and the dues paying membership boosted to 800.

The result of this state-wide organization campaign is that now drivers who used to work as many as one hundred hours a week for $18 or $25 are now paid wages ranging from $24 to $36 a week for about half the number of hours worked.

It offends. And to neglect it may invite a host of constipation's other discomforts: headaches, biliousness, loss of appetite and energy. Don't let constipation slow you down. Take a little spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT tonight. In the morning there's an evacuation that's generally thorough. You feel fine again!

Whereas, on the 1st day of February, 1927, M. F. Goad and wife, Mary H. Goad, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration February 9, 1927, and recorded in Book M, Vol. 21, page 317, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said M. 100 Years of Service

OUR NINETY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY

This Company was chartered by special act of the General Assembly of Tennessee on December 11, 1845. Now, as always heretofore, it operates under that same charter. It has outstanding one issue and class of stock, one issue of first mortgage bonds, and one issue of equipment trust notes. It has never been in receivership; never reorganized; never failed to pay, defaulted upon, or compromised a fixed obligation.

The last decade, starting so auspiciously, has been a very difficult one. Perhaps the public would be interested in the financial record as made. During the ten years ended October 31, 1939, the NC&StL, out of its revenues and cash reserves, has—

Paid employes	$84,646,069.00
Paid for use of capital	$17,686,407.46
Of the amount paid for use of capital $7,041,705.00 was interest on bonds and equipment trust notes; $2,570,469.37 for dividends; $8,074,233.09 rent for leased lines, of which $6,000,000.00 went to the State of Georgia for rental of W. & A. Railroad.
Paid for materials and supplies	$28,512,990.00
Paid for electric current, telephones, etc.	$ 1,650,098.00
Accrued taxes (paid largely to cities and counties)	$ 6,897,925.98
Paid on its funded debt and liabilities of subsidiaries	$ 2,140,587.86
Spent for improvements to plant and equipment (as distinguished from operating expenditures)	$ 6,001,289.00
Written off its books capital investment in plant facilities (including equipment) actually retired from service, or scrapped, because worn out, obsolete, not needed, etc.	$ 6,933,021.96
Lost on the ten years' operations	$ 667,991.09

Today, the NC&StL is giving the public the fastest, safest, and the best service, freight and passenger, in its history. The freight rate for the average ton of goods moved by American railroads is now less than one penny per mile hauled—a reduction of twenty-three per cent since 1921.

Your patronage, based on past performances and present service, is solicited.

Slander

How frequently is the honesty and [illegible] of a man impaired by a smile or shrug! How many good and righteous actions have been met with opprobrium by a distrustful world, we shudder with the implication, of promising fame and notoriety to a mysterious and unknown assassin. If any speak ill of you, [illegible] to thy own conscience, and examine thy heart: if you are guilty of it in any particular, it is the grudge of it is a fair objection; make good all indictments that lies against you, and [illegible] out of guilt and fear of an open enemy create a second friend. There is nothing which weighs so light as swifty as [illegible] Which is uttered and [illegible] without nothing is supposed to add more weight, nothing more worthy. Let us, then, be watchful lips, for a tale-bearer is worse than a thief.

Where it concerns himself, who is angry at a slander makes it true.

Soft-buzzing slander; silky moths, that eat an honest name.

On rumor's tongue continual slanders ride. Slander is the revenge of the coward.

A Diesel-electric locomotive, designed for freight service, has been built by the Electro-Motive Corporation as a "bold challenge in the field where the steam locomotive is in its most favored position." The engine will soon be tested in service.

BIBLE—Set a watch over thy mouth, and keep the door of thy lips, for a tale-bearer is worse than a thief.

Union Label Trades Department Celebrates 30th Anniversary At Big Pittsburg Dinner

Pittsburgh.—Value of the union label in advancing the interests of organized labor was strongly set forth at a big dinner held here by the Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, to commemorate the department's 30th anniversary. More than 500 delegates of local unions, with officials of central labor bodies and national and international unions, were present.

Stirring speeches for the union label were delivered by I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department, speaking for the union label-conscious members of labor unions, their families and friends, and Millard Bennett, vice-president of the Browne Vintners company, of New York City, who spoke for the employers who have collective bargaining agreements with American Federation of Labor Unions. Both speakers were well received and aroused renewed enthusiasm for the union labels, shop cards and service buttons, which were displayed on a screen in the banquet hall.

Message from William Green.

Francis P. Fenton, national director of organization for the American Federation of Labor, represented William Green and personally delivered his message.

John R. Steelman, director of conciliation, U. S. Department of Labor, gave a short talk. Lewis G. Hines, secretary of labor and industry of Pennsylvania, was present.

Leo Abernathy, president of the Pittsburgh Central Labor union, was toastmaster.

The following international officers were in attendance: John B. Haggerty, president, and Alfred Bolet, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders; James M. Duffy, president, National Brotherhood of Operative Potters; Frank Powers, president, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of North America; Lee Minton, international representative of the Glass Bottle Blowers' association. Three members of the city commission, who are also labor unionists, were present.

Committee Sponsors Dinner.

Paul Topping, assistant labor commissioner of Virginia, was also present.

Frank J. Dillon, national chairman, American Federation of Distillery, Rectifying and Wine Workers' National Council, attended.

The following A. F. of L. organizers were in attendance: James Knoud, of Philadelphia; Coleman Claherty, of Cleveland, and Harry Flaugh, of Pittsburgh.

Delegates from central labor unions within a radius of fifty miles were also present.

Other Celebrations Scheduled.

The dinner was one of a series of celebrations going on throughout the country in commemoration of the 30th anniversary of the Union Label Trades Department of the federation.

Banquets and celebrations will be held in two or three additional large cities before the commemorations end. Officials of the Union Label Trades Department headquarters will attend the celebrations.

UNDERPASS WORKERS STRIKE IN PHOENIX

Phoenix, Ariz.—The building trades unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor called a strike here against the railroad underpass job which is being constructed by the Lee Moor Construction Company, an "open-shop" contractor.

The work, about half completed when the strike was called, was estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $170,000. It was stated that 85 per cent of the employes on the job were union members.

Iowa Labor Opposes Jail-Made Furniture

Des Moines, Io.—A strong protest against proposals to manufacture furniture in the Iowa State prison at Fort Madison for sale in the open market was made to Gov. George Wilson by A. A. Couch, president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor.

The prison furniture factory was closed by a previous State administration, but according to reports regarded as authentic it is to be opened again by the State Board of Control, the furniture manufactured to be offered for sale on the open market and the proceeds applied to the expenses of operating State institutions.

The Iowa law provides for the employment of inmates of State institutions in occupations that will "provide for" the needs of the institutions.

Because of the provisions of the State law the Federation of Labor has not opposed the manufacture of furniture or other commodities in State institutions to be used strictly by the State in its institutions.

Gov. Wilson declared he was opposed to the sale of prison-made goods in competition with those made by free labor in private industry, and said his previous record in the State Legislature would bear him out on this point.

He pointed out, however, that the law gives the Board of Control no other choice than to permit prison manufacture of goods for sale.

By HARRY BEDOIT

As time rolls on and another page of Destiny's book is about ready to turn we can look back and see what progress we have made. We should profit by greater effort. Let us make this coming year a more prosperous one.

Of course we like to think of dollars and cents, but that isn't everything in one's life. We have to leave the material things when the whistle is blown on life's job, and other hands have to take on where we leave off, so let's pave the way and make their job easier.

There is in organized labor members that are there because they have to be. They retard those that are striving to make the labor movement a success. They don't realize that their children or those that follow them will have to take up the burden that they lay down on.

I believe the reason for this is mostly ignorance, or maybe selfishness. I believe we could profit if we would just stop and give serious thought to the things that comfort those that labor today. Sane thinking now will save us from what the other half of the world is suffering from today.

I do not fear that we are in danger of being invaded by a foreign power or powers, but by forces that are in our midst now. If, and when we are confronted with a situation un-American, let's put our shoulder to the wheel, and with thoughts of those who fought and died to give us the best country on earth, and that we still intend to keep it that way if it takes the last drop of our blood.

I believe that we should give serious thought to the spiritual side of our lives. We know that we cannot stay on this earth always, and that there is two sides to this life. We should remember that to all of us there will be a day of reckoning. I am not a preacher and don't think I ever will be, but I can't help thinking when I see men working in dangerous places, when at any time onc false move might send them to eternity and I wonder if they ever have any thought of the hereafter.

I believe we should be more charitable, for all around us we can see poverty and want, and I guess there are a few of us who, not so long ago, would have appreciated help of any kind, so let us look around and see if we can't help a little anyway.

When fortune smiles upon us here
And all we need is very near,
It takes no faith to thankful be
And God's abundant riches see.

But when the world seems cold and bare
And lack and want are everywhere,
It takes real faith to see God's good
And mold His substance into food.
—Lowell Fillmore.

I believe everyone knows that Saturday night is meeting night and that we are to meet at 5:00 o'clock so all can get away early. The most important thing that will be before the meeting will be election of officers for the coming year.

Sound Principle for All

Pennsylvania's State Department of Commerce has set forth a principle that, if followed by all states in seeking to attract new industrial plants, would benefit the entire nation.

Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown explains that a campaign for new plants is not directed to "any and all" industries but only to those that can become permanent assets to the state. The effort to induce industries to establish in Pennsylvania, he said, is being directed to those who CAN HELP MAINTAN AND IMPROVE LIVING STANDARDS of the state's [illegible] people rather than jeopardize them.

Pennsylvania has harbored plenty of low wage, anti-union and otherwise socially undesirable trade and industry. If it can live up to the ideal stated by Secretary Brown it will be contributing substantially to national [illegible]. Observance of the ideal by all states would have no place in the [illegible] for [illegible]-producing industries.

War the Issue for 1940?

More than one declared or receptive candidate for Presidential nomination has lately prophesied that keeping the United States out of Europe's war would be the issue for the 1940 campaign.

An issue is something on which parties disagree, something on which they offer the electorate a chance to divide. Which party will ask the voters to disagree on that question?

Keeping the United States out of the present war will not be an issue next year, if both the major parties know what they are doing.

A Battle to Benefit Labor

While Europe tries new methods of decimating its population and brags about new and secret lethal weapons yet to be introduced, we in America are engaged in a fight to the finish against the dreaded infantile paralysis, using as our ammunition the dimes science needs to carry on its war.

Europe is destroying lives. We are bent upon saving them.

American labor, instead of being somewhere in a front line trench, is at work at home in a peaceful democracy. Yet, as labor has always done in time of war, it willingly does battle again in the war against infantile paralysis, and will render a good account of itself.

Poliomyelitis is no respecter of persons. Men and women of labor have always made good soldiers in the constant campaign against the terrible disease which strikes the home of the working man more frequently than any other economic division of our citizenry, simply because labor is a numerical majority. Labor has cause to do battle on the health front.

As in former years, it can best serve its country in the war on infantile paralysis by donating dimes and dollars—the ammunition science needs to carry on its fight.

Because labor is the chief sufferer it has most to gain when the battle is finally won.

Social Security Progress

Unemployment insurance programs are now in full operation in all parts of the country—the 48 States, the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii the Social Security Board reports. Illinois and Montana were the last States to launch their programs. More than 27,500,000 business and industrial workers are now covered by the nation-wide unemployment compensation program. Payments average about $11 per week for total unemployment and about $5.50 per week for partial unemployment.

Poor old Santy is all tired out—guess he and the rest of the Christmas shoppers will be glad to finish up the last package and get a rest.

—HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR—

ED BORK, JR., gets special mention this week for the splendid work he has done, along with other members of organized labor, in preparing and delivering baskets and help to needy members. It's a grand idea and should be an annual affair in labor circles. Helping others is a part of labor's creed, and help at this time is especially valuable to families who face the Christmas season without prospects of the good things that go with the season.

—DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM?—

The Printers' and Pressmen's auxiliaries are also preparing and delivering Christmas baskets this year. There is so much work that women can do in the labor movement—we need more auxiliaries, as has been brought out before.

—DOWN WITH POLL TAX—

Which brings to mind a sad experience a friend had back in depression days (the one along about 1933). This couple had three children and were having a hard time managing to keep going. But, by scrimping and squeezing they had saved ten dollars with which to buy their Christmas dinner and some toys for the kids.

Just before Christmas, the mother went downtown to spend the hoarded money . . . she entered a very crowded store, and before she realized what was happening somebody snatched her purse and she never knew who spent their money. The children had to do without Christmas.

—HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR—

Labor paper from Wenatchee, Wash., reports that the Central Labor unions and other labor groups in that state are sponsoring a "give apples for Christmas" move. It seems that exports of the fruit have been considerably cut down by the European war, and the workers are suffering. So buy a few extra apples this year.

Kaltenborn Tells His Opinions on Europe's Scrap

Auditorium Crowd Listens Interestedly for Two Hours

Brought here last Saturday evening by the Teachers' union, H. V. Kaltenborn, distinguished news analyst for the Columbia Broadcasting System and since the outbreak of war in Europe a popular platform lecturer as well, spoke for two hours to an enthusiastic audience about his favorite subject, the European situation and its background.

Before launching into his speech proper, Mr. Kaltenborn won a hearty ovation from his hearers by paying tribute to the Chattanooga News, which that day had sung its swan song. A newspaper man for a quarter of a century, Mr. Kaltenborn had examined the two afternoon papers, and from them he drew his own conclusion that the News was much the better edited paper. He deplored the fact that so good an influence was to be withdrawn from Chattanooga.

He scored the peace pacts which the ending of the World war brought about, and said that the treaty of Versailles was really the cause of Hitler's coming into power. "Hitler," he declared, "is the illegitimate child of the treaty of Versailles." France and Great Britain promised in that treaty to reduce their arms, but France refused to reduce its forces on the land and Britain refused to reduce them on the sea.

There are other nations in Europe, he pointed out, who have been no more considerate of minorities than Germany. The tremendous mistake made by Great Britain was to give Germany help while she was a struggling democracy. When Hitler started his acts of aggression, France and Great Britain, instead of using their strength to stop him, did nothing, and this served to give Hitler strength, Mr. Kaltenborn continued.

He interpreted Count Ciano's speech as one of the most important addresses made since the war started. "If Italy holds aloof that means that Germany can't win the war, even though Russia should go into the war on Germany's side," he said. "The weakness of the Russian military machine is demonstrated by its failure to conquer the small Finnish army. I don't think that Hitler is so anxious to have a military alliance with Stalin after he has seen what has happened to the Russian bear in the Finland snow fields."

Kaltenborn pleased his audience with a masterful characterization of Hitler. Among other comments, he called the dictator "stupid, ignorant, with limited mentality and unwilling to listen to reason."

Britain and France went to war not to protect Poland, but to protect their own borders, the speaker asserted, recalling interviews with Lord Halifax and the French foreign minister.

"It was amazing to learn that Hitler plunged into war knowing that Italy was out," Kaltenborn said. He said that it is possible that Russia's failure to make progress against Finland may bring on a revolution in the soviet. Both in Germany and Russia there is a possibility that leaders of the two political groups may rise against Stalin and Hitler and oust them.

"I've painted for you a picture of a Europe that cannot be at peace so long as Hitler is in power, and until there is something done to bring moderation to the dynamic dictatorships. Germany can't win. She has lost at sea, her submarine warfare has about disappeared, and Britain will find the answer to the mine warfare soon. The much talked-of air strength has not developed, and there is little activity on the western front. The blockade is about the only effective part of the war in progress. It is as effective today as it was three years after the World war had started. Germany is short on food, and on most all materials vital to her existence. Her supply will grow weaker and within three years will be exhausted.

"There is no chance of a German victory. Italy, as Count Ciano explained, is going to remain neutral. She might possibly join France and Britain, just as she did in the last war, would join the allies if they made concessions such as giving her Jebuti and representation on the board of directors of the Suez Canal."

For a whole hour Kaltenborn answered the questions passed on from members of the audience, edited by local newsmen, and read by Stanton Smith. Most of the audience remained for the question period, and only the necessity of catching a plane in Knoxville at an early hour prevented his answering even more.

Labor is grateful to the teachers for giving Chattanooga and the labor movement in Chattanooga to hear this eminent authority on events that will effect our lives more profoundly than we sometimes realize. An informed America, as Mr. Kaltenborn himself has said, is a sane America that will be able to base its collective decisions upon realities, not guesses or propaganda. Kaltenborn is one of the few men who are in a position to speak the truth, and he does so without flinching.

A Merry Christmas, Folks

Chattanooga Needs a Paper Like The News

Saturday, December 16, was a sad day for many progressive thinking people of Chattanooga, for on that day the Chattanooga News, afternoon newspaper published continuously for 51 years, said "farewell" to its patrons and subscribers and folded up. Responsibility for the demise of the News is variously placed by opinion and analyses of citizens of different groups and of different types of thought. Certain it is, however, that the Chattanooga news represented the most enlightened and progressive thought of the community and of the nation. A champion of the masses, an exponent of many things regarded as best by fair-minded, liberal people, its editorial columns wielded a powerful influence in molding sentiment for progressive and forward measures. Certain it is, further, that among the major forces which contributed to the business catastrophe were opponents of public power, for which the News made a valiant and successful fight, and which, incidentally, attracted the attention of the entire nation. Chattanoogans will well remember that under the journalistic leadership of the News, private ownership forces, with their practically unlimited sources of finance, were routed to the tune of some eight to one.

Among the many thrown out of employment were union workers in the mechanical, editorial and business departments, and Organized Labor regrets the destruction of the publication because of this fact also.

The Chattanooga News is dead, but the influence of its staunchly American policies will not pass during the natural lifetime of most of our citizenship, nor will the material gains made possible by its truly bold and fearless battles be soon dissipated.

Pattern Makers Gain 15-Cent Wage Boost

Titusville, Pa.—The Titusville Local of the Pattern Makers' League of North America, A. F. of L. affiliate, has negotiated a new agreement with the Titusville Forge Company providing for a 15 cents an hour wage raise. The agreement also set up a percentage pay system for apprentices whereby they start work at 40 per cent of the journeyman's rate and are increased 5 per cent every six months until at the end of six years they are paid the full journeyman rate.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

First, we would like to extend our thanks to all of those who have contributed in any way to the Christmas baskets fund. Lots of baskets are filled and clothing was donated as well. Our hopes are that those who receive these things are as happy in receiving as those who gave were in giving. More and more we are feeling the true spirit of Christmas.

We wish to thank all of the union master plumbers for the work they have given us the past year and to wish each and every one of them a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Our heartfelt thanks to all those who have patronized our union union shops. We hope that this will continue and we know that they will have received the best of work at fair prices. Merry Christmas and a New Year full of happiness.

To all we wish a very Merry Christmas and may God bless each of you and give you health and happiness throughout the coming year. In your celebrating Christmas remember to keep it Christlike and don't mix your egg nogg with gasoline.

Bakery Case Here Brings Amazing Contradictions

Labor Board Finishes Hearings After Week of Testimony

Said to be one of the most amazing bits of testimony, the National Labor Relations Board closed its hearings last Wednesday of charges against the Chattanooga Bakery company for violation of the Wagner act.

The hearings were started in the federal courtroom in Chattanooga last Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Local 25, Bakery Workers, charged that the company had signed an agreement with the union in settlement of a long strike. In order to avoid living up to its agreement, the union charged, a fictitious "sale" of the company to a group of men headed by Mr. Sam Campbell, of the Campbell Oil company, was effected.

After the "sale" the newly reorganized company refused to "hire" twenty-eight union people, replacing them with new employes, according to testimony.

All during the trial company witnesses frequently asked that testimony given by them previously be changed. To the spectators at the trial it seemed that the company witnesses found it difficult to keep in the middle of the road.

The union offered some thirty witnesses.

TEACHER TALK

The Kaltenborn evening was a huge success. We may consider that we did Chattanooga a real service in bringing this great personality here, as we have been assured by the newspapers and by public acclaim. The audience was most agreeably surprised to find that the succinct broadcasting commentator did not reveal the powers of the platform lecturer; and the question period was enjoyed as much as the talk itself.

Sponsoring a project like Kaltenborn's appearance is no mean task. Limitations of space prohibit the listing of the many unionists who helped, but these must be mentioned: George McCoy, chairman of the lecture committee; President Willard Millsaps; National Vice-President Stanton Smith; Mrs. Eunice T. Parisi, ticket sales chairman, and her sub-chairmen, J. Steger Hunt, Elizabeth Jones, and Mrs. C. C. Burgner; Tom Jones, who handled printing and advertising; William Floyd, in charge of ushers; Hubert Curtis, who took care of radio and other arrangements; Mabel Mathis, responsible for the fine appearance of the stage; and Josephine Hamilton and Paul Long, publicity. Miss Hamilton deserves special praise for her ticket-selling and publicity work.

The newspapers and WDOD, Auditorium Manager Tommy Thompson, H. L. Thatcher, of Pure Oil, the D. S. Etheridge company, Chief Webb of the state highway patrol—all were most co-operative.

— DOWN WITH POLL TAX —

Here's wishing every unionist a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Labor Representation on All Local School Boards Sought by A.F.L.

Thorough Public School Education for All Young People Held Necessary for Proper Functioning of Democracy.

The American Federation of Labor at its 1939 convention held at Cincinnati, reemphasized the fundamental importance of adequate public schools and insisted that school boards should include representatives of organized labor in order that the interests of the children of the workers may be adequately protected.

The importance of the public school system in its relationship to the workers came before the convention in the following report of the committee on education, which the convention adopted:

"Education is America's biggest enterprise. In terms of budgets, of capital invested, of personnel employed and students enrolled it is a vast undertaking. Nearly one in four of our population is in some kind of school.

Twelve Billion Dollars Invested.

"Our total investment in buildings, equipment and endowment for all our educational institutions is over twelve billion dollars. There is an annual budget of nearly $1,150,000,000 to pay the salaries of 1,126,000 teachers and administrators. By comparison, the enterprise of public education is vaster than any industrial corporation in America. There is nothing like our gigantic educational effort anywhere in the world today. No democracy in the world has made so considerable an effort to teach its children to know, to think and to act as has the American democracy. It is in very truth our outstanding national commitment.

Education Democracy's Life.

"To this commitment labor has dedicated itself for more than a century. From the first convention of the American Federation of Labor down to this hour labor has placed the subject of education as one of its central concerns, because education was so central to the future welfare of America. Moreover, American labor believes firmly that one of the criteria by which to judge of the level of civilization attained by a people is reflected in the proportion of public funds expended on the education of the citizenship. Education is not for democracy, but is in the highest sense democracy, because the full growth and development of individuals can take place only in a society of free men.

"In the year that has just closed since the last convention the permanent committee on education has given careful consideration to various educational bills before the Congress of the United States and has given invaluable aid to the formulation of labor's policy toward such legislation.

"This committee has addressed itself to such matters as vocational education, the representation of labor upon school boards and boards of trustees of public libraries, Federal grants-in-aid, the youth problem and on the extension of apprenticeship programs.

Labor's Voice in Schools.

"It is the considered opinion of the permanent committee on education that the time has come for the broadening of the principle of representation by labor on such local education boards in accordance with labor's interest and responsibility for the sound administration of these agencies. The committee has urged upon every central labor union the task of undertaking such a campaign for adequate representation. It also urges the need for wise planning by labor to bring its maximum contribution to bear in the development of vocational education, juvenile placement and adult education.

"Your committee would associate itself with both the spirit and purpose of this policy and recommends that this convention add its support to this broad purpose. We further desire to commend the permanent committee for their leadership and urge an even more active program for the new year."

Parking Attendants Strike in Detroit

Detroit.—Members of the Parking Station Attendants' Local of the Building Service Employes' International Union, A. F. of L. affiliate, called a strike here against Paty's parking lot as the first shot in the fight to persuade Detroit parking lot owners to grant shorter hours and an adequate fair wage scale. It was stated by union officials that efforts had been made without success to negotiate with the managers of the parking lots and that the strike was called as a militant gesture to notify the owners that the union meant business.

Equal Salary Won By Negro Teachers

Knoxville.—The Knoxville City School Board, after hearing a petition from the Negro Teachers' League for Equalization, adopted a resolution authorizing the payment of the same salary to Negro school-teachers as white teachers are paid for the same work, providing the Negroes show equal preparation.

The ordinance, which became effective as of Dec. 1, is said to be the first one in the South providing equal pay for teachers without regard to race.

The petition for equalization of salaries has been presented repeatedly to the City School Board for a number of years.

Film Studio Employes Choose A. F. L. Union

C. I. O. Outfit in Hollywood Overwhelmingly Defeated by Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators Union

A recent outstanding defeat by the International Alliance of the Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators of the United States and Canada, A. F. of L. affiliate, of a C. I. O. studio group in Hollywood in a National Labor Relations Board election to choose a union to represent the studio workers in negotiations with employers did not receive the publicity the event justified. When the ballots were counted it was revealed that nearly 4,500 studio workers voted for the A. F. of L. affiliate while less than 2,000 voted for the C. I. O. outfit.

In an article in the Los Angeles Citizen, the official organ of the Los Angeles County Central Labor Council, Ben Savage, the Citizen's labor reporter on theatrical matters, gave the following account of the election and its significance:

"Demonstrating their faith in long-established International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes studio unions that since their inception have won for them numerous and repeated wage and work improvements, members of I. A. T. S. E. Hollywood locals won an overwhelming victory over the recently-organized United Studio Technicians' Guild, a would-be dual group, in a National Labor Board conducted election in Gilmore stadium, Hollywood.

"Balloting which determines bargaining agency for approximately 12,000 studio workers, resulted in more than a 2-to-1 vote for the I. A. T. S. E. members. Announced officially by Walter P. Spreckels, regional director of the N. L. R. B., the vote gave the I. A. T. S. E. 4,460 votes, and the Technicians' Guild 1,967.

"Four hundred and twenty votes were challenged, 52 were neutral, 5 were void and two blank. Total votes, 6,487.

"The election culminated a six-months' dispute between the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, recognized by producers for many years through renewal of labor contracts embracing its many members, and the Technicians' Guild, Communist group, indorsed by the C. I. O., an independent union which is an outgrowth of the defunct Stage Employes' local 37, whose charter was revoked by the I. A. T. S. E. International several months ago when disgruntled members sought to innoculate the organization with Communistic venom, and for incompetency.

"The balloting was held from 6 a.m. until midnight, with union members eligible to vote who had been bona fide employes for at least 60 days within a recent period.

"The I. A. T. S. E. has been the bargaining agent for a long period of time but its right was challenged by the new faction that has waged a spirited campaign of aggression against the recognized substantial A. F. L. affiliate I. A. group. Numerous radio broadcasts, house-to-house solicitation, pamphlet distribution and other forms of contact were employed by the Technicians' Guild in an effort to dissuade loyal I. A. T. S. E. members to join the recently-formed C. I. O.-Communistic group."

Poker Face.

Dad—Son, I never knew what it was to kiss a girl until I courted your mother. I wonder if you will be able to say the same to your children.

Son— I think so, dad, but not with such a straight face as yours.

10,000 Slum Buildings Eliminated by USHA Housing Program

Washington. — Indication that real progress in eradication of American slums is being made by the low-rent housing program of the United States Housing Authority is given by statistics just issued which show that approximately 10,000 substantial structures had been eliminated in 26 cities as of Dec. 1.

In issuing the statistics, USHA Administrator Nathan Straus called to attention that they represent only 36 USHA-aided projects concerning which the local authorities have made formal reports on the progress of their slum clearance work.

A large additional number of substandard dwellings also have been eliminated throughout the country, he said, in connection with construction now under way on more than 125 low-rent projects, but the data have not yet been officially reported and approved.

The United States Housing Act requires that substandard dwellings equivalent to the dwelling units provided by an USHA project must be demolished, effectively closed or rendered safe and sanitary for human habitation.

Many Union Bakeries In Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill.—Members of organized labor and their friends in Springfield are kept well informed with regard to Springfield bakeries which operate under agreements with Bakers Union No. 147, A. F. of L. affiliate.

In the Illinois Tradesman, official organ of the Springfield Federation of Labor, the union carries an advertisement giving the names and street locations of 14 firms that manufacture and sell bakery products.

"The union men and their families," the advertisement says, "are requested to patronize only bakeries listed in this advertisement. These shops are strictly union and sanitary in every respect."

Two More States Enlisted In Slum Clearance Drive

Washington.—Two more states were actively enlisted in the nationwide slum clearance program when President Roosevelt, upon recommendation of Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority, approved USHA loans totaling $15,480,000 to eleven local housing authorities. These loans, to defray 90 per cent of the $17,206,000 estimated cost of thirteen low-rent and slum clearance projects, brought the USHA loan contract total to $536,797,000.

Missouri and Washington entered the loan contract column for the first time when loans were approved for St. Louis and Seattle. Thus 140 communities in twenty-nine states, the District of Columbia, the Territory of Hawaii, and Puerto Rico have received loan contracts with which to attack their slums and build decent homes for families in the lowest-income group.

Besides the $536,797,000 in loan contracts, there are outstanding earmarkings of $130,831,000, making a total of $667,628,000 in USHA commitments for 169 communities.

A. F. of L. Cemeut Workers Win Sweeping Victory Over CIO

Chicago.—The American Federation of Labor has won another overwhelming victory!

Local No. 105, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, A. F. of L., has defeated the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, CIO, in a collective bargaining election conducted at the Buffalo, N. Y., plant of the National Gypsum Co., second largest firm of its kind in the country. The A. F. of L. union received 91 votes, the CIO, 40.

Much of the credit for the victory, which paves the way for a contract with the A. F. of L. union, goes to Samuel R. Diskan, vice-president of the international union, and Neil J. Cunningham, A. F. of L. representative.

Anti-Lynching Measure Favored by A. F. of L.

Definite action in favor of anti-lynching legislation by the Congress of the United States was expressed in a resolution adopted by the 1939 convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The resolution, introduced by Delegates A. Phillip Randolph and Milton P. Webster of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, declared:

"In the last half century, some 5,000 or more persons have been the victims of lynching in the United States of America, some of whom have been white and women.

"Lynching harks back to the brutal methods of the barbarian and savage, and constitutes a blot, a stigma and a shame and disgrace upon a so-called civilized country, and earns the condemnation and scorn of all civilized peoples.

"Convention after convention, together with the executive council and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, has made definite and sharp declarations against this national evil and inhuman practice, and that there is a growing enlightened sentiment in the south against this horror.

"The 59th Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor expresses its unqualified condemnation of lynching and mob terror, and denounces the southern filibuster in the United States Senate against the Wagner-Van Nys-Gavagan anti-lynching bill, as opposed to and in contravention of all democratic procedure and practice, preventing, as it were, through physical force and a blocking process, the will of the people from being heard and registered, and calls upon the Congress to enact a federal law to wipe out lynching."

Local No. 380 has agreements with four of the largest baking concerns in Worcester.

Electrical Workers' Agreement Guarantees One-Tenth of Jobs to Men Over Fifty-Five

New York.—Definite steps to preserve employment for older workers are provided in an agreement negotiated here by Local No. 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, and the New York Electrical Contractors' Association.

The contract, which covers 6,500 electrical construction workers, makes mandatory the employment of one union member past the age of 55 in every group of ten workers and establishes a joint committee of three employers and three union representatives to plan a pension program for electricians between 60 and 65 years old. The union now has a pension system of its own providing retirement benefits of $42 a month for workers over 65, and this will be supplemented by the Federal old-age insurance program, which goes into effect Jan. 1.

To make up for recent reductions in public appropriations for vocational education, the agreement directs the joint employment committee, made up of contractors and electricians, to supply instructors and supervise training courses for apprentices and advanced vocational courses for journeymen members of Local 3.

Confidence that the new contract would assure continued peace in the $50,000,000 electrical construction trade was expressed by representatives of both groups at the signing. The contract, which expires Dec. 31, 1940, continues the $2-an-hour wage and the thirty-hour five-day week. Time and one-half is provided for overtime.

Harry Van Arsdale, Jr., business manager of the union, said its members would consent to a lower hourly rate if "someone were to come forward with a workable plan whereby electricians would be guaranteed a steady annual wage." Seasonal fluctuations in employment trended to reduce the annual earnings of Local 3's members, Mr. Van Arsdale observed.

The contract was signed in the union offices at 130 East Twenty-Fifth street, with the Rev. John P. Boland, chairman of the State Labor Relations Board; Representative James H. Fay and Assemblyman Robert F. Wagner, Jr., acting as witnesses. Robert A. Goeller, Lincoln Bush and John P. Morrissey represented the contractors and Mr. Van Arsdale, Bert Kirkman and Fred Hansen signed for the union.

Philadelphia Labor Fights Tax on Wages

Philadelphia.—The A. F. of L. Central Labor Union here is leading the fight on the 1½ per cent wage tax ordinance passed by the Philadelphia City Council.

The receiver of taxes, Frank J. Willard, estimated that the collection of the tax, which starts on the first payday in January, will yield about $18,000,000 to balance the 1940 municipal budget.

The impost, hitting approximately 1,000,000 workers, will remain in force until it is repealed, since the ordinance contains no provision limiting its life.

According to the ordinance, wage earners will be required to pay the following tax on their weekly earnings: $15, 22½ cents; $20, 30 cents; $25, 37½ cents; $30, 45 cents; $50, 75 cents.

In the higher brackets the following tax will be paid on weekly earnings: $75, $1.12½; $100, $1.50; $200, $3.

The tax on wages applies to every resident of Philadelphia who works for a living, practices a profession or operates an unincorporated business, whether it is in the city or not.

Union Officials Rush to Volunteer Services in Labor's Drive to Aid Fight on Infantile Paralysis

Washington.—Wires and letters from officials of national and international unions poured into American Federation of Labor headquarters this week promising President William Green the maximum support of organized labor in the national campaign to fight infantile paralysis.

Seventy-one prominent national and international officials have already volunteered their services as members of the Labor Division Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday. More wires and letters are coming in daily.

"The sincerity and whole-heartedness of some of the responses to my invitations to labor to serve in the Labor Division of the President's Birthday Committee are warmly appreciated and gratifying," said A. F. of L. President Green. "They show now as in former years that when labor is called on it responds unanimously to this great cause and in a manner that shows the great concern of all of us in the fight that has not yet been won—the fight against infantile paralysis."

Union Aid Pledged.

Some of the telegrams and letters to President Green read as follows:

From C. C. Coulter, secretary-treasurer of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association:

"Advise me as early as possible what plans are to be recommended for contacting local unions and collecting subscriptions for which labor will receive credit."

From P. J. Morrin, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers:

"It is with the utmost pleasure and sincerity that I hasten to accept an appointment as a member of the Labor Division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday.

"Like yourself, I am hopeful that labor may establish a record this year in that great humanitarian war against the ravages of that dread scourge, infantile paralysis.

Teachers Ready to Help

"You may be assured that I personally and as general president of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers shall do all in my power to make this a banner year in this most worthy cause.

"Please count on my full cooperation."

From George S. Counts, president of the American Federation of Teachers:

"I regard it as a gerat honor to serve with you on Committee for Celebration of President's Birthday. I await your instructions."

From D. W. Tracy, international president, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your wire of Dec. 14 in which you advise that you have again accepted appointment as chairman of the Labor Division of Committee for Celebration of President's Birthday to support the national foundation's great war to combat infantile paralysis.

"Your wire also advised that you desire me to serve as a member of the Labor Division and this is to advise you that I will be more than pleased to serve."

From David Dubinsky, president, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union:

"Appreciate your invitation to accept membership on Labor Division for Celebration of President's Birthday which you head. Shall be glad to serve."

Many Others in Line

From E. C. Davison, general secretary-treasurer, International Association of Machinists:

"Replying to your message of Dec. 4, I accept with pleasure the appointment as a member of the Labor Division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday."

Hyperbole?

An old Scotch woman was wandering round the local museum with her grandson. Then they came to the usual statue of Venus de Milo, with half an arm missing on one side and the whole arm cut away on the other.

"There ye are, my lad," said the old grandmother, wagging her finger at the youngster. "That's what comes o' biting your fingernails."

Industrial Production at 1929 Peak But Employment Lags, American Federation of Labor Finds

Washington, D. C. — Industrial production in November equalled the all-time peak month of May in the boom year 1929, yet there were still approximately 9,200,000 unemployed, the American Federation of Labor estimates in its latest report on unemployment.

Unemployment was reduced from 10,305,000 in July to 9,221,000 in October and approximately 9,200,000 in November the Federation said.

"Thus little by little this war boom is putting the unemployed to work, but progress in re-employment, even in these times of peak production, is very slow when compared to the large number of unemployed," the Federation comments.

More Output, Fewer Workers

Discussing production and its effect on employment and the need of reducing work hours to put more to work, the Federation says:

"In October, 1939, our industries produced more than they did in October, 1929, but employed nearly 3,000,000 fewer persons. The Federal Reserve Board adjusted index of industrial production stood at 120 in October, 1939, compared to 118 in October, 1929.

"In October this year there were less than 44,000,000 employed, compared to 47,350,000 in October, 1929. Yet in these 10 years our working population has increased by 5,350,000, and therefore the unemployment of less than 1,000,000 in October, 1929, has grown to over 9,200,000 in October, 1939.

Hours Cut Helped

"Had we not created at least 2,000,000 jobs by reducing work hours in these 10 years, unemployment today would be even worse than it is.

"These figures, however, are a convincing answer to any who claim that further reduction of work hours will prevent American industry from reaching the production levels needed for an adequate living standard.

"For, although we have reduced the work week by 10 hours since 1929, from 50 to 40 hours per week, we are still able to achieve 1929 production with a force of more than 9,000,000 men standing idle."

Unemployment Jump Avoided

The Federation reports its weighted figure on trade unemployment shows 9.3 per cent of the membership idle in November, the same as the figure for October and well below the unemployment of 13.2 per cent in November last year.

The figure reveals that the increase in unemployment which often occurs at this season has been avoided this year because of the war boom, the Federation remarks.

The Federation estimate of October unemployment as 9,221,000 is considerably above that of the more optimistic estimate of the National Industrial Conference Board, a private research organization supported largely by corporations.

Lowest in Two Years

The conference board says October unemployment totaled 8,149,000, the lowest estimate since November, 1937.

The total at work in private industry and agriculture was put at 44,448,000, compared with 35,884,000 in March, 1933, at the depression low in employment, and the 1929 average of 47,925,000.

"Buy Union" to Help Keep America Out of War, I. M. Ornburn Urges; Reciprocal Trade Treaty Hit

Washington.—Buying of union-made goods as a means of promoting prosperity and keeping America from involvement in foreign war was stressed by I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, in a radio address delivered over the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting company.

Ornburn sharply criticized reciprocal trade treaties as having proved to the detriment of American labor and declared such agreements should be ratified by congress. His statement is regarded as significant in view of the intention of Senator Wheeler and others to fight to give the senate power to ratify or reject treaties made under the reciprocal trade program.

Union Buying Makes Jobs.

"Believe it or not," said Mr. Ornburn, "the buying of union-made and American-made merchandise is an important factor in preventing our sons from being drafted in service in foreign wars.

"I wish," he continued, "that every mother and father in America fully realized the vital importance of this fact. Furthermore, when we buy goods from belligerent nations we are helping them to purchase ammunition for the atrocious bombing of innocent civilians. The best way to boycott foreign-manufactured products is to buy only American-made goods. By doing so we reduce the chances of our being drawn into the controversial problems of the Old World.

"We also increase our own economic security and stability. In patronizing our industries we create jobs for American workers. When the goods are union-made we help to maintain the high labor standards which have been established in America. I appeal to all consumers to demand only American-made, union label products every day in the year and I urge you to buy only Christmas gifts that bear the union label."

Tariff Protection Asked.

Ornburn strongly urged protection of American labor by imposition of tariffs equalizing the cost of production between foreign-made and American-made goods. He said that the American Federation of Labor had long worked for raising of standards of wages, hours and working conditions in foreign lands.

"But," he said, "we will not lower our standards of wages, hours and conditions to meet those of unfortunate workers in foreign lands."

"In this connection," he went on to say, "we believe that, under our system of government, reciprocal trade agreements should be ratified by the congress of the United States. They are treaties between nations. Today they are negotiated and approved by only the executive branch of our government. These reciprocal trade treaties have not worked to the benefit of American labor, industry or agriculture."

The speaker declared that buying of union label merchandise is the only way to make certain of obtaining goods of high quality. He added:

"For the first time in the history of the American Federation of Labor there isn't any personal requirement and there isn't anything that you need in your home that does not bear the union label. Union-made goods are the highest quality of merchandise on the market. Some of the merchants who insist in pushing Japanese and other foreign-made merchandise should be made to sell all of them to the workers in the respective countries in which they were manufactured. I repeat, it is an economic crime to spend American-earned dollars for foreign-made goods."

In ending his talk, Ornburn stressed buying of union label goods and services during the Christmas shopping season.

Union Label Gift Buying Urged.

"There is no method," he said, "through which better times can be brought to America than through the buying of union label and American-made products. It will keep money in our own land. It will increase purchasing power. In general it will bring a more permanent prosperity to America. Surely, these are worthy reasons why every purchaser during the Christmas shopping season should buy union label products.

Green Denounces Hitler Persecution Of Jews as Part of Vast Movement Seeking Democracy's Destruction

Instigators of Anti-Semitic Drive "Chief Enemies of Human Race," Says Labor Chief in Address Praised by Matthew Woll as True Statement of Organized Workers' Position.

New York.—In a scathing condemnation of Nazi Germany's persecution of the Jews, President William Green denounced Adolf Hitler and all of those responsible for the persecution as "the chief enemies of the human race." He spoke at Madison Square Garden at a great meeting under the direction of the American Jewish Congress. Twenty thousand persons filled every seat.

The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution asking President Roosevelt to convey American condemnation of the Nazi persecution of Jews in Poland to the German Government and to use every available means to help the victims of the oppression.

Appeals to World Conscience.

After referring to the American Federation of Labor's repeated denunciation of the Hitler dictatorship and scoring the "barbaric persecution" of the Jews in Germany, Austria and Poland, President Green said:

"We protest against it all. We denounce those who are responsible for it as the chief enemies of the human race. We appeal to the conscience of the world, and we call for the mobilization of the moral strength and power of the universe, in opposition to the madmen of Europe who, moved by racial hatred and thrist for power, are seeking to wipe out and destroy a noble race."

Green went on to say:

"It is my conviction that the problem which overshadows the world today is not one for the Jews alone but for all of us. And I also firmly believe that the Jews must not limit their concern to the sufferings of their fellow-religionists abroad, but must realize that the revival of anti-Semitism was and is only an incidental facor in a movement which seeks to destroy the rights of all minorities and to substitute autocracy for democracy in national and international affairs.

Unions Firsts Victims.

"As we study the development of the Nazi revolution in Germany we discover that Hitler's first official acts were to destroy the free, democratic trade-union movement in Germany and to institute a reign of terror against the Jews. Why was this so? The answers are obvious. Hitler attacked the trade unions because he expected them to prove an obstacle in his path. He could not afford to tolerate independence and opposition. He required full and complete submission.

"So his storm troopers seized the property of the labor unions, arrested the labor leaders and either executed them or imprisoned them in concertation camps. Thus was the progress of centuries wiped ou with one blow Thus was Hitler enabled to put into effect a system of enforced labor."

The A. F. of L. head strongly attacked Germany, Russia and Italy, under their present rulers, as totalitarian states that rule by force. He flayed Soviet Russia's attack on Finland, declaring it "inexcusable and unprovoked." In ending his address he said:

"Totalitarianism appears to be on the march in Europe. It has left in its wake hundreds of thousands of suffering Jews. The ruthless heel of the oppressor has trampled upon them more viciously than upon any other group. We have met here tonight to protest against such brutality.

Must Hold Fast to Democracy.

"To make that protest effective it seems to me we must unite not only in letting the world know what we are against, but what we stand for. All Jews and all Americans should realize that their hopes must rest on the eventual triumphs of democracy over totalitarianism

"The creed of Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini menaces everything we hold dear. Let us determine never to surrender to that creed. Let us hold fast to our love of liberty and to our form of government—self-government—so that the higher aspects of humanity may not perish from the earth."

Matthew Woll, president of the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy, lauded President Green's speech as a true statement of the position of every member of organized labor and of every citizen of our country imbued with the real spirit of democracy.

Positive Action Urged.

"The League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy," Woll stated, "is directly engaged in a bitter fight against the barbarians and inhuman philosophy of the totalitarian states. We realize that these dictatorships of lust and force will destroy every liberty and every right, every humanity and every freedom that we possess as workers and citizens of a great democracy.

"It is not enough for us to show our horror and disgust of the crimes of the totalitarian states. We must do everything in our power to bring to our people the real meaning of the things we hate and a true understanding of the things we stand for. It is our duty to make our democracy known and acknowledged as the true defence and invincible bulwark against all who would trample upon human rights and liberties and rule by force alone."

Union Members Return To Work in Coal Mine

Springfield, Ill.—Mine B at Springfield, which has been closed during a controversy extending over two and one-half years, reopened with 130 of the 465 employes of the Mine B Coal Company, all members of Local 54 of the International Union of Progressive Mine Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, at work cleaning up the shaft and making necessary repairs.

The mine was opened in accordance with a National Labor Relations Board stipulation and agreement.

The controversy, which resulted in a shutdown of the mine, began in the Spring of 1937. The coal company had held a contract with the Progressive Mine Workers of America for nearly five years, the mine employes being members of Local Union No. 54.

Despite this contract an attempt was made to work the mine under the United Mine Workers of America. The controversy became so bitter that the shaft shut down.

As yet the Progressive Mine Workers' Local Union and the coal company have not entered into an agreement, but Carl H. Elshoff, president of the company, assured Dave Reed, president of District No. 1, Progressive Mine Workers, and John Malaker, president of Local [illegible] that while contractual negotiations are in progress the employes would work under same wage and hour conditions as are provided in the agreement between the Progressive Mine Workers and the Illinois Coal Producers' Association, and that the P. M. W. would "continue to be recognized as the sole bargaining agent for all employes in said mine pursuant to the provisions of the decree of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Seventh District, entered on about June 15, 1939."

Soviet Pledge Flagrantly Violated, President Told

New York City.—In an open letter to President Roosevelt, Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Fedration of Labor, called on the President to withdraw American recognition of Soviet Russia. He also asked Roosevelt to "take such other steps as may be appropriate for the security of the United States with respect to the activities of the Communist Party and its leaders in this country."

Woll charged that the Soviet pledge to refrain from any form of interference in the internal affairs of the United States and to forbid the formation here of any organization seeking overthrow of our form of government had been "flagrantly violated."

"Ample evidence of this violation in many respects has been submitted to the Dies Committee and through other channels, so much so that even persons who had been heretofore inclined to give Moscow and its agents in the United States, the Communist party, its auxiliary organizations and its various innocent fronts, every benefit of the doubt are now compelled to admit that the Communist party and its leaders are the agents of Moscow in this country seeking boldly to achieve the very purposes from which the Soviet Government had promised to refrain," Woll told the President.

PEACE AND GOOD WILL

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

There can be no peace without good will among men and without good will there can be no peace. The two go together. This is the most important fact to be remembered at this Christmas season when the whole world is stirred by wars and rumors of wars, and when the need for creating friendships is even more important than building battleships.

Peace on earth cannot be obtained through treaties which hide secret plots and tricky maneuvers. Nor can good will be created when hatred dwells in the innermost hearts of men. And treaties and pacts between nations break down when hatred between men continues.

"Good will toward men" is the basis of Democracy. It is the foundation of America's progress and prosperity. Since 1820 over 38,000,000 men, women and children from foreign lands have landed on our shores to secure the privilege of Democracy. They had discovered that while tyrannies may endure for a time on the basis of ill will to men—race against race, language against language, class against class—it is only when good will prevails among men that security and happiness can be obtained.

"Good will toward men" is the basis of genuine industrial prosperity. Busy factories and loaded trains are a blessing only when the workers who are carrying the daily burden of production and distribution are receiving a fair share of the prosperity of which these are the outward signs. And by the same token the workers are obligated to express good will and understanding for those who are honestly and courageously trying to carry the load of management and finance.

Peace on earth and good will toward men begins with the individual. It cannot be obtained through mass action. It starts with your neighbor who lives next door, or who works by your side, or with whom you have daily contact. But it extends to all men, whatever their race, creed, color, or economic condition.

It is only as men themselves erect barriers that the world is robbed of Christmas joy. And it is the barrier that is first erected in their own hearts—covetousness, hatred, envy, strife—that shuts out the spirit of Christmas, which is love, joy and peace.

"Good will toward men" is the simplest, most natural way in which to express the love which we are commanded to have toward all mankind. It is having a desire for their good, rather than for their destruction or their discomfort.

This should be the spirit of Christmas. It is the song which the angels sang two thousand years ago. Without this spirit Christmas would be a mockery. But its fulfillment would cause rejoicing in heaven and bring peace and happiness to all men everywhere.

Labor Pays Tribute to Father Maguire Noted Worker for Industrial Peace

Chicago.—Labor, with civic and governmental leaders, paid warm tribute to the Rev. W. R. Maguire, C. S. V., nationally known labor arbiter, at a big dinner in the Palmer House. Father Maguire was formerly president of St. Viator College, near Kankakee, Ill.

More than 1,000 persons attended the testimonial dinner, given by organized labor, honoring Father Maguire's twenty-fifth anniversary as a member of the Catholic priesthood.

Patrick Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades Council, was toastmaster and before introducing the speakers read a cablegram from Pope Pius XII in which he pronounced his apostolic benediction on the Rev. Father Maguire.

Work as Arbiter Praised.

Principal guest speaker was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John A. Ryan, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

For almost six hours the speakers praised Father Maguire's work as a labor arbiter. It was pointed out that the priest alone single-handedly had settled more than seventy-five labor disputes during his career.

Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, said that "labor is fighting for the things Christ stood for while He was on earth," and added:

"Both labor and the church are bitterly opposed to Communism. Labor and the church want peace. Neither wants Nazism, Communism or war."

Additional tributes to Father Maguire's efforts on behalf of labor were voiced by John P. Frey, president of the Cleveland Federation of Labor; Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and United States Senator James Slattery.

Other speakers included the Rev. P. C. Conway, William McFetridge, the Rev. W. J. Ligin and Judge Oscar F. Nelson.

Over 500,000 Persons Are Eligible For Retirement Pensions in 1940

Social Security Board Takes Steps to Contact Three Groups of Potential Beneficaries for Monthly Old-Age and Survivors' Pensions.

Washington. — Steps are being taken by the Social Security Board to contact 528,575 account holders who may be eligible to retirement benefits in 1940, and to inform them of their rights under the amended law, John Corson, director of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance, announced.

Data is currently being prepared to inform these groups of their eligibility under the retirement provisions," said Mr. Corson.

"First are those who have received lump-sum payments under the original Social Security Act. A total of 178,575 persons received $9,930,751.83 in such payments up to Aug. 10, 1939, when the act was amended and lump-sum payments ceased.

"Many in this group will be eligible for monthly benefits beginning in January, 1940. Letters have been sent to each such beneficiary informing them of the changes in the act and of their possible rights as a result of the amendments. These are people who expected no further benefits and to whom the monthly benefits will come as a windfall.

Six Quarters Required.

"They must, however, show six quarters of covered employment to make formal application and the future monthly payments will be in lieu of the lump-sum payment they have previously received. Monthly payments will not begin until the amount of that lump sum has been deducted."

Illustrating this deduction of earlier lump-sum payments, Mr. Corson cited the case of a worker who had received a lump-sum payment of $125 ten months ago when he attained the age of 65. If he and his family apply for 1940 benefits and are entitled to $50 each month they would receive no check for January, no check for February, only $25 for March, and thereafter they would receive the full $50 each month. The $125 would be deducted under the law to cover the previous $125 lump-sum payment.

"The second group now being contacted by the bureau are account holders who have reached the age of 65 in 1937, 1938 or 1939, but who have never filed claims for benefits," Mr. Corson continued. "This group numbers about 175,000 persons. Eligible workers and dependents in this group will be entitled to monthly benefits immediately upon their retirement.

"The third group are those who will reach the age of 65 in the year 1940 and who will become eligible for benefits immediately upon their retirement. This group also numbers approximately 175,000, bringing the total for whom claims data is now being prepared to 528,575."

Staff Ready to Assist.

To facilitate the job of informing these latter two groups, photostatic reproductions of the complete wage records of eligible workers, as reported by their employers, and of their original applications for social security accounts have been prepared. The more than 400 field offices of the Social Security Board will receive by Dec. 22 these records for workers who have already attained age 65; the records for those workers who will attain age 65 in 1940 will be mailed at monthly intervals during 1940.

Insured workers who live near field offices will then receive letters requesting them to call at such offices to review their accounts and to learn what steps they should take to assure themselves maximum benefits. To serve those who live at considerable distance from established field offices itinerant stations are being set up where field representatives of the board will interview account holders by appointment. Those now eligible will be contacted immediately; the others will be contacted as their eligibility age approaches.

Four Groups to Gain Most.

"Four groups of account holders have most to gain through this action," said Mr. Corson.

"Those who have received lump-sum benefits under the old law and who expect no further benefits.

"Those who, because of repeated change of residence, recent unemployment or carelessness, have lost touch with their accounts and might otherwise have lost several months' benefit through overlooking their rights.

"Those who wish to remain employed after 65, but who will then undertake part-time or lower-paid employment. Though these workers may not be immediately eligible for payments, they may, by prompt application, peg their future monthly benefits to the higher average monthly wage they had before 65.

Those who have sometimes failed to report their social security account numbers to their employers. These will have ample opportunity to establish their right to establish their right to added wage credits and higher benefits."

Frisco Painters Win Union Wage Strike

San Francisco.—The A. F. of L. Paint Makers' Union here announced that their members on strike at the plant of the Nason Paint Company had returned to work under a union agreement to include the following terms: Payment of union wages; the union hiring hall to be called for men; all employes not members of the union required to make immediate application for membership; one expelled member to reaffiliate, creating 100 per cent union membership in the plant.

The strike was sanctioned by the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America and the San Francisco Labor Council.

RAND IS SUED FOR $1,000,000 'WASTED' IN FIGHTING UNIONS

Stockholders Seek to Compel Hard-Boiled Labor Hater to Pay for Campaign of Terrorism

James R. Rand, Jr., who invented the notorious "Mohawk Valley Formula" to smash a strike of his employes at Remington-Rand plants in 1936, was this week faced by new lessons that strike-breaking doesn't pay.

Three stockholders in New York started suit to compel Rand and other high officers of the corporation to pay back more than a million dollars squandered in the campaign of terrorism against the strikers.

The money was spent for spies, thugs, company unions, ammunition, anti-labor propaganda, "back-to-work" movements and other types of violence that were part of the Mohawk formula.

The stockholders' suit charged that the money was "expended illegally" and with "reckless disregard of the interests of the corporation."

Antagonized Public.

Attorney Emil K. Ellis, representing the stockholders, pointed out that when his clients bought shares in the company they had a market value of $25 to $29, but are now down to $11.

Rand's strike-breaking activities antagonized the public and had much to do with the collapse of the stock, Ellis declared.

Since Rand's assault on labor was held by the Supreme Court to have violated the Wagner Act, he and his fellow officers can be required to account for their "illegal conduct," the stockholders maintained.

Unions Demand Action.

Rand is having trouble from other quarters also. The International Association of Machinists and other A. F. of L. unions have requested the National Labor Relations Board to start contempt proceedings against the corporation for failure to live up fully to the terms of the board order to reinstate 4,000 strikers and stop discrimination against union men.

That order was sustained by the Supreme Court, but many of the strikers have not been given back their old jobs, the unions declared. Several months ago the corporation also closed its plants in Syracuse, N. Y., where the unions had been most powerfully organized.

Board Order Flouted.

In transferring some of the employes who lost their jobs by the shutting down, the Rand firm discriminated against unionists, it was pointed out by Vice-President Fred D. Laudermann of the Machinists and Frank Fenton, A. F. of L. director of organization. That has been brought to the attention of the board for use in the contempt action.

At the same time, the A. F. of L. unions have also brought charges that the Rand corporation is still fostering "dummy" unions at most of its plants. These charges are being investigated by the board.

Officials of the Machinists and the A. F. of L. have tried to persuade Rand to sign a corporation-wide contract with the bona fide unions and thus "wipe the slate clean," but Rand has refused to consider the offer.

Ohio State Employes Get Salary Increase

Columbus, O.—One hundred and sixty-two employes of the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation were elated over the action of the Ohio State Civil Service Commission in approving salary increases for them.

According to H. C. Atkinson, administrator of the bureau, approximately 80 per cent of the employes affected were having their salaries increased from $70 to $80 a month. Most of them are typists who have had six months or more of service.

Truck Drivers Win Charleston Strike

Strike Breakers Are Fired and Drivers Return to Work.

Charleston, W. Va.—Officers and members of Local No. 175 of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers' International Brotherhood were well pleased with the end of the strike against the Mountain Truckers, Inc., of Charleston, which was realized when a meeting to consider arbitrating the controversy reached an understanding.

The arbitration group included representatives of the union and the company and their attorneys, John L. Connor, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor, and Circuit Judge J. F. Bouchelle, who acted as referee.

Officials of the company agreed to remove strike breakers from their trucks and resume operations with union drivers.

The conference also agreed that the two points at issue, payment of drivers for the full time they are employed and for lodging expenses while drivers are away from their home terminals, should be submitted to an arbitration board consisting of representatives of the union and a representative of the company, with Judge Rouchelle as a neutral arbitrator.

The strike against the Mountain Truckers, Inc., was called the middle of October when the company refused to meet the union demands. During the progress of the strike the company imported strike breakers from North Carolina and began operating its trucks. At first the strike breakers were escorted by State police to the West Virginia State line, but following a formal protest to Gov. Homer A. Holt by officials of the union, the police escort was withdrawn.

The principal business of the Mountain Truckers is hauling rayon to Southern mills and cigarets on the Northern runs, principally to Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati.

Gone, But Not Forgotten.

"I suppose you carry a memento of some sort in that locket?" said one woman to another.

"Yes, a lock of my husband's hair."

"But your husband is alive."

"Sure; but his hair is gone."

While Christmas is the dullest season of our entire year, we cannot help but feel that Scrooge's nephew was right when he said of Christmas:

"I have always thought of Christmas time—as a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time—the only time I know of in the long calendar of the year when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely—and though it has never put a scrap of gold or silver in my pocket, I believe that it has done me good and will do me good; and I say, God bless it."

HINTS FOR SAFETY FOR HOLIDAYS

Each year at Christmas time we hear of accidents that cause all the joy of the season to be ruined for someone. These accidents vary from minor cuts and scratches to the loss of life. Many fires are caused by not exercising the proper care with Christmas decorations.

In decorating your Christmas tree use only electric lights. Candles are prettier than electric lights, but they are dangerous to use. Cotton and paper decorations are also fire hazards and should not be used anywhere near any point where they might become ignited. There are fireproof decorations that can be used and it is much safer to use them.

All Christmas lighting sets either for the tree or any other decoration should be carefully inspected and placed in good order before they are used.

If fireworks, such as firecrackers and Roman candles and others are used, great care should be exercised when setting them off, so that they do not explode in the hand, which usually cause a very sever burn and the danger of tetanus (lockjaw) is great in cases of powder burns, because the burned bits of powder are blown into and underneath the skin, causing numerous punctures of the skin. Burns from cap pistols are as dangerous as any other powder burns.

If you do any hunting, be sure that you use all the caution possible so that you do not accidentally shoot yourself or someone else, and when you return to your home be sure your firearms are unloaded and then placed so that younger children can't get to them.

Open fires and heaters should be guarded with a screen at all times, but especially where there is apt to be several people in the room and some of them small children.

Any small cuts or scratches that are received from any cause should be immediately sterilized with a good germicide, and all powder burns should have a physician's care due to the danger of lockjaw that is usually thought to be present in these burns.

If every one in the family will do his or her part toward making Christmas safe, then the day can be enjoyed by all, but if the occasion should be marred by an accident, the holiday is spoiled not only for the one that is injured, but for many more people besides.

Employer Charged with Collecting Wage "Cutbacks" to Make Labor Pay for New Factory Building

New York City. — The Wage-Hour Division of the U. S. Department of Labor has begun Federal court injunction proceedings here to restrain the Belle Knitting Corporation from collecting wage "cutbacks" from employes of the company's factory at Sayre, Pa. Collection of the "cutbacks," the Government contends, was a scheme to make the workers pay the cost of the factory.

The corporation, which has offices here, was accused of assessing all employes at Sayre $250 each for the privilege of working in the plant, and of collecting the sum by making deductions of five per cent in weekly paychecks.

In many instances, the Government charged, the deductions brought the employes' wages below the legal minimum, which was 25 cents an hour before Oct. 24 and is now 30 cents an hour. The deductions have been made since 1937, it was said.

The corporation moved its plant from Lebanon, Pa., to Sayre, according to the Government's petition, because the people of Sayre put up $200,000 worth of buildings to house it.

The wage "cutback" system, the Government said, was inaugurated to raise money with which to pay the town back for the buildings.

Ambiguous.

Beverage Dispensers Win Shorter Hours

Toronto, Canada.—The renewal of agreements with a large number of hotels in Toronto was announced by Local No. 280 of the Beverage Dispensers International Alliance.

The wage rates ($21 per week for waiters and $24 for tapman) remain as last year, but the new agreement provides for an increase of 50 cents per day for spare men. In addition, provision is made for a reduction of three hours per week and one day off with pay each week for full-time employes.

PRINTERS' STRIKE ENDED

Youngstown, O. — A printers' strike which tied up four editions of the Youngstown Vindicator was ended by a settlement which provided for consideration later by the union and management of an arbitration clause asked by the management. The Vindicator agreed to a two-year contract providing vacations with pay. A statement by the management said:

"The union accepted the Vindicator's offer of vacations in return for the inclusion of an arbitration clause and the Vindicator dropped its request for a new contract to take the place of the old one which is now renewed."

A. L. F. Union Wins Gypsum Workers Poll

Chicago, Ill.—Local No. 105 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, won a decisive victory over the C. I. O. Steel Workers Organizing Committee in an election held under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board at Buffalo, New York, to choose a bargaining representative for the employes of the Buffalo plant of the National Gypsum Co., according to an announcement by William Schoenberg, president of the union.

The National Gypsum Co., is said to be the second largest firm of its kind in the United States. Eight of its 10 plants, Mr. Schoenberg said, are now under contract with the A. F. of L. affiliate.

Jurisdiction Over Professional Engineers Considered by A. F. of L. Executive Council

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in accordance with the decision of the 1939 convention of the Federation at Cincinnati, has under consideration the advisability of withdrawing the charter issued to a number of professional engineers in Brooklyn, N. Y., on the ground that the charter invades the jurisdiction of the International Federation of Technical Engineers', Architects' and Draftsmen's Unions.

The alleged conflict in jurisdiction was brought to the attention of the convention in a resolution introduced by Delegate C. L. Rosemund of the International Federation of Technical Engineers', Architects' and Draftsmen's Unions, which said:

"The thirty-ninth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in 1919 directed that all technical engineers and architecutral workers in field and office belong under the jurisdiction of the International Federation of Technical Engineers', Architects' and Draftsmen's Unions.

"Fully 30 per cent of the present membership of the I. F. T. E. A. and D. Unions is comprised of duly qualified professional engineers with supervisiory experience.

"On Dec. 27, 1938, a Federal charter was issued to a group of professional engineers of Brooklyn, N. Y., known as Federal Local Union No. 21870.

"Four members of said union are known to be employers.

"The granting of said Federal charter is in direct violation of the action of the 1919 convention of the American Federation of Labor and trespasses on the jurisdiction of the International Federation of Technical Engineers', Architects' and Draftsmen's Unions."

In acting on the resolution, the committee on adjustment submitted the following report, which the convention adopted:

"Your committee recommends this resolution be referred to the executive council with the understanding that a hearing of all parties interested shall be held within a period of ninety days, and if the facts developed are as represented, the charter shall be withdrawn in compliance with the request contained in the resolution."

St. John Bus Drivers Choose A. F. L. Union

St. John, N. B.—The Amalgamated Association of Street, Electrict Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, certainly mopped up the C. I. O. and the All-Canadian Congress of Labor in organizing the bus and truck drivers of the Scotia Motor Transport in New Brunswick and negotiating an adequate agreement for the drivers and helpers on the busses and trucks.

The Scotia Motor Transport had a reptuation for being rather tough toward its employes with regard to the question of wages and hours. Until the A. F. of L. affiliate organized the drivers and helpers, the conditions were substandard, characterized by low wages and long hours.

The C. I. O. and the All-American Congress of Labor made a desperate attempt to take the Scotia Motor Transport drivers and helpers under their wings, but failed completely in the attempt.

The employes expressed themselves as 100 per cent in favor of the Amalgamated Association, with A. F. of L. leaders performing active roles in the organization.

The S. M. T. was given until noon on a stipulated date by the Amalgamated to sign up or be confronted with a strike. At 11:30 the company came across and signed the contract, including a clause giving full recognition to the union. It was also agreed that a conference will be held every month with representation from the union and the company to discuss griveances that developed during the previous month.

The agreement also provided for the hourly adjustment of wages and working hours, and granted full seniority rights.

For over eight years before the A. F. of L. affiliate appeared on the scene the employes of the Scotia Motor Transport had been unorganized and wages, hours and working conditions were deplorable.

Machines to Load Half of Nation's Output of Soft Coal Within Ten Years, WPA Researchers Say

Washington. — Progress will continue in the mechanization of the bituminous coal industry, with consequent loss of jobs, Work Projects Administration research workers say.

Within another ten years as much as half of the nation's soft coal mined will be loaded underground by machine, says a WPA research report made public by WPA Commissioner F. C. Harrington.

Mechanical loading can displace from 10 to 40 per cent of the labor used in hand loading, the report asserts.

Machines Displacing Men.

"If the cost of coal is reduced, new uses found and former markets recovered, mechanical loading will result in the elimination of much of the backbreaking work of coal mining without exacting too great a price in terms of unemployment and reduced income," Corrington Gill, assistant WPA commissioner in charge of research, writes in transmitting the report.

"However, such a price has already been and is now being paid in some localities. Some mines and mining communities which by virtue of natural conditions or other factors have been unable to adopt mechanical loaders are being placed in unfavorable competitive positions and are finding their employment opportunities restricted. Some of the older miners, accustomed to the tempo of hand-loading mines, are finding themselves displaced and unable to gain a foothold in the mechanized mines. To many of these communities and for many of these older miners emergency relief measures of one type or another are the only alternative to destitution as long, at least, as mass unemployment remains a problem in the United States.

Employment Outlook Gloomy.

"Technical progress has been a factor in aiding coal to meet its competitors in the market and offers one means of maintaining adequate wage rates and working conditions," Gill stated. "No student of the coal industry, however, foresees a revival of demand such as will enable the industry to absorb any of the unemployed from other fields of labor.

"In fact, the most that can well be hoped for is to maintain the working force now employed at the mines."

"When the coal industry ceased to expand its production, technological improvements had to result in a reduction of labor requirements, although failure to take advantage of economies which could be effected by mechanization of loading might itself have resulted in further loss of markets and jobs," the report said.

Hours Reduction Helped Jobs.

". . . As long as production did not expand, the total number of jobs available in the industry as a whole would have declined much more sharply than it did had not employment policies been adopted which involved both temporary and permanent reductions of standard working hours per day and per week."

Between 1929 and 1935 output per man-hour in underground mines increased by 5 per cent and production declined by 32 per cent, but the average number of men employed declined by only 9 per cent, it is pointed out.

Union labor has been "conspicuously successful" in maintaining labor standards and recently extending them over the entire industry, the report continues. These achievements, however, have not yet been translated into satisfactory annual earnings.

Los Angeles Retains Five-Day Work Week

Los Angeles.—The City Council of Los Angeles voted down unanimously a recommendation by Mayor Fletcher Brown that City Hall offices be kept open Saturday mornings.

The mayor argued that many citizens find it inconvenient to transact their business with the city government during week days. He suggested the maintenance of skeleton crews in all city departments on Saturdays, but the council members refused to approve the idea.

The action of the City Council in turning down the Saturday work proposal was in compliance with the policy of the American Federation of Labor here.

The refusal of the council to adopt the mayor's recommendation means that with the exception of the city clerk's office and several lesser departments all City Hall offices will continue to be closed Saturdays

Tampa Employes Sign Electrical Union Pact

Tampa, Fla.—Officials of Local No. 108 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced the finalization of closed-shop agreements with eight local electrical contractors.

The agreements, which reflect largely those that expired Nov. 1, provide for a 40-hour week with an hourly pay scale of $1.25. The Electrician Workers' Union has more than 100 members employed in Tampa and approximately 50 more in nearby cities.

UNION FREEDOM OF ACTION

Labor organizations are voluntary associations of workers organized on the basis of freedom to control their activities in such a way as to bring about the best results of their collective efforts. To try to cast them into an unchangeable mold is folly, and to try to prevent them from self-expression and freedom of action is to deny the very essence of the Constitution of the United States.—Woodruff Randolph in the Typographical Journal.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

The British naval blockade of Germany is beginning to pinch. High German officials are openly admitting that there is a blockade and that it is having some unfavorable results. It is interesting that the complaint is not so much that Germany is not getting sufficient food for her people, but rather that Germany is not able to export the products of her mines and fields to foreign ports.

This admission and complaint by the German officials recalls the prophetic words of Adolf Hitler. "Germany must export or die." Reducing that to a syllogism one could say that Germany admittedly is not exporting and therefore admittedly Germany is dying. Wars, however, are not settled by the syllogiistic twist of a statement and a recent admission.

It is important to consider the by-product of this prophecy of Hitler's and the admission that Germany is losing its export trade. The German people will remember Hitler's words and the German people some day will put two and two together. What they will do when they put two and two together will be a question for history to answer.

Little heard from since its end of civil war and highly important in the present war, Spain together with Italy, holds the key to the Mediterranean. Spain could, but Italy would not, help Germany with her export problem. Possibly Spain could hold most of Germany's South American trade.

The rub to that little deal is in Italy. Mussolini is not so sure that he wants to go all the way in aid to Germany. Mussolini might have a handkering for the trade that Hitler would lose. Also it is also highly possible that Mussolini is not so sure just what side of the opposing forces he will occupy when the war has definitely jelled.

Spain is more closely tied to the Italian end of the axis than to the German.

Spain cannot afford to go against the wishes of Mussolini. As Italy goes, so shall Spain, unless the democracies could offer more than Italy, and right now the democracies are too busy to be able to fulfill any new promises.

William Green in an address at a mass meeting in New York's Madison Square Garden, sponsored by the American Jewish Congress, put his finger on one of the most necessary requirements for our democracy. Castigating the philosophies of the dictatorships, he reminded his audience that as believers in democracy and that democracy stands for it is most important that we not only "know what we hate," but we must also "know what we stand for."

We cannot defend democracy against the attacks of destructive ideologies unless we know and experience the nature and essence of democracy. You can't defend a will-o'-wisp any more than you can attack a fog. Our knowledge of democracy must be practical and constructive. We must know democracy thoroughly.

When we fully understand what we are fighting for and what we are fighting against we need no prodding to carry on the fight.

35-Cent Minimum Wage Ad

Washington.—The knitted outer wear industry committee voted to recommend to the wage-hour administrator a 35-cent minimum wage for all employes in the industry. That wage would be 5 cents above the statutory minimum of 30 cents an hour which became effective for all industries covered by the act on Oct. 24.

O. unions appeared on the same ballot, with the Federation unions winning in 109 elections and the C. I. O. unions in 76, while in 28 contests neither union was selected, and in two an independent union was chosen.

Board Decides 112 Cases.

The board decided 112 cases involving both the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. and the question of the proper bargaining unit. In 69 of these cases both organizations agreed completely or substantially on the unit. The remaining 43 cases, in which there was important disagreement, were decided thus by the board:

A. F. of L. contention upheld, 16; C. I. O. contention upheld, 19; contention of each upheld in part, 7; no decision necessary, 1.

Labor Split Deplored.

Commenting on the figures, the board said:

"The board has continued during the fiscal year to decide those and other issues created by the split between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, as required by the statute. Again, as during the past fiscal year, the conflict has created problems which have taken a disproportionate part of the board's time and energies.

"The board has no alternative but to decide these issues when presented. The protection to the processes of collective bargaining afforded by the National Labor Relations Act is still vitally beneficial to organized labor. A united labor movement would be in a better position to enjoy the rights protected by the act."

UNION STRIKES TO GET BACK JOB OF ONE MAN

Cleveland, O.—Members of Auto Mechanics' Local No. 1363 of the International Association of Machinists, A. F. of L. affiliate, called their members out of the plant of the Levering-Nash Motor Company here in protest against the unfair discharge of a union mechanic last September. Since the discharge the union tried, without effect, various conciliatory measures and finally declared the strike and picketed the plant.

Uniform Barber Prices Set for Indianapolis

Fifty-Cent Hair Cuts and Opening and Closing Hours Also Determined by State Board.

Indianapolis.—The State Board of Barber Examiners has established uniform prices and uniform hours for all barber shops in Indianapolis in an effort to stabilize the industry and eliminate "chiseling."

The enactment of the law under which the board acted was sought for many years by the Journeymen Barbers' Union and was included in the legislative program of the Indiana State Federation of Labor. The price and hour provisions were placed in the State law, which was originally enacted in 1933, during the 1939 session of the Indiana Legislature.

These amendments set out that a schedule of hours and prices could be placed in effect if approved by 80 per cent of the licensed barbers in any trade area. This approval was obtained in the Indianapolis area.

Schedule of Prices.

Prices now will be as follows: Hair cut, 50 cents; shave, 25 cents; plain shampoo, 50 cents; hand massage, vibrator massage and hand and vibrator massage, 50 cents; mud packs, $1; witch hazel steam, 25 cents; all hair tonic, 25 cents; man's neck clip, 50 cents; woman's neck clip, 25 cents; special shampoo, 50 cents; singe, 25 cents, and calls to hospitals and homes, $1. There will be no changes for children.

The hours will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Fair Competition Sought.

The law states that "the following provisions and regulations are declared to be enacted in the interest of the public health, public safety and general welfare, and that by legislative determination the profession of barbering and the operation of barber shops is hereby declared to be affected with a public interest.

"It is further declared that unfair, demoralizing and uneconomic competition and practices now exist in this State among barbers, barber shops and barber schools and that the provisions hereof will tend to safeguard fair competition and will facilitate adequate sanitary inspection and supervision of barber shops as now provided by the laws of this State and will thereby tend to protect the public health and safety."

A. F. L. Union Favored By Tampa Can Workers

Tampa, Fla.—The American Federation of Labor registered a definite victory here when employes of the American Can Company, by a large majority, asked that they be represented in collective bargaining negotiations by Federal Labor Union No. 21978, A. F. of L. affiliate. The National Labor Relations Board, which held the election, announced that 84 out of 94 votes cast were in favor of the A. F. of L. affiliate.

The election ended a vigorous campaign in which the C. I. O. Steel Workers' Organizing Committee made a frantic fight to represent the employes.

The American Federation of Labor local petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for an election shortly after it was chartered last December. The C. I. O. immediately jumped into the picture and subsequently filed a complaint with the board charging that three men had been discharged by the company for their activities in favor of the C. I. O. The Labor Board dismissed the C. I. O. complaint.

The election was held with only the American Federation of Labor union on the ballot. Provision was made, however, for voting against the A. F. of L. union. When the ballots were counted it was revealed that only ten employes, probably C. I. O. sympathizers, refused to vote for the American Federation of Labor.

Cheyenne Creameries Sign Union Pacts

Cheyenne, Wyo.—The Cheyenne Teamsters' Local of International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced the finalization of a wage agreement with the Beatrice Creamery Company and the Cheyenne Ice Cream Company, making this concern 100 per cent fair to organized labor.

Nine Creameries Sign Office Workers' Pact

Minneapolis, Minn.—When the Young American Creamery of Minneapolis signed an agreement with the A. F. of L. Office Workers Union here it raised to nine the number of creameries which have signed up with the union in this area, Business Representative Rose Seiler announced.

The progress made by the Office Workers Union is praised by representatives of all A. F. of L. affiliates. It represents improved living conditions for hundreds of workers who have been terribly exploited.

Asked what Lewis had to say about possible peace with the American Federation of Labor, the President replied that Lewis was hopeful too.

R. F. C. Aids Finance Of Low-Cost Dwellings

Washington. — Administrator Jesse H. Jones of the Federal Loan Agency announced that the R. F. C. Mortgage Company would purchase up to $2,500 loans made to finance the construction of new houses.

R. F. C. officials explained that by this offer they expected to loosen building. Banks and finance companies, able under this arrangement to pass the mortgages on to the R. F. C. now will be in a better position to pump new credit into that industry, they said.

The R. F. C. purchase offer applies to 4½ per cent mortgages not exceeding $2,500. The R. F. C. will buy these from banks and finance companies, charging a fee of one half of 1 per cent. The banks, in turn, will service the mortgages and retain a service fee of 1 per cent, one-half of which will be paid by the mortgagor. By this transaction the bank would profit by one-half of 1 per cent.

The offer, officials explained, applies only to new building after Jan. 1, 1940, and does not include modernization or improvement loans.

Firm Ordered to Rehire 18 A. F. of L. Teamsters

Philadelphia, Pa.—The National Labor Relations Board ordered the Protective Motor Service Company here to rehire eighteen of its armored-car drivers discharged late in 1935 allegedly for union activities, and pay them back wages estimated at $58,000.

The finding, an appeal from which either side can ask a hearing, sustained the complaint that the eighteen men were discharged for joining Local 470 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

The order directed the company to cease discriminatory tactics against union members.

Canton Bus Drivers Win Union Contract

Canton, O.—The finalizing of a new agreement with the Canton City Lines, Inc., intracity bus operators in Canton, was announced by officials of Canton Local No. 489 of the Bus Operators' Union, A. F. of L. affiliate.

Dime Greeting Cards Give Opportunity For Every Union Member to Personally Tell President, "Happy Birthday"

Millions of Cards on Way to Organized Labor's Membership to Serve Double Purpose of Greeting Chief Executive and Aid in Nation's War Against Dread Poliomyelitis.

Washington.—Orders for a million and a quarter personal greeting cards have already been received by the Labor Division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, as organized labor prepares to personally congratulate President President Roosevelt on his fifty-eighth birthday by mailing individual greeting cards direct to the White House.

In addition, printers have been instructed to prepare a million more cards as orders continue to pile up at Labor Division headquarters, A. F. of L. President William Green said, in announcing at Washington details of labor's participation in the 1940 drive on infantile paralysis.

All Can Help

Every member of organized labor and their families will have an opportunity to extend their personal greetings directly to the President by means of the beautifully printed birthday card now coming off the presses, Mr. Green explained, as he made plans to distribute the cards to the ranks of organized labor as chairman of the Labor Division for the Celebration of the President's Birthday.

Each and every member of organized labor will receive one or more of these personalized greeting cards either through the local secretaries of their unions, from their union's headquarters or through central labor bodies or state federations.

Great Response Expected

"I expect every man and woman of organized labor to mail his or her greeting card to President Roosevelt with as many dimes attached as they can spare," Mr. Green emphasized. "We have provided ample space in the cards for coin enclosures—your individual contributions, and I know you will not fail. Thirty million dimes is the goal of the national drive this year."

The cards are designed with a coin holding section which will insure their safe delivery direct to the White House.

In addition, space is provided for the individual contributors to sign their own names and addresses to the birthday cards. In this way, every donor will receive an acknowledgement of his or her contribution to the war on infantile paralysis.

Easy for Labor to Aid

The A. F. of L. head in explaining the part the Labor Division will play in this year's war on the dread disease, said:

"We have made it easy this year for labor to respond as a body. The personal greeting cards express a sentiment I am sure we all want to extend to our Chief Executive and it will require less than a minute's time to fill out the cards, insert dimes in the spaces provided and mail them on to the White House. Millions of dimes make thousands of dollars, and each and every donor will receive an acknowledgement of his contribution as the White House sends back the part of the card bearing the signature and address and returns it to the sender."

Green Raps Labor Act Changes Proposed by John L. Lewis

Washington. — Amendments to the National Labor Relations Act proposed by John L. Lewis of the C. I. O. were criticized by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor as "ill-considered."

"Nothing would be calculated to do more harm to labor than the proposals for amendment of the National Labor Relations Act announced by the C. I. O.," Green said in a statement.

"These proposals betray a complete lack of comprehension of the fundamental objectives of the law. That objective is to establish friendly, fair and stable relations between employer and employe. Certainly this cannot be achieved by imposing jail sentences on employers who violate the law. Such a punitive course would only defeat the purpose of the act.

"Recognizing this truth, Congress took care to limit the authority of the National Labor Relations Board to applying correctime measures only."

"The American Federation of Labor," Green further said, "does not believe the Labor Act is perfect. We want to see it amended to provide for better administration and we have submitted our amendments to Congerss. We do not believe the act should be used as an instrument of oppression. We believe it should serve as a standard of fair play."

Waukesha Machinists Win Bargaining Point

Waukesha, Wis.—Officials of Local 1377 of the International Machinists Association, A. F. L. affiliate, and spokesmen for the Waukesha Motor Company, announced that an agreement had been negotiated which ended a thirty-day-old strike called by the union.

The agreement recognized the union as exclusive bargaining agent for shop employes, granted seniority rights, and provided higher wages based on a survey of wage rates.

There was also included in the agreement provision for adjustments of time schedules and of rates which were "out of line."

VERY HEALTHY SIGNS

I am happily impressed by the singularity of purpose of both labor and capital to keep out of the war "over there." The insistent disclaimers by these two vital branches of our economic system of ulterior profit motives are believable, understandable and very healthy signs.—Edward F. McGrady.

Maintenance of Way Employes' Union, At Best Membership in 17 Years, In Drive for Vacations with Pay

Chicago.—Grand lodge officers and general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, American Federation of Labor affiliate, have just concluded their annual meeting.

F. H Fljozdal, president of the union, announced that the Brotherhood, one of the largest of the railroad labor organizations, now has the greatest paid-up membership that it has had in seventeen years, or since 1922. Maintenance of way employes on practically 100 per cent of the mileage in Canada and on all major railroads in the United States except the Santa Fe are represented by the brotherhood, he stated, predicting that the Santa Fe would soon be organized 297 Lines Represented.

"Our union," said Fljodal, "now represents the employes on 297 separate railroads in the United States, Canada, Newfoundland and Alaska. The wages and working conditions of these employes are covered under 176 separate agreements entered into between the representatives of management and the brotherhood without the loss of a single day's work on the part of any employe as a result of strikes or lockouts."

The union represents more roads than it did last year, Fljozdal stated.

For Union Shop.

"We now have more separate railroads covered by agreements with organization than ever before during any period of private operation in the history of the railroad industry in the United States and Canada," he added.

The union, at its meeting, went on record unalterably for the closed union shop in the railroad industry, also decided unalterably to inaugurate a movement for vacations with pay for railway employes and authorized its president to cooperate with other railroad organizations in the preparation of such a program.

Vancouver, B. C.—Officials of General Truck Drivers' Union, Local 31, of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers' International Brotherhood, announced the negotiation of a closed-shop agreement with Macdonald's Consolidated, Ltd., wholesale grocers, covering drivers who were recently organized by the union, and also an agreement covering the firm's warehouse employes. These two agreements make the employes of the company practically 100 per cent organized.

Union officials said that the agreement covering employes in the warehouse wage increases amounting to over $6,000 per year were secured, and that despite this financial outlay the representatives of the firm went through the negotiations in a friendly spirit.

Dental Workers' Union Succeeds in California

Contracts Negotiated by A. F. of L. Affiliate Cover Dentist Industry.

Los Angeles.—The remarkable success of the Southern California Dental Technicians' Union No. 100 of the International Jewelry Workers' Union, A. F. of L. affiliate, is revealed in the statement by a union spokesman "that every large chain credit dentist in southern California is a union shop, employing a complete staff of union dental technicians." It was stated that all of the branch offices of Dr. Dillon, Dr. Zimmerman, Dr. Cowan, Dr. Painless Parker and Dr. Campbell are covered with a union agreement.

"On Jan. 1," the spokesman said, "agreements will be written covering the dental technicians. From all indications, no trouble is anticipated, although the union is prepared for any eventuality. An emergency fund is being accumulated from all members."

Recently the union drafted International Vice-President Frederic A. Kane of the International Jewelry Workers' Union as business agent to carry on the organizing work and negotiate the new agreements.

Machinists Ask Order for 175,000 Greeting Cards

Washington. — Labor Division headquarters of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday Ball have received an order for 175,000 President's Birthday greeting cards from the International Association of Machinists, William Green, chairman of the Division, announced.

Expressing gratification upon receipt of the large order Mr. Green said:

"Naturally, I am glad to receive this big order from one of the largest and oldest unions in the American Federation of Labor. I hope it is the forerunner of many more such orders from other unions."

The order from the Machinists Union came from H. W. Brown, acting president of the organization, who will distribute the cards to individual members of the union, who will then insert their individual contributions inside the cards and mail them on to the White House as birthday greetings to the President in the 1939-40 fund-raising campaign to stamp out infantile paralysis.

Lewis Rebuffed By His Own Followers

Philadelphia C. I. O. Central Body Protests Proposed Invasion of Construction Industry.

John L. Lewis' proposed invasion of the construction field, where American Federation of Labor craft unions are strongly entrenched, was rebuffed this week by the Philadelphia Union Council, a C. I. O. central body.

The council demanded that an organizing drive under way in the Quaker City be called off and that the C. I. O. confine its efforts to unorganized workers instead of raiding established unions.

The council asserted that it had worked peacefully with the A. F. of L. in Philadelphia and didn't want friendly relations shattered.

James L. McDevitt, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and of the Philadelphia Building Trades Council, voiced thanks in a telegram to the C. I. O. council.

Peonage In North Carolina?

Washington.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has asked the Department of Justice at Washington to investigate an apparent condition of peonage in the vicinity of Yanceyville, N. C. The N. A. A. C. P. request cited an advertisement which appeared recently in the Yanceyville Caswell Messenger as follows:

"Notice—I forbid any one to hire or harbor Herman Miles, colored, during the year 1939. A. P. Dabbs, Route 1, Yanceyville."

The Chapel Hill (N. C.) Weekly made an investigation in the area covered by the advertisement and says that the insertion of such notices, reminiscent of slavery times, is not uncommon in that area of North Carolina. Although such practices long ago were outlawed by the United States Supreme Court, the North Carolina investigator reported that the people in the area ignored this fact and that judges and politicians had not dared to act in a contrary manner. The N. A. A. C. P. urged the Department of Justice to take action under the peonage laws.

Four AFL Unions Win Decisive Victory Among Cleveland A. & P. Employes

Cleveland, O.—Four American Federation of Labor Unions have defeated the Food Employes Industrial Union, an independent labor group, in a collective bargaining election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board among employes of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company in Cleveland and vicinity.

Local No. 19, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union, won by a vote of 151 to 53 and one vote was cast for no union. Local No. 427, Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen, triumphed 69 to 34 and 5 votes were challenged. Warehause employes voted 24 to 23 for the A. F. of L. union. Commission House Drivers Union, Local No. 400, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs Stablemen and Helpers, received 15 votes, the independent union none, and 2 were cast for no union.

The independent union had claimed company-wide jurisdiction over the employes. The election was agreed to after a conference of company and union officials and labor board examiners. The company further agreed to negotiate a contract with any union selected by its employes.

Nothing Doing.

Jones (in debt)—Sorry, old man, but I'm looking for a little financial succor again.

Smith—You'll have to look further this time. I'm not the financial sucker I used to be.

Labor Shows Its Heart

Labor's generosity in this year's President's birthday celebrations seems to have surpassed all previous years' givings as judged by what the Labor Division is able to report at this early date, two weeks after the 1939-40 campaign has begun.

Chairman of the Labor Division, William Green, has already announced an over-subscription of the first one million birthday cards ordered from the printers. What does this mean? It means that labor is going to give in this year of peace in America as it has never given before to the cause of saving lives and straightening twisted limbs.

Orders for birthday cards are the best indication of how much organized labor will contribute to the fight science is waging on the crippling invader, infantile paralysis. The birthday greeting cards are the modus operandus by which every individual union member and members of their families can send their dimes and dollars straight to the White House as they congratulate President Roosevelt on his 58th birthday, January 28. Hence, the more requests for cards, the larger the return to the White House—and the requests from unions, small and large, are pouring in.

No doubt, the spirit of giving has been accelerated by the season of the year, but through 156 Christmases the germ of poliomyelitis has baffled science. We need to keep on giving until we can celebrate a poliomyelitis-free Christmas.

BEST WISHES FOR THE NEW YEAR

I consider this an excellent opportunity to say "Best Wishes for a Prosperous New Year."

RICHARD F. HUDSON

Director of City Relief Bureau

Thanks for Those Local Columns

We want to take this opportunity, as a new year begins, to give special thanks to all the members of the labor movement who have helped so much to make The Labor World interesting reading by contributing news about their local unions and the individual members.

The Labor World belongs to every union member, of course, and we want every union and its separate members to be active in its support. We have no reporters, so our news is picked up "here and there."

During the last year an increasingly large number of local unions have had a "column" of news about its members and we have found that these news notes are read, not only by the members of that local, but by trades unionists in general.

So we want to thank those people, especially, who collect up news each week among their membership and bring it in to us. An extra by-line, therefore, goes to T. R. Underwood, Jr., Marie Jones, Ed Bork, Jr., O. O. Garrett, Harry Bedoit, Elmer Crosby, Paul Long, Nellie Green and the many others who have so faithfully stopped by to give us a news "scoop."

See if your local union can't elect a Labor World "reporter" this year.

The sinuous trail of the Communist took another zig among its zags recently when its American head, William Z. Foster, called off the boycott on Nazi goods in this country.

Future students of history are going to require what is called a glossary, covering all the funny uses of words by the Soviet, Nazi, Italian Fascist and Japanese spokesmen.

Foster declared that the present European War is an imperalistic struggle. He omitted any discussion of the peace mission of Stalin in Finland.

This is quite in the style of the Japanese "incident," which is an expedition to promote "cooperation" with and among the Chinese.

The bravo of the Hitlerian demand for damages for the destruction of the Spee from Uruguay will rank among the classics of diplomacy, some day, when the world is tired and wants to sit back and laugh at something.

All this double-tonguing of the Communists, and their brothers under the skin, has already had much effect among their simple-minded followers and fellow-travelers in the United States. One might forgive a lot of blood-letting, if it be only at a convenient distance. But when Browder and Foster try to tell Americans who have passed the fifth grade that the green light and the red light are equally safe for travel, experience warns of what has happened to those who twist their own thinking too much. Going too far in such directions might open an occasion for the F. B. I. boys to ask just what it was all coming to. Of course, one could be innocent, really, of any violent revolutionary intent. But if there should happen to be some nasty sabotage abroad at the same time it would fit in with the Soviet purposes with reference to Finland.

New Union Contract Is Latest Step In Progress of Tobacco Workers At Brown & Williamson Plant

Agreement, Best Ever Obtained, Highlight of Story of Remarkable Labor Relations in Big Factory Manufacturing Cigarettes and Other Union-Made Tobacco Products.

By GILBERT E. HYATT

Washington. — Local No. 185, Tobacco Workers' International Union, recently signed the best contract ever estaablished in the industry with the Brown & Williamson Tobacco company, manufacturers of Raleigh, Kool and other union-made cigarettes and tobacco products.

And thereby hangs a tale of remarkable labor relations. It was my good fortune to visit the B. & W. plant in Louisville, Ky., at an ideal time to observe these in actual operation. The occasion was the distribution to the some 4,000 employes of a week's Christmas pay bonus and, in addition, presents from the company.

Back of this were other items in the contract, including a 15 per cent raise in pay, a week's vacation with pay, a 40-hour week with time and one-half and double time for Saturday, Sunday and holiday work in excess of four hours, seniority and numerous other improvements. Among these is an unusual item which consists of a 15-minute relief in every hour for women employes performing monotonous or exacting duties.

Health Conditions of Best.

The minimum under this new contract is $17.50 per week with piecework rates adjusted to insure this amount or more. This compares with wage rates in unorganized plants down as low as $9 a week for 54 or more hours work.

In addition to the material gains of which the above are only the high spots are health and sanitary conditions of the best possible description. Both the union and the company maintain doctors. Nurses and women hostesses are provided for the women. The factory is the last word in ventilation, heating, light and general sanitation.

Low Illness Rate.

A special section, detailed to light but necessary duties, is provided for elderly women employes and those convalescent from illness, or "expecting."

The result, in an industry not considered as an especially healthy one, is an amazing low illness and absentee rate.

Another result, from the company standpoint, is the maintenance of a waiting list of 15,000 applicants for jobs. Thus the company secures the very cream of the tobacco worker "labor market."

High Efficiency Rates.

Another result is that of the highest degree of efficiency and man-hour output. The union itself requires that its members, and it is a closed shop for those under the jurisdiction of the Tobacco Workers, shall "tote their share" in eliminating waste, maintaining quality and production, etc.

The union offices are located in the factory. All this might raise the suspicion of company unionism. But there is not the slightest taint of that. While the relations between management and the union is ideal in its cordiality, this has not been achieved at the expense of militance. While the officials maintain the open door to grievance committees and union spokesmen, it is the thoroughly understood and observed rule that no company official may enter the union offices without invitation.

Grouches Under Ban.

The new contract was not gained without lengthy negotiations in which the union proved its case and won its stipulations.

"One of the numerous by-products of this situation is the low absenteeism," said Guinn Cooper, president of Local No. 185. "Absenteeism is a drain on efficiency which arises from poor working conditions. Here, we want to come to work.

"Also, there are no grouches. If one of our members appears out of sorts, we investigate the cause. If it arises from something concerning the job, we try to remedy it by consultation with the officials or to show the member, if he is unreasonable, that this is the case.

Cafeteria Source of Pride.

"If it is illness, we try to co-operate with the foremen for the temporary adjustment of assignments or we insist that the worker shall go home until recovered—and we provide medical attention."

One of the numerous features about which the employes boast is the cafeteria which provides seats for 850 employes at one time. This is maintained by the management of the union.

"Every employe is a member of the Restaurant and Hotel Employes union," President Cooper said.

New York Governor Sets Forth Right Of State Employes to Organize

ALBANY, N. Y.—The right of state employes to make their own choice of agencies for collective bargaining was set forth by Gov. Lehman in an executive order directing each department head "to permit free self-association by the employes of his department or agency in organizations of the employes' own choosing."

The order followed a discussion by his Cabinet of principles designed to improve relations between state workers and administrative heads, the Governor said, adding:

"The efficiency of the state service is greatly enhanced by the maintenance of a just and friendly relationship."

Gov. Lehman also directed department heads to systematize their hearing and consideration of employes' grievances.

"An administrative head should formulate and establish in his department or agency," his order said, "effective machinery whereby grievances, complaints, problems or suggestions may be presented to the administrative head or his representative by individual employes, groups of employes or their representatives, and such machinery should provide that proper and equitable consideration and action may be had on matters so presented."

USHA Housing Projects Serve Familes of Lowest Incomes, Figures Indicate

Chicago. — Incomes of tenants who live ir low-rent housing projects recently computed in Jacksonville, Fla., Austin, Tex., and Buffalo, N. Y., are cited by the National Association of Housing Officials as evidence that public housing is fulfilling the purpose of sheltering families in the lowest income group.

The figures, the association says, are from the first complete report of incomes of tenant families in projects financed by the United States Housing Authority.

In three projects in Austin and Jacksonville there are no families with incomes as high as $1,000 a year. The majority of the families are those with incomes under $600. The two Buffalo projects have tenants with annual incomes ranging from below $600 to $1,400.

The U. S. Housing Act provided subsidies for housing for the "lowest income group." This phase has never been clearly defined, the association pointed out, and its meaning depends upon the number of income groups into which families in a given locality are divided.

"In many commuities," the association said, "if all of the families are divided into eight or ten income groups, the lowest group will be composed largely of the unemployables, the chronically ill, the indigents, or other persons and families who can never be assured of a normal position simply by the provision of adequate housing.

"On the other hand, if incomes are divided into thirds, the lowest group usually includes all or a large part of the poorly housed families that cannot afford the good housing provided by private enterprise."

Mr. Advertiser

Being not unlike several million other Americans you probably have a hobby.

If you have, you know how interested you always are in anything pertaining to that hobby.

There are approximately twenty thousand men and women in your trade territory whose hobby happens to be organized labor.

It is even more than their hobby . . . it is their very life.

These members of organized labor will be interested in your advertisement if it is presented to them through a medium dealing exclusively with that above mentioned hobby of theirs.

Or . . . putting it in another way . . . why not tell them your story when they're in a very receptive mood.

QUOTES

Responsibility on All.

May every member of the American Federation of Labor be ready for his opportunities and his responsibilities in the coming year. Upon each of us depends the progress to be made for human welfare and freedom.—American Federationist.

Gains Can Be Lost.

Labor has made tremendous gains in the last few years. It has reached a more influential and solid position than it ever before had. The principle of collective bargaining has at last been generally accepted, almost everywhere. Protection for labor's rights is written into federal law. But the gains that were won swiftly can be lost swiftly, too. Therefore, organize!—Bakers' Journal.

Hitler in Tight Spot.

Probably the most disillusioned man in Europe today is Hitler himself, now that he has found out that his pact with Stalin has set loose a man who has no respect for him and who is drawing an iron cordon around him in the Baltic. If Finland should fall into the greedy jaws of Russia, who then will be next before the bear can be halted in his tracks? It may even be Hitler, for the forces of evil have a way of turning upon their instigators. — L. G., in the Financial World.

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources
CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

British press and diplomatic reactions to the barrage of reports and plans for enforcing the Western Hemisphere neutrality "safety belt" 300 miles at sea indicate their belief that there would be only one effective means of keeping belligerent navies at this distance—by force, which is exactly what many have believed from the first.

Incidents multiply which imply invasion of our declared safety zone; the naval battle off Montevideo, the scuttling of the German liner "Columbus," the chasing of a German freighter into neutral harbor at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The latter two appear to cause little concern at the State Department. Assistant Secretary of State Welles has declared the American nations will act jointly on the Montevideo incident and are determined to protect their neutrality rights.

It is likely that bringing the war close to U. S. shores by naval action is not so likely to cause alarm, so long as American shipping is not involved; but should similar invasion of our neutrality come by the air lanes (into Canada or Alaska), watch for an outburst of public alarm and indignation.

Invaded Finland and China are both holding out more hope than at any recent time. Finland has told the Allied governments that heavy snows (which have come) and urgently needed supplies will enable her to stand off the Russian invaders until spring. It is said the particular terrain involved in fighting does not offer space for large Russian reenforcements. Unless Finnish troops are cut down to a point where replacements are no longer available, because of small population, she will flout the statements of military authorities here who claimed a Russian victory was only a matter of weeks.

The Chinese Ambassador has told the White House his country is not so hard pressed as many believe; that they are starting a series of attacks on Japan on all fronts.

A mass meeting of Japanese political and military leaders in Tokyo urged that government to stand against cooperation with the Soviet Union; to take note of underground Communist activities; to terminate the undeclared war in China, and to avoid a complex against views favorable to United States and Great Britain.

Will Japan's name be added to the ultimate line-up of world powers against Communist Russia? Factors against this outcome include the reported opening of negotiations January 10 for a trade agreement between the two nations. Their trade volume in years since the Russian revolution, however, has been relatively small.

Japan's promise to the United States to open the Yangtze River is interpreted in official quarters as not entailing any weakening of her position. She controls the Yangtze route, even if open. A great part of our goods sold in Shanghai-Nanking area (all in Japanese hands) are now transported by rail, truck and coolie back. River transport would not bring an appreciable increase in trade.

The greatest advantage would be gained by relieving shipping congestion in Shanghai—which would be to Japan's interests, as well as ours.

Season's Compliments

We wish you all that is best in life through the coming year.

If more than ight checks are received by nt Green, to whom they be sent, the fifty-eight checks will form the candles, while the names of the additional unions will be inscribed on the cake so that all may have credit. Secretary-Treasurer Myrup has asked President Green to present the cake at the President's Birthday, so that it may be the centerpiece at the President's personal birthday party.

Cake to Be Masterpiece

In buying the first candle to go on the huge cake, the Bakery Workers will pay a price equal to their one month's per capita tax to the American Federation of Labor.

The masterpiece of the cake maker's art—the cake itself, will measure four feet in height. The base will be about fifteen feet in circumference to accommodate the candles and scrolled names.

It is being baked by one of the nation's outstanding bakery artists and baker of the cake presented to the King and Queen on their visit to the White House, Clement Maggia, who operates a well-known bakery shop known as Clement's, located at 708 Thirteenth Street, Northwest, in downtown Washington, D. C.

The checks whose photostats make up the fifty-eight candles will represent contributions from international and national union treasuries as union donations entirely apart from the contributions of their individual memberships which will go direct to the White House in personalized greeting cards furnished by the Labor Division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday Ball.

Business Agents In Capital Back "March of Dimes"

Washington. — Business agents representing a large majority of all unions belonging to the Central Labor Union of Washington, D. C., and vicinity enthusiastically endorsed the Labor Division's March of Dimes for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

President John Locher announced that a special committee would be formed within the next few days for the active prosecution of the campaign to place a greeting card in the hands of every member of organized labor in the district.

Frank Coleman, secretary of the District C. L. U. and of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor, warmly endorsed the plan.

John B. Colpoys, U. S. Marshal, editor of the Trades Unionist and veteran of the local labor movement, appealed to the group for support of the campaign on humanitarian grounds.

Fred S. Walker, International Typographical Union; Agnes King, Hotel and Restaurant Employes; Frank Lee, International Association of Machinists; Andrew H. Myrup, Bakers and Confectionery Workers Union, and others warmly endorsed the plan and promised the fullest support.

Electrical Workers Order Cards For All Membership

Washington.—The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, through D. W. Tracy, president, has ordered 200,000 individual birthday greeting cards to be distributed to its membership in connection with the 1939-40 war on infantile paralysis. Chairman William Green of the Labor Division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, made known here.

Cards ordered by this large international union will be sent to every member of the organization through national headquarters and local secretaries, it was explained.

This year's birthday greeting card plan will give every member of organized labor a chance to personally congratulate President Roosevelt on his fifty-eighth birthday in connection with the nation-wide campaign to fight infantile paralysis.

Each card will contain a coin enclosure section in addition to the words of greeting expressed on them, so that members of organized labor can mail their individual contributions direct to the White House.

Trivial things in comparison to what is happening to these same people in Europe and Asia? Yes, but that is why we wish we were seers and could look clear through 1940 right now, not afraid, but confident that we the people of he United States are blessed; that some guiding light must have led our forefathers to these shores.

A MESSAGE TO ORGANIZED LABOR

What YOU BUY and WHERE You Buy It

MAKES . . .

The LABOR WORLD

. . . GREATER

BUSINESS MEN who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD are responsible for the recent enlargement of the paper. A larger paper gives new strength and prestige to the labor movement in Chattanooga.

BEING BUSINESS MEN, if their advertising does not bring results which they car trace to THE LABOk WORLD, these advertisers will not continue to use the paper.

THE LABOR WORLD is the only voice of organized labor in Chattanooga. It is YOUR voice—you who read the paper. In helping THE LABOR WORLD to grow YOU are creating an agency of great value to YOU—personally.

PERSONAL PRIDE, personal interest and organization expediency demand that union people buy from business men who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD.

WHEN YOU NEED SOMETHING, first try to buy it from some of the regular advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD. If each of our readers will adopt this policy, and stick to it, we will build one of the nation's greatest labor organs here in Chattanooga—and very quickly . . . and it will help the unions of Chattanooga to secure improvement in conditions affecting our working people.

THE LABOR WORLD is already something to be very proud of, and if readers stick to the cause it will surprise all of you.

LET'S GO! Buy from advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD—and tell them WHY you are buying from them. Tell business men who are not advertising that they must get in THE LABOR WORLD if they want a share of Chattanooga's great union trade.

AND FINALLY, if you hear any news about any of our people, yourself included, call us up and tell us about it. Call us when you have talked to some advertiser, and think we can get him to advertise in THE LABOR WORLD.

Old-Age Insurance Law Includes Thousands of Workers Formerly Barred

Benefits Are Based on Average Monthly Wages With Supplementary Benefits for Dependnts: Monthly Pensions for Single Persons Range from $20.60 for an Average Wage of $50 Per Month to $56 for an Average Wage of $250 Per Month; Married Persons Will Get Monthly Pensions Ranging From $30.90 for Those Receiving an Average Monthly Wage of $50 to $84 for Those Receiving an Average Monthly Wage of $250.

An extremely informative statement on the increased coverage and other advantages of the new old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act passed by congress last summer was made by the 1939 convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Not only are thousands who were barred from the old social insurance law made eligible for benefits in the amended act, but the date for the beginning of payment of pensions was advanced from Jan. 1, 1942, to Jan. 1, 1940. In addition, monthly retirement pensions are increased for the earlier years of the system and provision made for the payment of pensions to widows and dependent children.

The most extensive amendments of the Social Security Act are those affecting the old age insurance system. As the law now stands monthly benefit payments will begin Jan. 1, 1940, instead of 1942.

Insurance Extended to Thousands Formerly Barred.

Coverage has been extended to thousands of employes not under the original act. The major groups included are officers and members of crews on American vessels except those engaged in the fishing industry other than in connection with salmon or halibut fishing or in vessels of more than ten tons; employes of national banks and of federal building and loan associations.

A broadening of the definition of agricultural labor, opposed by labor, excludes from coverage some workers other than regular farm employes. Some other small groups have been excluded: employes of organizations exempt from the income tax if their wages do not exceed $45 a year or is performed by a student; student nurses and interns employed by a hospital or nurses training school; newsboys and minor delivery boys for shopping news services, and employes of some additional fraternal organizations and municipal employes not covered by retirement benefits.

All Workers Should Be Included.

The difficulty of drawing a line between excluded and included employment and the obvious injustice of excluding workers once included and from whose wage payments have been deducted for old age insurance makes it even more necessary that we should extend the program to cover all workers in every type of employment. It should ultimately cover the self-employed in order that no equities in the system should be lost by a man's changing his type of work or starting a business for himself.

Method of Calculating Benefits Explained.

The entire basis of calculating the monthly benefit has been changed. Under the amended law the basic benefit is related to a man's average monthly wage instead of to his total wages earned in covered employment before his death or retirement as formerly. To the basic benefit is added an increment for each year he has been in covered employment. His "primary benefit" is the sum of these amounts. The method of calculating the primary benefit" is as follows:

Forty per cent of the worker's average monthly wage to $50 a month, plus 10 per cent of the amount by which his average monthly wage exceeds $50, to a maximum of $250, plus 1 per cent of the previous sum multiplied by the number of years in which the worker received $200 or more in wages in covered employment.

The average monthly wage is calculated by dividing the total wages paid to the worker in covered employment prior to the quarter in which he became entitled to receive primary insurance benefits or died, by three times the number of quarters elapsing after 1936 and before that quarter in which he was entitled to benefits or died, excluding any quarter prior to the one in which he became 22 years of age during which he was paid less than $50 in wages, and excluding also any quarter after he bacem 65 years of age if it occurred before 1939.

If the wage as calculated is less than $10 the benefit payment shall be $10. The maximum benefit is not more than double the primary benefit, 80 per cent of average wages, or $85, whichever is smallest.

Benefits Are Also Provided for Dependents.

The primary benefit is augmented by supplementary benefits for dependents. If a covered worker and his wife are both 65 or over she receives a benefit equal to one-half of his. In addition each unmarried dependent child under 18 years of age is entitled to a benefit of one-half the primary benefit.

In place of the lump sum of 3½ per cent of the total wages credited to an individual, which under the present act is paid to tre estate of an insured person who dies before he is 65 years of age, survivors' benefits are substituted.

A widow receives, at the age of 65, three-fourths of her husband's primary benefit.

A widow under the age of 65 who has in her care one of the deceased's dependent minor children is entitled to a benefit three-fourths that of her deceasedhusband.

A surviving dependent minor child's benefit is equal to that to which he would be entitled if his parent were receiving a primary insurance benefit.

If neither widow nor children survive an insured person, his dependent parent or parents are entitled to an amount equal to one-half his primary benefit.

If no eligible survivors are entitled to monthly benefits, a lump sum equal to six times he primary insurantce benefit is payable to specified close relatives or, failing such relatives, to the person or persons who paid the burial expenses to the extent and in proportion as they bore the expense.

1 It is assumed, with respect to the revised plan, that an individual earns at least $200 in each year of coverage in order to be eligible to receive the 1-per cent increment. If this were not the case, the benefit would be somewhat lower.

40	21.00	31.50	52.50	28.00	42.00	70.00

1 It is assumed that an individual earns at least $200 in each year of coverage. If this were not the case, the benefit would be somewhat lower.

The net effect of these changes is to increase the size of the monthly payment materially for both single and married workers who retire in the next few years, to increase the benefit to all married workers, and in later years to decrease the benefits to a single worker. The amount payable in a lump sum to the estate of the deceased under the original law is largely eliminated, only a small burial expense being paid if the insured worker leaves no dependent survivors of the classes named.

Illustrative Monthly Survivor Benefits.

The number of persons who will be able to qualify for benefits is enormously increased by a provision that wages earned by a person 65 years of age or older during 1939 and henceforth, will be subject to the tax and counted toward the total wages on the basis of which benefits are paid.

Thus, if a worker has not been in insured employment long enough to qualify as an insured individual before he is 65 he can work for enough quarters to bring his total quarters of employment up to at least six or half the number elapsing after 1936, before the quarter in which he becomes 65, at which time he will be eligible for benefits.

A. F. L. Auto Workers Sign Up Tube Co.

Highland Park, Mich.—Local No. 640 of the International Union of United Automobile Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced the negotiation of a closed-shop agreement with the Standard Tube Company here providing for seniority, double time for Sundays and holidays, one week's vacation with pay and numerous other provisions which are standard in all of the unions' agreements.

The contract also included a complete wage scale for all operations, with many wage increases.

Restraining Opportunities

We need a nation-wide effort to provide retraining opportunities for young persons and those whose skills have been replaced by machines. With more than 5,400,000 unemployed registered for work in the U. S. Employment Service, in addition to 1,900,000 WPA, industries are already beginning to claim a shortage of skilled and semi-skilled labor. In the widespread retraining process needed, organized labor must have adequate representation so that the workers may take their responsible place as partners, contributing their knowledge and experience in this essential undertaking.—American Federation of Labor.

Union Workers' Pay Found Topping Non-Union Wages by 61 Per Cent In Four Men's-Wear Industries

Washington. — Unionism pays big dividends in the men's cap and hat industry and in certain other men's-wear industries, as in all industries, the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor reveals in a report on hours and earnings just made public.

The extent to which wages for workers belonging to unions are higher than those of unorganized workers is shown by the data for caps and hats and neckwear. In both cases the average hourly earnings in union firms were 61 per cent higher than those in nonunion plants.

In union cap-and-hat establishments less than two-fifths of the workers had hourly earnings below 50 cents and only one-tenth earned less than 30 cents, in nonunion plants nearly four-fifths and almost one-fourth, respectively, had such earnings.

Approximately half the union workers, but only one-ninth of the nonunion workers, were paid as much as 60 cents. The same general picture is found in the neckwear industry, where 17 per cent of the union workers were paid as much as $1 an hour, but only 5 per cent of the nonunion workers earned as much as 75 cents.

Cloth cap and cloth hats, neckwear, work and knit gloves and handkerchiefs were covered by the surveys, among 13,000 workers in 228 plants in ten states. All four products were studied in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, three in Illinois and Indiana; two in Ohio, Missouri and North Carolina, and one only in Maryland and in Tennessee. Proportions that women formed of all workers ranged from about 50 per cent in caps and hats to 96 per cent in handkerchiefs.

Men's Earnings Higher

Men's earnings, both weekly and hourly, were consistently higher than women's earnings in all industries studied. In the cost of caps and hats and neckwear men's hourly earning, were about double those of women.

For both men and women the highest weekly earnings were in neckwear plants, where men averaged $36.80 and women $18.60. The lowest were in handkerchief establishments, where men averaged $19.20 and women $12.50. In caps and hats men averaged $26.95 and women $14, and in work and knit gloves the averages were $20.40 and $14.80 respectively.

A. F. L. Supports Census of Housing

Information Will Be of Practical Use in Preparing Long-Range Housing for the Masses.

Complete support of the Federal census of housing authorized by the first session of the seventy-sixth Congress was expressed by the 1939 convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, O.

Census Backed by President Green

This important matter was brought to the attention of the convention by the report of the A. F. of L. Executive Council, which said:

"On March 8, 1939, President Green communicated with Senator Robert F. Wagner pointing out that in connection with the various housing programs in which the Federal Government participates, there has developed a pressing need for reliable information on all phases of housing conditions in the United States.

"President Green emphasized that to insure the most economical, efficient, and intelligent development of our housing and home building programs, it is essential that a complete housing census be undertaken at the earliest possible date, and that if such a housing census were to yield information most valuable from the standpoint of long range planning, it should be taken simultaneously and in conjunction with the census of population of 1940. In view of this he urged Senator Wagner to introduce legislation authorizing a complete housing census and providing the necessary appropriation for that purpose.

Senator Wagner Introduced Census Bill

"In response to this request, on April 25, 1939, Senator Wagner introduced in the Senate S. 2240 which authorized the Direcor of Census to take a census of housing in the year 1940 and every five years thereafter 'to provide information concerning the number, character, and geographical distribution of dwelling structures and dwelling units in the United States and concerning the social and economic characteristics of their ownership and use, necessary to aid in the formulation of a national housing program and in the administration of housing legislation.'

"The bill was favorably reported by the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency on June 21 with an authorization of an appropriation not to exceed $8,500,000. The bill was unanimously passed by the Senate on June 23, referred to the House Committee on the Census and was favorably reported out of that committee on June 26 reducing the appropriation to $8,000,000. The bill was passed by the House on August 4 and approved by the President on Aug., 11, 1939. (Public No. 385.)

Praised by Building Trades Committee

In commenting the success of the American Federation of Labor in suggesting and securing the enactment of the Housing Census Bill, the Committee on Building Trades submitted the following report on the "Housing Census," which the convention adopted:

"Under this caption on pages 121 and 122 of the Report of Executive Council is a history of the passage of Senate Bill 2240 introduced by Senator Wagner at the request of President Green. This bill makes possible the taking of a nation-wide housing census in conjunction with the decennial census of population in 1940, and every five years thereafter.

"Your committee commends the action of the officers of the American Federation of Labor in sponsoring this legislation and on the effort expended in securing its enactment into law. This action, we believe to be the first forward step toward securing the actual facts regarding housing conditions throughout the country, and in preparation for long-range planning of housing designed to meet the needs of our people for homes in keeping with American standards of living and recommends the adoption of the report."

So Fortunate.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

The world looks ahead to the New Year. What will 1940 bring us? What will it mean to the peoples of Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and, most important of all, we who occupy that part of the planet located in the northern half of the western hemisphere?

What will the New Year bring the butcher, the baker the candlestick maker? To banker, to broker, to lawyer, to organized labor?

Certainly, to the peoples of Europe and far off China there will be no regrets as 1939 rings down the curtain even if the Chinese New Year doesn't quite coincide with ours.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-nine passes out on a tragic note because that year spawned what bids fair to become one of the goriest blood baths in history. Almost as if it had been planned that way, each succeeding day after Sept. 1, 1939, saw the war in Europe increasing in intensity as if the war god Mars wanted to put on something extra murderous in the final stages of the old year. Perhaps he wanted to prove to his audience that he was not just rehearsing?

Poland was eliminated from the map maker's drawings in 1939—at least the Poland this planet had known since 1919.

Finland is still there, at the writing.

Thousands of lives have already been lost, and thousands more have been permanently maimed and injured. Even the censors cannot hide that fact.

In China where orientals do not keep the accurate records synonymous with "western civilization," no good count of slaughtering human being is available. Perhaps it is just as well that we do not know.

The rest of the civilized world and even the uncivilized world of the dark continent and inner Australia have been thrown out of kilter.

We in America, labor, employer, farmer and professional man have been thrown out of kilter, too.

Labor scans the cost-of-living horizon to see that wages keep in line with the necessities of life.

Factory owners, wholesalers and retailers are puzzled about inventories and future commitments.

The farmer looks skyward wondering what the market will be like next Spring.

The professional man must adjust his perspectitve to meet changing conditions. And cinch house on the seas.

Settlement of Union Dispute With Williamson Heater Company Sought by A. F. of L. Council

The 1939 convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati referred to the A. F. of L. executive council the long controversy of the International Molders' Union and the Sheet Metal Workers' Union with the Williamson Heater Company of Cincinnati, with instructions to make every reasonable effort to secure a settlement of the dispute in accordance with union principles.

The controversy with the Williamson Heater Company was presented to the convention in a resolution introduced by Delegate John P. Frey of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department requesting that the company be placed on the "We Don't Patronize" list. The resolution said:

"For many years the International Molders' Union of North America and the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association have made every effort to bring about organization at the plant of the Williamson Heater Company of Cincinnati.

"Because of the antagonism shown by officials of this company towards organized labor their efforts have been unsuccessful.

"The thirty-first annual convention of the Metal Trades Department, A. F. of L., held in Cincinnat, beginning Sept. 25, 1939, placed the Williamson Heater Company of Cincinnati upon the 'We Don't Patronize' List."

To cope with this situation, the resolution authorized the president of the American Federation of Labor "to notify all State federations of labor, central labor bodies and local unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor of the action taken by the convention of the Metal Trades Department and the action taken by this convention of the American Federation of Labor on the subject."

In considering this resolution, the committee on industrial relations submitted the following report, which the convention adopted:

"Your committee gave this resolution its earnest consideration and is in entire sympathy and accord with the aims, objects and desires of the Metal Trades Department and are also satisfied that every effort consistent with good trade unionism has been put forth by the Metal Trades Department to bring about an honorable settlement of this controversy.

"However, we, your committee, feel that this entire matter should be referred to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor for the purpose of attempting to bring about a settlement of this controversy and in order that legitimate and fair labor relations might be attained between this firm and the Metal Trades Department, and if such efforts are unavailing that the unreasonable attitude of this firm be made known to the entire labor movement and its affiliated bodies for the purpose of educating the workers so that they might use their purchasing power in their own interest and direct their patronage to assist those who deal fair with labor as represented by the American Federation of Labor."

Headache, Bad Breath May Be Your Warning

The sea's thrilling S. O. S. means "Help is needed now!" And, so do most of those headaches, that biliousness, coated tongue, or bad breath which are often signs of constipation.

To disregard these symptoms may bring on a host of other discomforts from sluggish bowels: sour stomach, belching, loss of appetite. See how much better you feel the day after taking spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. By simple directions, it acts gently, cleanses promptly, thoroughly. Its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative; imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles. Next time try BLACK-DRAUGHT!

Brewery Workers Use Big Order of Birthday Greeting Cards

Washington. — An order from Joseph Obergfell of the United Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers of America for 42,000 President's Birthday greeting cards has just been received by the Labor Division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, William Green, A. F. of L. head and chairman of the Labor Division, announced here as plans went forward for labor's participation in this year's nationwide war on infantile paralysis.

Mr. Green made the announcement as orders for the individual greeting cards piled up in the Labor Division's headquarters.

Cards for the Brewers' Union will be mailed out from the Labor Division the the union's secretaries, who will in turn distribute them to their individual memberships. Union members will then mail them on to the White House as their personally expressed birthday greetings to the President on the occasion of the nationwide celebrations to raise money for science's campaign to banish the plague of Poliomyelitis from the earth.

Manners are more important than laws. Upon them, in great measure, the laws depend.—Burke.

Headache, Bad Breath Tell of More to Come

Just as Paul Revere's famous ride warned of the Redcoats' coming, so Nature's messengers — headaches, biliousness, bad breath—often warn of faulty elimination.

Neglecting these signs may cause a host of constipation's discomforts: sour stomach, belching; no appetite or energy; mental dullness.

It's so easy to wake up your lazy insides. Just take spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. Its unusual help comes from its principal ingredient—an intestinal tonic-laxative which imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles.

Millions of packages used testify to BLACK-DRAUGHT'S merit. Try it.

WE THE PEOPLE

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

The first three words of the Constitution—"We the people"—declare by what authority the United States of America is ruled. The Constitution is the instrument through which the will of the people is expressed. It not only prescribes the kind of government which shall hold the United States together, but it limits and defines the powers of the government itself, making the people's liberties secure against oppression from every source.

England has no written Constitution. It can be changed overnight by act of Parliament. The judges of England enforce the laws of Parliament without any question as to their constitutionality. The liberties enjoyed by Englishmen were wrested from the crown. The liberties enjoyed by Americans are the creation and the creature of the people themselves, as absolute sovereigns. They were established by "we the people."

The first ten amendments to the Constitution are known as the Bill of Rights. It is the purpose of the Bill of Rights to restrict national power, so that these rights should not be taken away from the people. The Bill of Rights includes such principles as freedom of religion, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, the right of the people to peaceably assemble, and the right to petition the Government for a redress of grievances; the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, and against unreasonable searches and seizures; the right of the accused in criminal prosecutions to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury; the denial of excessive bail, excessive fines, and cruel and unusual punishments.

These and other rights cannot be taken away from the people. Jefferson and Franklin believed such rights "came from the Creator and that they are derived from the laws of the universe itself." Only in lands where liberty has been crushed and the ideas themselves are scornfully rejected is that belief outlawed. It is for the security of such liberties that men have sacrificed everything that was dear to them and endured suffering and even death itself.

This desire for freedom is inherent in man. It is the destiny of man's nature that he be free. Patrick Henry's declaration "Give me liberty or give me death" finds an echo in every true man's heart. It is this for which labor strives today, and it is for this that labor will continue to fight until the workers as a whole shall achieve that freedom which will give them the fuller life they desire, the hunger for which is planted in every man's heart by the Creator.

"Fifteen-Cent Barber Shop"

There's a lively bunch of barbers,
Always working, never stop;
You will find them waiting for you,
In the fifteen-cent barber shop.

Each week as you wend your way,
Your heart with fear will flop,
As you think of what awaits you,
In the fifteen-cent barber shop.

Speed's the key-note of the barber,
Working in a fifteen-cent barber shop;
With a wild and wicked razor,
At your face and beard he chops.

When your turn comes, face it bravely,
Steel yourself, be not afraid;
For you will only be a moment,
Beneath the rapid cutting blade.

There at last you've got the angle,
Drop yourself across the rack,
Grit your teeth, think of loved ones,
Say a prayer and let 'em whack.

Nerve yourself and don't be frightened,
When he piles on tons of soap;
Just remember that old saying,
"Where there's life there's always hope."

Zip! The razor swiftly travels,
In one stroke from ear to ear;
And you swallow tons of lather,
As you quake in mortal fear.

Then the barber takes your smeller,
In a firm and vice-like grip,
Shoves it back about three inches,
And nips the fuzz right off your lip.

But ah! The ordeal's over,
You relax and sort of sag;
As the barber mops your burning face,
With a rough and ice-cold rag.

Now the haircut takes no longer,
For the clippers they can sling,
All round your noble sky-piece,
In an awful jagged ring.

There's nothing stylish 'bout the shop,
But there's speed there by the ton,
There's no time for talk or gossip,
They clip it on the run.

When once you get the habit,
You're just like a "dope" for "hop";
For you cannot keep from going to
The fifteen-cent barber shop.

There is no lie many men will not believe.'—John Sterling.

ALLIANCE HEAD WARNS PRESIDENT OF COMING BUSINESS RECESSION

Washington.—After a conference with President Roosevelt, David Lasser, head of the Workers' Alliance of America, said that the president had assured him he would protect the right of relief workers to organize and would try to meet the situation if general relief needs increase.

Lasser said he advised the president that the alliance's economic studies indicated a recession within four months.

Lasser left with the president a letter urging:
z"Increase of WPA rolls from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000.

"Elimination of all wage cuts to low paid WPA workers.

"Federal purchase and distribution of not less than $50,000,000 of surplus clothing to the unemployed.

"Expansion of the food stamp plan to permit wider distribution of surplus commodities."

Envelope Corporation Criticized by Union

San Francisco.—Officials of the Corrugated Fiber and Envelope Workers' Union, Local 362, A. F. of L. affiliate, issued a bulletin denying statements reported to have been made to union members on picket duty at the San Francisco plant of the Pacific Coast Envelope Corporation to the effect that the agreement desired by the union was calculated to benefit one class of workers.

"We're striking for the benefit of all of our members," the bulletin said. "We entered negotiations in good faith, believing in the justice of our contractual demands. That our demands are just can be witnessed by the fact four other local companies have signed the contract with us. The San Francisco plant of the Pacific Coast Envelope Corporation chose to challenge our demands, forcing us to take strike action."

Norris Opposes Effort To Bar Fighting Far From American Shores

Washington.—Senator George W. Norris, veteran Progressive of Nebraska, says he is opposed to attempts by the twenty-one American republics to prohibit belligerent acts within the broad safety zone established by a Pan-American conference last October.

"I don't believe it's in the province or the power of the United States or any of the American countries to say to the world that there shall be no fighting in a zone hundreds of miles off our shores," Norris said.

"In doing that we are assuming jurisdiction of something for which there is no authority in international law. Heretofore the accepted distance has been three miles. That's undoubtedly too short because of guns that shoot twelve miles or farther. But to arbitrarily say that there shall be no guns fired witihn hundreds of miles of us is assuming a jurisdiction which we have no right or power to assume."

Business Agent

O. E. COOK

O. E. Cook, president for twelve years of the Plumbers' Union, Local 43, and the union's business agent for four terms, was re-elected business agent Friday night at the union's annual election, held in the Labor Temple.

The executive board members elected were: Edgar Jett, chairman; P. L. Wilhoite, A. Wheals, D. M. Malone and Frank Little.

The finance committee is made up of John Cotter, S. H. Martin and H. H. Kelly. Edgar Jett was elected vice-president by acclamation.

TEACHER TALK

Your correspondent is taking a rest this week, and passes on to you these juicy items from publications of A. F. T. groups elsewhere.

From the 'New Jersey Teacher," newspaper of the state federation:

An audience of Englewood parents and teachers warmly sided with Prof. Harold Rugg, of Teachers College, Columbia University, who defended his textbook from the joint attack of the Harworth school board and the Harworth post of the Legion.

Dr. Rugg conducted his own defense at the hearing before the Parent-Teachers association in Cleveland on Nov. 20.

George West, of Harworth, who acted as spokesman for the complaining delegation, read from one of Dr. Rugg's books used in the Harworth schools:

"'Is America the land of opportunity for all the people? No, not for all the people.'"

"It's un-American and the reverse of truth," Mr. West objected.

Dr. James A. Mitchell, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, asked Mr. West:

"Were you ever in the south? Have you ever seen sharecroppers? If you have, do you still contend that this is the land of opportunity for all the people?"

The trial was the result of charges of "un-American" writing by B. C. Forbes, financial writer for Hearst papers. A number of the Englewood board of education, Forbes is also agitating for the dismissal of married women teachers.

"Ever since hearing Mr. Forbes' objections, I have written him and invited him to talk it over the American way to find out what he objected to, but he has flatly refused," Dr. Rugg stated.

Forbes failed to show up at the hearing.

Must Stay Out, Says Green

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

»»»» Marie Jones, Correspondent ««««

In spite of the cold weather, we had a good attendance at the meeting Tuesday night.

Our New Year's resolution is to make the restaurants all 100 per cent union this year and we hope to have the support and cooperation of all the local unions.

Bradley & Bandy's at Sixth and Market Streets is union, and believe me, they serve delicious fountain creations and sandwiches.

Moreland's on Sixth Street is nonunion.

One of our waitresses at George's Place has gone in for photography as a hobby. Just ask Lassie Mae for the details.

Joe Bridewell at Barfoot's has been out of town a few days due to illness in his family.

Jack Brue, formerly at Cate's Lunch on East Seventh Street, is now working in Atlanta.

Ickes Sees Danger Of Raids on Nation's Natural Resources

Washington.—Secretary of the Interior Ickes warned President Roosevelt that efforts may be made to raid national resources and break down conservation programs in an attempt to reap quick war profit.

Ickes, reviewing Interior Department activities for the year, declared that:

"At this moment the greatest actual or potential danger with which we are faced are attempts to break through our conservation laws and policies for the purpose of making war profits."

He cited "evidence of an inclination to raid our resources," but declared that thus far no specific movement had developed.

It has stringent rules requiring members to buy only union-made goods and services and buy only where there is a union shop card on display. Local 4 believes that in return other trade-unionists should extend similar co-operation and demand the union label on all bread and other bakery products they buy.

Prompt Help For A Listless Child

Scolding won't help a boy or girl who is listless, dull or cross from constipation. But, here's something that will!

If sluggish bowels have your child headachy, bilious, upset, give him a little Syrup of Black-Draught tonight. Like the original famed BLACK-DRAUGHT, its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative. Helps impart tone to the bowel muscles.

Children like the taste of Syrup of Black-Draught. It is an all vegetable product. When simple directions are followed, its action is gentle, but prompt and complete. Comes in two sizes: 50c and 25c.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL CHATTANOOGA

High Cost of 'White Collar' Crime

Robber barons of Middle Ages planted castles on main highways and exacted toll from every merchant whose caravan passed. Mr Edwin H Sutherland, Indiana University, says modern white collar criminals outdo their ancient prototypes, referring to the "important crime news" on financial pages of newspapers. The speaker said that white collar crimes consist mainly of violations of delegated or implied trusts. He referred to an officer of a chain store system whose embezzlement of $600,000 was six times as much as the annual losses from 500 burglaries and robberies in stores of the chain.

Better business bureaus and crime commissions confine their attentions mainly to petty crimes, while the white-collar criminals cost business much more than the shop-lifters and petty frauds

Here is a call for "moral rearmament" which should begin at home. The work of the Federal Trade Commission shows a daily record of "unfair trade practices," which range from advertising misrepresentations to price dicriminations and organized defiance of well-known commercial laws. Every act of this kind saps the foundations of common business morality. For years the slogan of business has been, "Let the buyer beware"—caveat emptor. But the world is coming to be more insistent on the square deal, whether or debtors or doctors

1940---"A Happy New Year"

More than at any time in the past ten years is there ground for the characteristic greeting and good wishes of this season.

In spite of war abroad, and in spite of the long up-hill climb back to normal conditions of employment and business, the signs now are more favorable than they have been for a long time.

Empoyment is on the increase. Total wage payments are also increasing. Wage rates, which have shown a most commendable stubbornness against reductions during the depression period, are being maintained and, in enough cases to indicate bright prospects, are increasing.

On the other hand, living costs are pyramiding as was feared as a result of the war scare and the actual outbreak of hostilities.

Credit for most of this must go to the organized labor movement. Much also should be given to the sanity of the American people, whether wage and salary workers or business men, in their refusal to be stampeded by the European situation.

Again, and another reason for rejoicing, democracies have given evidence of the fact that they can keep their feet on the ground.

Women's Gains From Unions

What have women gained in the fight for better conditions? Shorter hours, for one thing. In a large part of the women's garment industry they have won the thirty-five-hour, five-day week. Rarely now do organized factory workers have to work more than forty hours a week for a full week's pay. Again, through unions women have raised their wages or resisted wage cuts as they were unable to do before.—U. S. Women's Bureau.

American Federation of Labor Approves Activities of Social Security Committee

Its Studies Have Made Valuable Contributions To Amending the Social Security Program.

The American Federation of Labor committee on social security, consisting of Third Vice-President Matthew Woll, Seventh Vice-President G. M. Bugniazet, and President John P. Frey, of the Metal Trades Department, were highly commended by the 1939 convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, Ohio, for their work in studying the problems in the social security field from the viewpoint of those whose incomes are derived from wages and making recommendations to the federation for progressive changes in the social security law.

In recommending the continuation of the committee. the convention said:

"The committee on social security appointed by the Executive Council has done excellent work in studying the proposed amendments to the social security act and in representing the American Federation of Labor before both house and senate committee hearings on unemployment compensation, old age insurance, public assistance programs and public health proposals. The American Federation of Labor expects this committee to study security laws in operation so as to be able to recommend satisfactory principles and formulae and to suggest needed changes.

Represented A. F. of L. on Social Security Advisory Council.

"The members of the committee on social security served as the representatives of the American Federation of Labor on the advisory council on social security, appointed by the senate special committee on social security and the social security board in May, 1937.

"The final report of this advisory council was presented in December, 1938. Its study included Titles II and VIII of the social security act which deal with federal old age benefits. The recommendations of the council formed the basis for most of the liberalization in benefits which have put old age security on a family rather than an individual basis, and the hange in the tax and reserve provisions which were included in the amendments to the act this year.

"Members of the social security board and congressmen alike praised the advisory council for its painstaking study. We wish to thank our own representatives for their share in that work.

Social Security Program Must Be Protected Against Anti-Labor Sentiment.

"Labor is confident that the social security program will be improved further in later sessions of congress. We need studies of unemployment compensation and of disability as careful and thorough as those made for old age by the advisory council. While the public health program is being prepared for its next presentation to congress, labor should demand that its provisions, particularly those relating to industrial hygiene, conform to our program.

"Social security is peculiarly labor's program. We must be prepared to present and urge the interests of workers in every division of the program before it takes final shape as well as watching its operation and proposing needed amendments. In both national and state legislative sessions the American Federation of Labor must help defend the rights of workers against the rising anti-labor sentiment which has manifested itself in proposals designed to hamper unions and reduce the security already won."

GLASSBLOWERS Local 156

By W. F. McCARTHY

Now that the holiday season is past, we sincerely hope that each and every one of every other local of the Central Body enjoyed it, as it was our happy privilege.

Ours started on Thursday before Christmas, wher all employes of the company were assembled in the decorating room to show appreciation to Mr. Avery by presenting him with a bronze plaque in commemoration of the co-operation and understanding between employes and employer The commemoration service was opened by Jess Hisey, president of Local 92. A very inspirational talk was made by Dr. James L. Fowle (our spiritual adviser). The plaque was presented by Charles Lawson, president of 156.

The signature of every employe of the Chattanooga Glass company was inscribed on the plaque, the center of which is a base relief map of the city.

To say that Mr. Avery was taken by complete surprise would be putting it mildly. Both he and Mrs. Avery and their son, Lupton Avery, could best express their own feelings, and as for the feelings of the writer, they could not be explained. Personally we do not believe it has been our privilege heretofore in life to experience a more touching occasion.

— DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM? —

Doorknob Williams was presented with a Christmas tree, very elaborately decorated, for which he extends his most hearty gratitude. He feels it could best have been decorated in daylight. Well, it is hard work by a flashlight when one is not accustomed to it.

— HOLLAND FURNACE UNFAIR —

We just heard about Paul Winston and Miss Elizabeth Cope being married. The wedding took place in September. We think he waited until Christmas to announce it so that he could make a cigar serve as a Christmas present, too. But where is our cigar? We are still looking tor it.

We are sorry to report that we still have a few men on the sick list. They are Bros. J. M. Varner, J. R. Thomas, W. T. Manley, B. McSpadden and W. T. Moon. We wish them all a Happy New Year and a speedy recovery.

Sure glad to see Bro. C. W. Brown back on duty after a short illness.

Believe it or not, one of the boys came in the barn the other day and said that there was a new "Man on the Street Program" at Fifth and Markets Streets, but could not determine who he was broadcasting for. So a couple of the boys decided that they would go down and listen to it. "But upon my word," they just found Pat. I. Susman singing through one of the new parking meters.

Then Bro. Jeff Fincher walks in the Barfoot's restaurant, all bowed up about to freeze, and walked over to what looked to be a modern circulator heater, all red hot, and pulled up his coattail and began warming up before eating. About that time a customer walked in, dropped in a nickel and it started playing "Oh, Johnnie." O boy, was his face red!

Saftey Hints While Walking

1. Look left, then right, then walk across the street at the corner.

2. Obey the traffic signals; don't try to beat them.

3. Stay out of the street. If you have to walk in the street or the highway, walk on the left side.

4. Don't step out from behind cars or walk through traffic.

5. Look before getting on or off vehicle.

6. Be particularly cautious at night or when weather conditions are bad.

We are beginning a new year. What will 1940 hold for you as a driver and as a pedestrian as far as safety is concerned?

It is too early to tell definitely what the results of all safety activities in 1939 are, although from all indications there is a possibility of a slight reduction in accidents. I will give you definite information just as soon as actual figures are released.

In the meantime let's forget 1939 and look forward to 1940, and let every today and tomorrow be a safe day, free from all types of accidents.

Wednesday night was ladies' night at 175's hall . . . sorry we couldn't order the weather to suit the occasion so more could have been out. Several visiors made talks. Mrs. T. R. Cuthbert won the drawing for attendance prize—a floor lamp.

The evening was brought to a close by serving coffee and cakes (both union-made).

WPA Musicians Present Christmas Programs

Washington — In co-operation with county and municipal authorities, schools, music clubs and church civic groups, more than 5,000 instrumentalities, vocalists and teachers on the rolls of the WPA music program, together with thousands of children trained in the WPA classes, brought Christmas music to thirty-seven states and the District of Columbia.

In announcing plans for the Christmas programs, Mrs. Florence S. Kerr, assistant commissioner of the work projects administration, said:

"The music program is a part of the emergency work relief program, nearly all of its musicians coming from the ranks of the unemployed. They wish me to express to you their pleasure in being able to make this contribution to the cheer of the yuletide season."

Suggestions for utilizing the resources of the WPA music program in the national Christmas festiv al were forwarded to the states by Dr. Earl Vincent Moore, national director. While the whole familiar field of Christmas music was covered, seven of the better known carols were heard on all programs. Many of these programs were given around the community Christmas trees at Christmas eve. Hundreds of carol sings, pageants, pantomimes and plays were given during the pre-Christmas week.

Potters Union Sponsors "Buy American" Drive

The Potters Herald, official organ of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, carries a most interesting story of an intensive campaign to boost the sade of "American made" merchandise. The campaign is sponsored by a local union of the brotherhood in Minerva, Ohio.

The union has appointed a buy American committee, and the committee reports that the local merchants are co-operating to make the campaign a big success. One of the means employed to arouse consumer interest in the campaign is the distribution of beautiful dinner sets.

Paper Makers Local 362

By HARRY BEDOIT

This correspondent begs off for skipping all the news for the past few days, because he has been sick, but am able to be back at work now and hope to carry on with news from the papermakers.

John Christian, our retiring president, was presented a handsome watch and chain by the local at the meeting last week, in recognition of his services to the union.

Andy Walton, one of our colored members, died suddenly last week. He was a charter member of Local 362, and the oldest man in point of service at the paper mill and we will miss this loyal member.

One Good New Year's Resolution For Every Union Member in Land

By I. M. ORNBURN
Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, A. F. of L.

Suddenly a certain Mr. Merchant awakened on Jan. 1, 1940. After he had taken his inventory he was shocked to discover how tremendously his sales had fallen during the past year. What was the cause of this? All he knew was the serious effect on his business.

Just then Bill Worker, a union man, dropped in to wish his old friend, the merchant, the usual "happy and prosperous New Year." In reply, Mr. Merchant asked Bill to tell him what was wrong with his business. He wanted to know why Mr. Worker and hundreds of other union men in the vicinity had not been patronizing him. Bill had the answer. He said, "It's because you do not sell union label merchandise and you do not use union services!" Bill had the answer and gave it. None of the merchant's other friends had had the nerve to tell him the truth.

Thousands Like Mr. Merchant

In America there are thousands of business men like Mr. Merchant and there are millions of union men who are union label-conscious like Bill Worker. Other merchants of this type will have a rude awakening some day because members of labor unions, their families and friends are determined to retaliate against unfair manufacturers and to boycott every firm that sells nonunion goods.

When merchants learn to demand the union label of industries that do not place it on their wares, then both the manufacturer and merchandisers will fare far better. In fact, they will fail if they do not recognize this growing demand for union label goods by a militant army of consumer crusaders who know that collective buying is as formidable a weapon as a strike against under employers.

Co-operation Will Pay

How much better it would be for employers if the millions of dollars used for propaganda against labor unions, for espionage and spy systems in labor organizations and for worthless "company unions" were spent in promoting the sale of union-made goods of American workers.

Some business men are beginning to realize this fact and are co-operating with A. F. of L. unions. If the rest of them insist on opposing unions, let us continue to educate all consumers to buy only label goods and use only union services. Then, despite this opposition, we shall save America.

We shall see labor unions grow, wages increase and conditions improve if all of us will take this simple pledge in 1940:

"I promise to patronize only those firms that display the union label, shop card or service button."

Ohio Miners Idle Last Spring Held Entitled to Out-of-Work Benefits

Cleveland, O.—The Appalachian mine shutdown last spring was not a strike and the miners therefore were entitled to unemployment insurance for the six weeks in which they were idle, Common Pleas Judge Joy Seth Hurd ruled here.

The decision was regarded as establishing possible precedent for filing of $15,000,000 in insurance claims by 340,000 miners in several states, including Ohio, where more than 20,000 workers would be entitled to $1,500,000.

Judge Hurd ruled in the case of the United States Coal company, of Cleveland, which had made a final appeal of a compensation claim allowed Charles Ambrose, a Bradley, O., miner.

Ambrose's claim had been disallowed by the Ohio unemployment compensation commission, but later was granted by a state board of review when it was appealed.

Coal operators then supported the company's case, while the United Mine Workers' union consolidated all compensation claims pending a ruling on the Ambrose plea. Judge Hurd found in reviewing circumstances leading to the Applachian shutdown that it began last April 1 at the expiration of the "work clause" in the existing agreement between Appalachian operators until a new agreement was signed May 12.

Judge Hurd held that there was evidence providing that miners had volunteered to continue working from thirty to ninety days under the existing agreement or until a new one was reached and that no strike had existed.

WILLIAM GREEN

William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, is the outstanding Labor leader of the world and one of the most able figures in American life today. He joined the United Mine Workers when that organization was formed in 1890. He rose to the office of Secretary-Treasurer of the United Mine Workers in 1912. The next year he was elected Vice President and a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor succeeding the late John Mitchell in that office. In 1924 he was elected by the Executive Council as President of the American Federation of Labor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of its founder, Samuel Gompers. He has been re-elected at each succeeding convention.

Mr. Green served two terms in the Ohio State Senate. He introduced and secured the enactment of the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Law, which has been accepted by organized Labor as the model for other states to adopt.

In 1919 the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor appointed Mr. Green a member of the committee of five to represent American Labor in the international labor conferences to be held in connection with the World Peace Treaty.

Mr. Green served on the Advisory Council of the President's Committee on Economic Security in 1934. He was a member of the Labor Advisory Council of the National Recovery Administration.

His address is: Mr. William Green, President, American Federation of Labor, A. F. of L. Building, Washington, D. C.

A. F. OF L. LABEL

The American Federation of Labor, in 1890, adopted a Union Label for use by those Federal Unions having no affiliation with national or international Labor Unions, but which are chartered directly by the American Federation of Labor.

This Union Label is used upon various commodities manufactured by firms that have collective bargaining agreements with Federal Unions. Included among the various articles upon which this Label appears are those that do not come under the direct jurisdiction of national or international Labor Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Lumber Workers Condemn Systems Of Dictatorship

Portland, Ore.— By unanimous vote, the delegates from 148 A. F. of L. Lumber and Sawmill Workers' unions in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and California condemned communism, nazism and fascism at their convention here. The delegates also praised the work of the Dies committee and urged its continuance.

The convention adopted a resolution requiring all future union agreements to contain a clause making it mandatory on an employer to take back, with seniority, any employe called in service by a national emergency.

Other resolutions urged the national labor relations board to allow only American citizens, or those having declared their intention of being citizens, to vote in board elections and demanded the NLRB take final action in disposing of the Industrial Employers' union.

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

High Government officials have recently spoken out for vigorous maintenance of civil liberties in the United States, always a cardinal principle of organized labor.

Forthright declarations have come from President Roosevelt, Attorney-General Murphy and others.

"No matter what comes we must preserve our national birthright, liberty of conscience and of education, of the press and of free assembly, and equal justice to all under the law," the President told the American Council on Public Affairs.

The President also spoke of the "vital necessity for maintaining our civil liberties."

Attorney-General Murphy has declared in the most unequivocal language for the maintenance of civil liberties, even in the event of this country's involvement in war.

During the World War brave words in championship of civil liberties were uttered by Government heads.

But when the test came, civil liberties were not always protected.

Officials yielded to popular hysteria in too many cases. In some cases they even connived at actually encouraged mob violence aimed at suppression of rights guaranteed by the constitution.

In failing to protect civil liberties they contributed to mass hysteria, out of which grew terroristic mob rule.

For the sake of the national honor and all that this nation stands for, it is to be hoped officials now in office will stand by their words, come what may.

Experience of the past shows that labor invariably loses if the rights of all are not safeguarded.

Failure to protect civil rights is breakdown of law, on which mob action feeds.

If the rights of all groups are not guarded, more and more groups are attacked, until even the mildest expression of opinion, if it runs contrary to popular feeling, is dangerous.

Labor-hating reactionaries take advantage of the situation to attack unions, to push repressive legislation, to arouse prejudice against organization of labor—in short, to fight labor on all fronts.

Hence the danger of permitting spy hunting and other anti-espionage activities by private organizations.

Labor treads on perilous ground when it gives the least countenance to such activities.

The same goes for censorship efforts, in the theater, newspaper, radio or other fields.

They are bad business. They can so easily be turned against trade-union activities, especially if public hysteria is rampant. This is a fact that all trade-unionists have not learned.

There have been some disturbing indications of public hysteria recently.

Such as the efforts of a Boston suburb to prevent the taking into its limits of any books or printed matter containing the name of Lenin or Leningrad. As if ideas could be exorcized by legislation!

The only safe rule in the matter of civil rights is the one set forth by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, one of the best and truest Americans who ever lived.

"If there is any principle of the constiution that more imperatively calls for attachment than any other, it is the principle of free thought—not free thought for those who agree with us, but freedom for the thought we hate," Holmes said.

The nation can never go wrong by following Holmes' dictum.

BAKERS' AND CONFECTIONERS' LABEL

This Label is an important safeguard of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union for its members against inhuman conditions, low wages, and long working hours. People demanding this Label are not only supporting the Bakery and Confectionery Workers, protecting them against the conditions mentioned, but they are also protecting themselves and their families against the spread of disease-breeding germs which exist in unsanitary workshops. Our Label is granted only to sanitary and clean bakeries and confectioneries. If a bakery or confectionery owner lives up to the requirements of our organization, he may use our Label. The Union shop workers are subject to health examination by the Union's physician and health maintenance by Union support.

DAIRY WORKERS' NEGOTIATING POSSIBLE CONTRACTS WITH 3

Hope to Be Able to Announce More Union Dairies in Few Weeks—Unions Urged to Watch Milk Purchases

That the drive started last week by Local 428, Dairy Workers, is meeting with some co-operation and success is indicated by the report from union officials that three dairies have sent for the representative of the local and have started negotiations.

Although the dairy industry sees some of the larger dairies operating under union contracts, there are quite a few unorganized dairies, and last week through The Labor World the union asked the labor movement to buy only from union dairies.

In the campaign to organize those companies now out of the fold an attempt is being made to switch business to the following firms now under contract:

Grant-Patten, United Dairies, Morning Star, Associated Dairies, Meadowbrook, Cream Top and Sterchi & sons.

Two nonunion dairies have been declared "unfair to organized labor" by Central Body. They are the Home Stores Dairy and Happy Valley dairy.

The following dairies are nonunion, but it is hoped that in the near future they will come into the fold: Cream Rose, Signal Creamery, Fay B. Murphy, Guess dairy, Farm Field.

TEACHER TALK

(From the "Philadelphia Teacher" Magazine for December, 1939.)

BORED OF EDUCATION.

Synopsis: Dr. Small, hero in quotes, educator de luxe, has been hired by the Shrinkville board of education to sugarcoat the pillage of the school system, to popularize the program of the Chamber of Commerce, to make teachers cry for salary cuts, etc. He is going good but read on:

It was Christmas Eve and Dr. Small's doorbell rang three times. Three rings was the signal of the Grand Eco of the Shrinkville Economy league and Small knew what that meant. He would be commissioned to supply the laughing gas for another emputation on the School System. Dr. Small got panicky. Any other night he would have been up to or ahead of the Grand Eco, but tonight the very thought of an economy binge made him shudder. For tonight Dr. Small was squirming in the clutches of the angel of good will. He had been listening to the radio.

A concentrated dose of Christmas spirit had penetrated his exterior and awakened a long-neglected Conscience. The Conscience was murmuring, "You nasty man. You Chamber of Commerce lackey. To save taxes, they plough under children's minds and pay you a pittance to say it with flowers."

"It's the department stores," thought Small, "I must keep out of them." But fiddlesticks, he was doing a good job for the Shrinkville schools. More children in each classroom made for warmth in the winter and a budget balanced low was a better balanced budget.

"You nasty man," persisted his Conscience, "Why not double-decker classrooms?" And the doorbell rang again three times.

Small admitted the Grand Eco, who said, "How's the old Integrator?" and then burlesqued a yawn. This Small knew was the fraternal greeting of all Economy Leaguers and in this instance meant, "Bored of Education, let's cut." Small returned the yawn and commenced to hum, "with a cut-cut here and a cut-cut there," but the old edge was simply not there. For his conscience was counterpointing with a ditty concerning [illegible] deserving estate of childhood. "Come," pleaded the Conscience, "I haven't long for this world—the way you've been carrying on—so let's have a heart-to-heart talk before the merchants change their ads."

"Say, Small," cut in the Grand Eco, "the Manufacturers' Association is offering a special bonus for some way to squeeze more kids into each classroom."

"Why not double-decker classrooms?" Small heard himself mocking.

"Why splendid, Smoothie. We'll have the school system in tiers, so to speak."

But Small was in the company of his conscience: "Look here, my good man, the children of the people deserve to learn about their world together—past and present—so that they might make of it a better place to live in. They must taste of their heritage—the beauties of art and music, the wonders of science. They are the children of the workers who till the soil and run the machines that we may wear what we're wearing and eat what we're eating."

The Grand Eco was stunned. Coldly he stared at his hireling. Then suddenly his face lit up and he emitted a boisterous "Yippe!"

"Progressor, old man, you're a genius," he said, slapping Small on the back, "positively a genius. For a minute there, I couldn't get what you were driving at, but I see it all now: The fine work of this world is done in the factories, mines and fields. The schools are keeping the kids from getting to this fine work. So the sooner we get rid of junior and senior high schools the sooner the fine work is done. Fine work! Amazing, colossal. Small, you'll get the Cross for this one. Well, so long, you old Explainer, I'm just bursting to tell the Economizers." And he winked, yawned and left.

Dazed, Dr. Small fumbled a radio dial. An announcer was pleading for the liberal use of Alka-Seltzer after Christmas dinners.

Special Election By Machinists

Lodge 56, International Association of Machinists, announces that there will be a special election held Tuesday, Jan. 16, at the regular meeting hall. The election will be to nominate a successor to A. O. Wharton, who resigned as international president. Fight on Broad Exemptions Under Wage-Hour Act Won by A. F. of L.

First Processing of Agricultural Products Exemption Limited to Cities of Less Than 2,500 and Their 10-Mile "Area of Production."

Persisent efforts on the part of the American Federation of Labor to prevent unwarranted exemptions from the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 were successful in limiting the exemptions to much smaller groups than demanded by employers.

This achievement was fully set forth by the 1939 convention of the federation at Cincinnati in a statement regarding exemptions under the act and the defeat of certain low-wage employers in the fresh fruit and vegetable canning industry to have them placed entirely outside the scope of the act by orders of the administrator.

"Numerous exemptions embodied in the Fair Labor Standards Act as it was originally enacted," the convention said, "have placed a heavy burden of responsibility upon the administration to make sure that by pyramiding of broad interpretations of the exemptions allowed the standards of the act itself would not be nullified.

"One of the bitterest attacks upon the act was made by employers engaged in packing and canning of fresh fruits and vegetables who were anxious to exempt from the law all processing and distribution of agricultural products.

"The dispute arose in connection with the definition of the term 'area of production' in Sections 7 (c) and 13 (a) (10). One of these sections exempts workers from maximum hours and the other from both minimum wages and maximum hours when the first processing or handling, packing or canning of agricultural produce is done within the 'area of production' as defined by the administrator.

"Despite the opposition on the part of organized labor, the presiding officer originally recommended the inclusion in the 'area of production' and, therefore, complete exemption of all such operations performed in cities of 25,000 population or less, which he defined as 'open country' or rural areas, or performed less than fifty miles from where the produce is grown.

"Following a forceful presentation of evidence at the final hearing before Administrator Andrews by representatives of the American Federation of Labor, this exemption was narrowed down to cities of less than 2,500, and less than ten miles from the farms on which the produce is grown. This modification has brought a number of processing operations carried on a large industrial scale within the coverage of the minimum labor standards of the act.

"Hearing on industry-wide exemptions such as those held in the case of learners in the cotton textile and apparel industries and in the case of telegraph messengers presented notable examples of the importance of effective presentation of factual data by labor which makes possible a sound administrative determination based on all facts.

"In the examples cited, and in a number of similar determinations made following other hearings, the expert evidence presented by the American Federation of Labor was largely responsible for the measure of protection the rulings afforded to the wage earners concerned."

40-Cent Wage Rate Set In Millinery Industry

Washington.—Harold D. Jacobs, administrator of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor, issued an order directing that workers engaged in occupations necessary to the production of millinery for interstate commerce be paid at least 40 cents an hour on and after Jan. 15, 1940. The 40 cents minimum was recommended by the Millinery Industry Committee, composed of an equal number of representatives of the public, employes and employers.

The millinery industry, as defined in the order, employs about 23,500 wage earners during an average month. It is estimated that 3,500 of these workers are paid at less than 40 cents an hour.

Together with the order, Mr. Jacobs made public his findings and opinion.

The findings note that economic studies prepared by the research and statistics branch from surveys made by the Women's Bureau indicate that a 40 per cent minimum may be expected to increase the total wage bill of the industry about 1.51 per cent. As labor costs represent an average of 31 per cent of the industry's operating costs, this increase in the wage bill would result in an operating cost increase of .47 per cent.

Annuity Payments To Nearly Million Begin in 1940

Washington.—The Social Security Board, which keeps the security accounts of nearly 50,000,000 persons, estimates that approximately 912,000 will get $114,000,000 in the new annuity payments during 1940.

Payments of $10 to $41.20 a month will be started under a new law effective Jan. 1. First checks will be mailed about Jan. 25 to men who are 65 or over, are retired and have paid certain amounts into the social security fund, and also to their wives, widows and dependent children.

Already about 40,000 persons have been certified for these payments, which will continue for the rest of their lives. Applications are coming in at the rate of 3,000 a day. The first month's checks may go to as many as 100,000 persons.

Nation Must Be Ever Vigilant To Guard Civil Liberties, President Tells Council of Public Affairs

Washington.—Opening a campaign on behalf of the maintenance of civil liberties, the American Council on Public Affairs released the following statement sent to it by President Roosevelt:

"I am glad to learn of your plans to launch an educational program in which emphasis will be laid on the vital necessity for maintaining our civil liberties.

"Those priceless rights, guaranteed under the constitution, have been the source of our happiness from our very beginnings as a nation. We have been accustomed to take them as a matter of course. Now, however, when we see other nations challenging those liberties, it behooves us to exercise that eternal vigilance which now, as always, is the price of liberty. No matter what comes we must preserve our national birthright, liberty of conscience and of education, of the press and of free assembly, and equal justice to all under the law."

"As a free people we must defend our dearly won heritage of freedom against all assaults. I wish your organization Godspeed in its work."

The letter was addressed to the council's executive secretary, M. B. Schnapper.

Murphy Pamphlet Released.

Simultaneously the American Council on Public Affairs announced the publication of "In Defense of Democracy," a pamphlet by Atty.-Gen. Murphy. In an introduction to the pamphlet, Dr. Charles A. Beard compares its message to that of Lincoln's Gettysburg address and urges that it "be read by editors throughout the land, taught in the schools and colleges, proclaimed from the pupils, and posted in market places and forums, Lest we forget, Lest we forget!"

In releasing the pamphlet, the council announced that copies were being distributed by the American Bar association, the American Friends service committee, the American Civil Liberties union, the American Association for Economic Freedom, the American committee for democracy and intellectual freedom, and the National Council of the Y. M. C. A.

More Than Half Million to Move From Slums to Good Dwellings In 1940, USHA Estimates

Washington.—Nineteen low-rent housing projects, for 20,000 persons in nineteen cities, were opened in 1939, the United States Housing Authority said in a review of its work for the year.

More than half a million persons with small incomes will be moved from the "squalor and dangers of America's slums" to good living quarters by the end of 1940, the USHA estimated.

The housing agency said that 115,000 people will be rehoused early in 1940 in conformity with the authority's policy of giving low-income workers livable dwellings at a rental cost commensurate with their salaries.

Low-income families rehoused so far, the authority said, pay rent averaging $11.45 a month in the south and $15.80 in the north, lower even "than those paid for their former ramshackle habitations."

Citing these and other data of definite progress in America's war against slums, Nathan Straus, administrator of the USHA, stressed also the very low average total development cost, $4,867 per dwelling unit, that has been achieved for USHA-aided projects now under construction contracts. In this connection he pointed out that the average net construction cost of dwellings for these projects has been reduced to $2,831 per dwelling unit, which is $670 under the $3,501 average for private building as shown by United States bureau of labor statistics.

Apace with the construction of new homes for low-income families during 1939, Straus said, has been the actual elimination of the hovels and insanitary tenements which they replace. This elimination has included hundreds of substandard structures in the smaller communities of the nation as well as the more notorious slum areas of larger cities.

Chattanooga Residential Consumers Pay Only Half as Much as the National Average for Electricity

THE Chattanooga Times of January 4 published an editorial which quoted statistics of the electrical and gas industries showing that the national average price of electricity for residential and domestic use was 4.07 cents per KWH in 1938—the latest average available.

During the first four and one-half months of Power Board operation at TVA rates, the average cost to Chattanooga householders for residential and domestic electricity was 2 cents per KWH—slightly less than half the average rate for the whole nation.

10,000 Slum Dwellings Vanish in Housing Plan

Washington.—Nathan Straus, United States Housing Authority Administrator, reported that 10,000 substandard dwelling units in twenty-six cities had been eliminated, up to Dec. 1, by the Federal Government's low-rent housing program.

Mr. Straus stated that reports were made on only thirty-six USHA-aided slum-clearance projects, remarking that "a large additional number of substandard dwellings have been eliminated throughout the country in connection with construction now under way on more than 125 low-rent projects."

The Housing Act requires that substandard dwellings equivalent to the dwelling uuits provided by a USHA project must be demolished, effectively closed or rendered safe and sanitary for human habitation.

Mr. Straus estimated that in all 118,995 substandard structures would be eliminated under these requirements by the construction of 310 USHA-aided projects in 140 communities on which loan contracts had been approved.

In the twenty-six cities covered by the report, Mr. Straus said, the 9,750 substandard dwellings were eliminated to make way for 17,717 new dwellings.

"These statistics are factual proof that the USHA program is progressing effectively to rid America of disgrace and waste of slums," he stated. "The figures, of course, do not tell the whole story, for they are confined to formal reports from local authorities that have been received and reviewed by the USHA."

CIO Union Denies Dewey Charge

New York City.—Charges of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewew's office that Local 150 of the United Mechanics of the Garment Industries, CIO affiliate, har operated a "sabotage school," were denounced by the union's executive committee as "without any substance or foundation."

"A few individuals who were expelled from the union almost a year ago for strikebreaking and labor spy activities are trying to build up a fantastic story which is supposed to have taken place during a bona fide strike about a year and a half ago," the union's statement said.

"During the strike, which was conducted by Local 150 in a peaceful, orderly manner without resort to any of the illegal, alleged practices of 'sabotage, acid throwing and stench bombing,' no charge of such a nature was brought by the employers."

More Than 650 Welfare Laws Passed By 44 State Legislatures in 1939, Complete Digest Reveals

Chicago.—A total of 653 laws in the field of public welfare, exclusive of unemployment compensation, were enacted by the forty-four state legislatures which met in 1939, a complete digest of these laws issued by the American Public Welfare association shows.

The largest category of bills enacted—177—pertained to financing. Acts relating to public assistance, including old age pensions, general relief and aid to the blind and to dependent children, were second in number, totaling 150. Changes in the machinery of state welfare systems were made possible through 132 new laws or revisions. Laws on medical care totaled 59; personnel of welfare departments, 50; child welfare, 51; and miscellaneous, 44.

Although congress did not take final action on changes in the social security act until late in the summer, a number of states passed new laws and amendments anticipating certain liberalizations which came about, the digest showed.

Aid to dependent children was made more liberal by extension of the age limit and by larger grants. Grants for old age assistance were liberalized in several states. Extension of medical was "in the air," because of the discussion in congress of the national health bill, which ultimately failed to pass. New state laws enacted, however, provided chiefly for low-cost hospitalization through non-profit hospital service plans, and for additional grants for medical aid to the aged, to the blind and to dependent children.

Further Action Expected.

Further legislative action in the field of welfare is expected in 1940, the association said. Although only eight states are scheduled to meet in regular session, it is expected that special sessions in several states will deal with old age assistance, liberalization and other social security subjects.

More liberal grants to the are now within the states' po the association pointed out, the social security board has authorized to assume half-cos any grant up to $40 per mon an individual. This increase $5.00 the maximum contrib under the former law of $ from the federal government

Robert Fechner, CCC Director And Former Union Official, Dies in Washington at 63

Washington.—Robert Fechner, director of the civilian conservation corps and former general vice--president of the International Association of Machinists, died at Walter Reed hospital on Dec. 30. He had been suffering from heart trouble complicated by lung congestion since Nov. 20.

In a personal message to Mrs. Fechner, President Roosevelt paid warm tribute to Fechner, saying:

"As director of the civilian conservation corps he brought to the public service great administrative ability, vision and indefatigable industry. His death is a loss to the CCC and to the nation."

James J. McEntee, acting CCC director, and other government officials also paid high tribute to Fechner and his work.

Burial was in Arlington National cemetery.

Began Work at 15.

Robert Fechner was born March 22, 1876, at Chattanooga, Tenn. Educated at public schools at Macon and Griffin, Ga., he left school at the age of 15 to sell candy and magazines on railroad trains. He spent a few months at Georgia Tech and the following year entered the Augusta shops of the old Georgia railroad to learn the trade of machinist.

After a four-year apprenticeship, he took to the road and worked as a "boomer machinist" for nine years, traveling wherever his work was needed.

He worked in mines and smelters, on harbor projects, and for a time on the Panama canal project of the De Lessups company. In 1905 he returned to Savannah, Ga., as an employe of the Georgia Central railroad.

Active Union Worker.

An active union member all his life, Fechner took leading parts in the nine-hour movement in 1909 and the eight-hour movement in 1915. In 1914 he was elected to the general executive board of the International Association of Machinists, and thereafter represented labor in disputes in all parts of the United States and Canada, helping to settle strikes in railroads and factories.

When Fechner was asked by President Roosevelt to direct the emergency construction work in 1933, he seized the opportunity to help young men who, like himself, had been thrown largely on their own resources.

Between April 5, 1933, the date of his appointment, and July 1 of the same year, Fechner secured 250,000 recruits for the first forest camps of the CCC. In the ensuing six years nearly 3,000,000 young men have passed through the organization, which at one time included 2,500 camps, and now maintains an average of 1,500. The work of the CCC includes conservation, highway and trail building, reforestation and firefighting activities throughout the country.

Production Increase of 25 Per Cent Above '29 Levels Necessary to Put All Idle to Work, AFofL Holds

Washington.—If industrial production could be increased at least 25 per cent above levels of 1929, there would be jobs for all the 9,000,000 unemployed and a higher general living standard for the population, the American Federation of Labor says in its current monthly survey of business.

"It is by no means unreasonable to look forward to such a production increase within a short space of time," the survey said, quoting figures on production increases from 1919 to 1929 to support its opinion.

Reiterating previous declarations for co-operation by all economic factors to solve the unemployment problem, the survey said:

"As we look forward to the task of increasing production and putting the unemployed to work one point stands out clearly. Private industry cannot plan to increase production without some assurance as to the future.

Co-operation Urged.

"In the present circumstances, with war in Europe and a presidential election ahead, certainly as to the future is, of course, not possible. It is possible, however, for a conference of responsible representatives from business, labor, farmers and consumers to lay the basis for co-operation to increase production and thus to give more assurance as to the future than could otherwise be possible."

The survey strongly urged gradual further shortening of work hours and said that a drop in the average work week from 50 hours in 1929 to 40 hours in 1939 prevented technological unemployment from reaching 6,000,000 and held it to 3,000,000.

"Outstanding Achievement."

"This is an outstanding achievement, equaled in no other country of the world," the survey remarked.

The survey declared that the nation's No. 1 economic problem for 1940 is to get the unemployed to work in private industry.

Discussing the outlook for 1940, the survey said business forecasters expected the year to average 5 per cent above 1939, but that it would probably start with some slackening off from the level of December.

Paper Makers Local 362

By HARRY BEDOIT

As another week and another year have rolled around and the excitement of the holidays is over, resolutions for the new year were made by the most of us. How profitable they will be only time will tell.

As Saturday night, Jan. 13, will be installation of officers, a large attendance will be expected.

The following officers were elected: President, Harry Bedoit; vice-president, Dick Godsey; recording secretary, Homer Doyle; financial secretary, D. Lemay; treasurer, John Christian, Jr., and trustee, J. P. Lemay.

We want to thank the management of the paper mill for our presents and hope that the good will that existed in the past will continue.

We realize that last year was a profitable one for the firm and our local. We hope that through the co-operation and understanding of all concerned that the coming year will surpass last year by a big margin. We should realize that through team work this can be accomplished, so let's put our shoulder to the wheel and let's go.

As there was no sickness reported to me I suppose all are at work.

The biggest excitement of the week was Sunday morning when Brother Lemay tooted the whistle. He forgot it was Sunday. Call him Long Toot Lemay and see his face turn red.

Brothers Worley and Fitch should be complimented on the new equipment that was installed recently.

By the time this goes to press Brother Worley hopes to have those two 500-pound hogs killed. There may be a surplus of pork chops and backbones on the market.

Shorty Lamon and Buck Lawson, Lewis Williams and cast will, for the first time, stage a ball (president's ball) about Jan. 31. So be on the lookout for this gala event.

There is dirty work at the crossroads. It is rumored that Ike McKissick's coal scoop is to be stolen.

Pat Murphy, the genial superintendent at the mill, has been inquiring at the Greasy Spoon when they will get those new doughnuts in. He wants those with the big holes.

Charles McCroy's better half wouldn't name the Prince of Wails F. D. Says when he grows up the republicans may be in power.

Deacon Si Perkins and Grandma Denton are worried about the Russians. Afraid there won't be enough left for the Finns by spring.

Shorty Floyd reports everything o. k. in Howsertown.

The mayor of Pudville (Freddie Campbell) says the Toonerville trolley will extend their tracks to Pudville by spring.

Herman Taylor will build himself a brick house if everyone will donate some bricks.

As this about concludes the week's news, I'll be seeing you all at the meeting.

Strange Horned Bird Is Discovered

Philadelphia.—Scientists of the Academy of Natural Sciences here announce discovery of strange horned birds, heretofore unknown, in the jungles of Bolivia. They call it the unicorn bird, from its suggestion of the fabulous unicorn, an animal with one horn. The bird weighs from eight to ten pounds and the horn, theer inches in length, grows out of its forehead.

QUOTES

Let's Make Democracy Work.

While war business will stimulate industrial activity, it will also bring us problems and dangers. We must keep our heads. We should not rely on war prosperity to solve our economic difficulties. Chief of these is unemployment. A democracy owes an obligation to its people to provide opportunities to earn a livelihood. Let us make democracy work. Let the government, industry, organized labor and the farmer unite on a program during the coming year to provide jobs for the nine millions now idle through no fault of their own.—William Green.

A Fight for Freedom.

Finland is fighting for her very life, for liberty, for freedom, for all the ideals she shares with the United States. Her ardent hope for the future is everlasting peace and the right for every nation to live harmoniously in peaceful cooperation with other nations of the world.—Hjalmar J. Procope, Finland's Minister to United States.

Robert Fechner.

He shunned the limelight. He never sought personal credit or publicity. He went early to his office and often out into the field.

The American public knew little about Robert Fechner, the man. But that public knows much about, and heartily approves, the civilian conservation corps which he directed for nearly seven years without once subjecting the program or its administration to serious criticism. One cannot help but think that more of the new deal would have succeeded had more of its agencies been entrusted to selfless administrators.

Let us hope, for the future of the CCC, that President Roosevelt can find a successor of a similar mold.—Washington Daily News.

Raleigh Cigarette Sales Jump.

Washington.—Reports from all over the nation show that holiday buying is bringing largely increased sales of union-made Raleigh cigarettes, manufactured by the Brown and Williamson Tobacco company. Raleigh cigarettes are being extensively featured in attractive Christmas gift boxes at tobacconists, who report the boxes in great demand.

St. John Newspaper Monopoly Held Responsible for Two Deaths

St. John, N. B.—Two deaths, it is charged, have resulted directly from the acquisition of the Daily Citizen, an independent newspaper of St. John, and its discontinuance by the public utility, financial, industrial, radio and press monopoly now prevailing here.

After being notified of the monopoly's intention to lay him off or retire him on a nominal pension, Joseph Mooney, a veteran member of the editorial and news staff, worried himself into a physical breakdown, which brought on paralysis and caused his death. Mooney had been in newspaper work in St. John for twenty-seven years. He leaves a widow and one young daughter. The monopoly has established rigid retrenchment, with layoffs featured, since taking over the only rival daily.

Walter Barbour, who had been on the business staff of the Citizen, died from worry affecting his heart. He was one of the seventy-five employes of the Citizen who lost their jobs when the merger was effected by the monopoly. Unable to get a job since the folding of the Citizen, he had been helping to support a widowed mother whose only revenue is a minor war pension.

Are Immigrants Flooding America?

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

When a million immigrants landed on American shores during a single year it appeared that our country was being flooded by the foreign-born. The fact is that from 160 to 1920—a period of sixty years—the number of foreign-born in the United States did not at any time vary as much as 1 per cent above or below 14 per cent of the total population. There was an ebb and flow of foreign-born in America during these years so that while millions came in other millions returned to their native lands. During some recent periods more immigrants returned to Europe than arrived in this country.

But since 1920 there has been a marked decrease in the number of immigrants coming to America, until today the foreign-born in the United States number only about 10 per cent of the total population instead of the normal 14 per cent of earlier years. This is a smaller percentage of foreign-born of the total population living in the United States than at any time in 100 years of our history.

Today only about 153,000 immigrants are allowed to come to this country annually, and of this number 83,574 are assigned to Great Britain and Ireland, countries which during the year ending June 30, 1938, used only 4,551 of their allotment. With this small number coming from these two countries, immigration in effect is limited to about 75,000 annually.

However, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1938, the year of the largest refugee immigration into this country to that time, there was a net immigration into this country for permanent residence of only 42,685 from all countries. The net figure excludes those that returned to their native lands. Based upon a population of 130,000,000 for the United States, the 1938 net immigration represented only one immigrant for each 3,000 of the total population in this country.

In 1929, the last year before the depression, there was a net immigration increase for permanent ersidence of 210,475; in 1924, the high point of immigration following the war, the net increase was 630,107. In other words, the net 1938 immigration was only one-fifth that of 1929 and one-fifteenth that of 1924.

It will be seen, therefore, that from the standpoint of numbers, there is little cause for alarm with reference to the immigrants coming to America. There are other, and far moer serious, problems facing America today. Whether the immigrants coming to our country are to help us solve these problems will depend very largely upon the attitude of our present citizenship toward these newer immigrants. In the past the older immigration helped make America great. There is every reason to believe that the newer immigrats will likewise help build up the country of their adoption, for they come here with the same high purpose, coupled with the fact that in America alone can they find the freedom of which they have been deprived in their native countries.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

JOHN J. MARA

John J. Mara, President of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, is also a member of the Executive Board of the Union Label Trades Department of the Federation of Labor. He joined the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union in 1909 and rose to the position of National President of his organization in 1929.

Mr. Mara has not only been active in the general campaign for the purchasing of Union-made goods but is a strong advocate of American-made goods. He has emphasized the fact, however, that the words "union-made" in boots and shoes are not sufficient to insure the buyer that they are Union-stamped shoes. They must have the imprint of the Union Stamp.

His address is John J. Mara, President, Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, 246 Summer Street, Boston, Mass.

BOOT AND SHOE WORKERS' UNION STAMP

The Boot and Shoe Workers' Union adopted its Union Stamp, which appears above, in 1895. The popularity of this emblem is proven by the fact that it is stamped in the highest quality of shoes on the market.

Shoes are not Union-made unless they bear a plain and distinct impression of this Stamp. Merely the words "union-made" or indistinct prints are likely to be counterfeit. Demand the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp in all footwear.

A MESSAGE TO ORGANIZED LABOR

I have in my Used Car Stock five or six used cars which I would like awfully well to see some of my working friends have. I say this because it is an opportunity for some of you to own a TRULY FINE CAR at very little expense. They are all LINCOLN ZEPHYRS, ranging in models from 1936 to 1939, inclusive. Come down here and see me personally about these and if I'm not here see Mr. Cate, my assistant, as I have explained to Mr. Cate that I want some of my working friends to have these TRULY FINE CARS at a price THEY CAN AFFORD TO PAY FOR THEM. At any rate, come down and let me show them to you. There will be no obligation on your part. I want you to see them.

Secretary Perkins' Version of Split In Labor Misleading, Says Green

Washington.—References to the split in organized labor, made by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins in her annual report, drew the fire of President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, who called for an inquiry by congress into her statement.

Miss Perkins renewed her plea for peace between the A. F. of L. and the CIO, describing the split as hazardous to trade unionism and troublesome to others. A considerable part of her report, in which she also found evidence of improved employment opportunities during 1939, concerned the A. F. of L.-CIO feud.

Green criticized Miss Perkins for stopping short of a vital point when she failed to say that the CIO broke off peace negotiations. These negotiations had been arranged at the behest of President Roosevelt.

"Why has she withheld this vital information from congress and the public?" Green asked. "We hope an appropriate congressional committee will summon the secretary of labor to appear before it and wring from her the truth she has suppressed."

Green also described "certain other portions" of Miss Perkins' report as "thoroughly uninformed, misleading and untrue." He cited an instance in which the secretary had referred to ten unions being expelled from the A. F. of L. when, he said, they were only suspended.

He said that the statement that the A. F. of L. "claims 4,000,000" members is misleading because, he said, the A. F. of L. has that many paid-up members whose records are available to Miss Perkins. He said that the annual report saying the CIO "claims 4,000,000" was inaccurate, because, he said, the CIO probably has not one-fourth that number and asserted that the secretary pretends to set the two organizations up at parity.

Pay Increase Won By Longshoremen

New York City.—Local 791, International Longshoremen's association, A. F. of L. affiliate, has accepted the contract agreed upon by the union's negotiating committee and representatives of the New York Shipping association.

The association, composed of deep-sea steamship companies, agreed to give its longshoremen a 5-cent-an-hour increase, bringing the rate to $1.10 an hour for regular time and $1.65 an hour for overtime. The contract is for a two-year period beginning Jan. 1.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the international and a member of Local 791, recommended acceptance of the contract. He pointed out that the increase meant that workers here would receive 15 cents an hour more than those led by Harry Bridges, CIO leader on the west coast, and said that the success of the negotiations proved the wisdom of negotiating while continuing work "rather than tying up ports the way Bridges does."

Home Building Savings By Standardizing Steel Window Casements

Washington.—Substantial savings in construction costs for public rehousing projects in 1940 are anticipated as the result of a standardization of steel window casements just effected by the United States Housing Authority and manufacturers of these structural units.

About 135,000 steel window casements, it is estimated, will be used in USHA-aided slum clearance and low rent housing projects throughout the country in 1940. The total savings on this quantity by the use of the standardized unit would be about $80,000, USHA technicians say.

Installation costs, as well as cost of material, will be reduced, they say, because of reduction of many sizes to a few standard sizes. The work of installation also can be simplified and the number of operations reduced to a minimum.

Five sizes of steel casements, instead of approximately fifty now being used, have been agreed upon by technicians of the USHA and manufacturers. They will be recommended to local housing authorities planning their USHA-aided projects. It is expected that these standardized sizes will be used in at lease 90 per cent of the 1940 construction on the USHA program.

St. Louis Enlists in National Effort To Provide Better Housing for Low Income Negro Families

Washington.—St. Louis, Mo., has joined the ranks of cities working to rehouse negro families in good homes under the program of the United States Housing Authority, it is announced here. Recent approval of a loan contract for a 700-unit project enlisted St. Louis in the movement for better housing for negroes.

Development of this project, together with a 680-unit project for white occupancy, will constitute the first concerted attack with public funds upon the slums of St. Louis, which USHA Administrator Nathan Straus once characterized as among the worst in the country.

Slums Long Celebrated

The slums of St. Louis along the Mississippi River water front have long been celebrated in song and story. They were the setting for the famed "St. Louis Blues" and provided background for the legend of "Frankie and Johnny." The showboat docked regularly in the front yard of the St. Louis slums. Picturesque as these slums have been in a few respects, they have also been the breeding place of disease, delinquency and crime and have been costly to the city economically as well as socially.

The USHA contract with the St. Louis Housing Authority provides for a loan of $6,984,000 to defray 90 per cent of the cost of developing the two projects. These are the first of several projects which the city hopes to develop with the financial assistance of the USHA. said that St. Louis could use from

Greater Sums Held Needed

Mayor Bernard F. Dickman has said that St. Louis could use from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000 in USHA loans to meet the need of low-income families for decent homes. Frank L. Williams, principal of the Vashion High School, is the negro member of the St. Louis Housing Authority, which initiated the slum-clearance and low-rent housing program for that city.

Other cities providing new homes for low-income negro families under terms of loan contracts recently approved by President Roosevelt upon the recommendation of Administrator Straus include Phenix City, Ala.; Brunswick, Ga., and Beverly, N. J. A total of 374 dwelling units for negro occupancy will be provided in these cities.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

Is it really the people of Chattanooga who want to go backward instead of forward, or is it only the Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers Association who wish to do so? In the past there have been numerous organizations who wished to bring their factories, warehouses, etc., to Chattanooga but were not allowed to do so. Don't we want these new business places to come to our city that we may be benefited by their products and that our men and women who are now unemployed may have the right to earn a livelihood by the jobs that they can offer?

At present the Gulf Refining company is trying to bring to Chattanooga a gas terminal, and be granted a franchise to install pipelines to and from their terminals. The daily newspapers tell us that the railroads are against this. It is not difficult to see that they would lose some freight on this business. The papers say also that some property owners are protesting this, as they think these lines would be dangerous, due to explosions. Is it hard to see that gasoline being hauled in trucks over the streets is far more prone to explosion than gasoline being carried in pipes underground? Chattanooga is full of pipes carrying illuminating gas, which is far more dangerous than gasoline.

Our local stands 100 per cent behind the Gulf Refining company in bringing this terminal and pipelines into Chattanooga. Chattanooga, being centrally located and with its future waterways should be one of the largest and fastest-growing cities of the south. Now is the time for the citizens to urge that these firms bring their businesses to Chattanooga.

Our deepest sympathies to Bro. Cline, who fell last week and broke his leg. We all wish you a speedy recovery.

* * *

To all members of organized labor and their friends: Neither buy nor build a home unless it is union-built. We all know that we receive the best of workmanship by union workers.

We regret to report that at present we have some men who are not working. We earnestly hope that these men will be placed on a job at a very early date. Anyone needing a plumber or fitter, get in touch with Brother O. E. Cook.

* * *

At a recent meeting of the county court, installation of a water system in the county was asked for. We wish to commend them on this action as we feel that the county has needed this for some time.

* * *

President Laws named delegates for the year of 1940. Delegates to the building trade are Business Agent O. E. Cook and Earl Shaw. Those to serve as delegates to the Central Body are E. L. Jett, A. C. Robinson and Ed Bork, Jr. With these members representing our local there is bound to be plenty of action. So brothers, let's all pull together and get good results.

* * *

Please report any member or craft of the building trades who are found working on nonunion jobs to their business agent or the building trades officers as we are looking forward to jobs all going 100 per cent this year.

Don't forget your local meeting Friday night.

"Greatest Year for Southern Labor" Googe Predicts

Records Set in '39 Will Fall in '40—Big AFL Southern Conclave Planned.

Atlanta, Ga.—Balancing of the books and completion of the reports of our activities in the south during 1939, show that the past year witnessed the greatest growth of the American Federation of Labor in the south than in any one year of our history. Our records for the past year show substantial increases and advancements in the following phases of our activities:

More local unions were organized in 1939 than in any other year in our history.

Established local unions throughout the south show greater increases in membership than ever before.

Wage increases obtained through collective bargaining and peaceful negotiations were much larger in 1939 than ever before, millions of dollars having been so obtained for our membership through these wage increases.

Renewal of agreements with our employers far exceeds any year in past history.

New agreements obtained with employers more than doubled the number of any year in the history of our movement.

Vacations With Pay.

And what I consider of greater importance in these agreements, both renewals and new, we obtained vacations with pay for tens of thousands of our members who had never before enjoyed this beneficial and manifestly just consideration. I cannot stress the importance of vacations with pay too emphatically. This provision promotes health and happiness, provides rest and recreation, all of which tend to lengthen life and increase efficiency. Employers have found that it is to their best interests to provide their regular employes with vacations with pay. We have emphasized this feature of agreements in all negotiations during the past year.

All of our city central labor unions, building and metal trades councils, joint councils of group organizations, and our splendid state federations of labor have reported tremendous growth in 1939, greater by far than ever before.

Credit Where Due.

These advancements in labor's ranks, these elevations in labor standards, these accomplishments which mean so much to all of us, did not come of their own accord. In each state in our great southland the officers of the state federation of labor led their movements with such devotion to duty and in a spirit of fearlessness and determination so marked that their leadership was an inspiration to workers everywhere. In the cities the officers and delegates in the central labor unions, trades councils and district meetings gave of their time and means and presented such unified forcefulness that victory came as a natural consequence. Aiding these officers and members were our A. F. of L. representatives and the field representatives of our affiliated national and international unions, all working in co-operative and harmonious manner.

Backing up these many forces and influences just mentioned, and most powerful in its constant support of them, were the labor papers of the south—great agencies whose editors and publishers make sacrifices 365 days in the year in such splendid manner as to challenge the admiration of every member of organized labor.

South Attracting Attention.

So great has been the progress made in the south by our A. F. of L. movement that plans are new being perfected for a great meeting to be held at an early date, at which all of our southeastern state federations of labor, district councils, central labor unions, and all local unions will have representatives. Attending as invited guests will be all ranking officers of the American Federation of Labor and a large number of international union officials. The program is being so arranged that each and every local union from all sections of the south will have opportunity to present its case directly to the highest officials in the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated international unions. Plans are being made for a large attendance of southern labor representatives at this meeting.

One Labor Movement.

All of which is for the purpose of making still greater gains in the south in 1940 than were made in 1939, to emphasize as never before that there is but one legitimate labor movement in the United States, and to adopt a program for 1940 in the south that will make it possible for our leaders in all communities to work more closely together than ever before.

In thanking everyone who has helped our movement to reach its pinnacle in 1939, I as asking for each one's continued support in 1940 in full confidence that it will be enthusiastically forthcoming. In closing, may I stress the request recently made by President Green that we of the American Federation of Labor must not lend our support to the political schemes of John L. Lewis and his so-called "Labor's Non-Partisan Political League." The CIO has no standing in the south, and this being election year, the few leaders they have in Dixie are making strenuous efforts to make some kind of a showing by engaging in political activities under Lewis' Non-Partisan league. They will make every effort to get members of our American Federation of Labor unions into their political schemes in order to lend some degree of dignity and respectability to their campaign. I am confident that President Green will have no cause for alarm insofar as our southern unions are concerned.

Further details of the meeting mentioned above will be made public at an early date.

Google Outlines Tentative Program Of Great Southern Labor Conference

Atlanta.—I am confident that every member of our American Federation of Labor unions in the south realize the importance of the big conference to be held in Atlanta on March 2, 3 and 4, and that all of our local unions will be represented in the conference. The coming of President Green and Secretary Meany and other officials of the A. F. of L., together with officials of the four departments of the A. F. of L., national and international union officers, and ranking officers of the twenty-one standard railroad organizations, to meet with the officials of our ten southern state federations of labor, is the biggest event in all labor history.

Within the next few days our southern office will send out credentials to all central bodies, local unions, building trades councils and district councils. The basis of representation in the conference will be as follows:

Central labor unions, three delegates each.

Building trades councils, three delegates each.

District councils, three delegates each.

Local unions, 50 members or less, one delegate.

Local unions, 51 to 100 members, two delegates.

Local unions, 101 members and up, three delegates.

Our women's auxiliaries and union label leagues, three delegates each.

All officers of state federations of labor are delegates by virtue of the fact that the state federations of labor are sponsoring the conference.

All regularly employed organizers of the American Federation of Labor are entitled to credentials.

All organizers of national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are entitled to credentials.

All local unions of the twenty-one standard railroad organizations are entitled to representation in the conference, on the basis above outlined.

A list of hotels in Atlanta, with rates and other information, will be mailed in due time to all organizations in the south by the committee on arrangements named by President Dewey L. Johnson, of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

In addition to the duly accredited delegates, all members of our labor unions desiring to attend the conference are most cordially urged to do so, and accommodations both in the conference and in hotels will be arranged for them.

State federation officials and city central labor unions officials will be interested in knowing that national and international union officials will devote time and effort at this conference to the task of getting all unaffiliated local unions to immediately take their places in the central bodies and the state federations.

On the opening day of the conference problems affecting the departments of the American Federation of Labor will be discussed. On Saturday night a banquet will be held in honor of Secretary Emeritus Frank Morrison and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, at which President Green will be the principal speaker. Sunday's sessions will be devoted to adoption of a program that will co-ordinate all organizing activities and state legislative programs. Monday will be given over to national and international unions, the members of local unions meeting with their respective national and international officials.

Frank P. Fenton, director of organization for the American Federation of Labor, is asking the membership to work diligently in getting every local union and A. F. of L. organizations to send representatives to the conference. There has never before been an opportunity like this for increasing membership in the south to get in personal contact with our members and officials. That all of our members will co-operate in this as they have done in the past is a foregone conclusion. In fact, it is because of the matchless spirit of unionism and co-operation among our members of the south that the ranking officials of the A. F. of L. organizations are holding this conference in Dixie.

Bakers' Union Official Calls On Every Local and Member to Aid War on Infantile Paralysis

Washington.—An example of unparalleled fervor in labor's 1940 war on infantile paralysis, is the part the great and powerful Bakery and Confectionery Workers' international union is playing in this year's labor division campaign.

Outdoing all previous years' efforts, explained William Green, chairman of the labor division of the committee for the celebration of the president's birthday, the A. F. of L. Bakery Workers' union is not only soliciting individual contributions from 100 per cent of its membership, but in addition is donating a giant birthday cake to be presented to President Roosevelt on his 58th birthday.

Through the medium of the candles on this masterpiece of the baker's art, organized labor is being given the opportunity to swell the infantile paralysis war chest it will raise among its ranks, Chairman Green went on. Each of the fifty-eight candles on the cake is being offered for sale to unions at a minimum of $100 per candle. Photostastic copies of the checks which pay for these candles will be wrapped around and will adorn each candle.

Membership Urged to Help

In the midst of an active infantile paralysis fund-raising drive among the union's membership, and apart from the donation of the cake, A. A. Myrup, international secretary-treasurer, has sent out the following letter to the union's officers and members:

"Dear Sirs and Brothers:

"On January 30 President Franklin Delano Roosevelt will celebrate his fifty-eighth birthday, and again labor is privileged to celebrate it with him at the White House by making its contribution to a very worthy cause, promoting cure of that dread disease, infantile paralysis.

"These celebrations have taken place every year and labor has participated and made its contribution directly to the general national committee. This year the labor division of the national committee, of which undersigned is a member and President Green is chairman, will make its contribution direct as such to the president at the White House.

Cake for President

"On that day it is planned to present to the president a masterpiece birthday cake of such magnitude and artistic skill as has never been seen before in this country. The birthday cake will carry fifty-eight candles, one for each year of the president's age. Each candle will be enrolled in a photostatic copy of the check issued to the president by each international union and their affiliated locals in payment of contributions made to the cause of fighting infantile paralysis.

"Individual union men and women will be privileged to join the march of dimes, forwarding same directly to the president at the White House in suitable greeting cards to be furnished for such purpose—a grand opportunity to pay tribute to a grand president of a great people for a worthy cause. All our local unions and their membership are called upon to do their share.

Union's Contribution

"Our international union's contribution will consist of furnishing the birthday cake mentioned, to be presented by President Green, which will be outstanding in showing the workmanship and artistic skill that is embraced within the membership of our international union. Additionally, our international union has voted a cash contribution equal to one month's per capita tax assessment to the American Federation of Labor.

"Each of our local unions are urged to vote from their treasury any amount permissible by their funds, preferably not less than equal to one month's per capital contribution that they are paying their central body. Forward separate check to Herman Winter, international financial secretary, not later than Jan. 23, in time to be included in the contributions presented to the president by all international unions. Each local union will receive acknowledgment in behalf of the president from the White House as well as receipt from the general office of the international union, and listed in our journal.

"Individual members of the international and local unions will be privileged to make contributions by participating in the march of dimes. Under separate cover you will receive a shipment of greeting cards, sample of which is herewith inclosed, sufficient to cover 75 per cent of your good-standing membership. It is requested that your local union attend to the distribution of these cards among your members.

Plan of Action

"It is suggested that immediately upon receipt of these cards you call a meeting of your various shop or department stewards or delegates and that you assign to them a sufficient number of greeting cards for distribution among employed members in their respective departments or shops. Each member can then solicit additional dimes from the members of his family or friends, insert them in the prepared places of such card, write in their names and addresses, amount of contribution, as well as name and number of the local union, seal and post-stamp card, mailing such directly to the president at the White House, and each member will receive an acknowledgment consisting of part of each card in behalf of the president at the White House. Or local union officers may collect all dime cards and forward them in bulk directly to the president at the White House.

All Called Upon to Aid

"Your international union calls upon all local unions and their members to make a worthy effort for a great cause, that we may rank equal to other great international unions. It may be the last opportunity we will have to in this manner celebrate the birthday of a great president while he is still in the White House. Let us all join in showing our appreciation in this manner of the services he rendered the 'common people' of America while he was their president.

"Enlisting your co-operation in this great cause, and in anticipation of success, beg to remain,

"Fraternally yours,

"A. A. MYRUP,

Pay Your Poll Tax Now!

In the next few weeks the political pot will start to bubbling, and before election day in March it might boil over. At that time voters of Hamilton county will elect a sheriff, trustee, tax assessor and other important officers.

Although organized labor protests the necessity of poll taxes for the privilege of taking part in public election, it is still the law that a citizen must pay that two dollars in order to vote.

Payment of poll taxes is the order of the day. They are now due. Any person not paying his lawful tax, however unjust such tax might be, is certainly not entitled later on to take umbrage at any of our officials. Anyone not interested enough in his citizenship to make himself eligible to partake thereof, can not logically protest when he gets punched on the nose by elected officials.

Organized labor must not expect other people to fight our battles for us. We must not remain politically impotent, but must equip ourselves with the most potent weapon in our form of government.

That weapon is the mass power at the ballot box. Politicians logically do not heed loud cries emanating from a quarter that can only cry. They also know better than we do ourselves whether our ability to care for ourselves justifies their "earnest consideration."

We like to decry the dictator form of governments that exist in Russia, Germany and Italy. Workers in those countries do not have the opportunity to vote freely and democratically. Yet we voluntarily allow ourselves to be disfranchised just as effectively as those workers in the dictator lands. We must cherish our rights by constant usage. And the right to vote must be upheld even to the extent of spilling blood were any attempt made to take that privilege from us.

Now let us be logical. Let's pay our poll taxes. Let us vote as we please. But let us vote.

A Fine Idea, Congressman

Our new congressman, Estes Kefauver, has the makings of a real representative of the people of the Third district. Many times when a man is sent to congress, he is elected on a platform of being for the dear "pee-pul," but after he gets there, he gets further from the people than the number of miles from here to there.

Congressman Kefauver seems to be different. He evidently sincerely wants the folks back home to know what goes on. This week he is starting in The Labor World a weekly column in which a brief weekly summary is given of legislation of direct interest to the voters in the Third district.

As he says, "these weekly letters will not be for the purpose of personal propagandizing, but in the hope of rendering service to the people of my district; of assisting in keeping the people informed of happenings in Washington as seen by their representative."

He also asks for suggestions from the press and readers of this paper as to the type of news that would be of interest to be dealt with in his weekly letter.

We think this is a splendid idea. As long as congressmen keep in touch with the people they represent, they cannot go wrong.

Prospects appear bright for our new congressman and the people of the Third district. He has not spouted off like other new congressmen, but seems to be studying his ground carefully and wisely.

Commend Kiwanis

The Kiwanis club is to be commended for the fine civic service it is rendering by sponsoring the community concert each Sunday. The first concert was held last Sunday at the auditorium, and the very large attendance showed that citizens of the community do have a desire for the finer things of life.

Although Kiwanians sponsored the idea and took the lead in making it possible, praise should also be given to Mr. McConnell Erwin, the organist, the two splendid singers and the accompanist. Others who "got behind" the project are the project are the Women's Press club, the WPA Recreational organization, and the Angel Printing company.

All such services were a work of love for the community, no one receiving any pay therefor.

We salute the Kiwanis club. Chattanoogans need more of such civic interest. We have the best city in the world because it is composed of the best people in the world. And the Kiwanis club makes a fine setting for such jewels.

Arbitrary Age Limits Harmful

Employment or retention of workers should be based upon competence to perform work, and not on arbitrary age limits, the American Federation of Labor holds.

Labor is on the soundest of grounds in condemning discrimination against the older worker. Such discrimination leads to many evils not confined to the worker and his family. It means a loss to industry by elimination of workers who have reached an age of responsibility and who have years of training.

Discrimination for age affects society as well. By shortening the worker's earning period, it increases his chances of becoming a charge on society in his old age. It leads to poverty and increases unrest and discontent by embittering the worker. It is harmful to the nation from every standpoint.

Men Must Work

Dr. Thomas Parran, head of the United States Public Health Service, has written some wise words on the subject of unemployment, from the point of view of health.

"There are many poisons known to medicine," says Dr. Parran. "Most of them work quickly. But there are other kinds that work slowly, and idleness is the deadliest of them all.

"Men must work," says Dr. Parran, "not because it is their duty, but because it is their nature. Once let a man realize that he is totally useless, that nothing he can do with his hands or his mind is of any value to the community, and he becomes a sick man—because his pride is gone.

"This government," Dr. Parran goes on to say, "cannot commit the crime of pauperizing millions of citizens with a dole—whatever you hear said by semi-responsible people who have their own purposes to serve. We must keep our citizens at work because no other course is open."

Magic Words

(Chesapeake and Ohio Lines Magazine)

"Stop, Look and Listen" are three magic words that will prolong life, yet in spite of safety instructions and highway-railroad grade eliminations, the number of accidents at crossings decreases very slowly. Motorists still seem intent upon trying to beat the train to the crossing.

In the first half of 1939, such fatal accidents at crossings amounted to 680, or a decrease of only 16 compared with the same period of 1938. During this time 1,846 persons were injured at crossings, compared with 1,962 in the corresponding period of 1938. How many heedless drivers will there be who kill or injure themselves or others in this way during 1940?

The railroads are safe carriers, using every precaution to protect life. During the coming year, drivers should resolve to cooperate with them by using every precaution to reduce grade crossing accidents.

Oh, say: Here's a secret for you to tell folks about. Brother M. R. Bice, a conductor on the Incline, has been married to Miss Ethel Puffer since Aug. 15, 1939. Good Home Building Increase in 19 Predicted by Trade Journal—

Year-End Activity Held Indicating 10 to 20 Per Cent Gain This Year

New York City.—Home building and housing in United States made great progress in 1939 despite th certainties of war and the widespread publicity giv charges of racketeering, monopoly and just plain cusse declares American Builder in its annual statistical r summarizing building activity in 1939 and prospects for An increase in 1940 of from 10 to 20 per cent in the ber of dwelling units over 1939 is predicted.

An increase of 36 per cent in the number of dwelling units was achieved, and at the close of the year residential contractors and speculative builders were experiencing one of the best winters in many years, with indications that the good business would continue into 1940, the publication says.

Close to 1929 Volume

The total number of new dwelling units provided in 1939, except on farms, was close to 475,000, or a 128,000-unit increase over 1938. The value of this nonfarm residential construction increased from 1.39 billions in 1938 to 1.9 billions in 1939.

Reviewing the progress of recent years, American Builder lists total United States production of new dwelling units in rural as well as urban areas, but not including farm homes, as 55,000 in 1934, 1444,000 in '35, 270,000 in '36, 286,200 in '37, 346,700 in '38 and 475,000 in '39. A 10 per cent increase in 1940 will bring the total number well above 1929's total of 509,000. However, 1929 was not a top year in residential construction, the American Builder points out. The ten-year average from 1920 to '29 was approximately 700,000 units per year.

Active 1940 Start

Builders and material men base their predictions for a prosperous 1940 on the large volume of business that has been maintained this winter and the indications of prospective home buyers of their plans for next spring. "The fact that three important indicators of residential building activity reau of labor statistics b permits, F. W. Dodge repor FHA mortgage application showed increases of from 20 per cent over 1938 in the months of the year is high nificant," American Builde clares, "and should indicate tive start for 1940."

Of equal importance in the ing months of 1939 was the volume of modernization a pair work reported. Better ness and the effects of war —whether real or hoped have had an improvement on mercial and industrial constru

Best Guarantee of Democracy

The establishment and preservation of a strong, effective aggressive trade union movement constitutes the best guarantee for the preservation of democracy, both in governmental affairs and in human relationships. Through the establishment of our trade unions we are seeking to erect a barrier against the invasion of Fascism, Communism, Nazism—and for the perpetuation of democracy, democratic principles and democratic procedure.—William Green.

The Communist Slant

The Communist slant veers so far from the known facts and probabilities, it has been proven to have scorned the truth so often in the past, that it is hard to believe that it can any longer command a following among intelligent people in this country. Our institutions grant it complete freedom of expression, and we see no reason for changing that. Under no other conditions is it possible to realize the depths of mendacity and crackpotism to which the theories of Marx have been brought by his successors.—Editor and Publisher.

1940 to See Further Development Of Social Security Program, Board Chairman Declares

Washington.—The social security act has made a record of "real and enduring progress," and changes in the act made by the last session of congress will bring even more progress, Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer, of the social security board, says in a year-end statement. He points out that the close of 1939 marked the fourth year of operation of the national social security program and goes on to say:

"In January, 1940, monthly benefits become payable under the old-age and survivors insurance program. These monthly benefits will go to retired wage-earners 65 or over, their aged wives and dependent children, and to the survivors of insured wage-earners who die after 1939—their aged widows, dependent children, widows with such children in their care, or in some cases their aged dependent parents.

Old Age Protection Extended.

"We now have more than 47,500,000 old-age insurance accounts on our books—representing an average gain of nearly half a million a month during 1939. Amendments by congress during 1939 substantially liberalized and extended the protection available under this program. Security for the family unit, rather than for individuals alone, became the major objective of the program and more adequate benefit payments were provided.

"We have at least one federal-state program of public assistance to the needy in every state and territory of the United States. The federal government, by grants of money, helps the participating states to provide cash payments monthly to needy old people, the needy blind, and for dependent children. All the states are taking part in the program for needy old people.

2,500,000 Now Aided.

"Forty-two states are taking part in the program for the needy blind, and the same number in that for dependent children. All told, more than 2,500,000 men, women and children are being directly aided through these monthly cash allowances, from federal, state and local funds.

"We now have every state and territory paying unemployment-insurance benefits to jobless workers.

"Both the need for and the effectiveness of the social security act have already been demonstrated beyond question. In terms of people served and future want forestalled, its record to date is one of real and enduring progress. Through the changes made in the social security act at the last session of congress, the New Year will bring further expansion and development of the social security program."

Over Four Million Dollars

Secretary Cordell Hull and Trade Agreements Program

Last week Secretary of State Cordell Hull opened the outstanding battle of this congress, one which may be the chief issue of the presidential campaign, when he appeared before the ways and means committee of the house in support of his reciprocal trade-agreement program.

Opening his defense of his program, he confined himself to a straightforward factual statement of what tariff-lowering agreements have done toward building up our foreign trade during the short time of their operation and toward creating more friendly relations between the nations of the world. Mr. Hull demonstrated in convincing language that by increasing the export trade of the United States from three billion to nine billion dollars, during the effective date of the agreements, that not only industry but agriculture had been benefited.

The evidence has become increasingly clear that no sound agreement can be made against his trade-agreement policy. So far as the opposition is concerned, it was summed up by a member of the committee, who, in acknowledging differences of viewpoint between himself and Mr. Hull, said that Mr. Hull "takes the broad view that the whole country is helped," while members of congress must think of "the interests of the people we represent." That devotion to narrow sectional interest, understandable though it may be, has been the bane of our tariff policy in the past and is the best argument that can be made for continuing the present limited tariff adjustment program of the president and the secretary of state, whose viewpoint is national rather than sectional.

The advocacy of Mr. Hull's program by the president in his message to congress, the general recognition that his policy is just, and the factual statement of the benefits brought to this country has done a great deal to carry the distinguished Tennessean toward the democratic nomination and the White House. All groups of democrats could well unite behind Mr. Hull and he would carry with him many of the opposing party as well. It is entirely likely that he may be the choice for the democratic nomination. Sentiment is strong for him in every section.

Anti-Lynching Bill

The house passed the Gavagan bill (the so-called anti-lynching bill) over the vigorous protest of southern democratic representatives. With only three lynchings last year, it was pointed out that the south is dealing intelligently and effectively with its own problem, and, further, that shifting the responsibility away from local communities would not only infringe the sovereign right of states, but would increase the extent of this horrible crime. The political motives behind the bill were forcefully demonstrated by the fact that its proponents refused to agree to an amendment which would include gang murders, of which 700 occurred last year, within the terms of the bill. The bill goes to the senate, where southern senators will probably filibuster it to death if it reaches the floor.

Naval Appropriations

Feeling that an adequate army and navy is "an insurance policy" for the maintenance of peace in America, the house overwhelmingly approved a $246,000,000 outlay for increases in the naval defense forces. This indicates that the spirit of this congress will be to strengthen our military and naval forces to the point that America will be in the position visualized by President Theodore Roosevelt when he said "the way to preserve peace is to speak softly and carry a big stick."

Continued Growth of CROM Unions Essential to Saving Mexico From Communism and Chaos

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington. — In the whole realm of Mexican organized labor, nothing is more interesting or important than the unions in the Orizaba area.

Orizaba was the cradle city of the Mexican labor movement. There the pioneer Casa del Obrera Mundial (House of the Workers of the World) was formed, with a strong syndicalist philosophy. In the young days of the revolution, this organization gave way to the CROM, with a program that grew rapidly to resemble strongly that of the A. F. of L. and it was the CROM that became and remained the Mexican affiliate of the Pan-American Federation of Labor.

Few labor organizations anywhere have suffered and lived through such persecution as that through which the Orizaba labor movement has lived and grown to superb strength.

Orizaba is the center of Mexico's textile industry. Also it is a center for coffee and tobacco. And, for strong, intelligent unions.

Union Progress Plain to See.

Around Orizaba are half a dozen small towns. But every one of them has its large and well-equipped union headquarters.

And every one has its band, drum and bugle corps or orchestra.

But most important of all is the economic progress of the unions. This progress has been made through agreements, without putting employers out of business or scaring them stiff. The superior achievements of the Orizaba CROM unions is visible. Their mortality rate is lower than elsewhere. The percentage of shoes worn is higher, the clothes are better and soon the housing, through a union-run low-cost housing development, will be better.

Strong Background of CROM Apparent.

Former General Secretary Eucario Leon came from Orizaba. So does incumbent Secretary Vargas.

I visited three large union headquarters in and around Orizaba. Nobody who knows labor at all can fail to see why it is that the CROM has survived and why today it is growing steadily. There is a solidarity, a fabric of tradition and a sense of sound union policies that simply cannot be destroyed or broken.

If the trend toward headlong communism is checked, mark up a large part of the credit to the CROM and to the members of the Orizaba district, which is the heart of the CROM.

Morone's Strength Rooted in Orizaba.

Here also is the evidence of the strength of Luis N. Morones, the veteran leader of the CROM. Morones is the unquestioned, unchallengtd leader. There is not only a respect for his judgment and his long service; there is more than that. There is that indestructible affection that goes to the man himself and for which there is no weapon in the opposition arsenals.

It is impossible to know the reality of the Mexican labor movement, as it is under the CROM banners without knowing Orizaba.

Some will ask: What about the CTM, headed by Lombardo Toledano? Today it is numerically stronger than the CROM. And it is far, far beyond to the left. Just how much love President Cardenas now lavishes upon the CTM is not any too clear, but that the CTM came into being as an administration labor front and grew to strength on the same basis is known generally. It is definitely a political agency as well as a union movement. It would be silly to say CTM has not registered gains for the workers. Of course it has, but if and when the government foundation is taken from under it, it will go into a tailspin winding up in significance.

Mexican Hope Lies in CROM Strength.

CTM is not and never has been a free labor movement. And for its wildest adventure, in partnership with Cardenas—the oil confiscation—it already is paying a terrific price. I smile as I write that, because one or two Mexican papers charged that I and others were in Mexico as U. S. oil company agents. But such charges do not cover up the economic tragedy of that confiscation and its results for Mexican workers.

The oil companies were stupid and so was the Mexican government and its CTM labor front. Two stupidities, welded into one, can do a lot of damage.

If the CROM can grow it may help save Mexico from ultimate chaos. It is realistic, as the result of bitter experience.

On the other hand, let us repeat, if Mexico goes to the chaos toward which she is today so surely headed, the United States as well as Mexico will pay the price. And I am sure that delightful Josephus Daniels, the kindly ambassador, does not report that to our government. You have to quit being complacement before you see it.

Lime Workers Strike In Batesville Ended

Chicago. — William Schoenberg, general president of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' International Union, announced that the strike called in October against the White Lime Company of Batesville, Ark., in a wage dispute was satisfactorily settled for the union and an agreement reached about November 20.

The strike was ended, Mr. Schoenberg declared, through the good offices of J. C. Howard, commissioner of conciliation of the United States Department of Labor.

In commenting on the settlement, Mr. Schoenberg said:

"We have endeavored to manifest to our own membership and the many employers with whom we have the most cordial relationship that we were able to adjust any differences of opinion or controversies which might arise over the conference table without resorting to cessation of work."

He added that the most cordial relationship is now in existence between the management of the White Lime Company and the cement workers' local union in Batesville.

The

Silver Anniversary Edition

of

THE LABOR WORLD

On May 3, 1940, The Labor World will start on Volume 25. Each volume represents one year of publication in this city. During this time The Labor World, owned by the American Federation of Labor unions in Chattanooga, through the Central Labor Union, has builded for itself a prestige, respect and honor that few papers can claim. In all this period no firm or individual has suffered one penny loss because of The Labor World's failure to pay its just debts.

Your paper's policy has been to offer an advertising value to merchants that stands on its own merit. We do not accept contributions in the form of "A Friend" advertisements. We have an advertising value that has been recognized because The Labor World readers-owners patronize the people who advertise through their paper.

The Labor World feels that in its SILVER ANNIVERSARY EDITION there is every reason for the Labor Movement to rejoice over its accomplishments. We feel that business firms and individuals will accept the opportunity to rejoice with us.

We need your help. TALK about the SILVER ANNIVERSARY every day. Tell your merchant about it. Ask him to be represented in that issue. And then let us have the names of prospective advertisers whom you feel will want advertising space in that issue.

His Union First Purchaser of $100 Candles

To the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, whose president, Felix E. Knight, is pictured above, goes the honor of being the first purchaser of one of the fifty-eight candles on the handsomely decorated and sculptured birthday cake which organized labor is presenting to President Roosevelt this year in connection with the nationwide birthday celebrations. The carmen's union is co-operating 100 per cent in distribution of coin holding birthday cards to its wide-flung membership.

Ban On Lewis' Name In Stage Productions Sought in Chicago

Chicago. — James C. Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, has begun a one-man campaign to censor reference to John L. Lewis, chief of the CIO, from all state productions appearing in Chicago.

Following up his successful fight to eliminate a Lewis skit from George White's "Scandals," Petrillo announced he was going to work on the management of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," a play by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart.

A New Excuse.

"Why haven't you pressed your trousers?" roared the British sergeant-major.

"I had them under the mattress all night, but I'm such a light sleeper," replied the recruit, meekly.

Ban on Three-Tined Forks Is Issue In Near-Strike of Fish Handlers

Boston.—A threatened strike of 3,200 fish handlers against a health order prohibiting use of three-tined forks to remove fish from ships' holds was averted by compromise.

Three-tined forks will be used—as they have for three centuries—under the agreement reached by A. F. of L.'s Atlantic Fishermen's union and Dr. Henry F. R. Watts, Boston health commissioner.

A one-tined fork, however, must be used once the fish are on the piers, the prong to be stuck in the head, which later is cut off.

The health department's order was based on a United States fisheries bureau condemnation of the use of forks on grounds they contaminated the fish.

Commissioner Watts agreed that hardships would be imposed on handlers were they forced to remove fish by hand from the ice-packed holds. The union agreed that abandonment of the three-tined fork for a one-tine fork on the piers would be reasonable. The conferees agreed to work for eventual abandonment of forks at the pier.

Green Denies Opposes Reciprocal Trade Agreements

Washington. — William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has written to Secretary of State Hull that he "regretted" any published suggestions that the A. F. of L. opposed the administration's reciprocal trade agreement program. At the same time, America's Wage Earners' Protective conference, composed of about twenty A. F. of L. unions, was asking congress to scrap the existing twenty-one reciprocal trade agreements.

President Green assured Secretary Hull that any implication that the A. F. of L. was against the administration in the gathering trade agreement battle was "incorrect." He made his position known after Hull wrote him for information as to whether a newspaper article indicating Federation opposition was based on fact.

The Meat Cutters bought one of the president's birthday cake candles.

LABOR AND YOUTH

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Five years after the close of the World war I spent a month in Berlin studying the conditions of the workers in Germany's principal city. At that time Germany was a republic. During my stay in the city I was present at two great mass meetings, one of which was an open air meeting in front of the Reichstag—Germany's house of parliament—which was attended by about 200,000 men and women, who were addressed by several of Germany's leading statesmen. The other meeting was in the "Grosses Schauspielhaus"—a theater which seated 4,000 people and which was crowded to capacity, even though an admission fee was charged.

The remarkable thing about both these meetings was the unanimity of opinion as to the speakers of the picture "No more War"—peace again was—which was loudly applauded by the audience. Undoubtedly, this was the common hope of the masses of Germany's people.

But there was another picture which impressed me more than did the attitude of the people at the mass meetings. Every day I saw parades of fine looking young men and women, marching up and down Berlin's widest avenue, known as "Unter den Linden." Many of these young people became the backbone of the Nazis, who were later organized by Hitler in a campaign which was based upon bitterness and the desire for revenge against the rest of the world.

They became the victims of a false philosophy. They were dominated by a spirit of hatred which undermined their characters and distorted their outlook upon life, and which has turned the world against them.

Today, in the United States, there is also a "youth movement" which troubles many people in our country. Fortunately, these young people are living in a democracy in which they have freedom which is denied the young of Germany. But they need guidance in many directions. This should be given them by the government, by industry, by labor, by business, by our public schools.

They must be saved from developing class hatred. They should learn that they, too, must help bear the burdens of the world in these times of stress and strain. They undoubtedly have troubles of their own—for who hasn't? But they have a better chance to win out than have the youth in any other country in the world.

Organized labor can render a great service in guiding the thinking of the youth of our country, especially those whose interests lie close to labor. Already organized labor, through its educational departments, its lecture courses, its group discussions, and its labor press, is doing a fine job in this direction. It is teaching the principles of brotherhood, of co-operation and of patriotism. It is one of the greatest assets in building up the democracy which will hold the world together at a time when so many other influences have a tendency to tear it apart.

Georgia City Takes Another Tax Crack at Chain Stores

Columbus, Ga.—A new chain store tax, scalping up to $400 per store, is on the city statute books, replacing a heavier levy which was recently outlawed by the Georgia supreme court. The city commission adopted the tax unanimously, effective Jan. 1.

The levy ranges from $25 to $400 per store depending upon the number of units in the national chain.

God is like us to this extent, that whatever in us is good is like God.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The local, whose members are employed in the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation plant at Louisville, Ky., agreed to distribute the cards to the entire membership.

Seasonal Drop Reported In Job Placements

Washington.—The social security board reports there were 3 per cent more persons hunting jobs last November than there were in Otover, but that the number of positions filed in private industry during November was greater than any previous November in the employment service's seven-year history.

The board's employment security bureau reports it found 249,000 jobs with private employers in November. That was 20 per cent under the October placement, but 40 per cent above the level of November, 1938, and 58 per cent above November two years ago.

Eight More Unions Buy $100 Candles For President's Birthday Cake

Washington.—It looks as if the candles on the president's birthday cake, all fifty-eight of them, are going to be oversubscribed, said A. F. of L. President William Green as he reviewed the week's work of the labor division of the committee for the celebration of the president's birthday.

Eight more union treasury donations to the cake fund arrived here within the last two days, the labor division chairman revealed, making the total number of candle purchases to date nineteen. Money derived from the sale of candles on the birthday cake will go towards the war chest organized labor will present to science in its constant search for the germ or microbe which causes infantile paralysis.

Latest Candle Buyers

The latest contributors to organized labor's cake fund (the cake itself is being donated by the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union) are the Pattern Makers' League of North America, whose president, George Q. Lynch, has sent in his union's $100 check for the purchase of one of the candles; the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who through its president, D. B. Robertson, has donated $200 for one of the candles; the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, who through its president, Arthur Huggins, has also paid $200 for one of the fifty-eight birthday candles; the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, who through its president, C. C. Coulter, bought one of the candles for $100, and the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International union, who through its president, Max Zaritsky, bought another one of the candles for $100.

In the mail as this was written were two checks, one for $150 from D. W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, whose union bought the eighteenth candle, and one for $100 from William D. McSorley, general president of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International union, whose organization bought the nineteenth candle.

In addition, the Cigar Makers' International union, through its president, R. E. Van Horn, has sent in $50 which will go towards the cake fund.

Good news: Dr. George S. Counts, our national president, will pay a visit to Chattanooga on Jan. 31. A professor of education at Columbia and an outstanding educator, writer and thinker in social problems, Dr. Counts is known to all teachers and has taught many of our members.

We hope to make it possible for all city and county teachers to hear him, but in any event unionists will have the opportunity to meet and to hear him.

If you are not receiving THE AMERICAN TEACHER, be sure to let us know. A new mailing list, revised to Jan. 10, is now being used, and if we have your address correct you should be getting the magazine.

One of the gang told of an unusual incident that happened to Kelley — Waterboy - Georgia-boy-Slokum-glassblower Heffner. His first shift was on No. 7 shop, and as they got off at noon, Heffner said he had some business in town. On arriving there they had a hard time finding a parking place owing to the parking meters. So with a nickel in their hand they drove into an unoccupied space. As Kelley had no previous experience with the meters and unable to find a place to deposit a nickel, he was not to be fooled. He just reached in his pocket for his trusty wrench and turned a nut here and there. After several minutes a cap came off the front end. Lo and behold, he discovered that all the time he was working on the well-known fire plug. "How was I to know," he tells it, "I had never worked a new fangled nickel grabber before."

Congress Gets A. F. of L. Amendments To Liberalize Benefits Paid Under Unemployment Compensation Laws

Washington.—At the request of the American Federation of Labor, amendments to the social security act setting up uniform standards for state-federal systems of unemployment compensation have been introduced in congress.

President William Green said the amendments were made necessary because, in the absence of any federal minimum compensation standards, unemployment compensation laws now vary widely in the different states and in most cases fall far short of the objective of the act.

The average weekly benefit payments in the nation during the first quarter of 1939 was $10.13.

"The benefits paid in many states are a travesty on the principle of economic security," Mr. Green said. "In some cases the weekly average benefit paid does not justify the costs of administration. The American Federation of Labor feels that more adequate compensation should be provided by law for workers who lose the jobs they have to depend on for a living. We have therefore prepared these amendments and will urge congress to adopt them."

Proposed Standards Outlined

The A. F. of L. made public a summary of the minimum standards to be established by the amendments, together with explanatory notes on present conditions, as follows:

1. Benefits paid shall equal at least 60 per cent of full-time weekly earnings, but not less than $ nor more than $24. (At present unemployment compensation benefits in most states are calculated on the basis of 50 per cent of actual earnings.) Thus an employe who had worked only half time before losing his job might get only a quarter of full-time earnings as unemployment compensation. The minimum in most states now is about $5 a week and the maximum $15, but a number of states fix a minimum.

2. The waiting period shall not be more than one week. (Present waiting periods provided in most states are two to three weeks, for which the employe does not get paid. It frequently takes four or five weeks before the employe receives his first payment.)

20-Week Payment Periods

3. Benefits shall be payable to all eligible persons for a period of twenty weeks. (Most states now can pay for sixteen weeks, but because of technicalities of qualifications, benefits are paid on an average for only eight weeks.)

4. Total contributions from a state shall average not less than 2.7 per cent of the total annual payroll taxable under the state laws.

5. There shall be no cancellation of earned credits, but any penalty against employes shall take the form of an increased waiting period, but in no case longer than a total of six weeks.

Establishment of minimum standards as provided in the above amendments shall be necessary in order for the state law to be approved by the social security board.

Rail Clerks Union Sues to Win Back Pay for Redcaps

St. Louis.—The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks has filed suit against the Terminal Railroad association of St. Louis for $120,000 in wages alleged to be due redcaps at the union station under the terms of the federal wage and hour act.

The petition says that the redcaps are dependent upon tips for their pay, and that the terminal association since Oct. 24, 1938, had not paid wages to any of the ninety-three redcaps employed at the station. The wage hour act went into effect on the date mentioned.

It is contended that the redcaps should have been paid 25 cents an hour for the year starting Oct. 24, 1938, and 30 cents an hour for the year starting Oct. 23, 1939.

Charles M. Hay, acting as attorney for President George H. Harrison of the brotherhood, said the suit was filed under a recent decision of the interstate commerce commission that redcaps in a terminal railroad station come under the wage and hour act because they are employes of the railroads which make up the association.

HERE'S THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY CAKE

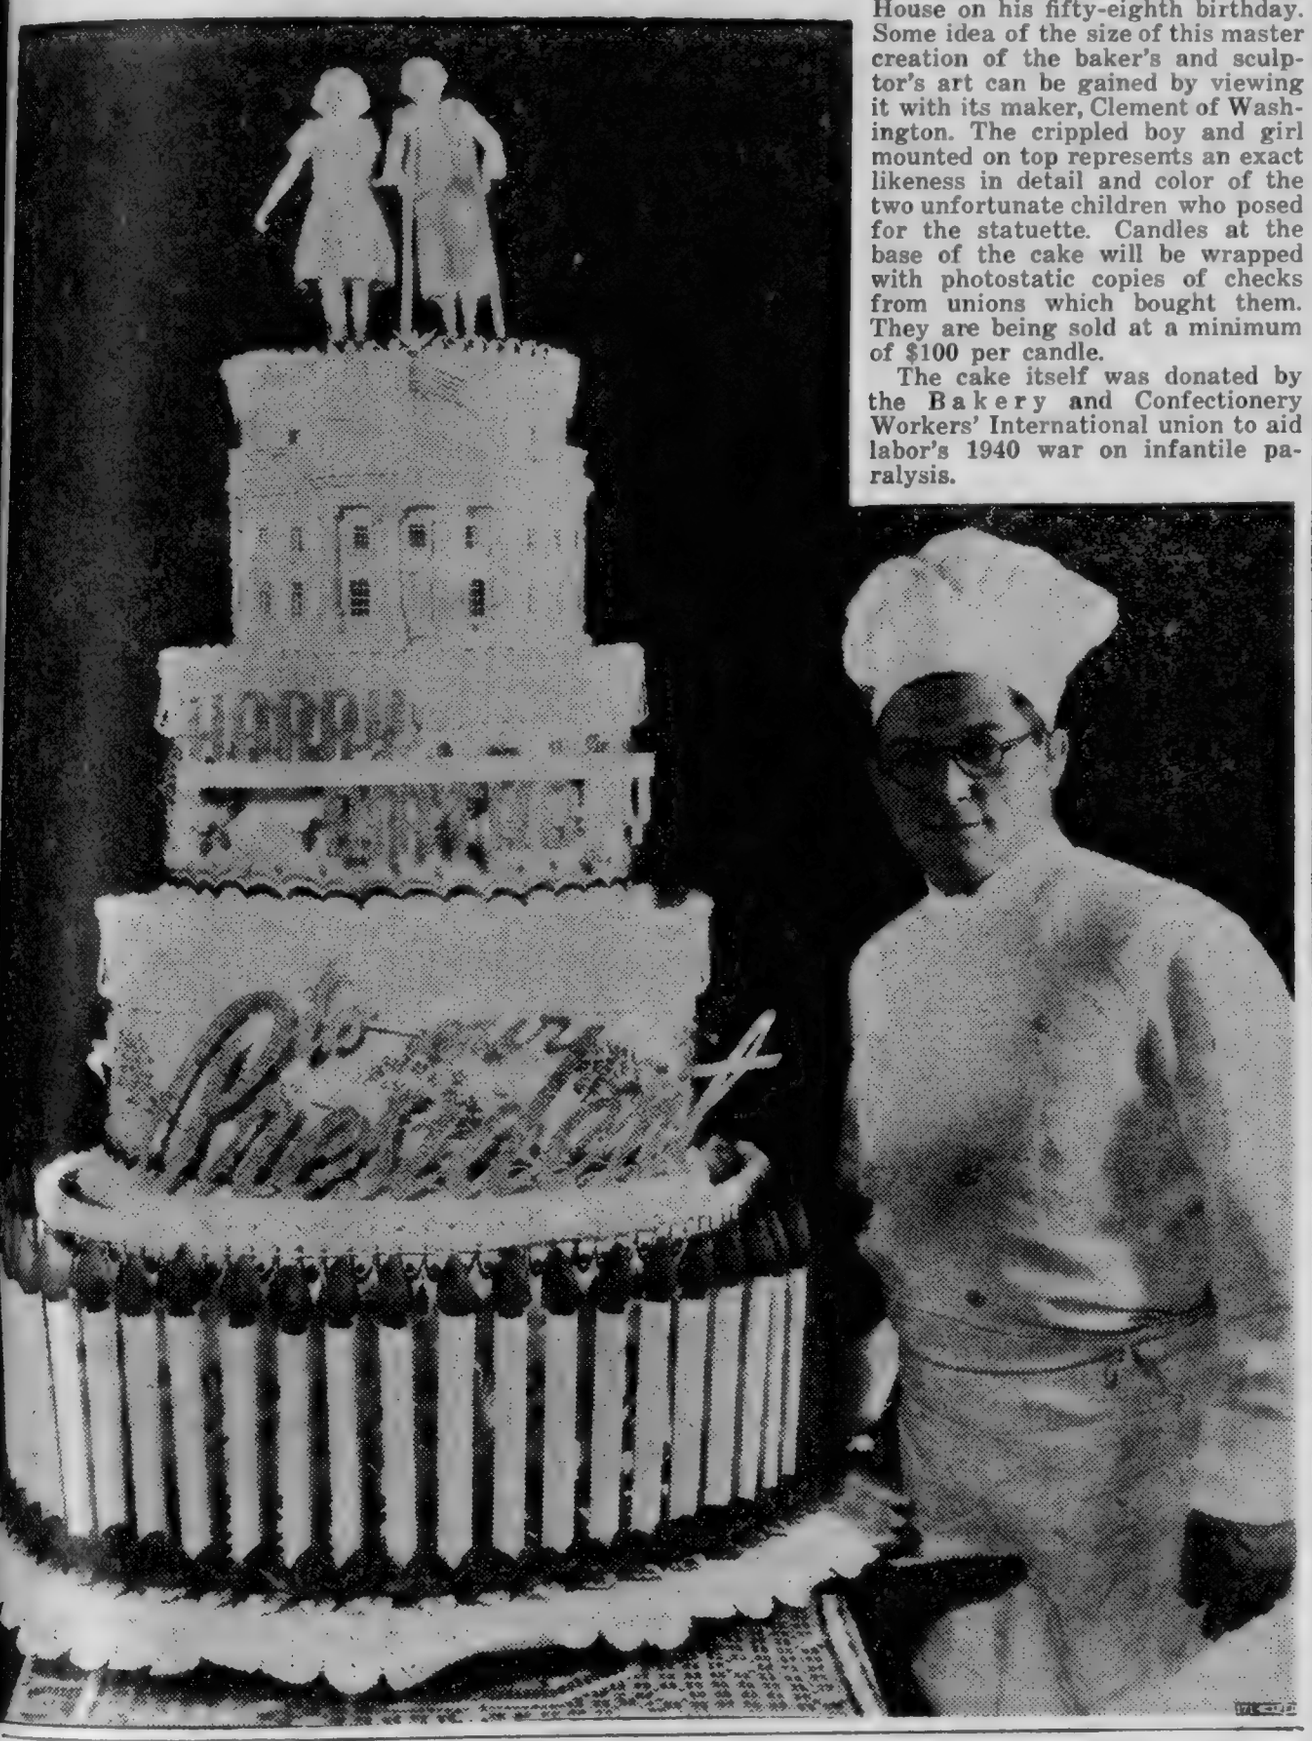

Photo of the giant birthday cake which organized labor is presenting to President Roosevelt at the White House on his fifty-eighth birthday. Some idea of the size of this master creation of the baker's and sculptor's art can be gained by viewing it with its maker, Clement of Washington. The crippled boy and girl mounted on top represents an exact likeness in detail and color of the two unfortunate children who posed for the statuette. Candles at the base of the cake will be wrapped with photostatic copies of checks from unions which bought them. They are being sold at a minimum of $100 per candle.

The cake itself was donated by the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union to aid labor's 1940 war on infantile paralysis.

DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ASKED BY CENTRAL BODY TO ABOLISH POLL TAX RECEIPTS IN PRIMARY

Delegates Call Attention to Fact That Previous Primaries Did Not Require Payment of Poll Tax.

Following up its regular and persistent attempts to abolish the poll tax as a requisite for voting, Central Body last Monday directed a request to the executive committee of the local democratic party to abolish the poll tax as a requisite in the coming primary. The resolution is to be given to each individual member of the committee as well as to every candidate announcing for the primary races.

Impetus to this move was initiated last week by Commissioners Cooke and McMillan, and Police Judge Martin Fleming, when they jointly sent a letter to the democratic executive board asking them likewise to not require a poll tax receipt.

The resolution adopted by Central Body says:

Whereas, organized labor has long favored the abolition of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting; and,

Whereas, the democratic party of Hamilton county will at an early date hold its primary election for certain county offices; and,

Whereas, it is within the power of the executive committee of the democratic party in this particular election to require or not require a poll tax receipt as a requirement for voting; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Chattanooga Central Labor union again go on record as opposing the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting and particularly in the coming primary election; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent by the secretary to each member of the Hamilton county democratic executive committee and to any announced or prospective candidates in this election; and, be it further

Resolved, That each delegate to this body bring this important matter to the attention of his local asking it to exert whatever influence its members may have to prohibit the invoking of the poll tax rule by this committee; and, be it further

Resolved, That this resolution be prominently published in The Labor World and in the local daily press.

Pipe Line Row Grows Hot As Unions Split Up

Railroads Against It and Central Labor Union Goes For It.

The application of the Gulf Oil interests for permission to lay a pipe line through Chattanooga has created a series of complications most unusual. Some say that if the amount of "gas" in the form of "facts, figures, statistics, charges and counter-charges" could be piped into the city there would be no need for any other form of heating material.

The dispute at first hand appears to be a battle royal between two powerful corporation interests, the railroad companies and the oil companies. The railroads do not want the pipe line because they are now hauling gasoline on tank cars. The oil company wants it because of the cheaper method of distribution. Both interests are working for the welfare of the people, according to their arguments.

Backing up the railroads are the rail unions, a powerful factor in the organized labor ranks. And backing the oil company are the building trades unions and the central labor unions. Both divisions of labor have indorsed their respective choices.

At the city commission meeting last Tuesday, when the measure was up for third and final reading, oratory rang and resounded. Mr. R. E. L. Cook, prominent the past few years as "defender of the taxpayers," appeared before the commission, saying that he had been totally disinterested in the whole fight.

About 20 minutes later he wound up a fervid denunciation of the pipe line.

Mr. Herman Ferger, real estate operator, spoke for the pipe line from a community viewpoint, although he denied Lawyer Cook's charge that the real estate deal involved might possibly influence Mr. Ferger's interest.

And for the first time citizens heard a lawyer call a real estate man "nonunion" in the business world when Lawyer Cook flayed Business Man Ferger for not being a member of the Chamber of Commerce. Some people are wondering of the chamber will not attempt to get a "closed shop" in the ranks of business.

And so it goes.

The city commission decided to postpone the final hearing until it can investigate for itself the undying loyalties of the St. Elmo residents for both groups of thought.

Liberty in itself is but the power of doing what we please.—Arthur Hugh Clough.

Linemen Local Says Most of Its Members at Work

Organizing Activities Indicate a Complete Membership in This Locality.

Local 846, Linemen, affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, is doing a fine job of organizing, according to Lee Spriggs, business representative. And better still, practically every member is working on a good job.

Brother Spriggs' predictions point toward a possible claim in the future by Local 846 of being the largest local union in this jurisdiction. The line boys are determined that every job in that line of business will be done under union conditions.

Announcement is also made of the next meeting to take place Thursday, Feb. 1, at the regular meeting hall on Main street. "Don't leave it all to the other fellow to do," said Spriggs. "Put your own shoulder to the wheel and see how light the load will be."

LINEMAN LOGAN LOSES WIFE

Mrs. M. W. Logan, wife of a good member of Linemen Local 846, died suddenly at her home near Soddy on Jan. 22. Brother Logan is receiving the sympathy of his membership, and the rest of the labor movement will join with them in sympathy.

Crosby Receives Cruel Blow When Car Burns Up

Elmer Crosby, executive board member of Central Labor union, had a bad stroke of luck last Wednesday night when a Red Bank garage burned up, destroying some dozen automobiles, among which was Elmer's chariot.

To make it worse, the copy for the Electrical Workers' column that Elmer conducts each week in The Labor World was also destroyed.

The car contained all of Crosby's electrical tools he uses in his work, and they were totally destroyed.

TFL Board to Meet After Big Atlanta Conference

President Gerald Foley announced this week that the executive board of the Tennessee Federation of Labor will be called together soon after the big Atlanta conference that has been set for March 2 and 3. The Atlanta conference has been called by George L. Googe, and will be attended by some five thousand delegates from all over the south.

President Foley said that it would be better to postpone the TFL board meeting until the general plans of the Atlanta conference have been crystallized.

Farmers' Union Asks Continued U. S. Aid For Agriculture

Washington. — M. W. Thatcher, St. Paul Minn., legislative chairman of the National Farmers' union, submitted to President Roosevelt demands of his organization for continued assistance to agriculture financed by "sound" new taxes.

Thatcher indorsed the administration's reciprocal trade treaties on the condition that necessary safeguards "be employed to protect parity prices for domestic agricultural products efficiently produced."

"The 1938 farm act is furnishing substantial assistance to agriculture," Thatcher said. "However, it fails to provide the objective for parity of income. Too, it does not cover many of the important agricultural commodities.

"Through further legislation, more effective use of the present act, together with certain sound tax impositions, congress can find ways and means to produce the revenue required to make the 1938 farm act fully effective.

"We are supporting the income certificate plan for wheat, cotton and rice, and such other commodities as may prove properly applicable to such protection. The certificate plan is the employment of an internal tax to cover the gap between the cash farm price and the declared fair price. Therefore, it is not a regressive sales tax, but rather a deficiency tax to establish a fair, stabilized price."

BUILDING WORKERS STRIKE

New Orleans.—Objecting to the employment of out-of-town carpenters, 150 men employed on the St. Thomas street housing project walked off the job. The contractors asserted that men were scarce and that they were compelled to hire anyone they could secure to complete their contract in time. After a conference the men were ordered back to work and local carpenters secured from other projects.

Pardons Seem in Order.

During a labor clash in the coal fields of southern Illinois a man was killed by a stray bullet. Six young men were convicted for the alleged crime and sentenced to prison, four for life and the other for forty years. Petitions for pardon have been presented Gov. Horner from both the United Mine Workers and the Progressive Mine Workers executive councils, as well as by hundreds of organizations and private citizens, without avail. If the unfair conviction and sentence of the five young men were intended as an "example" to warring factions in the coal fields six years ago, it would seem that the effect of the hurried trial and conviction would have by this time served its purpose.—Typographical Journal.

Federal Workers Unions in Capital Give Whole-Hearted Support to National Fight on "Polio"

Washington.—Unions in the ranks of the government's own employes in the nation's capital have taken to heart the cause of the President's birthday celebration, said A. F. of L. President William Green as he reviewed plans of the United States employe unions to participate in this year's infantile paralysis fund-raising drive. Mr. Green is chairman of the labor division of the committee for the celebration of the president's birthday.

A fine example of the whole-hearted co-operation and sympathy with which Uncle Sam's own workers are moving onto the field of battle in the great nation-wide health war against poliomyelitis, said Chairman Green, is a "pre-birthday president's ball" which Lodge No. 421 of the American Federation of Government Employes has scheduled for Jan. 20 at the internationally famous National Press club in Washington. This lodge is made up of employes of the federal power commission, one of the old established government departments of the nation's ctapital.

All Asked to Aid

Earl F. Sechrest, federal power commission employe and president of A. F. G. E. lodge No. 421, has sent out notices to all members of the local asking members to co-operate in making the pre-birthday ball dance a huge success.

For every two admission tickets sold 5 dimes will go towards the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis fund, Mr. Sechrest explained.

Lodge decided to held their dance in advance of the regularly scheduled birthday balls in order that they could have a full week's time after their celebration to distribute the birthday greeting cards which members of arganized labor are using this year to mail their individual contributions of dimes and dollars direct to the White House as union members felicitate President Roosevelt on his fifty-eighth birthday.

Other Unions Co-operate

American Federation of Government Employes members in other government departments, including lodges in the social security board and the securities and exchange commission, are co-operating with the power commission local and have enthusiastically indorsed the campaign among government workers.

Attractively designed collection boxes are being placed at strategic points in the various government departments. Differing from collection boxes being placed by other organizations co-operating in the infantile paralysis fund-raising drive, those set up by the A. F. G. E. are being identified as labor division boxes so that funds collected from them can be identified as labors' own contributions.

Circular Letter Distributed

A circular letter with Chairman William Green's open message to organized labor on one side and a personal appeal from Lodge President Earl Sechrest on the other is being distributed through all the co-operating government departments. It reads as follows:

Greetings:

1940's greatest opportunity has arrived!

A most genuine cause presents us with a challenge to unite spiritually as never before, for a reputation has been established of getting things done, to benefit all.

A. F. G. E. lodge No. 421 has been honored. In co-operation with the national committee, we are invited to sponsor a pre-birthday president's dance, so that infantile paralysis victims may walk again. Accordingly, on Saturday night, January 20, the spacious National Press club ballroom is assigned us.

This advance letter is to ask you personally to promise that you will give this event your moral lift and help put it over. Because of the remarkable co-operation already assured, each ticket will cost only 65 cents. Each employe could move at least two, for this $1.30 includes a commitment of 5 dimes to the president's birthday anniversary fund.

Keep this date (Saturday night, Jan. 20) open. Plan to bring your wife, husband and friends.

Dance so that others may walk.

Sincerely yours,
EARL F. SECHREST,
President.

Even as You and I.

"George," a character on the estate of Lord Harewood's father, was given a cordial invitation to "come and see us" if ever he came to London.

The old man came to London, and called on the family when they were at dinner. He was invited into the dining room and asked news of the farm.

"The sow has had a litter of pigs," he said, "and one o' t' little beggars sits up and watches t' others eatin' their meals, just t' same as I'm doin' now."

Herald-Examiner Printers Staunch In Support of Unions Fighting Guild's Drive for Domination

By JOSEPH A. WISE

Chicago.—Charles Wilfong has just been re-elected chairman of the composing room of the Chicago Herald-American, which is being boycotted by the C. I. O. American Newspaper guild. This is the third time, at six-month intervals, that Mr. Wilfong has been re-elected as chapel chairman since the American Newspaper guild inaugurated the fight by filing complaints against twenty-nine unions with the National Labor Relations Board in May, 1938.

Mr. Wilfong has not wavered an iota in his loyalty to the International Typographical union since the American Newspaper Guild began its vicious fight to supplant all of the printing trades unions in union control of daily newspapers all over the country.

Wilfong Loyally Supported

The members of the Herald-American chapel have loyally supported Mr. Wilfong at all times and have contributed money to a fund to assist in carrying on the A. F. of L. end of the fight under the direction of Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

I have been a member of the International Typographical union for a half century. This guild effort to capture control surpasses any other effort against the union, from any source, since the days of the notorious Printers' Protective fraternity. The members of that organization were frankly "rats." Culmination successfully of the current Communist-C. I. O. effort, through the American Newspaper guild, would prove just as destructive to the printing trades unions as would have been the success of the Printers' Protective fraternity.

Election Would End Affair

It is refreshing and encouraging to encounter and work with such staunch trade unionists as Charles Wilfong and the other members of the Chicago Herald-Examiner chapel.

And in saying this I do not mean to slight the trade unionists in the other departments who are loyally standing by their guns.

The whole affair can be brought to a conclusion in favor of the American Federation of Labor as soon as the National Labor Relations Board can be persuaded to hold an election to determine whom the employes want as bargaining agent.

President's Birthday Cake to Add Thousands to National Fund for Fighting Infantile Paralysis

Washington.—The giant 300-pound birthday cake being donated by the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union to the labor division of the committee for the celebration of the president's birthday has already grossed over $4,700 for the cause of infantile paralysis eradication, William Green, A. F. of L. head and chairman of the labor committee, announced at his offices here.

The huge cake is to be presented by organized labor to President Roosevelt at the White House as a token of the part labor is playing in the 1940 "polio" war.

Candles on the cake—fifty-eight of them—are being sold to international unions for a minimum of $100 each and will be wrapped with photostatic copies of the checks made out to organized labor's cake fund.

Girls to Make Presentation

The cake will be formally presented to President Roosevelt by the attractive daughters of the three leading officials of the Bakery Workers' union, Elinor Myrup, Marilou Winter and Elsie Schmidt.

Twenty-six unions and one local have already bought candles on the cake.

The Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union itself through its international secretary-treasurer, A. A. Myrup, in addition to furnishing the sculptured masterpiece of the baker's art today, paid $1,719 for one of the fifty-eight candles.

Other Recent Buyers

Among other recent candle purchasers within the past few days are the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, whose president, L. P. Lindelof, has sent in his union's check for $100; the Operative Plasterers' International Association of America and Canada, who, through its president, M. J. Colleran, purchased the twenty-second birthday candle for $100; the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, whose president, F. H. Fljozdal, has sent in his union's check for $100; the United Garment Workers of America, who through their general president, T. A. Rickert, paid $100 for the twenty-fourth birthday candle, and the International Association of Bridge, Srtuctural and Ornamental Iron Workers, whose check was received from its president, T. J. Morrin, buying the twenty-fifth candle on the cake.

Local Buys Candle

A check for $100 from the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, Arthur Huggins, president, came in the mail for the twenty-sixth candle on the cake.

David Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of New York Local 32-B of the Building Service Employes' International union, sent in a check for $100 to buy the twenty-seventh candle on behalf of his local. The international itself has already bought one of the candles.

Labor Giving Tangible Help

Said William Green in making known the latest list of contributors to the cake fund:

"We of organized labor know of no more appropriate way to show our extreme interest and sympathy with the cause represented by the president's birthday ball celebration than to present the chief executive of this great nation with a birthday cake, the handiwork and skill of American labor.

"We know of no better way to give concrete expression to our interest and sympathy than to contribute liberally to the fund science needs to combat crippling poliomyelitis and the broken hearts it leaves in its wake.

"For that reason, in addition to the more than 3,000,000 birthday greeting cards which organized labor is this year mailing direct to the White House with the dime and dollar contributions of its individual members, we have also decided to raise a cake fund to represent the contributions of international union treasuries entirely apart from individual membership contributions. We are raising this fund by means of fifty-eight candles on the cake which we are offering for sale to unions themselves at a minimum of $100 per candle, the combined fund so raised to represent labor's cake fund to the cause of infantile paralysis apart from the dimes and dollars birthday card contributions now pouring in to the White House.

Big Response to Date

"To date twenty-two great national and international unions have sent us their checks for twenty-two of the candles on the cake. I am sure there will not be enough candles to go around, such is the response so typical of organized labor."

Unions which have already contributed to the cake fund in addition to the three unions sending i their $100 checks today are:

Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, who bought the first candle; the Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, Glass Bottle Blowers' Association of the United States and Canada, Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance, Building Service Employes' International union, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, International Association of Machinists, Pattern Makers' League of North America, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, Retail Clerks' International Protective Association, United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International union, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the Metal Lathers' International union, the Seafarers' International Union of North America and the Cigar Makers' International union.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

TVA Has Close Shave

The appropriation for the next fiscal year of the TVA for $40,000,000 passed the house on last Thursday by a narrow margin. The TVA has made a budget request of $48,000,000. This was reduced by the appropriations committee of the house to $40,000,000. Assault after assault made by enemies of the TVA were beaten down on the floor of the house, but the vote was alarmingly close.

An amendment offered to eliminate the appropriation for Coulter Shoals dam was carried by a show of hands. The representatives friendly to the TVA called for a teller vote which means that those for and against the amendment are counted as they pass a teller selected by the speaker. The friendly representatives dashed hurriedly to the cloak room, restaurant, and other places where democratic representatives might be found and were finally able to win the tellers' vote by 112 to 109.

Jennings Makes Speech

Representative John Jennings, elected from the Second district on Dec. 30, 1939, made his maiden speech in support of the appropriation for Coulter Shoals dam to be constructed in his district. He pointed out forcefully that unless Coulter Shoals is built the object of the TVA in having a 9-foot channel from Knoxville to the mouth of the Tennessee river will be defeated. His talk was splendid but apparently it had little beneficial effect on the republican side of the house.

The close vote on the TVA appropriation indicates that many representatives are beginning to mistakingly consider the project as one only for the benefit of the region where it is located. This indicates that we people of the valley, and those connected with the TVA. must extend our efforts to sell the advantages of this great project to the nation as a whole.

Chickamauga Bridge Delayed

An amendment offered by your representative to appropriate $1,000,000 for the building of a bridge over the magnificent Chickamauga dam was defeated in the house. This action was not surprising as your representative had earnestly tried in a number of conferences to get the members of the authority to include an appropriation for the building of this bridge in the TVA's budget request. The authority felt that it had other projects that came foremost. Being unsuccessful in securing a recommendation from the TVA, an earnest effort was made to have the item included by the appropriations committee. The committee felt that it would do well to sustain the major portion of the TVA's request and as the bridge project was not sought this year by the TVA, no headway could be made with the appropriations committee. In view of the close vote on items agreed to by the TVA and the appropriations committee, and with opposition of the democratic members of the committee, the fight for the bridge on Thursday was an uphill pull. Representative Woodrum, chairman of the independent offices appropriation usb-committee, and other members, have indicated they would look favorably on an appropriation for a bridge next year if recommended by the TVA. Therefore, it appears that the groundwork for securing an appropriation for the greatly needed bridge has been laid.

TVA Tax Replacement Hearing Starts Tuesday

Representative May, chairman of the house military affairs committee, has set Tuesday, Jan. 23, as the date for the hearing on the Norris-Sparkman tax replacement bill, which is now pending in his committee. First to offer testimony will be Representative John Sparkman, of Alabama, co-sponsor of the bill. Following him will be Gov. Prentice Cooper, of Tennessee. Delegations from Polk, Marion and other counties are expected to appear and testify.

Your representative has discussed with many members of the military affairs committee, and others, the necessity of having tax replacement payments made direct to the counties or taxing districts suffering a tax loss. An agreement has virtually been reached on the proposition that replacement should be made direct to the taxing units or to the states. upon condition that they redistribute the amount received to the extent of fully replacing the lost ad valorem tax to the counties and other taxing districts.

The tax bill will probably have had hard sledding before the military affairs committee and in the house. This is true largely because Chairman May is an arch enemy of TVA and will probably take whatever action he thinks will most effectively embarrass the TVA program. Representative May comes from a coal mining district in eastern Kentucky. He feels that the authority's program is inimical to the coal interests he represents. Ironically, however, TVA has been responsible for a large increase in coal consumption in the valley region.

Senator Borah Passes

Senator William E. Borah, veteran senator, passed at the age of 74, on last Friday. "The Lion of Idaho," as he was usually called, had rendered active continuous service in the United States senate since 1907. The Capitol was saddened when news was received that he had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and was in a dying condition. He will be honored by a state funeral conducted in the Well of the senate.

Some people never agreed with Senator Borah's ideas and most people did not agree with him on all his policies, yet all join in paying tribute to his persistent and effective advocacy of the policies he felt this government should follow. He was indeed a great man; a national leader; and one whose international philosophy was studied and considered the world over. In private life he was friendly and kindly.

Young people can secure a lesson from the life of this great man. The lesson is that you do not have to be on the right or popular side to be great. Greatness comes from the intelligent and courageous advocacy of what one conscientiously thinks to be just and right.

Addition to Postoffice at Cleveland

The postmaster-general and chief of the procurement division have agreed to the erection of the $115,000 addition to the postoffice at Cleveland on Broad street, facing the courthouse, in Bradley county's progressive city. The construction will begin in June or July. This will be a beautiful and needed improvement.

Evictions Increasing, Sharecroppers Ask For Federal Aid

Washington.—Representatives of sharecroppers in six southern states told government officials that instances of evictions from their homes were increasing and asked for federal aid.

About twenty-five delegates conferred with agriculture department, federal housing, WPA and social security administration officials on a proposed program to rehabilitate sharecroppers.

The delegation, headed by Owen H. Whitfield, negro leader of the Southern Farm Tenants' union in Missouri, brought a petition signed by 20,000 sharecroppers seeking a four-point federal aid program. Delegates were from Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Alabama and Oklahoma.

High Wages Important

The expansion of consumption and investment also involves appropriate wage policy on the part of business. The broad market necessary for full employment require a high level of consumer purchasing power and it is important that wage incomes be as high as possible. If wage payments are deficient, the basic demand for the products of farm and factory is necessarily curtailed.—Harry L. Hopkins, Secretary of Commerce in annual report.

Building Service Workers Order 20,000 Cards

David Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of New York local 32B of the Building Service Employes' International union. The New York local alone ordered 20,000 president's birthday greeting cards to send their dimes and dollars to the president at the White House as labor raises a huge war chest to fight infantile paralysis.

Washington.—An order for 20,000 president's birthday greeting cards from one union local—New York local 32B of the Building Service Employes' International union—was received at labor division headquarters, William Green, chairman of the committee directing labor's part in this year's war against infantile paralysis, revealed.

The order came from David Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of Local 32B, who said:

"The executive officers of Local 32B have instructed me to write you in order to obtain 20,000 birthday greeting cards, which are self-addressed and ready for mailing to the president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, on his fifty-eighth birthday.

"It is the desire of this local to distribute as many of these cards as possible to help this worthy cause, the infantile paralysis fund.

The Building Service Employes' International union, through President George Scalise, was one of the early purchasers of a candle on the birthday cake donated by the Bakery Workers' union, which organized labor will present to the president at the White House on his birthday. The union paid $100 for one of the candles.

RECORD-BREAKING DEMAND FROM CENTRAL BODIES

Washington. — The response of central labor unions in all major cities of the nation is beyond my greatest expectations, said William Green, A. F. of L. president and chairman of the labor division of the committee for the celebration of the president's birthday.

Mr. Green made this comment here today as word of C. L. U. action in cities from coast to coast is setting up local committees to function in this year's war on infantile paralysis came to his attention.

"Labor division headquarters are being deluged with requests for president's birthday greeting cards from our local committees," said Chairman Green. "In many instances committees have been so successful in distributing the personalized messages bearing cards that they have had to reorder from us several times within the last month."

Mr. Green stated that well over 100 local birthday celebration committees have been set up in that many cities stretching across the nation.

"Labor's part in this year's infantile paralysis campaign has taken hold from the ground up," Mr. Green went on. "The best indication of how our efforts in this great humanitarian cause are being received is this response we are getting from the local committees, because from there it builds itself up to nation-wide proportions with participation assured by every member of organized labor in

Hatred in the Name of God

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

There has rarely been a time in our history when hatred was more rampant than it is to-day and it is tragic that much of this hatred is being promoted in the name of God. This is true not only in Germany and in certain other European countries but in the United States.

It is not surprising that the manifestation of hatred is found among ignorant men and women who are easily influenced by "rabble rousers" who cultivate publicity at street meetings and frequently by those who are receiving subsidies in the interests of hate. But when such groups foster their hatred under the banner of a so-called Christian Church and other organizations who urge their country to commit suicide by turning to the persecution which has made other lands desolate.

The average American does not believe that all organizations calling itself a Christian Church which promotes such a procedure should belong to God. It should be thought of as belonging to the devil.

It happens that the privilege of worshiping God according to the dictates of conscience is guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States. Perhaps no country in the world has ever had a more liberal provision for religious freedom than we have in this country. Why then should we permit any group to foster hatred in the name of God? Such a procedure should be made impossible by law. It would be unthinkable that any group should be permitted to foster hatred in the name of God in Russia, Germany or Italy. Why should we permit it in the United States?

Juvenile Delinquency Virtually Zero Among 40,000 Children Removed From Slums to Good Dwellings

Washington.—Good housing is a big factor in preventing juvenile delinquency, facts cited by the United States housing authority indicate.

While the juvenile delinquency rate in the slums of America is two to three times as high as in the better housed neighborhoods, it was virtually zero in 1939 among the 40,000 children of 25,000 low-income families removed from substandard homes by the United States housing authority slum-clearance and low-rent housing program, the USHA says.

Traffic accidents and police calls also were notable because of their absence.

Declaring this record convincing proof that slum clearance pays dividends in human as well as economic values, USHA Administrator Nathan Straus pointed out that freedom from juvenile delinquency and crime in general, as well as from traffic mishaps, has marked the operation of the sixty-one low-rent housing projects that have been tenanted in the USHA program.

61 Projects Tenanted

These tenanted projects include fourteen built with USHA aid by local housing authorities in nine cities, which were opened for occupancy in 1939 and forty-seven low-rent housing projects in thirty-four cities built by the PWA housing division and now owned by the USHA.

Following are typical reports received by the USHA from various sections of the country:

In Stamford, Conn., Fairfield Court, a 146-dwelling unit project, has been occupied since September, 1937, and there has been no delinquency among the several hundred children.

Judge Cites Miami Example

In Miami, Fla., the absence of juvenile delinquency in the Liberty Square project, which houses 243 negro families, was commented upon recently by Judge W. H. Berkman of the Miami Juvenile and Domestic Relations court. After a thorough check of his records, Judge Berkham said that not a single case of juvenile delinquency has reached his court from the Liberty Square project, which has been tenanted approximately three years. During that period, Berkham said, negro delinquency cases have continued to be heavy from other sections of Miami.

More than 400 children play daily at the Parkside low-rent housing project in Detroit, Mich., yet the first year of operation under the USHA program was concluded in 1939 with a record of no cases of juvenile delinquency, no police calls, no traffic accidents.

Two Other Examples

Likewise, in Washington, D. C., where 274 negro families removed from substandard housing have dwelt in the Langston project for approximately two years, the record is clear. There have been no cases of juvenile delinquency, no police calls and no fires.

Typical of conditions in similar projects in the midwest is Summer Field Homes in Minneapolis, Minn. There are about 800 children among the 464 families. The first year of its occupancy was ended last December with a record of no juvenile delinquency, no police calls, no traffic accidents, no fires.

In contrast with this record for the USHA program, Administrator Straus cited data showing that areas of high delinquency rates are almost always areas of bad housing.

National Advisory Council Asked To Deal With Unemployment, Held "Most Grievous National Problem"

Washington.—Creation of a national advisory council to co-ordinate efforts of government, industry and agriculture for dealing with the unemployment problem is asked by the American Federation of Labor in its legislative program for 1940, made public following a meeting of the A. F. of L. legislative committee here.

The legislative committee met to formulate a congressional drive to put into effect legislative recommendations adopted at the last national convention of the federation.

"Unemployment remains our most grievous national problem," the committe said.

"We recommend that congress create a national advisory council on which labor, farmers and consumers should be represented, as well as government and industry, in order to bring about such co-ordination."

Major features of the legislative program follow:

1. Peace with the world; money for national defense.

Full-Time Manager For Unions in N. Y. Catering Industry

New York City.—A new full-time executive position was created as part of an intensified organization drive in the catering industry at a meeting of the New Yorrk local joint executive board, and William Mesevich, hitherto president of the board, was elected to fill the ful-time post of manager.

The local joint executive board is affiliated with the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America, A. F. of L. The board represents fourteen local unions, with a membership of 45,000.

Mesevich, who is also president of Cafeteria Employes' union, local 302, announced that one of the first acts he would undertake is to make a comprehensive survey of the catering industry in New York, including the number of hotels, restaurants and other food-serving establishments, the number of workers employed in this field and the wages prevailing in the as yet unorganized establishments.

Miguel Garriga, international vice-president of the union in this district, for the past few weeks acted as manager of the board, but it was decided that successfully to carry on organization at this time a manager was needed who could devote his entire time to the board's work.

America's Stake

In civilization, America has a mighty stake. Amidst the confusion and groping, the turmoil and fury, it is ours to hold fast to the gains of the centuries. Ours to preserve man's passion for democracy. Avoid the conflict, we will, if possible. In the end, liberty may remain only here. Again ours may be the task of keeping this precious flame lighted to restore a torn and bleeding world when the forces of destruction are spent—to help all mankind again to find the path which leads to peace and freedom. No nation could have a nobler destiny.—Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator.

Just One Purpose

Social security has just one purpose—protection of workers. It is not properly a method of correcting the evils of our economic system or for redistribution of wealth. Those who advocate old-age pensions which will draw upon national wealth to provide rates in excess of our ability to save, are only seeking to build up their own political power by jeopardizing the security of workers. Real security for workers can only rest on sound plans. Anyone who for personal advantages builds up a following for big promises which cannot be carried through is a dangerous leader and in effect an enemy of labor.—American Federationist.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

We still hope and are pulling for the Gulf Refining company to be granted their franchise to bring their pipelines through St. Elmo into Chattanooga. Certainly there should be none who would want our city to not receive the benefits this company can offer in the way of employment and none who would rather pay a higher price for gasoline than we would pay if this company brings its terminal here. We have every reason to believe that, at the final reading of the resolution before the commission, the Gulf Refining company will be granted its franchise.

— HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR —

There will be another mass meeting at the St. Elmo school auditorium next Monday night in behalf of the Gulf Refining company bringing their pipelines through St. Elmo. Anyone interested in this is invited to attend this meeting at 7:30 in the evening.

War Gives New Orleans Longshoremen Steady Work at More Pay

New Orleans.—Longshoremen on the local docks are now receiving $1 an hour, an advance of 5 cents from the scale of a year ago. The new scale just signed gives the A. F. of L. unions a practical monopoly on the longshoremen's situation in New Orleans, with the C. I. O. holding only one contract, that with the Morgan line. The war in Europe has resulted in a heavy freight movement from New Orleans and longshoremen have had almost steady work, with many of the men receiving from $40 to $60 a week, it is said. An average of 3,000 men are employed.

No Limits to Use Of Electricity, Says REA Head

Washington.—No limit can presently be set to the use of electricity on American farms, Harry Slattery, administrator of the rural electrification administration, declares in the January issue of the Rural Electrification News.

On many farms electricity is already paying its own way and opening new sources of income, Slattery points out.

In an article on "maximum service- addressed to the REA-financed co-operatives and other rural service organizations financed by REA, Slattery says in part:

"Certainly there is no limit we can now set to the number of kilowatt hours a farmer may use in a month. I doubt if there is a single family in America in average circumstances that uses all the electricity it could. New uses are constantly coming to light."

The Greatest Miracle.

"Isn't it wonderful the things that can be made from ordinary beef bones — piano keys, teeth, knife and fork handles, and so on."

AFT President Says Democratic Training Is Vital in Schools

County School Board Chairman Pledges Cooperation With Aims of Teachers' Union.

One of the important sidelights of the successful Chattanooga-Hamilton County Teachers' Federation banquet last Wednesday night was the heartening statement by School Board Chairman Brown that he would extend his cooperation toward the high ideals of the local teachers' union. The occasion was caused by the visit of Dr. George S. Counts, president of the American Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. Dr. Counts gave an intelligent discourse at a banquet in his honor, in which he declared that one of the most important needs of our form of government is the democratic instruction of our American children in our public schools.

Dr. Counts, a native of Kansas, graduate of Baker university and author of a number of works, said in part:

"The successful operation of any social system tends to cultivate a certain mentality in its people. That a democratic society requires certain habits, dispositions and loyalties in its citizens is clearly revealed in the strategy and tactics of the fascist movement. Wherever this movement appears it proceeds at once to the systematic destruction of those mental traits on which democracy relies. It is argued here that the American public school, through the organization of its life, should proceed deliberately to foster and strengthen these traits—to incorporate into the behavior of the rising generation the great pattern of democratic living.

"As a very minimum it should strive with all the resources at its disposal to develop in the individual a feeling of competence and adequacy; an allegiance to the central democratic principle of human equality, brotherhood, dignity and worth; a loyalty to the democratic process of free discussion, criticism and group decision; a mentality marked by fair-mindedness, integrity and scientific spirit; a respect for and an appreciation of talent, training and character; a sense of the fundamental social obligation of labor, and an enlightened devotion to the common good.

Names First Obligation.

"The development in the individual of a feeling of competence and adequacy is the first obligation of democratic education. This is due to the fact that democracy, because of its very nature, must gauge its success in terms of human personality, in terms of the free men and women it produces. The school has a double responsibility here. On the one hand, it should wage relentless warfare on those social conditions which today dwarf the souls and bodies of millions of children and rob them of their democratic birthrights. On the other hand, it should proceed positively to order its life so that it may assist every child to grow to his full physical, intellectual and moral stature.

"Lastly, the school should seek to promote an enlightened devotion to the common good. Everything possible should be done in the school to moderate the egotistic tendencies and strengthen the social and co-operative impulses in the rising generation. The thing needed is the teaching of patriotism in its most enlightened and humane form—the rearing of a generation eager to serve community, nation and mankind in times of peace—able, fearless and incorruptible."

The speaker was introduced by Stanton Smith, vice-president of the American Federation of Teachers, Local 246. Willard Millsaps, president of the local unit, was toastmaster.

Members of the Mountain City Teachers Federation, Local 428, heard Dr. George S. Counts, national president of the Federation of Teachers, at a meeting yesterday at 4:30 p.m. in the Knights of Pythias.

Dr. Counts, who spoke on "Education for Democracy," was heard by forty members of the local colored union. Prof. Clarence Robinson presided in the absence of Prof. B. T. Scruggs, who is president of the local union.

AFL STATE UNITS TOLD TO DROP TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION LOCALS

International Typographical Union Refused to Pay Assessments Legally Levied, Executive Council Declares.

Miami, Fla.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at the first session of its regular midwinter meeting here, ordered its 49 state federations of labor and over 800 city central bodies to disassociate themselves from the International Typographical union because of that organization's refusal for the past three years to pay an assessment legally levied by the federation.

The 1937 convention of the federation voted unanimously in favor of the assessment of 1 cent per month per member. The 1938 and 1939 conventions continued the assessment.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., in announcing the action of the Executive Council, said the International Typographical union owes the federation about $24,000 in back assessments. "The American Federation of Labor has tried to deal with the situation in a generous, patient and broad-minded way," he said. "The International Typographical union is the only union in the ranks of the federation that has failed to pay the assessment. We regret this situation exceedingly."

State Federation Officials Make Conference Plans

Atlanta, Ga.—Meetings in the southern headquarters of the American Federation of Labor last Saturday, a group of state federations of labor from all states in the south made final plans for the Southern Labor Conference to be held here March 2 and 3. Among the officials here last Saturday were the following:

C. A. Fink, president, and H. G. Fisher, secretary, North Carolina State Federation of Labor.

S. E. Roper, president, and W. O. Hare, secretary, Alabama State Federation of Labor.

Charles E. Silva, president of the Florida State Federation of Labor, and J. L. Rhodes, A. F. of L. organizer in Florida.

Fred E. Hatchell, secretary-treasurer South Carolina State Federation of Labor.

T. R. Cuthbert, secretary-treasurer, Tennessee Federation of Labor.

O. C. Moore, president, and E. J. Shave, secretary, Virginia State Federation of Labor.

Rufus Johnson, secretary-treasurer, Georgia Federation of Labor.

Because of engagements which made it impossible for the federation officials of Louisiana and Mississippi to attend the meeting, those federations sent resolutions of regret and pledged full cooperation in the conference.

Meeting with the above officials and aiding in preparation of the conference program were Albert Gossett, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the Atlanta Federation of Trades; Dr. Miller, Jr., director of Workers' Education Bureau, New York City; George L. Googe, southern repreresentative the American Federation of Labor, and James F. Barrett, director of publicity in the south for the American Federation of Labor.

The federation officials were enthusiastic in reporting the great interest being manifested in the coming Southern Labor Conferference. Reports were made that in some sections the trades unionists have already chartered buses to bring groups to the conference. Hotels in Atlanta report that many reservations have already

Every Unionist Should Pay Poll Tax Immediately

TEACHER TALK

Speaking at the banquet held in his honor at the Hotel Patten ballroom Wednesday evening, Dr. George S. Counts, national president of the American Federation of Teachers, brilliantly developed the theme of education for democracy—a major goal of the federation—before an appreciative audience that included besides many of our own members several of our labor friends.

Dr. Counts, a professor of sociology in Columbia university, spoke of the paradox that he said had always impressed him: that mankind, having won liberty and the right to participate in making decisions affecting himself, should through lack of understanding lose the just powers he had gained. Only through education that will emphasize the individual's responsibility can a democracy endure, he said.

Quotations from a book written by a Massachusetts farmer and Revolutionary war soldier in 1798, but published only in 1922 when discovered by Prof. Morison of Harvard, proved the highlight of the evening, for Dr. Counts drew "then and now" inferences from the quaint but downright expressions of the honest early American.

Among our labor friends present we noticed Editor and Mrs. Cuthbert, A. C. Kamin, our fellow Labor World columnist, Harry Bedoit and his wife, and both Paul and Roy Reynolds.

The chairman of the county school board, John P. Brown, was there, as were Supt. W. T. Robinson of the city system and Prof. Paul Palmer of the University of Chattanooga.

Later in the evening Dr. Counts met in the federation offices with members of the executive committee, where he expressed satisfaction with the progress that is being made by the Chattanooga-Hamilton county local.

A. F. of L. to Furnish Unions Reports For Use in Wage Negotiations

Washington.—The American Federation of Labor is discontinuing its collection of trade-union unemployment figures because government employment reports now provide a better basis for estimating unemployment.

The federation began its reporting of trade-union unemployment twelve years ago. More than 2,500 unions co-operated. The facts served to keep the public aware of the country's unemployment problem. Much has been done since to alleviate unemployment—social security laws, wage-hour laws, direct aid to the needy, an employment service, etc.

The A. F. of L. figures on unemployment were a constant challenge to statisticians, both public and private, until the department of Labor finally got appropriations enough to do an adequate job of fact-finding. During the last few years the value of the A. F. of L. unemployment reports has been thoroughly recognized.

The A. F. of L. monthly survey of business will be continued and will carry a report of unemployment based on government f... which will be even more c...

The Call to Labor

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

When the last chapter of the ...ary has been written, it will be ...ound that the chief glory of the ...or movement was not in what ...s leaders gained for themselves ...t for those who lived during ...eir own generation, but in what ...ey secured for those who fol...owed. The honor list of the men ...o fought powerful forces which ...posed the masses of the people ...their struggle to secure justice ...a long one, and this list includes ...any who fought in lowly places, ...ose recognition often came in ...e form of jail sentences, fines or ...er penalties. Many gave even ...r itself, so that others might ...ve.

Such should be numbered with ...e heroes of an earlier day who struggled, not receiving the promise, but seeing in faith the dawning of the day when their dreams should become a reality; they were stoned, mobbed, living in exile in caves and dens of the earth, wandering about in deserts and mountains, clothed in sheepskins and goatskins.

Sometimes whole races have paid this penalty, but others have shared in the life and freedom for which they fought. For such cases we need not search the pages of history. Even now a struggle is going on in various parts of the world which at some future day will be presented in tableaux form in order to vivify the terror of men, women and children, who are being persecuted because of their race, their religion, or because they will not bow the knee to tyrants who have the power of life or death in their hands, and who are brutally exercising that power in spite of the protest of the democratic nations of the world.

In this struggle there is no greater force than the power of labor when once this power is exercised. Labor has to its credit great victories in behalf of stricken humanity. No tyrant—whatever his title or position, whatever the number of his battleships or the size of his army—can withstand its wrath and indignation.

It is to the emancipation of these stricken people that organized labor is now called to give its support. Others have tried by resolution to accomplish this task, but seem to have failed. Labor, united in a common purpose, has a power which no other force can command.

Its pressure will be economic—not military—although its attitude will be militant. Its methods will be peaceful—not warlike—but its temper will be that of a crusader. Its spirit will be victorious, because it will be going forth in the name of the Lord of Hosts, and in the power of His might.

LIVES OF 8,000 UNION MEMBERS INSURED FOR $4,000,000 BY ELECTRICAL WORKERS

Cost of Each $500 Policy Issued to Members of New York Local Is Included in Union Dues.

New York, N. Y.—Nearly 8,000 life insurance policies totaling $4,000,000 have been mailed out to Class "B" members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 3, according to an announcement made by Harry Van Arsdale, Jr., business manager of the union. Each policy provides a $500 death benefit for the dependents of deceased members. The cost of carrying the new insurance is included in the Class "B" union dues, which is $2.00 monthly.

The insurance is carried by the newly organized Electrical Workers Local No. 3 Benefit society. The society, its constitution states, "is organized for the mutual protection of its members and their dependents; and to promote the cultural and fraternal interests of the membership."

Mr. Van Arsdale pointed out that the granting of this insurance to Class "B" members brings the total death benefits carried by the union up to $25,000,000. At present, he said, about 6,500 Class "A" members, consisting mostly of electrical construction workers, carry $3,000 each in death benefits, while 1,500 miscellaneous members are covered by $1,000 policies.

Southern Conference for Human Welfare's Constitutional Rights

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."—Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

We commend the Memorial auditorium board for allowing the Southern Conference for Human Welfare to have the use of the auditorium for its sessions. The Conference had offered to pay all the usual charges pertaining to the use of the auditorium. It did not even ask for a "cut."

Usually the granting of such a request would not cause much comment, except for the fact that certain well-meaning guardians of the community's "safety" had appeared before the auditorium board and asked that the auditorium board deny the use of the hall to the Conference.

The Conference, these guardians asserted, might be leaning toward communism. At the best, it might be a little "leftist." It might even go so far as to allow negroes to enjoy freedom of assembly along with our white citizens. Although such "reds" as the wife of the President of the United States and a Supreme Court Justice met with, mingled with, and spoke to this same Conference in Birmingham last year, our Chattanooga guardians insisted that the auditorium must be closed to such influences, notwithstanding the fact that these same guardians now enjoy unusual privileges not participated in by others.

We do not belong to the Conference. We do not believe that it is communist. It might develop that what the Conference will enunciate at the forthcoming meeting will receive our whole-hearted disapproval. However, we contend that the Conference must have its right protected to express its views. If it can be squelched in the right of self-expression, who knows but the day might come when the Central Labor union itself might be disposed of in the same manner?

The Labor World files of 1917 show that at that time a speaker representing the woman suffrage movement attempted to speak in Chattanooga. She was a militant suffragette. She was unable to secure a meeting place to express her views. Central Body offered her its hall, not because of an approval of her views, necessarily, but it simply wanted to protect the right of peaceable assembly and freedom of speech.

The lady did speak before a small crowd. The size of the crowd was immaterial. She did speak her piece and an American's constitutional right was preserved by Central Labor union.

While we abhor communism, we remember that Earl Browder was allowed to speak in Chattanooga. He was entitled to that right. We attended his speaking. The small auditorium was filled. He told the audience his beliefs. In the election in which he was a candidate, he received fourteen votes in Chattanooga.

Intelligent people certainly should not fear to hear the other fellow's views. After listening to Browder, we were able to more intelligently analyze our opposition to him. We feel that our mind is strong enough to be exposed to all viewpoints. And we feel that we have enough sense to come to a decision without the help of self-constituted leaders of a very fine local organization.

As long as this country upholds and observes the Americal Bill of Rights, we shall be safe from communism, fascism and all other "isms". We must keep to that road and never allow any inviting detours to lure us from it.

A.F.L. EDITORIAL WORKERS' UNION IN NEW PACT WITH HERALD-EXAMINER

By JOSEPH A WISE

Chicago.—The Chicago Editorial association has just completed negotiation of a new wage agreement with the Chicago Herald-American, Hearst daily newspaper, which is being boycotted by the American Newspaper guild and its communist allies.

Boiled down to its simplest terms, the new wage agreement provides for a maximum of $60 a week for rewrite men, plus 10 per cent additional for five years' service, to $20 a week for copy boys (apprentices). Pay for copy readers is $55 a week, plus 10 per cent after five years' service. Reporters, artists and photographers are to receive $50 a week, plus 10 per cent after five years.

The scale provides for a five-day week of 40 hours. Severance pay up to 28 weeks after 14 years of service is provided for. For example, if a man receiving $50 a week should be separated from his job after one year of service or major fraction thereof he would receive $100 to keep him going until he could get another job. This rule applies up to 14 years of service.

The members of the Chicago Editorial association, who have a charter from the American Federation of Labor, refuse to have anything to do with the American Newspaper Guild because it is known in Chicago that the guild is merely a front organization or "transmission belt" for the communist party.

Quite True.

An old Scot weather prophet at Whittinghame informed the then Mr. Balfour that "It's gaun to rain 72 days, sir."

"Come, come!" said the statesman. "Surely the world was entirely flooded in 40 days?"

"Aye," was the response, "but the world wasn' sae well drained as it is noo."

Labor and Social Welfare Measures On States' Legislative Calendars

Chicago—Changes in unemployment compensation and other social welfare laws, and provisions for labor and education are among measures scheduled for attention in the eight states legislatures which convene in regular session this year, reports from the states to the council of state governments indicate. New or increased taxes are not generally anticipated.

States with regular sessions of their legislatures are Kentucky, Mississippi, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, South Carolina, Virginia and Louisiana.

The year may also see a number of special sessions, the council said, in view of the changes made by congress granting expansion of social security aid to the states. These amendments, expanding federal aid to dependent children, for old-age assistance and the needy blind, were approved after many of the forty-four regular sessions of 1939 had adjourned.

Labor measures will be discussed in several states. A proposal for establishing a state labor department is reported from Mississippi. South Carolina is expected to revive last year's measure to consolidate the labor department with the industrial commission and the unemployment compensation commission. Virginia may consider a labor relations bill which would require labor and management to lay disputes before a part-time board of conciliation before calling a strike or lockout. California will probably discuss a state labor relations agency in a special session.

What may happen if a factory worker exposed to eye injuries leaves of his safety glasses is dramatized by the American Optical Company, Southbridge, Mass. Plant directors are given little boxes, to be shown to workers, which contain a message, "Would you swap one of yours for this?" Within: A glass eye.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Dies Committee Continued

The house of representatives, by a vote of 345 to 21, decided to continue the Dies committee, for the investigation of un-American activities, during this year.

The feeling of a great majority of the representatives, both democrats and republicans, was that the work of the committee, in turning the searchlight of publicity on un-American and subversive activities under whatever "ism" or label the activity may have been carried on, was wholesome and should be continued. Considerable comment has been made that of the hearings had not been fairly conducted and statements contained in some of the reports of the committee were not factually correct and evidenced a lack of thorough investigation. The members of the committee told the house of representatives that the work of the committee would be carried on so that these objections could not, with justification, be made in the future.

TVA Tax Hearing

Perhaps the most paramount issue to the people and taxpayers of the Tennessee valley, and especialy the Third district of Tennessee, came to the fore last week when hearings were commenced before the military affairs committee of the house of representatives on the matter of replacing taxes lost by virtue of the TVA development.

Several bills are before the military affairs committee for consideration. The principal one is the Norris-Sparkman bill, which operates for payment by the TVA tax replacement purposes of 10 per cent of the gross income from the sale of electricity during 1940. The percentage decreases yearly until it returns to 5 per cent in 1948. There is a provision that retention payment should be of sufficient amount to replace all ad valorem taxes to the countries and states for property taken for power purposes. The sponsors of the bill and the representatives of the TVA have agreed to an amendment to authorize payment of ad valorem taxes direct to the counties with the balance, derived from the formula provided in the bill payable to the state.

First to testify before the committee was Gov. Prentice Cooper, who asked for replacement of at least 50 per cent of the state's business taxes derived from private utilities in addition to the ad valorem tax loss to the counties and state.

Harry J. Schaffer, county attorney for Polk county, gave the calculations for that county, and Sam Pope Raulston, county attorney for Marion county, testified as to the extent of the tax loss for his county. They both showed in unmistakable terms that county tax losses must be replaced or else many counties will be forced to default in payment of their obligations and cannot carry on necessary county functions.

It was pointed out by W. C. Fitts, general counsel for the TVA, that the Authority adds 12½ per cent to its wholesale rate to take care of the tax losses. This addition to the rate is being paid by the electrical users in the Valley and he testified that in fairness a portion should be returned in order to enable the units of government to carry on their necessary functions.

It is recognized that proponents of the tax replacement are facing a hard fight before the house military affairs committee and that the going will not be easy before the house of representatives. Representatives favoring adequate tax replacement are energetically organizing all friendly forces to secure passage of the best bill possible under the circumstances.

County officials and interested citizens in the district are cooperating to the fullest extent; numerous letters and telegrams have been received by congressmen and members of the military affairs committee. Your representative urges that this expression of interest be strenuously continued.

Others who have been in Washington for several days in the interest of the tax replacement bill were Judge Floyd Knight, of Rhea county, who is chairman of the Third district committee of county judges, organized in November at Dayton; former Sheriff Birch E. Biggs; Hoyt Lillard, and L. H. Park, of Polk county; A. A. Cooke, of Marion county, and Lon MacFarland, attorney for the railway and public utilities commission, and W. D. (Pete) Hudson, member of the commission.

Trade Agreement With Japan

Shall the trade agreement which expired this week with Japan be renewed? This was one of the chief matters for discussion among senators and congressmen during the week. The United States has been furnishing Japan with a large portion of its war materials, such as scrap iron and oil. The prevailing sentiment is that the agreement should not be renewed or at least that no further shipment of munitions or materials for carrying on the war against China should be made. It is recognized that disruption of the trade agreement will have far-reaching and perhaps unforeseen effects. The state department has a difficult task in solving this problem.

I have enjoyed the snow—it makes such beautiful scenery. Of course, the gas stations have enjoyed it as it takes more gas to get over the snow. ButI feel sorry for the folks who were not ready for this kind of weather.

This writer wishes to thank the brother-members of Local 175 for the help they so generously gave to me this week, after the loss of my car and my tools. It showed the real spirit of unionism, and I am grateful.

Labor Relations Course Offered by University

GLASSBLOWERS
Local 156

We are glad to see the following members who have been on the sick list back at work: T. O. Rogers and Sam Prescott. If our information is correct, this still leaves Bill Bell, Jeff Carden, Raymond Patterson and Ott Curtis on the list. Hurry back, boys, we need you.

* * *

There is quite a lengthy story about operator Willard, who is on his first trip away from home. He is in Indiana. We are informed by one of the gang who worked with him that they arrived with a boxing glove on one foot and a rubber boot on the other. When he was kidded about it, he said: "Never mind, I'll be in the money some day." As a few days rolled on, he presented himself at a local meeting and said, "Y'all think that I never will get city-broke. I know the mystery. Y'all wear shoes all the time, don't you?"

We had been at a loss to explain why some of the water boys were running around the plant without caps or hats on. On making inquiries, another mystery unfolds. Herman Cope, Jr., claims that wearing a hat caused him to have headaches. But his headache only started after a recent trip to a well-known beauty salon on Ringgold road.

Earl Nave took the matter up with Herman, Sr., and was told that Junior had showed quite an improvement after the trip. Snookums Dutto is trying his best to find out just exactly where the aforesaid shop is.

We advise Pap Mutt to beware lest Snookum goes modern. First it was perfumed handkerchiefs and next wrist watches, and now it is a permanent wave.

I'm asking you, "Are the glass workers going sort?"

It seems that the stork hasn't just flown over the glass factory—we think it has come to stay. Mr. and Mrs. Bordy Chambers have a boy, Billy Joe, born Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Worley have a boy, born Sunday. We haven't heard its name yet.

* * *

We have had a visitor with us, W. H. (Bill) Warren, executive officer, from Canada. Mrs. Warren made a very interesting talk at a joint meeting of No. 92 and 156 Sunday afternoon.

D. C. Typos Honor 125th Anniversary

Banquet in Nation's Capital Attended by Seven Hundred.

Washington, D. C.—The banquet given at the Willard hotel here by Columbia Typographical Union No. 101 on Jan. 6 in celebration of its 125th anniversary was attended by over seven hundred persons, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who in a brief talk credited the International Typographical union with having set an example for the government's social security program.

In addition to Mrs. Roosevelt, the speakers included Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; Augustus E. Giegengack, public printer; Clarence J. Desper, president of Columbia Typographical union; James I. Crockett, union secretary; Fleming Newbold, business manager of the Washington Star; Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post; Claude M. Baker, president of the International Typographical union; Woodruff Randolph, secretary-treasurer of the I. T. U.; John B. Colpoys, editor of the Washington (D. C.) Trades Unionist and United States marshal of the District of Columbia, and Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer emeritus of the American Federation of Labor, who gave the anniversary toast as follows:

"Here's to a future anniversary. Then, may we all, in retrospect, view another era of human advancement — advancement for the benefit of the individual printer, this to be achieved by solidarity of purpose, unity in thought, unity of action, unity toward a common goal to build a strong and powerful organization of printers."

Charles J. Warren was toastmaster; George G. Seibold, former union secretary, gave the invocation, and Miss Frances Thatch sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Among the other guests were Charles McLaughlin, assistant secretary of labor; Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau of the labor department; Mary La Dame, special assistant to the secretary of labor; Dr. John R. Steelman, head of the conciliation service of the labor department; Harry B. Mitchell, president of the civil service commission; Samuel J. Gompers, son of the late long-time labor leader and chief clerk in the office of the labor secretary; John B. Dickman, Sr., past president of the Columbia Typographical union; Francis G. Barrett, first vice-president, and John J. Conley, second vice-president of the I. T. U.; John Locher, president of the Central Labor union; Miss Mary Brian, stage and screen actress, and Mrs. Nellie V. Wilson, holder of a printer's card for more than 50 years.

Court Stays NLRB Order

Philadelphia.—The Third U. S. circuit court of appeals stayed enforcement of a NLR Border on the Republic Steel corporation to disband so-called company unions, reinstate 5,000 employes and reimburse them for lost pay. The delay was granted to enable Republic to appeal to the U. S. supreme court.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

SS Money for Wives

Wives, children and parents will benefit from the federal old age insurance system which goes into effect in 1940. Aged wives of insured workers, many of them 65 or over, will get special boons. They will start getting checks one-half the size of their husband's. The first batch from the social security board will go into the mails about Feb. 1.

If you are a wife, 65 or older, figure the check you will get by dividing the size of your husband's by two. But you must be 65 before you get your own check.

Here is an example:

Harry Smith, now 65, retires in 1940 from his job in a mill and qualifies for old-age insurance. His wife, Emma, is 62. This means Emma must wait three years before her payment starts. If Harry's benefit is $30 a month, she will then receive $15 a month. Both payments will go on the rest of their lives.

Each dependent child under 16—or under 18 if attending school—is entitled, like a wife, to a benefit equal to one-half the father's annuity.

It is altogether possible for the family of one retired living worker, thus, to get three kinds of monthly checks—one for the husband, one for the wife, and one for a dependent child or dependent children.

Warped Phonograph Records

Warped phonograph records may be restored by subjecting them to gentle heat. Place them on top of a warm (not hot) radiator, supporting them on a flat surface of some kind. When they have been softened, a fairly heavy book will straighten out their bulges.

Here's to Glamour

Flash . . . The new Don Juan lipstick costing $1.00 is also found in the 10-cent store in small sizes for only 10 cents.

* * *

Perk up last year's pillbox hat with a strip of fur (that matches your coat) sewn securely around the edge of it and a snood (from the five and ten if you wish) tacked on the back.

* * *

Have you problem hair? . . . Is your hair very fine and fluffy? Such hair tends to frizz unless it is waved with great care. Before getting a permanent condition your hair with plenty of brushing. Insist on test curls—for the amount of heating time and also for the size of the curl. Be honest with the operator if your hair is dyed or bleached. Should you fib, you are the one to suffer. A test curl is a "must" for white hair which may be discolored by too much heat.

Pantry Palaver

Fruit Dressing—½ cup pineapple juice, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1 rounded tablespoon sugar, 2 eggs. Beat the eggs slightly. Add juices and sugar. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened. (Yield—1 cup—321 calories. One level tablespoon—21 calories. One serving or 1½ tablespoons—31 calories.)

Try adding a tablespoonful of worcestershire sauce to the water in your roaster the next time you prepare roast beef and notice the improved flavor.

* * *

For those baked ham recipes that call for sherry wine we often substitute grapejuice and as a result Jack Spratt and his wife couldn't have done a better job of eating up both lean and fat.

Labor Women

When veteran Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison retired from office Jan. 1, many will recall that a woman secretary has carried a heavy part of the load of that important office.

Josephine Kelly was secretary to Mr. Morrison for many years. Rated as one of the most capable women executives, she is at the same time one of the most interesting personalities. There is probably no more thoroughly informed authority on the records and the development of policy in the A. F. of L., for all of it has passed under her eyes while she has been in the secretary's office. Miss Kelly was born in Washington.

With Miss Kelly, known to hundreds of labor men, is a corps of women assistants who have helped care for the wants of the thousands who have poured into and out of the office and whose letters have called for keen and intelligent effort. Among these are Eda Howard, Gretna Boswell, Wanda von Ezdorf, Gertrude Rush, Margaret Goetzinger, Irene Rodier, Eloise Giles, Mae Waggeman and Margaret Evans.

For Better Homemaking

Heating Economy . . . As a general rule, maximum economy in fuel will be had by turning the thermostat down 5 degrees at night. If turned lower than this, an excess of fuel will be burned in the morning in bringing the house up to 70 degrees.

If a fern is dying, pour a tablespoon of castor oil around the roots. The plant will become green and fresh again in a short time.

Baby Talk

While America goes forward in baby care, other countries range from our standards on down the line.

Britain's babies, not safe in big cities, are getting a taste of country life, but with no excess luxuries.

German babies are underfed.

In Mexico, Indian women still carry babies, slung in blankets from their shoulders, the infants so covered that observers don't know babies are there unless they are told.

Own a Hosiery Wardrobe!

It's the secret of having well dressed legs and enjoying longer wearing hosiery. Wear two threads for evening—three threads for afternoon—four threads for every day. Above all—wear the new American Personality Colors—they're charming!

W C BIRTHRIGHT

W. C. Birthright, General President and General Secretary-Treasurer of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America, has been a member of his Union since 1908. He served as General Secretary-Treasurer from 1930 to 1936, when he became General President - Secretary - Treasurer of this International Union of the American Federation of Labor.

He served fifteen years as secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and secretary of the Non-Partisan Campaign Committee of the State Federation of Labor and the Railroad Brotherhoods. He was one of the first advocates of an extensive organization campaign among the Southern workers and served as secretary of the organization committee when the campaign was inaugurated. He likewise was field representative for the American Federation of Labor and his own International Union.

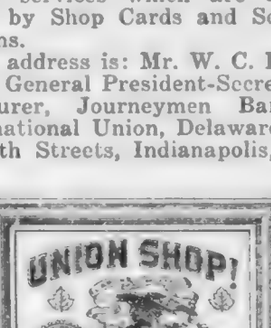
Mr. Birthright has served the American Labor Movement with intense zeal and intelligent leadership. He has always been a strong supporter of the Union Label cause and has laid special emphasis on Union services which are designated by Shop Cards and Service Buttons.

His address is: Mr. W. C. Birthright, General President-Secretary-Treasurer, Journeymen Barbers' International Union, Delaware and Twelfth Streets, Indianapolis, Ind.

BARBERS' UNION CARD

Beginning with the Cigar Makers in 1875, a large number of American Labor Unions adopted a Union Label. The Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America, almost from the time of its founding in 1887, has used such an emblem. The devices included under the term Union Label are three in number: A Label proper, a Shop Card, and a Button. Most Unions choose a Union Label, but the barbers decided on a Shop Card. Placed in the window of a shop, the Card is the most effective form for the Barbers' Union.

This Card is displayed only where good, competent Union barbers are employed. Patronize no other. It is printed in black, red, blue, and gold.



BEAUTICIAN WINDOW CARD

At present the Journeymen Barbers have their own Union Shop Card and the Hairdressers and Cosmetologists' (beauticians) Department of the Union has a separate Union Shop Card. This Card is displayed only where expert, competent Union beauticians are employed. Patronize no other. It is printed in mauve, buff, and black.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary - Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

USHA LOW RENT PROJECTS BIG BOOST TO BUILDING SUPPLY INDUSTRIES

Washington.—More than a quarter of a billion dollars are being put into circulation through building trades materials industries by the present slum-clearance and low-rent housing program of the United States Housing Authority.

These materials, itemized in an analysis issued by the USHA, are the products of more than a score of American industries.

The items, according to estimated expenditures per industry for the entire $770,000,000 program, range from $1,300,000 for glass and putty to $30,700,000 for plumbing equipment and materia

The estimated total cost of co struction materials for the ent program of 160,000 dwelling un is $280,000,000.

This total cost approximates t respective expenditures of Fra nd Germany in constructing the famed Maginot and Siegfried lin and the materials are much t same kinds and quantities.

The present USHA slum-clea ance and low-rent housing pr gram provides for construction 168 communities for 160,000 s and sanitary homes to reho that number of low-rent famili or about 640,000 persons, low i ing in sub-standard structures a squalid environment.

More than 40 per cent of th construction now is under way a about 21 per cent will be comple by next June.

We have heard of a new pillow designed especially wide for a "twin" bed. The cost seemed little more than the ordinary sized pillow.

Among the many hosiery saving devices on the market one of the best that we have heard of includes besides the washer, which is glass, a special hosiery soap and a drier. They are attractively inexpensive and will probably save in a very short time on the hosiery budget.

Safety -- Courtesy -- Service

We sorrowfully report the death of J. M. Brown, a brother to Brother J. M. Brown. We extend our sympathy to the family and friends of Mr. Brown.

* * *

We are sure glad to see Brother J. B. Fisher back on duty. Brother Fisher has been off several months on account of rheumatism.

* * *

We still have a few brothers on the sick list. They are: Brothers J. M. Varner, J. R. Thomas, A. Crumly and R. J. Mitchell.

SAFETY HINTS

1. All parents should caution their children daily to be careful and not let their sleds get under automobiles.

2. All drivers should drive carefully during this slick and wet weather.

3. Keep your distance so that when the car in front stops you will not slide into it.

4. Be sure to keep at least fifty to one hundred feet back from our buses. If you slide into our buses you not only mar up your car, our bus, but remember we have human lives on the buses.

5. Do not pull out of a side street in front of another car or bus; it is liable to slide into you.

We appreciate the fine cooperation the public has extended to us in handling our buses safely. We know that it is impossible to give you the schedule that you are so used to getting, but we are trying to get you to and from work, school, or any place you wish to go safely. Remember haste makes waste.

Early Start.

Brother H. Beasley is the leader for the Briar Scratchers we hear over the radio so much. The other day he was bragging on his bunch of musicians when Brother John Farrar spoke up and said that he was also a musician. He said that he had been playing on the linoleum since he was 2 years old. But Brother Beasly was not to be defeated, so he said, "That's nothing, I had drums in my ears the day I was born."

Application.

A steadfast application to duty, or any undertaking, is required if purpose is to be accomplished. Those who are determined to succeed rarely fail, for determination is the bedrock on which the power of application rests. As the runner runs better each succeeding day, so does greater efficiency come through constant effort. It is not the "lick and promise" stroke, but the full power behind each swing of the sledge-hammer that brings quickly the iron sheet of resolution into finished form. Those who think most of their work and least of themselves advance most. Avoid self-consciousness. Forget yourself in favor of the task in hand. Concentrate your thoughts and give your best effort to accomplish better things. Strive to increase your productivity, in quality, no matter what your sphere of life. Make a steppingstone of your stumbling-block. Each obstacle you overcome makes the next one easier. Great things are done in spite of obstacles. Those who diligently apply themselves are prepared in mental and physical power to forge ahead regardless of discouragements. All are deeply indebted to those who through self-sacrificing application have given great things for our multifold benefit. Do not just try to do a thing, but do it. Do not take yourself too seriously; do not over estimate yourself—simply use your mind and body to contribute, to produce. No one cares for an account of your ups and downs, but your fellow-men will use your contributions to their well-being, with thanks. Pay slight attention to what people say—simply go on about your business. Those who try to please everyone, generally please no one, and make fools of themselves besides. Be natural, as God intended, and follow the dictates of your own conscience. Have a beautiful indifference to what the gossips have to say, but do as God tells you. The conscience is His message medicine. He tells you to work to play, to love, to think, to laugh, to do good, to be kind, to be just; and all kindred graces He calls on you to cultivate and practice. A colorbearer, when leading a charge up a hill, failed to hear or heed the command to retreat. The bullets were flying thick and fast, on he went, advancing alone. The commander cried aloud, "Come back!" In answer, the colorbearer yelled, "I can't, come on!"

Prompt Help For A Listless Child

Scolding won't help a boy or girl who is listless, dull or cross from constipation. But, here's something that will!

If sluggish bowels have your child headachy, bilious, upset, give him a little Syrup of Black-Draught tonight. Like the original famed BLACK-DRAUGHT, its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative. Helps impart tone to the bowel muscles.

Children like the taste of Syrup of Black-Draught. It is an all vegetable product. When simple directions are followed, its action is gentle, but prompt and complete. Comes in two sizes: 50c and 25c.

Official call for conference was prepared by the federation officials, and this call is being mailed this weeek to all local unions and central bodies through the ten states. A tentative program for the conference was also prepared. The Atlanta Federation of Trades and the state federations of labor will give a banquet on Saturday night, March 2, honoring Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, and Secretary Emeritus Frank Morrison. President William Green will be principal speaker at the banquet. Because only 700 people can be accommodated in the banquet hall, the federation officials decided to allot the banquet tickets to the ten states. The president and secretary of each state federation of labor will have banquet tickets for the unionists of their respective states. It was decided, in order to be fair to all, the first to ask for the banquet tickets will be the first to get them. The banquet tickets will be $3.00 each, and because of the limited number to each state, it was the opinion of the federation officials that the tickets would soon be taken up entirely.

SOCIAL SECURITY PENSIONS IN 1940 RANGE FROM $20.60 TO $41.20 MONTH

Wives Over 65 Entitled to $10.30 to $20.60; One Dependent Child, $10.30 to $20.60; Widows, $15.45 to $30.90; Widow and One Child, $25.75 to $51.50; Widow and Two Children, $36.05 to $72.10.

EDITOR'S NOTE The United States is flooded with statements regarding the new Federal old-age and survivors pension system which became effective on January 1. Many of the statements are inaccurate. Some of them exaggerate the benefits under the social security law, others minimize the benefits, and still others fail to give important details. In order to present the facts regarding the new system, the American Federation of Labor Weekly News Service publishes the following official statement issued by the Social Security Board setting forth the important details of the Federal old-age and survivors insurance program.

The federal old-age and survivors insurance program, providing monthly payments to retired commercial or industrial workers and their families, got under way Jan. 1. Examination of the first 2,000 claims received by the social security board indicates that combined benefits of a worker and his wife, providing she is over 65 years of age, will range from $15 to $61.20.

The board also estimates, as the result of this sample study, that monthly benefits received by a single person will range from $10 to $41.60. Benefits for a widow, regardless of age, and one dependent child under 16 years of age, or 18 if in school, will range from $15 to $62.40.

Board actuaries estimate that benefits payable to a retired wage-earner in 1940 will average $25 and about $38 for the combined benefit of a retired wage- earner and his aged wife.

Monthly Benefits For Various Groups Itemized.

Under this amended program the wife of a retired worker is entitled to a supplementary benefit when she reaches age 65. Her payment will equal one-half of her husband's benefit. A dependent child under 16, or under 18 if attending school, is also entitled to a separate benefit equal to one-half of the father's annuity. The following table shows examples of monthly benefits after three years in covered employment for the retired wage-earner and his dependents:

Average monthly wage	Wage earner's monthly benefit	Benefit for wife over 65	Benefit for Dependent child
$50	$20.60	$10.30	$10.30
100	25.75	12.87	12.87
150	30.90	15.45	15 45
200	36.05	18.02	18.02
250	41.20	20.60	20.60

The new program also provides benefits for the widow and orphans of an insured wage-earner. In case he leaves no such heirs, his dependent parents over 65 may receive monthly benefits. A widow over age 65 is entitled to a benefit equal to three-fourths of her husband's basic monthly benefit. A widow below the age of 65 who has dependent children in her care receives a similar benefit. In addition, a dependent child under 16, or 18 if attending school, receives a benefit equal to one-half of the father's basic monthly benefit. The table below shows examples of monthly benefits for survivors:

Average monthly wage	Widow's benefit	Total benefits widow and 1 child	Total benefits widow and 2 child'n
$50	$15.45	$25.75	$36.05
100	19 31	32.18	45.05
150	23.17	38.62	54.07
200	27.04	45.06	63.08
250	30.90	51.50	72.10

All employment except for certain specifically excluded types of work is covered under the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security act. For instance, cooks, maids, butlers, chauffeurs, and gardeners, who are employed by private families, are not covered. If these same workers should obtain jobs in hotels, restaurants, service stations, or in other commercial or industrial establishments, they would be covered by this federal insurance system.

Covered employment, generally speaking, is a job in a factory, shop, mine, mill, store, office, American ship, national or state bank, building-and-loan association, or other place of business.

Many Workers Are Barred From Insurance.

Jobs not covered are, in general, as follows: Agricultural labor; domestic service; government work; work for an educational, charitable, or religious nonprofit organization; work on railroads (this is covered by the railroad retirement system); work in the fishing industry; work as a newsboy; certain kinds of professional work; work performed by a son, daughter, spouse, or for a parent if the child is under 21.

Insurance Tax Paid by Both Employes and Employers.

The federal system is similar to other insurance plans. The worker pays a contribution, and so does his employer, to help meet the costs of the benefits which the worker will receive. In other words, he pays a premium on what might be called an insurance policy, which will pay benefits to him when he is 65 or over and to his family if he should die.

The old-age insurance tax paid by the worker is 1 per cent of his wages and for the employer it is also 1 per cent on the worker's wages. The employer deducts 1 per cent from the worker's wages and sends that with his own 1 per cent wage tax to the government. The law provides that the employer shall give each worker a receipt for the taxes he takes out of his pay. He must furnish such a receipt at least once a year or whenever a worker leaves his employ.

Wage Accounts Kept for Over 47,000,000 Workers.

Over 47,000,000 workers now have accounts with the Social Security Board. Each worker's wages, as reported by his employer every three months, are recorded in his individual account.

If a worker has reason to believe that a mistake has been made in his wage record or that all of his wages have not been reported, he should request from the Social Security Board a statement of his wage total. Discrepances which may thus be found in any wage-earner's record will be corrected by the board.

Any worker can get a post-card request form at the nearest field office of the Social Security Board. All he has to do is fill in this form and mail it to the board, which will send him a statement showing the wages credited to his account.

Several changes were made in the financing provisions of the federal system when congress amended the act last summer.

$825,000,000 in Insurance Taxes Saved.

The tax, which was to increase in 1940, has been "frozen" at its present level of 1 per cent on employers and 1 per cent on employes until 1943. It is estimated that employers and wage-earners will thus save about $825,000,000 in the next three years.

Beginning with 1940, any wages over $3,000 which a worker receives will not be counted toward benefits. A man who works for several employers may perhaps pay taxes on wages up to $3,000 from each employer; but at the end of the year, he may file a claim with the treasury department and receive a refund of the taxes he paid for that year, on wages over $3,000.

Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund Established.

The "Old-Age Reserve Account," which was set up under the original Social Security act, is replaced by an "Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund," effective Jan. 1, 1940. All of the old-age insurance tax money collected by the treasury is now permanently appropriated to this trust fund. Old-age and survivors insurance benefits will be paid out of this fund which is to be managed by a board of trustees consisting of the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of labor, and the chairman of the Social Security Board.

A new shop committee was appointed last meeting to serve for this year. Hope they will be willing to serve on this important part of the organization. One should feel proud and honored when asked to serve his fellow members, because he has recognized qualities that fit him to act in that capacity. So don't let your chairman down—it's your organization and just as much your duty as the next. A few can't run the whole thing just because they are willing and want to see it operate successfully. It is very easy to criticize one another. But be sure your criticism is just before you say anything. In most small organizations the officers serve free and they are supposed to serve you regardless of their own feelings. In every organization that one joins they obligate themselves to be a part of the whole and what effects one effects all. In a chain every link is uniform so that it may take its share of the load. Let's be fair. If you can't be a push don't be a brake on those that are willing and working to make your organization the top.

Teamsters Organize Southeastern Conference

F. H. Blansit, business agent for Truck Drivers 515, has returned from a three-day session of all business agents in the southeastern area. The meeting was held in Atlanta on Jan. 28, 29 and 30, and was for the purpose of forming a southeastern area committee of the Teamsters' International union, covering the southeastern states.

"The Teamsters' union is planning an extensive organizing campaign in the south and plans were made at this meeting to perfect a southwide organization," reported Brother Blansitt. "At least thirty-five representatives were present."

Pat Ansboury, Local 89, Louisville, was elected president; C. H. Anderson, Local 327, Nashville, will serve as secretary, and Joe Williams, Local 135, Indianapolis, Ind., will be the director of the southeastern area.

George Googe and James F. Barrett met with the Truck Drivers.

The conference will meet again in Atlanta on March 2 and 3, along with the big Southern Labor Conference which will take place in Atlanta at that time.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

What we are all wondering is—will the board of city commissioners go ahead at an early date and grant the Gulf Refining company a franchise allowing them to bring their pipe lines through and locate a gas terminal here? Birmingham, Atlanta and Gadsden now boast of having manufacturers which Chattanooga might have had. Will this be the case regarding the Gulf Refining company? Will this company, too, go to another town and establish themselves while we are making up our minds whether or not we want them? Surely we are not blind enough to not see that we would be greatly benefited by this and many other firms bringing their businesses to Chattanooga.

At present the city of Chattanooga is operating a public-owned power system which has greatly reduced the electric rates and at the same time given prompt and efficient service. If power can be so successfully distributed, why should we not have our city-owned water company—have our own pumping, filtering and distributing lines so that we may share this savings instead of letting it go to out-of-town holdings?

Eight of the thirteen authors of the recently published year book of the John Dewey society are members of the American Federation of Teachers. The yearbook, the fourth issued by the society, is entitled "Teachers for Democracy." The chairman of the yearbook committee, Dr. George E. Axtelle, is vice-president (college section) of the A. F. of T.

In a statement on teachers' organizations Dr. Frank E. Baker, who is president of the Milwaukee State Teachers' college, makes the following comment:

"It is the majority opinion of the membership of the committee preparing this yearbook that connection with purely professional organizations is not enough. Even if all the teachers of America were united in a single professional organization, they would not have the power to preserve their spiritual freedom in the crisis that has already destroyed several European democracies and that may threaten ours at any time. They must be able to tap wider streams of democratic power. They must be affiliated with the greatest reservoir of potential democracy in America, productive labor.

"The teacher earns his living by labor. His interests, his ideals, his hopes, are the same as those of the forty-five million other productive laborers of America, all of whom earn their living primarily by their work and only slightly by rent and interest."

The members of the American Federation of Teachers who will participate are Miss Lillian Herstein, of Chicago, and Dr. Floyd Reeves, director of the American youth commission of the American Council on Education.

Both radio stations in Chattanooga are union-operated.

Local 662 has gained much during these past two years, and we are looking forward to another active and important year.

Every Unionist Should Pay Poll Tax Immediately

WHO GETS THE JOB?

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Unemployment is America's most baffling problem. It will not be solved by the war, as some of us imagine. War isn't doing it in England. If unemployment is to be beaten it must be done through normal activities. We have reached, and in some cases passed, 1929 production, but there are still about 8,000,000 workers out of jobs. While millions of adults have returned to work, we have annually been adding an average of 600,000 young people to the roll of the unemployed.

The use of labor-saving machinery and other improved methods of production and distribution has reduced the number of workers needed in certain kinds of plants. The assumption that no new methods of operation should be employed, that no progress in production or distribution should be made because some workers might lose their jobs, is futile. We simply must face the facts. Changes would be made in spite of our objections. But it is inconceivable that this country, in many ways the richest in the world, should go down to economic defeat.

Who will get the jobs of the future? It is already obvious that the skilled worker will be in greater demand than ever before. Already it is being said that there is a scarcity of highly skilled craftsmen in America. An important factor which holds out promise for the future of industrial workers in this country is the certainty of new industries being established which will require many kinds of specially trained mechanics, foremen and other supervisors.

The heating, lighting, ventilation and sanitation of our homes, stores, factories and other buildings is still very crude. The possibilities in the motion picture industry are limitless. The development of the automobile, even in America, has not reached its end. We have scarcely touched aviation. Radio has scarcely begun, and television will soon be made practical. These items are plainly on the surface. Countless others are being worked out in the laboratories. Many who are now unemployed will find jobs in these new industries if they have the determination to master their technique, or if they adapt themselves to the newer methods now being used in their old occupations.

Without minimizing the immediate and sometimes negative effect of technological progress upon employment, it must be obvious that in the long run the number of jobs will be increased through new processes, either directly or indirectly. In some cases it will be necessary to find "buffer" employment for certain workers, until adjustments have been made. But we may put it down as a fundamental fact that it will be the skilled worker who will always be in greater demand, in any economic situation, and for the most part such workers will be found in the trade unions because these unions are made up of experienced men and women.

State, City Employes Face U. S. Income Tax

Washington.—Following a decision of the Supreme court, congress at its last session ordered that the federal income tax shall be imposed upon approximately 2,300,000 state and local government officials and employes who had hitherto been exempt from this form of taxation.

The treasury department declared in a statement that by March 15 every person in the United States who had more than $1,000 or $2,500 net income, depending on whether he is single or married, will have to file a return on his 1939 income with the single exception of federal judges who were appointed prior to June 6 of 1932. These judges have been protected from the federal income tax up to now by a constitutional ban on reducing the compensation of a judge after his appointment.

Competent observers estimate that only a small portion of the 2,300,000 state and local government officials and employes now subject to the income tax will materially increase the government's income from this source. Their average annual salary is reported to be barely over the exemption limit of $1,000.

The treasury estimates that the tax on all of the new recruits will not be more than $16,000,000.

Union Painters Asked for Housing Authority Jobs in New York City

New York.—Although some of the hotels with which the New York Hotel Trades council, A. F. of L. affiliate, were being picketed by the A. F. of L. Painters' Union District council No. 9, the numerically largest affiliate of the Hotel Trades council supported the fight of the Painters' union to force the city housing authority to employ Painters' union members in their repainting jobs.

The affiliate, Hotel and Club Employes' union, Local 6, forwarded to Mayor La Guardia on Jan. 19 a resolution adopted by the Shop Delegates' council of Loca calling upon the mayor "to his good offices in correcting anti-union conditions existing the projects of the city hou authority."

The action was taken w Painters' union, Local 971, brou the campaign being waged by the painters' unions before Shop Delegates' council of Loca

The drive to have the city ho ing authority replace nonu painters with union members the full indorsement of Dis Council No. 9 of the paint unions.

The New York Hotel Tra council maintains that all its forts over a period of time to re a mutually satisfactory agreem of the matters in dispute have b consistently rebuffed by Dis Council No. 9.

Right of Unions To Bar Recorded Music Is Upheld

New York.—Musician and stage hand unions are authorized under an Appellate court decision to employ legal means to block the use of recorded music as substitute for an orchestra.

The court reversed a lower court order and held that members of the American Federation of Musicians and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators have the right to refuse to work for Opera on Tour, Inc., which uses mechanically repfiroduced husic.

"Unquestionably," said the majority opinion, "the plaintiff has the legal right, if it so desires, to produce opera with mechanical music in preference to live musicians, but these defendant unions would seem to have an equal right to seek, by lawful and orderly means, to prevent plaintiff from using mechanical music because the use thereof deprives the members of employment."

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN
Estes Kefauver

TVA TAX REPLACEMENT HEARING CONTINUES

Hearings before the military affairs committee of the house on the matter of replacing taxes lost to counties and other agencies of government in the TVA development continued throughout the week.

The committee has been told by witness after witness that the TVA has added 12 per cent to its wholesale power rate and that a substantial part of this was intended for the purpose of replacing taxes. It has also been forcibly brought to the attention of the committee that unless replacement is made to the counties it will be necessary for many of them to default in payment of their obligations and to curtail the operation of their educational systems. Some counties will be so badly damaged that the school systems will be disastrously affected.

A large delegation from several counties in the Third district was in Washington several days and did very effective work for a tax replacement bill.

White County was represented by County Judge E. D. Austin, County Attorney Malcolm Hill and Jim Camp, mayor of Sparta. Warren County was represented by County Judge P. N. Moffitt and County Attorney C. E. Haston. Van Buren County was represented by Albert S. Brady. Bledsoe County was represented by Grover C. Ault, chairman of the county commission.

Mr. Ault, speaking on behalf of Bledsoe County, Judge Austin and Mr. Camp on behalf of White County, Judge Moffitt on behalf of Warren County and Mr. Brady on behalf of Van Buren County, pointed out very forcibly to the committee the distressed condition that would result in their particular counties unless the taxes are replaced. The testimony of these gentlemen appeared to have the most beneficial effect upon the committee of any testimony yet introduced. They also called on various members of the military affairs committee and other influential representatives, and your representative considers that their work in behalf of a tax replacement bill has gone a long way toward creating a more sympathetic attitude toward the distressed Tennessee counties.

Also appearing before the committee were E. R. Palmer of Kingsport, Ten., president of the Tennessee Taxpayers' association, and W. R. Pouder, executive secretary of that association, for Nashville. Testimony of these gentlemen was likewise forceful and well received.

Hearings will continue next week and the committee will probably decide for or against reporting a bill to the house the following week. The determination of the fate of Tennessee counties depends to a great extent upon the attitude of Congressman A. J. May, the chairman of the committee. He has received many letters and telegrams form citizens and taxpayers in the district. Your representative urges that more people let him know of the urgency of the situation and of your interest in it.

Agriculture Appropriation Suffers

Farmers felt the edge of the economy wave when the house last week, after extended debate, reduced the appropriation for the farm bill by $70,000,000. The budget request of $900,000,000 for the farm program was considered "rock bottom" for the protection of the farmers and for adequate continuation of the program.

An amendment increasing the allowance for the farm tenancy program to $25,000,000 lost by a vote of 149 to 135. This program has done much to rehabilitate the tenant farmers. tI is hoped that an increased appropriation for this enterprise, and also a substantial amount for parity payments will be added to the bill when it reaches the senate. Likewise the food stamp plan lost out in the house.

Some representatives seem to be unmindful of the fact that the farmer is the backbone of America. The basis of all of our wealth and our prosperity comes from the soil. Industry cannot long thrive unless the farmer is successful. Slashing reductions of the farm program is poor economy.

Secretary Hull's Policy Given Boost

At the time of the adjournment of the special session last November it was generally discussed and felt that Secretary Hull was probably fighting a losing battle in attempting to sustain his reciprocal trade agreement policy. The comeback of the program has been remarkable. The distinguished Tennessean completely outdid opponents of the program before the ways and means committee several weeks ago.

The program was given another boost last week when it was heartily indorsed by Edward A. O'Neal, president, American Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. O'Neal, who in a lengthy statement, reached the inevitable conclusion that, by and large, the trade agreement program was beneficial to the American farmer.

F. J. Dillon Hurt In Motor Accident

Toledo, O.—Francis J. Dillon, representative of the American Federation of Labor in Toledo and surrounding territory, recently met with a painful and near fatal accident.

Mr. Dillon was returning from Springfield, O., where he had visited his mother when, just outside of Bellefontaine, he ran onto a strip of ice which caused his car to skid and leave the road.

The car crashed into a tree and Mr. Dillon was badly shaken and bruised. Although receiving back injuries which were painful, he felt that he was extremely fortunate in escaping so easily.

Glass Bottles Are Best

Editor, The Labor World:

The Home Stores and the Happy Valley Farm Dairy have announced to the public that they intend to distribute their milk in paper containers, and give reasons for doing so—one of which is that they say the use of paper milk containers is more sanitary.

Without any palaver, we would ask them a few pertinent questions.

Do the various hospitals in Chattanooga buy their milk in paper packages? We assume that they do not, because it is a well-known fact that the glass bottle is the most sanitary. Practically all progressive distributors of food products prefer glass containers so people can see what they are buying—this feature is impossible with the paper container.

We will give reasons why the sterilized glass bottle is best for your milk:

1. Your personal package. Your milk bottle is your personal package. It has been thoroughly sterilized at the bottling plant and is as clean when it reaches you as hospital equipment used in an infants' ward.

2. Economical. You save the cost of a throwaway container. The bottle makes many trips to your door and the savings to the dairyman is passed on to you in better quality milk.

3. Transparent. Your bottle is transparent and you can see the cream-line and judge the quality of the milk before purchasing. You can check the quantity of milk you have on hand at all times.

4. Convenient. Your milk bottle is easy to handle; it is readily opened without special tools and as readily closed again. The neck offers a firm grip and, after using part of the contents, you can seal the bottle again as thoroughly as when it arrived.

5. Sturdy. Glass will not soften or weaken with use and there are no seams to give way and cause leakage. Your milk bottle easily stands the wear of ordinary household handling.

6. Odorless. The hard, vitreous surface can absorb no odors and impart no taste to the contents.

7. Cream easily obtained. The cream rises in the hard, nonabsorbent sides of a glass bottle. The circular opening and tapered neck permit you to pour off the rich top, and the transparency of the glass enables you to stop when you have all the richest cream.

8. Full quantity. In the glass bottle you are guaranteed your full measure of milk.

9. Health protection. Health authorities and research laboratories the world over have approved the glass milk bottle as the cleanest and safest container for milk.

10. Time-tested. For a half century, ever since its appearance, the glass milk bottle has been preferred by dairymen, health authorities and consumers because it offers the greatest protection to one of the most essential items in your diet—your milk.

The above reasons should be sufficient for the wise, and we ask the people of Chattanooga to insist on milk in glass bottles when purchasing milk.

Pull With the Teamsters

Elsewhere in this issue we have printed a strong open letter to Truck Drivers 515, written by the corresponding secretary of that union.

It is good advice, and we think that all members of organized labor should read that letter and take heed. A local union in which all members take an active part is a good union and a strong one.

To that letter we should like to add a paragraph. To each and every member of the labor movement we would say:

Do not stop with your interest in your own local. Extend your interest to every local union in your city and in your state. See that your delegates attend all Central Body meetings and report back to your local. Visit the Central Body, whether or not you are a delegate, and find out what the rest of the labor movement is doing.

Affiliate with the State Federation of Labor and take part in its activities.

Need we say to you—read your labor paper and let us know the news about your union. We are interested in the activities of organized labor in Chattanooga and in the entire country.

Full-Time Work Needed

Living standards for workers depend directly on earnings. A good daily or weekly wage is important, but is not sufficient; employment for virtually all the year is necessary if workers are to earn an adequate living.

On the volume of workers' yearly earnings depends their ability to buy back much of what they produce, and wage earners constitute two-thirds of all those engaged in gainful work in the United States.

This is why part-time work and unemployment must be ended before the nation can have lasting prosperity. Plenty for all can only be assured by putting the employable wage earners to work on full time, at good wages.

Some Gains in Safety

In the matter of accidental deaths we seem to be gaining in safety. (Please knock wood here.)

Total accidental deaths in the nation, which numbered 99,147 in 1930, and rose to 110,052 in 1936, numbered 93,000 in 1939. These fatalities in 1930 numbered 80.5 per 100,000; rose to 85.7 per 100,000 in 1936, and for 1939 fell to 71. These deaths in 1938, augmented by the great New England hurricane, numbered 93,805, or 72 per 100,000. No such major disasters came in the last year, but the accidental deaths and injuries came in ones and twos mainly; excepting that a Kentucky flood took 70 lives, and a California seacoast storm took about 50.

Motor vehicle accidents caused 18 more deaths in 1939 than 1938; other public accidents took a toll of about 1,000 less; while accidents in the home ranked next to motor vehicle deaths—32,000 as against 32,600. Occupational accidents caused 16,000 deaths, a reduction of 500 from 1938. Next to the automobile, the home proves to be the most dangerous place.

Injuries totaled 8,800,000 persons in 1939, or about 100,000 less than 1938.

Traffic increased in mileage 6 per cent over 1938, and the number of vehicles on the roads increased by 4 per cent. Thus on a basis of motor mileage, the drop in death rate for this cause was more than 5 per cent.

Changing Labor Standards

Labor standards are not stationary. They are influenced by continuously changing conditions. Widespread unemployment has speeded the movement for a shorter work day. The vital need for adequate purchasing power in the hands of labor has stimulated the movement for higher wages. When the danger of a specific industrial poison has been proved, regulations prohibiting its use have followed. Thus standards are raised chiefly as a result of scientific advancement, workers' efforts and enlightened public opinion.—Mary Anderson, Director, Women's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor.

Employers Must Give Their Employes Receipts for Old-Age Insurance Tax

Washington.—The social security board again calls attention to the provision of the new social security act passed by congress last year under which employers are required, beginning with January, 1940, to give their employes receipts for the old-age insurance tax taken out of their wages.

Notice to this effect was contained in a statement sent to labor organizations and social security committees by the labor information division of the social security board.

The statement said:

"Receipts from employers to workers for the old-age insurance taxes taken out of their pay are required by law beginning with January, 1940. This, as you know, is something organized labor has been urging ever since the social security act went into effect.

"The new provision is contained in a recent amendment to the social security code. The amendment provides that every receipt ... be in such form that the wo... can keep it, and it must sh... Alexandria, Va.—Former Mayor Emmet C. Davison of this city, general secretary of the International Association of Machinists, reveals that members of his union throughout the United States, Canada and the Canal Zone are fighting activities of foreign agents, in an article in the Jan. 17 issue of Liberty magazine. His article attacks "isms" and defends the democracy inherent in the American Federation of Labor.

Pointing out that Nazism, Fascism and Communism immediately destroy trade unions, former Mayor Davison, making his second appearance as a writer, emphasizes the point that hordes of immigrants to America were all motivated by the desire to "mind their own business" rather than having European governments "mind their business for them."

The Davison article tells of fight loyal machinists are making in their employment in navy yards, arsenals, airplane and munition factories to stimey foreign espionage agents and sabotage.

Asked if this article in Liberty magazine was the opening gun in his campaign for the democratic senatorial nomination in Virginia in opposition to Senator Harry F. Byrd, Davison said it was not.

"Friends of many years standing in veteran, fraternal and trade-union circles have asked me to make the fight to obtain the democratic United States senatorial nomination in Virginia because of the national and state republican support of Senator Byrd, but I have not decided yet to permit my name to go before the voters. Personally, I feel that Governor James H. Price is the man to make the fight on Senator Byrd's consistent opposition to tverything militant democrats in Virginia stand for in these times."

AUTO WORKERS UNION AIDED BY A.F.L. IN BUILDING UP STRONG ORGANIZATION

Restoration of A. F. of L. Charter Following Union's Withdrawal From C.I.O. Approved.

The 1939 convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, Ohio, endorsed the action of the A. F. of L. Executive Council in restoring the charter to the International Union of United Automobile Workers of America following its withdrawal from the C. I. O. and pledged the complete support of the A. F. of L. in aiding the union to build up a strong organization.

The convention's action was taken on the following report of the committee on the Executive Council's report, which the convention adopted.

"The Council reports that on June 6th, 1939, the charter of this organization was restored. On the same date a formal statement was issued setting forth that the International Union, United Automobile Workers of America, would have full and complete autonomy in the administration and control of the organization.

Most Automobile Workers Eligible for Membership

"The right of self-government in this organization, which was surrendered to a C. I. O. committee, was thus restored by re-affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

"In addition to this the Executive Council directed 'that the President be authorized to return the charter to the United Automobile Workers of America with the understanding that whatever difference may exist or come up would be straightened out after it is in the American Federation of Labor.

"Your committee is of the opinion that such difference can be adjusted by the Council. Under provisions of the charter granted, the overwhelming number of employes in the automobile plants are eligible for membership in the United Automobile Workers of America. No serious or insurmountable difficulties should arise with regard to proper affiliation of those employes who are eligible to, or already are, members of other international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Extra-Legal Tactics Injure Unions

"Your committee is of the opinion that the future success of this international union depends largely upon the ability of its officers to inculcate the concepts and principles of the American labor movement, as represented by the A. F. of L., into the minds of the workers employed in the automobile industry.

"The record clearly shows that when illegal and extra-legal tactics become a part of labor union philosophy in its dealings with employers the same tactics are used in the conduct and operation of the union itself.

"No union can reasonably expect that the use of illegal and extra-legal tactics will be adjourned within the union, especially so, if such tactics are adjudged by its officers as a success in employer-employe relationships.

C. I. O. Plagued by "Revolutionary Ideologies"

"When the final pages of the C. I. O. history are written it will be shown that it was upon this rock that their efforts were wrecked by internal dissension growing into internecine warfare among its officers and members.

"Such was the fate of all previous unions founded and built upon preachments of personal hatreds and 'revolutionary ideologies'. Such will be the fate of the present communist-dominated efforts of the C. I. O.

"Your committee recommends that every effort, consistent with good judgment, should be made to build a strong, efficient and self-governing international union in the automobile industry. Your committee further recommends that the full co-operation of the Executive Council and the American Federation of Labor be extended to the International Union of United Automobile Workers of America, to accomplish this objective."

Moscow, Idaho, Aids Finnish Fund

New York.—Mayor Henry C. Hansen of Moscow, Idaho, has sent a check for $176.46 to Herbert Hoover, national chairman of the Finnish relief fund, to prove that all cities named Moscow are not against the Finns.

"The city of Moscow has recently received national publicity due to the fact that it seems to imply Russia," Mayor Hansen wrote Hoover. "At the present time we here in Moscow, Idaho, want the Finns to know that all Moscows are not against them."

"The check for contributions from this area proves that," Hoover remarked.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

R E VAN HORN

R. E. Van Horn, International President of the Cigar Makers' Union of America, has been a member of the Cigar Makers' Union since 1901 and succeeded I. M. Ornburn as President in 1936.

He is one of the most ardent advocates of the Union Label. As a Labor Unionist he has religiously followed the principles of Samuel Gompers, the "Grand Old Man of American Labor," once the President of the New York Local of the Cigar Makers and for years First Vice President of this International Union.

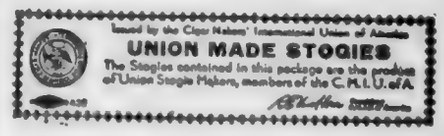
His address is: Mr. R. E. Van Horn, President, Cigar Makers' International Union, 604 Carpenters' Building, Washington, D. C.

CIGAR MAKERS' LABEL

This is a reduced facsimile of the Union Label of the Cigar Makers' International Union, used continuously since 1880 to designate the product of its members. It is a guarantee of Union wages, hours and conditions.

The color of the Label is blue, and it should appear in a prominent place on containers from which cigars are offered for sale.

The Cigar Makers' International Union was the first Union to adopt and introduce a Union Label. The Union Label first came into use in San Francisco, Calif., in 1874. During the late seventies the Chinese were imported into that State under the coolie padrons system in large numbers. They were apt learners and worked under forced circumstances for meager wages, such as would hardly be carfare for native white free labor. As one means to combat this growing menace to free native labor, the Cigar Makers adopted a label which was furnished without charge to all American manufacturers.



STOGIE MAKERS' LABEL

This is a reduced facsimile of the Union Label issued by the Cigar Makers' International Union and used to designate Union-made stogies.

The color of the Stogie Makers' Label is blue, and it guarantees the same Union wages, hours and conditions in the stogie manufacturing industry that the Cigar Makers' Label guarantees in the cigar manufacturing industry.

Whether your smoke is a cigar or a stogie, see that the blue Union Label is on the container. Consistently refuse to purchase cigars and stogies that do not show the blue Union Label of the Cigar Makers and the blue Union Label of the Stogie Makers.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary - Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

WILLIAM L. HUTCHESON

William L. Hutcheson, President of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, is also a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, succeeding Frank Duffy, who recently resigned.

Mr. Hutcheson is a strong advocate of the fundamental principles of Trade Unionism. He believes in the Union Label and has promoted the Union Label of the Carpenters' Brotherhood with great effectiveness. He believes that the Union Label stands for fairness toward employer and employe alike. It is a mark of mutual cooperation and good will.

His address is: Mr. William L. Hutcheson, President, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Carpenters' Building, Indianapolis, Ind.

CARPENTERS AND JOINERS' LABEL

While the Cigar Makers are generally understood to be the inventors and sponsors of the earliest Trade Union Label in America, a similar device was used six years earlier, in 1869, by the Carpenters' Eight-Hour League of San Francisco. This League furnished a stamp to all planing mills operating on the eight-hour plan, in order that they might be able to identify the work of the ten-hour mills. The carpenters still have a Union Label and are today one of the most active Unions in the Union Label Trades Department.

The Label of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America should appear on all bank, bar, store and office fixtures, furniture, millwork and other wood products.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons, write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary - Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

What Next?

Radio Corporation of America has developed a system of relay transmission extending the range of television from fifty miles to a much greater distance. The new method of transmitting makes it possible for a station in New York city to reach receivers in cities as far distant as Boston and Washington. This, the corporation said, clears away a principal technical difficulty which hitherto has obstructed the development of television broadcasting.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

"Do You Know? . . .

There are 7¾ million women wage-earners in the nation, exclusive of "the self-employed, professional or semi-professional workers," according to a recent women's bureau, U. S. department of labor study.

Two out of every ten of these women work in factories and eight in non-manufacturing occupations. The making of fabrics and clothing account for well over half the women working in factories. Those in the non-manufacturing group are engaged in the various kinds of services such as office work, retail store selling, domestic service in private homes and as waitresses, scrub women and the like.

According to the bulletin, the vast majority of women in the manufacturing field are under the federal wage-hour law, which is bringing them real benefits.

Women in service trades while not included under federal wage-hour statutes can be helped and are being helped by state wage and hour laws. For example, in laundries which have tended to pay low wages, women's earnings are now being raised in twenty-three states and the District of Columbia where minimum wage orders have been issued under existing statutes. The same applies to women in hotels and restaurants, where in thirteen states and the District of Columbia their wages have been raised by statute; likewise in retail stores and beauty shops in many states.

To date, women in household employment and agriculture are devoid of any legal help.

Trade unionism as a means of improving conditions for women has had the most conspicuous results in certain branches of the clothing industry, to a lesser extent in others, while union organizaion is practically non-existent among domestics or farm workers.

Here's to Glamour

The trend is still toward flowers in the hair for evening, but wear them when they seem to go naturally. They should complement the costume if worn on the shoulder and never break the line—but wear them on the wrist, or in the hair, if they don't look well on the dress.

Any flowers nowadays will make a corsage, but violets, gardenias and orchids have been the favorite for years.

The hurry and scurry of modern life is very hard on women's nerves. You get tense dozens of times every day and by late afternoon you grow conscious that this tenseness has begun to show in your face, any tiny lines of strain and fatigue shadows under your eyes. That is the time to take twenty minutes of complete relaxation to achieve a restorative which will reclaim your vivacity and freshness. Moisten sterilized eye pads in warm water and place over eyes while resting.

Make this rest period a daily habit. Not only will you feel better and look better each evening, but this regular repose taken at the time day when you have begun to call upon your reserve strength will play an important part in the course of the years in prolonging youth far beyond its usual span.

Pantry Palaver

Cheese Surprise—Cream, or cottage cheese, combined with horseradish, makes an excellent appetizer spread or specialty with salad. Mix 1 cup cottage cheese with 1 or 2 tablespoons fresh horseradish, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon chopped pimiento. Season to taste. Add a small bottle of tiny pearl onions, the smallest size possible. For salad, shape into small balls and roll in grated cheese or chopped nuts.

Meat and Spaghetti Pie—Brown 2 cups cubed leftover meat in 2 tablespoons butter. Place 1 medium (17-ounce) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce in casserole, then press up around sides of casserole to form a depression in center. Fill depression thus made with browned meat. Combine, then sprinkle over top—¼ cup fine toasted bread crumbs, ¼ cup grated American cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 minutes. Serve very hot.

Labor Women

Women played a lead part in the tremendously successful and striking ceremonies surrounding the President's birthday cake contributed to the President by the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union.

The Misses Elinore Myrup, Marilou Winter and Elsie Schmidt, daughters of the three leading officials of the Bakery Workers' International, flew from Chicago to make the presentation. With the 300-pound cake right in the President's office, the young ladies, introduced to the President by William Green, made the presentation as representatives of the union.

While in Washington they were taken on a round of ceremonies and parties, all of which played a part in building good will for labor.

Interesting touch in the presentation was the President's statement that while he had cards in many unions, he had none in the Bakery Workers'. "I'll see to that," was the prompt rejoinder of Miss Myrup.

These young women were guests of honor at a reception given by President Green and attended by some 2,000 Washington labor men, senators, congressmen and other public officials.

The women surely scored in this big event.

For Better Homemaking—Newspapers make an excellent filler for cracks. The process is as follows: Tear papers into shreds, put them in a bucket of water and boil them for an hour or more, stirring frequently. This will reduce the paper to a pulp. After squeezing the pulp as dry as possible with the hands, cram it into the spaces to be filled. It will dry hard. And when dry, it can be painted or varnished.

Boston, Mass.—The Coopers International Journal, official organ of the Coopers' International Union of North America, A. F. of L. affiliate, publishes the following trade note:

"Charges have been preferred against the Norton and Wheeler Stave Company of Benton and Pine Bluffs, Arkansas, for violating the National Relations Labor Act at their plant in Benton. The superintendent of that plant fired Sam Smith for his union activities.

"The Coopers' International Union will press this case and will demand that Sam Smith is reinstated and receive his back pay. Local unions are hereby warned that if they handle any products of this company, they will automatically supend themselves. The products of that company might be sold through an agency."

An Open Letter To Chatta. Teamsters

zA sage somewhere sometime ago said: "You can get out of a thing only what you put into it." No truer words were ever spoken. You can't deposit five dollars in the bank and draw out a hundred. Neither can you stay away from union meetings, fail to pay your dues, not demand the wake scale, and continually knock the officials of your organization and expect to reap any of the real benefits entitled to any union man who gives his wholehearted support to the betterment of his local.

We're beginning a new year, with prospects even brighter than the most optimistic driver could have hoped for two years ago. Many new freight lines have been signed up, new agreements in regards to straight time salaries and working conditions for over-the-road drivers have been reached, and a higher wage scale has been approved for men driving on construction jobs in this area.

Local 515 has just purchased property with accommodations for two offices and a large conference room, with additional space which later can be converted into an assembly hall at very little expense. (Of course there are some of you totally ignorant of these faces because you continually refuse to attend meetings.) You have just elected a set of officers to the executive board with plenty of hot Irish blood in their veins and very little sympathy.

After March 1, a list of all members not in good standing will be compiled by the secretary and given to the business agent, who will immediately take you off the job and accept no excuses.

So, fellow truck drivers, if we don't intend to be good union men this year, keep our dues paid up and attend and take an active part in every meeting let's give up the ghost and go "South of the Border" or some other remote place, where slackers, knockers and nonunionists will find it easy digging. It's going to be tough around here from now on.

Speaking of being tough, how is this for labor conditions 80 years ago. The following is an excerpt from the files of Carson, Pierie Scott & Co., general store in Chicago:

"Store must be opened from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. the year round.

"Store must be swept; counters, base shelves and showcases dusted; lamps trimmed, filled and chimneys cleaned; doors and windows opened; a pail of water, also a bucket of cool brought in before breakfast (if there is time to do so) and attend to customers who call.

"Store must not be opened on the Sabbath unless necessary, and then only for a few minutes.

"The employe who is in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, being shaved at the barber's, going to dances, and other places of amusement, will surely give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and honesty.

"Each employe must pay not less than $5 per year to the church and must attend Sunday school regularly.

"Men employes (now get a load of this) are given one evening a week for courting and two if they go to prayer meeting."

Quite a few drivers are idle at present, but just as soon as the snow and ice melts away the wheels will be spinning per usual.

Business Agent Blansit returned Tuesday from the eleven-state area committee meeting in Atlanta. He has lots of encouraging news, so be sure to drop by the new office on Rossville boulevard and find out what's going on. You are always welcome.

C. D. Kenny company has signed a closed shop contract with Local 515.

Rejection of Union Demands Brings Strike Vote by Luggage Workers

New York City.—Fourteen hundred luggage workers of Petersburg, Va., employed by the American Hardware company, largest trunk and luggage firm in the country, have decided to take a strike vote at a special mass meeting, it was announced at headquarters of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers' union here.

This decision was reached by the workers after the company rejected all union demands, including a wage increase of 20 per cent, a minmum wage of 40 cents per hour instead of 30, time and a half for overtime after forty hours and a union shop.

Company Wars on Union

Not only did the company reject all these demands, but on top of that they are demanding from the union the right to increase the hours of work from forty to forty-two per week, to reduce wages and prices wherever they see fit, to have an open shop with the right to hire and fire.

In other words, the company actually wants to deprive its workers from all the rights and benefits which they have gained since they have been organized.

The fourteen hundred luggage workers of Petersburg were organized by the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers' union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, in June, 1937.

Demands Shown Justified

At the last conference between the union and the company the representatives of the union, headed by Isidor Laderman, general organizer of the international, presented to the company facts and figures showing that the wages paid by the American Hardware are less than hal fof the wages paid in all other luggage centers such as New York, Newark, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Racine, Wis., and so on so that even when the company will grant the union's demand for a 20 per cent wage increase it still would be in a position strongly to compete against other markets.

The representatives of the company did not deny these facts, but nevertheless insisted that they will not give any general wage increases nor will they accede to the demand for a union shop.

Civic Chorus Sponsors Tenor Next Wednesday

Allan Jones, American tenor and star of numerous popular movies, will appear in person at the Memorial auditorium in Chattanooga on Wednesday night, Feb, 21, under sponsorship of the Chattanooga Civic Chorus, formerly the Cadek Choral society. J. Oscar Miller, conductor, and Edward Schaefer, president of the chorus, have announced the Hollywood favorite as a special attraction. The concert is not on the season ticket series for 1939-40.

Though he is now one of the most sought after of artists, Allan Jones has not always had the lucky breaks, starting as he did to earn money for his musical career by operating a steam shovel in his home town, Scranton, Pa. Entered at Syracuse university, Jones won a scholarship to New York university, where he studied with Claude Warford. Money from a sold-out concert in Scranton enabled Jones to go to Paris, where his teachers included such distinguished musicians as Reynaldo Hahn and Felix LaRoux, and whence he flew to London for work with Sir Henry Wood.

Returning to America, Jones made his concert debut with the New York Symphony under Dr. Walter Damrosch. He scored sensationally in Charles Wagner's Broadway production of "Boccaccio," this being followed by appearances with the Schuberts in light opera in key cities, and also in grand opera. A successful screen test took the young artist to Hollywood, where he has achieved stardom in such pictures as "A Night at the Opera," "Showboat," "The Firefly" (in which he was co-starred with Jeanette MacDonald), "A Honeymoon in Bali," and the currently shown film "The Great Victor Herbert."

For his Chattanooga concert, Allan Jones will sing favorite selections from his most popular pictures in addition to his regularly programed solos. Tickets for the concert may be bought at the Civic Chorus office, 819 Broad street, Chattanooga, Tenn. Mail orders will be filled in order of their receipt. The tickets are $1.50 and $1.00, reserved, and 75 cents, unreserved.

D. A. R. Wants Reports On Drowning Cases

Fort Greeneville chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in the city of Greeneville, Ohio, has sent out a request to the various clubs and newspapers of the country that all instances of resuscitation from drowning, or other cases in which a person has been revived be reported to their chapter. The members are making a study of the subject, in order to save lives.

This is part of the work being done by the educational department of the D. A. R. Cooperation by scientists, physicians and others interested in the subject has been very encouraging so far. The general reading public, however, may be able to give very enlightening views on this subject, either from observation or actual experience. Please address all letters to the Fort Greeneville chapter, D. A. R., in care of this newspaper.

The chapter is fully aware of the delegate subject upon which they are working, but they will need proof and comment concerning their cause before they can present the subject before the legislature. Delays in autopsies and other care given a patient may save many lives. This idea is forwarded in the same spirit as our National Safety council, and should meet with the same response.

Harris Hix Rushed To Emergency Operation

AFL Union Formed In Big Canadian Textile Plant

Milltown, N. B.—History has been made at this border community, with the organization of Federal Local No. 10, of the A. F. of L. Textile Workers' union. The organization work was completed by the New Brunswick Federation of Labor.

The Milltown cotton and rayon mill of the Canadian Cottons chain is one of the largest in that group, and closer to U. S. soil than any other Canadian textile plant. It is exactly on the St. Croix river, which is the official boundary, and at that point is only about 40 feet wide. Two international bridges connect Milltown, N. B., with Milltown, Me. On the mill staff are residents of both towns.

For many years there was a union of textile workers at Milltown, affiliated with the A. F. of L. With the advent of the CIO, the Milltown local collapsed and the workers in the big mill were left unorganized. The New Brunswick Federation of Labor came to the rescue at a time when the Canadian Cottons is making huge profits on war orders and indications are that the cotton combine will be asked to share some of the profits with the workers now that an organized front has been made.

Label League Meets

Chattanooga Label League will hold its regular monthly meeting on Friday night, Feb. 23, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be held at the Hotel Patten, room 908. All delegates and members of organized labor are invited to be present.

MARIE REYNOLDS,
President.

TEACHER TALK

The board of directors, in its monthly meeting last Wednesday evening, heard six proposed amendments to the national AFT constitution. You will soon be able to vote on these. Do not confuse these national amendments with our local's own proposed constitution, upon which you will vote after discussion at the membership meeting on Feb. 24.

* * *

There is a possibility that Dr. Counts will be in Chattanooga again this spring. We are hoping that he will, and that we can arrange for another talk from him.

There have been several requests for copies of the pension laws. We are now making copies of the the city law now, and they will be available quite soon. Come in if you'd like one. Incidentally, if there are other documents pertaining to teacher welfare that you think should be made available to unionists, let us know at the office.

Our members who joined the Consumers' Union service (fifteen of them) earned in so doing copies of two books, "America's House of Lords" and "The Pressure Boys." These books have arrived and will be passed around to the Consumers' Union club first. Then we hope they will agree to leaving the books in the office as the nucleus of the library that we hope to build. More about this later.

A. F. of L. Head Calls for National Unity to Create Work, Bring Prosperity

Miami.—A plea for unity and co-operation of all elements in the national life to restore confidence and promote permanent prosperity was made by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, in speaking at Tamiami Temple Methodist church here.

President Green called on business and government to get together and effect a "lasting peace" and declared organized labor was ready to co-operate in all endeavors for unity and prosperity.

Government distrust of business and business distrust of government, whether justified or unjustified, must cease, he said, adding:

"There is no sense in it. The people will not stand for it. We cannot dodge the fact that lack of confidence exists. As long as it continues to exist the depression will be prolonged. Only when confidence is restored can recovery come."

Green asserted that the American Federation of Labor was eager to co-operate in the attainment of national unity, to the end that all sections of the population might work together with government for the achievement of an enduring recovery.

Characterizing unemployment as still the "No. 1 problem" facing the country, Green reiterated the federation's demand for a scientific study of unemployment through a national advisory council representing government, labor, industry, the farmers and consumers, and expressed optimism that the problem could be solved, provided confidence were restored.

"I believe that American industry will shift into fear and start rolling as soon as the government shows it the green light," he said. "We hear complaints from business men about progressive legislation that has been adopted. But their fundamental complaint is that they feel they have no assurance for the future. That assurance must be forthcoming quickly in the public interest and for the sake of millions who are now suffering because there are not enough jobs to go around."

GOOD CENTRAL BODY MEETING

An unusually large number of delegates attended the meeting of the Central Body last Monday night, and the meeting was an interesting one.

The Rev. Guire addressed the Central Body delegates on behalf of the proposed "Boys' Town" idea which the home missions are sponsoring here.

A. C. Kamin, Erskine Mabee and Paul Reynolds were chosen to represent the Central Body at the big labor conference to be held in Atlanta on March 2 and 3.

Brother Lee Spriggs reported on the progress of Linemen's Local 846.

Several items came up for discussion and the delegates took an active part in these matters. Since the executive board was given "power to act," we shall probably hear more about some of these things at the next meeting.

Vice-President Paul Reynolds presided in the absence of President Curtis Sims, who is in Charlotte, N. C., on business for the bakers' union.

Edna Brown, of the Lady Garment Workers, was a visitor at the meeting and made a short talk.

A Shrug of the Shoulder and This

By Phyllis Frampton,
Member of Local 222, Minneapolis, Minn.

Why go to union meetings?
They're really not much fun,
Just a lot of stuffy business
That's sometimes left undone.

Why go to union meetings
And sit for hours on end,
'Til my back is nearly breaking
And my knees can hardly bend?

Why go to union meetings forces,
With all their whys and where—
When I never pay attention
And wonder what I'm there for?

Why go to union meetings,
When the "other guys" can go,
And undertake unpleasant tasks
While I "gad to and fro?"

I've got no time for meeting,
But I've got this to say—
When once again the contract's due
I want a raise in pay!

Strike to Bar Shipments of Cakes Into Washington Is Held Legal

Washington. — The International Bakery Workers' union and Local 118 thereof and the International Teamsters' union and Local 83 thereof won a signal victory in the United States district court for the District of Columbia by decision of Judge Jesse C. Adkins.

Judge Adkins rendered a precedent-making decision which will undoubtedly have profound effect on Thurman Arnold's crusade against labor activities, in the opinion of American Federation of rectly repudiates the department of justice as to what constitutes Labor officials. The decision diviolations of the Sherman act by activities of labor organizations, A. F. of L. leaders said.

Gundersheimer, Inc., a Washington bakery, brought action for treble damages against the unions for striking in order to prevent the employer from receiving shipments of cakes from Philadelphia, because such shipments had the effect of displacing local union bakers.

Joseph A. Padway, general counsel of the American Federation of Labor, appearing on behalf of the unions, moved to dismiss the case after the opening statement to the jury was made by the attorney for the bakery. After argument on the motion, Judge Adkins fully sustained Padway's position. Judge Adkins said:

"The purpose of the defendants was to secure for the members of Local Union No. 118 the baking of cakes which were sold by the defendants in the District of Columbia. It seems to me that was a purpose which was not unlawful."

Associated with Padway as counsel for the unions was John Keane.

Textile Workers Win Pay Raises

Providence, R. I.—Joseph Sylvia, president of the Federation of Woolen and Worsted Workers of America, United Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, announced here that the federation had secured a 10 per cent wage increase for employes of the A. D. Julliard & Co., Inc., Atlantic mills division of Providence, and the Lymansville company, Lymansville, R. I. The wage increase took effect on February 5.

President Sylvia stated that the federation would continue its campaign for at least a 10 per cent wage increase of all employes of the woolen and worsted textile industry.

Negotations are now being conducted with employers in Maine, upper New York state and eastern Massachusetts.

THE LABOR WORLD

On May 3, 1940, The Labor World will start on Volume 25. Each volume represents one year of publication in this city. During this time The Labor World, owned by the American Federation of Labor unions in Chattanooga, through the Central Labor Union, has builded for itself a prestige, respect and honor that few papers can claim. In all this period no firm or individual has suffered one penny loss because of The Labor World's failure to pay its just debts.

Your paper's policy has been to offer an advertising value to merchants that stands on its own merit. We do not accept contributions in the form of "A Friend" advertisements. We have an advertising value that has been recognized because The Labor World readers-owners patronize the people who advertise through their paper.

The Labor World feels that in its SILVER ANNIVERSARY EDITION there is every reason for the Labor Movement to rejoice over its accomplishments. We feel that business firms and individuals will accept the opportunity to rejoice with us.
We need your help. TALK about the SILVER ANNIVERSARY every day. Tell your merchant about it. Ask him to be represented in that issue. And then let us have the names of prospective advertisers whom you feel will want advertising space in that issue.

All Must Supply Facts To Census Enumerators

Washington.—William L. Austin, director of the census, issued a warning against the seemingly prevalent belief that answering questions propounded by census enumerators is a voluntary matter, with refusal to do so within the right of any person or group of persons who are disposed to keep silent. Far from being voluntary, Mr. Austin said that supplying the information requested by census enumerators is 100 per cent compulsory, with possible fines and jail sentences for those who decline to supply the information.

"Considerable circulation has been given recently to an erroneous statement to the effect that there is no legal compulsion to respond to the inquiries of census enumerators," Mr. Austin said in a statement regarding the complete legality of the census.

"The taking of the census of population," he continued, "is provided for in the Constitution. Since its results provide the basis for congressional representation, all persons are required by law to give correct answers to the inquiries of census enumerators. From time to time the congress has, by special enactment, provided penalties for failure to comply and for giving of intentionally incorrect information. These penalties apply not only to the public but to census employes as well. Census employes are required to treat census information as confidential and divulgence of information about any individual or firm is severely penalized.

"Fortunately, in the 150 years of census-taking the records show that it has rarely been necessary to resort to cumpulsion.

"The penalties provided for noncompliance with the 1940 decennial census were set by congressional enactment of 1929. Similar penalties have been provided by census law for more than 100 years.

"Penalties applicable to the public range from $100 fines to sixty days imprisonment for refusal to answer, up to $500 fines or one year imprisonment for giving intentionally incorrect information.

"Proprietors of hotels, apartments, boarding houses and similar enterprises who refuse to co-operate with the numerator in registering guests are subject to a fine of $500. Individuals or committees who conspire to cause an inaccurate count of a community are subject to a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment of one year or both.

"Compulsory submission of reports by business firms dates f 1880. Penalties for refusal r from $500 or sixty days' imp ment or both up to as high $10,000 fines or one year im onment for misrepresentation.

"A census enumerator who fuses or neglects to do his of duty is subject to a fine of $ If he reveals to an autsider an formation he has collected on official duties he is subject t $1,000 fine or two years' impri ment or both. If he knowingly ports false information to the reau of the census he is subjec a fine of $2,000 or imprisonm for five years or both."

If you have, you know how interested you always are in anything pertaining to that hobby.

There are approximately twenty thousand men and women in your trade territory whose hobby happens to be organized labor.

It is even more than their hobby . . . it is their very life.

These members of organized labor will be interested in your advertisement if it is presented to them through a medium dealing exclusively with that above mentioned hobby of theirs.

But the authorities ermany are now using this od for the purpose of segre-g a whole race so that it will eated with contempt and dis-, and so that it may be de-d of the necessities of life. It been decreed that the ration of every Jew in Germany shall the letter "J" stamped upon his means that any tradesman deny food, clothing and other rials to the holder of the card. ese later hardships may seem compared to the horrible bru-y with which Jews have been ed in concentration camps, the cowardly attacks of the upon helpless old women and children. But from this time the letter "J" stamped upon identification cards of all Jews ermany will carry with it fur-indignities and outrages, driv-many to insanity and suicide. owever, to be perfectly fair, the er "J" applied to Jews should carry with it implications other than that which the Germans desire to create. Instead of being the brand of dishonor, it should be the mark of loyal service and devotion to humanity from which the Christian world has been the greatest beneficiary. The Bible should bear their brand, for it was written almost entirely by Jews. Democracy should bear their brand, for the government of the Jews from the very beginning was a government by and for the whole people. The fundamental laws of human relations and social conducst should bear their brand, for in large measure these laws date back to the days of Moses—the greatest lawgiver of all time.

In the sacred books of the Jews it is written: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." Jesus Himself, when quoted this as the first and greatest of all commandments credited it to the Jewish law. "And," He added: "The second is like unto it: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." When our forefathers rang out the glad tidings of liberty, they inscribed upon the bell which today hangs in Liberty hall in Philadelphia the words found in Leviticus—the third book in the Old Testament—"Proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." And the significance of these words is embodied in the Declaration of Independence when it declares: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Small wonder that Germany desires to tear to pieces the Bible of the Christians as well as to destroy the Jewish people. Small wonder that it is attacking not only the Jews, but all Catholic and Protestants who maintain their belief in democracy and freedom. Small wonder that it would destroy labor and all that it has fought for throughout the years.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

TVA Program Assured

Action of the senate in sustaining the house appropriation of $40,000,000 for the next fiscal year virtually assured completion of the TVA 10-dam program. In their appropriation is an authorization of $1,000,000 to begin construction of Coulter Shoals dam. When this dam is completed a 9-foot channel will be available for navigation from Knoxville to the mouth of the Tennessee river.

Next will come the construction of terminal facilities and the establishment of harbor lines. Chattanooga is getting "the jump" on other ports in this regard, and will be the principal port on the Tennessee river.

Senator McKellar, who is the ranking member on the appropriations committee, deserves credit for favorable action by the senate committee. On the floor of the senate he was ably assisted by senator Tom Stewart in securing final passage of the appropriation.

TVA Tax Replacement Hearing Continues

Mr. George Westerberg, county attorney for Bradley county, on Wednesday appeared before the house military affairs committee and gave testimony as to the condition of his county. He pointed out the severe financial loss that will occur to Bradley county if the taxes are not replaced. Appearing also, at the invitation of your representative, was County Judge Elmer Eblen, of Roane county. Judge Eblen is also chairman of the legislative committee of the County Judges' association. The county judges of the Third district have done themselves proud in seeing that the cause of their counties was fully presented to the military affairs committee. Testimony of the various representatives, who have come to Washington, has had an extremely beneficial effect. Several members of the committee have remarked that the appeals on behalf of county schools and school children have put a different light on the situation. Hearings will continue next week, at which time senators and representatives will have an opportunity to be heard.

Ramspeck Bill Passes House

The house passed the bill presented by Representative Ramspeck (democrat, of Georgia) which will authorize the president to extend the civil service system to about 300,000 additional government workers. The president, under the bill, can bring all executive agencies, except the WPA, under civil service. The bill, while not all that could be desired in some respects, is a forward movement for career service and protection of federal employes in their positions.

Help For Finland

Indications are that congress will eventually find a way to help the gallant Finns in their valiant struggle with communistic Russia. The chief question is whether help will come soon enough. The senate passed a resolution directing the securities and exchange commission to expedite authorization for the sale of Finnish bonds to private investors. It is also expected that congress will pass the act authorizing the Export-Import bank to loan the Finns $20,000,000 for the purchase of non-military supplies.

Significant was the close vote in the house on discontinuing the payment for the American embassy in Russia. The sentiment in the house, as apparently throughout the nation, is almost unanimously pro-Finnish. However, the majority of the house members felt that diplomatic affairs should not be interfered with except upon recommendation of the state department, under the able guidance of Secretary Hull.

Mrs. Jackson's Portrait in White House

A movement headed by several Tennessee women, to raise funds by public subscription to place a portrait of the wife of Andrew Jackson in the White House, was spiked upon ascertaining that an appropriate portrait of her was found in the China room of the executive manion. The portraits of wives of several other presidents are in the same position. The artist who painted the portrait is unknown.

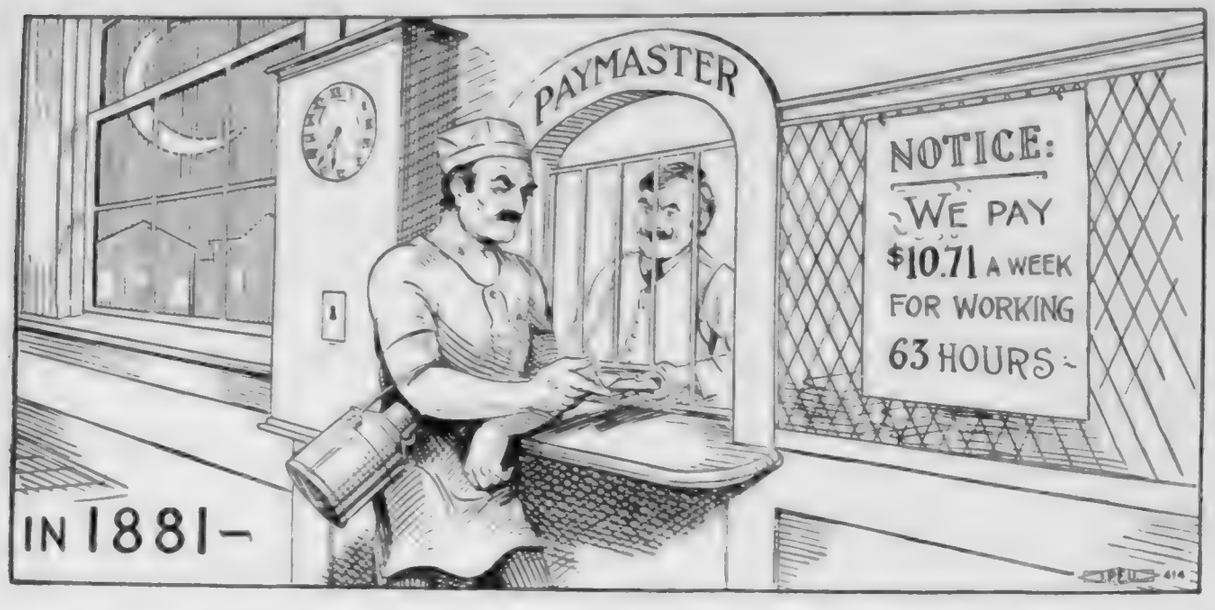
"WHAT DOES THE UNION DO FOR ME?" By Baer



Addressing an audience in East St. Louis this week, William Green, president of the A. F. of L., pointed out that in 1881, when the A. F. of L. was formed, the average American worker received a wage of $10.71 for working 63 hours a week, but——

Today, thanks to the American labor movement, Mr. Green says, the average pay of organized workers in the United States has been lifted to $40.50 a week for 40 hours a week. That's what the union does for millions of American workers!

Company's Anti-Union Policy Ordered Ended

Nebraska Power Concern's Official Antagonized A. F. of L. Electrical Workers Brotherhood.

Washington, D. C.—The National Labor Relations Board announced the issuance of an order erecting the Nebraska Power Company of Omaha, Neb., to cease interfering with its employes in the exercise of their right of self-organization as guaranteed in the National Labor Relations Act.

The finding of a violation of the Act was based on statements made by Turner, assistant superintendent of the company's generating plant, to two employes. The evidence showed that Turner spoke disparagingly of men who had attended a meeting of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, which was then conducting a membership campaign among the company's employes; inquired why they attended the meeting; accused one man of being an "unloyal" employe; and wanted to know "what he had up his craw."

As a result of a protest by an international representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers to Davidson, president of the company, the latter called in supervisors and foremen and warned them that they must avoid making any remarks to employes concerning the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Turner, especially, was admonished concerning such action in the future.

However, Davidson refused to accede to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' request that he post notices to the effect that it had no objection to its employes joining the union. Although the board stated there was no obligation on the part of the company to post such notices, it held that since the company had never directly informed its employes that Turner's statements were contrary to its policy, there remained more to be done to overcome the effect of the statements.

Job Gain of 1,357,000 Last Year, Business Outlook "Healthy," A. F. of L. Report Says

Washington.—In its monthly report on unemployment, the American Federation of Labor estimates that 1,357,000 more persons were at work in December, 1939, than in December, 1938.

"This important employment gain," the federation says, "has reduced the nation's unemployed army by nearly 800,000—that is, enough new jobs have been created to provide for more than 550,000 added to the working population, and to give work to nearly 800,000 of the unemployed.

"In December, 1939, there were 44,335,000 at work and 9,379,000 unemployed, according to our estimate; this compares with 42,977,000 at work and 10,166,000 unemployed in December, 1938.

Buying Power High

"While the unusual January lay-offs have probably affected about 1,000,000 workers in agriculture are industry this year, there is nothing in the industrial picture to suggest that lay-offs have been any greater than is normal at this season. The 1,357,000 job gain is probably being held, and employment should continue to hold its own in the months just ahead."

A "striking feature" of the industrial outlook for spring, the report says, is the high level of workers' buying power. With wages and salaries amounting to $3,888,000,000 in December, 1939, compared with $3,672,000,000 in December, 1938, a gain of $216,000,000, and the cost of living at about the same level as last year, the demand for consumers' goods is 5.9 per cent higher than it was a year ago, according to the federation.

Outlook Called "Healthy"

Regarding the outlook, the report comments:

"Business men are taking a very conservative view of the outlook. Forecasters have been predicting a slight decline in business for the first 1940 quarter, and buyers therefore are buying cautiously. Prices are steady, not rising except where finished goods are now compensating for higher raw material costs of last fall. The persistent high level of retail sales, which continue 4 per cent above last January, due to increased workers' buying, add the final touch to a business outlook which is more than usually healthy and constructive."

A. F. L. Demands New Labor Relations Board

Present Set-Up Is Accused of Stupidity, Incompetence and Maladministration of Wagner Act.

Miami, Fla.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, at its midwinter session here, declared that labor, industry and the American public "have lost confidence" in the present national labor relations board and reaffirmed the federation's demand that the present board be abolished, that there be a thorough housecleaning of its staff and that a new board of five members be created.

The council demanded that congress enact at this session the bill introduced in the senate by Senator Walsh and in the house by Representative Barden amending the national labor relations act.

"Disclosures before the special house committee investigating the labor board have justified and confirmed the charges of bias and maladministration directed against the board by the Federation of of Labor," the council declared.

"The evidence has made clear to all that we have known for a long time that the present board and its staff are totally unfit for their important duties, that this government agency has never been an impartial umpire, but has guilefully and deliberately sought to destroy the American Federation of Labor and promote the interests of the C. I. O.

"The record of the board's bias, stupidity and incompetence has become so overwhelming as to call for drastic action to save the national labor relations act from being undermined and destroyed by its own administrators."

John Coefield Is Dead; Was Fourth Vice-President of the A. F. of L.

Veteran Labor Leader, Who Was Also President of Plumbers' and Steam Fitters' Association, Passes Away in Nation's Capital at 70 Years of Age.

Washington, D. C.—John Coefield, fourth vice president of the American Federation of Labor and president of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steam Fitters of the United States and Canada, died at his home here February 8 after a brief illness. His age was 70.

While attending a testimonial dinner in New York on December 30 arranged for George Meany, retiring president of the New York State Federation of Labor, just before Mr. Meany became secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Coefield collapsed with a heart attack. He was removed to Doctors Hospital in New York, where he remained until January 30, when he was brought to his home here apparently on the road to recovery. He died following another severe heart attack.

Mr. Coefield was born in Franklin, Pa., in 1870. He was a resident of San Francisco for many years, where he became president of San Francisco Local No. 442 of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steam Fitters of the United States and Canada. Throughout his career he retained his membership card in the San Francisco local. He became business representative of the Building Trades Unions in San Francisco and was active in promoting their growth.

In 1920 he moved from San Francisco to Chicago, where he became vice president of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steam Fitters, and then president. For ten years he was vice president of the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, coming to Washington from Chicago in 1929.

Mr. Coefield was elected seventh vice president of the American Federation of Labor by the 1928 convention, taking office January 1, 1929. He was re-elected annually so that by seniority of service he became sixth vice president in 1930, fifth vice president in 1931, and fourth vice president in 1935, and was re-elected every year since 1935.

The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, at its mid-winter session at Miami, Fla., appointed a committee to attend Mr. Coefield's funeral in Washington, consisting of Frank Morrison, secretary emeritus of the American Federation of Labor, and Frank Duffy, secretary of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and former first vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Coefield is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ethel B. Coefield; two daughters, Mrs. Florence C. Smith and Mrs. Belle O'Shea, of Washington; a sister, Mrs. Belle Brewer, of Moab, Utah; two brothers living in Utah and Indiana, and two grandchildren of Washington.

Assistance for Finns Asked by A. F. of L.

Miami, Fla.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, at its midwinter session here, urged that the United States extend the fullest possible assistance to Finland in resisting the war of aggression launched by Soviet Russia.

"We urge our government," the council said, "to do everything it can without endangering American neutrality to help Finland resist Soviet aggression."

William Green, president of the federation, said the A. F. of L. favored a loan to Finland for the purchase of arms and war materials, "provided we can do it without violating the neutrality laws."

Unemployment Reduction Up to Business Men, Says Legion Speakers

New York City.—The second national conference on unemployment called by the American Legion was told that business men must pay higher wages and make more dependable jobs a major industrial objective if unemployment is to be reduced.

Jay C. Hormel, head of the Hormel Packing company, Austin, Minn., suggested the appointment of a legion subcommittee to study ways of getting business to take a more enlightened outlook.

Paul H. Griffith, national employment director of the legion, estimated that there are 250,000 unemployed among 4,000,000 world war veterans.

Raymond J. Kelly, of Detroit, national commander of the legion, warned that "when a man is out of work and his family in distress, you can't argue with him because he can't eat platitudes."

Men in that predicament, he said, were easy victims for subversive movements.

Families of Mine Disaster Victims To Receive Security Act Benefits

Washington.—Federal old-age and survivors insurance monthly benefit claims for the families of forty-nine of the miners who lost their lives in the Bartley (W. Va.) mine disaster of January 10 have already been approved by the social security board, John J. Corson, director of the board's bureau of old-age and survivors' insurance, announced here.

"Fifty-three claims for benefits have already arrived in Washington from the families of these miners," Corson said. "Others are on their way. Of the fifty-three claims, forty-nine have been adjudicated by the bureau of old-age and survivors' insurance.

"Benefits for these families are based on the average monthly wage of the deceased worker. Until the youngest child reaches the age of 18, monthly checks will continue for all these families."

Records show that eighty-one of the ninety-one entombed miners had been regularly employed and were eligible for some type of old-age and survivors insurance benefits. Immediately following the disaster the board sent a field crew to Bartley to assist every potential claimant in the filing of an application for benefits. This crew has reported that of the eighty-one potential claimants, seventy-six are widows and parents. The known number of children qualified to receive benefits are 129. The crew reported no information as yet could be obtained in five cases.

Married Women Compelled to Work By Husbands' Meagre Incomes, Women's Bureau Declares

Washington.—Men's low wages force women to work in commerce and industry, the United States Women's bureau declares in its annual report, submitted by Director Mary Anderson to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Women do not work for fun or "pin money," the Women's bureau insists, in reporting that hundreds of thousands of women are performing the dual role of homemaker and wage earner from absolute necessity.

Help Earn Family's Living 4

Women's employment does not mean their release from household chores, but an increase in responsibilities, the bureau adds.

"Before and after their work in factory, office or shop, countless women—married and single—must engage in such home duties as getting meals, cleaning house, making beds, washing clothes, looking after children," Miss Anderson said. "These women are employed to help earn a living for the family. Many of them would gladly give up their outside jobs if the husband were paid enough to support his wife and children.

"Family life in this country will suffer serious consequences if a prejudice against women workers marrying is allowed to spread. Or the single women today, who are the wives of tomorrow, many must continue working in order to establish a home, to have a family as young men today are not generally paid enough to enable them to set up a home," the report states.

Special Survey Under Way

To meet the demand for more facts on women's needs of employment and the family's need of the money contributions of wife and daughters, their employment history, and their household duties a special survey was initiated by the bureau during the year and is still under way. Data are being collected in different localities through personal interviews with women in all types of employment, including several of the professions, as well as with women not employed who want work or those who used to have jobs but no longer are seeking employment.

Industrial women have real difficulty in securing a living wage because employed to such great extent in seasonal, and too frequently low-paying, industries, Miss Anderson pointed out. Seasonal industries investigated by the bureau during the year, which also are closely related to women's interests as consumers, were the manufacture of women's and children's clothing, canning and millinery.

CHICAGO RESIDENTIAL HOTELS SIGN AGREEMENT WITH UNION DESIGNED TO STABILIZE LABOR CONDITIONS

Chicago.—Miscellaneous Hotel and Restaurant Employes' union, Local No. 571, Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International union and Bartenders' International League of America, A. F. of L., and the Chicago Residential Hotel association, have signed a two-year agreement which is designed to stabilize labor conditions in the hotel industry. It marks a new step in labor relations in that industry.

3,000 Workers Affected

The contract affects some 200 hotels, all outside the loop area, and about 3,000 workers. The union's membership embraces seamstresses, maids, cleaners, porters and many other classifications, and more than 60 per cent of the members are women.

The contract establishes wage scales based on three clissifications of hotels, provides for an eight-hour day and six-day week, with time and one-half for overtime, and stipulates that uniforms are to be furnished and laundered by the employers. The new wage schedule represents an increase in pay for the employes.

Arbitration Clause

An arbitration clause in the agreement practically eliminates the possibility of strikes or lockouts. Such events would occur only if all other means of settlement had been exhausted.

The union was represented in the contract negotiations by James Blakely, secretary-treasurer of Local No. 593, and Louis Romano, president, and James Crowley, secretary, of the Chicago local joint executive board and district craft council of the international union.

St. Louis Develops Anti-Skid Pavement

Chicago.—A special paving surface designed by the city street department to check skidding is reported successful in St. Louis, according to information from the American Public Works association.

Several years ago the department of streets developed a hot resurfacing mix with anti-skid characteristics. The mix consist of 95 per cent aggregate of crushed dolomite, a waste product from the Missouri lead mines, and 5 per cent asphalt and filler.

Streets treated with the anti-skid mix have withstood heavy traffic for six years with very little maintenance, according to the director of streets and sewers. They have proved superior to asphalt pavement in wet weather. Recent tests conducted by the department showed that cars operating at thirty miles an hour could stop within fifty-seven feet on the ant-skid pavement, while the stopping distance on wet asphalt was 134 feet.

Austrian Union Leader Revealed Murdered In Concentration Camp

Paris.—The International Federation of Trade Unions reports that the urn containing the ashes of Julius Weiss, former chairman of the Austrian Chemical Workers' union and member of the executive board of the Austrian National Trade Union center, was recently buried in a Vienna cemetery. The urn had been sent to Vienna on the instructions of the commandant of the Buchenwald concentration camp. Weiss was beaten to death in the concentration camp after having been arrested in August, 1938, although he had already been arrested and then released in the summer of 1938.

Weiss was a faithful trade unionist, to whose work the organization of the chemical workers in Austria owes much; he was also on the executive board of his international trade secretariat. He maintained close contact with his colleagues after the dissolution of the free trade unions in Austria in 1934.

Ford Obeys NLRB Curb on Labor Union Views

Boston.—Officials of the Ford Motor company announced that the company would comply with a national labor relations board order to stop "disparaging" or "criticizing" labor organizations. The order applied to the Somerville plant and appeared to be aimed at an interview with Henry Ford, head of the company, opposing trade unions, copies of which had been distributed to the firm's employes.

While agreeing to obey the board's order, company spokesmen claimed it was not authorized by law and constituted "an invasion of the constitutional rights of free speech."

Labor's Funds Aid Promising New Field Of "Polio" Study and Prevention

Washington.—The microbe hunters are following a wholly new track to run down the invisible virus of infantile paralysis, thanks to money furnished by the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, for which the labor division is doing its share.

Dr. Albert B. Sabin of the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine recently announced the finding that hitherto unsuspected barriers in adult persons enabled them to resist infection by viruses such as infantile paralysis which attack the human body's nervous system.

The eminent physician and scientist found recently that this newly discovered something which seems to act as a natural barrier in some of the living tissues of the adult body effectively blocks the viruses from finding their way to the nervous system, where they attack the motor cells and cause the maiming and crippling characteristics of "polio."

These natural barriers are largely absent in the bodies of the young, which is probably the reason why the disease chiefly attacks little children.

If Dr. Sabin can find the nature of mechanisms in mature bodies which seem to act as barriers to virus, the war on the dread disease will have been carried one step forward towards victory, according to recent information reaching the labor division.

The national foundation has made its first grant of $7,000 to Dr. Sabin to pursue his work in this direction.

There doesn't seem to be so much news this week.

We are glad to say that we have no sickness in our membership to report.

* * *

Our meeting last Saturday night was well attended. We had one new member to initiate.

* * *

The idea of the Chickamauga dam celebration's being held on Labor day was brought up at the Central Body meeting Monday night . . . somehow or other it doesn't appeal to me, because that one day belongs to organized labor and I think we should keep it just as labor's day.

Due to curtailment of orders, our mill worked only four days last week.

Big Organization Drive Planned By American Federation of Labor

A. F. of L. Forces Will Be Mobilized for Militant Unionization Campaign in the South and Far West, Concentrating on White-Collar Workers and Miscellaneous Trades That Are Largely Unorganized, Green Declares.

Miami, Fla.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, at its mid-winter session here, completed plans for one of the most important organization campaigns in the history of the federation.

The entire strength of the American Federation of Labor will be utilized in a comprehensive and systematic effort to birng the many thousands of unorganized workers in the south and the far west into the organized labor movement, with special concentration on textile workers, the retail trade, office and white-collar workers, marine workers, government employes and miscellaneous industries.

In announcing the plan for the nationwide organization drive sponsored by the Executive Council, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said:

"We are going to make a determined effort to organize the unorganized in fields which have hitherto resisted unionization. Particular emphasis will be placed on the far west and the south.

Local Union Officials Will Direct Campaign.

"We are enlisting the full strength of our far-flung organization in this drive. But we realize that each section of the country has its own special problems. Therefore, local union leaders best familiar with these problems will be called upon to direct the drive in each locality with the full assistance of our national organization.

"The first step in the campaign was a survey of all non-unionized industry in the country which was recently completed. We called upon more than 800 of our city and county central bodies to report on all unorganized plants in their vicinity.

Regional Labor Conferences Mapped.

"With this information at hand, we are now summoning regional conferences of American Federation of Labor organizers and representatives of all national and international unions, state federations of labor and city central councils.

"The latest one, held in Salt Lake City recently, mapped a five-state drive to organize unorganized workers in a large number of industries in the far west. The results have been prompt and encouraging.

Two Thousand Union Representatives Will Attend Atlanta Conference.

"Our next major regional conference will be held in Atlanta, Ga., March 2 to plan the widest organizational campaign ever conducted in the south. More than 2,000 representatives of our unions in the south will attend this meeting. Francis P. Fenton, national director of organization for the American Federation of Labor, and I, as president of the federation, will take part in the conferences and address the meeting.

Maximum Benefits for Workers Sought.

"The south has made great industrial progress in recent years but cheap labor still is stifling its economy. We believe the time is ripe for teaching the workers of the south the benefits of self-organization.

"We regard organization as an educational process. It is our purpose to make clear to the industrial workers of the south that by joining together into free, democratic trade unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor they will have a chance to bring their aspirations nearer reality, a chance to obtain a fair share of the wealth they help to create, to have better homes, better food, better medical service, more education for their children—in short, all the things that make for a fuller life.

Aid for Enforcement of Wages-and-Hours Act Pledged.

"Our unions intend to co-operate closely with the federal government to see to it that the provisions of the fair labor standards act with regard to minimum wages and maximum hours are not violated in the south.

"Among the fields in which we plan to concentrate organization efforts are textiles, retail trade, marine workers, office and white-collar workers, government employes, teachers and miscellaneous industries."

Birmingham Trades Council Inaugurates Radio Program

Birmingham, Ala. — Labor throughout the state has responded in splendid manner to the radio program inaugurated by the Birmingham Trades Council. Beginning the first Sunday in this month, a labor program is on the air over WAPI every Sunday afternoon from 1:45 to 2 o'clock, to continue throughout 1940. A program committee appointed by the Birmingham Trades Council, of which R. R. Moore, A. F. of L. representative, is chairman, arranges all programs. The Alabama State Federation of Labor, the American Federation of Labor, and local unions in Birmingham and throughout the state, are co-operating with the Birmingham Trades Council in this work.

W. O. Hare, secretary-treasurer of the Alabama State Federaion of Labor, will be speaker on the labor program next Sunday, Feb. 18, 1:45 to 2 o'clock, and all members who can get Station WAPI are invited to tune in and hear this well-known labor official of Alabama. C. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Birmingham Trades Council, was speaker at opening of the program, Feb. 4, and James F. Barrett, southern publicity director for the American Federation of Labor, was speaker last Sunday, Feb. 11.

WHAT A LITE—OR?

A passenger boarded Brother Andy Fults' bus with the intention of having a little fun with Brother Andy. He said, "Good morning, Andy," and Brother Andy greeted him also. Then he said, "Boy, let me tell you this electric power board sure puts out bright lights now. He said when the T. E. P. company had it he had to burn two or three lights in each room in order to see. Now since the E. P. B. has it he just uses one light in each room. Brother Andy said, "Shucks, man, you haven't got any light at all. You should see my lights. The current is so strong at my house I just have to burn one light for the whole house, and it is in the basement." The passenger said, "You win." Ha, ha.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL

Self-Respect.

Be and continue poor, while others around you grow rich by fraud and disloyalty; be without place or power, while others beg their way upwards; bear the pain of disappointed hopes, while others gain theirs by flattery; forego the gracious pressure of the hand, for which others cringe and crawl. Wrap yourself in your own virtue, and seek a friend and your daily bread. If you have, in such a course, grown gray with unblenched honor, bless God and die. Self-respect is the noblest garment with which a man may clothe himself, the most elevating feeling with which the mind can be inspired. To have a respect for ourselves guides our morals; and to have a deference for others governs our manners.

Be noble minded! Our own heart, and not other men's opinions of us, forms our true honor.

Self-respect is a cornerstone of all virtue.

There is no mortal truly wise and restless at the same time; wisdom is the repose of minds.—Lavater.

The Last Resort

In an Irish court an old man was once called into the witness box. He was nearly blind, and mistook the steps that led into the witness box; instead he mounted those that led up to the bench.

The judge smiled at the mistake and asked him jocularly: "Is it a judge you want to be, my good man,"

"Ah, faith, then, your honor," was the reply. "I am an ould man now and maybe it is all Im fit for."

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

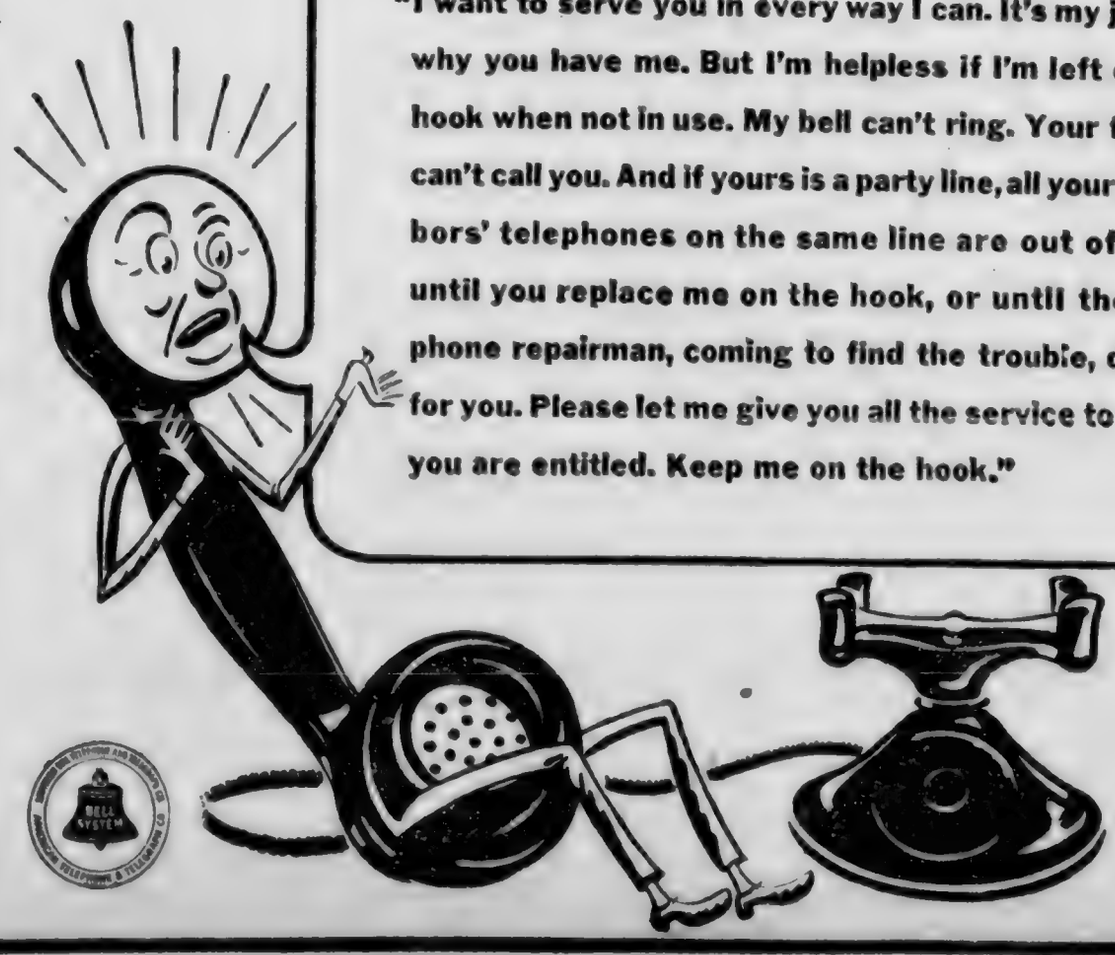
"I want to serve you in every way I can. It's my job. It's why you have me. But I'm helpless if I'm left off the hook when not in use. My bell can't ring. Your friends can't call you. And if yours is a party line, all your neighbors' telephones on the same line are out of order until you replace me on the hook, or until the telephone repairman, coming to find the trouble, does it for you. Please let me give you all the service to which you are entitled. Keep me on the hook."



TYPO AUXILIARY BENEFIT PARTY

On Friday night, Feb. 23, the members of Typographical Auxiliary 219 will entertain with an "apron" party. All wives of members of Typographical 89 are invited to be present, whether they are members of the auxiliary or not.

The party will be held at the Times assembly room and will begin at 7:30.

Each lady is asked to bring one penny for each inch she measures around the waist, putting it in the pocket of a tiny apron which can be made of crepe paper or a scrap of material. Members of the auxiliary say that they will even accept the pennies in an envelope if the apron is too much trouble.

Proceeds from the affair will be forwarded to the W. I. A. for the organization fund. Next week has been designated by the W. I. A. as organization week, and each local auxiliary has some benefit affair to raise funds to carry on the organization work.

Refreshments will be served, and everybody will have a good time, so plan to be present.

As the story goes, Earl Nave completely exhausted himself and the Missus carrying water from the neighbors. When a casual observer asked Earl if the hydrant in the front yard had ever been thawed out, he said he didn't know. On investigation he found it had never been frozen. Oh, well, sometimes we need a little extra exercise.

General Motors Refuses Unions' Plan for Voting

Detroit.—The General Motors corporation is taking a firm stand to maintain its policy that each of the corporation's plants is the proper bargaining agent for the employes. This position was emphasized in the corporation's refusal to agree to a stipulation in which four automobile unions, including the United Automobile Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, joined, whereby majorities in employe elections would lump plants for bargaining purposes. The examiner for the national labor relations board adjourned the hearing to give representatives of the unions and the company an opportunity to reach an agreement.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

international union officials. Reservations have already been made in the hotels here for President William Green, Secretary George Meany, Secretary Emeritus Frank Morrison, and many other members of the A. F. of L. Executive Council. Executive officers of numerous national and international unions also have been made, and others are coming in daily.

President Dewey L. Johnson's committee on arrangements, headed by Albert W. Gossett as chairman, is working long hours to have everything in readiness for the reception and entertainment of the visiting thousands. The mayor and leading citizens representing the business and professional life of the city of Atlanta are lending every aid in making complete these preparations. President Charles B. Gramling, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, and all members of his executive board are rendering yeomanry service in the preparation, and this state group is receiving the fine co-operation of many outstanding state leaders.

That March 2 and 3 will be busy days is indicated by the program of activities which begin early Saturday morning, March 2, when President Green will be guest at a breakfast to be given him by leading business executives of the south. Registration of delegates and visitors will start at 9 o'clock in the city auditorium, and for an hour while registrations are being made and the great crowd assembles, a musical concert will be given by the union musicians of Atlanta. Promptly at 10 o'clock President Dewey L. Johnson will call the conference to order. After welcoming addresses have been made, the president of the Georgia State Federation of Labor, Charles B. Gramling, will be called to the chair and the business of the conference will begin.

Throughout the day the conference will continue, and Saturday night a great banquet will be given in honor of Secretary-Treasurer Meany and Secretary Emeritus Frank Morrison. President Green will be principal speaker at the banquet.

Conference sessions will be resumed at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, and continue throughout the day, and many national and international executive officers will remain over Monday and hold meetings with members of their respective local union delegates attending the conference.

While local unions and affiliated bodies are requested to name delegates to attend the conference, the fact that all members of local unions of internationals affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and members of brotherhoods are cordially invited to attend, will bring great throngs of interested people in addition to the duly elected delegates. The federation of labor officials in the ten southern states sponsoring the conference are working hard to get as nearly all local unions to send delegates as possible, while the central labor union officials are urging their respective state federation officials.

Truckmen Sign Another Firm To Closed Shop

Local No. 515 Has Increased Membership Nearly 50 in Four Weeks.

H. F. Blansit, business agent for Local 515, Truck Drivers, gave The Labor World the good news that last Tuesday the Tennessee-Alabama Transport company signed a closed shop contract with the union. This brings twelve more drivers into the closed shop fold.

The agreement ups the pay scale from $5 to $7, and cuts the hours of work four per week.

Mr. Blansit said that negotiation with the Hoover Motor-Freight company, embracing all its many other branches in other cities, has been set for the latter part of this month.

Membership of Local 515 has increased nearly fifty in the last four weeks, he said, and before long the teamsters will have the largest local in the city.

Urgent Meeting For Teachers

Again we repeat that Saturday's meeting is an important one. It will be at 10 a.m. at Dickinson Junior High school.

The proposed constitution will be discussed, and, if it is adopted, nominations for officers and delegates for another year will be in order.

Plan to meet your friends there.

Contractors, Union Men, Sign Building Trades Pact

Only Crafts Affiliated With Building Trades Department of A. F. of L. to Be Hired by Employer Group, Agreement Provides.

A contract between the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades department and the Chattanooga chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America, providing that only members of crafts affiliated with the building and construction trades department of the Chattanooga Central Labor union shall be employed by the contractors, and that the department shall provide the contractors with the services of all necessary union mechanics in the various trades, was signed at a joint dinner meeting of the two organizations at Hotel Patten last night.

The contract, which was signed by Grover Cleveland Tittle, president, and W. W. Orr, secretary-treasurer, of the building and construction trades of the Chattanooga Central Labor union, and J. W. B. Lindsey, president, and Thomas Jefferson Kennedy, secretary of the Associated General Contractors, becomes effective April 1.

The agreement will be automatically renewed each year unless either of the contracting parties gives sixty days' written notice, in which case the agreement terminates at the end of that contract year.

The contract provides that there shall be "no stoppage of work either by lockouts, strikes, refusal to work or other methods for any reason whatsoever except the employment of nonunion labor.

In the event of an unauthorized strike by one craft, one inaugurated without the consent of the building and trades department, the contract provides that all other crafts shall continue working.

"The contractor shall request replacement workers of the department, and in event they are not furnished within twenty-four hours the contractor shall have the right to hire other workmen to replace the crafts out on the unauthorized strike, and such hiring of workmen, even though they are nonunion workers, shall not be a violation of this agreement," the contract states. "Such replacements shall receive the same scale of wage, and shall be removed when union men are furnished."

Wage rates being paid and working rules in force at the time a bid is made shall remain in force unchanged until completion of the job, the agreement provides.

According to the contract, the contractor shall have the right to request certain key men, and the business agent shall furnish such men "provided they are available at the time the request is made, and have been members in good standing locally for a period of twelve months."

It provides that "the contractor shall be the sole judge of the number of supervisory employes hired, except in case where this conflicts with the constitution of the unions involved as in effect and practice during the past year."

"This document, together with the wage scale and working rules of the various unions, which are expressly made a part hereof by reference, constitutes the entire agreement between the parties, and no dispute between either of the contracting parties and any third party, or parties, shall affect the respective obligations assumed by either party to this agreement, or relieve either of them from any obligations hereby assumed toward the other," it was further agreed.

The contract provides that the department shall, in no case, be required to work with nonunion men who might be employed by third party on the construction job.

The agreement sets up an arbitration committee for the purpose of settling all disputes arising over the interpretation of the provisions of the agreement. The committee will be composed of a member selected by the department and a member selected by the contractors, plus one other member, who shall be chosen by the first two members.

All disputes arising over the interpretation of the contract, which

Members of the City Council To Be Guests of Local No. 4 at Banquet

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Members of Atlanta's city council have accepted an invitation from Local No. 4, American Federation State, County and Municipal Employes, to be guests of the local union at the banquet to be given here on March 2 in connection with the Southern Labor Conference convening in Atlanta on that day. Local No. 4 is made up of city employes. Mayor Hartsfield will be guest of the Atlanta Federation of Trades at the banquet.

Reservations have been made at the banquet by the local union for the entire city council membership. The banquet is being given by the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the State Federation of Labor in the ten Southern states, honoring former Secretary Frank Morrison and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany of the American Federation of Labor.

Pipeline Permit Fails To Pass By Tie Vote

At last Tuesday's city commission meeting the third and final reading of the application for a franchise to lay gasoline pipelines failed to pass when the vote of the city commission was tied at two-all.

Commissioner McMillan refused to vote either way. If he had voted, the question would have been settled.

Commissioners R. M. Cooke and Eugene Bryan voted for the franchise and Mayor Bass and Commissioner Betterton voted against.

Chattanooga Building Trades council and Central Labor union indorsed the pipeline franchise.

MRS. KITCHENS ILL

Mrs. W. A. Kitchens, wife of Secretary Kitchens, of the Dairy Workers' union, is seriously ill at Erlanger hospital following an operation last week.

The Labor World joins the members of Local 428 in hoping that she will soon be completely recovered.

Memphis Will Send Large Delegation to Conference

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 24.—The labor movement of Memphis will be well represented at the Southern Labor Conference, to be held in Atlanta, March 2 and 3, according to all advance information available.

Many delegates already have been chosen to represent respective organizations of this city, and officials said the total delegation from Memphis might exceed twenty, while many are planning to attend in addition to the delegates.

Heading the Memphis group will be Lev G. Loring, president of the Trades and Labor Council, who is one of three carrying credentials from that organization. His fellow delegates will be W. W. Rowland, business agent of the Butchers' Union, and D. A. Pitts, business agent of the Painters' Union.

The Building Trades Council has elected E. E. Barnum, business agent, as delegate.

Make Unemployment Insurance Benefits Larger and Longer, Social Security Board Asks in Report to Congress

Washington. — More liberal unemployment insurance payments, advocated by organized labor, were recommended by the Social Security Board in its annual report to congress.

Insurance against unemployment because of sickness or injury, as well as against unemployment for other causes, was also recommended.

Unemployment insurance payments, the board said, should be more liberal, and the payments should continue for a longer time if the worker does not get back to a job. States that have a large accumulation of funds for unemployment benefits, as most states have, were urged to give "serious and continued consideration" to this matter.

The payments are governed by state laws and range from $2 to $18. In a few states, jobless wage-earners covered by the program may obtain benefits for as long as 20 and 26 weeks. In most states payments run from 12 to 16 weeks.

Wide Coverage Asked.

"The provisions which now prevail under most state laws," the board said, "express the necessary conservation of standards set when only tentative estimates were available with respect to the amounts that would be collected and expended under state laws."

Unemployment insurance protection should also be extended to millions of workers not now covered by the laws, the board recommended, especially to the employes of small firms who in many states are unprotected, and whose employers are exempt from tax under the federal law. The board said it considered it important, from the standpoint both of the workers and the nation as a whole, that protection against loss of wages be extended to all workers who have to face that risk.

Benefits for Sick Urged.

The report emphasized an inconsistency in present provisions for social insurance. There are unemployment insurance benefits for workers when laid off, it was pointed out, but not for workers on the same or any other job when they are out of work because of sickness. There is old-age insurance for workers after age 65 if they are not at work, but no benefits for younger workers unable to work because they are sick or disabled, perhaps for life.

The board repeated its indorsement of the goals and principles proposed in the national program, which calls for public services to prevent sickness and maintain health and earning power, and measures to protect workers and their dependents against loss of wages on account of either temporary or chronic disability.

Recommendations for changes in the social security program, similar to those made by the board, have been made by organized labor.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

Looks like every time we pick up a paper our city commissioners are asking for some new appropriation. Since the recent freeze, Commissioner Betterton needs more money to repair the roads. Commissioner McMillan wants to know why a certain school appropriation was not allowed to him. Mayor Bass has had to cut the city's budget to the quick. YET—they refused a franchise to the Gulf Refining company which would have netted the city a $5,000 tax, and, too, Chattanooga will not get the $100,000 which would have been spent in building the refining company's terminal and pipelines. Seems that, in the two or three months that this matter has been before the commissioners for vote, Commissioner McMillan could have had time to make up his mind as to how he should vote and not just keep straddling the fence. Thanks, though, to Commissioners Bryan and Cooke, who did all they could, but two votes against two votes and a "yea nor nay" just won't carry. Too bad!

Warning to all union men! Friday, Feb. 23, is the last day to register to qualify a vote in the democratic primary.

* * *

We feel that it would have been to their interest as well as to our own if the union had been represented on the permanent committee to serve on the Chickamauga dam celebration, which is to be held Aug. 31 to Sept. 2. After all, Labor day is our day.

* * *

Glad to report almost all of our membership have been able to continue on the jobs in spite of the rain, mud and general bad weather we have had.

* * *

Be sure to attend our regular meeting Friday night, Feb. 23.

Teamsters to Have Large Delegation at Conference

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—J. T. Odum, business agent for one of the Atlanta local unions of Teamsters and Chauffeurs' International Union, reports that several hundred members of his international union are planning to be in Atlanta on March 2 and 3 in attendance upon the sessions of the Southern Labor Conference. Reports from C. H. Anderson, Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the "Over-the-Road Area Committee" of truck drivers, announces that a meeting will be held in Atlanta in conjunction with the Southern Labor Conference.

From Charlotte, N. C., comes the report of H. L. McCrorey, business agent, that a large number of teamsters in North and South Carolina are making arrangements to attend the conference, while from Richmond, Va.; Birmingham, New Orleans and many other centers in the South similar reports are being received.

Veteran Labor Man Dead

Chicago. — Thomas Fitzpatrick, veteran labor leader and a founder of the Chicago carpenters' union, died Feb. 11 at the age of 70. He was division superintendent of repairs for the board of education, with which he had been connected for forty-two years.

Fitzpatrick served seventeen years as president of Carpenters' Local 10.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly

This is an age of fighting. Fight this; fight that; fight every day, for something, or against something.

Labor is—has to be—in most of the fights.

The age-old fights, for basic rights. Always they come first. They are by no means finished.

Employers soak in education slowly. They have their rights, but are slow to yield to others.

The barons won their rights at Runnymede, but long years were to pass before the serfs and workers got even the most elemental of theirs.

Even today the wars go on, for rights, for freedoms, so that all the decency of life may not go to the few.

And even within itself labor gets tangled up on the same issue—to whom shall go the rights?

We speak of the war in Europe; actually there are several. And more in Asia.

So, labor, resenting imperialism, despotism, autocracy, joins to help the victims of these evils.

Labor helps the Finns, helps the Czechs, helps the Poles, helps the Chinese; raises great sums of money for victims and refugees.

Labor fights infantile paralysis, gives to the Red Cross, helps the unemployed.

There is no good fight in which organized labor is not engaged.

This is as it should be and as it must be, for labor in unions is first of all an idealistic movement.

The opponents of unions see only that labor seeks better conditions of employment, better wages, shorter work days.

The vast contributions of labor to the social progress of the nation are too often lost to view—but there they stand, a growing series of monuments to the idealism of organized labor and its vital concern for the betterment of human life on every front.

Labor talks too little, perhaps, about its far-sighted, constructive efforts to make America a better land—a free land, a happier land.

Just so, the critic sees the $12 wage, or the $14 wage of the building mechanic, but doesn't see the long and weary days when there is no work.

Maybe the hourly wage is higher than it should be, maybe there's a way of forcing a higher annual income out of a lower rate per day, but nobody has found it yet, and those who are the severest critics are the ones who have given least to finding a better plan.

Against all the criticisms stands the fact that in every great national crisis it has been proclaimed on every hand "labor is our first line of defense."

Even old Iron Pants (as he likes to call himself, rather factuously) Hugh Johnson gave forth that acclaim when he was busy with the draft in the World War.

And if Westbrook Pegler, tainted with a certain mental jaundice, roots out some evil with his bitter pounding, let that be to his credit (if and when he does), but where is his recognition of the great contribution of the unions to the sound and solid welfare of the United States?

It is a sad thing when men see only with one eye.

In New England there are public monuments to labor's great contributions in the establishment of our public school system.

Whatever may have been the slight and temporary aberrations, labor has come down from the very first days of unions, fighting over the whole broad field for human rights, human freedom, democracy and a better life for all.

If corporate wealth survives it will be because labor has compelled moderations that make corporate wealth serviceable and not purely an engine of exploitation.

As the warm days of spring draw near, to warm the earth again into new life, let these be things for contemplation.

It isn't labor that wills the murder, the devastation, the horrible mutilation of civilization.

Labor fights FOR life, not for its destruction.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Politics Seethes in National Capital

All Washington is astir with political activity these days. The Republican National Committee has fixed June 24 for the G. O. P. convention. The meeting place will be Philadelphia. The Democrats have already chosen Chicago and Chairman Farley will set the date in a few days. Republican "big wigs" took the occasion of Lincoln's birthday to commence a barrage at the New Deal. President Roosevelt paid reverent tribute to the great emancipator at a serene service held at the Lincoln Memorial.

Washingtonians generally have no inside information as to whether or not President Roosevelt will seek a third term. Other Democratic candidates are holding their thunder, awaiting the third term decision. Both sides are preparing for what may be the greatest political battle in the history of our nation.

President Roosevelt, after sending Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles on a mission to discuss the possibilities of peace with foreign powers, went on a much needed vacation cruise. There is an undenied rumor in political circles that he may confer with French, British and Italian authorities during his trip on the cruiser Tuscaloosa.

Aid to Finland

A part of a letter from a constituent in the district to the President, a copy of which was sent to the Senators and Representatives, is as follows: "Every American should agree with you fully in your efforts and outspoken sentiments for the Finnish Government. Russia should be considered a murderous outlaw by all peace-loving people. . . . We hope you are able to get quick action. The Finnish people need it immediately."

The other side of the argument is that it would establish an undesirable precedent to loan money to Finland; that other small nations, victimized by unwarranted aggression, would call on the United States for loans.

The State Department reports that the bill, increasing the capital of the Export-Import Bank so as to enable a $20,000,000 loan to Finland, would not jeopardize our neutrality. Chairman Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, states that he thinks the loan would be a good risk and that the Finnish nation will continue to exist.

Naval Appropriation Passed

The House passed, with little opposition, the naval appropriation of $966,000,000. This was the largest peace time appropriation in history, yet it was $112,000,000 under the President's budget request. The House refused a $3,000,000 appropriation for improvement of the harbor at Guam, 6,500 miles west of the Pacific Coast. The fortification of Guam causes an annual dispute in Congress, with the "anti's" consistently winning.

How long will the economy wave last? Every reduction brings representatives of the injured group or agency to Washington. Grievances and pressure are rapidly accumulating. Representatives are beginning to hear from one side "it will be too bad if you don't," and the other side says "it will be too bad if you do." In the horns of this dilemma the process of government is moving on.

TVA Tax Hearing Reaching Conclusion

Congressmen had an opportunity to appear before the House Military Affairs Committee Tuesday to testify on behalf of tax replacement. Representative Jennings of the Second District, and your Representative, testfied on behalf of distressed East Tennessee counties. Hearings will continue on Tuesday and Wednesday. Shortly thereafter the committee is expected to make its report. The case for tax replacement has been strongly presented. The situation in almost every Tennessee county has been described. The committee has all the facts.

Tennessee Party

Several hundred Tennesseans, residing in Washington, enjoyed a reception and ball Friday night at the Willard Hotel. The party was sponsored by the Tennessee Society of Washington. Senators McKellar and Stewart headed the receiving line. Everybody had a good time, discussing things back home and exchanging news about Tennessee politics. The Tennessee Society has three parties of this kind each year.

* * *

P. S.: With this news letter we are sending you seevral copies of part of your Representative's statement before the House Military Affairs Committee on TVA tax replacement. We will be glad for you to use any part of this that you wish, and to distribute copies to some of your friends.

An Eye to the Future

Farewell to 'Earnest Consideration'

A letter was received from Congressman Kefauver this week by officials of Central Body that should be framed, dedicated and hung in our hall of fame, if we had one. The grammar in the letter is nothing unusual. The letter itself is just an ordinary letter from the congressman's office.

It was simply an answer to a request from Central Body that the congressman support a certain measure now being considered by congress. In this epoch-making instance, the bill we are supporting is not so important, in the light of this editorial.

The fact that the congressman replied to our request is nothing unusual. All of our letters are given prompt and courteous replies.

But, listen well, here is the astonishing thing about Congressman Kefauver's reply. We have waited many, many years for such a reply from our representatives in congress, the state legislature, and other governing bodies.

> Mr. Kefauver stated that he had INVESTIGATED the matter we discussed with him, he had studied the merits, and . . .
> HE TOLD US WHAT HE INTENDED TO DO ABOUT THE MEASURE!

Now that is somepin. He did not say he would give our request his "earnest consideration." It is not important whether he said he would vote for or against it. But he did say what he would do and climbed right down to common ground and said something.

"Goodbye, Earnest Consideration." We bid you farewell with great joy. You have been long overworked and deserve a pension.

And, thank you, Mr. Kefauver. Your positive statement is appreciated, whether it was favorable or unfavorable to our request, and we admire your courage and frankness.

Mark Wilson a Good Choice

The dedication celebration being planned for Chickamauga lake will turn out to be one of the biggest projects ever planned by citizens of Chattanooga and neighboring cities in the Tennessee valley area.

Recognizing that such a big job will have to be directed by big men, if it is to be a success, Mark K. Wilson has been named the chairman. A better choice could not have been made. Mr. Wilson has proven himself a successful business executive, successfully completing projects in his career that ran up into the million dollar class. He is a man that can rally to him every phase of civic enterprise.

He should also naturally attract to his support the efforts of members of organized labor, due to the fact that he is a very substantial employer of members of the building trades crafts.

We hope that members of organized labor will not just sit by and expect Mr. Wilson to put this job over by his own efforts. We profess to be civic-minded rather than interested in just the pay envelope each week. Therefore, let one and all pitch in and offer cooperation to Mr. Wilson and his committee.

Tittle, one of the signers of the contract, said at the dinner last night that "it is the desire of labor to put building and construction on a sound basis, on which the contractor can make a fair and reasonable profit."

"It is a great event when contractors and groups representing organized labor sit down together and sign a fair contract," Tittle said.

J. W. B. Lindsey, president of the contractors' group, said: "We want to make this the best year for building Chattanooga has ever had." He said there would be no increase in labor prices this year and that he understood that building material prices will not be increased this year.

Editor Keating to Speak At Labor Conference in Atlanta

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Hon. Edward Keating, editor of "Labor," a national weekly newspaper owned and edited by the railroad workers of America and published in Washington, D. C., has accepted an invitation to address the Southern Labor Conference, which convenes here Saturday morning, March 2. He will be on the program Saturday afternoon, and will attend the banquet to be given Saturday evening in honor of Frank Morrison, secretary emeritus, and George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Keating was a member of Congress from Colorado during the Wilson Administration, and was co-author of the bill bearing his name, the Keating-Owen Child Labor bill. He gained nationwide prominence in Congress for his courageous stand for the rights of workers, and has exerted powerful influence in America as editor of "Labor," the railroad workers' own newspaper that carries the caption: "Not Published for Profit—Carries No Advertising."

Officers of railroad labor organizations and members attending the conference will be especially interested in Mr. Keating's address at the Atlanta conference.

"Build-Up" Important Protector of Women

A weak, undernourished condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get a foothold; thus leads to much of woman's suffering from headaches, nervousness, and other periodic discomfort.

CARDUI'S principal help for such distress comes from the way it usually stimulates appetite; increases flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion; helps build energy, strength, physical resistance against periodic pain for many.

Another way, many women find help for periodic distress: Take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time." Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years.

Green Suggests John L. Lewis Submit "Peace Proposal" to Joint AFofL-CIO Committee

Miami.—Ending its midwinter meeting here, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor set its next meeting in Washington on May 18 and approved Nov. 18 as the 1940 convention date in New Orleans.

Before leaving, President William Green announced that he had been instructed by the council to protest to Secretary of Labor Perkins against her division of American labor representation between the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. at the regional conference of the international labor office in Havana last November.

The A. F. of L. contends that under the rules of the international labor office only the "dominant" labor organizations of a country receives representation at I. L. O. conferences.

Columnists Answered

President Green said that the council had instructed him to tell Secretary Perkins that if the practice instituted by her at the Havana meeting was continued the A. F. of L. would refuse to take part in future I. L. O. conferences.

One of the council's final major actions was to defend the A. F. of L. against charges that racketeers headed some of its affiliates. Green condemned racketeers and racketeering, but said:

"No president of the American Federation of Labor is vested with authority or clothed with power to interfere with the administration of any of its international unions or remove any officer elected."

He said his remarks were directed specifically to Westbrook Pegler, columnist, and others he said had criticized him for failure to remove certain alleged "racketeers" from the federation.

"Peace Plan" Flury

The executive council had ended its sessions when John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chief, broke into the headlines with a labor "peace proposal" made in an address before the American Youth Congress in Washington. The proposal, which Lewis said would result in immediate labor peace, embodied the suggestion that the C. I. O. and A. F. of L. vote in convention March 15 on the question.

"Resolved, that the C. I. O. and all of its units and all of its membership this day become a part of the A. F. L. . . ."

The response of Green was that Lewis should make any "serious proposals" to the joint A. F. L.-C. I. O. peace committee created early in 1939.

Bakers' Scraps

By DOUGHBOY

I read in our Bakers Journal that our home-town boy, Curtis Sims, with the aid of Brother Wade, vice-president of the Alabama State Federation of Labor, has established a bakers' local union in Montgomery, Ala. Local 25 congratulates Brother Wade and Brother Sims on their fine work and wishes for the new organization much success.

— DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM? —

Brother Fred Elkins has returned to work at Cameron & Barr bakery after being off from work for almost a week on account of illness. We sure are glad to have Brother Elkins back on the job for we have been missing him.

ORIENT FLOUR STILL NONUNION

I have just been notified by Uncle Sam that I will have to make an income tax report within the next few days. How is a fellow ever expected to get ahead if he has to make enough this year to pay tax on what he made last year? Not that I am against income taxes, for I think they are alright, but they always catch me at the wrong time. But getting down to brass tacks, I guess most any time would be the wrong time with me.

— DOWN WITH POLL TAX —

Hooper's pies and cakes are still NON-UNION. Please help Local 25 by not buying these products and have your grocer not to carry them.

— HAPPY VALLEY UNFAIR —

Our delegates to the Label league are Blanch Lamb, Mrs. Burva Batey and Lois Baker. Hope they can attend the meeting Friday night at the Hotel Patten. Delegates please take notice of this and go if you can.

LIFE AND TIME MAGAZINES ARE NONUNION

Greetings From George L. Googe

To all union men and women in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Greetings:

A reminder that you are cordially invited to attend labor's greatest meeting, which will be held in Atlanta on March 2 and 3, at which time the executive officers of the American Federation of Labor and affiliated national and international unions and numerous officials of the railroad organizations will hold conference with Southern labor and adopt a program of organization and state legislation that is expected to do much for our organized labor movement in the south. I am urging all organizations that have not named delegates to do so at once, and all who have been named send in their duplicate credentials so our committee may know how to plan for the entertainment of all. Those who wish to attend the banquet on Saturday night, March 2, are urged to get their tickets now from their state federation of labor president or secretary. Good luck and I will see you in Atlanta on March 2. This means all members of our affiliated unions whether named as delegates or not, but please see to it that the delegates who have been named send in their duplicate credentials at once. Good by, good luck.

Paper Makers Local 362

By HARRY SEDOIT

Just a few lines to let the readers of The Labor World know what is going on in Pudville and its suburbs.

Just had a talk with the mayor (Freddie Campbell). He is expecting a big boom for this end of the state. He says that with a building program in the spring, and new business coming, Pudville will be the metropolis of Tennessee.

Of course this doesn't set so well with the folks over in Howser Town.

Down at Shorty Lamon's meat market quite a few met and decided that the mayor of Pudville is a lot of hooey. Commodore Cox, who has made himself conspicuous by absenting himself from meetings, has a good word. Says there will be new industries locate here. Going to build boats. Skung Travis says if they are for the Commodore that they better put fences around them, so the Commodore can't fall in the water.

Roy Wells was showing some visitors around Pudville last Sunday. When they came to a tall building, he said, "This is a skyscraper." A small urchin close by said, "Oh! Yeah! Let's see it work."

* * *

Charlie McRay and Shorty Johnson are a committee to see about having a doughnut eating contest, to be held at the auditorium in Pudville.

Down at the Greasy Spoon, where they discuss everything, someone asked Clint Worley if they gave grace before they eat. Clint said they used to, when the kids were little, but if you bowed your bead now, you wouldn't have a chance.

Someone told George Durham that if you split a crow's tongue, you could teach it to talk. Now he is wondering if he could cross them with his chickens, then they can tell him where he can find the eggs.

Herman Taylor says a person has to be a contortionist these days. First you have to keep your back to the wall, your ear to the ground, your shoulder to the wheel, your nose to the grindstone, keep a level head, both feet on the ground, and at the same time, work for the silver lining, with your head in the clouds.

* * *

Paul Lex and Ike McKissick made application to the Liar's club recently. We know they weren't truthful, but didn't expect them to own up to it.

* * *

A blessed event: Born, to Mr. and Mrs. William Leydorf, a daughter.

Another coming event: Wimpy Lamon and Miss Julia Lamb will be married this coming Saturday. Lots of luck to you and Julia, Wimpy. May all your troubles be little ones.

* * *

If the business agent of the Cooks and Waiters would see Brother Brown of the Greasy Spoon, maybe they would put up a card. Brother Brown and his family are 100 per cent union.

* * *

Bill Wood, president of the Refinery union, and his boys must be in hiding. Never see their delegate at the Cenral Labor union, or see any write-up in The Labor World. Come on, boys. Lots of us don't know we can buy shortening put up by union labor. It pays to adveritse.

* * *

Wade Smith, of the Typos, was seen at the meeting house Sunday. Said he would wait until he got home to smoke. Said the weather was too damp for him to keep his cigar lighted. Wade comes to Sunday school one Sunday and Maud the next. Wonder why?

* * *

As Saturday night is meeting night, I want you all to come out. Fines will be assessed to those absent twice in one month, without good excuses.

* * *

Brother A. R. McWilliams made a trip over in the valley, but he hasn't showed up around the barn yet. Some of the boys said if the river is up he wouldn't be able to get back before spring.

* * *

Brother J. C. Rowland was missing for some time and when I asked if he was off sick I was informed that he would be in as soon as his name appeared on top of the board. Whether there was anything to it or not I decided to watch the board. Sure enough when his name appeared on top in popped Brother Rowland, but I believe it was just a mere coincidence.

* * *

Sure glad to see Brother F. H. Lewis back on duty after being off on account of a sprained ankle.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL

Morality.

We have come too late, by several thousand years, to say anything new in morality. The finest and most beautiful thoughts concerning manners have been carried away before our times, and nothing is left for us but to glean after the ancients, and the most ingenuous of the moderns. If we are told a man is religious we still ask what are his morals? But if we hear at first that he has honest morals, and is a man of natural justice and good temper, we seldom think of the other question, whether he be religious and devout. The morality of an action depends upon the motive from which we act. Morality is a curb, not a spur.

Farmer-Union Accord Cemented by Success of 'Eat More Apples' Drive

Seattle, Wash.—Relations between labor and the apple grower in the Pacific Northwest have been strongly cemented during recent weeks as a result of efforts of the Washington State Federation of Labor to aid fruit growers.

When the European war largely terminated continental apple sales, farmers of the Northwest received a terrific blow. To help them dispose of their surplus fruit, the State Federation of Labor urged all its affiliated members to "eat more apples." The federation also appealed to other A. F. of L. groups throughout the nation, with fine response.

The Washington State Federation recently received word from the Chicago Federation that the apple campaign is producing good results in the Chicago area.

Telegraphers Sign Pacts With Shipping Firms

New Orleans.—Charles A. Luck, gulf district representative of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, announced here that the signing of a contract with the Mississippi Shipping Company, Inc., had completed his union's negotiations with East Gulf of Mexico shipping concerns. Contracts with other companies were signed Jan. 1, he said.

The contract signed with the Mississippi Shipping Company, Inc., provided for wage increases up to $15 per month for marine radio operators, Lusk said.

The previous high was 940,130 in September, 1939.

The commission said that the peak figure of December was due to employment of 48,866 postal workers for the Christmas mailing rush.

Silver Anniversary Edition

THE LABOR WORLD

On May 3, 1940, The Labor World will start on Volume 25. Each volume represents one year of publication in this city. During this time The Labor World, owned by the American Federation of Labor unions in Chattanooga, through the Central Labor Union, has builded for itself a prestige, respect and honor that few papers can claim. In all this period no firm or individual has suffered one penny loss because of The Labor World's failure to pay its just debts.

Your paper's policy has been to offer an advertising value to merchants that stands on its own merit. We do not accept contributions in the form of "A Friend" advertisements. We have an advertising value that has been recognized because The Labor World readers-owners patronize the people who advertise through their paper.

The Labor World feels that in its SILVER ANNIVERSARY EDITION there is every reason for the Labor Movement to rejoice over its accomplishments. We feel that business firms and individuals will accept the opportunity to rejoice with us.

We need your help. TALK about the SILVER ANNIVERSARY every day. Tell your merchant about it. Ask him to be represented in that issue. And then let us have the names of prospective advertisers whom you feel will want advertising space in that issue.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Definite arrangements have been made for a nationwide broadcast of President William Green's address before the Southern Labor Conference that is to be held here on March 2 and 3, according to announcement made Sunday by George L. Googe, Southern representative of the American Federation of Labor. President Green's address will be delivered Saturday evening, March 2, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, central standard time, at a banquet to be held in the Ansley Hotel. Gov. E. D. Rivers will introduce President Green.

It is expected that 700 people will attend the banquet, including national and international union executives, heads of railway labor organizations, officers of the state federations of labor in the ten Southern states sponsoring the conference, and many outstanding men and women in industry, business and the professions.

President Green will speak on "Union-Management Cooperation."

SHORT HOURS VITAL

Hours of work are getting shorter. The five-day week of 40 hours or even less, though unknown a dozen years ago, is now a schedule widely used. Short hours are needed if our unemployed are to find jobs and workers are to remain healthy, safe and efficient.—"Standards for Employment of Women in Industry," U. S. Women's Bureau.

Hanes Knitting Co. Signs Union Agreement

Winston-Salem, N. C., Feb. 24.—An agreement was signed here last week between the P. H. Hanes Knitting company and the local union of United Textile Workers of America, an A. F. of L. affiliate. Signing of the contract ended approximately three months of negotiation between the company and the United Textile Workers of America, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, which was chosen bargaining agent for employes at an election which followed a strike in the fall. The strike, which brought out workers in departments of the mill on October 31, was called in protest against alleged instruction of the "stretchout."

Soviet Union Is Expelled from World Labor Body

Geneva, Switzerland.—The governing body of the International Labor Organization, in session here, voted to expel Soviet Russia from the I. L. O. The governing body followed the example of the League of Nations, which excluded the Russian government last December following its invasion of Finland.

Carpenters' Local Union to Honor Visiting Officials and Members

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Local Union No. 225, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, will honor visiting union officials, members and friends attending the Southern Labor Conference at a banquet to be held on the evening preceding the opening of the conference. The Southern Labor Conference starts Saturday morning, March 2. The Carpenters' Local Union is planning its event for Friday evening, March 1. The following invitation has been sent out:

"The honor of your presence is requested at a banquet given by Local No. 225, Atlanta, Ga., United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, in the Louis J. Dinkler room, Ansley Hotel, Friday evening, March 1, at 8:30 o'clock. (Signed) W. Lee Sorrells, business representative, Local Union No. 225."

Hours, Pay Protected In Federal Contracts

Washington.—The labor department announced that supply contracts for a total of $2,909,319 were awarded during the week ending January 27 by thirteen federal agencies under the provisions of the Walsh-Healey public contracts act.

Each of the contractors is required to apply the forty-hour week and pay the minimum prevailing wage found by the secretary of labor to be general in the industry, with time and a half for emergency overtime work.

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25

Tracy and Barker To Be Honored at Atlanta Banquet

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Local unions of the Internations Brotherhood of Electrical Workers are planning a banquet in Atlanta on the evening of March 1 to honor their international president, Dan W. Tracy, and their international vice-president, K. X. Barker. The banquet will be held in the Dixie ballroom of the Henry Grady Hotel at 8 o'clock Friday evening, March 1. In addition to Messrs. Tracy and Barker, many other visiting officials and delegates to be here for the Southern Labor Conference will be guests of the local union electricians.

Members of the I. B. E. W. in other cities planning to attend the Southern Labor Conference and desiring to attend the banquet are urged to communicate with Rufus Johnson, business manager, 91 Trinity Avenue, Atlanta, and reservations will be made at the I. B. E. W. banquet for all those desiring to attend, it is said.

Banquet Tickets Going Rapidly

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Reports from the committee on arrangements named by President Dewey L. Johnson, of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, show that tickets to the banquet to be given here on Saturday night, March 2, are going rapidly. The banquet is being given by the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the State Federation of Labor in the ten Southern states, in honor of former Secretary Frank Morrison and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany of the A. F. of L., and is one of the highlights of the great Southern Labor Conference.

As the largest banquet hall in Atlanta available for the occasion will not seat more than 700 people, those anxious to attend have been obtaining their tickets in order to be certian of having a place at the banquet table, Albert Gossett, chairman of the committee on arrangements, has placed banquet tickets with the president and secretary of each state federation of labor. Those desiring tickets may, therefore, obtain them from the officers of their respective state federations of labor.

It is at this banquet that President William Green will deliver an address that is to be on a nationwide radio hookup over the National Broadcasting Company. Chairman Gossett suggests that those who have not as yet obtained their banquet tickets do so at once.

TEACHER TALK

The membership meeting last Saturday morning accomplished the following:

Adopted the revised constitution with certain amendments. Perhaps most significant of the changes that take place under the new document is the change of our name from "Federation" to "UNION." We are now in name what we have long been in fact. Organization came in for improvements also. Duties of the board of delegates—which takes the place of the old board of directors—are more specifically set forth. There will, from the next election, be two vice-presidents instead of one. Membership meetings formerly held in October and December will occur in September and November respectively. Nomination of members to the board of delegates and of officers of the local and delegates to the organizations with which we are affiliated may now be made at the February meeting.

Made nominations of officers and delegates for the union's year 1940-41. These do not preclude the right to make nominations at the April meeting, when elections will be made.

Elected Willard Millsaps, J. Steger Hunt, and O. C. Kirkman as delegates to the Southern Labor Conference that will meet in Atlanta this week-end. Stanton Smith will be there also, representing the AFT as vice-president for this area. You no doubt have read of this conference, to which all affiliated bodies of the A. F. of L. will send delegates. Among the speakers will be President William Green, Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, and Secretary Emeritus Frank Morrison of the A. F. of L. Much good should come of this meeting.

Bernard Campbell, our predecessor in this column, is back in town after a leave of absence for study at the University of Alabama. He hasn't been placed in a position yet, but Supt. Clark expects to give him an appointment as soon as possible.

IMPORTANT NOTICE FROM LOCAL 323, OIL REFINERS

Place of meeting will be the Alton Park auditorium above the Alton Park fire hall.

"Smells Bad," Says Teamster Of Labor Fight

By BILL ECKENROD, JR.

If you have ever read an article yb Westbrook Pegler about union activities you can readily discover that he has no love for organized labor as a whole and most of the big unions up north in particular. He has ranted for months now about the crooked and selfish leadership, out-of-reach initiation fees and intimidation of factory owners and employes.

He has continually attacked representatives of every local from the movie operators and stage hands down to the hodcarriers, and just recently turned loose a blast at the truck drivers. He said, in effect, that although the teamsters' leadership was personally clean (meaning Tobin and associates) they enjoyed a reputation they did not deserve.

Although we have nothing but contempt for some of Mr. Pegler's views and personally believe he was born with a scallion under his tongue, did you ever stop to think he may be right?

We're no radical, no extreme left-winger, and with but three short years of watching the uncertain merry-go-round of labor whirl, we realize we're still in short pants so far as knowing the real inside workings of organized labor is concerned.

But why stick our heads in the sand and elbow racketeers and people with nothing but selfish interests to creep into many of our locals?

And while all this freedom of the press is available let's go right on up to the top to Mr. Green and Mr. Lewis' so-called peace parley. There's a "nigger in the woodpile" somewhere there and you can smell the personal selfishness all the way down to Chattanooga.

It is the goal of Local 515 to become the largest single organization in town. With drivers coming in almost daily and an almost unlimited field to draw from there seems to be no immediate need for worry about the predicted 600 members by September.

SADNESS MARKS C. L. U. MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Typographical Union Unseated Following Command From AFL.

Longest Period of Service for Labor Movement Terminated — Friendship Expressed on All Sides.

Last Monday's session of Central Union was marked by a funeral gloom from the time delegates started to assemble until the closing gavel sounded. Attending delegates knew as they assembled that the secretary of CLU had a letter from the American Federation of Labor which instructed that Typographical unions must be "disassociated" from all state and city federations because of the action taken last month by the executive council of the AFL.

As Secretary Mabee read the communication there was a hushed silence. When he finished, the brief discussion which followed showed that Central Body had no other course to follow other than complying with the peremptory demand from higher up.

Thus ended an active affiliation which, with the exception of Local 53, Molders, was the longest of any other union. The "dean" of the Typo delegates, Walter Gardner, expressed the sentiments of the Typos when he said:

"We regret the necessity for this action more than can be expressed. While our international union at present is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, we want everyone to know that we have a membership of union men. We want to continue giving our cooperation to the labor movement as we have been doing for so many years. We trust we will continue to receive the same cooperation from the labor movement that we have been receiving."

Mr. Gardner had been a continuous delegate from Typographical to CLU for thirty years. Probably the next in continuous service is R. M. Cooke, now city commissioner. Bob Cooke, during his career, has been president of Central Body and president of the state federation, besides representing Central Body on many occasions, such as conventions, court actions, etc. Also, Bob Cooke and Walter Gardner were two of the

Secretary Ornburn To Have Charge of "Label" Session

Atlanta, Ga.—I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades department, will preside over the session of the Southern Label Conference to be devoted to promotion of the label, union labor's insignia of honor and honest dealings. Mr. Ornburn will then go to Birmingham, where he will deliver an address over Station WAPI at 1:45 p.m. Sunday, March 3. He will be guest speaker at the Birmingham event of the Birmingham Trades council as a feature on the regular Sunday afternoon radio program of the Birmingham council

Supreme Court Flays "Third Degree," In Voiding Convictions of Men Held Forced to Confess by Terrorism

Washington, D. C.—Condemning use of the "third degree" in strong terms, the Supreme Court, in a unanimous opinion written by Justice Hugo L. Black, declared that courts stand as a "haven of refuge" against helpless victims of "prejudice and public excitement."

The decision set aside the conviction of four Florida Negroes on the ground that they had been the victims of "third degree" methods. The men were sentenced to death in 1933 on charges of murdering Robert Dorsey, white, of Pompano, Fla.

The colored men, Isiah Chambers, Jack Williamson, Charles Davis and Walter Woodward, charged confessions were obtained from them by "violence and torture" covering nearly a week and that this violated their constitutional rights. They also contended they had been inadequately represented by counsel.

Held Victims of Violence.

The opinion asserted that "to permit human lives to be forfeited upon confessions thus obtained would make of the constitutional requirement of due process of law a meaningless symbol."

Justice Black said that the colored men had been "subjected to interrogations" for five days.

"The very circumstances surrounding their confinement and their questioning without any formal charges having been brought," he added, "were such as to fill petitioners with terror and frightful misgivings."

"The haunting fear of mob violence was around them in an atmosphere charged with excitement and public indignation," the opinion said.

Methods Held Unnecessary

It continued:

"We are not impressed by the argument that law enforcement methods such as those under review are necessary to uphold our laws. The Constitution proscribes such lawless means irrespective of the end.

"And this argument flouts the basic principle that all people must stand on an equality before the bar of justice in every American court."

"Today, as in ages past, we are not without tragic proof that the exalted power of some governments to punish manufactured crime dictatorially is the handmaid of tyranny," the opinion continued.

"Under our constitutional system, courts stand against any winds that blow as havens of refuge for those who might otherwise suffer because they are non-conforming victims of prejudice and public excitement.

Court's Duty Plain

"Due process of law, preserved for all by our Constitution, commands that no such practice as that disclosed by this record shall send any accused to his death.

"No higher duty, no more solemn responsibility, rests upon this court than that of translating into living law and maintaining this constitutional shield, deliberately planned and inscribed for the benefit of every human being subject to our Constitution—of whatever race, creed or persuasion."

Liberties Unions Bars Reds and Fascists from Office

New York.—Following a three-hour stormy debate at a closed meeting of its governing committee, the American Civil Liberties union voted to bar henceforth from office or committee membership within the organization either communists, supporters of fascist regimes or avowed sympathizers of any of the "native organizations with obvious anti-democratic objectives or practices."

The resolution stating the new policy was adopted by the national committee by a vote of 30 to 10, with three members not voting, and by the board of directors by 13 to 7, with two not voting. Dr. Harry F. Ward, professor of Christian ethics at Union Theological seminary, who has been chairman of the A. C. L. U. for a number of years, declined to be a candidate for re-election.

4-Star Essay Contest Brings Hundreds Of Contributions

Washington, D. C.—The Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor reuports that it is receiving hundreds of essays on the subjects of the 4-Star Essay Contest. They are: "Why I Buy Union Label Goods," "Why I Use Union Services," "Why I Am a Labor Unionist" and "Why I Joined a Women's Auxiliary." I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the department, estimated that thousands of essays would be submitted by contestants who are desirous of winning the grand prize of $250 for each essay and the numerous union label products which are offered as additional prizes.

Unionized manufacturers are donating valuable union-made articles, a list of which will be printed and sent to those who are interested. For rules and full particulars regarding the 4-Star Essay Contest address all communications to I. M. AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?

By DR. CHARLES STE

It was a murderer who first asked the question. He asked it in an attempt to create an alibi. He used it to switch the argument from the main issue. He attempted to get away from the cold truth and raise a heated sociological discussion. But Cain could not avoid the fact that he had murdered his brother Abel.

There are some men today who would promptly deny that they are their brothers' keepers, but, according to the rules of civilized people, they are their brothers' murderers. This may seem like a brutal statement, but let's examine a few facts. It should be borne in mind that not all murderers use "gats" and daggers. For example, it is quite as possible to murder a little child with a rotten tenement as it is to do it with a battle axe.

When an industrial concern maintains dark, dirty shacks for its employes, denying them even the commonest conveniences — no sewers, no water, no sanitary facilities—with the result that those who live in them are already on the undertaker's list, it is murder. When a factory owner fails to make adequate provision for escape from fire, when he refuses to supply even the minimum of safety devices, he is a potential murderer. When, merely to add to his profits, a manufacturer uses impure materials and sells them for pure food, causing people to become sick and die, that manufacturer is a murderer.

The question as to whether men of this type are their "brothers' keepers" cannot enter into our discussion, because their action belies every argument they might offer. Most of us, and this includes every decent employer in the country, would agree to the condemnation of those who wilfully bring suffering and death to helpless people.

We instinctively become indignant when such things are done to individuals, but what about nations whose armies ruthlessly spoil a whole people, destroy its homes, wrecking its industions, stealing its treasures and lands, devastating its accumulated riches of culture and religion, killing thousands of its women and children—at the same time proclaiming that they have "the divine right to rule?" Can such nations escape their responsibility and shall they be free from the penalties which are imposed upon us as individuals?

To such nations comes the condemnation—although in lesser measure—that came to the first murderer. And here is the condemnation as recorded in sacred history: "The Lord said unto Cain, 'Where is thy brother?' And he said, 'I know not: am I my brother's keeper?' And the Lord said, 'What hast thou done? The voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground. * * * A fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth' * * * And Cain said unto the Lord, 'My punishment is greater than I can bear.'"

Usual Seasonal Decline Reported in New York Factory Employment

Albany, N. Y.—January reports from New York State factories indicated some retrogression from the peak levels of employment and payrolls reached in December. Employment dropped 2.1 per cent, and the payroll decrease amounted to 3.8 per cent, Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller reports. These decreases, however, are not to be interpreted as a complete reversal of the recent uptrend, as they are mainly seasonal in character and not much greater than the usual declines of 1.7 per cent in forces and 2.6 per cent in payrolls over the last twenty-five years.

The factories of the state were still operating well above the previous year's levels, as comparison with January, 1939, reveals that 11.8 per cent more workers were employed this January on a total payroll that was 15.6 per cent greater.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

T. A. RICKERT

T. A. Rickert, General President of the United Garment Workers of America, has been a member of a Labor Union since he was nineteen. In 1904 he was chosen General President of the United Garment Workers of America and still holds that office.

In 1918 he was elected Vice President of the American Federation of Labor and is serving in that capacity at the present time. He is also a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor and takes an active part in solving the problems of all American workers.

Mr. Rickert is one of the most active and enthusiatic supporters of the Union Label idea. He is Vice President of the Union Label Trades Department and takes great interest in publicizing and promoting all Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons. He was the pioneer in the Union Label field of the garment industry.

At the beginning of the World War in 1917 President Wilson appointed Mr. Rickert as a member of the National War Labor Board and he performed most meritorious service. Again in 1919 President Wilson called upon him to act as a member of the Industrial Conference. During the depression in 1934 he was appointed by President Franklin Roosevelt to a position on the Men's Clothing and Cotton Garment Code Authorities of the National Industrial Recovery Act. He also served as a director of Federal Prison Industries, Inc., on which board he is still serving.

Mr. Rickert avoids the limelight but works quietly for the improvement of the conditions of Labor. He has won by sheer ability the esteem and respect of the Labor and business world.

His address is: Mr. T. A. Rickert, President, United Garment Workers of America, 45 Astor Place, Room 621, New York, N. Y.

The United Garment Workers of America uses the above Label, which distinguishes the class of merchandise for which Label is issued by running through the center on the face of the Label in line type the word "Clothing" as on the above. On others: "Special Order Clothing," "Custom Made," "Duck Goods," or "Neckwear." This identification of product is made clear either in line letters across face of Label or printed at one end of same.

The United Garment Workers of America adopted the Union Label in 1891. At that time tailors worked 16 hours per day under the task and sweating system. Ninety-eight per cent of the tailoring industry was done in tenement house shops; operators furnished their own thread and machines and it was a common practice for much of the work to be done in the living room in which the family slept. Tailors worked as many as 78 to 86 hours per week. The United Garment Workers were greatly instrumental in having laws passed abolishing the operation of tenement house shops, the task, sweating system and home work. Wages were standardized and increased from year to year. Hours were reduced until now the work clothing business is on a 40-hour-week basis and 36 hours in the men's clothing industry. The Garment Workers industry was one of the first to establish the five-day work week.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

More Public Employment

In the presence of the armies employed by the WPA and various kinds of public emergency service, some folks are apparently coming to the conclusion that any kind of public employment—excepting the police and postal services—is necessarily wasteful and vicious. They seem to look forward to the time when returning prosperity will wipe out everything but private employment.

But the same reasons which brought about the development of the infant postal service from the days of Ben Franklin to the regime of Postmaster General Farley are still at work, and along other lines of service. For decades, many of the only passable roads were toll roads, but they have become public highways, and since the coming of the automobile have been enormously expanded under public service and operation.

Schools were once private, but in 1936 teachers in public elementary schools numbered 87,1963, faculties in universities and colleges numbered 68,9[illegible].

Private, personal and commercial police, private and watchmen fire companies, and other such services have had their functions taken over by public employees, the latter who numbered 886,2[illegible] in 1[illegible]. These three items total 1,825,885 persons, not to private employment.

All music was at one time private in its patronage; but today the city of San Francisco is not the only municipality having its own great concert hall, with a municipal symphony orchestra. These services, and similar developments of culture, once depended upon the royalty and the wealth of their patrons. During the depression, millions of music lovers have enjoyed musical privilege which they never before had access to, because of the public organization of concerts and dramatic performances, for the employment of the talent which otherwise would have been sentenced to work at the end of a shovel handle.

Returning prosperity should find these services enlarged, not curtailed.

The Church and Social Justice

Why the Catholic church speaks out on economic life and its betterment is given in the recently published program, "The Church and Social Order," issued by the archbishops and bishops of the administrative committee of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The message in the program is addressed primarily to Catholics, but the Rev. Raymond McGowan, of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, points out that it deserves study by all. Reading of one passage, which gives only one reason why the Catholic church speaks, shows the basis of his plea for its consideration by people of all faiths. Here it is:

"In existing circumstances the obligation of the church is manifest. Who can deny the close relationship between economic injustice and a long train of evils, physical, social and moral? Unfair wages due to a greed for excessive profits and insecurity due to false and immoral economic principles lead directly to undernourishment, bad housing, inadequate clothing, and indirectly to irregular family relations, child delinquency and crime.

"Excessively long hours of work in some industrial areas and in some industrial processes create dangers to life and limb, impair the health of the workingman, and impoverish whole families through infection, disease and premature death. Because human beings and not animated machines toil in industry, therefore the church cannot abdicate her right and duty to speak out in defense of the rights of human personality, nor fail to declare uncompromisingly the moral obligation of industrial and economic life."

There have been only a few minor instances of jurisdictional disputes in connection with the construction of USHA-aided low-rent housing projects since these resolutions were approved by the Building and Construction Trades Department in May, 1938.

"Prevailing Wages" Mandatory

The United States Housing Act of 1937, under which the USHA functions, requires the payment of "prevailing wages" in USHA-aided slum clearance and low-rent housing projects. While the projects are built by the local housing authorities, this provision governs their financing with USHA loan funds, and it is the basis of the agreements which have eliminated labor disputes as a cost factor in their construction. This added cost usually is estimated by contractors at around 2 per cent of the total construction cost.

Straus said he considered the effecting of these "no-stop-work" agreements one of the outstanding achievements of the USHA. They are worth potentially millions of dollars, he declared, because of ability to guarantee construction schedules.

JUSTICE HAS NO POLITICS

(From the New York Times)

It fell to Justice Black to read a decision which reasserts the role of the supreme court of the United States as the ultimate defender of civil liberties. Four negroes, sentenced to death in Florida on confessions obtained, the court held, by "violence and torture," were the immediate beneficiaries. Yet there is no citizen, of any race or religion, rich or poor, weak or powerful, who does not share the protection of what Justice Black called "this constitutional shield deliberately planned and inscribed for the benefit of every human being subject to our constitution."

Those who have criticized the court in the past or who may be disposed to criticize it in the future may well bear in mind that it has defended the right of negroes to register and vote; that in several cases it has protected negroes against unfair trial and conviction; that it has upheld the right of free speech for minorities; and that in more cases than could be cited in a short space it has reversed local, state and federal agencies which dared to circumscribe the constitutional guarantees of obscure individuals.

A court subject in the slightest degree to legislative influence or executive mandate would most certainly have suppressed many of these decisions in the name of political expediency.

Unfilled Loan Requests Total More Than Billion Dollars, USHA Reports

Washington.—The United States Housing Authority announces that because of lack of funds it is unable to grant requests for more than one billion dollars to finance slum clearance and low rent public housing projects.

The requests are from 180 communities in thirty-two states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, which are ready to inaugurate or expand slum clearance programs by building safe and sanitary low rent dwellings for their low income families.

The total of the loans asked by these communities is $1,006,600,000, which represents 90 per cent of the estimated total development cost of the proposed projects. This total of unfilled USHA loan requests, Nathan Straus, USHA administrator pointed out, exceeds by more than $200,000,000 the $800,000,000 additional loan fund for the USHA program which would be authorized by a bill pending in congress.

Rural and suburban communities and small towns and cities, as well as large industrial and commercial centers, are represented among these unfilled loan requests, Straus said.

Union Label Pacts For Two Illinois Glove Plants

Kewanee, Ill.—Union label agreements with the Illinois Glove company, Champaign, Ill., and the Central Glove company, Effingham, Ill., have just been negotiated by the International Glove Workers' Union of America, says an announcement by President Thomas Durkin of the union.

These two firms are operated under one management and manufacture a complete line of union labeled dress and work gloves.

All employes are members of Glove Workers' Union No. 97 of Champaign, and Glove Workers' Union No. 99 of Effingham. The normal force of both plants together is more than 300 glove workers.

All union members and their friends are urged to ask for the Glove Workers' union label when purchasing work gloves and mittens, as well as dress gloves, and any support the members of the A. F. of L. can give the Illinois Glove company and the Central Glove company will be appreciated.

D. W. TRACY

Daniel W. Tracy, International President of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who had demonstrated his ability as a Local Union Business Manager and later as Vice President of the Seventh District of the I. B. E. W., was chosen in 1933 to guide the destinies of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Tracy has been successful in expanding I. B. E. W. organization in the most difficult anti-labor spots in the country. Under his guidance agreements have been consummated with practically all of the powerful utility interests in the nation. Under his direction giant electrical projects essayed and completed by the United States Government were manned by skilled electrical workers.

Serving with distinction as Sixth Vice President of the Building Trades Department and also Third Vice President of the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Tracy's undivided efforts on behalf of the workers are being reflected not only throughout the electrical industry but throughout the labor world in general.

Under assignment of the United States Government, Mr. Tracy was the first American Labor Delegate to the International Labor Conference at Geneva, Switzerland. He also served as American Labor Delegate to the American Conference at Lima, Peru, in 1938.

His address is Mr. Daniel W. Tracy, President, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America, 1200 Fifteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS' LABEL

Adopted in 1903, the Union Label of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers is registered in the United States Patent Office and has become a mark of distinction for electrical goods manufactured under fair wage and hour conditions.

It should be thoroughly understood that the use of this Union Label is permitted only on the condition that all goods so marked shall be produced exclusively by members of the I. B. E. W.

Due to the great variety of electrical products and services, it has been necessary to devise more than one form of the I. B. E. W. Union Label. In all cases, however, the registered seal is an integral part of the various forms of this emblem.

It is now possible to secure Union-made electrical products, bearing the I. B. E. W. mark of distinction, from the miniature curling iron to mammoth motor generator sets.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Union Hotel Workers Receive $7,500 In Back Pay Under Arbiter's Award

New York City.—More than 300 employes of the big Park Central Hotel have received an aggregate of approximately $7,500 in wage increases due them since July 15, 1939, under a union contract with the New York Hotel Trades Council, A. F. of L.

The lump sum payments, averaging about $25 per worker, were made by the hotel management in conformity with the first major decision handed down by Edward P. Mulrooney, who is impartial arbitrator in the hotel industry under the agreement signed between the Hotel Association of New York City and the union.

Some of the workers said they were going to use the increase to pay back rent they owed or other debts, others that they would buy needed clothing or other necessities for themselves or their children. One worker, married, with a 3½ year old daughter, said he would put the $25 in a savings bank, hoping to add to it through the years to accumulate enough to pay for a college education for his child.

The union contract, which is now in effect in more than ninety of New York's hotels, was signed by the Park Central Hotel early last year. The agreement provided, among other things, for a wage increase of $2 a week for each worker, $1 to be paid immediately upon signing, the other $1 increase to go into effect on July 15.

The Hotel Park Central at the time the second increase was to go into effect appealed to Mulrooney to be relieved from paying it due to its financial situation.

Mulrooney ordered that the money involved be placed in escrow pending his decision, and he ordered hearings at which the union opposed the hotel's petition. His final decision was that the increase provided for in the contract must be paid by the Park Central Hotel.

He has been a delegate to the American Federation of Labor conventions for the past twenty-[illegible] years and is one of the most active leaders in the labor movement.

The success of his able leadership is proven by the fact that the brewing industry in the United States and Canada is almost 100 per cent organized and the Union Label of his Union appears on almost all products of the brewing and malting industry.

BREWERY WORKERS' LA[illegible]

The International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal Soft Drink Workers of America adopted a uniform Union Label in 1896. It has been in continuous use on beer, ale, porter, stout, syrup, malt and sweet soft drinks since that date.

The Label is in general use in the brewing industry and is found on barrels, half barrels and kegs of draught beer, on cartons and cases of bottled beer; as well as on individual bottles in connection with the trade label of the firm.

The Brewery Workers' International Union supplies approximately 40,000,000 Union Labels annually to the breweries of the United States and Canada.

The Union Label is one of the strongest assets of the International Organization. Its value is inestimable. It is a weapon in the economic struggle more valuable than money and picket lines.

The International and Local Unions continually carry on publicity and educational campaigns among the organized workers throughout America to promote a general demand for Union Labels, Shop Cards, and Service Buttons.

Look for the above Label on the products of breweries, soft drinks and mineral water, cereal beverages, malt syrup, and barley malt.

The value of food as a source of iron not by its total iron content, but by its amount if iron that can be used by the body has been measured by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They have found that molasses has about 6.1 parts of usable iron per 100,000 parts by weight, with beef liver second with 5.6 parts and oatmeal third with 4.6 parts. Apricots, raisins and eggs, usually considered valuable for iron, have only about two-thirds, a half and a third, respectively, as much usable iron as molasses. Spinach has only 0.5 parts per 100,000.

Recent medical studies on nutritional anemia, they reported, show it is much more prevalent than has been suspected. In adult women the percentage affected runs as high as 70, which 40 per cent infants suffer from the deficiency disorder. It is also fairly widespread among growing children.

Here's to Glamour

The working girl of today considers her clothes an integral part of her job. Her wardrobe should contain enough well-rounded costumes which are evenly balanced at all times of the year. Paying extra attention to her appearance will reward in peace of mind, health and fun. Simple, well-made dresses are the background for varied occasions. Her accessories will lend the needed changes and chic to the costumes. Accessories are indicative of character and breeding. Her pocket handkerchief is the key to her delicacy or carelessness. Ill fitting and badly chosen clothes show a lack of fastidiousness. Costume jewelry is extremely popular right now, but buy the best and wear it with charm and style. A single rope of pearls is better taste for daytime wear. Choose several strands for evening or afternoon. Try a new belt, a vivid new scarf, or a fresh new boutonniere of flowers to pep up the old dress, but avoid silly whims that add nothing of style value or smartness to your costume. Dress simply, it pays.

Pantry Palaver

Now that the Lenten season is here there is an army of meat substitutes that may be served in combinations that are tasty and also have health appeal. Lent is a grand time for trimming the figure as well as the household budget.

Try a Swiss Fondue made by mixing 4 egg yolks beaten with 1 cup of soft bread crumbs, 2/3 cups of zippy cheese, ¼ teaspoon mustard and ¼ teaspoon paprika. Then add 1 cup boiled rice, ½ cup diced cooked celery, 2 tablespoons of chopped onions, 1 cup hot milk and the 4 egg whites, beaten. Bake fifty minutes in a slow oven in a casserole. This is nice accompanied by a creamed green vegetable, fruit or vegetable salad, hot bread and simple dessert.

Or for any other meatless meal try: Mushrooms Maryland. Put 3 hard-cooked eggs sliced and 1 cup sliced lightly browned mushrooms into a savory cream sauce. Pour over buttered toast, place in shallow baking dish. Cover with a cup of peas and 2 tablespoons chopped pimentos. Sprinkle with 4 tablespoons parmesan cheese and slip under broiler for five minutes to brown. A good accompaniment to this is a grapefruit-avacado salad, buttered spinach and any simple dessert.

Labor Women

The United States leads the world in the organization of women's auxiliaries in the labor movement. If there is no fully accurate census of the auxiliary movement, it is at least safe to say the grand total is at least 3,000,000.

The time isn't far distant when there will be one grand federation of all the auxiliaries. They lead in the buying of union label goods, in demanding union services and looking for unions' buttons. They are active in every drive for helpful work.

Our own community has its share of auxiliaries. They are one of the great arms of strength for the labor movement. The only fault is that too many of them hide their fine light under something like a bushel.

Nothing new under the sun? You're wrong—because who ever heard of "canned cream ready to whip" before. Latest product to come in the tin can is coffee and whipping cream that keeps fresh for three to four weeks after the can is opened.

The process, a highly technical one, involves sudden elevation of temperature and continuous flow treatment of the liquids with fine jets of high velocity steam, which is said to kill the spores. Spores are credited with spoiling pasteurized milk in forty-eight hours or less.

The nutritive and vitamin value are not impaired by the process.

There is no use trying to joke with a woman. The other day Mr. Jones heard a pretty good conundrum, and decided to try it on Mrs. Jones. "Do you know why I am like a mule?" he asked her when he went home. "No," she replied promptly. "I know you are, but I don't know why."

For Better Homemaking

To Clean Bathtubs—Remove scum which has formed on porcelain tubs or wash bowls rub well with a cloth which has been saturated with kerosene oil, then scour with soap powder or flakes and a non-absasive scouring powder. Rinse thoroughly with hot water and dry.

* * *

Flowers—Never overcrowd flowers when arranging. A single rose in a slender vase is more artistic than a large bowl of flowers jammed together. A half inch should be cut from the stem of fresh flowers each day to preserve their lasting qualities. As soon as flowers are picked or brought home from the florist they should stand in water up to their heads for at least an hour before arranging them in vases. This long, cool drink compensates for the shock of cutting or being out of water during transit. Daily care will bring its own reward.

Baby Talk

In sending a gift to the new baby, if you are not sure whether it be a girl or boy, try sending an all-white gift or a compromise—something that has a touch of blue and pink.

Blue is generally conceded to be the standard color for boy babies and pink for girls.

Fancy gifts are not suitable, but mothers appreciate shirts, bands and nighties. All-wool light-weight blankets and plain flannelette squares are always most welcome.

If you hold the new baby, put your right hand under the baby's seat and your left hand under his neck and shoulders. That gives the baby a feeling of complete support.

If your youngsters spurn their hot cereal for breakfast, try sprinkling a little brown sugar and cinnamon on top of each steaming bowlful. Raisins are also healthy and may make an appeal when added to cereal.

Washington's birthday is a good time to let the children have a party, as the traditional emblems land themselves to special forms and decorations. There are hatchets and cherries and lace paper as a theme. There may be ice cream in fancy molds and cakes in fancy shapes.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

House Extends Secretary Hull's Trade Agreements Program

The big news of the week is the extension of Secretary Hull's trade agreements program in the house. By a vote of 216 to 168 the house, after a week of bitter debate, gave approval to the trade policies of the distinguished Tennessean. The resolution extends the trade agreements act for three years. All the democrats, but twenty, voted for the extension. The twenty against the resolution were mainly from Florida and Oklahoma, where they believe future agreements might injure the citrus fruit and oil business. Five republicans, including Bruce Barton, of New York, voted for the resolution. Representative Barton's vote is editorialized in the Washington papers as helping the chances of GOP "Dark Horse" nominee for president. Mr. Barton, as you know, is a writer and lecturer of real ability.

The fight for the majority party was ably led by Representative Jere Cooper, of the Eighth district of Tennessee. Mr. Cooper is ranking member of the ways and means committee, and though a young man, is dean of the democratic house delegation.

Jubilant over the outcome, Secretary Hull said: "I am—and I am sure supporters of the program everywhere are—immensely gratified at the vote."

Lenoir City Celebrates

Encouraged, optimistic, and enthusiastic, was the crowd of 10,000 who celebrated the beginning of the construction of Coulter Shoals dam at Lenoir City Thursday. Citizens from most every county in the Second and from many counties in the Third district gathered to rejoice over the project which will mean additional prosperity for East Tennessee.

It is a dream that is about to come true—a 9-foot channel from Knoxville to the Gulf of Mexico. Coulter Shoals is the last of the 10-Dam TVA projects for the Tennessee river.

Senator McKeller, Representative Jennings, and your representative journeyed from Washington for the celebration. It was a great day. People of all groups, and political beliefs, are united in behalf of a development that means so much to Tennessee. Men in public office, and the people of Tennessee, are cooperating and working together as never before. This is the "green light" for further progress.

It was necessary for us to return to Washington Thursday night ot take part in the debate, and vote on the reciprocal trade agreements program on Friday.

The Chickamauga Dam Celebration

The Chickamauga dam celebration, at the end of August, will be the greatest of its kind ever held in the south. This will be another real opportunity to show the world the attractions and benefits we have. It will be an event for rejoicing and for demonstration of appreciation. The Tennessee delegation is delighted that plans for the celebration will move along with great enthusiasm.

Later, no doubt, the people of Rhea and Meigs counties will prepare for a similar celebration upon the completion of Watts Bar dam.

Freight Rate Discrimination

Southern representatives and senators are putting their heads together to help state and local groups remove the discriminatory freight rates that have so long retarded development in the south. This is the south's last major barrier. With the united action that is indicated, you can expect results.

TVA Tax Replacement

The house military affairs committee has completed its hearings; the testimony of witnesses is being printed, and the committee will take action at an early date. The situation, while still uncertain as to the result, is not as discouraging as it was when the hearings were commenced.

The senate committee, more friendly to TVA, had its hearings this week.

Here, your representative wishes to thank the hundreds of citizens who have written and sent telegrams to the house committee. Keep this up until the "bell rings."

Anti-Trust Suits Against Unions Move to Put Labor Under Thumb Of Government, AFofL Charges

Miami.—Application of the anti-trust laws to unions would inevitably result in government dictatorship over unions and lead to the death of free, democratic trade unionism, the American Federation of Labor Executive Council declared in denouncing the department of justice's anti-trust suits against A. F. of L. unions.

The A. F. of L. will "resist with all the powers at its command the present reactionary efforts of the department of justice to control organized labor," the council warned.

Declaring that the department of justice has embarked on a "deliberate nation-wide drive to place organized labor under the thumb of the federal government," the council referred to recent developments involving bituminous coal and said:

"We charge that these prosecutions have been undertaken contrary to the plain provisions of the Clayton act and in complete disregard of the admonishment by act of congress, which it adopted that law in 1914, to exempt labor organizations from the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act."

Unions Long Immune.

Citing [illegible] the history of anti-trust legislation, the council said the Sherman act was addressed to [illegible] to business giants, but the courts of the famous Danbury hatters case ruled that labor organizations could be prosecuted.

A campaign led by the late Senator Norris, Nebraska, forced the A. F. of L. and the railroads, which [illegible] to write into the Clayton act the provision that labor organizations could not be prosecuted.

Reasons for A. F. of L. Stand.

"The A. F. of L. says, we are told, a conspiracy. Actually, we are [illegible] that we put [illegible] and what we are and what we are not. The objects of labor unions are not to be found in the books of criminal courts to which [illegible] conform to the prevailing [illegible]. The public charged.

The council said its position was based on the following three points:

1. The Clayton act forbids anything the department of justice is doing.

2. Legitimate as well as illegitimate activities of unions recently have been proscribed by the department of justice.

3. Application of the anti-trust laws to unions inevitably would result in government dictatorship over unions and kill free, democratic trade unionism.

The council said the A. F. of L. will carry the issue to the highest court in the land to "prove that the Clayton act means what it says" and added:

"If the supreme court rules against us, the A. F. of L. will institute a relentless campaign to have Congress reinvest the law with its original purpose and intention, in language that even the wildest lawyer could not innocently or willfully misinterpret."

The council called for continued maintenance of neutrality in the European war, but urged the federal government to do everything it can, without endangering American neutrality, to help Finland resist Soviet aggression.

NLRB Again Condemned.

"Soviet-Nazi imperialism" was condemned and the fullest possible assistance was offered to "victims of racial and religious persecution in Europe."

"We repudiate all attempts to sovietize American labor and we refuse to have any traffic with communist agents," the council declared.

Previous condemnation of the national labor relations board was reiterated and it was declared that the present board and its staff "are totally unfit for their important duties."

The board, it was further charged, "has never been an impartial umpise, but has guilefully and deliberately sought to destroy the American Federation of Labor and promote the interests of the CIO."

Father Maguire, Noted Labor Mediator, Dead

Miami.—The Rev. John W. Maguire, C. S. V., well-known Catholic priest and labor mediator, died here on Feb. 11.

Father Maguire devoted much time to labor mediation. He was a member of the old Labor Relations Board in Chicago and for a number of years was chief mediator for several labor unions in Chicago and Wisconsin. He was called to Washington many times by the Labor Department in settling disputes throughout the country.

Among those he helped settle were the General Motors strike in Flint, Mich., in 1937 and the Green Mountain Dam strike in Colorado in 1939.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, in the September, 1938, issue of a nationally known magazine, referred to Father Maguire as "the best trouble-shooter labor has."

Last December Chicago labor paid tribute to Father Maguire at a big dinner in his honor attended by labor, civic and governmental leaders.

NYA Aids Conservation

Washington, D. C.—Youth employed on NYA work projects constructed or improved 1,526 plant and tree nurseries, 5,039 bird and game [illegible] and 103 fish [illegible] in the last fiscal year, Aubrey Williams, administrator of the National Youth Administration, shows in a preliminary tabulation of physical accomplishments. Conservation has been one of the important types of work carried on by NYA youth. Activities have included a wide range of projects such as flood control, soil erosion prevention, planting trees, stocking game and fire prevention.

Coyne's Address in Atlanta Is Awaited With Interest

Atlanta, Ga.—John P. Coyne, president of the Building and Construction Trades department of the American Federation of Labor, will preside over the sessions of the Southern Labor Conference devoted to the building trades problems. The conference starts Saturday morning and President Coyne will be heard on the first day of the conference. Due to the important problems facing the building and construction trades unions, Mr. Coyne's address is awaited with keen interest. Members of the building and construction trades unions from all points in the ten southeastern states will be here to hear President Coyne and others who will speak on problems peculiar to the building trades.

A meeting of executive officers of the nineteen international unions in the building and construction trades department of the A. F. of L. has been set for Monday, March 4, in Washington, and this meeting adds importance to the address which President Coyne will deliver in Atlanta on Saturday, March 2.

Labor Preased for Finnish Aid.

New York City.—American labor's part in aiding Finnish civilian relief was warmly praised here by Herbert Hoover, national chairman of the Finnish relief fund. Saying that American labor has always responded to the call of the unfortunate and oppressed, Hoover declared it had done a "magnificent job in supporting the appeal for funds for Finland."

Low Cost House Building to Boom This Year, FHA Head Predicts

Washington, D. C.—Private industry not only can build sound small homes for families with low incomes, but is going to build them in greatly increased volume this year, Administrator Steward McDonald, of the Federal Housing Administration, predicts.

The last few years have seen a shifting emphasis on the part of the building industry in the direction of homes costing less than $4,000, McDonald said. "This trend is running strongly ahead," he added.

Homes are being built in growing numbers which cost only $4 to $6 per room per month to own, the administrator said. This means that well-designed and constructed homes are within the purchasing and owning power of families whose annual incomes are $1,500 and less, he says.

To support his prediction of a rapidly expanding amount of this type of residential construction, McDonald pointed to striking year-to-year gains under the FHA's program in this field. In 1939, he said, 70,563 new homes constructed and financed under the FHA plan require payments of less than $25 a month to cover all mortgages charges, including gradual reduction of principal.

This number represented more than one-half of all mortgages on new homes insured by the FHA during the year. It was a gain of more than 50 per cent over the number of homes in this category built under the FHA plan in 1938.

Delegates and visitors attending the AFL Conference in Atlanta this March 2 and 3 are urged to wear a badge so that the folk in Atlanta will know that Chattanooga is up and doing. Each one is requested to call by the office of the Building Trades council, corner Eighth and Chestnut streets, and receive a badge. Let every Chattanoogan wear a badge in Atlanta.

Paper Makers Local 362

By HARRY JEDOIT

As the time has rolled around again to get the old pen and noodle a-working, I will try to give a little insight on what happened last week.

* * *

Our good luck has given out, and I am sorry to say that several of our boys are off on sick and accident leave. Leonard Smith underwent an operation at a local hospital at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Frank Peak had his finger crushed. Glad to see Joe Campbell back at work after having been off sick.

* * *

Just heard that Albert Rains has quit and gone to the farm. O. K., Al, we can use some more men.

* * *

Buck Lawson has taken charge of Shorty Lamon's meat market. Shorty had an operation last week. They removed the brass rail in front of Shorty's bar. They say he is doing nicely.

* * *

Mrs. Carl Travis was spending the day in bed with a severe cough, and Carl was working in the yard, hammering nails in some boards. Presently his neighbor came over. "How's the wife?" she asked. "Not very well," said Carl. "Is that her coughin'?" "No," said Carl, "it's a hen house."

* * *

There must be a tinge of spring-fever in the air. Lewis Williams came to work yesterday looking sad and gloomy. (Lewis is our baseball manager.) He said he had had a real bad dream. Said he dreamed that Arch Alley hocked the catcher's gloves, and termites ate up the bats and balls, and the boll weevils ate up all the suits. Better look, Lewis, dreams come true sometimes.

* * *

Brother Gill was telling his boy, "Son, always fight your enemies with their own weapons." "O. K., Pop. How do you sting a wasp?"

Just heard about a note Columbus Brown received the other day. "Dear Columbus: Come over tonight sure. Papa is home, but laid up with a very sore foot. Marge." He sent back this answer: "Dear Marge, I can't come over tonight. I am laid up on account of your father's sore foot. Columbus."

* * *

"What is more pleasant than a cold bath before breakfast?" asked old man Vandergriff. "No bath at all," said O. P. Couch.

The Ananias club met in regular session in the basement of the Pudville courthouse Saturday afternoon. Charlie and Arch said Old Man Ike McKissick is a bigger liar than they ever expect to be. Shorty Johnson will have to go some if he can beat Old Man Ike.

* * *

Paul Lex has gone into the rabbit business. Paul said there is money in it.

* * *

Our mountain boys are phophesying an early spring. Homer Doyle said he hopes the governor of Georgia wasn't fooling when he said he was going to make some good roads on Lookout mountain. Herman Norris asked, Why wait? Move to Signal mountain. They have goods roads there.

* * *

Henry Outlaw was seen downtown this week. Probably getting that spring haircut.

Sam Hatfield is our "Lord Pushbottom," minus the top hat and mustache. His little daughter is four months old, and all of Sam's folks are giving the baby all odd pennies. They have a quart jar full now. If there is a penny shortage better look Sam up.

* * *

Brother Allen Campbell is our chaplain. He composed the following prayer:

"O Lord, let our hands be skillful
In everything we do.
Let our hearts be mindful,
Our conversation true.
Our life, we pray, will please Thee;
Though mortals we now be,
We're striving for a snow-white robe of immortality."

* * *

Brother I. A. Brown is confined to his home on account of sickness. Hurry back, I. A., the Greasy Spoon looks lonesome without you.

* * *

This story is going around the mill: The Plymouth skidded around the corner, knocked down a fire plug, a telephone pole and ran into a mail box and stopped. A girl climbed out from under the wreck, a bit breathless, but unhurt. "Baby Dumpling (Willard Smith)," she cried, "That's what I call a kiss." Now Skung Travis wants to trade that blind hound dog, the one with heaves, for Baby Dumpling's car. Shame on you, Skunk.

* * *

George Durham hasn't found that crow yet.

* * *

There will be more news from yours truly next time.

DELEGATE HIX IN HOSPITAL

Typo Harris Hix, another delegate of at least fifteen years standing, was unable to be at the meeting. He is now in Erlanger hospital, recovering from an operation. Other delegates who were hit by the order were Arch Underwood, active in the Label league, T. R. Cuthbert, J. R. Williams, William Keels and Lester Murray.

INVITED TO VISIT

Although Typographical union has been deprived of vote in the deliberations in the future, the meeting invited them to continue attendance and assured them of the deepest friendship. A communication has also been sent to the Typographical union, asking that a Central Labor union committee be allowed to address the next Typographical meeting.

The whole affair was precipitated by the controversy concerning payment of an additional one cent assessment to the American Federation of Labor, which the International Typographical union has refused to pay.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 60 years!

The

Silver Anniversary Edition

of

THE LABOR WORLD

On May 3, 1940, The Labor World will start on Volume 25. Each volume represents one year of publication in this city. During this time The Labor World, owned by the American Federation of Labor unions in Chattanooga, through the Central Labor Union, has builded for itself a prestige, respect and honor that few papers can claim. In all this period no firm or individual has suffered one penny loss because of The Labor World's failure to pay its just debts.

Your paper's policy has been to offer an advertising value to merchants that stands on its own merit. We do not accept contributions in the form of "A Friend" advertisements. We have an advertising value that has been recognized because The Labor World readers-owners patronize the people who advertise through their paper.

The Labor World feels that in its SILVER ANNIVERSARY EDITION there is every reason for the Labor Movement to rejoice over its accomplishments. We feel that business firms and individuals will accept the opportunity to rejoice with us.

We need your help. TALK about the SILVER ANNIVERSARY every day. Tell your merchant about it. Ask him to be represented in that issue. And then let us have the names of prospective advertisers whom you feel will want advertising space in that issue.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

This week-end, March 2 and 3, the Southern Labor Conference will be held in Atlanta, Ga., under the auspices of the executive boards of the ten southern state federations of labor and the organization department of the American Federation of Labor. All organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are urged to send delegates to this convention. Several thousand are expected to be at this meeting and many matters of which we are not so well acquainted will be discussed. The Plumbers' and Steamfitters' auxiliary local has appointed Brothers Charles (Spud) Leonard and Frank Basham as their delegates. The Plumbers' and Steamfitters' local No. 43 will appoint their delegates at their regular Friday night meeting.

This column is glad to announce that Mr. Mark K. Wilson has appointed Brother T. R. Cuthbert, chairman, Brothers W. W. Orr, Grover Tittle, Ed Bork, Jr., and T. T. Buchanan to represent organized labor on the committee for the celebration of Chickamauga dam.

Be mighty glad when Brother Cline, who broke his leg in an accident several weeks ago, will be back on the job. Hear he is up and on crutches. Nice going, brother.

* * *

Why can't Chattanooga, like her neighbor, Atlanta, get on a building boom? Brothers Skinner, Stacy, McKeehan and Martin have gone down to Atlanta. We'll miss them here, but wer're mighty glad to know that there is work going on close to home at least.

See you at the meeting, Friday night.

Committee Has Completed All Details For Conference

Atlanta, Ga.—After many weeks of hard work the committee on arrangements appointed by Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, to make all plans for the Southern Labor Conference meeting here next Saturday and Sunday, announce that all is in readiness for labor's greatest meeting. Albert W. Gossett, of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, is chairman of the committee. Serving with him are Paul Chipman, secretary of the Atlanta Federation of Trades; Rufus Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Miss Ira Jarrell, president of the Atlanta local of the American Federation of Teachers; Miss Julia Elliott, of the city employes, and Miss Maude Ireland, of the United Garment Workers.

This committee is being augmented for the sessions of the conference by adding a large number of unionists to serve members of the reception committee. Sessions of the conference will be held in the Municipal auditorium, beginning at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The committee has arranged for registration of the delegates and visitors in unique manner. The secretaries of each of the ten state federations of labor will be placed at tables near the entrance to the auditorium, with banners designating each state secretary. Delegates and visitors will register with their respective state secretaries. In addition, there will be another secretary with whom all can register who are not from one of the ten southeastern states sponsoring the conference.

During the registration period from 9 to 10 o'clock, music will be furnished by the union musicians of Atlanta. The conference will be called to order promptly at 10 o'clock.

Union Label Featured in Ads

Louisville, Ky.—Letters received by the Brown and Williamson Tobacco corporation from members of organized labor show that they are pleased with the way the company is featuring the union label in its advertisements of Raleigh cigarettes and other B. & W. tobacco products. Prominence given the use of the union label in B. & W. advertising is believed of marked value to union label products in general, a fact that has been noted by union members and mentioned in their letters to the company. Current B. & W. advertising for Raleigh cigarettes features the words "Union Made" in large letters at the top.

Bakers' Scraps

By DOUGHBOY

I am very proud to report that the rain last Saturday did not keep our members away from the meeting of the local. We had a grand attendance for such a bad day. It does my heart good to see our members taking such an interest in our local. Willie B. Harris was obligated into the local.

* * *

Sorry to hear that the mother of one of our members, Louise Wilcox, of the Erskine bakery, is sick. We wish for her a very speedy recovery. Sure did miss Louise at the meeitng last Saturday.

HOOPER'S PIES AND CAKES NON-UNION. PATRONIZE ONLY THE PIES AND CAKES THAT ARE 100% UNION MADE. They are Mercer's and Erskine's. All employes of these two bakeries are members of Bakers' Local Union No. 25.

Saw the new boss at the Frank Hickman's the other night. She is a cute little trick and favors her mother. Congratulations to Sue and Frank for having such a fine daughter.

* * *

Ruth Asquith's small daughter, Elaine, is sick with an attack of the flu.

Had a long talk with Frances Bridge at the meeting Saturday. Frances is now working at the Mercer Pie company. She tells me that she certainly does enjoy working in this union bakery.

* * *

John Fowler is still on our sick list. Haven't been able to get out to see Brother Fowler yet, but intend to just as soon as possible. Hope to hear that he is better in a few days.

* * *

Local 25 wishes to express its sincere sympathy to Leonard Callis, of Cameron & Barr bakery, in the recent death of his father, who died last Friday in Nashville, Tenn.

* * *

Away down south, as the song goes, is where William Little is spending his vacation, so I am old. Little left last Friday for a two-weeks' stay in Florida. Boy, do I wish I could have gone with him!

* * *

Our new delegates to the Central Labor union elected Saturday at the meeting are: Curtis R. Sims, C. B. Norwood, C. M. Wilkey, W. R. Downey, Mrs. Burva Batey and Lois Baker. I am sure that we will have some fine reports brought back to the local by these delegates.

* * *

We are still in negotiations with the Erskine bakery and are planning to start negotiating a new contract this week with the Mercer Pie company for the ensuing year.

* * *

I am told that the Lookout Preserving company is going to put an ad in The Labor World in a few weeks. I am glad to hear this and wish more of our companies that we have under contract would follow suit. Lookout preserves are union made and are on my grocery list every week. Why not try a jar of them today, for I am sure you will like them and wonder why you haven't tried them before.

* * *

I didn't get all the dope on the knot-tieing that I promised to let you know about this week so I will have to wait until later to give you the facts.

Tennessee Has 219 Delegates to Compare Favorably With Other States

The Southern Conference is now a matter of history, and it left Atlanta and the entire South aware that the American Federation of Labor really means to organize this section of our nation. Some 3,000 delegates from every national union were present during the meetings held last Saturday and Sunday to listen to governors, congressmen, international officers and the rank and file report on the state of affairs and what is to be done about it.

And as usual, Tennessee took a lead in "volunteers," 219 delegates registering from over 100 crafts

Hoover Truck Co. Negotiating Pact; Mason-Dixon Signs

The strike called against the Hoover Trucking Company, operating in Chattanooga, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Nashville, Memphis, Atlanta, Birmingham and Knoxville, involving twelve men in Chattanooga, is still in progress, with not a truck moving. The strike was called last Tuesday when Hoover management insisted on being "shown" that the union had a majority of men organized.

The union proved that they had an organization when every employe of the company came out on strike.

Negotiations are today being carried on with the Hoover company in Nashville.

The Mason-Dixon Line, involving eight men in Chattanooga, last Thursday signed a closed shop contract with Local 515, Teamsters.

INCOME PAYMENTS GAIN

Washington. — Income payments to individuals in the United States during 1939 totaled $69,700,000,000, a gain of 5 per cent over the 1938 total of $66,300,000,000, Secretary of Commerce Hopkins reports. There was a 5 per cent increase in payments of salaries and wages in 1939 over the previous year and a 15 per cent gain in 1939 dividend disbursements.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

Representatives of the Master Plumbers and Plumbers and Steamfitters Local No. 43 met with Organizer Dickson Wednesday night at Hotel Patten to draw up a new contract for the coming year. Several matters of importance were discussed, and both the master and the journeymen plumbers were well pleased with the new contract which will promote a friendlier working condition between employer and employe. Master plumbers were represented by Roy Payne, Skinny Warren, Mrs. W. D. Swaim, W. J. Mills, George Allen, Joe Miller, Sam Raider and Jim Collins, and their secretary, Wilcox. Those representing Local No. 43 were Business Agent Cook, Earl Shaw and Ed Bork, Jr.

Candidate Fred Payne was granted the floor last Friday night at the regular meeting of Plumbers and Steamfitters, at which time he spoke in his own behalf and asked for their support of him for sheriff. The local went on record indorsing him for this office. Mr. Payne's past record on the city police force shows that he has been honest in all his dealings. Good luck, Fred, we hope that you get the many votes which you so justly deserve.

At the regular meeting of Plumbers and Steamfitters local auxiliary Tuesday night, this organization also went on record indorsing Capt. Fred Payne for sheriff.

* * *

Glad to note that most of our members are now working.

* * *

Members, be sure to be at the regular meeting Friday night, as there will be several matters discussed which are of interest to you.

Strikes will cease when there is no longer a reason for them. A strike itself is not an evil—it is a symptom of an evil. — Samuel Gompers.

Alton Park Boys Suggest Big Mass Meeting

Local 323, Oil Refiners, Asks Labor World to "Put the Question"

Local 323, Oil Refiners, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has a suggestion that sounds pretty good. They want all the unions in Alton Park to sponsor a mass meeting in that neighborhood, at which other American Federation of Labor unions will attend. Comment on the idea is urged. It was brought up at a special meeting of the local last Monday evening.

They also report that President Bill Woods, now in his third term, celebrated his fifty-eighth birthday in suitable fashion at the meeting. Brother Woods was presented with a tasty sack of candy suckers.

Workers Back Finnish Relief

New York City.—It is reported at Finnish relief fund headquarters here that thousands of small donations, ranging from 50 cents to $25, are pouring in to aid Finnish civilians. One letter from Bethlehem, Pa., enclosed a 50-cent piece with the attached note: "I'm unemployed and I can't afford this, but 'Hurrah for the Finns!'" It was noted that many of the small contributors were members of organized labor, fund officials said.

In its treasury lies 60 per cent of the monetary gold in the possession of mankind. It has 17 millions of the 29 or 30 billions in all the world—20,000 tons of it, enough to load a freight train five miles long.

In reply to Central Body's action last week in complying with an American Federation of Labor order to disassociate all typographical unions in Central Labor unions, Typographical Union No. 89 last Sunday sent a most friendly letter pledging its continued co-operation to the A. TEACHER TALK

The following "Statement on Education" by the permanent committee on education of the A. F. of L. has been sent to all central unions and affiliated bodies throughout the United States. As Irvin Kuenzli, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. T., says of it, "The principles here set forth are a wholesome contrast to the programs of those pressure groups which are not only trying, but have succeeded, in curtailing the program of the public school system. It is probable that no other national group in America has issued so strong and comprehensive a statement in defense of education and the teaching profession."

The committee on education of the American Federation of Labor is deeply concerned over the maintenance of public education, at all levels, in every part of this country.

The school itself is changed and changing. The subjects taught, the manner in which they are taught, their relation to local and national problems are our immediate business.

The American Federation of Labor must continue to help develop our schools in every part of every state. A series of convention mandates and the maintenance of the traditions upon which the American Federation of Labor is founded demand our active work for our nation's schools.

The American Federation of Labor believes that the administration of education is essentially a state function.

We, therefore, call upon our affiliated bodies—state federations of labor and city central bodies—to do all in their power to assure the enactment and administration of educational law in keeping with the best public interest. We particularly urge your help in securing the following:

1. Adequate and proper enforcement of compulsory school attendance laws:

a. The compulsory school attendance laws should be closely correlated with the child labor

We were without complete details on the progress of the "Onward and Upward League." They had their first real meeting last week. The following officers were unanimously elected: Squirt Morton, president; Randolph White, vice-president; Ralph Odom, secretary. The following named members passed the first two degrees: John Day(Charles Gooden, Cleve Morris, Bert Sandifer, Cory Backers, Carl Bearden, Otto Rogers, Henry Dutto, Jr.. President Morton informed the writer, for all those interested to please consult him, Mr. Morton.

An amusing incident happened to the writer a few days ago in the city. He observed two men leaving the Home store and noticed on their caps, buttons, presumably to show they were members of some organized body. Their discussion was the paper milk carton. We stopped to get an earful and we leave you readers to be the judges.

Their money came from organized labor—they came out of a Home store—and one had on Tom Cat overalls, or so the label read. The other had a carton of milk.

Unfair and Hazardous Competition

AN EDITORIAL

We have long been thinking of the unreasonable competition given to the Tennessee Electric Power company by taxicab companies in general, and many of the privately owned taxis in particular. As a corollary to this competition enters the unsafe conditions to the riding public.

We are informed that many taxis are being operated without taxi license. Both those cabs with or without license, owned (or at least operated) by colored drivers, are said to have a practice of preceding busses on the regular route, which city-chartered busses must follow, and pick up the patrons who would have otherwise taken a bus.

Industrial Research Has Quadrupled In Last Twenty Years, WPA Finds

Washington, D. C. — Industrial research, which often leads to the displacement of labor by the development of labor-saving machinery and methods, has increased enormously in the past twenty years, the Works Projects Administration finds.

In a report released for publication by Col. F. C. Harrington, Commissioner of Works Projects, the following facts stand out:

> The number of persons engaged in industrial research at present, and annual expenditures average between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

It is from these industrial laboratories that the bulk of new inventions and improved processes have come in recent years, the commissioner said.

Mass Industries in Lead

The report sets forth that the greatest amount of research is being done in the relatively new mass production industries such as electrical goods, rubber, petroleum, industrial chemicals and automobiles. These are also the industries in which research activity, measured in terms of personnel employed, grew most rapidly during the last two decades.

A significant aspect of the growth of research has been the increase in the number of large laboratories, the report states. "The number of companies maintaining research staffs of more than fifty persons increased from fifteen in 1921 to 120 in 1938, representing an eightfold growth, compared with a threefold rise for companies with fewer than eleven persons on their research staffs."

Research Increasing Important

The chemical and allied products industries employed the largest number of research workers in 1938, it is pointed out. Next in importance were petroleum, electrical communications, electrical machinery, other machinery industries and rubber products. Testing, consulting and foundation laboratories also ranked high. The radio industry, which first reported organized research in 1927, showed the greatest relative increase between 1927 and 1938. The petroleum industry was next in this respect.

"It is well known," the report declares, "that the systematic application of science is assuming an increasingly important role in our economy and has become essential for the solution of many industrial problems.

Labor Efficiency Boosted

"New techniques freyquently are developed on the basis of research; old methods, products or services are improved; production costs are reduced, and much waste is eliminated. Scientific investigations performed in a laboratory often result in the deevlopment of new products.

"Adoption of modern research techniques has accompanied increased emphasis on planning and coordination of production processes, which have resulted in higher levels of productivity of labor and efficiency of equipment."

High Court Refuses Picket Case Review

Washington — The Supreme Court of the United States refused to review an injunction issued by the Supreme Court of Illinois restraining an A. F. of L. union from picketing a Chicago beauty shop whose proprietor refused to require union membership by his employes. The union thereupon picketed the shop.

Holding there was no valid union dispute, the Illinois Supreme Court issued an injunction against picketing. In its petition for a supreme court review the union claimed the injunction abridged the right to free speech and assembly guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

Shall the people be educated is a question not of more policy, but it is a question of life and death, upon which the existence of our present forms of government depends.—James Buchanan.

NATIONAL PROBLEMS

The relationship between government and private enterprise must be one of sympathetic co-operation. This can be accomplished only by continuous contact between the two in a manner calculated to bring about a common and unified attack upon the problems with which both are concerned. There is no problem of government which cannot be solved by the process of deliberation and consultation by all affected thereby. The problems which confront the country today are matters of infinite delicacy requiring endless patience and diplomacy of high order. They require the consolidated judgment of many men, the combined wisdom of all groups concerned, not the least of which is labor. Labor has a stake in all of these problems.—Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator.

Pittsburgh.—The "three-cents-a-day" hospital plan has an enrollment of 4,500,000 members in the U. The enrollment figures were given by Dr. Basil MacLean, Rochester, N. Y., chairman of the American Hospital association commission on service plans.

JAMES J DOYLE

James J. Doyle, President of the Coopers' International Union of North America, started work as an apprentice in 1901. He has been a "Journeyman" Cooper for 36 years. His first official office was Vice President of Local 89 in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Doyle has been a delegate to every Coopers' convention since 1910. In 1923 he was elected First Vice President of the Coopers and was elected International President in 1925. Four years later he assumed the combined office of President-Secretary-Treasurer, which position he now holds with credit and distinction to his Union.

President Doyle has been an ardent advocate of the Union Label, having cooperated in every effort to promote the Coopers' Union Label. He has made an able fight to prevent the importation of foreign cooperage.

His address is: Mr. James J. Doyle, President, Coopers' International Union of North America, 168 Dartmouth Street, Boston, Mass.

1 C.I.U No. 1.

COOPERS' LABEL

The Union Label of the Coopers' International Union of North America is indented plainly into the end of the bung stave of Union-made beer and ale cooperage of every description, and placed where it can be readily seen on tanks and containers.

On Union-made slack barrels, soft wood barrels, or butter tubs, Label should be stamped plainly on a smooth stave between the head and quarter hoops, in blue ink.

The Coopers' Union is one of the oldest in America. The Coopers' Union was first known among Coopers as the Boston Guild, the charter of which was granted by the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay in 1648. Later, in 1833, the Coopers were organized into Trade Unions, and the Coopers' International Union of North America was founded in 1870.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Why the Labor Act?

American workers have long since passed the stage where they were willing to subject themselves to paternal domination or employer benevolence. They feel that they have the right to an equal voice with management in the determination of the wages, hours and conditions under which they contract, as free men, to work. They seek freedom, independence and bargaining equality in their relationship with employers and management. It was because the American people as a whole shared this feeling that the national relations act was passed.—William Green.

Hotel Workers Strike

Albany, N. Y.—Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Union called a strike at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel when the management refused to sign an agreement for a union shop, seniority rights and pob security. Out of 108 union employes, 101 quit work.

Unfair Competition

The matter of insuring the riding public is another important safety measure which does not exist here, with the exception of the Jolly Cab company, according to our information and belief. It is a known fact that a patron being hurt in a taxi, with the exception of Jolly, has a slim chance of collecting damages even though awarded them by the courts. Most of the cab companies do not own the cabs that bear their names. Practically all of the cabs are not paid for, in order that the finance company might repossess the cab in case of a damage judgment. Many of the cabs are listed in the names of the drivers, although they work for the company.

It is different with Tepco. We know that Tepco has always paid damage judgments against it. Injured patrons of Tepco know they have a financial recourse against a responsible company. Injured patrons of a taxicab many times do not waste the effort of suing for damages simply because collection of judgment is well nigh impossible.

Tepco is rigidly regulated by the city and state. Tepco must pay taxes to use our streets. Tepco must keep its equipment in a safe, sanitary and sightly condition. Anybody can buy a piece of junk with four wheels, pay a few dollars on it, pay no taxi license, carry no insurance, and proceed to whizz through our streets, endangering life and limb of the riders and the public in general.

If anyone were to suggest that Tepco be relieved of its financial responsibility toward its riding public, there would be mass meetings, demands for a referendum to buy the system and maybe torchlight parades against Tepco. All we do toward an irresponsible taxi system is to jump like hell for the sidewalk and thank the Lord we were lucky.

We do not believe that a responsible, tax-paying company, paying decent and reasonable wages, operating under strict and unyielding regulation, should be persecuted by irresponsible, and in some cases, rum running competitors. Why not think it over and Then proceed to do something about it?

Kentucky Sets Example

A new kind of state report was delivered recently to the people of Kentucky in the form of a non-technical 64-page booklet called "Kentucky Government, 1935-1939." The report, says the Council of State Governments, summarizes the reorganization of the state government after 1936, and discusses changes that have taken place in the various state departments in the last four years. Pictures and graphs help tell the story.

Although many cities issued annual reports to their taxpayers, Kentucky is one of the few states that have published a resume for popular consumption, covering all state governmental activities, the Council points out.

The Kentucky report makes for better understanding of the achievements and working of government and so strengthens democracy. Other states could profit by making similar reports.

What Have They to Say?

Production of canned goods is increasing but the use of labor-saving machinery has precluded any resulting increase in employment, according to a study of the canning industry in Ohio, prepared by the National Youth Administration in Ohio, and made public by Aubrey Williams, N. Y. A. administrator laws, so that conflicting standards do not permit interference with continuous schooling.

The N.Y.A. findings in Ohio present a poser for the fellows who contend machines increase employment. What have they to say about the survey? Their comments are sure to be of interest to labor.

b. There should be no exceptions or loopholes which would make possible a child's being kept from school because "he is too poor to attend," (our last survey showed seventeen states have laws with some sort of poverty exemption); because "he lives too far from a school," (our survey showed twenty-two states had this exemption); or for any other reason which is not in the interest of the child himself.

2. Adequate appropriations for the maintenance of schools to be administered for the social well-being of the students to be taught in classes not to exceed twenty-five, in well-constructed buildings, by teachers paid salaries commensurate with the great value of their service to the community.

We recognize that within certain states, under their existing laws through which taxable resources are limited, that truly adequate funds (sufficient to prevent gross inequalities of opportunities for education among the persons of all the states) may not immediately be had. We, therefore, urge for all states the raising of educational budgets in keeping with the human and national investment involved; the amendment of state laws, particularly tax laws, wherever necessary, to make possible more adequate school appropriations. The American Federation of Labor has urged before the federal congress a program of federal aid for education to be allocated among the states on a basis of relative need, and to be administered by the state as necessary to afford equal educational opportunities for all.

3. Professional and social security for teachers, through:

a. Statewide teacher tenure laws which cannot be circumvented by subterfuge in the guise of so-called efficiency ratings, or personality ratings.

b. Statewide teacher pension laws assuring the maintenance of efficiency in the system and the social security of the teacher upon retirement.

c. Provision for leave of absence for teachers for the protection and maintenance of their health and for their professional growth and betterment, with adequate compensation for such leave which would enable the teacher to avail himself of the privilege.

4. Provision for the training for civic responsibility for all persons in the community.

The old concept of education as limited to formal academic subjects must be enlarged, and opportunities provided by law for civic training for youths and adults, to help them meet the complex social and political problems of the day. The curriculum must be revised so as to make training for life in a community and citizenship in a democracy the heart of education.

5. Negatively, there must be no substantive legislation on curriculum making, and no limitations enacted into law which would prevent the teaching of social and physical sciences in our schools—a principle in absolute keeping

WPA Workers' Wages, Though Low, Shown Benefitting Business to Tune of $120,000,000 Monthly

Washington.—Private business is being benefited to the extent of $120,000,000 a month from the low wages paid by the federal government to WPA project workers, it is indicated by an analysis made public by Colonel F. C. Harrington, commissioner of work projects.

This amount represents the estimated average monthly wages paid to project workers by the federal government from January through March of this year. Virtually the entire amount is spent with individuals and concerns engaged in the production and distribution of consumers' goods and in services.

Biggest Spending for Food.

The monthly wages, according to the analysis, are being spent approximately as follows:

$50,000,000, or 42 per cent, for food.

$24,000,000, or 20 per cent, for housing.

$12,000,000, or 10 per cent, for household expenditures as heat, gas, ice and supplies.

$11,000,000, or 9 per cent, for clothing.

$6,000,000, or 5 per cent, for transportation.

$5,000,000, or 4 per cent, for medical care.

$12,000,000, or 10 per cent, for other items such as house furnishings, kitchen and laundry equipment, personal care and recreation.

Spending Helps Employment.

"While the bulk of these expenditures is large, it should be remembered that about 2,250,000 workers with their dependents, are living on WPA wages," Harrington said. "They must spend all they earn and would, if deprived of those jobs, either stand in line for a dole or turn for help to others, too often in the lowest income brackets.

"Practically all the money paid out as wages goes promptly to neighborhood merchants and other local businessmen, who pass it on in the course of trade and thus increase orders to distributors. This not only provides private employment in the immediate community, but also helps to create jobs in the manufacturing, producing and transportation industries."

The analysis was based on a national resources planning board report," Consumer Expenditures in the United States." The distribution of expenditures given in this publication for families and single persons with incomes of between $500 and $750 a year, averaging $673, was applied to the families of WPA project workers, whose incomes average about $648 a year or $54 a month, and the range of whose incomes falls for the most part in the $500-$750 bracket.

How Workers Spend Earnings.

On the basis of the NRPB's findings, the average WPA worker would be expected to spend $23 a month on food for himself and family. His monthly rent bill would be $11. Each member would have $14.50 a year for clothing. For such items as heat, light and household supplies the family would spend about $5.50 a month. Transportation costs would be $2.75, medical care $2.20 and other items about $5.50.

Colonel Harrington pointed out that the earnings and the expenditures of individual WPA workers vary considerably from these averages in the various communities and areas of the country because of differences in WPA wages and living costs.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Tradition tells us that if March comes in like a lion, it goes out like a lamb. If the past week in congress is a criterion, the ancient who made that observation had bad things directly backward. The past week in congress has seen little activity. The House has been occupied with minor matters, largely geographically local, and the Senate has been in session only two days, one of which was devoted entirely to the passage of the Justice Department appropriation bill, and the other just long enough to comply with the formality of the parliamentary rules which demand that either house can recess for longer than three days.

Despite the comparative lull in law-making, some really constructive legislation has been enacted, and in many ways the week has been a most interesting one in Washington.

Finnish Loan

Both houses of congress this week gave their approval to the enlargement of the resources of the Export-Import bank, and the measure only awaits the signature of the President upon his return to the White House this week-end.

Virtually all of the $100,000 000 increase is expected to be put to can foreign trade, according to immediate use to increase Ameri- Jesse H. Jones, Federal loan administrator.

Finland, will, of course, have first call on the Government's new lending resources.

The first loan of $10,000,000 to Finland has now been nearly exhausted by the contracts for civilian supplies which the Finnish Buying Mission has already placed in the United States. It was emphasized that the United States would make no objections to Finland's reselling its nonmilitary purchases in this country and using the money to make cash purchases of armaments either here or elsewhere. Without concern to the Export-Import Bank, Finland may use the credit of the bank to purchase automobiles, lard, peas, cotton, soap, oil and other commodities and then dispose of them as they see fit.

Unemployment

It has been generally agreed that the nation's No. 1 problem is unemployment. To the end that this problem should be attacked vigorously, without partisanship, forty-seven House members, representing both parties, met the past week to further study plans for relieving the acuteness of this situation. The group, of which your Representative is a member, feels that it is high time that the problem be approached from every angle, and that we who are charged with the responsibility should make our own investigation and try to do something to remedy the situation.

The group has designated some twelve committees which will make independent studies, and it is hoped that worthwhile suggestions will be made to congress before the end of this session.

Trade Agreements Program

An interesting contribution to the current question before the Senate Finance Committee was the testimony of W. L. Clayton, Houston (Tex.) cotton broker. Mr. Clayton, who, with his family, will be so pleasantly remembered as residents of Chattanooga, testified that abandonment of the Administration's trade agreements program ward closing the markets of world would be "a step backward" to- trade. He further stated that the program had provided a "modest effort" to keep alive the principle of international division of labor with resulting free exchange of goods between countries.

Great Sum for Injured Workers

Albany, N. Y.—More than $36 000,000 has been paid by indus in New York state to nearly 000,000 injured workers and families in the 25 years since workmen's compensation law w into effect, says a report m public by Frieda S. Miller, st industrial commissioner, in c memoration of the silver jubile workmen's compensation.

In a democracy the timing me anism is adjusted by consent of citizenship and that assumes wi spread knowledge of the many e nomic and social facts and t interrelationships.

Finnish Workers, Thanking U. S. Labor For Aid, Denounces Red Imperialism

New York City.—A message of thanks to American labor for its work in behalf of harassed and bombed civilians of Finland, coupled with an appeal for continued and additional help, w. s contained in a cable received at headquarters of the Finnish relief fund.

Addressed to "Workers of America," the cable was from Eero A. Wuori, president of the Finnish Federation of Trade Unions at Helsinki, who added his voice of approval and encouragement to that of Sir Walter Citrine, president of the International Federation of Trade Unions and general secretary of the British Trades Union Congress, who declared in an earlier message that he was "delighted" at the part played by American labor in rushing to the aid of Finnish civilians.

Finland Declared Victim.

Wuori's cable, addressed to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and honorary chairman of the labor organizations division of the Finnish relief fund drive, and Matthew Woll, vice-president of the A. F. of L., and chairman of the labor committee of the fund, said:

"Workers of America:

"Thank you for your aid to our suffering civilian population.

"Finland has become the victim of unscrupulous aggression in utter disregard of our country's desire for peace and her readiness to negotiate. The soviet union has taken up arms against us to achieve its aims. Its aim and object is the conquest of Finland and the destruction of her people.

Red Aggression Hit.

"Organized labor in Finland regards Soviet Russia's act of aggression as an imperialistic attempt at conquest. It was for these reasons that Finnish labor unanimously resolved to support the parliamentary government of the country and to join forces with all others in the defense of our country's freedom and independence.

"We have received much sympathy and material help from the whole world. . . . But the struggle grows fiercer daily. The enemy's great superiority can crush us unless we obtain effective help.

"We hope the whole world, and especially organized labor in America, realize our position. We are deeply moved by the assistance already given us by our American brothers and we venture to rely on your further support.

"In the great forests of Finland a battle rages now for democratic freedom against imperialistic dictatorship. This war, workers of America, is being waged for the future of our small nation and for the future of its workers."

PICKET LINE GOES HIGH SOCIETY IN GOTHAM STRIKE

New York City.—The picket line at the Brass Rail, Fiftieth street and Seventh avenue, went formal when a group of women prominent in society and civic affairs, attired in evening clothes, joined the picket line, following a theater party.

They represented the New York League of Women Shoppers, which has officially indorsed the strike of the 250 Brass Rail workers which started on an. 18, 1939, because the firm refused to renew its union agreement.

Those in the group included Mrs. Aline Davis Hays, Mrs. Elizabeth Dublin Marshall, Miss Kathleen McInerney, Miss Lily Turner, Mrs. Ruth Goetz, Mrs. Patsy Tolleris and Mrs. Elizabeth Gillmor.

After an impartial investigation of the strike, the board of directors of the League of Women Shoppers notified the Levine brothers, owners of the Brass Rail, that the league does "not feel that the spirit of genuine collective bargaining has been lived up to" by the management and that the board had voted "to support the strikers in their efforts to secure a union agreement."

The strike is being conducted by Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union Local 16 and Chefs, Cooks, Pastry Cooks and Assistants' Union Local 89, both A. F. of L., and involves also the Union Office and Professional Workers of America Local 16, CIO.

Wagner Introduces Mediation Bill To Promote Voluntary Efforts For Settling Labor Disputes

Washington. — Creation of a board of three to help employers and workers settle labor disputes by direct negotiation, mediation and voluntary arbitration is provided in a bill introduced by Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, author of the national labor relations act and other labor legislation.

The bill would set up a United States mediation board, to be appointed by the president. Members would receive $10,000 a year. The bill carries no penalties and no compulsion.

Declaring he is "unalterably opposed to compulsory arbitration in any guise," Senator Wagner said, "What we can, and should do, however, is to help the parties themselves to settle and minimize . . . controversies through a better development of voluntary mediation machinery."

Praises Conciliation Service.

Explaining the purpose of his bill, Wagner praised the work of the United States labor department's conciliation service and said his measure would build upon the work of that organization.

Establishment of a new three-man board, he said, "will give added prestige to its (the conciliation service's) operations and probably make unnecessary the creation of makeshift mediation boards to handle particular major strike situations as they arise, as in the automobile, textile and steel industries in recent years."

Duties of Board.

The senator further explained that it would be the general duty of the mediation board, in order to keep down interruptions to interstate commerce caused by labor disputes, "to encourage employers and employes to exert every reasonable effort, through their lawfully designated representatives—

"(1) to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules and working conditions, including, wherever possible, provision for the final adjustment of grievances or questions regarding the application or interpretation of such agreements; and

"(2) to settle all differences, whether arising out of the negotiation, interpretation or application of such agreements or otherwise, with all expedition wherever possible, in conference in the first instance."

Offering of Services.

The services of the mediation board, under the bill, could be invoked by the parties to the dispute, or by either party, or the board might offer its services whenever a labor dispute involved a substantial interruption to interstate commerce, re continued.

If mediation proved unsuccessful, the board would make a final attempt to persuade the parties to submit their controversy to voluntary arbitration, he added.

The Easier Task.

Client — Why, it's outrageous! You are taking 75 per cent of the money!

Lawyer—Well, my skill, legal training and experience got you the money.

Client—But I was the victim!

Lawyer—Bosh!- Anybody could get hit by a car!

"Go Fly a Kite"
But Keep Away From Electric Wires

AN APPEAL TO MOTHERS and FATHERS

KITE-FLYING TIME is a season of thrilling pleasure for boys. It may also be a season of danger for them unless parents impress caution against live wires and traffic in streets and roadways. Warn your boy against flying his kite near electric wires. Serious, and even fatal, consequences have resulted from kites coming into contact with power wires.

Not for the world would we spoil the pleasure of any child, but we do want to caution parents and children against risks which may attend this sport. So, we emphasize some important "don'ts" for the kite-flying season. Parents should see that they are fixed in the minds of their children.

DON'TS
FOR KITE FLYERS

Don't fly kites near electric wires.

Don't use any wire in constructing kites.

Don't use wire or tinsel cord in kite strings or tails.

Don't climb poles to recover kites caught on electric wires.

If your kite gets hung on wires call the Electric Power Board, phone 7-3393, and a trained man will be sent out to remove it.

Avoid traffic dangers. Fly kites only on vacant lots or fields, and not in streets or roadways.

Convention Sightlights

There were 100 registered delegatesfrom Chattanooga at the conference in Atlanta last week-end . . . and we must have missed a few of them. That was probably the largest delegation from any of the states except Birmingham.

* * *

The Tennessee Labor movement was well represented. There were 219 registered delegates from the state.

* * *

The Hodcarriers' Union from Birmingham made the biggest hit of the convention. On Saturday morning a quartet composed of colored members of their local sang several selections. The song "Union Train" brought down the house. Then on Sunday a colored chorus of about twenty members sang for the delegates.

How about it, Local 846? Can't we have something like that here?

All the taxicabs in Atlanta are union, so we were told, and they all had stickers on the cabs extending a welcome from their local.

But there wasn't a single union restaurant in the city. Chattanooga is ahead of the Atlanta movement there.

Missed having Paul and Marie Reynolds at the meeting. Paul had to work and could not get away.

* * *

There was hardly elbow room at the banquet Saturday night, given in honor of Secretary George Meany and Secretary-Emeritus Frank Morrison. Many of the delegates were unable to secure tickets.

* * *

The various Atlanta unions entertained their fellow unionists right royally. The Electrical Workers gave a big dinner, with more than 400 people attending. There was a luncheon for the officers of the state federations and a luncheon for the editors of the labor papers in the South. Other locals "got together" with members tof their craft in the Southern cities.

Enjoyed seeing W. C. Birthwright, who was secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor for seventeen years. He is now president of the Barbers' International Union.

It was a successful conference . . . and a large one . . . it will be interesting to know just how many people were there. There must have been about 3,000 labor people in attendance.

MORE ABOUT TEACHER TALK

with the great tradition of free government upon which our schools are founded.

At the moment drives for so-called economy threaten the proper functioning of our schools. Self-constituted "citizens protective committees" join with "tax associations" to attack our public schools. They fight not only the giving of funds to our schools, but the development through the schools our democratic ideals.

Labor must protect our schools, its pupils and its teachers.

It is high time that teachers wake up to the fact that democracy is under attack in this country. The poll tax evil in the south is bad enough, but a much more subversive scheme is the "one-two" campaign that is being promoted by incorporated organizations in Washington, Oregon and California with the intention of establishing a nationwide movement by 1941. While every eligible citizen would retain his present right to one vote, all those with income or real estate tax receipts in their names would be permitted. two votes! According to the New York Times (Feb. 18, 1940), "Radios all along the coast are blaring for the merits of the proposed new voting scheme, while speakers are appearing before clubs and societies which are not usually receptive of innovations." It has already been denounced as unconstitutional by California's Gov. Olson. More than bombastic speeches on the Fourth of July are going to be necessary to preserve self-government in this country.

Both the old board of directors and the new board of delegates are to meet Wednesday evening in Hotel Patten. Let's have a record attendance!

THE VOICE OF GOD

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

God still speaks through specially inspired people, although this message is not accompanied by "signs and wonders," as in the days of old. Usually we do not recognize such people nor heed their message until they have been taken from us. Ordinarily, the world first crucifies them, and long afterward it "immortalizes" them, and we erect statues to their memory. And yet, what they have collectively contributed becomes part of the common fund of the people's wisdom, so that it may truthfully be said that "the voice of the people is the voice of God."

The undiscerning hear in the people's voice only a roar of discontent, or the mutterings of the misguided mass. But the statesmen in every age who have accomplished the things which have produced the greatest good for all the people, but much of their inspiration from the masses because no group has a broader experience in the vital problems of everyday life than the "common people."

Sometimes the people's expression of God's will is crude. Sometimes it comes as a shock to those who are quite comfortable and have become accustomed to things as they are, and who, fully satisfied with present conditions, are unwilling to be made uncomfortable by the perplexities and problems of others. But rarely is an appeal made in behalf of troubled or perplexed people but what the common people respond to such an appeal. And in so doing they express the will of God.

This has been proved in history, and it is true today. It is being demonstrated in many parts of the world where helpless men and women are struggling against fearful odds—men and women who are being driven from their homes; robbed of their belongings; deprived of food and clothing; many other tortures are inflicted scourged by brutal persecutors; and upon them which cannot even be mentioned because of their horror.

American Labor has declared itself regarding these atrocities. Many workers in other countries are fighting the battles of those who are being oppressed. And the tyrants who are subjecting the masses of the people to these degradations are beginning to fear for their future. The common people—the men of uncommon sense — to these the world owes a debt of gratitude. If you would hear the voice of God, keep close to the people!

GENTLENESS

Kindness is the velvet of social intercourse. Kindness is the oil in the cogs of life's machinery. Kindness is the controlling spring which holds back the slamming door. Kindness is the burlap in the parking case of every day's merchandise. Kindness ih the color in the cathedral window which, woven into beautiful characters, shuts out the hideous sights of a world which is all too practical. Kindness is the carpet on life's floor which deadens the sound of shuffling feet and adds warmth to silence. Kindness is the satin lining of the silver casket. Kindness is the green grass near the hard pebbles of the road. Kindness ih the touch of an angel's hand.

The little knot-tying that I have been predicting for a few weeks really did happen. Old doughboy snooper is right sometimes about some things, he hopes. Lansing Manning and Lois Baker were married at the home of Miss Baker Tuesday night, March 5. Brother Manning is employed at the Cameron & Barr Bakery, while Miss Baker is an erstwhile employe of the Chattanooga Bakery. Congratulations to the happy couple from Local 25 and Doughboy.

Another member of our local was married recently. Miss Lois Broom and Arthur Forester were married in Rossville, Ga., last week. May we offer congratulations?

Glad to remove Brother John Fowler from our sick list this week. Brother Fowler returned to work a few days ago.

Brother C. B. Norwood was confined to his home last Saturday on account of sickness. Glad to report that Connie, better known to us bakery boys as Donald Duck, is back on the job.

Brother Thomas Weathers celebrated his birthday on Feb. 29. Thomas is one of those leap year specials.

Mrs. Alma Helton has entered Erlanger Hospital for an operation.

Brother Amos Miller was telling about the union-made dishes that he purchased a few days ago at Lay's Drug Store in Rossville. If you are figuring on buying dishes, be sure to go by and get these union-made ones.

In this age it may be considered that oil lends more to dominance than any other material. Every year the world produces, in round figures, 2 billion barrels of oil. Census figures show that of this 2 billion barrels 1¼ billions, or 62 per cent, are produced in that 6½ per cent of the world's surface that lies within the United States.

Silver Anniversary Edition

THE LABOR WORLD

On May 3, 1940, The Labor World will start on Volume 25. Each volume represents one year of publication in this city. During this time The Labor World, owned by the American Federation of Labor unions in Chattanooga, through the Central Labor Union, has builded for itself a prestige, respect and honor that few papers can claim. In all this period no firm or individual has suffered one penny loss because of The Labor World's failure to pay its just debts.

Your paper's policy has been to offer an advertising value to merchants that stands on its own merit. We do not accept contributions in the form of "A Friend" advertisements. We have an advertising value that has been recognized because The Labor World readers-owners patronize the people who advertise through their paper.

The Labor World feels that in its SILVER ANNIVERSARY EDITION there is every reason for the Labor Movement to rejoice over its accomplishments. We feel that business firms and individuals will accept the opportunity to rejoice with us.

We need your help. TALK about the SILVER ANNIVERSARY every day. Tell your merchant about it. Ask him to be represented in that issue. And then let us have the names of prospective advertisers whom you feel will want advertising space in that issue.

NYA Conference Calls For Action To Provide Employment for 1,500,000 Jobless Young Women

Washington, D. C.—A two-day conference on the problems of unemployed young women, called here by the National Youth Administration, agreed that to meet the urgent needs of jobless young people adequately, public works and training programs would have to be expanded. The conference was attended by women prominent in education, labor, business, youth and social work.

The meeting said that "an unprecedented situation exists in that there are approximately 4,000,000 unemployed, out-of-school young people between the ages of 16 and 24, of whom at least 1,150,000 are young women, and that this group constitutes at least one-third of the total unemployment in this country."

It was further declared "that the responsibility of meeting this situation must be shared by private enterprise, the labor movement, the local community and the government at all levels."

Immediate Action Urged

A further agreement was as follows:

"Constructive steps should be taken to make the country as a whole aware of the problem and to find immediately jobs for as many as possible without undermining labor standards."

Speakers included Miss Charlotte Carr, head resident, Hull House, Chicago, and Mrs. Eleanor Copenhaver Anderson, of the Y. W. C. A. industrial department.

"There can be no solution to the problem of unemployed youth that is based on under-cutting standards of adult labor," said Miss Carr. She reported that illiteracy on economic subjects was common among young people, many of whom believe that married women should not work. All of them know, however, that jobs are of primary importance, she said.

Economic Education Needed

Mrs. Anderson said the greatest need among young people in their organized groups was for economic education. These young people are avid for facts about the labor movement and what the government can and cannot do, she said. She added that they are seeking a more practical type of education.

Miss Florence Thorne, American Federation of Labor; Miss Catherine F. Lenroot, Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor; Miss Mary Anderson, Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, were among those who attended.

action taken by the Central Labor Union at a recent meeting," the typos realize that "the Central Labor Union had no alternative.

Advancing further the friendly co-operative spirit, the printers voted to subscribe for The Labor World in a body. Because Labor World subscriptions are paid in the dues to Central Body, the Labor World would have lost 160 subscribers due to the disassociation order. However, The Labor World will continue to go into the home of every printer, and will receive support, as usual, from the printers.

The letter addressed to Central Body follows:

March 4, 1940.

Mr. Erskine Mabee, Secretary,
Chattanooga Central Labor,
512 Hamilton Trust Building,
Main Street,
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Dear Mr. Mabee:

Your communication of Feb. 29, asking that a committee from the Central Labor Union be permitted to visit the Chattanooga Typographical Union for the purpose of explaining in person the action of your organization in disassociating our local from membership, was considered at our meeting Sunday afternoon.

We shall be glad to extend the courtesy of the floor to a committee from the Central Labor Union at any time and for any purpose. Our next meeting will be held on the first Sunday in April, beginning at 2 p.m.

Naturally, we noted with regret the action of the Central Labor Union, though we were not particularly surprised. We understand fully that the Central Labor Union, being a chartered organization of the American Federation of Labor, is subject to the mandates of the parent body. The International Typographical Union is not now and never has been in the position of a chartered organization. We have maintained that our relationship to the A. F. of L. and its subordinate organizations was merely that of an affiliate. Incidentally, we are none of the original group of international unions affiliating themselves together as the A. F. of L.

However, it is needless to enter into an extended argument as to the reasons that have led up to the action taken by the Central Labor Union at a recent meeting. As stated before, we are aware that the Central Labor Union had no alternative.

We want to assure you and the labor movement in general that we are still vitally interested in all matters that affect bona fide organized working groups. So far as it will be permitted by the Central Labor Union, we shall continue to co-operate in matters affecting organizer labor. We are not peeved, and we hold no grudges.

At our meeting Sunday I was instructed to mail a check for regular per capita tax and hall rent for the month of February, which is herewith inclosed.

By vote of the union, we agreed to subscribe for the Labor World as a group, and will mail monthly check direct to the Labor World to cover our entire membership at a rate of 10 cents per member if this is agreeable to the publishers of the Labor World.

I was also instructed to say we shall be glad to continue use of the hall that we have been renting from the Central Labor Union until such time as one of the other parties to such an agreement should see fit to make a change, presuming that the rental rates heretofore in effect are satisfactory.

You understand, of course, that the International Typographical Union is now in the position of an independent organization, affiliated with neither the A. F. of L. nor the C. I. O. It is my opinion, and this is purely an opinion, that this condition will not be changed until such time as we again have a thoroughly united labor movement in this country.

In the meantime we trust that our members will continue to conduct themselves as union men and that we shall do nothing to place an obstacle in the way of bringing to an end the disastrous internal strife within the ranks of labor.

Trusting that you will feel free to call upon us for any assistance that we may render to your organization or its affiliates, we are

Fraternally yours,

CHATTANOOGA TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION NO. 89.

Well, folks, you just don't know what you missed not being at the meeting Tuesday night. You should have known I'd bring you back a souvenir from Atlanta. But then maybe you didn't know I attended the conference, as so few of you came to the meetings. Must say I enjoyed eevry talk made by the different international representatives, and most of all our own Hugo Ernst, from our home office in Cincinnati. We only had three of the culinary locals represented, Hiwassee Dam Local No. 539, Atlanta Bartenders' Local No. 192 and our own Chattanooga Local No. 574. But we had a great time and made enough noise down there for everybody to know we were in the field and fighting to better our conditions. We are starting a membership drive and want the support of each member.

Mr. Ernst has been in the city for a day or so, during which time we have tried to look after matters the most pressing. And feel we have the full support of the international, as well as our own loyal Central Body, who have helped us along from the start.

TEAMSTERS GOSSIP

By W. E. ECKENROD, JR.

In discussing the merits of their new pastor, several members of the congregation finally voiced this opinion: "We have nothing but praise for Brother Brown." When the collection plate was passed the following Sunday and Brother Brown peered inside he exclaimed, "So I notice!"

In regard to our strike at the Hoover Freight company let's not have just "nothing but praise" for the boys on the line. No matter where we are employed or what the weather conditions none of us are too good to take turns about on the picket line.

A vote of thanks to the Chattanooga Times reporter who has been covering the current strike. His use of the words "peaceful pickets," his unbiased accounts of recent happenings and his informing his readers that Local 515 is not out to injure persons or destroy property will go a long way toward creating good will for teamsters in Chattanooga—and with the many sins laid to a truck driver, good will, above all else, is what we need and want.

At a regular meeting last week Dairy Workers Local 428 voted unanimously to return their charter and transfer the entire membership of almost 100 into Local 515. That many new members at one time is enough to gladden the heart of any organization committee. Welcome, milk drivers. You have just become a part of the most progressive teamster local in Tennessee.

Speaking of an organizing committee, how is this for bringing in a brand new live-wire junior member. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kelley announce the birth of a 9½-pound son, William Harrison Kelley. Young Kelley's proud papa drives for Dave L. Brown Construction company.

ITU. VICE-PRESIDENT TO VISIT 'NOOGA NEXT THURSDAY

Vice-President John Conley, of International Typographical union, has notified Harry Maupin, member of Chattanooga Typographical, that he will be in Chattanooga on Thursday evening, March 21, for a few hours' visit. Mr. Maupin said that members of Typographical will be welcome to call on Mr. Conley at the Patten hotel that evening.

LABOR'S GREAT CONFERENCE NOW A CHAPTER OF HISTORY

Atlanta, Ga., March 11.—History was made in the meeting of the great Southern Labor Conference held here on March 2 and 3. A new chapter in the South's progress was written by that great event. A definite turning point in the South's philosophy was reached and successfully negotiated on March 2 and 3, 1940. The south's finest citizenship came to Atlanta on those days for a very definite purpose, and that purpose was accaccomplished in such emphasized manner that future historians will give to the Southern Labor Conference of 1940 a prominent place in the South's history.

From Norfolk, Va., to Shreveport, La., 1239 miles due east and west, and from Frankfort, Ky., to Miami, Fla., 1109 miles north and south, came delegations representing State Federations of Labor, City Central Labor Unions, Building Trades Councils, Metal Trades Councils, District Councils, Railroad Systems, Union Label Leagues, Women's Auxiliaries and Local Unions, to gather in Atlanta for the greatest American Federation of Labor gathering ever held in the history of this powerful organizations.

Southern hospitality has never been lavished upon any gathering of people in more whole-hearted and genuine manner than that showered upon the visiting American Federation of Labor officials and delegations. From the moment of the arrivals of the train bearing President William Green and his official family at the terminal station early Saturday morning, March 2, until Mr. Green left the city at 6:20 Sunday evening, Atlanta and the south shouted a great welcome to him. That President Green was hailed as a symbol of honesty and righteousness as the leader of an American institution based upon honesty and righteousness was impressed upon him every moment that he remained in the city.

As early as 7 o'clock on that Saturday morning the people began gathering at the terminal station, and when the train bearing President Green and his party arrived an hour later, thousands of people had assembled at the station to welcome him and his associates. At his first appearance Atlanta's own union band struck up the strains of Dixie's welcome, and the assembled thousands added their hearty applause to the welcoming notes of the band. Officially meeting and greeting President Green were Georgia's governor, E. D. Rivers; Atlanta's mayor, William D. Hartsfield; Geo. L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor; Charles B. Gramling, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, and Albert W. Gossett, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

It was an auspicious moment when President Green, walking between the governor of Georgia and the mayor of Atlanta, and flanked on both sides by thousands of cheering men and women, traversed the long corridor of the terminal station and passed through the spacious waiting room to enter the mayor's automobile in waiting to bear him to his hotel. Adding to the scene was the uniformed official escort of six men who had been named by the state and city to be at the service of President Green during his stay in Atlanta. He was then taken to the Henry Grady hotel, where the Roosevelt suite at that famous hostelry had been placed at his disposal.

While the visiting A. F. of L. officials were checking into rooms that had been reserved for them in the leading hotels of the city, the delegations from the ten states comprising the Southern Labor Conference were registering at the city auditorium and depositing credentials with their respective state secretaries. At 10 o'clock the conference was formally opened and after addresses of welcome by the governor and mayor, the business of the conference began.

At the noon hour another expression of appreciation and confidence in the American Federation of Labor was manifested in impressive manner at a luncheon given by Mr. Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company, to President

Bakers' Union Sends $1,361 Check As Second Contribution to Fund For Fighting Poliomyelitis

Washington, D. C.—A post-birthday celebration check for $1,361.73 from the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union, raises that union's infantile paralysis contribution this year to $3,081.51 in addition to their donation of the giant birthday cake and birthday card donations from their individual membership,

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and chairman of the Labor Division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, made this announcement here as he accepted the second donation from A. A. Myrup, international secretary-treasurer of the Bakery Workers' Union.

Early in January the bakers donated $1,719.78 to the infantile paralysis war chest as the first of their local union treasury donations to the cause.

In presenting the second donation bringing their contribution up to $3,081.51, Mr. Myrup explained that contributions from local union treasuries were asked on the basis of their per capita tax to their central bodies. Each local, he said, was asked to give the equivalent of one month's per capita tax to the "health war."

Chairman Green, in accepting this second donation from the Bakery Workers, reminded those present that the birthday cake itself, likewise given by this union, was the means of raising over $6,000 for the 1940 Fight Infantile Paralysis Fund. Fifty-eight candles on the cake were sold to unions at a minimum of $100 per candle.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

NEW DEAL'S SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

Smiling, refreshed, and tanned by the tropical sun, President Roosevelt returned from his vacation on Sunday. The next order of business, after signing the act authorizing the Finnish loan, was to celebrate the Seventh Anniversary of Roosevelt in power. The service was held in St. John's Episcopal Church, of which Dr. Oliver Hart is rector. Dr. Hart will be remembered as the popular rector of St. Paul's in Chattanooga.

People will do well to studiously reflect upon these seven years, beginning with the dismal day of March 4, 1933. These years represent the most dynamic and interesting period in the peace time history of our nation. The transition from one era to another in American life has occurred—and despite the bitter controversy and loud talking, it has been done peacefully—such is the American way.

HATCH ACT ENLARGED BY THE SENATE

The closest and bitterest controversy in the Senate this session arose this week over the extension of the Hatch Act. The diminutive New Mexico Senator sought extension of the "law against pernicious political activity" so as to include State employes where the funds are paid, in part, from the Federal Treasury. This would include most employes of the State Highway, Welfare and Labor Departments. The President, early in the week expressed desire for the extension. Democrats in the Senate were hopelessly split. The Senate, after a long and loud debate, passed the legislation over for later consideration.

N. L. R. B. CHANGES RECOMMENDED

A special congressional committee, headed by Mr. Smith of Virginia, brought in, by a three to one vote, recommendations for drastic and farm-reaching changes in the Labor Relations Act. Following the report, a bill to accomplish the changes was introduced. The bill, referred to the Labor Committee, is not apt to be reported in its present form.

There are many divergent opinions among congressmen on this subpect. Only a very few would repeal the act outright. The majority would, if possible, improve the law so as to bring about a better understanding and relations between labor and industry.

FSA HELPS FARMERS

The Farm Security Administration has just furnished your Representative a report of last year's work in the Third District. The survey shows that the 700 standard rehabilitation borrowers in our district had an average net income last year of $604 per family, as compared with $419 in the year before they came to FSA for help. This represents an increase of 45 per cent. These families have not only added $196,000 to the wealth of their communities, but they also have increased their annual incomes by $130,000. This expanding purchasing power has of course been of considerable benefit to the merchants and other business men of the district.

The typical rehabilitation family in our district has borrowed $383, and already has repaid $160. Since most of the money loaned does not fall due for four or five years, there is every reason to expect that the great bulk of it will be repaid.

The object of the program is to help needy farm families to become self-supporting instead of remaining indefinitely on relief. The progress they are making is indicate by the fact that the borrowers in our district produced $211,000 worth of goods for home consumption last year, as compared with $156,000 before they came into the FSA program.

In making the survey, the field workers of FSA found that there are 1,000 families in our district which are eligible and in need of rehabilitation loans, but have been unable to get them because of our limited funds.

The Farm Security Administration has made an excellent showing, and is entitled to be commended.

VISITOR FROM THE DISTRICT WHO CALLED AT OFFICE

Among those who called at the office during the week were Grover Tittle and Dave Parks, capable president and secretary of the Building Trades Council. John S. Fletcher, prominent lawyer, and L. J. Wilhoite were also by. Mr. Wilhoite put in some good licks for the TVA Replacement Bill. He is well known by the members of the House Military Affairs Committee.

Challenge to Business

A war boom running without restraint, and followed by the inevitable depression, would devastate all business. . . . The hope in the present situation is for improvement that is independent of war orders and can hold without them. If costs are kept down and prices kept at levels which consumers can afford to pay for goods, the first essential to keep trade moving will be realized. This is the challenge to business.—National City Bank, New York.

A man in old age is like a sword in a shop window.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Drive to Break Strike Fails

Luggage Workers in Firm Stand For Better Pay and Union Shop

Petersburg, Va. — All efforts made by the American Hardware company to break the ranks of its 1,300 striking employes and induce them to return to work have failed, strike leaders report. The strike, it is said, is just as effective as when it began on Jan. 29.

Agents of the company have been going to the homes of the workers, making all kinds of promises and also trying to scare them with the loss of their jobs unless they immediately return to work. The workers are holding firmly and are determined not to go back to work until the American Hardware company enters into collective bargaining with the union and grant the workers' demands for increase in wages, a union shop and improvements of working conditions.

Labor Aids Strikers.

The strike kitchen, where all strikers get every day a hot meal and the commissary, where food is distributed to strikers' families, have been functioning to the full satisfaction of the workers. The food for the strike kitchen is donated by friendly merchants of Petersburg, Richmond and vicinity, and the commissary is maintained through the financial assistance given by the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers' union, with which the strikers are affiliated, its locals and particularly by the luggage locals of New York, Newark, N. J., Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Racine which have assessed themselves for the duration of the strike.

The labor movement in Virginia is also giving wholehearted support morally and financially to the strikers.

Many Names Used.

For the information of luggage buyers and for the public generally the union states that the American Hardware company is also selling its trunks and luggage under the following names: Appomattox Trunk & Bag Co., Independent Trunk & Bag Co., Petersburg Traveling Goods Co., Petersburg Trunk & Bag Co., Rainey Luggage Corporation, Seward Luggage Corporation, Standard Trunk & Bag Co., Totty Trunk & Bag Co., Virginia Trunk & Bag Co.

Public Housing Program To Use Bricks Galore

Washington, D. C.—More than 1,000,000,000 building bricks — an amount sufficient to build a high wall spanning the continent from New York to San Francisco—will be utilized in the construction of low-rent dwellings under the slum-clearance program of the United States Housing Authority, according to estimates made public by USHA Administrator Nathan Straus.

Approximately 230,000,000 lineal feet of structural hollow tile—a total of 43,560 miles, or nearly twice the distance around the earth at the equator—will give added safety and sanitation for the 170,000 low-income families who will move into the new homes from their present shacks and tenements in the nation's slums and blighted areas.

In addition there will be put to use about 400,000,000 feet of lumber, 3,000 000 tons of sand and gravel, 8,000,000 barrels of cement, 800,000 tons of gypsum plaster and 1,500,000 gallons of paint—to mention but a few of the many items that go into the construction of low-rental housing projects.

A complete break-down of the enormous quantity of building materials and equipment, for which there will be an estimated outlay of $280,000,000 in the present $770,000,000 public housing program, was submitted by USHA technical experts to point out the benefits to be derived by the whole building industry.

RAILROAD EFFICIENCY

By reason of the improvements in physical facilities and methods of operation over the last ten years, it is estimated that the railroads could handle today the peak freight traffic of 1929 with 350,000 fewer cars than were needed in that year. As a matter of fact, in 1929 they did handle, without interruption or delay, 19 per cent more carloads than in the peak world war year of 1918, with no increase in the number of cars.—"Train Talks," Pennsylvania Railroad.

Short-Cuts Delusive

The major gains achieved by workers have been achieved through a trade unionism functioning as a movement of organized self-help. And any attempt to find a short-cut to satisfaction and security for labor through a deal with political leadership will prove delusive. Government rarely becomes the patron of a movement without ending as its boss.—From report of republican program committee.

"Build-Up" Good News For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary!

Many who suffer from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus it often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance to periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "the time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI more than 50 years.

No Reason Except Carelessness

Traffic accidents took a toll of 2,750 lives in January. This casualty list of street and highway, reported by the National Safety Council, was 6 per cent greater than in January a year ago and marked the fourth successive month of increases over the previous year.

"America is shocked to read of enemy attacks on Europe's defenseless women and children," said Col John Stilwell, president of the Council, "and yet it accepts with apparent resignation the fact that thousands of equally defenseless persons have been struck down and killed just as tragically in our own country.

"The situation is made more ironic by the fact that the ruthless attacks in Europe are made upon an enemy, whereas here we are killing fellow-citizens, and for no reasons except carelessness.

"It is significant that the unbroken increases in America's traffic toll during the last four months began almost simultaneously with the outbreak of war overseas. Can it be that we, too, are holding human life more cheaply?"

BY HARRY BEDOIT

The lesson this week will be found in the book of Exodus, and it is all about Moses and the Israelites.

Moses, one of the greatest characters in the Bible, was being fitted for a job that he didn't think he was able to do. Using one's imagination, one could see him trying to dodge the job, and trying to get the Lord to put someone else more fitted than he on the job. But God, being the wisest, knew what He was about. So He told Moses to go ahead. He would see that he would get all the help he needed. Yet Moses thought that he wasn't the one for that particular job, and he was still trying to wriggle out when the Lord said, "Your brother will help you." It seems that Aaron had a gifted tongue and could talk fluently. That was one point where the Lord scored. It seems that Moses was short on the talking end. Of course he still thought he could get off, when the Lord said He would give him the power of what we would call today a magician. It was the custom in those days to carry a staff. This staff was pretty much like the cane our daddies used to carry. This staff of Moses was more than a walking stick. Moses could, at the proper time, change the staff into a serpent. Of course this was all done for a purpose.

One of the most important events of Moses' early life was when he championed the fight between the Egyptian and the Hebrew, when he killed the Egyptian, and the next day when two Hebrews were fighting each other, was when the champion was a chump. Moses had to leave for parts unknown.

Of course we all know the story of Moses' flight and the reason for it and the return of Moses after a long a time, the difficulty and hardships he went through to get the Jews to go with him. How it grieved him to see his people persecuted and oppressed by the ones in power, and after he got them free, how they growled and complained.

You try to get people to think together on the same line and you will see that it is impossible. You will also see that we have just as hard-headed people to contend with today as Moses did long ago. Try to sponsor a cause and the first time you make a mistake you have the whole crowd on your neck. If the Lord God don't help you, you needn't look anywhere else, for those who promise to see you through are just somewhere else.

You better have a good gift of gab, as it isn't convenient to have someone else do your talking for you. It isn't the custom today to have a magic wand to bring those obstinate ones to your side of the question. You just have to get them by the powers that are in you.

If anyone reads this and wonders what it is all about, just open your Bible and read the book of Exodus. Probably the writer just wants an excuse to get you to read the Bible. Anyway, use your imagination. It is a great gift if you use it, and you can say then that this is something different.

Time for the Medicine

It was getting very close to the time for the celebrated guest to make his speech.

The chairman, looking about the table, came over to the speaker, and whispered:

"Shall we let them enjoy themselves a little longer, or do you think you'd better begin your speech now?"

Bakers' Scraps

By DOUGHBOY

A week or so ago I promised to give a who's who of Bakers' Local 25 and so this week I will try to fulfill that promise. Starting with the president, I will try and tell you something of every officer of our local.

WILLIARD R. DOWNEY,
President Local 25.

Brother Williard R. Downey, president of Bakers Local No. 25, began his activities with the local five and one-half years ago. This is the second year of Mr. Downey's job as president of the local. His one aim is to protect union-made products in Chattanooga by keeping all nonunion bread and cakes out. Brother Downey has been very helpful in keeping out this nonunion bread and cakes and we are proud to have such an active member as our president.

He started working in the baking industry in 1927 at the Chattanooga bakery and spent many years at this bakery and then he was employed at the American bakery several months. In 1930 he was employed at the Colonial bakery, where he is now working as dough mixer. Mr. Downey is married and has three sons, Don, Dickie and Ray. Don and Dickie attend the Glenwood grammar school. Our president is a member of the Highland Park Baptist church. His favorite sports are fishing and motor boating. When asked what his favorite book was Williard told me that it used to be his bank book, but that even lacked interest now.

Next week: Vice-President C. M. Wilkey.

I spent most of the day Saturday in the office and had several nice talks with some of our members. Sorry that Nellie White has been sick for the past few days. Why, oh why, doesn't somebody tell me these things? Glad that Sister White is better now and back at work.

* * *

Curtis Sims is in town for the Central Body meeting and some business for our local. It's surprising what a big shot Curtis has become, but I can sit back and say I knew him when. We are fortunate in having Brother Sims as a representative of our bakers international.

* * *

C. B. Norwood, our business agent, tells me that he is negotiating with a certain bakery which has been on our unfair list. More news on this within a short time.

* * *

Remember that all products of the Morgan Packing company are nonunion, and when you go into your favorite grocery please do not buy them. If you don't know what products this company makes, drop by the office and I will give you a list.

* * *

We had a special meeting of the executive board last Saturday in the office, at which time there was quite a bit of discussion about a little matter that was called to our attention by a former member of our local. This member informed us that several of our members were trading with the Home Stores, and everyone in the local knows, or should know, it is on the unfair list of the Central Labor union of this city and our own baker local unfair list. It was bad enough to hear that these members were trading with the Home Stores, but to hear that they were buying their bread was a little more than we could take. All members are warned to not patronize and ask your friends to not patronize the Home Stores. Spend your union earned money with a union man.

Vegetable Laxative Makes Happy Friends

Here's a laxative that usually acts thoroughly as harsher ones but is a gentle persuader for intestines when used this way: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight; a drink of water. There's usually time for a good night's rest, with a gentle, thorough action next morning relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT is a splendid combination of vegetable ingredients, chief of which is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" that helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. It's economical. 25 to 40 doses: 25c.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

DO YOU KNOW . . .

To answer the questions "Just what is industrial home work and what is being done about it," the Division of Labor Standards of the United States Department of Labor has published a bulletin entitled "Industrial Home Work Legislation and Its Administration."

Industrial home work is the process by which the manufacturer gives out his work to be done in the homes of workers, mostly by women and children instead of being done at the factory. And the result is the sweatshop invades the home.

Home workers get pathetically low wages, and investigations show that home workers have to accept much less than even the poorest paid factory workers. Pennsylvania's labor department found many home workers getting as little as 3 cents an hour. Five cents is not unusual and 10 cents an hour not bad, as home work wages go.

The very nature of the work evades statistics as it evades regulations for health and decent labor standards. Work is often done in badly lighted and badly ventilated rooms under unsanitary conditions. Sometimes the workers are suffering from a communicable disease. The employer thus shifting his responsibility and factory overhead can undercut his competitors and undermine the fair standards of wages and hours, safety and health for workers.

Nineteen states and Puerto Rico have laws which curb the evils of industrial home work.

When the transition from home to factory production has been been made, workers and employers are both better off. Workers have regular hours and are in a position to organize for their own protecpensation and unemployment comtion. Provisions for workmen's compensation, as well as child labor laws, can be enforced.

Here's To Glamor

A "must" essential to achieve glamor is a correct and graceful carriage. Many a fashionably gowned and otherwise beautiful woman has had to give way to her shabbier sister because she slumped when she walked and sat in a chair as if all the strings holding her together had been suddenly pulled out.

Try walking with your head up (as though you were the most beautiful woman in the world, which you are to some one), hold your chest high, your shoulders comfortable. Pull your tummy up and in, at the same time folding your buttocks under. Practice this standing flat against the wall, trying to make wall and spine meet. When walking down the street stop at each corner, pull yourself "up and in" and proceed. Gradually you will become so conscious of the superior feeling this perfect posture gives you that it will become natural stance.

If your skin is oily, a compact rouge is preferable, but creme rouge is to be recommended for regular use at the dressing table, using compact rouge only to renew the makeup during day or evening.

Two most important last touches to your makeup should include emphasizing the curve of your lips with lipstick and faintly touching the lashes, eyelids and brows with a creme specially made for this purpose. It will do much to enhance the liveliness of the eyes, and in time encourage the lashes to grow long and luxuriant.

If your permanent is not too old, try putting your hair up with cologne instead of water. It dries quicker, smells sweet and feels luxurious.

For Better Homemaking

Bulbs grown in the house will bloom more profusely if they are occasionally fed with liquid fertilizer. Use ½ ounce of fertilizer to a gallon of water, and give ½ cup of this liquid to each pot of bulbs.

It's not new, but it's fun to train an ordinary sweet potato into an ivy-like houseplant. Submerge one-third of the potato into water and soon you will be repaid with long vines that may be trained up the wall and held with adhesive tape. Keep in a sunny spot and feed plenty of water.

Women in Industry

The Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, finds that about one-tenth of the women in gainful work in sample urban areas were shown to be the sole support of their families. In three industrial communities having 30% or more of their women gainfully employed in the characteristic occupation groups in which women are found in most cities, the typical working woman in Bridgeport, Conn., for instance, was in a manufacturing plant, which in Richmond, Va., she was found to be more likely to domestic in a private home.

In 12% of thees families 41,000 of them, one woman furnished the entire support, and another 2,000 families were supported by women without the aid of a male wage earner. Of the women who had been the sole support 1,700 had never been married, 1,600 were widowed or divorced and nearly 800 were married. Married women were found in jobs offering less chance for advancement or display of initiative than were single women. Married women were found in the service industries and in occupations within the home.

Younger women filled the white-collar clerical jobs in Fort Wayne and Bridgeport more generally than they filled factory jobs or those of personal and domestic service. In Bridgeport over one-fifth of the employed women were foreign born, and in Richmond two-fifths were Negro.

Baby Talk

Children are great hobbyists and love to save practically everything that comes into their possession. Try placing a wallboard or cork one one wall of their room where they may tack all the precious possessions.

Bedspreads are being designed for children who like to take all their toys to bed at night. On one spread may be found a soldier, bugle, animals and dolls, or a train of cars. Such spreads are washable and fast colors.

The light for a child's room should be an indirect glow, bright enough for all purposes, but with the source concealed so that the child never looks directly into the light. Outlets for electrical toys should be within easy reach.

Pantry Palaver

The United States Bureau of Home Economics offers a splendid recipe for ice box rolls which may be made up and stored in the refrigerator and may be baked fresh each day as desired. The ambitious homemaker who likes variation in her meals will find dozens of ways to change the shape and even the flavor of the ice box roll.

To make a finger roll, shape the dough long and narrow, or try braiding three of these long, narrow strips together to make a braided roll.

To make the clover-leaf roll pinch off very tiny pieces of dough and shape them into balls. Drop three into each muffin tin—when they rise they'll be joined like the lobes of a clover leaf.

For the parkerhouse roll or pocket book roll, as it is sometimes called, roll the dough out flat and cut into rounds with a biscuit cutter. Brush each circle with melted butter, then crease in the middle with the handle of : knife and fold the top over double.

The standard recipe is: I cake yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, ½ cup fat, ½ cup sugar 1½ teaspoonfuls salt, 1 cups scalded milk, 1 pound (8 cups) sifted soft-wheat flour, 1 egg (optional).

Soften the yeast in water. Add fat and sugar to the hot milk. Cool to lukewarm, add a beaten egg (if desired) and combine with yeast and water. Stir in flour and salt until dough is stiff enough to knead. Knead thoroughly, form into ball, put into greased bowl to rise, cover bowl and set in pan of warm water to keep at temperature of 80 to 85 degrees.

When dough is doubled in bulk, punch the center, pull sides over and press them into center. Then turn the ball so the smooth side is up and let dough rise to same volume as before.
as needed, shape as desired and

Knead again, cutting off as much put in warm place to double in bulk. Grease surface of remaining dough, cover and put in refrigerator.

An 18-year-old inventor is reported to have made an automobile capable of traveling 137 miles on one gallon of gasoline and with a top speed of thirty-seven miles an hour. The auto is a two-seater, weighing only 280 pounds. It can easily be put in motion by a system of pedals, for use if gasoline runs out.

Green, his associates, and the officers and leaders in industry, business and finance, and one hundred labor officials, including the executive officers of the state federations in the ten southern states. Mr. Arkwright, as president of the Georgia Power company, is recognized as the largest employer of union labor in the state of Georgia, and his address at the luncheon inspired the labor officials and challenged the admiration of the representatives of business attending the luncheon.

Mr. Arkwright related his pleasure and profitable experience during the past twenty years in dealing with unions of which his employes are members, and declared that he would not consider for a moment any attempt to operate with non-union or unorganized workers, and praised President Green's leadership of the American Federation of Labor.

The afternoon session of the conference in the city auditorium continued almost to the hour of the banquet that had been prepared by the Atlanta Federation of Trades. This banquet was held at the Ansley hotel, where 900 people were crowded into the Louie J. Dinkler room for the occasion. Further evidences of the south's welcome to the American Federation of Labor and its officials were emphasized at the banquet, which was given in honor of Secretary Emeritus Frank Morrison and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany. President Green was the principal speaker at this banquet and his address was carried over a nation-wide hook-up by the National

JUDGES CHOSEN FOR THE 4-STAR ESSAY CONTEST

WILLIAM GREEN

EDWARD KEATING

O. R. STRACKBEIN

Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, is one of the most able figures in American life today.

Regardless of the fact that he has many responsibilities as head of the American Labor movement, Mr. Green has agreed to act as a judge in the 4-Star Essay Contest.

Mr. Green will serve together with Edward Keating, the able editor of the world's largest Labor newspaper, and O. R. Strackbein, recognized as one of the Nation's leading economists. These three leaders in their respective fields have all the qualifications to make excellent judges of the 4-Star Essays.

Mr. Green devotes considerable time to the cause of the Union Label, Shop Card, and Service Button. He always finds time to deliver an address at important Union Label gatherings. At the annual convention of the Union Label Trades Department in Cincinnati, last year, he said:

"The American Federation of Labor holds the Union Label Trades Department in high regard and in high esteem. We consider it an important branch of the American Federation of Labor. It has become increasingly important because, through the splendid work which this Department of the American Federation of Labor has been doing, the public has become Union Label-minded. More and more consumers have become conscious of the value and the importance of the Union Label, the Shop Card, and the Service Button.

"When negotiating collective bargaining agreements with manufacturers, the first thing they ask about is the Union Label. They insist that their representatives arrange for them to use the Union Label in the production of their goods. That to me is most interesting, most significant, and tremendously important."

Mr. Edward Keating, Editor and Manager of LABOR, the Official Washington Weekly Newspaper of the Standard Railroad Labor Organizations, has consented to serve with Mr. William Green and Mr. O. R. Strackbein as one of the official judges of the 4-Star Essay Contest conducted by the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Keating is well qualified to act as judge of essays on labor subjects.

He was born into a trade union family, and has been in close touch with the movement all his life.

His early life was spent on newspapers in Denver, and for years he was managing editor of the Rocky Mountain News, at that time the outstanding Progressive publication of the Middle West. He left the News when he purchased the Leader in Pueblo, Colo.

Mr. Keating was elected to Congress in 1912, and served for six years. During all that time he was a member of the Committee on Labor of the House, and for the last two years of his service was chairman of the "labor bloc" in the House.

In 1916, Mr. Keating secured the passage of the first Federal Child Labor Law, and a year later put over the first Federal Minimum Wage Law for women and children.

Both laws were declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court by a vote of 5-4. However, time has vindicated both measures. Two years ago the Supreme Court reconsidered its position on the Minimum Wage Law, and that measure is now in effect in the city of Washington, where it has already materially improved the wages of thousands of workers. The principle of the Child Labor bill has been incorporated in the Wage-Hour Act and its constitutionality has been sustained by the courts.

Mr. O. R. Strackbein, Member of the Public Contracts Board, United States Department of Labor, will complete the triumvirate of judges for the 4-Star Essay Contest conducted by the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

From the standpoint of an economist and an educator, Mr. Strackbein fully meets the requirements of a well-qualified judge in an essay contest. He was graduated from the University of Texas and later taught economics in Washington and Lee University. It was in this connection that he received the distinction of being elected a Fellow of the Royal Economic Society, London.

After his experience in the education field, he served as a representative of the Department of Commerce in foreign countries, and later he acted as a special expert with the United States Tariff Commission.

His familiarity with Labor Union problems was gained in the several years he served as economist for the Cigar Makers' International Union, the Tobacco Workers' International Union, and the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

As a Member of the Public Contracts Board, Mr. Strackbein takes part in the finding of minimum wages which manufacturers who supply the Government are required to pay under the provisions of the Walsh-Healy Act. He is the author of a recently published book entitled "The Prevailing Minimum Wage Standard" which is devoted to the Public Contracts Act.

Literary Note

Oswald Garrison Villard, back from a visit to Germany, reports that A. Hitler's "Mein Kampf" has been withdrawn from circulation by public libraries "until a new edition, with all the scurrilous references to Russia and the bolsheviks withdrawn, is published." This may explain why Mr. Hitler has been too busy to make many speeches lately. It also may explain the Berlin announcement that vest-pocket copies of "Mein Kampf" are to be issued to all German soldiers. When Mr. Hitler finished the monumental task of cutting out all the scurrilous references to Russia he probably found that his book was down to vest-pocket size.—Washington, D. C., News.

Luggage Workers Face Injunction Fight

Petersburg, Va. — Twelve hundred Petersburg luggage workers, on strike against the American Hardware Company for better wages and the union shop, face an injunction fight. On Feb. 23 the strikers were served with a supplemental injunction obtained by the company from the same judge who issued the first one. This supplemental injunction limits the number of pickets to only three at the entrance, and it bars any other strikers from being in the vicinity of the plant, and even restrains sympathizers from approaching the plant. The second injunction, just as the first one, was issued without a hearing.

When President Green of the American Federation of Labor learned about the second injunction, he assigned Joseph A. Padway, A. F. of L. counsel, to take charge of the union's legal defense. The union has already requested a modification of the injunction. The intervention of the American Federation of Labor in the strike has had a very encouraging effect upon the strikers.

The problem of feeding the strikers, who, with their families, number 5,000 persons, is a serious one, and they are asking the entire labor movement of the nation for help. The strikers hope that the labor movement of the North will realize the great importance of their fight and will give them a helping hand at once. Contributions should be sent to Luggage Workers' Union Local 52, 18 Leigh Building, Petersburg, Va.

Local 52 is affiliated with the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers' Union, A. F. of L.

A. F. of L. Reaffiliation Favored In Test Vote Taken by New York Knitgoods Workers' Unions

New York City- Preference for reaffiliation with the American Federation of Labor was strongly indicated in a test vote taken by members of the Knitgoods Workers' Union, an affiliate of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The vote, in which preference for the A. F. of L. was indicated by two to one, was on rival slates for a committee to run the election of delegates tao the I. L. G. W. U. convention in May, at which reaffiliation is expected to be a major issue. The successful slate represented the progressive or administration group, while the other was put up bw the so-called rank-and-file, or Communist group. Both groups favor unity in the labor movement, but if efforts to bring the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. into agreement fail, the progressives favor returning to the A. F. of L., believing the C. I. O. represents "dual unionism," and the rank-and-file group favors reaffiliation with the C. I. O. because of its organization of basic industries, "neglected by the A. F. of L."

Louis Nelson, manager of the Knitgoods Workers' Union, said he believed the vote was indicative of sentiment throughout the I. L. G. U., an old A. F. of L. union which took part in the organization of the C. I. O. The I. L. G. U. left the C. I. O. last year and is now an independent organization.

MORE ABOUT ATLANTA CONFERENCE

Broadcasting company through the facilities of WSB. He was introduced by Gov. E. D. Rivers, and in this introductory by the governor the nation was informed of the south's expressions of welcome to the American Federation of Labor and its leaders. Frank Morrison, for forty-three years secretary of the A. F. of L., has always been popular among the southern people, and the ovation given him at the banquet attested that his name is still a magic word in any gathering of southern workers.

Secretary-Treasurer Meany, elected to this office upon retirement of former Secretary Morrison at the Cincinnati convention last October, was introduced at the banquet to his first southern audience. A native of New York, Mr. Meany was for many years president of New York State Federation of Labor, and it was his outstanding leadership in that work which made him the unanimous choice of the Cincinnati convention as successor to the beloved Frank Morrison. Mr. Meany did not make a long speech, nor did he attempt any flights of oratory, yet his address to that great assembly gave him a place high in the esteem of the people of the south. Honesty, sincerity, capability, devotion to duty and a high sense of fair play and fair dealings were readily recognized by the audience as outstanding characteristics of Mr. Meany's nature. Never has a southern audience accepted anyone with more spontaneous and enthusiastic welcome than was manifested for Secretary Meany at this meeting.

Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, assisted by George L. Googe, presented many notable men in labor, business, the professions and in public life. Gov. Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield, Congressman Ramspeck, Labor Editor Keating, Chief Justice Charles S. Reid, and numerous other outstanding leaders.

A touching scene was enacted when Jerome Jones, the "Samuel Gompers of the South," was presented. As he arose, his frail body speaking eloquently of his long years of labor leadership in the south, the huge crowd rose as one man and the men and women of all ranks of life joined in one mighty burst of applause in recognition of the life and work and worth of the south's own Jerome Jones.

In addition to the regular conference program during the day, the banquet Saturday night, and the luncheon at the noon hour, many group meetings were called, several of which were held Friday night even before the convention started. International officers met with their own organizers and local union officials, thus bringing the international and local unions of the south into personal and intimate contact and conference. These group meetings lasted throughout Sunday, and many were held on Monday, after adjournment of the general conference. One of the pre-conference events of noteworthy importance was a radio broadcast Friday night in which President Johnson and Judge Joseph A. Padway participated. The Atlanta Journal's "Editorial Hour" on WSB was given over to labor Friday night preceding the opening of the conference, and a highly important chapter of the conference was written at that time.

On Sunday morning President Green filled the pulpit at Druid Hills Baptist church, Rev. Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor, having invited Mr. Green to speak from his pulpit. The large edifice was filled to overflowing with a membership and visitors anxious to hear the president of the American Federation of Labor. The address was broadcast, and tens of thousands in the radio audience also heard labor's chieftain speaking from the pulpit of the noted Druid Hills Baptist church.

Late in the afternoon President Green spoke at the conference proper and the thousands who heard him in the closing session of the two-days' meeting declared that his presentation of the record of achievements of the American Federation of Labor was the most powerful address of the popular leader's career. Time and time again his address was interrupted by such spontaneous and enthusiastic applause that no room for any doubt was left in the mind of any one that President William Green is southern labor's ideal in labor leadership and statesmanship. He left the auditorium soon after completion of his address to board a train for Washington, and a great host of friends accompanied him to the station, happy in having had the great leader in the southland, yet reluctant to see him leave. President Green's reception in Atlanta, the execution of the full program which had been arranged for him, a program that taxed his strength and endurance, the manifold honors that were heaped upon him throughout his all too brief stay in this city, the clamoring crowd of enthusiastic friends gathered about him for a last word of farewell or to make the final good wish for his safe journey back to his office in Washington, constituted an emphatic and unassailable answer to all of Mr. Green's critics.

The Southern Labor Conference gave to the south its opportunity to say to the world that the south is wholly dedicated to the high principles of the American Federation of Labor upon which it has stood for three-score years. Because President Green has had the courage, even in the face of concentrated, vicious attacks upon him by combinations of destructionists, to stand firmly by the established principles of the American Federation of Labor, the south received him with these signal honors. It was the south's manner of expressing its gratitude to President Green and its eternal loyalty to the high and holy and humane principles of the American Federation of Labor.

Pipefitters "Fits"

By ED BORK, JR.

The opponents of unions see only that organized labor seeks to better conditions of employment, better wages and shorter work-days. This is an age of fighting. Labor is—has to be—in most of the fights.

We speak of war in Europe, actually there are several, and more in Asia. So, labor, resenting imperialism, despotism, autocracy, joins to help the victims of these evils.

Labor fights infantile paralysis, gives to the Red Cross, helps the unemployed.

There is no good fight in which organized labor is not engaged. This is as it should be for labor in unions is first of all an idealistic movement. Labor talks too little, perhaps, about its farsighted, constructive efforts to make America a better land, a free land and a happier land.

It is a sad thing when men see only with one eye. The critic sees the $12 wage or the $14 wage of the building mechanic, but doesn't see the long and weary days when there is no work for him. Maybe the hourly wage is higher than it should be, and maybe there is a way of forcing a higher annual income out of a lower rate of pay per day, but nobody has found it yet and those who are the severest critics are the ones who have given least to finding a better plan.

If corporate wealth survives, it will be because labor has compelled moderations that make corporate wealth serviceable and not purely an engine of exploitation.

It isn't labor that wills the murder, the devastation, the horrible mutilation of civilization. Labor fights for life, not for its destruction.

At the regular meeting last Friday night, Joe Dobbs was reinstated in to Local 43. We all know what Brother Dobbs has done for labor in the past and feel certain he can do even more in the future, so we are very glad to have him back.

This week finds Brother Cline with his leg out of the cast so guess he'll be back at work soon.

One of our best helpers, George Wattenberger, has passed the plumbers' examination and is now a full-fledged plumber, and we feel sure he will prove to be an asset to us.

Hope to see Brother Joe Walker, who has been suffering from broken ribs, back on the job before long.

Be sure to attend the regular meeting next Friday night.

MRS. KELSO ILL

Mrs. O. B. Kelso, wife of the president of Brewery Workers' Union No. 79, underwent an operation at Erlanger hospital early Wednesday morning.

She is getting along nicely, according to latest reports, and we hope for her a speedy recovery.

Custodians Start Nice Union in County Schools

The janitors of the schools of Hamilton county met on March 16 in the basement of the First Christian church and organized School Custodians' Union No. 272, affiliated with the American Federation of State, County and Municipay Employes.

Great enthusiasm was displayed. The officers of our youngest union are President W. R. Milligan, Vice President B. F. Sivley, Secretary Hobart Martin, Financial Secretary H. H. Groover.

Albert Gossett, of Atlanta, representing the national union, installed the new charter and officers and pledged the active support of the national office to the new local. The next meeting will be held on Saturday, March 29, at the Ross hotel, at 12 o'clock.

The officers of the local will go as delegates to Central Body.

Much credit goes to School Board Chairman J. P. Brown for his fine cooperation in setting up the union.

Union Labor Life Insurance Thrives

New York, N. Y.—Matthew Woll, president of the Union Labor Life Insurance company, reported that its income for 1939 was $1,264,607.17, with payments to policyholders totaling $756,911.67 and all other disbursements $237,154.91.

The company has individual insurance policies in force amounting to $9,939,046; group policies total $62,810,784.

"Our income for the year was sufficient to meet all our obligations promptly and to permit additional investments in high grade securities," Mr. Woll said. "Our payments to or for the account of policyholders during the year 1939 for death and disability claims, matured endowments, dividends and surrender values amounted to $756,912."

The total admitted assets of the company are $3,316,580.16, which cover all liabilities.

Cement Workers Renew Contract With Pay Raise

Local 1, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, all employes of the Signal Mountain Cement company, successfully renewed an agreement with the company last week, according to V. O. Cunningham, secretary of the union.

The new contract provided for a nice increase in pay and retained all of the other favorable benefits enjoyed under the previous contracts.

The new agreement gained for the union the use of the company's bulletin board for union notices.

From the beginning of the union seven years ago the company has played ball in a fine manner, and today there is an enviable spirit of cooperation between the workers and management that might well be copied by other businesses.

Print Shop Nonunion 49 Years Signs Union Agreement

Washington, D. C. — In 1891 the printers employed in the shop of Rufus H. Darby & Co., Inc., went on strike because the employer refused to agree to a 9-hour day instead of the 10-hour day, which prevailed at that time.

This plant, now operated by the heirs of the original owner, is again in contractual relations with printing trades unions, after 49 years of nonunion experience. Officials of both unions and the management are much pleased with the settlement.

John B. Dickman, Sr., was chairman of Columbia Typographical union's strike committee in 1891, and is now chairman of the organization committee, which effected the settlement.

Half Million Pay Raise Yearly for Grocery Clerks

Chicago.—Grocery Clerks Union, Local No. 1248, Retail Clerks' International Protective Association, A. F. of L., and the Independent Retail Stores' association, of Chicago, have signed an agreement providing for pay increases totaling approximately $500,000 a year.

The contract is for the union shop, boosts the wages of each clerk $1 a week, sets a new weekly minimum, for beginners, of $21 for men, $19 for women, and provides for one week's vacation with pay after one year of service, 2 week's after three years. Store managers are to receive $5 more per week than the clerks who serve under them.

Provision is also made for the arbitration of any dispute not otherwise settled, within 15 days after it begins.

There are more students in the colleges and universities of the United States than in those of all the rest of the world put together. Americans are by far the best educated, best housed, best clothed, best fed people in all the world. Yet the best motor car—assembled from the finest parts that great engineers can create—cannot work efficiently if the little timing mechanism does not function.

Picketing Legal in Campaign For Membership, Highest New York Court Rules

Albany, N. Y. — The New York court of appeals, in a unanimous decision, ruled a labor union can picket a store in an attempt to organize its employes, even when there are no employes of the store belonging to the union. The decision was hailed by labor as a big victory of "prime importance" to organized workers.

The court modified an injunction against picketing May's department store in Brooklyn, and ruled that only violence and unlawful picketing should be enjoined.

Lower courts, holding the picketing was not part of a labor dispute, had prohibited all picketing. The court of appeals took a different view, ruling the union was engaged in a labor dispute and that no injunction could be issued against peaceful picketing

Judge Edward R. Finch, writing the court's opinion, said it was settled law that the legitimate interests of a labor union "are not confined to acts directed against an employer or its members."

The court's ruling was hailed as a great victory for labor in a statement by President Thomas J. Lyons of the New York State Federation of Labor.

"Once again," he said, "our highest court has demonstrated that it is enlightened and not in sympathy with efforts to shackle the working people in the fashion that was customary in this nation in an earlier era.

"The principle enunciated by the court is of prime importance to the labor movement of the entire state, and it is to be hoped that none of the judges of the inferior courts will fail to take note of this epochal decision."

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Finland's Price for Peace

Washington was saddened this week when news came of the exorbitant price extracted of gallant little Finland for peace with Soviet Russia. President Roosevelt issued a statement regretting the success of aggression, and commending the brave Finns upon their struggle for independence. He expressed the feeling, prevalent in America, that the Finns through their bravery had demonstrated their right to live as a free and independent nation.

Navy to Be Increased

The house, by an almost unanimous vote of 304 to 37, appropriated $655,000,000 increase for our navy. Leaders of both parties joined in support of the naval bill, reported by the chairman of the naval affairs committee of the house, the Hon. Carl Vinson, of Georgia. This appropriation will increase the strength of the navy by 11 per cent, and next to Great Britain, will give Uncle Sam the most superior navy in the world.

Chairman Carl Vinson, of the naval affairs committee of the house, is the foremost congressional authority on naval affairs. He handles his committee in a non-partisan manner. Strangely, the navy does not directly affect Mr. Vinson's district. He has for many terms been elected from the Sixth district of Georgia, which is in the central part of our sister state, and has no port or naval operation.

Hatch Act Filibuster

Last Saturday, when the preceding week's news letter was being written, word came from the senate that the extension of the Hatch act would be enacted into law that afternoon, and last week's news letter was written to that effect and had to later be changed.

After two weeks of debate and filibustering, a final vote will be had on Monday, at which time the bill is expected to pass.

Senator Bankhead was successful in having passed an amendment prohibiting political gifts in excess of $5,000. This is not calculated to cramp the political style of poor southern representatives, such as the one from the Third district of Tennessee.

TVA Tax Replacement

The house military affairs committee met in executive session on Tuesday to consider the record which has been published concerning the TVA tax replacement problem.

No decision was reached. Chairman May had to depart from the city on official business the following day. The committee will meet again on Tuesday. Congressmen, interested in the bill, have been getting their heads together discussing what should or might be done to get a bill out of the committee.

Gov. Cooper, and Mr. Silliman Evans, publisher of the Nashville Tennessean, are in the city today to confer with congressional leaders on this problem so vital to Tennessee counties.

The senate agrieulture committee favorably reported the Norris-Sparkman tax replacement bill, with an amendment to make payments directly to the counties.

Many Visitors from District

Each day three or four constituents from the district visit the office of your representative, and among those in Washington this week was former Senator W. E. Brock, of Chattanooga, who served in the senate for three years from 1929 to 1933. Senator Brock was of assistance to your representative on several projects in which the people of the district are greatly interested. He knows how to get things done in Washington. He is well acquainted with people in congress and knows everybody's first name from the "boot black" up.

In the presence of the catastrophic debacle for democracy in Finland, everybody in Europe, Asia and America is sputtering. We get a fine lot of—words!

Gen. Mannerheim expresses the only definite and final fact, when he says that Finland has paid every debt she owed the West, in full. But is anybody handing out a receipt in full?

President Roosevelt says that the people of Finland have won the "moral right to live in everlasting peace . . ." Then they have not gained an inch: for they had that before the war started in the Karelian isthmus.

We begin to observe that moral rights amount to mighty little, unless there are guns, and men to enforce the claim which it is desired to translate into a legal and factual right.

Then the president reiterates that the Finnish people have again "increased the respect and warm regard in which they are held by the people and the government" of the United States of North America.

And what did that add up to, in terms of anything which would enable the Finlanders to maintain their position as one of the most decent little democracies on earth?

Well, our congressmen got behind some words, spelled n-e-u-t-r-a-l-i-t-y-p-e-a-c-e, and out of the generosity of America's big heart and pocketbook, they actually offered Finland $20,000,000 on the express condition that it must not be spent for anything to fight with.

And Jesse Jones (banker-hotel man-politician-Texas ranch man) said he would give it to them if he thought they were going to win. Being a banker, he probably thinks they are still a good risk, with Russia having a stranglehold on the Finnish waistline.

Soviet Russia wanted to "protect Leningrad." Against what? Not against any attack that has ever been made by anybody since the time of Swedish King Charles. What then?

GOD AND YOU

An Easter Message

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Just as God swung the stars in the heavens when the world was young so that men might not stumble in the dark, so in these latter days He is sending forth illumined souls so that they may light the way for troubled, tempest-tossed travelers on the highways of life.

They are God's prophets and interpreters. A religion that is growing needs interpreters. A religion that is static needs only scribes. What religion has to say to the world today can be told fully by those who, while living today, can also feel the needs of tomorrow. For religion that is to satisfy the needs of men in an expanding world must not only deal with the problems of today but must be prophetic of the future.

Nowhere is it promised that in this life we sall be free from all cares and burdens. These are sure to come in the day-by-day journey along the pilgrim road. But God plainly offers a challenge to men. He wants men who have been made perfect through suffering. The whole world is crying out for the leadership of men who are made of martyr-stuff, but who do not speak of their martyrdom. He seeks men who are ready to tread the "wine-press of sorrow," men who will do so with joy in their hearts. It is because of such that "God goes marching on."

Man is incurably religious. His religious spirit is accounted for by the fact that he finds himself in a world governed by orderly forces. All about him are signs of unity and purpose, revealing will and mind that are infinite. All primitive peoples have sought an explanation of this mystery, and their crude interpretation became the basis of their worship. The answer is still being sought in other fields, but no more satisfactory solution has been found than that given by religion—that back of the arm of Omnipotence is the great heart of a loving Father.

TRADE PACTS HAVE AIDED RECOVERY, NINE RAILROAD UNIONS CONTEND

Washington.—Nine railroad labor unions, representing 625,000 workers, are on record as favoring the reciprocal trade agreements program on the ground the agreements have played an important part in business recovery.

Appearing before the house ways and means committee, J. G. Luhrsen, executive secretary of the Railway Labor Executives' association, presented a statement prepared by George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, whose illness prevented him from appearing before the committee as scheduled.

In addition to the Brotherhood of Railways Clerks, Luhrsen said, Harrison was authorized to speak for the American Train Dispatchers' association; International Association of Machinists; International Brotherhood of Boilermakers; International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths; Sheet Metal Workers' International association; Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America; International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, and the Maintenance of Waymen and Signalmen.

"Altogether," the committee was told, "over 60 per cent of our foreign trade is with countries with which agreements have now been concluded. Increased payrolls in domestic industry resulting in part from improved conditions have stimulated the domestic demand for many types of goods.

"Each improvement, in turn, made work in the moving of domestic merchandise from city to farm and from farm to city. No program can, with better reason, claim to have spread its benefits to every section of the country and to every class of workers than this.

"There is no question that the trade agreements are having a beneficial effect upon increased employment, not only as applied to employes of the railroad industry, but to all industries and interests."

In the year 1937 the world produced 35 million bales of cotton. Of that total, 18 million bales, which is more than half the total, grew in the United States.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI'S principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

Organization Up to Workers

Government can't organize labor unions, except under dictatorial regimes. Only the workers can do the job, in a democratic society. Organization will be stronger and more enduring, where the workers depend upon themselves.

The policy committee of the recent Southern Labor Conference in Atlanta had this fact in mind when it called on every trade unionist and every trade union organization in the South to unite in an intensive organizing campaign. What the committee said is applicable to all sections.

"Only the workers through their trade unions," the committee declared, "can organize the workers in a free society. That work, if it is to be successful, must enlist the united support of local unions and central bodies in every community. Effective organization of the workers is the only guarantee that labor laws when enacted will be enforced."

The Finnish Red "Government"

It is not to laugh: it is too tragic. But there is a wry smile due to the malmanaged effort of Dictator Stalin and his mental machine, with reference to their refusal to treat with the Finnish government; and the pitiful scarecrow of their alleged Finnish Commustic "government of the Finnish people."

After Soviet agents had set up this thing, just prior to the attack on Finland, they later accused the poor dupes of lying to them concerning the willingness of the Finnish people to fight for their country. Some of the Arctic fogs must have circulated in the alleged intelligence service of Stalin, obscuring the otherwise perfectly clear picture of a capable and unified people. Soviet agencies did at last find somewhere a generalship which knew how to use something besides raw flesh and blood against the Finnish skill and courage.

All the elements of a great epic poem are here, including the unworthy defeat of a really noble cause. Will the heart of Sibelius, great Finnish composer, be too sore to tell the story in some majestic musical score?

So long as 9,000,000 people are without work; so long as many more millions of men, women and children live on relief rations or less; so long as millions have insufficient clothing and live in tents and hovels; just so long have we failed to prove that democracy is the best form of government.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler.

Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then thou shalt see clearly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye.

State Workmen's Compensation Funds Give Full Security, Survey Shows

Washington, D. C. — Not a dollar in workmen's compensation payments has been lost to a worker protected under any of the 18 state funds, the Division of Labor Standards, United States Department of Labor, reports in a new bulletin.

"Private carriers, particularly stock casualty companies, have frequently failed, with heavy losses both to insured employers and to injured workers, their widows and dependents," the report says. "The loss of compensation benefits often means privation for an injured worker, or for the widow and children of a worker who has been killed. The failure of an insurance company, in most states, throws the burden of payment on the employer and, in cases of serious injuries, may force him out of business. The complete security offered by state funds is seen as one of their chief advantages to workers, to employers and to the community."

A "state fund" is an agency created and operated by the state, on a non-profit basis, to insure the payment of benefits under its workmen's compensation law. Of the 18 state funds now functioning in this country, seven are "exclusive funds," while eleven have to compete with private insurance carriers. All the Canadian provinces have exclusive state funds.

Organized labor has repeatedly gone on record in favor of insurance through exclusive state funds.

Latest esimates show that, in 1938, 1,375,600 workers in American industry were disabled by accident or sickness arising out of their work. Of these, 16,400 cases resulted in death. Almost 100,000 men and women workers found themselves with permanent disabilities. Over a million and a quarter suffered temporary disabilities.

Paper Box Workers Win Another Victory

Chicago. — The right to represent employes of the Acme Paper Box company as their collective bargaining agent has been won by Chicago Paper Box Workers Union No. 415, International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union, A. F. of L., in an election conducted under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board.

Commenting on the outcome of the election, William Dwyer, president of the union, declared that it represented "another great victory for the union," adding:

"Winning elections is getting to be an every day affair for Local 415. We are always sure that we have at least 75 per cent of the employes signed before we ask for an election.

"Our local is only three years old but we have already signed contracts with three of the largest firms in the business, to say nothing of the contracts with the smaller firms.

"Organization work is going forward, and if we continue in the future as we have in the past, our union will soon have the paper box industry signed up 100 per cent."

Back Pay For "Red Caps" Demanded in Court Action

Court action to collect thousands of dollars in back pay for "red caps" who have been chiseled out of earnings due them under the wage-hour act was instituted by the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks in the federal courts of Texas and St. Louis.

The union charges certain railroads have been forcing station porters to rely on tips alone, although the wage-hour act requires that they be paid a minimum of 30 cents an hour.

A. F. of L. Wins Smashing Victory In Hood Rubber Co. Elections

Watertown, Mass. — Swamping the CIO and company union advocates, the American Federation of Labor scored a smashing victory in the collective bargaining election among employes of the Hood Rubber company held here by the labor board.

The vote was:

A. F. of L.	1,560
C. I. O.	189
Company Union	501

This sweeping victory, coming on top of the overwhelming vote for the American Federation of Labor in the United States Rubber company election in Providence, R. I., the week before, is expected to give the A. F. of L. a clear field in organizing the entire rubber industry in New England.

The two consecutive crushing defeats of the CIO have demoralized their forces and struck a severe blow at their efforts to gain a foothold in New England.

President William Green congratulated John J. Murphy, New England representative of the A. F. of L., and the leaders of the A. F. of L. Rubber Workers' Union No. 21914 for their fine showing and promised them full support in obtaining better conditions for the membership.

AFL Textile Workers Win 36-Hour Week

Manchester, N. H. — The 36-hour working week has been established in the plant of the Chicopee Manufacturing Co., Manchester, by agreement between the management and Textile Workers Local 22128 of the American Federation of Labor. Workers are receiving no less per week than they were under the former 40-hour schedule.

The Chicopee Manufacturing Co. is a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson, manufacturers of surgical dressings, etc., and well known for its liberal labor policies. Extensive improvements were recently made in the Manchester plant and all work was done by AFL members.

NLRB CERTIFIES A. F. of L. BROADCAST TECHNICIANS

Washington, D. C. — The National Labor Relations Board announced certification of Associated Broadcast Technicians Unit of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), as the sole collective bargaining agency for the broadcast technicians of Scripps-Howard Radio, Inc., Station WCPO, Cincinnati, Ohio.

At the same time, the Board announced that a secret ballot election would be held within 30 days among all the company's announcers and radio artists, excepting the "hillbillies" to determine whether or not they desire to be represented for collective bargaining purposes by American Federation of Radio Artists, Cincinnati local, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Jobs for U. S. Citizens in Panama On Skilled Work Asked by A.F.L.

Washington.—A nationwide program to enlist support of legislation now pending in congress which would require the employment of American citizens on skilled work in the new construction program in the Panama canal zone was launched this week by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Green sent a circular letter to the officers of all state federations of labor and central labor unions strongly urging them to wire their senators to vote for such legislation which is incorporated in the McCarran amendment to both the army and navy appropriation bills.

Thousands of aliens from the West Indies are employed by the United States government in the canal zone at an average pay rate of 25 cents an hour, Mr. Green explained. These men are not only laborers, but employed on skilled jobs. They are taking these jobs away from American citizens to whom the government pays 25 per cent higher rates than those prevalent in the United States.

At a time when unemployment is so widespread, jobs on the Panama canal zone construction program should be reserved for American citizens, Mr. Green said.

The United States government operates most business activities in the canal zone, as well as the canal itself, the Panama railroad and the Panama railroad steamship lines. The railroad and canal alone now employ about 3,000 Americans and 12,000 aliens. More than a third of these aliens are now employed in positions above the grade of common labor, such as railroad trainmen, railroad firemen, policemen, clerks, timekeepers, building construction workers, etc.

Under executive orders of the president of the United States, these aliens cannot be paid more than $80 a month. This is the maximum. By hiring them the government saves money at the expense of thousands of jobless Americans.

A new canal is to be built in the zone at an estimated cost of $277,000,000. In addition, the army, navy and Panama railroad activities are to be greatly expanded and new fortifications and housing for workers erected. The full program will call for the expenditure of $600,000,000 in the next six years.

The house of representatives already adopted amendments to the army and navy appropriation bills (H. R. 8668 and H. R. 8438) which would eliminate all aliens from all skilled, technical, clerical, supervisory and administrative positions in the new program. If the senate votes to retain these amendments, as proposed by Senator McCarran, these jobs will be available for thousands of American citizens at United States rates of pay plus 25 per cent, with paid vacations and transportation with pay while traveling from New York City to the canal zone.

These positions will be available in practically every skilled or trained occupation. Should the senate adopt the McCarran amendments, applications for the jobs should be filed with H. A. Smith, Chief of Police, Panama Canal, 1435 K. St. N. W., Washington, D. C.

Therefore, President Green has instituted a vigorous campaign for the adoption of the amendments. His circular letter concluded:

"Senator McCarran, who always stands ready to lead labors' battles in the United States congress, will handle this matter in the senate of the United States, and it is most important, and you are strongly urged, to wire both senators from your state, requesting them to support Senator McCarran's amendments to both the army and navy appropriation bills which will eliminate from United States government service on the canal zone thousands of aliens now occupying positions above the grade of common labor."

Peaceful Methods Learned.

We may be proud of the wholesome industrial relations existing in this state. In recent years we have been signally free of major conflicts and strikes. Our employers and workers have learned how to adjust their differences by rational methods. We have avoided much of the economic wastage which inevitably results from labor difficulties. All this has been done because we have recognized the responsibility of democratic government to encourage mutual cooperation and respect between industry and labor—to provide means for the peaceful adjustment of controversies.—Gov. Herbert L. Lehman of New York.

TEACHER TALK

In view of the crackpot pedagogy that the professors of education have been drolling out, we suggest the following items as required reading by good unionists:

"The Saber-Tooth Curriculum," by J. Abner Peddiwell and "Several Tequila Daisies." This is a hilarious satire on the illogical, formalistic methods of training teachers and operating schools that obtain in this country today. It's about paleolithic education, but the history of modern pedagogy is easily recognized in the cave man setting, where tiger-scaring and fish-grabbing were studied instead of methods of teaching English or history. There is no describing this book. You'll have to read it for yourself. Several fellow-unionists have asked for our copy, but as soon as they've finished we'll leave it in the office. If the jejune mouthings of the educattionists are getting you down, better take time to find a perspective on the thing and have a good laugh. Incidentally, the "American Teacher" recently listed the book at the head of AFT non-fiction favorites.

The other suggestion is an article by Ann L. Crockett in the "Saturday Evening Post" of March 16. We don't have much sympathy for the magazine, but we know a good thing when we see it. "Lollipops vs. Learning" is the title. A few passages will indicate what it's about. Of her superintendent: "His academic esuipment is typical; it is only roughly that of a college freshman. The remainder of his 200 credit hours are in courses in administration and theory. eH is a Ph. .; his doctoral thesis, an imposing piece of scholarship, examines into the Optimum Window Area for a Classroom of Twenty-five Pupils in the Junior High School. He knows nothing about English, the languages, the humanities, or sciences. But he can and does tell us teachers exactly what methods to use in teaching all these subjects." Parents, she says, complain that Johnny can't stick to anything in school. "One day he's going to design airplane engines; the next day he's going to lead a band. He does too much at school—this activity, that activity—everything but study. How is he going to make a living when he graduates," If parents wonder why young people take so long to grow up nowadays, the answer, she thinks, is that too much effort is made to make everything easy and turn all learning into a game. She quotes an amazed foreign visitor to her school to the effect that "There's no short cut to skill. It takes training and patience, whether you run a typewriter or cut incisions or play a violin. And that training is priceless. It buolds character."

This law was announced by the Great Teacher when He was asked the question as to what is the first and great commandment, and when He told the story of the Good Samaritan as an illustration of this principle.

We can't go wrong on any decision or course of action with this law as the guiding principle of our life. Applied to human relationships there would be no world wars, no class struggles, no labor problems, no personal conflicts. And frankly, anything less than this reduces mankind to the level of thinking expressed in the motto: "Every man for himself, and may the devil take the hindmost."

An unknown "neighbor" once wrote these words as his guide in his relationship to others:

"I shall pass through this world but once. Any good, therefore, that I can do or any kindness that I can show to any human being, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

This should be the spirit of every man who would be a "neighbor" in the truest sense—and verily, he shall have his reward, and he need not wait for that reward in whatever life there may be in the future.

The world has 41 million telephones and 20 million of them are in this American one-fifteenth of the world.

Bakers' Scraps

(C. B. NORWOOD, Pinch Hitting)

Because of the illness of Doughboy this week, I will try to give you a few scraps I have gathered here and three.

Bennett-Hubbard Candy is Union Made

In giving you the "Who's Who" of the Bakers' local union, I will now continue with Vice President C. M. (Ted) Wilkey.

Brother Wilkey began his activities with our local union in June, 1933, as a charter member of the local. He is employed at the Cameron & Barr Baking company, where he has been for the past ten years. Ted was born in Rhea county, Dayton, Tennessee, better known as "Monkey Town." He is 27 years of age, and before coming into the baking field he was a butcher for four years. Mr. Wilkey is one of the most active members of the local executive board, and has served as vice president of Local 25 for the past two years, having been re-elected without opposition. His favorite sports are hunting and fishing.

It is a pleasure to serve on any committee with Brother Wilkey, for he is very considerate and cooperative at all times.

Next week we will give you the low-down on our business agent.

Mercer's Pies and Cakes are Union Made

Received notice this week that the Grennan Baking company of Memphis has signed a closed shop agreement with Local 149 of that city. We are indeed glad to hear this good news, as this gives us another good union-made cake in Chattanooga.

On my way to the office a few days ago I happened to hear a couple of school children talking about the rules of their class. It seems that each class room has a pupil who is appointed as nurse for the room, and his or her duty is to see that all the children have clean teeth and hands. The little boy had been called on the carpet the day before for having dirty hands, and the little lady must have been the nurse that day and was razing him. She asked him if his hands were clean that day, and he answered her in this way: "They ought to be clean, because mother made me do the dishes last night."

ALL SOFT DRINKS IN CHATTANOOGA 100 PER CENT UNION

I notice that the French are now sending mail by dogs, and I was wondering how much it would cost to send out the check-off by airedale?

LIFE AND TIME MAGAZINES ARE NONUNION

Some things I have noticed in my 32 years in this dear old world:

Everybody in it gets a grouch on occasionally, and some get one on more than occasionally.

Now, I don't know of any law against having a grouch, but there should be. Everybody is entitled to get a grouch as often as he or she might want to, provided it interferes with his own digestion only, but I have noticed that most grouches reflect on the groucher's work.

More mistakes are made when you have a grouch on than when you are smiling and happy. More little things are forgotten that do a hardship on the other fellow.

Fellow, you can't get away from it. Your frame of mind reflects on your work, whether you are salesman, baker, bookkeeper, shipping clerk, bread wrapper or porter.

Watch it, and see if I am right. I am speaking from experience. I have nursed several grouches myself, and always come out second best.

They say good milk comes from contented cows in green pastures. Let's make our slogan "Good cakes and bread baked by happy, smiling bakers."

Good humor means good work, and bad humor means bad work.

Don't forget next Saturday is our regular meeting day, and I am hoping to see you present.

I know a lot of members of our local union who will be very happy if things go the way we think they will. "If you know what I mean?"

— DO YOU 'PRACTICE' UNIONISM? —

See you at the meeting!

Can You Prove How Old You Are?

Documentary evidence of a person's age, ranging from a birth certificate to a license to drive an automobile, is going to have an increasing importance as the federal government's old-age and survivors insurance program develops, according to Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the social security board's field office at Chattanooga. Mr. Stein explained that the government will insist upon the proof of one's declaration of age before insurance payments are made. The law provides that monthly payments may be made to workers who have reached the age of 65 if they qualify, but, Mr. Stein asserted, it will accept no loose statements as to age.

Similarly, the age of a worker's wife or widow or of his children must be proved before they can receive any of the supplementary benefits provided under the revised social security act.

"But a claimant will be given every opportunity," said Mr. Stein, "to supply the required proof. The applicant probably will be asked if he has a birth certificate. As a matter of fact, birth certificates of persons now 65 years old or more are comparatively scarce. In only eight states and the District of Columbia had the practice of keeping birth certificates been adopted before 1874. The District of Columbia began the keeping of such records in 1874; Florida in 1865; Massachusetts in 1850; Michigan in 1867; New Hampshire in 1640; New Jersey in 1848; Rhode Island in 1853; Vermont in 1857; and Virginia in 1853."

The keeping of birth records in Tennessee, Mr. Stein said, was begun in 1914.

Mr. Stein added that in the event an applicant is unable to produce a birth certificate or a church record, such as the baptismal record, he may submit the statements of the doctor or midwife with personal knowledge of his birth. But recognizing that this type of evidence would, in most cases, be as unavailable to a man of 65 as a birth certificate or a baptismal record, the board's representative will suggest that he turn to the old family Bible. He may find there, inscribed on one of those ornately enscrolled pages designed for the recording of family records, the date and place of his birth.

"If, however, it becomes evident the claimant cannot produce a birth certificate, a church record or similar document," Mr. Stein added, "he may submit the statements of two other persons who have personal knowledge that he was born on a certain date, but since such persons will be even older than the claimant, the obtaining of this evidence is admittedly difficult. If it cannot be produced, the board will open the way to the presentation of a miscellaneous lot of evidence, which, when viewed as a whole, may be regarded as sufficient. This type of evidence will include public documents of varying nature, such as a man's army discharge, school records, or marriage certificates."

The one-fifteenth of the people of the world who live in the United States produce one-third of all the pig-iron and of the steel that rivals oil in importance. They mine 35 per cent of the copper and the lead and the zinc; 30 per cent of the world's coal.

Broad Legislative Program for Workers Abopted by Southern Labor Conference

By A. F. of L Weekly News Service.

Atlanta, Ga.—Following are excerpts from the legislative program and declarations of policy adopted at the Southern Labor Conference

CHILD LABOR

WE RECOMMEND THE ENACTMENT OF LEGISLATION PROHIBITING THE EMPLOYMENT OF CHILDREN UNDER 16 AND PROVIDING FOR COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

PROHIBITING THE EMPLOYMENT OF MINORS BETWEEN AND 18 YEARS OF AGE IN ALL HAZARDOUS OCCUPATIONS.

THE RATIFICATION OF THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

WE RECOMMEND THAT THE BENEFITS OF WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAWS BE EXTENDED TO ALL WORKERS, AND THAT EXCLUSIVE STATE FUNDS BE SET UP ASSURING THE PAYMENT OF BENEFITS THAT HAVE A FAIR RELATION TO THE LOSS OF EARNINGS: ADEQUATE HOSPITAL AND MEDICAL CARE DURING THE WHOLE PERIOD OF INCAPACITY; COMPENSATION FOR ALL INJURED WORKERS THROUGH A COMPULSORY SYSTEM FOR ALL ACCIDENTS AND OCCUPATIONAL DISEASES, AND A JOINT EFFORT OF WORKERS AND EMPLOYER TO ADOPT SAFETY AND PREVENTATIVE MEASURES AND REDUCE INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS AND OCCUPATIONAL DISEASES.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

WE RECOMMEND NO CONSIDERATION BE GIVEN TO CUTS IN CONTRIBUTION RATES UNTIL ADEQUATE BENEFITS ARE PAID, WHETHER THE CUT IS IN THE FORM OF REDUCTION OF RATE OR MERIT RATING.

HEALTH INSURANCE

We urge speedy action on the recommendation of the American Federation of Labor favoring the enactment of a Federal Health Insurance Law.

NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS ACT AND BOARD

THE SOUTHERN LABOR CONFERENCE AFFIRMS THEIR SUPPORT OF THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES AS SET FORTH IN THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS ACT. IN VIEW, HOWEVER, OF THE MALADMINISTRATION OF THE ACT BY THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS BOARD, WE RECOMMEND THAT THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE ACT AS FORMULATED BY THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR BE APPROVED.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

WE RECOMMEND A STRONG COORDINATED LABOR DEPARTMENT IN EACH STATE, WITH ALL FUNCTIONS DEALING WITH WAGE EARNERS UNDER ONE HEAD, ADEQUATELY WITH PRACTICAL MEN AND WOMEN WITH A TRADE UNION EXPERIENCE.

POLICY ON WAGES

The minimum wage in the South today for the majority of men working in industry is 30 cents an hour or less. In the North and West the minimum for the majority is 52.5 cents or higher. At 30 cents an hour a man can earn a maximum of $655 a year if he works every working day. This is just half of the minimum necessary for the barest subsistence living standard for a family of four in the South. Labor does not intend to wait for the Fair Standards Act to raise the minimum to 40 cents in 1945. We set as our goal the following:

By 1942 a minimum of 40 cents an hour in all industries.

By 1945 a minimum of 50 cents an hour in all industries.

NEED OF UNITED ORGANIZING CAMPAIGN

To carry out the high purposes of this declaration and to establish a sound labor policy throughout the Southland, we call upon the National and International Unions, State Federations of Labor, Central Bodies and all Volunteer organizers to unite in an intensive organizing campaign among the workers of the South. Only the workers through their trade unions can organize the wage earners in a Free Society. That work, if it is to be successful, must enlist the united support of local unions and Central Bodies in every community. Effective organization of the workers is the only guarantee for the workers that labor laws when enacted will be enforced.

OUR MOTTO MUST BE:

LABOR FORWARD IN THE SOUTH—LABOR FORWARD FOR JUSTICE, BROTHERHOOD AND DEMOCRACY.

For Better Homemaking

Washing clothes is a definite science that has to do with ridding fabrics of accumulated soil and bacteria. During a recent survey it was discovered that the average laundress uses only 1.7 gallons of water for every pound of clothes washed. This probably accounts for the high bacteria count in most home washing and the gradual graying of fabrics. Ten complete changes of water should be used; five baths of rich suds for loosening soil and five baths of sterile rinsing water for disposing of loosened soil and bacteria.

Women in Industry

Nobody knows just how many women there are who hold union membership. But the best estimate runs around 800,000, which is a good doubling of the 1920 figures, as the women's bureau records those figures.

Women hold a number of elective offices, but some of the best work is being done by women organizers. AFofL conventions do not necessarily offer a good guide to the part women play in the ranks of union labor. Only fourteen women were delegates to the last AFofL convention. But among the visitors present were several women who were active and important as leaders, though they had no voice in the convention.

The ITU has always had women members who were important in local union affairs—and they have been, by and large, crackerjack compositors, too.

Women organizers have been more than efficient, in helping the Commercial Telegraphers' union win out in the Western Union field against the CIO, which has tried hard to get a toehold in that big communications company. Of course there have been women telegraphers always, and W. U. still employs many women, but that is not why the women organizers have done such a grand job. Their ability is the factor that has put the thing across. The U. T. W., too, has relied on women organizers. And in this and several other organizations, including the A. F. of L., women staff members have done brilliant work as researchers, statisticians and propagandists.

In the theatrical field women play a great part. Equity has two women vice-presidents, with nine women council members out of 45. Similarly, the American Federation of Actors has three women council members. Three out of fifteen Hotel and Restaurant Employes' vice-presidents are women and women here also do great organizing work. One-third of the vice-presidents of the American Federation of Teachers are women. The United Garment Workers' union has two women board members. Only woman international union secretary, so far as the record shows, is in the official family of the American Federation of Government Employes. At least sixteen unions occupy fields in which there is heavy employment of women. Women are forging ahead and doing their job as well as men do theirs.

New USHA Pamphlet Tells History Of Labor's Big Part in Fight for Public Housing Program

Washington, D. C. — The part taken by organized labor in the development of the public housing program in this country is described in a pamphlet, "Labor and Housing," just issued by the United States Housing authority.

The pamphlet tells how labor became one of the most active forces in the fight for decent low-rent housing in America. Back in 1934 labor mobilized its forces to work for an actively support a large scale, permanently low-rent housing program.

In 1934 the first labor housing committee in the United States was organized by Philadelphia trade unions. The building trades unions, more than 70 per cent of whose members had no jobs in 1932 and 1933, took up the fight for decent housing. A National Labor Housing Conference was set up with offices in Washington, D. C.

Labor Pushes Bill.

The next year saw the first real low-rent housing bill introduced in congress. State organizations and international unions brought housing before the public. Representatives of labor appeared before the congressional committees and urge the passage of what later became known as the Wagner-Steagall bill.

The USHA pamphlet carries the history of the fight for housing legislation to the successful passage of the legislation in September, 1937. The law created the United States Housing Authority and the first national fight on America's slums was begun.

Laboring men and women and their children, the victims of substandard housing in our cities and towns, are today moving into the clean, decent homes built by local housing authorities with USHA aid.

Program Making Jobs.

Labor is not only getting homes but also much needed jobs. Figures in the pamphlet indicate that the workers in the construction industries profit most directly. More than one dollar out of every four is expended on wages for building trades workers. More than $225,000,000 is going into pay envelopes out of the current $800,000,000 low rent housing program.

For every ten men put to work at the actual site of public housing projects, about fifteen additional men get jobs in the industries which supply building materials and housing fixtures — in the lumber camps, the steel mills, the brick kilns, the glass and cement factories, and many other related industries.

In all, taking into account direct and indirect labor, the present USHA program will provide enough steady work to keep 300,000 men steadily employed for a year, the booklet said.

Copies of "Labor and Housing" may be obatined, without cost, by writing to the Federal Works Agency, United States Housing Authority, Washington, D. C.

PROTESTS BEING MADE AGAINST WPA COMPETING AGAINST PRIVATE BUSINESS IN SOLICITING WORK

WPA Should Be Used as Relief Agency Only, Says Central Body, Contractors, Supply Men, Insurance Men and Architects.

Strong protests are pouring into Washington against the apparent new policy adopted by WPA soliciting construction work in various municipalities in direct competition against private enterprises. Central Labor Union last Monday night joined in the swelling cry against WPA'S policy, although at the same time it was specifically pointed out that WPA was not criticized as a relief agency only.

However, it appears that WPA is approaching cities, counties and states and offers to build for them public buildings, giving in addition a grant of Federal money to help build the projects. When these projects are constructed by WPA, skilled labor is not used. On the other hand, it is geenrally the case that maybe a bookkeeper is given a saw and hammer and told to go to work at relief wages. As a result, competent building mechanics are deprived of the privilege of working at their trade and making a living unless they, too, are forced by dire necessity of going to WPA for relief and working on the projects at a scale of wages far below their usual pay.

Private contractors are thereby deprived of work possibilities, as well as insurance firms who usually bond private work and supply houses.

When the WPA building is completed, it is found that the municipality that took advantage of the "splendid" WPA 45 per cent grant really has paid more for the building than they would have paid out if a private contractor did the job. A skilled mechanic can build a project in much less time and in a more efficient manner than can be accomplished by absolutely unskilled labor, even though such WPA labor receives less than one-half pay therefor.

Central Body formally petitioned Congress for legislation that will force WPA to have work done in the same manner that PWA is doing. It is asked that all future construction work of a permanent nature financed in whole or part by Federal funds must be done by regular construction workers at prevailing rates of pay and that the work be handled by private contractors under contract.

The resolution in full says:

WHEREAS the Work Projects Administration has entered the construction field on a large scale, and is very active therein, building roads, highways, bridges and buildings of various kinds, using the unemployed, from other industries than the construction industry, and

WHEREAS this has resulted in throwing many regular construction workers out of jobs and forcing them on relief and has destroyed the business of many private construction companies; and

WHEREAS in our opinion, it is not a solution to the unemployment situation in this country to take the jobs away from regular construction workers and give them to the unemployed of other industries, as is now being done in the construction field by WPA; and

WHEREAS construction comnies if given the opportunity can create as much employment as WPA in the permanent construction field;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CHATTANOOGA CENTRAL LABOR UNION of Chattanooga, Tenn., that Congress be urged to require that all future construction projects of permanent nature financed in whole or in part by Federal funds be done by regular construction workers at prevailing wage rates and by construction companies under contract, as PWA projects are done and that WPA be eliminated from the construction field.

Local Labor Men Grieved By Death Of Ben Williams

By R. M. COOKE

Coming as a distinct shock to scores of the older trades unionists, particularly in the city of Chattanooga, the sudden passing of Ben Williams at Richmond, Va., was the subject of hushed and reverent conversation throughout the week. A letter to local friends written Sunday evening, in which he stated he was in excellent health, was followed Tuesday morning by the tragic news of his sudden death.

No national union representative who had worked among the trades unionists in the Chattanooga territory in the past three decades was more generally loved and respected than Ben Williams. Born in a mining camp in Illinois, he went to work in the mines at the age of 8. When in a reminiscent mood—which, incidentally, he always enjoyed—he liked to recall that at the age of 16 he participated in his first strike. At that time, he related, the hard, killing life of a young men worker had so sapped his strength that he was emaciated and had become far underweight. During the progress of the strike (I do not recall its length) he exactly doubled his weight. He delighted in expressing the firm conviction that this his first strike saved his life. He attended as a delegate to the first national convention of the United Mine Workers fifty years ago, and was again a delegate at the recent national meeting of that organization, his membership, of course, having continued unbroken during that period. Born amid the hardships of a coal miner's existence before the days of effective labor organization, he experienced first-hand the struggles and tribulations of his people and learned in his childhood the necessity for aggressive collective action for remedying many of the ills which obtained at that time and some of which have yet to be effaced from the American record of liberty and the right to live and breathe without hindrance due to class or station.

Chronological history of his activity in organized labor is not available. However, Chattanooga trades unionists, along with those of other sections where he had been stationed at various times as representative of the Mine Workers, quickly sensed his intense zeal and sincerity, and during his residence here of several years added much to the progress and development of the labor movemen. as a whole. A personality unsurpassed for kindness, affability and unselfishness was accompanied by an official record which included unselfiness for his own craft and a genuine desire to aid the less fortunate worker whatever might be his craft. He believed in the policies and methods of the Chattanooga labor movement during his stay here and after, and the Labor World was second only to his Bible as a disseminator of truth and right principles. Because of this fact and of the personal friendship between Ben and myself, he frequently contributed to the columns of the Labor World, and during his organization campaign throughout District 19, United Mine Workers, bought thousands of extra copies of this paper for distribution among mine workers. Although transferred from this district possibly around 1922, his loyalty to and interest in the Chattanooga labor movement never waned until the day of his death. More or less frequently I had corresponded with him, and his letters, always of a cheeful nature, never failed to contain a word of optimism and encouragement to various of the "old times" with whom he was closely associated.

In the sudden passing of Ben Williams, Chattanooga's labor movement has lost one of its staunchest friends and supporters, and the United Mine Workers are bereft of an able, conscientious and lovable leader and representative.

Green Sponsors Conference For Human Welfare

Will Not Be Able to Attend, But Expresses His Accord in Purposes of Chattanooga Sessions.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has expressed his "entire accord . . . with the aims and purposes" of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, which will open a three-day session in Chattanooga beginning April 14 at the Memorial Auditorium.

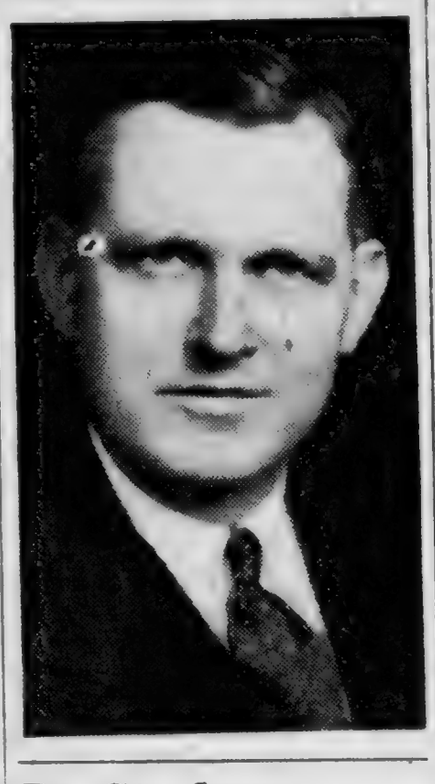
Mr. Green answered an invitation from Dr. Frank Graham, who is chairman of the Conference, to attend the Chattanooga sessions. Mr. Green told Dr. Graham that ne would gladly sponsor the conference, but that he would be unable to attend in person because of previous engagements which make it necessary to be in Dallas, Tex., at that particular time.

At last Monday's meeting of Chattanooga Central Labor Union Jean Paul Jones, of the Radio Workers, was named by Central Body to attend the conference.

BURNS FILLING STATION OWNER SEEMS TO ENJOY PICKET LINES

Davis Grocery in East Chattanooga Being Picketed By Meatcutters—Clown Stuff Pulled in Display of Guns.

Although picketing is a serious matter, sometimes some amusing incidents occur when a group of union men are trying to better very bad conditions. Such is the case in East Chattanooga, where the Meatcutters started last Friday to picketing the Davis Grocery, 2424 Glass street.



According to eyewitnesses, the front window of the meat shop was filled with guns as the picket walked back and forth. There were big guns, little guns and medium-sized guns. Just a simple display, it seems. After the first interested examination of the guns by the picket, he resumed his steady walk.

Residents of East Chattanooga ar also expressing surprise in the action of Mr. J. A. Burns, of the Burns Filling Station nearby, who makes his daily visit across the picket line to go into the picketed store.

The trouble started when Mr. Davis told the employe in his store that he could join the union if he wanted to, but that he (Davis) would not reduce his hours of work one bit. The daily stint required of the employe has been from 6 in the morning till 6:30 at night. On Saturday he must stay until 8:30. Just a breeze, 77 hours, but the union does not like it.

Due to the fact East Chattanooga is largely populated by working people, it is not likely that such conditions will prove to be very popular.

Dr. Steelman, Service Head, Will Talk Here

Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the Bureau of Conciliation of the Department of Labor, will speak to American Federation of Labor members in Judge Miller's court on Friday, April 5, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting with Dr. Steelman will be sponsored by Central Body.

Establishment of the conciliation service was provided for in the 1913 department of labor act. Dr. Steelman in 1937 succeeded the late Hugh L. Kerwin, who had been named to the post in 1917. The service is connected with no other department of the Government. The purpose of the service is to settle disputes between employer and employe by bringing them together around the conference table.

Dr. Steelman is a southerner. He was born in Thornton, Ark., June 23, 1900. Following his graduation from Henderson-Brown College in 1921 he went to Vanderbilt University as instructor and graduate student, receiving an M. A. in sociology in 1924 and a Ph. D. in 1925 in social ethics and practical sociology.

He was an instructor and graduate student at Harvard in 1926. He received a Ph. D. at the University of North Carolina in 1928. From 1928 to 1934 he was a professor in Alabama College, Montevallo, Ala.

Dr. Steelman entered the conciliation service in 1934 as a commissioner of conciliation, and continued in this capacity until 1936, when he was named special assistant to the Secretary of Labor. He was appointed to his present position in June, 1937.

Safety -- Courtesy -- Service

We have the following on our sick list: B. F. Bailey, J. R. Thomas, J. C. Allison and E. R. Hunley. E. R. Hunley has gone to Florida to regain his health and strength. We hope he will recover quickly and be back on duty soon.

* * *

J. C. Allison is having his teeth pulled, so I guess it will mean soup for him for the next few weeks.

* * *

L. E. Hall and Fred Crisp have recovered from their illness and are now back in the harness again.

* * *

A. R. Fulmer, M. G. Green and R. J. Mitchell have returned from their vacations and are back on duty again.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mitchell have returned from a happy but troublesome motor trip to South Carolina. They visited Fort Moultrie and other points of interest, including Stone Mountain, on the return trip. The trip was considerably hindered by constant rain. Mr. Mitchell said another thing that made him very unhappy was that a drunk driver tried to drive up inside the trunk of their car while they were eating their lunch in Augusta, Ga. Mr. Mitchell said that there was not much damage and that the drunk did not get in. He said he just merely knocked on the door. Just when they thought they were going to get back home without any more trouble a pair of mules tried to come in front of the car. He said, considering the trouble and everything, they had a very nice trip and enjoyed it very much, but the next time he made a trip he was going to take his rabbit's foot along.

There was a box of cigars at the barn and when I asked what they were for I found out that R. R. King was married to Miss Gertrude Colvin on March 23.

* * *

Don't forget our next meetings will be in Wheland Hall Thursday, April 4, at 10 a.m., and Friday, April 5, at 6:30 p.m. Let's all be present.

* * *

W. T. Moon has gone to Rock Island to rest up and get his nerves straightened out again.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL—

Use sin as it will use you; spare it not, for it will not spare you; it is your murderer, and the murderer of the whole world. Use it, therefore, as a murderer should be used; kill it before it kills you; and though it bring you to the grave as it did your head, it shall not be able to keep you there. You love not death; love not the cause of death. Sin first is pleasing, then it grows easy, then delightful, then frequent, then habitual, then confirmed; then the man is impenitent, then he is obstinate, then he is resolved never to repent, and then he is ruined. The worst effect of sin is within, and is manifest not in poverty and pain and bodily defacement, but in the discrowned faculties, the unworthy love, the low ideal, the brutalized and enslaved spirit. If we did not first take great pains to corrupt our nature, our nature would never corrupt us. hatever separates man from God separates man from man. Few love to hear the sins they love to act. Just remember this one thing: SIN IS ESSENTIALLY A DEPARTURE FROM GOD.

Central Body Refuses Typos' Resignation

Canton, O. (ILNS).—Stating that they had no desire to be "a factor in any unrest" within the labor movement, members of the Canton Federation of Labor tabled indefinitely the resignation of the Typographical Union local.

A letter from headquarters of the American Federation of Labor requesting "disassociation" from printers' units was filed without action.

The Canton Typographical Union was one of the founders of the Canton Federation of Labor.

WAR BANISHES LIBERALISM

The state of war is the negation of all the creed of liberalism, and the temper of war is intolerant of its appeal to reasonable ideas. When war comes liberalism is driven from the hustings to the catacombs, only to emerge when the frenzy is over and the ravages of war have to be repaired. —A. G. Gardner.

THOMAS CLOCK WORKERS CHOOSE A. F. L. UNION

Garment Company Employes To Get $4,000 Back Pay

S. district court here. Suit was filed by Henry J. Mayfield, wage-hour division attorney, against the owners of the plant, which makes clothing for small children. It was the first suit for violation of the fair labor standards act in Alabama

The

Silver Anniversary Edition

of

THE LABOR WORLD

On May 3, 1940, The Labor World will start on Volume 25. Each volume represents one year of publication in this city. During this time The Labor World, owned by the American Federation of Labor unions in Chattanooga, through the Central Labor Union, has builded for itself a prestige, respect and honor that few papers can claim. In all this period no firm or individual has suffered one penny loss because of The Labor World's failure to pay its just debts.

Your paper's policy has been to offer an advertising value to merchants that stands on its own merit. We do not accept contributions in the form of "A Friend" advertisements. We have an advertising value that has been recognized because The Labor World readers-owners patronize the people who advertise through their paper.

The Labor World feels that in its SILVER ANNIVERSARY EDITION there is every reason for the Labor Movement to rejoice over its accomplishments. We feel that business firms and individuals will accept the opportunity to rejoice with us.

We need your help. TALK about the SILVER ANNIVERSARY every day. Tell your merchant about it. Ask him to be represented in that issue. And then let us have the names of prospective advertisers whom you feel will want advertising space in that issue.

Concerning Oil Refiners 323

This week we received a letter from an officer of the Oil Refiners, Local 323. We are not reprinting the letter, because there is merit in what the letter has to say, our people are kept very busy trying to cover as much ground as possible and it is impossible to do everything that should be done.

One thing we especially appreciated about this letter is that labor folks do read The Labor World from cover to cover, and from Teacher Talk through Paper Makers' notes

We want to take the opportunity to tell the officers and members of Local 323 that we shall make every effort to find them a Moses.

Please send us the time, date and place of your next meeting!

Industrial Homework Must Go

A court decision upholding New York's industrial homework law and an order prohibiting homework in the artificial flower and feather industry is of interest to every state cursed with the industrial homework evil.

Labor and most employers are in agreement that the industrial homework system, with its long and irregular hours, night work, wretchedly low pay and child labor, must be abolished. As long as it exists, it is a threat to factory employment and factory fair wage standards.

But industrial homework is not only a threat to the worker. It is a threat to every employer with decent wage and labor standards. Since employers who use the labor of home workers can produce in direct competition with factory employers who have higher standards of hours, wages and working conditions, homework is an unfair practice, undermining such standards. In the face of these facts, it is strange active steps are not under way in every state to end industrial homework.

Death of Harry Adler

Death of Harry C. Adler, chairman of Board of Times Printing company, at a local hospital Wednesday night, was a shock to many members of organized labor. Mr. Adler was business manager of the Times for thirty years and during that time negotiated all the scale contracts with the local Typographical union. In all his dealings with the members of the Typographical union Mr. Adler impressed those who dealt with him with his attitude of fairness. He was a good business man, endeavoring to secure for his company the best possible contract, but he never attempted to take advantage of his employes nor did he forget that, after all, the friendship and good will of the Times personnel was something greatly to be desired.

Mr. Adler is the last of the older men who managed the Times and made it the splendid paper that it is. He was a good citizen and members of Chattanooga Typographical union join in regretting his passing.

More Than Theory Needed

Public policy has long recognized, in theory at least, that it is not only more decent, but cheaper, to provide for the victims of industrial accidents through compensation insurance than through relief or charity—and that it is even more economical to prevent many of the year's 1,375,000 injuries by doing a thorough job of industrial safety and industrial hygiene, the U. S. department of labor says.

The unfortunate thing about the industrial accident situation is that employer recognition of the principle that accident prevention is cheaper than compensation is too often a matter of theory. If employers generally would make accident prevention a fact, instead of a theory, the workers and the nation would gain immeasurably.

Steadily growing public recognition that accident prevention pays in every way is a cheering factor in the situation. When public sentiment forces action—real action—accidents in industry, the home, agriculture and the highways will be minimized and an accident record that is now a national disgrace will be a thing of the past.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

Well, well, how the time does fly. Here we have another week gone. We have several on the sick list, Brothers Hostetler and Willard Smith. Brother Albert Plemons reports that his son William is recovering from an operation.

Our Lord Plushbottom is slowly recovering from a fall he received from a broken ladder.

Brother Bill Leydorf is at home with a sprained ankle.

Charlie McRoy had to quit chewing tobacco. Said Arch would never buy any.

* * *

Shorty Johnson has moved to White Oak. He said Pudville was getting too crowded.

* * *

Freddie Campbell has torn down her house. Said it was too big, and he wanted a new one anyway.

* * *

Lewis Williams is happy now. The old baseball bug has Lew going. He is promising big things with that ball club this year.

Shorty Lamon said that if Buck Lawson hadn't given Skunk Travis so much dog meat for that blind hound, he wouldn't have been bankrupt.

Brother Paul L. Phillips, international representative, was visiting with us this week. He attended Central Labor Union meeting Monday night. Brother Phillips gave a short talk on the progress the Paper Makers are making in the south. He was greatly amused when he asked some one meeting in the lower halls where the Central Labor Union met. Said they didn't know, never heard of it. After more inquiries he was directed to the top floor of the Labor Hall.

* * *

Brother Delmar McGhee was obligated into C. L. U. Monday night. Good work, Del. See if we can't get all our delegates up there next meeting night.

* * *

Brother Si Perkins was seen going home down Federal Street on Tuesday afternoon with his hands full of flowers and a smile on his face. I wonder what mischief he has been up to.

As this just about completes the issue, will be seeing you.

TEAMSTERS GOSSIP

By W. E. ECKENROD, JR.

It Pays to Advertise

A year ago the local had a large quantity of windshield stickers made up with this announcement in big black letters printed on a yellow oval background: "This truck operated by a union driver, member of local 515, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, affiliated with A. F. of L."

Since so many new members have been obligated in the last few months, about half the union-driven trucks in town are now without these stickers. We all know it pays to advertise, whether you are running a department store or a local union. So stop by the office on Rossville Boulevard and get a sticker for your truck so you can let every passing motorist know you are a member of the hottest local in town.

All you members who have stayed at home on Monday nights because of the general roughhouse atmosphere of the meetings can return now and really enjoy a peaceful business session| President Hoss Brown has been strictly enforcing all the rules of order, and having more than one member at a time on the floor is a thing of the past. You peace lovers who have used the turmoil for an excuse will have to show your faces Monday night or find another good alibi.

This little story handed in by a member and retold here at his request concerns a midnight escapade of a well-known truck driver and you readers (that goes for both of you) who are not interested in that sort of stuff can turn over to the teachers' column for a little education while we continue.

It seems this driver, who is a big, round, burly fellow who could easily have inspired the writing of "Beer Barrel Polka," was out a recent Saturday night with every intention of painting the town a very bright hue of red.

Even though the night was warm and balmy, a cold snap must have been expected, for he was well filled with antifreeze. As we said, he was a giant, with muscles well developed from Charles Atlas, special correspondence school. As the night wore on he finally ended up where you can hear the nightingales sing. Saturday night noisily gave way to Sunday morning. The drinks, arriving at his table more rapidly now, tasted better every one, and the jitterbug music from the nickle machine became a little sweeter. All was serene.

Then it happened. The drinks stopped, the music stopped and the fight started. Before our hero could scurry under a table he was caught square on the chin with a hard right and floored. Being angered no little, he arose and with the backing of all those soldiers (the dead ones) challenged the entire house. To his dismay the entire house accepted. When he reported for work Monday morning his face was a picture an artist might have termed "Sausage Grinding Time in the Country."

The big fellow, so the report goes, has taken a pledge to tread the straight and narrow and won't mind a bit if in the future you refer to him as lambie-pie and not the mighty Hercules.

Pay and Union Recognition Hatters Win More

BALTIMORE, Md. (ILNS).—An agreement between the Men's Hats, Inc., and the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International Union, A. F. of L. affiliate, gives wage increases and union recognition to about 1,000 hatters here.

President Max Zaritsky of the international union announced the agreement provided wage increases averaging about 10 per cent above the existing rates. The union was recognized as the exclusive bargaining agency for all of the company's employes.

The Men's Hats, Inc., is a consolidation of three firms, the M. S. Levy Company, the Brigham Hopkins Hat Company and the New England Panama Hat Company. Zaritsky said the company is the largest maker of straw and Panama hats in the country.

Office Workers Sign Pact With Oil Refining Firm

CLEVELAND, Ohio (ILNS).—Dougless Hanna, president of Office Workers' local No. 19366, announces successful negotiation of a agreement with the Gulf Oil Refining Company's bulk plant office here.

The agreement provides for a 40 hour week, seniority, vacations with pay and overtime for Sunday and holiday work. Wage minimums starting at $100 per month for clerks and $90 for typists, stenographers and telephone operators were included. Wage rates are graduated upward from the base rate, Hanna said.

ORGANIZED LABOR---NEXT!

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Whenever a tyrant or a coward whether he was a national ruler or just a local tough guy—has sought a scapegoat upon which he could heap contempt or ridicule in order to win the support of ignorant or vicious-minded people, he has almost invariably chosen the Jews because of their helplessness as a minority. I first discovered this fact during the twenty years when, as a boy and young man, I lived in the tenements on the East Side of New York, and when there was stirred within me a sense of the cruel injustice of class hatred. And this feeling of indignation increased as I studied the history of nations. This has been particularly true during recent years when nation after nation has chosen the Jews within their boundaries as the first victims in their desire to destroy, not only the Jews, but the faithful of other religions, including Protestants and Catholics. And in every case their attack has quickly shifted against organized labor, which they have succeeded in destroying.

What has occurred in Germany and Russia is typical of what is happening in some other European countries. These countries are now attempting through their organized clubs and bunds, their united clubs and Fascist forces, to introduce their viciousness into America. But these movements are simply a blind, behind which they may carry on their contemptible propaganda against the principlec of Democracy for the adoption of which America has paid so high a price. The Jew is merely the first line of attack, because his opponents know full well that there is no group, the world over, which has stood more staunchly for Democracy than have the Jews. The records in our own country prove this very clearly, from the time of the Revolutionary War down to the present.

Instead of being persecuted they should be honored and respected because of their keen desire to build up Democracy throughout the world—a Democracy which their forefathers advocated and practiced when many of their persecutors weer savages and lived in caves and dugouts. Even then they were writing the Christians' Bible, creating some of the world's finest literature, setting up high moral codes, framing the fundamental principles of our basic laws and otherwise laying the foundations of a civilization which has made the people of the whole world their debtors.

If, in spite of this record, the Jews are now to be destroyed, how much of a chance has Organized Labor to survive? In any case, we may as well face the fact that as go the Jews, so will go Organized Labor.

Bakers' Scraps

Sure glad to be back with you this week and to be able to return to work at the plant. A little throat trouble was what was causing all the fuss.

* * *

I wish to let you know that we have been able to get the Hooper Pie Company back into the fold and to seeing our views once again. Four new members were obligated into the local last Saturday from this plant. They are: Amon Edge, Opal Lee, Roy Hooper and George Weams. The local removed the Hooper Pie Company from the local's unfair list and we wish to take this opportunity to ask organized labor to support this union bakery.

* * *

Local 25 voted last Saturday to wage a fight on the nonunion cakes that are made in and out of town. Thep are as follows: Ward's, Dorst, Hostess, Virginia Dare, Holsom, Travis' Pies, Jack Cookies and Alton Park Cakes and Pies. When you buy a pie or cake be sure that is union -made. Some union-made pies and cakes are: Erskine's, Mercer's, Hooper's, Grennan's, Dolly Madison and Stone's.

Sorry to report that Brothers Ralph Venable of the Colonial Bakery is off from work with the flu. Hope you will be able to be back on the job soon, Ralph.

C. B. NORWOOD,

Business Representative, Bakers' Local Union No. 25.

Brother C. B. Norwood is a charter member of Bakers' Local 25 and has been an active member since the organization was first begun. He has held almost every office in the local from sergeant-at-arms to president and business agent. Brother Norwood has been in the bakery field since 1923. He has worked at the Signal Baking company, Memita Bakery, Cameron & Barr Bakery and the Union Bakery of this city. He was born in Hartselle, Ala., in 1907, leaving there in 1923 to come to Chattanooga to enter the bakery field. He has been the business representative of the Bakers' local for the past two years and has been very instrumental in organization work in the baking industry. He tells me that his hobby is gardening, but between you and me, I think he is fibbing a little, for I think I know what his hobby is. Local 25 is proud of the fine work that Brother Norwood is doing and it is a pleasure to work with him. Next week we'll give you the lowdown on our secretary-treasurer.

We received a letter in the office the other day from Radio Workers' Local 662 which was read to the local last Saturday. This letter asked the support of the organization in fighting the Clemons Bros. Furniture Company, which is unfair to organized labor of this city. All members were warned not to go into this store.

* * *

Orient Flour, Crystal Pearl Meal and Chattanooga Bakery Products are still unfair to organized labor.

OVERTIME PAY PROVIDED BY KENTUCKY STATUTE

Frankfort, Ky.—A labor bill guaranteeing overtime pay for employes working seven days in any week was signed by Gov. Keen Johnson. The measure, effective June 12, also provides for state mediation in labor disputes when it is requested by both sides.

All that harms labor is treason to America. No line can be drawn between these two. If any man tells you he loves America yet hates labor, he is a liar. If any man tells you he trusts America yet he fears labor, he is a fool. There is no America without labor, and to fleece one is to rob the other.—Abraham Lincoln.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Tennessee National Forest

Next week a bill will be introduced in the House by your Representative to create a national forest in the Cumberland Mountain section of the district. Details of the plan, which will affect Marion, Grundy, Sequatchie, Bledsoe, White, Warren and Van Buren Counties, will probably have been presented in the daily papers by the time this week's letter is published.

The idea is to have the Government purchase a large acreage in the isolated mountain area of the district upon which the timber has largely been removed and upon which no appreciable tax revenue is realized. This area is rich in scenic and recreational possibilities which can be developed for the benefit of the people and the business of this section. The Government by reforestation, prevention of forest fires and soil erosion, can add to the wealth of the area.

A request has already been made to the Secretary of Agriculture to make an examination of this section to determine its desirability for project.

There have been two principal ideas presented for the development of this region; one as a national park and the other as a national forest. The National Park Service is interested largely in forest and recreational development. An authorization for a national park would be practically impossible because of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, which is already located in Tennessee. The Department of Agriculture, through the national forest projects, combine all the features desirable for the utilization of this section; that is, conservation, reforestation, soil erosion control, resettlement, park and recreational facility development.

This development will be impossible unless the people are enthusiastic and co-operative. Preliminary inquiries reveal that there will be full local co-operation. Suggestions and criticism are desired and sought. The purpose in presenting this idea and project is to benefit our section, and your Representative wants whatever project is finally secured to be pleasing to the people.

Senator Pepper's Pet Alligator

Cause for great excitement arose two weeks ago in Congress when one of Senator Claude Pepper's alligators was found missing after the daily exercise period. A search throughout the Senate office building failed to reveal the whereabouts of "Claudie," as the three-foot pet of the Senator from Florida is affectionately called. Visitors, particularly women, entering the Senate office building were squeamish. The mystery was removed this week when "Claudie," after a ten-day sojourn, was located in a mail bag in a storage room across the building from the Senator's office. The pet "'gator" had evidently taken a long jaunt through the corridors of the building. When found he was considerably delapidated, but is now again well and healthy.

Chattanooga Flood Protection Difficulties

Trouble and difficulties have beset the Chattanooga flood control project, but there is no reason for permanent discouragement.

Prospects were bright, when Congress met, for early authorization for construction of Chattanooga flood protection works. At the last session of Congress, H. R. 6264, a river and harbor bill, had passed the House. Authorization for protection works at Chattanooga and Rossville was added by Senator McKellar when the bill reached the also included in the Senate. The Senate. Many other projects were bill was almost assured of passage in the Senate, and then it would only need to be agreed to in conference between the house and senate conferees to be ready for presidential approval.

A Senate committee was summoned by the President, who advised them he did not wish any more flood control authorizations until those now approved were under way, and he further said that he would probably veto the bill if it passed. Thereupon, enactment of H. R. 6264 was out of the question.

A bill for separate authorization of Chattanooga and Rossville was introduced in the House and also in the Senate by Senators McKellar and Stewart of Tennessee and Senators George and Russell of Georgia. Hearings upon the bill in the House were held Thursday. Things seemed to be progressing splendidly when Mr. Whittington of Mississippi, chairman of the flood control committee of the House, revealed that the President, in a memorandum to the War Department, in a memorandum to the War Department, had expressed the opinion that the flood protection works for Chattanooga and Rossville should be built by the TVA rather than by the Army engineers.

The report of the Army engineers, the investigation of the TVA and all other investigations revealed urgent need for flood protection works. The project has been approved by the National Congress of Rivers and Harbors. No question as to the desirability and necessity of the undertaking has been raised in committee hearings in Congress.

Wtih this backing there is no reason for permanent discouragement. Chattanooga will eventually get flood protection, and thereupon the last obstacle for the progress of "The Dynamo of Dixie" will have been removed.

Senator McKellar has been vigorously taking the lead for approval of the project. eH has been ably assisted by Senator Stewart, the junior Senator of Tennessee, and by Senators George and Russell of Georgia. On the House side, Congressman Tarver, of Georgia, has also been of great assistance. With backing of this force results will be secured if humanly possible.

Mr. MZL Fuller and Mr. E. L. Chandler, secretary and engineer of the flood protection district, have been in Washington all week presenting Chattanooga and Rossville's cause. They have, and are doing, all they possibly can for early authorization of the project.

Farm Benefits

Substantial help to the farmers appears certain at this session. The Senate on yesterday added $212,000,000 for parity payments and $85,000,000 for surplus food disposal. It also included $90,000,000 for RFC loans to the Rural Electrification and farm tenancy programs.

The additions will have to be worked out in conference between Senate and House conferees. It is felt that the larger portion of the appropriations will be retained in the agriculture bill, as sentiment in both houses is overwhelmingly in favor of helping the farmers.

If the large increases stand, Congress will probably have to reduce the Army and Navy appropriation or raise the debt liimt, or pass a

Green Is Elected To Executive of World Labor Body

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—Word has been received at American Federation of Labor headquarters here that President William Green of the Federation has been selected vice-chairman of the executive of the International Federation of Trade Unions.

Green was chosen by 13 out of 14 votes at a meeting of the IFTU executive in Paris.

A conference of labor federations of neutral countries to deal with problems arising out of the war for the wage earners of these nations was voted by the executive committee. Sir Walter Citrine, president of the IFTU, presided at the meeting, which included representatives of the labor movements of Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Belgium and the Netherlands.

LODGE INTRODUCES BILL FOR HEALTH INSURANCE

Washington, D. C.—A bill to provide a health insurance program in connection with the social security system was introduced by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. The measure proposed that a maximum of $40 a year for doctor bills and hospital care be made available to any unemployed worker who has contributed to the social security system through payroll taxes.

N. Y. BUILDING TRADES WEIGH NEW PAY SCALE

Plan Is Designed to Stimulate Construction of One and Two-Family Houses.

New York, N. Y.—A uniform wage scale on small home construction jobs was considered at a conference of union officials at the building and Construction Trades Council here.

The plan was submitted by Michael J. Colleran, president of the Operative Plasterers' International Association of the United and Can- Murray, president of the building ada.

After the conference, Thomas A. and Construction Trades Council, said:

"The meeting had as its outstanding purpose the stimulation of a wider purchase by the average man of one and two-family houses, with which government, builders, organized labor and, indeed, every section of the population is in accord. It is highly desirable from the standpoint of the wellbeing of the nation.

"The representatives of the building trades unions look forward to a meeting in the near future with builders of one and two-family homes to discuss the plan conceived by organized labor."

Officials of the Building and Construction Trades Department who attended the conference made it clear the proposed new scale would not apply to large building construction, but only to the home construction field, which is mostly unorganized now. They indicated that if the plan works out successfully in New York it probably would be applied elsewhere throughout the country.

Substantial Increase Seen Coming Soon In Pennsylvania WPA

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—Findings of the joint committee representing the Governor of Pennsylvania and the Federal and state offices of the Work Projects Administration, indicating substantial increase in WPA employment in Pennsylvania as soon as weather conditions permit, were made public by WPA Commissioner Colonel F. C. Harrington.

"I believe the conferences of this joint committee have developed a better understanding of the problem among all concerned," Harrington said. "There seems to be no reason why we cannot put more people to work when the chief barrier—severe weather conditions—is removed. With improving weather I believe we will be able to employ the full quota now authorized, or 165,000 workers."

Latent employment reports showed 144,812 at work on WPA-financed projects in Pennsylvania.

HATTERS WIN WAGE BOOST

New York, N. Y.—Officials of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International Union announced the negotiation of a new contract with Men's Hats, Inc., which is reported to be the largest concern in the United States manufacturing straw hats. The agreement carries a 10 per cent wage increase for approximately 1,000 employes.

The United States possesses 45 per cent of the wealth of the world.

Petersburg Judge Denies Union Plea For Change of Drastic Injunction Against Luggage Plant Strikers

Petersburg, Va., [illegible]—A decision permanent injunction restraining against Luggage Workers local 11, which called a strike at the big plant of the American Hardware Company following the refusal of the company to negotiate a new contract.

At a hearing in Hustings Court, Judge Richard T. Wilson denied the petition of the union for modification of the terms of the injunction which it secured against the plant early in the strike.

Judge Wilson sustained the contentions of the attorney for the company that the strike was not for a legitimate purpose, but was a conspiracy to destroy the very existence of the American Hardware Company.

He quoted many authorities to the effect that picketing cannot be peaceful, that it must be limited and that "employers have the right to pay any wages they wish to and discard any worker with or without sufficient cause."

In the rebuttal, Attorney Kiser directed the attention of the court to the fact that most of the authorities quoted by the company's attorney have since been outmoded, that at present there is an entirely different attitude in the country towards labor unions. He particularly stressed the fact that Congress has through the National Labor Relations Act declared the national policy to be to encourage collective bargaining and that a minimum wage has been established by law.

Strikers to Continue Fight

He ridiculed the assertion of the company's attorney that the purpose of the strike is to destroy the existence of the company and told the court the real purpose is to obtain increased wages, better working conditions and to secure the workers the right to have a say in determining the terms and conditions under which they are to be employed. Nevertheless, Judge Wilson upheld the contention of the company's attorney that an injunction against the strikers is warranted, and he even refused to modify it in any way whatsoever.

During the hearing the court was packed with several hundred strikers who listened attentively to the proceedings and later held a meeting and decided unanimously to continue the strike indefinitely until the American Hardware Company grants them the rights of collective bargaining and decent working conditions.

Strike Held Provoked

In presenting the petition of the union for dissolution or modification of the injunction, Henry A. Kiser of Washington, D. C., associate counsel of the American Federation of Labor, pointed out that the American Hardware Company, when obtained the injunction against the union, did not come into court with "clean hands," that not only did the company not make every effort to avoid the conflict but that it actually provoked the strike by refusing to extend the old contract which expired on Dec. 31, 1938, as proposed by the union. Kiser further contended that no sufficient evidence was presented to the court substantiating the charge that violence was committed by the strikers.

In answer to the plea of the union attorney, the attorney for the company maintained that violence has been committed during the strike, and he held in hand a number of affidavits which had not been shown either to the court or to the union's attorney before the hearing. Nevertheless, he demanded that on the basis of the affidavits the injunction should be sustained without modification.

"Conspiracy" Charged

He did not answer the charge of the union's attorney that the company did not come to court with "clean hands," but he contended that the strike of the luggage workers is not for a legitimate purpose, but is a conspiracy for the purpose of destroying the very existence of the American Hardware Company.

TEACHER TALK

General membership meeting Saturday, April 15, 10 a.m. Dinwiddie.

It was a pleasure to discover last week that the teachers read this column. The fact that the opinion was a difference of opinion. We should like to publish a reply from one of the "progressives." A "Saturday Evening Post" article of two weeks ago entitled "Progress vs. Learning" is the starting point of this little tiff, in case you weren't present last week.

It is to be remembered that the author of the article mentioned is a high school teacher. She admits that in primary grades learning and play activity are sometimes one. The most discouraging thing is the welling up of primary methods into the junior high and high schools. Chattanooga High school, for instance, which doesn't declare any half holidays when one of its graduates takes a magna cum laude at Harvard, has this year installed a course to teach children how to read. The only conclusion that a high school teacher trained in the disciplines inculcated by Mark Hopkins can draw is that there has been skulduggery somewhere along the line.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

«« Mrs. Beulah Ogle, Correspondent ««

Once again it comes time to take up the old pen and paper, for time waits on no man.

We are sorry to report on our sick list this week Miss Alice Costello of Ham's Cafe, Miss Cleo Peek of Lowe's Cafe and Miss Lassie Mae Stoner of George's Place. We wish you all a speedy recovery. Mr. Smith on West Ninth Street is doing his spring cleaning, and I am sure it is being done by union men, as Mr. Smith is 100% union. Tuesday, April 2, is our next meeting date, and we are planning a day and night meeting at 3 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. It is also election time, so pick your officers and come ready to vote for them. And there will be no reason why you cannot be at one of these meetings. We will have both day and night meetings and let the members decide on which time will be the most suitable.

Glad to note the interest taken in the last meeting and know if more would come out and get acquainted they could show more interest.

* * *

There is a new nonunion restaurant now open on West Ninth Street. I notice there are quite a few union men eating in this place. I believe Aunt Hett was right when she said she would be ashamed to wear a dress she could get so cheap she would know the one who made it only got about 30 cents a day to make it. Now when you can get a meal so cheap, would you not know that the man who served you was doing his work for about that amount so his boss could serve you such meals? Spend your union-made money in a union house.

* * *

The 5 and 10 Sandwich Shop is nonunion.

* * *

The spring membership drive is on. Let's see if we cannot all bring one member into the union and in so doing increase our strength and our membership. Come to the meeting Tuesday and bring somebody with you.

* * *

Mrs. Marie Jones and little daughter, Patricia Inez, are doing nicely. Marie can't wait to get downtown and back to work again. Hear she was strolling around the other day reading my mind. I don't know how she does it, but it seems she is good at that.

Mrs. Irene Hodges of the State Cafe had a nice Easter Sunday at home with relatives, and said she din't get out of the kitchen until after 4 p.m. You shouldn't have so much to eat, Irene.

THE BUSY BEE, HOME PLATE, S. & W., CHATTANOOGA STEAK HOUSE, HARRY'S PLACE, SOUTHERN BARBECUE, DENNIS and ELLIS RESTAURANTS ARE NONUNION.

Don't forget our meeting next Tuesday and be on time.

Not Objects of Charity

It is unjust, and moreover it is absurd, for anybody to think of WPA workers as recipients of public charity. They earn the money by which they support themselves and their families. They are engaged in creating wealth for our towns and counties. They are helping to build up the nation.—C. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner.

Union Carpenters In Massachusetts Hit WPA Policies

Worcester, Mass. ILNS).—Vigorous dissatisfaction with policies of the Works Projects Administration was voiced at the annual convention of the Massachusetts State Council of the United Carpenters and Joiners. The WPA was charged with hiring young unskilled workers in preference to skilled men.

President Bennett F. Gordon of the state council said the man of 50 who is skilled at his trade is being cast aside by the WPA and "young men—with no experience, but strong political connections — are getting the jobs.

He said he is not opposed to the WPA hiring inexperienced men in the construction of walls, walks and the like, but did object to the WPA undertaking building projects, claiming that this not only proves costly, but is bound to result in faulty construction.

After a sharp discussion, the council adopted a resolution opposing WPA infringement of established union hours, wages and other conditions.

Another resolution favored establishment of the six-hour day, five-day week as a means for creating more jobs.

Job Ideas Aid the Unemployed in Pennsylvania Town

Harrisburg, Pa. (ILNS). — The advice, "Create your own job," sometimes given by vocational counselors to individuals who find themselves up against an employment blind alley, is being tried in Jeannette, Pa.

In Jeannette the local job mobilization committee is pushing job ideas as an important activity. A special "New enterprise committee" is functioning to create jobs through brain work — thinking up new ideas in joblots.

Results to date are reported as organization of a dime delivery service giving permanent employment to several men and boys and a planned sales canvassing campaign to put more Jeannette-made household commodities into Jeannette homes.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

«« Beulah Ogle, Correspondent ««

We had a very interesting meeting Tuesday night and the following officers were elected: W. F. Newton, president; Union Gray, vice-president; Antoin Awad, treasurer; Beulah Ogle, financial secretary; Alice Costella, recording secretary; Austin Barnes, chaplain; Ernest Mullins, inspector; Susie Williams and Cleo Peek, guards. The trustees are Louise Petty, R. H. Robison and W. M. Hamil.

There was an assessment of 25 cents per week per member to sponsor the spring membership drive. It was unanimously agreed to by those present, said assessment to be collected before dues are collected and to run for three months, during which time we plan an extensive drive against nonunion restaurants.

This seems to be clean-up week. Several of our restaurants have finished their work while others are still working. Smith's on Ninth street have done a nice job. Coplan's on Cherry street would surprise you—they have really shined up. George's place on Eighth street you wouldn't know with his new nickelodian. Also notice Bob Green on Cherry street has come out in new colors in their spring uniforms. The girls should be cool this summer.

Our drug store girls are getting 'way ahead of us in that they are taking advantage of Leap year and have been accepted. Miss Louise Miller, of Hodges' No. 3 on Market, is now Mrs. Ernest Mullins. Congratulations to you both, also to Miss Dorthy Shirk. I didn't learn who the sneaky gul was. Congratulations anyway and may your troubles all be little ones.

* * *

We had a nice delegation from the Lunch Box on Sixth and Cherry this week. Remember Mr. Davis is a union man and enjoys seeing his union friends there.

* * *

Your B. A. went in for bowling Sunday in a big way, so if you see her hopping around on crutches don't blame it on old age—it's really got her down.

* * *

Miss Reolla Wright, of Smith's cafe, and Miss Irene Williamson, of the O. K. Lunch, were initiated.

* * *

This nice warm weather was too good to last—it just had to rain—and with the rain comes cooler weather.

* * *

Remember Home Plate, Busy Bee, S & W, Chattanooga Steak House, Dennis and Harry's place are nonunion.

Patronize the union house card and be served by union members.

* * *

Charlie's place on Market street is nonunion.

* * *

Mrs. Marie Jones and little daughter are getting along nicely. Marie can hardly wait to get back to work.

Miss Elna Morgan is still at the Rattenbury waiting to serve her friends.

Four New State Guides To Be Issued Soon

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—State guides for Oregon, Arizona, Georgia and Virginia, compiled by the WPA Writers' Projects in those states will go on sale some time within the next three or four weeks, it is announced by Mrs. Florence Kerr, assistant commissioner.

The four new guides will follow the pattern of the twenty-three similar volumes that already have been published, according to John D. Newson, national director of the WPA Writers' program. They will cover the significant cultural and social aspects of the respective states, their cities and towns and points of historical interest and mile-by-mile information about their highways. Each book will contain approximately 250,000 words, and will be illustrated with nearly 100 photographs and maps.

It was also announced that state guides for Texas, New Mexico, South Carolina and Wyoming are nearing completion, and it is expected that copy for the remaining 17 guides will be in publishers' hands by April 1. The completion of the series will mean that guides have been published for every state in the Union, as well as New York City and the District of Columbia.

Pocketbook Workers Back Roosevelt Third Term

New York City (ILNS).—A movement to draft President Roosevelt for a third term was indorsed unanimously by the general executive board of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novty Workers' Union, in semiannual meeting here. After extended discussion the board sent a telegram to the President which said in part:

"It is our contention that of all the candidates striving for the Presidency, there is no one who has displayed such sympathy and understanding for the workers and common people of this country. You, Mr. President, represent a political philosophy that stands for liberalism which must be preserved and extended if our democracy is to survive the attacks being launched against it by all the enemies of our democratic institutions. We therefore call upon you, Mr. President, in the name of the thousands of our members to permit your name to go before the electorate as a candidate for re-election."

Another City Adds Market Terminal To List of Municipal Utilities

Chicago (ILNS).—Kansas City, Kan., which has opened for business one of the largest wholesale fruit and vegetable markets in the country, brings the number of cities of over 5,000 population with municipal markets to about 175, the International City Managers' Association reports.

The Kansas City food terminal occupies 62 acres on the raised levee where the Kaw and the Missouri Rivers meet. It was built by the municipality with financial aid from the Union Pacific Railroad and Federal works funds.

To Serve Many States

Planned to serve farmers and food wholesalers from 10 to 15 states in the area around Kansas City, the market contains 78 units in four main produce buildings. Each unit has an elevator, mezzanine office space and display and storage rooms. In addition there is a five-story cold storage warehouse, a filling station, telegraph office, bank, nearly 500 stalls for truck farmers and small growers, parking space for thousands of cars and switch tracks to bring freight cars to the market door.

The Kansas City market is administered by the city, through a market master appointed by the mayor. The city auditor will be in direct charge of its financial administration.

City Markets Now Numerous

Municipal wholesale or retail produce markets have now been built in most of the major cities of the country, according to the association. Among cities which recently have constructed new markets, planned to meet changing conditions, are Memphis, Tenn.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Syracuse, N. Y., and Grand Rapids, Mich. Kansas City, Mo., plans to rebuild its old food market now for retail use only.

Big Share of Renovize Cost Estimated Going to Wages

Harrisburg, Pa.—Out of each dollar spent in remodeling or improving homes, stores and factories, approximately 60 cents is used for wages, according to estimates of builders and architects made available to William A. Hemphill, executive director of the Pennsylvania job mobilization committee.

On many home renovize improvements the wage share of each dollar may well run to 70 cents or even more, depending upon the type of improvement that is being made, Hemphill declares.

112 Sawmill Workers Sue Carpenters Union

Kelso, Wash. (ILNS).—A $230,994 damage suit of 112 members of local No. 2504, Lumber and Sawmill Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, against the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and A. W. Muir, Brotherhood vice-president, is drawing the attention of the logging industry to the local Superior Court.

The claims of 10 of the 112 plaintiffs are being pressed in a preliminary action argued before Judge Howard J. Atwell.

The union members seek damages for loss of work allegedly resulting from the revocation of their local union charter during the Longview lumber strike of 1935.

Regardless of the outcome of the opening cases, the matter will be appealed to the State Supreme Court, attorneys indicate.

Pedestrian Dangers Emphasized

The tenth annual safety bulletin recently issued by the Travelers Insurance company views with growing concern the increase in automobile pedestrian accidents, particularly in metropolitan areas at night, and devotes an entire section to the problems of the man on foot.

One graphic illustration shows that while a man walks one step and advances one yard, an automobile being driven at 30 miles an hour advances nine yards. Another shows that a pedestrian in dark clothing is all but invisible to the driver at night a mile and a half away but is clearly visible in light clothing up to 200 feet or more.

Failure on the part of both drivers and pedestrians to appreciate these and many other facts was partly responsible for the record of 12,470 pedestrians killed and almost 300,000 injured in 1939, the report says.

The Only Independent Workers

The average of union wages is double the average of nonunion wages.

There are men still foolish enough to parrot the employers' talk about the independence of the nonunion man.

Where there is no union, the only man who has any independence is the employer.

The union man has the only true independence. He is the only worker who has rights. He is the only worker who has a real say as to his wages, his hours, his conditions of work.

The nonunion worker has few rights, no independence, no freedom — and in addition he pays a high price for his state of subservience.

How can any man afford so high a price for such ignominy?

And, why are there are nonunion workers?

The value of the labor press has become increasingly evident with the passing of the years. No one can longer question or debate the effectiveness of publicity for any cause which depends upon public opinion for support and understanding. In the case of organized labor we have had the additional problem of being confronted with opposition from the antagonists of our movement who in many cases are also the largest supporters of the advertising which maintains the "public press." Our experience in the past has been that no matter how worthy or just our contention might be, the publishers of newspapers and magazines are loath to give space to our story. This was in a large measure responsible for the establishment of the labor press.

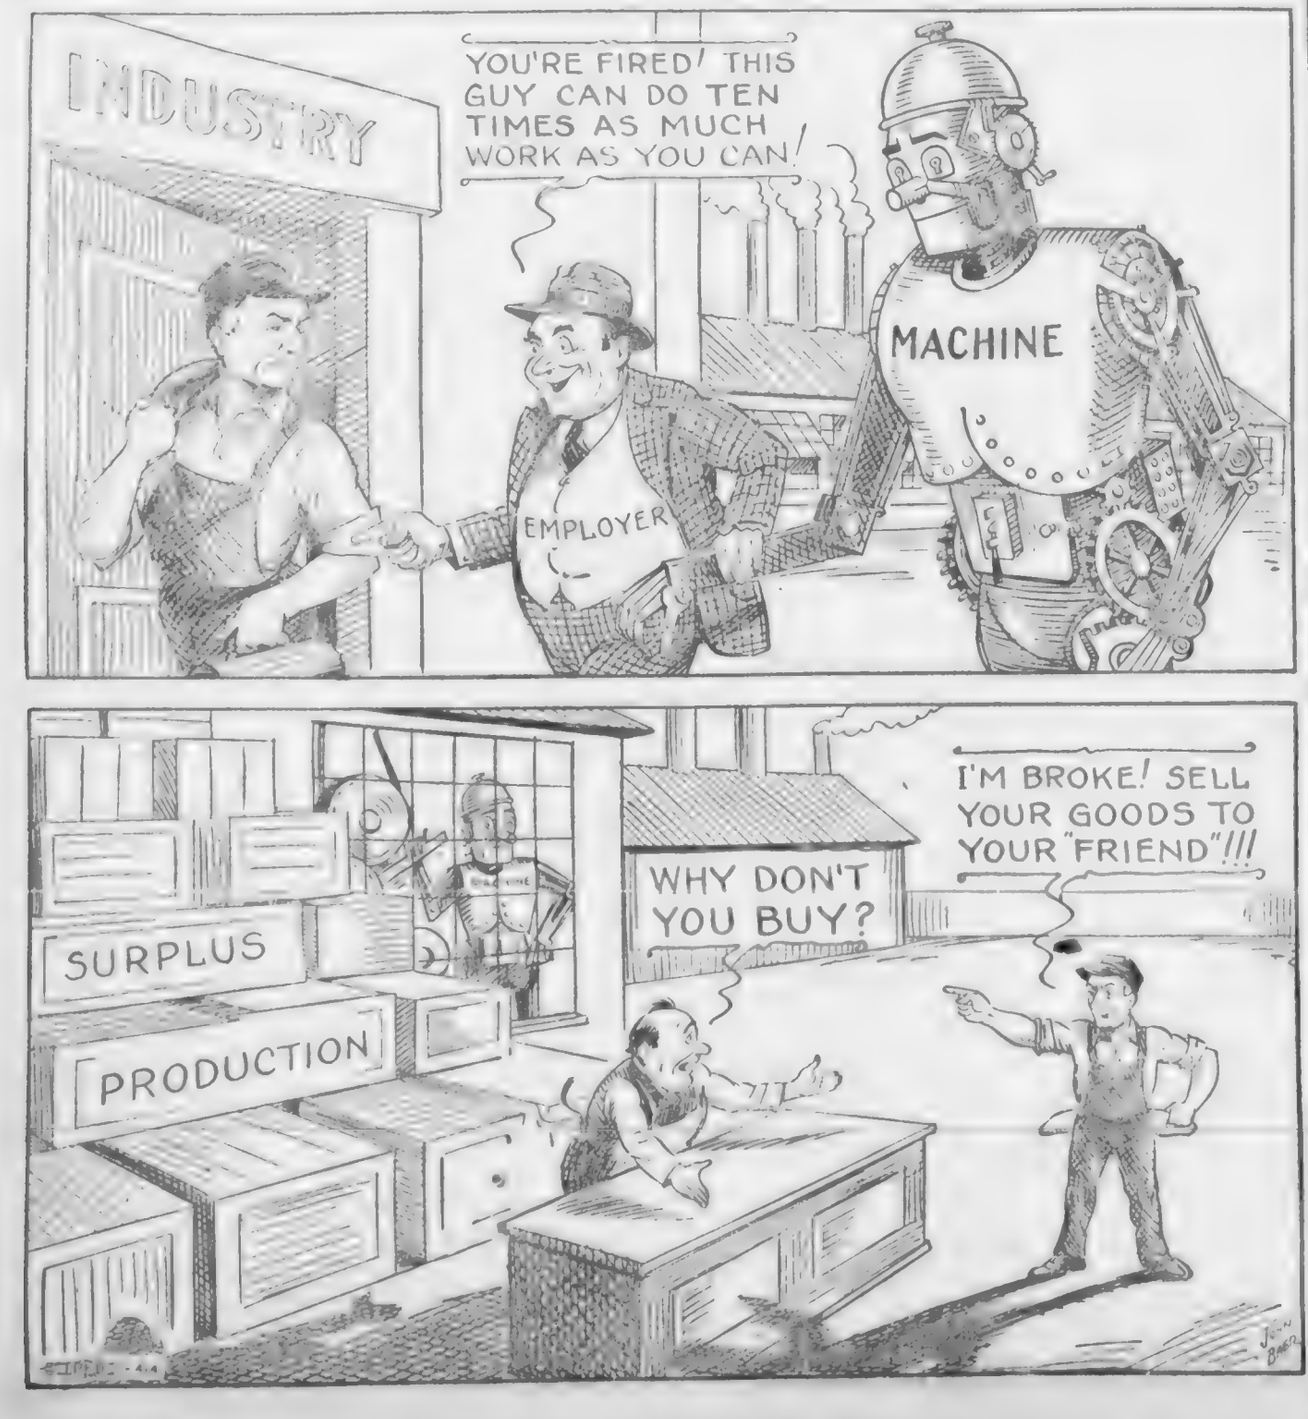
Another Public Housing Benefit

Community activities of tenants in public low-rent housing projects are proving a great benefit in upbuilding civic morals and bettering general living conditions throughout the various neighborhoods, a recent survey of the United States Housing Authority shows.

Reports from the managements of USHA projects in many parts of the country indicate that social, cultural and recreational facilities provided in the projects are being used in perfect harmony by the tenants and their neighbors.

This, according to Nathan Straus, administrator of the USHA, completely disproves contentions that such facilities in public housing projects might cause dissension between tenants and other families in their immediate localities and gives impressive demonstration of general benefit obtainable through the USHA program.

Community activities sponsored and organized by tenants in public housing projects meet ready acceptance by any average American family. Of prime importance is the recognition of the desire of the average family for congenial associates, freedom from regimentation, opportunities for enjoyment of leisure, recreation and culture. These activities range from study groups in child welfare for expectant mothers to pinochle clubs for octogenarians.



Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

Reading last week's Labor World I was reminded of the story of Rip Van Winkle.

The redeeming feature was that old Rip woke up. So did our friends in Alton Park, for they had an article written up. They said how they all read The Labor World from Genesis to Exodus and singled out that grand old character Moses. The conditions of today and of Moses' time are very similar. We are told that God hardened Pharaoh's heart. Probably this was done for the purpose of strengthening the character of the Israelites and preparing them for what hardships they had to endure.

I think the conditions that are confronting the people today are very similar. Things gotten too easy are not appreciated. If man is going to get anywhere he must fight for it, get it the hard way.

Conditions in the field of labor are a lot different now than twenty-five years ago. If anything, I believe, they are easier. It hasn't been so long ago if one even thought of organizing, they would have been black-balled from Maine to California, horse-whipped and run out of town. Public sentiment is more in our favor now. Legislation has favored us to some extent, and the employing class has come to realize that labor is part of the equasion and labor must prosper or they don't. So let's thank all the Moses of our time and give them all the support we can. Maybe we can make this a better world to live in.

WAGE TAX UPHELD

Philadelphia, Pa. — President Judge L. Stauffer Oliver, of Common Pleas Court No. 7, handed down a decision that the 1½ per cent tax imposed by the Philadelphia city council on wages did not violate the interstate commerce clause of the Federal Constitution. He said the tax, opposed by organized labor here, "is not a tax on commerce, but on the return of his work realized by the individual." A previous opinion by Judge Oliver sustaining the tax was recently upheld by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Francis J. Gorman Sues CIO Heads For $103,000 Financial Loss And Personal Damages

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—Suit for $103,719 for personal damages and financial loss has been filed in District Court of the District of Columbia against the CIO, John L. Lewis, Sidney Hillman and other CIO officials by Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the executive board, United Textile Workers of America, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

The complaint, drawn up by Patrick J. Taft, attorney for Gorman, charges that the defendants are indebted to Gorman in the sum of $3,719.03 for salary and expenses due him as president of the United Textile Workers of America, from Oct. 1, 1938, to May 6, 1939. The union at that time was affiliated to the CIO.

Damages of $100,000 are asked for alleged false, slanderous and libelous statements made by the executive council of the UTWA on Dec. 23, 1938, in accusing Gorman of "acts detrimental to the interest and welfare of the international union." The acts in question included encouragement and assistance to local unions which left the CIO and reaffiliated with the A. F. of L.

Gorman charges that the statement caused him "great mental suffering and anguish" and damaged his "good name, character, reputation and standing with the organized labor movement and the public," to the extent of $100,000.

Papers in the suit were served on Hillman at the Wardman Park Hotel here, where he was attending a meeting of the executive council of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, CIO affiliate.

Defendants named in the action, in addition to those already mentioned, include Philip Murray, Emil Rieve, Reid Robinson, Sherman Dalrymple, CIO vice-presidents; James Carey, secretary-treasurer; the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee; Sidney Hillman, chairman of the committee, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer.

New York Employers Fined for Violation Of Compensation Act

NEW YORK CITY (ILNS).—Compensation referees in the State Labor Department during February made awards totaling $17,370.60 against New York City employers who had failed to carry workmen's compensation insurance for employes who had been injured, Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller reports. Collections against such awards amounted to $9,992.48 in February.

Two hundred and ten New York City employers who did not have workmen's compensation insurance, but none of whose employes had yet been injured, were prosecuted by the attorney-general. Of these, 206 were convicted, fines being imposed in 184 instances to a total of $1,439, and 22 receiving suspended sentences. In 43 cases where the Labor Department accused employers of attempting to evade the workmen's compensation law by fake partnerships or contracts, 39 employers were convicted.

Green Praises Work Of Negro Congress

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—The National Negro Congress has received a letter from President William Green of the American Federation of Labor congratulating the congress on its work and inclosing a check as a contribution to the Third National Negro Congress.

A. Philip Randolph, president of the congress and president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, A. F. of L. affiliate, in commenting on President Green's interest, said:

"The National Negro Congress is very grateful to President William Green for his interest in the problems to come before our Third National Negro Congress in Washington, April 26-28. Many other American Federation of Labor bodies, such as the Michigan State Federation of Labor and the joint board of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers in New York City, representing hundreds of thousands of organized workers, have also indicated their support for our efforts by financial contributions, indorsement and the election of delegates."

New Jobs Seen Hope Of Workers Over

Washington, D. C. (ILNS)—Creation of new jobs in the public school system, such as additional school matrons and school cafeteria workers would be a good means of lessening unemployment among women wage earners, Mrs. Florence S. Kerr, assistant commissioner of the Works Projects Administration, said here.

Outlining the activities of the WPA before a meeting of men and women over 40, Mrs. Kerr stressed the need for providing additional jobs. She said that the WPA is now the largest single employer of women in the United States, having 330,000. The largest age group on the rolls is between 32 and 40, and most of the employer are family heads, she reported.

Speaking of job conditions in general women in the United Staets, Mrs. Kerr said a growing demand for older women in statistical and research fields.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

CCC AND NYA

The House Committee on Appropriations recommended a bill to the House that would have closed 273 CCC camps and would have reduced the enrollment in these camps to 54,600 enrollees. The committee also recommended a reduction of $15,000,000 in the NYA appropriation for next year.

The House, by a substantial majority, increased the appropriations by $65,500,000, thereby making the amount available for CCC and NYA the same as last year.

Most of the members felt that these two organizations are doing good work; that economy should not be at the expense of the NYA and the CCC, which are trying to train and develop American youth. The Public Affairs Committee, headed by Mr. Owen D. Young, recently reported that there are 4,000,000 young people under 25 years of age who are unemployed.

Heretofore the House has cut almost every appropriation below the budget request. A strong minority, led by Congressman Woodrum of Virginia, bemoaned the change of attitude of House members.

Secretary Hull Wins First Round in Senate

By a close vote of 44 to 41 the reciprocal trade agreements program, sponsored by Secretary Hull, defeated its major obstacle in the Senate on Friday. The act gives the President, through the State Department, the right to negotiate and conclude trade agreements without congressional approval. Senator Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, offered an amendment to require Senate ratification by a two-thirds vote.

The argument for the amendment was that trade agreements are in fact treaties and should be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate, as is required of treaties under our Constitution, and, further, that the delegation of so great a power to an executive department without right of review is a dangerous policy.

The argument on Secretary Hull's side is that trade agreeemnts involve so much detail that it would be impossible for a legislative body to consider every item; that Senate ratification would mean disastrous delay, confusion and log-rolling. What is more—"the proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof"—the present arrangement has worked satisfactorily.

TVA Tax Replacement

Tennessee Congressmen are continuing to work daily to get a tax replacement bill out of the House Military Affairs Committee. Concern for the counties in the valley is expressed by most members of that committee, but innumerable obstacles continue to develop which has prevented favorable action. On Friday the matter was referred to the TVA subcommittee of the Military Affairs Committee to see if they could devise some bill that would meet the approval of a majority of the committee.

Congressmen Carroll Reece and John Jennings have done militant service in impressing Republican members with the absolute necessity that a bill be reported to the full membership of the House. Their fine cooperation is invaluable.

Personal Notes

Since Easter Washington has been filled with visitors. Many more will arrive with the blooming of the cherry blossoms, which is now slated to occur about April 10. The President has been ill with a cold this week and is expected to journey to "White House No. 2" at Warm Springs, Ga., Sunday or Monday.

Labor Problems Are Never "Settled"

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

There are few labor troubles in darkest Africa. It is only as we progress toward a more advanced civilization that controversies in the economic field develop, paradoxical as this may seem. This is one of the penalties, but at the same time one of the signs of human progress. Instead of being satisfied with a low standard of living which halts all progress, civilization demands that life for all of us shall become richer and fuller. This means constant change and adjustment. And these changes will never cease until the last day's work is done.

Here are some of the problems facing industry and labor today: First, changed economic conditions arising out of the use of revolutionary inventions; second, the increasing development of mass production; third, the dislocation of skilled workers through the use of machinery; fourth, the competition of low-standard workers in backward countries which have learned to use the high-power production methods of the United States; fifth, the higher social standards which are inevitable in the development of the human race. These are all determining factors in the labor situation, influencing both industry and labor.

It is disconcerting to some employer that when they grant all that Labor demands in a particular controversy. Organized labor never agrees not to make further demands upon them. Labor knows that neither industry nor labor can prophecy as to the future. Labor knows that there is no standard which can serve as a permanent basis for future contracts, excepting certain principles which are more or less fixed. Too many elements which are constantly changing enter into the question. Because of this the need for adjustment is continually arising.

But the ability to see and understand these problems is not limited to the men at the top—whatever may be their professional position in education or economics. Among the workers there are many who also have the vision to see and understand them. For after all, the fundamental facts to be discovered are basically human and have to do with life. It would therefore be the part of wisdom for employers to become better acquainted with men of this type and to counsel with them, for they may learn much which might otherwise be hidden from them. An important fact to be remembered in this connection is that Labor will have an increasingly important place in world affairs. And with this development there will come to Labor a larger responsibility for the well-being of all classes.

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

TEACHER TALK

Wednesday evening we were invited to the Munsey's, where some enthusiastic unionists were planning the hobby and study groups that you asked for. Bridge, modern literature, badminton, handicrafts, parliamentary law, and tax problems seem to have most takers. A union softball team may materialize, and some have asked for bowling. There's still time to get in on one of these groups at the outset, so make your interests known.

* * *

Anent our criticisms of the chaos that education in this country has come to be, we had a long talk with a competent disciple of progressivism and can report agreement on fundamentals. The trouble arises from the misconception that progressive education is any departure from old-fashioned teaching: reading is taught and skills are mastered by drill in the progressive school as in any other, we are told. The use of the term "progressive" was ill-advised, but the fact remains that tomfoolery is going on under the guise of education. Whatever may be at the other end of the transition, the process is a painful one.

We forgot to mention the shower that Tom Bell was given last week at executive meeting in honor of his baby girl. Born on St. Patrick's day, she was appropriately named Patricia.

Election of officers for next year and other important business are on the agenda of the April 13th membership meeting. Ten in the morning at Dickinson. Don't miss it.

Hardware Company Fails in Drive To Break Strike of Employes

Petersburg, Va.—Ranks of the striking Petersburg luggage workers are reported as firm and solid as at the beginning of the walkout more than two months ago, despite all attempts of the American Hardware Company to force a return to work.

Strikebreaking tactics of the company have included injunctions, arrests, fine and jail sentences of strikers, threats of evictions by landlords, shutting off of strikers' water and lights. The strikers, however, are determined to continue the fight until the company and its subsidiarie agree to bargain collectively with the workers on wages, seniority rights and working conditions.

The latest attempt of the hardware company to demoralize the strikers and break their ranks was in the form of a large paid advertisement in which the company stated that it will protect its strikebreakers, that it will not agree to a "closed union shop" and therefore it urges the strikers to return to work promptly.

This statement is entirely misleading and seeks to befog the issue, union leader say. The union has made it clear that it is not demanding the closed union shop, but the kind of shop that will make it impossible for the American Hardware Company to undermine the position of the union in its plants and threaten its very existence. The company is saying nothing about the demand of the strikers for an increase in wages, seniority rights, the abolition of the evils of the group system, including the "kick-back" and a permanent arbitrator to adjust disputes. These are the things for which the luggage workers are striking, leaders declare.

The financial condition of the strike has improved of late due to the appeal issued by President Green of the American Federation of Labor to all A. F. of L. affiliates. The New York Central Trades and Labor Council and the Chicago Federation of Labor also issued such appeals to their affiliated local unions, and the results have been very gratifying. Besides the contribution of $1,000 from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the strikers already have received donations amounting to about $1,000 from local unions of New York and several hundred dollars from local unions of Chicago.

Central Body Elects in Harmony

Executive Board Enlarged to Eleven Members by Largest Meeting Held in Many Years—Hallmark New President

DELEGATES TO TENNESSEE FEDERATION OF LABOR CONVENTION IN MEMPHIS SELECTED

All the elections were unanimous except the race for the three trustees. In that race four ran and A. C. Kamin, Roy Reynolds and Stanton Smith were elected. The two directors to serve with the trustees are P. R. Olgiati (bricklayer) and Curtis Sims.

The laws of the council were changed which enlarged the executive board of the council to eleven members, consisting of the president, vice-president, secretary, recording secretary, treasurer, sergeant, the three trustees and two directors.

A new post of treasurer was created, and Ed Bork, Jr., member of the Plumbers union, was elected. And, as usual, efficient Miss Virginia Munsey of the Teachers was made recorder.

Vice-president named was T. T. Buchanan of the Molders. Warden is L. C. Batey of the Plasterers. And Elmer Crosby of the Electricians, was put back as sergeant, as usual.

The three delegates to the Tennessee Federation of Labor convention to be held in Memphis on June 3, 4 and 5, will be Stanton Smith, Erskine Mabee and T. R. Cuthbert.

Erskine Mabee was put back as financial secretary for his fifth term.

The elections this year were most harmonious, indicated by the unanimous votes. Number of delegates attending was astonishing. As newly elected Hallmark said in his opening address, Central Body seems to be ready to take a march to better things with the revived spirit of harmony and determination.

Oil Refiners Meet Next Monday Nite

Local 323, Oil Refiners, will have a very important meeting next Monday night, April 15, at the Alton Park fire hall community center. Time will be 7:30. Discussion of the new contract being drawn up will take place, and every member should attend.

Officers of this local declare that "Moses" has not put in an appearance yet, but they are beating the bullrushes and expect to find him soon.

Civil Liberties Union Hits Fingerprinting Plan

Toledo, O.—A proposal by the Toledo Junior Chamber of Commerce to fingerprint all citizens of Toledo has been denounced by the local branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

"Fingerprinting could be used to blacklist union members and strikers," said Russell E. Chase, Cleveland attorney for the union. "It is simply more evidence of an effort to set up a Gestapo in this country."

The fingerprinting program was suggested as an aid in "identification of amnesia victims" and of "thousands of persons mutilated beyond recognition who are buried in Potters field because their fingerprints were not recorded."

Help Still Needed

"COLLECTIVE BARGAINING IS HERE TO STAY," HEAD CONCILLIATOR STEELMAN TELLS LEADERS IN CHATTANOOGA INDUSTRY LAST FRIDAY

Says Only Way to Get Rid of Right of Labor Is to to Try European Way of Dictatorships.

Repeating over and over that "collective bargaining is here to stay," Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the conciliation division of the U. S. Department af Labor, made a hit as he addressed a luncheon at the Patten hotel last Friday, given by the Chamber of Commerce and the Civitan club. There was some 300 guests, including industrialists, active labor unionists and persons from all walks of life in this community.

Dr. Steelman stressed to the business men that his department had no force of authority, but simply operated on a program of reason, logic and justice. "Not only is there no legal obligation for any man or group to accept the service," he said, "even after we have entered a case, we cannot compel anyone to do anything." He said that is the reason why his department's services have never been refused. He stressed the complete difference between his work and that of the NLRB.

"The time of collective bargaining has arrived, and it must be accepted if our democracy is to remain a democracy," he emphasized. He called attention to European countries that have abolished collective bargaining, and where people have to be "made" to do things. He said that the days of fighting are over, and that the period of collective intelligence and reason is at hand.

Through his department more than fifty per cent of threatened strikes and lockouts have been prevented. "More and more, the emphasis is upon prevention instead of remedy in American labor relations," he said.

Dr. Steelman praised the work of Commissioner C. H. Williams, who has been stationed here to carry on the work necessary in this vicinity. While he was here, Mr. Williams' work was praised by various citizens.

Friday evening Dr. Steelman addressed a small crowd of Union representatives in Judge Miller's courtroom. He left Chattanooga Friday evening for Birmingham.

Home Plate Injunction Is Kicked Out!

Chancellor Foust Says Cooks and Waiters Can Picket Non-Union Cafe

Chancellor Lon Foust this week handed down an opinion on the temporary injunction granted by Judge Yarnell against the Cooks and Waiters union from picketing the Home Plate restaurant.

Chancellor Foust ruled that the injunction be dissolved. The Home Plate has thirty days in which to appeal the decision.

The Cooks and Waiters had been picketing the Home Plate with a banner saying the restaurant is "non-union." The Home Plate went before Judge Yarnell with a plea to enjoining the picketing.

No one can expect the friendship of God who would persecute any of His children for any cause.—Gene Tunney.

"NOT INTERESTED IN ORGANIZED LABOR" SAYS CHARLIE FRANKLIN, RESTAURANT OWNER, AND PICKETS ARE NOW WALKING

That little restaurant at 404 Market street, right in the middle of all those street car men, good union men, too, is being picketed today. The name of the place is Charlie Franklins restaurant, and the proprietor told representatives of Central Body and the Cooks and Waiters union that he "did not give a damn what union labor thought and whether they traded with him or not."

It is not likely that union labor and its friends will rush in now. The cooks and waiters are trying hard to establish better working conditions and better wage scales. Until places like Charlie Franklin outfits are operating it will be a hard job.

But, Mr. Franklin might find the patronage of organized labor most vital in the next few days.

And Central Body has declared him "unfair to organized labor."

Our county attorney, Tom Myers, does not know his stuff, according to County School Superintendent Marshal Clark. Although Mr. Myers has handed down an official opinion to the county school board that it is legal for the county agency (the school board) to sign a closed shop agreement with the School Bus Drivers Union, Mr. Clark, according to information, has handed down another learned opinion that Lawyer Myers is all wet and it cannot be done.

Attorney Meyers, however, is being paid money by the taxpayers to give legal advice on matters affecting the county. Schoolmaster Clark, we have believed, is supposed to administer the school system according to policies given him by the school board.

The county court has advised the school board to sign such an agreement. The school board, while not bound to obey orders from the court, certainly receives from the court the money to operate

Next Tuesday night is meeting night again, so don't anybody forget to be there. Wish every one would come to the meeting and pay their assessment as it would save me a lot of trouble and worry. Some of the members don't seem to understand why there was an assessment. If you will take a walk down Market street between 11:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. or 5:30 p. m. and 8 p. m., you will find we have a picket walking up and down the street in front of Charlie's Place and we intend taking such action on a lot more places. This is only the beginning as we have entered into a membership drive and are trying not only to help ourselves but others, we feel sure you will be willing to help sponsor it, as in so doing you are helping yourself in bettering your working conditions and others.

Wednesday morning it got quite cool before I could get away from in front of this non-union restaurant and when I got to the office I was feeling quite all in. The reason was I started picketing at 4:30 a. m., which I must say, was rather early for me to get out, but when I did finally get to the office I heard some news that perked me right up again. Received information that the injunction suit which has been pending against our local union by the Home Plate Lunch that the contents had been watered down in our favor. This is what we have been waiting on, so now let's get to work and see what can be done.

The Rath-kellar is trying to outshine most of us; they have really gone to town painting and redecorating.

Miss Agnes Rippeto of Milland's Cafe is on her vacation this week, hope you have a good time Agnes and hurry back to work, we miss you.

Kermit Styles is back on the job again after a few days' vacation.

Some of the restaurant operators don't seem to understand why we are putting on the organizing campaign in our local union, as I have been called several times about the ways and means that we are using in carrying on this campaign. We guess that the operators haven't stopped to realize that if all the restaurant employes were working under union wages and conditions that competition would be more fair, and that the union operator that is paying the union wage scale would not have to contend with his next door competitor who is paying his help about half as much as he is, and has his bill-of-fare cut to about half.

Notes From Candy Workers

(By J. P. Hughes)

I have been reading notes in our paper from the Bakers, Papermakers and so on, but I have not seen anything from the "sweet" crowd that makes the candy. We are still at the same old stand, making good candy, packing it better and selling that same good stuff, but lower. The wage increase stopped a few cents somewhere lower called us.

We have lost a number of our members. I guess the last who left us was the wife of A. F. of L. organizer, who is on the job to give a lesson or two.

Not much news on "the league," except Ralph Bird is still on the unqualified list, according to President Morton. Ralph's father, E. O. Many Corporations Can Boost Wages But Won't, Says A. F. of L. Urging Biggest Possible Pay Hikes Now

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—Strong recommendation for wage increases now—a recommendation that was almost ignored by the daily press—featured the American Federation of Labor current monthly survey of business.

The press headlined the Federation's suggestion for a ten billion increase in national income this year by a 6 per cent wage raise, but passed over the recommendation for speedy wage increases and also the Federation's blunt charge that corporate wealth is not doing what it can to increase workers' pay.

Citing an increase of more than 5 per cent in workers' income over January of last year, the Federation said that workers should be able to buy present stocks of goods and create new orders. But it added the following warning and recommendation:

"Nevertheless, workers' wages are not increasing enough to bring about industrial expansion. Many corporations are not giving the wage increases they can afford. The following comparison suggests serious unbalance:

"In 1939, as compared to 1938, industrial production increased 22 per cent, workers' hourly earnings increased 1 per cent, profits of 300 industrial corporations increased 59 per cent.

"It is important this spring for all business firms to grant the largest wage increase possible."

The Federation said a 6 per cent increase in wages would create 2,700,000 jobs for idle workers and make possible the $10,000,000,000 increase in national income suggested as a goal for 1940.

Agreement Is Suggested

"Labor suggests," the survey said, "that an agreement to increase production by the necessary amounts could be made by persons authorized to represent workers, business executives and consumers in the industries concerned. Such an agreement would have to safeguard against price increases and establish measures to secure compliance."

The Federation made clear that it believed the program should be aimed chiefly at increasing the production and consumption of consumer goods.

It declared that 93 per cent of all families and single persons have a yearly income of less than $3,000, yet buy 73 per cent of all the consumer goods sold on the American market.

Buying Power Increase Vital

"Clearly, then, any effort to increase the national income must lay first emphasis on raising workers' buying power if it is to restore business health," it said.

The 6 per cent wage increase would mean an average annual income of $1,382, the Federation siad.

In 1939, it added, the national income amounted to $70,000,000,000 with 10,000,000 workers idle and industry turning out only 50 per cent of the goods and services it was capable of producing.

Effect of Program

An industrial expansion in 1940 which would boost the national income to $80,000,000,000, the Federation declared, would mean an increase of 10 per cent in food sales; 12 per cent in housing, furniture and utilities, 15 per cent in clothing, 20 per cent in automobiles and 20 per cent in other consumer lines.

"There would be no difficulty in selling the products," the survey added, "provided that rising production created sufficient jobs, and also that workers actually received the wage increases that rising production made possible."

Relief Cases Show Slight Decrease

Washington. — Telegraphis reports from thirty-five states and the District of Columbia for 109 urban areas show a decrease of 1 per cent in the number of cases receiving general relief from public funds, and a decrease of 3 per cent in the amount of obligations incurred from January to February, 1940, according to figures made public by the social security board.

Decreases in the number of cases reported for forty-five of these 109 areas ranged from 1 per cent to as much as 42 per cent. Decreases of more than 10 per cent were reported for twelve areas. Increase in the number of cases reported for fifty-seven areas ranged from less than 1 per cent to as much as 138 per cent.

New York Labor Department Reports Progress in Guarding Health of Workers in Dangerous Trades

Albany, N. Y.—The health of nearly 300,000 workers in dangerous trades in New York is safer today than it was three and one-half years ago as a result of medical and chemical surveys and engineering control measures by industrial hygienists in the State Department of Labor, Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller said in a progress report to the legislature on the use of a five-year grant of $5,000 annually to study and control silicosis and other occupational diseases.

"Three and one-half years of experience," Commissioner Miller said, "have taught us, if not how to cure silicosis, at least much about how to prevent it through dust control measures. To be effective these must be continuously and persistently applied."

New Codes Developed

Nearly 60,000 medical examinations, chemical analyses and engineering determinations have been made by industrial hygiene doctors, chemists and engineers since July 1, 1936, when the funds became available. Four new industrial codes have been developed to curb silicosis hazards in rock drilling, foundries, stonecutting and stonecrushing. The first code for rock drilling is already in effect and the others are nearing promulgation.

"We have learned something about how to control other dust diseases," Miss Miller continued, "but we have only scratched the surface in detecting and controlling other occupational hazards — hazards generated with the speed of invention, with the same 'mass market' as technological change itself. The development of new industries, in their wake a train of new poisons and new uses for old ones." new chemicals, new processes, bring

Pioneer Work Done

Employers and medical authorities do not recognize the source of much of this industrial poisoning, the report states, and are turning more and more to the Industrial Hygiene Division of the State Labor Department, which has become a nationwide pioneer in the detection and control of such occupational diseases.

Miss Miller compared the work of industrial hygienists to the Red Cross in time of disaster in that they "may go anywhere, certain of the welcome—usually at the invitation—of employers and workers alike. Workers profit from good health and steady work. Employers profit from holding down compensation and turnover costs."

the school system, and in turn the taxpayers of the county give that money to the county.

Yet, Schoolmaster Clark has set aside Attorney Myers' opinion and gave him a flunking grade. Of course, Mr. Clark is not unwilling to have a union agreement. Perish the thought! He just KNOWS that it is not legal because, as he says, it HAS NOT BEEN DONE BEFORE.

Although it HAS been done in county governments before, we might suggest that Mr. Clark has never been a school superintendent before, and for that reason he should never have been made one.

Possibly after all a county attorney is just for alibi purposes. Had Mr. Myers said that such a contract is not legal, Superintendent Clark would have regretted with us that his dearest friends had to be turned down, but that old mean attorney said that a contract was legal, and you know, we pay him to give us legal opinions."

But Mr. Myers gave an answer according to law and not according to what Superintendent Clark wanted to hear. Therefore Mr. Clark must make a quick change in costume and become a superior court over Mr. Myers.

It appears that the "rebel" squires made a mistake when they "cleaned house" as they put it. They should have put schoolteacher in the county attorney's office.

And maybe Charlie McCarthy would have filled the bill in Mr. Clark's place.

Dr. Steelman's Talk Was Good For This Community

Dr. John R. Steelman, director of conciliation in the Department of Labor, delivered an address last Friday that should accomplish much good for this community. The occasion was a luncheon sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Civitan Club. Rubbing elbows were industrialists and labor men. That fact in itself shows the co-operative spirit being shown in this community. We cannot picture such a luncheon being possible fifteen or twenty years ago.

Conciliation cannot be forced. You cannot make people be "good." Lasting peace is that which is negotiated, not jammed down throats. Therefore, Dr. Steelman's assertion that collective bargaining is here to stay, if believed by our industrialists and accepted in all honesty, there should be no further disturbance in Chattanooga.

The only thing that Dr. Steelman said that we do not accept is his statement that such negotiations should be made in the light of a "bargain." To drive a "bargain" indicates that somebody has put something over in a fast deal. Negotiating wages and working conditions is not like trading a horse. Fairness and equity do not always enter into a "bargain."

However, we are inclined to believe he meant bargaining in the sense of meeting together with a view of arriving at a just agreement, in which logic and common sense prevails, in which neither side takes advantage of the other.

He offered another good suggestion to employers when he referred to "leadership" in labor. He pointed out that the labor movement has grown by the millions during the last few years. It is obvious that these millions of common, ordinary run-of-the-mine working men is composed of a small percentage of outstanding men with a flare for leadership. Had there been a preponderance of self-asserting leadership in those millions, organization would have come sooner. He pointed out that it takes time for working men to become developed in the art of negotiating with employers in the best manner. If, on the other hand, employers fight organization and keep these newly organized workers busy fighting for the right to organize and to remain organized, the unions have no time to develop leadership to peace.

Therefore he advises employers to be large enough to give their newly organized employers a breathing spell to develop leaders. It will pay big dividends in years to come in the form of industrial peace. There is an art to negotiating sound agreements.

We believe that Chattanooga industrialists are about to enter a new phase of relationship with labor. We believe that most of them will follow Dr. Steelman's suggestion and we believe that organized labor will meet them more than half way.

It Is an Outrage

Pine Breeze is just about the best institution in this city and county. It is doing more good per square foot, per dollar and per anything else that we spend our money for. They have a ward of twenty beds that is closed. Dying people could be saved if they could get into those beds and be treated. Why is this?

There is a small matter of $8,000 that it takes to operate this ward.

And why is the $8,000 lacking? The city does not have the money to give to Pine Breeze.

But wait a moment! We see in the paper that the city has just donated to the tune of some $17,000 for a nice, new, shiny stadium in which our students play football. Now that is a crying need. We need football stadiums. In fact, don't see how we have operated thus far without one.

Hold again! A few weeks or months ago, the city put out many thousands of dollars to buy some nice, new, classy uniforms for our high school band. Boy, Oh Boy, won't they look swell going down the street with those uniforms.

The coffins containing the dead bodies of people who could have been saved at Pine Breeze will be taken down the back streets and buried. The band will play right down the middle of Market street on out to the stadium and won't we all feel proud of ourselves?

"Labor Leadership" a Prodigy

We often hear the term "labor leader," which is supposed to designate a person selected by his fellow workers to represent them before the public and with employers. The term itself is obnoxious to the person designated, but like other terms used constantly, it has to be recognized.

The "labor leader" is a prodigy in itself. It is a wonder there is such a thing. Leaders in business, professions and arts start out at the beginning to become a foremost person in a chosen calling. A leader in engineering as a youngster determines to be an engineer. He goes to school and studies engineering. He goes to colleges for many years and then sets himself up after careful and deliberate preparation as a "leader."

Not so with a "labor leader." He just happens. No existing leader today started out years ago to be a leader. He had to make a living for his family. He secured a job in a plant. He worked every day on that job and took his money home to his family. The day came when certain complaints had to be presented to the plant superintendent or manager, who probably were college graduates themselves. The workers designated one of their fellow workers to carry the case higher up, and he laid down his tools, washed some of the dirt off his hands and went to the "front office."

Sometimes, using terrible grammar, knowing nothing of business indices, met by polished graduates and highly skilled attorneys, the bravery of the future "labor leader" seems marvelous.

After many years of being buffeted about, the representative learns by experience. It has been a bitter price to pay, but he has not become embittered. He fights on and on and on. He studies labor laws. He has laws introduced in legislative assemblies to help the worker. He grows under adversity. In other words, he becomes known as a "labor leader."

And then he receives the vituperation of industrialists as some sort of leech, living off the sweat and blood of working men. He is called a "per capita tax eater." He is pictured riding in block-long automobiles, smoking fifty-cent cigars. Frequently the very people who pushed him in the front rank when the firing was hot criticize him out of jealousy.

Verily, the labor leader is a prodigy. He is one of those things that could not happen, but did. A college graduate had his pathway mapped out carefully and precisely. But the labor leader met his problems as they came up before him, or even behind him.

We suggest a more understanding sympathy for this person.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

It is time to look into the old crystal and see what the past, present and future have in store for us.

I see a good year ahead for C. L. U., with V. W. Hallmark at its head, and with the able support of fellow officers and members we should go places.

I see the Cooks and Waiters have a year of hard work before them, but if all labor would support them they will come out on top.

I see a certain local that wanted to help the Papermakers find Moses, has gone back to sleep.

I see in the crystal something awful. People seem to have a far-away look. Don't have any ambition. Have to drive themselves to do anything. Doctors are helpless. They say it will have to wear out by itself. The warmer the weather the worse it will get. The only thing that might help will be plenty of outdoors, with plenty of fishing, boating, golf, or a long trip in the car.

Taking another peep in the crystal I see the Papermakers' ball club trying to win a ball game. With Skunk and Fat Travis and Dumas McGhee doing their bit, I don't see why we couldn't win.

Shorty Johnson said he would like to see Buck Lawson and Shorty Lamon raise a beard. Said he would know them if they ate eggs.

The farmer division, with George Durkin at its hea.., . . will make the crops.

Anyone having any old golf balls or clubs, contact Bill Leydorf.

Ed Vandergrief said he would be at old man McKessick's place to fish this summer.

Old Man Ike told him he had all the dogfish in the creek educated so that when any fish came they would bark.

Lord Plushbottom is good as new now. The arm is well and so is his head.

Brother Lew Hostetter is the only one reported sick, I understand. He is at Newell Sanatorium.

Saturday night is meeting night. Like to see a large attendance. Will be seeing you.

DEPRESSED AREAS NEED SUBSIDIZED HOSPITALS

Washington, D. C.—The dire need of low-income groups in many sections for hospitalization was emphasized by Senator Wagner of New York and Senator George of Georgia in a statement before a Senate Education and Labor subcommittee favoring their proposed hospital program involving Federal expenditures of $10,000,000 in its first year.

Asserting they expect the program to "pay for itself many times over in improved national health," the Senators estimated there is need for 360,000 additional hospital beds chiefly in rural and economically depressed areas. They stated no hospital facilities are available in 40 per cent of the counties, where 17,000,000 persons reside.

The tirade closes with an unfair characterization of the person discussed and ends with the remark: "That's just like a——," whatever the nationality, or the religion, or the position of the person may be. And thereby a whole race, or form of religion, or movement is damned. It may seem like an unimportant matter to the parent, but the child seated next to father or mother listens in wonder and amazement, and, having absolute confidence in its parent, it believes everything that was said must be true.

Thus the seed of hatred is planted. It grows in the child's mind and becomes a festering, corrosive sore which affects all its thinking, distorting all its judgments. The result is that more harm has been done to the child than to the person or persons who were thoughtlessly, ignorantly, or spitefully misrepresented or slandered.

Need it be said that parents should not encourage—especially in their own homes—that which is unnatural in children, and which is one of the greatest blights on mankind today? In these times when hatred is so rampant, causing untold suffering to individuals and to nations, the parents of American children can render no greater service in building up the spirit of brotherhood and democracy throughout the world than by showing their children how hatred is responsible for the great tragedies of today, as well as being the greatest menace to the world of tomorrow.

Bakers' Scraps

While an Irishman was gazing in the window of a bookstore the following sign caught his eye:

DICKENS' WORKS
ALL THIS WEEK FOR
ONLY $4.00

"The divvle he does!" he exclaimed in disgust. "The union should have him picketed."

MRS. GENEVA WILSON
Address Secretary

Mrs. Geneva Wilson has been a member of Bakers Local Union No. 25 four years this next July. Mrs. Wilson has been very active in the local serving as address secretary for two years and on numerous committees. She is employed at the Carter Candy Company, where she has been working for almost five years. Mrs. Wilson's hobbies are music and movies. Born near Ooltewah, formerly Geneva Smith. Brother Frank Wilson active member of our local is her husband. Her brother, Merle Smith, is also a member of our local and both Brother Wilson and Brother Smith are employed at the Colonial Bakery. Mrs. Wilson is an active member of the Second Cumberland Presbyterian Church at East Lake of which she is assistant pianist.

Brother Garland Tyrell, whom we reported last week in our column as being sick, underwent an operation at the Park View hospital this past week. Brother Tyrell is reported as getting along nicely. We missed Brother Tyrell at our meeting last Saturday.

Bakers' local wishes to express their sincere sympathy to Brother Leck Denton in the recent death of his brother.

Sorry to report Brother Thomas Lovell is on our sick list this week. Hope to hear that Brother Lovell will be well again soon and back on the job.

We have successfully renewed the contract for the ensuing year with wage increases and better working conditions at the Erskine Bakery, Mercer Pie Company and Hooper Pie Company. One of the clauses that we have in these contracts reads: Bakers Local 25 and its membership agrees to co-operate wholeheartedly with the employer to mutual benefit and advantages, in establishing and enhancing public good-will, and promoting the business of the company. In order for us to be able to carry out the contract on our part we must have the help of every unionist in keeping out the non-union cakes and pies made in and out of the city. Remember, when buying cakes and pies not to purchase any of the following non-union products: Dortch, Hostess, Effies Pies, Virginia Dare, Wards, Holsom, Jack's Cookies, Travis Pies, Frank's Cookies, Malbra and Alton Park Cakes and Pies. One hundred per cent union-made cakes and pies are Erskine's, Mercer's, Hoopers', Stone's and Grennan.

Glad to announce two new members in our Tracy City local. They are Elizabeth O'Dear and Theodore Shadrick.

50,000 Women and Minors to Benefit From Minimum Wage Order in New York Restaurant Industry

New York City — (ILNS) — The unanimous report of the Restaurant Minimum Wage Board recommending basic hourly rates of 20 cents for table waitresses and 30 cents for all otherworkers in restaurants in New York state has been approved by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. "When the directory minimum wage order goes into effect June 3, 1940, 50,000 women and minors will be added to the 53,600 workers in four other industries already receiving the benefits of the minimum wage law," Miss Miller said.

No Deductions Permitted

These minimum cash wages of 20 cents an hour for service workers and 30 cents for non-service employes will not be uniform throughout the state for 21 months after the order goes into effect. It was explained that employers outside New York City need that long to make necessary adjustments of present wage levels. In addition to the cash wage women and minors will get adequate meals and uniforms. If meal are not provided, employers must pay an additional 6 cents per hour. Tips are not included in the cash wage and no deductions of any kind are permitted.

"While these rates seem low, it is significant that a majority of the women and minors will have their wages raised considerably when the order is promulgated," Miss Miller explained.

Law "Sound Economically"

"It has been demonstrated under our other four orders—in laundries, beauty shop, confectionery and cleaning and dyeing plants—that wages go up all along the line when the minimum is raised.

"With every order there is more and more realization that our minimum wage law is sound economically. When workers have more to spend the communities in which they live are better off and certainly employers who wish to maintain good standards, and they are in the majority, are better off too because they no longer have to compete with the man who charges less because he pays less."

A study of working conditions in the hotel industry has been completed and a wage board will be convened shortly to recommend minimum wage rates for women and minors in this sister industry of the restaurants, the commissioner said.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

DO YOU KNOW? . . .

You can remove fingermarks from wall paper by rubbing the marks with a gum eraser or with soft bread. Watch for signs of these marks and remove immediately. For grease stains, try covering them with talcum powder or calcimagnesia. Rub off with a clean brush after a day or so.

* * *

For best results when painting, the temperature of the paint and the temperature of the surface to be painted should be approximately the same. If warm paint is applied to a cold surface the paint will run, or streak, whereas if cold paint is spread on a warm surface it may expand in volume.

* * *

Lightly waxed woodwork cuts down cleaning. Rub spots that are around doorknobs and windows with a thin coat of floor wax. This forms a protective coating, making it easy to wipe off finger marks.

Baby Talk

If you would give yourself peace of mind, supply your 5-year-old with necessary outlets for his growing strength and allow him as much independence as is compatible with his safety. In addition to providing him with such outdoor toys as roller skates and scooters, give him a variety of occupations indoors. You will find this better than clamping the lid down on his many-sided nature.

Give him materials for creative work like a few simple but good tools, nails and pieces of lumber, preferably soft wood; clay and a bread board to model on; big wax crayons and large sheets of paper as well as small pencils; paints and big sheets of drawing paper and even a blackboard; scissors, gum; but blunt ones and colored paper. Add a costume or an old hat and coat to wear and dress up a few peaceful moments for yourself.

Here's to Glamor

For those of you who would be beautiful, Dale Carnegie in his book "How to Win Friends and Influence People" gives the following recipe for beauty:

Regular habits of elimination:

Plenty of sleep — to keep your skin aglow and alive. Insufficient sleep will make the eyes dull and the skin dry and sallow.

A daily bath and fresh underthings.

Outdoor exercise and fresh air—to keep color in the cheeks.

A diet of plenty of fresh green vegetables, fruits and milk for health and vitality.

Daily calisthenics to keep the figure smooth and youthful.

Six to eight glasses of water daily to flush the system and keep the skin from becoming dry.

Brush the hair and thoroughly clean the skin.

Dramatize Your Eyes: Makeup for eyes is pretty essential these days of bizarre fashions and vivid colors. Much care should be taken though to make sure your purchase is harmless makeup. There are a number of safe brands of lash coloring and brow pencils, and beautiful curling lashes may be effected by the use of a lash curler. Use eye shadow only in the evening, and select eye shadow according to your own coloring:

Light blue for blue eyes; dark blue for gray-blue eyes; violet for hazel, brown or dark eyes of any shade; gray for light brown or green eyes; brown shadow for deep gray eyes.

Mascara should be brushed on with a slightly dampened brush on the back of the lashes first. Allow to dry and then apply a fresh bit to the tips of your lashes in front. Don't use on the lower lash. Try an imperceptible line drawn with a brow pencil along the roots of lower lashes.

Allow your eyebrows to keep their natural arch and thickness, pluck only the stragglers. Brush your brows to keep them glossy and smooth.

Complete little makeup kits may now be purchased, and they are as necessary as your manicure kit. Try one.

Vote in Big Dressmakers Union Hailed As Smashing Repudiation of Reds, Approval of ILGWU Labor Unity Policy

New York City.—Dressmakers' Local 29, second largest single unit in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, has given unmistakable evidence of its lack of sympathy with John L. Lewis' stand on unity in the labor movement and of its opposition to Communists and Communism.

Count of the recent vote, at which more than 18,000 ballots were cast, shows a smashing repudiation of the "rank and file" slate vociferously supported by the Communists and their official organ, the Daily Worker. The winning candidates ran on the Progressive ticket.

Sascha Zimmerman, manager of the local, was re-elected by 10,367 to 2,106. Although no candidate running was in opposition to Zimmerman, the Communists agitated during the election campaign for "no" votes against him. The Progressives elected all the 29 members to the convention of the I. L. G. W. U. called to convene here in May and the 31 business agents of the local. Isadore Weisberg, spokesman of the Communist-backed slate, polled 4,583 votes for delegate to the convention.

Result Seen "Stalinist Defeat"

The results of the election mark the end of the "united front" that functioned in the local before the contest.

"The results of the election mark the defeat of Stalinist intrigues in our union," Zimmerman announced after the final count was completed.

Stand for Labor Peace w

"We also regard the vote as approval of the attitude taken by the International Ladies' Garment Workers on the question of the conflict between the A. F. of L. and CIO and restoration of unity in the labor movement," Zimmerman said. "The I. L. G. W. U. continues to stand for peace in organized labor. The CIO and its leader, John L. Lewis, have shown they don't want peace. The results of the Local 22 elections strengthen the hand of the international in its intention to reaffiliate with the A. F. of L. if Mr. Lewis continues his present line of making a joke of the serious schism in organized labor."

Zimmerman said that the election in Local 22 was a climax to the rout of Communists in recent elections in several other I. L. G. W. U. unions, Locals 9, 177, 35 and 38, with a total membership of more than 30,000. In all these locals, he said, the Communists succeeded in electing only one business agent and one delegate to the I. L. G. W. U. convention.

Union Unity Policy Vindicated

Zimmerman added that among other factors responsible for the defeat of the Stalinists were resentment of the membership against the Stalin-Hitler pact and the "easy way in which the Communists have dropped their former popular front policy for the new policy of promoting factionalism."

Nomination of the union membership to "Our victory reflects the determiconcern itself first and foremost with the immediate interests of the union. The union members have demonstrated that they understand fully the objective of the Stalinists, which is to divert their interest and attention from union affairs to communist politics."

For want of something better that's just to give you an idea of how Mr. American Truck Driver is employed in other parts of the country. On looking down the list you will notice a New York City local, chartered as Chicken Drivers. Let's hope Tom Burgess doesn't see that and want to start a Chicken Drivers local in Chattanooga. Every time you see him he has one or more chickens in his car—and they are not the kind with feathers either.

Nominations are now in order for "liar of the week." The first brass loving cup goes to Gordon Richard Slatton who tells how, at the tender age of 10 years, he killed a full grown wildcat on Waldens Ridge near Montlake, with a bow and arrow made from pieces of an old umbrella. Slatton sticks to his story and everybody who has heard it sticks to the opinion that somebody's house cat strayed a little too far from home that day.

Hand in your tall tales for "Liar of the Week."

Out of 400 members, none of whom are any too respectful of the truth, we should get some real whoppers.

TEACHER TALK

Twenty-seven applications for membership of reinstatement were approved by the board of delegates Wednesday evening. Don't let anybody tell you the Teachers' union isn't growing.

* * *

As many as possible of these applicants will be present at the Saturday morning meeting of the membership to take the obligation. That's another good reason for eating a hearty breakfast and coming on down to Dickinson at 10 o'clock.

Other reasons are the election of officers and delegates to affiliated bodies and discussion of union policies on matters that concern us all greatly. Don't miss this very important meeting.

Thursday evening marks the beginning of our activities program, with the badminton group meeting for organization. Ralph "Ollie" Olinger is to be the coach, and the group is getting off to a fine start.

Other sections will be under way soon. Get in on this new union project. Some will be for amusement only, some for exercise, some for learning, but all will be fun.

Delegates: Don't forget the special called meeting of the board at 9:45 Saturday morning, first room to left past main entrance at Dickinson.

"The character of Cordell Hull passed this bill," was the comment of Congressman Paul Brown of Georgia, upon final passage of the reciprocal trade agreements bill in the Senate on Friday.

What good would come from gearing our plants for the production of old model planes? The best defense against a plane is another plane of equal or superior quality.

The controversy appeared to be reaching national campaign magnitude when Congressman Andrew J. May, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee of the House stepped into the picture. To clarify the situation he called for an investigation. The Military Affairs Committee, under his guidance, went to the heart of the problem—received testimony from Secretary of War Woodring, and other high army officials, and forthwith made its report. CHARLEY FRANKLIN ASKS FOR INJUNCTION AGAINST THOSE MEAN PICKETS

Charley Franklin's restaurant on Market street near Fourth seems to be overcrowded with empty space these days, since the Cooks and Waiters have been picketing him as a nonunion cafe. An occational nonunion taxi driver drops in and becomes busily engaged in sipping a 5-cent cup of coffee, just for the looks of things.

At first the management thought it a joke, this picketing, by persuading some person appearing to be a white man all blacked up, bearing a sign saying "Just Married," and on the rear end declaring that Charley's employes are "satisfied."

Now the independent restaurateur who said that he did not give a (you know what' about organized labor's patronage, has asked the courts to grant an injunction that would run the picket away. Hearing on this strange request is slated to be heard this Friday.

And Attorney H. G. B. King will defend the union.

NOTICE TO SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS

There will be a special meeting of the School Bus Drivers union on Saturday, April 20, at the courthouse. Time of meeting will be 1 p. m. All members are urged to attend.

Tom Turner Is Back on Job

Tom Turner, well-liked tonsorial artist, secretary of Barbers Local 415, and an old-time trades-unionist, is back at his chair at the Smokehouse, Sixth and Cherry streets.

Brother Turner has been out for several weeks due to a serious injury to his eye, which had to be removed. He is apparently much better and is serving his customers as usual.

A. F. of L. Winner In Long Battle With NLRB

Washington.—A long fight by the American Federation of Labor was won by decision of the national labor relations board in a case affecting collective bargaining representation of about 3,000 Consumers Power company employes in Michigan.

The board vacated a 15-month-old order directing a run-off election in which only the CIO's utility workers organizing committee would have been on the ballot for a yes or no vote, and ordered a hearing preparatory to a new election in which the A. F. of L.'s International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers also will be on the ballot.

The decision, by Chairman J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith, was contrary to the previous stand of the board, which fought successfully in the courts to prevent the A. F of L. from taking part in a consumers' power election. The supreme court earlier this year dismissed an A. F. of L. injunction restraining the board from proceeding with an election in which the CIO would have been the only union on the ballot. The CIO union received a plurality, but not a majority, of the votes in the original Consumers' Power company poll, where workers had the choice of CIO, A. F. of L. or no representation.

FHA Program Widespread

Washington, D. C.—The FHA home ownership program was employed last year by families in nine out of every ten counties in the United States, Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald announced here. Home mortgages were insured by the FHA during 1939 in 2,798 out of the 3,098 counties in the continental United States, McDonald said.

Teachers Elect Entire Slate Of Officers

Local 246, Teachers union, elected an entire slate of officers to serve for one year, heading the list by naming Willard Millsaps for president for his second term.

Others elected follow:

First vice president, Miss Margaret O'Grady.

Second vice president, Mrs. Eunice Parisi.

Recording secretary, Mrs. Margaret Locker.

Financial secretary, Miss Archie Ruth Brown.

Treasurer, Arlie Hoodenpyl.

Sergeant-at-arms, Tom Bell.

The union will send five delegates to Buffalo to attend the convention of the American Federation of Teachers, and they will be Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Smith, President Willard Millsaps, Steger Hunt, C. C. Burgner and Miss Virginia Munsey.

Willard Millsaps will also represent the teachers in Memphis at the Tennessee federation convention next June.

"KICK-BACKS" BANNED UNDER WAGE-HOUR LAW

Washington, D. C.—The Wage and Hour Division of the United States Department of Labor has called a halt on employers who resort to "kick-back" devices to deprive employes of the 30-cents-an-hour minimum wage guaranteed by the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Declaring that the "kick-back" schemes were illegal evasions of the act, George A. McNulty, wage-hour general counsel, revealed that some employers advanced to new employes the difference between what they were able to earn and the 30-cent minimum prescribed by the statute and deducted the advances when the employes were capable of earning more than 30 cents.

Meany Cites Facts to Show Outcry Against 'Craft Unit, Provision In Norton Bill Is 'Ridiculous'

Washington. — Provision in the Norton bill, amending the national labor relations act, to permit workers of a particular trade to decide themselves whether they want a craft or industrial union, was vigorously championed by Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, of the American Federation of Labor, in a letter to Representative Mary Norton.

The letter replied to recent criticism of the proposal by President John L. Lewis, of the CIO, and cited facts which Meany said made the opposition to the amendment "appear ridiculous."

Writing to Mrs. Norton in her capacity as chairman of the house labor committee, Meany said:

The purpose of the national labor relations act is to give workers a free choice in the selection of their collective bargaining representatives.

Mrs. Norton Commended.

May I, therefore, commend you for including in your bill, amending the act, the amendment to Sec. 9B which gives workers the right in each case to decide for themselves whether they want a craft or industrial union.

Already, we hear shrill outcries to the effect that this provision will "carve up" industrial unions and it is reported in the press that certain members of your committee intend to file a minority report alleging this provision will cause "industrial discord."

Lest these objections by taken too seriously, let me cite the record and the facts.

Based on New York Act.

This particular provision in your bill is taken word for word from the New York state labor relations act. When that act was passed by the New York legislature in 1937, Sidney Hillman, vice-president of the CIO, objected strenuously to the provision which gave workers the right to decide whether they wanted a craft or an industrial union. He charged it would bring "not industrial peace but industrial discord." He declared "it means that no employer can sign an agreement with a union with any certainty that some craft unions may not kick over the traces." Nevertheless, the bill, including this provision, was adopted and became the law of New York state.

Since then almost three years have passed. The New York state labor relations board has disposed of 4,760 cases up to April 1, 1940. The record shows that in not a single one of those cases has the CIO protested against the operation of the so-called "craft unit" provision. The record further shows that there has not been one single contest of this particular provision of the New York State act either before the board or in the courts during this period of time.

Finally, the record shows that although the legislature has met at least once each year since 1937, no one has ever attempted to amend or alter this provision.

The CIO and its sympathizers can shout from the housetops but they cannot change the facts. And these facts make their opposition to your amendment appear ridiculous.

It is not the proper function of the labor board to impose the union of its choice on the workers. As I said in my opening sentence, the purpose of the act is to give workers the right to choose their union for themselves. Your amendment will effectuate this fundamental objective. The American Federation of Labor, therefore, gives its wholehearted support.

Cloakmakers' Unions to Lead Fight For Reaffiliation With the A. F. of L. At ILGWU Convention Next Month

New York City.—The movement within the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union for reaffirmation with the American Federation of Labor gained force with announcements by officials of cloakmakers' locals indicating that they will lead a fight for reaffiliation at the forthcoming convention of the ILGWU.

Statements of the officials were taken as indication that the cloakmakers will support reaffiliation resolutions at the convention, to open May 27. The cloakmakers' locals are affiliated with the New York Cloak Joint Board.

Joseph Breslaw, an international vice-president and manager of the Cloak Pressers' union, Local 35, said the delegation from his union was committed to the introduction of a motion for A. F. of L. reaffiliation.

Full Unity Favored.

"Our fight to have the American Federation of Labor recognize the principal of industrial unionism has been won," Breslaw declared. "Now we want full labor unity. We do not look with favor on our present independent status. We feel we have much to gain through re-entry into the A. F. of L., and we feel we have much to contribute."

Israel Feinberg, manager of the cloak joint board, said there was "a dominant sentiment" among the members for returning to the A. F. of L., although no formal position had yet been taken.

To Advocate Return.

Isidore Nagler, another international vice-president and secretary-manager of the cutters union, Local 10, whose 8,000 members cover all branches of the garment industry, said the policy of the international officers would be determined at an executive board meeting to be held just before the convention. He left no doubt, however, that he would advocate a return to the A. F. of L. as the most effective way to build "a solid trade-union movement."

The ILGWU was one of the unions which left the A. F. of L. to form the CIO. It has been independent since it left the Lewis organization two years ago.

Court Ruling Opens Employers' Books To Workers in Suits to Stop Pay Chiseling Under Wage-Hour Law

Philadelphia.—A worker may sue his employer in federal courts for wages due him under the Fair Labor Standards Act, Federal Judge Guy K. Bard ruled in a decision seen as a heavy blow at "wage chiseling." The decision was given in a test case brought by a union representative.

The worker also has the right to inspect the employer's books to ascertain how much was due him, the court further ruled.

Eight Girls Sue

To prevent plaintiffs in such suits from embarking on "fishing expeditions" in behalf of fellow-workers, however, the court declared that the examination of records must be limited to the plaintiffs themselves. The books may not be perused to determine whether money is owed to any other worker, it was held.

The ruling was made in a test suit filed by Morris Fishman, a representative of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, on behalf of eight girls employed by Sophie Narcouse, operator of the French Button Works in this city. The girls complained that they were underpaid and demanded the wages established for them by the wages and hours law.

Judge Bard announced that a special master would be appointed to supervise an examination of the employer's wage records as affecting only these eight girls.

Peter B. Zion, counsel for the employer, sought to have the suit thrown out of the federal court because the "jurisdictional" amount of $3,000 was not involved in the claims. Further, counsel contended, an examination of the employer's books violated her constitutional rights against "self-incrimination." Zion said that if any suit was filed the common pleas court, not the federal court, was the place for it.

Federal Law Applicable

Judge Bard held, however, that the claims were made under a federal law and that the rule against "self-incrimination" applied only to criminal cases or cases which were "civil in form but criminal in nature." He pointed out that the present suit was a civil action.

Frank J. G. Dorsey, Pennsylvania regional director for the wage and hours division, said the decision not only definitely establishes the jurisdiction of the federal court in such cases, but would "prove a most effective means for stopping wage chiseling."

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

«« Beulah Ogle, Correspondent ««

Well, another week has rolled around and have been so busy have hardly had time for a bite to eat. However, we had a good meeting against and sixteen members were initiated. There was quite a bit of discussion on different subjects, and I am sure there will be more harmony with the members than before.

Mr. V. W. Hallmark and Mr. Ed Bork, Jr., representatives from Central Labor Union, were with us and made quite an interesting talk about buying a labor temple. Personally I am heartily in favor of it.

Mr. Kamin of the moving picture operators came in a bit late and made us an interesting talk. Wish you members who left early could have stayed to hear him as he said some things you should have heard.

After the meeting we adjourned to Millard's Cafe where we were served by one of our union members who is celebrating his twelfth wedding anniversary. In case you don't know, he is no other than one of our charter members, D. R. Snell. Mrs. Snell was also present, and we learn she is operating a beauty shop at 310 Cherry street. I am sure rMs. Snell will be glad to see some of you girls when you need some work done.

We signed a new contract this week, the Broad Street Cafe, at 611 Broad street. Always look for the familiar house card when looking for something good to eat. Know Mr. Claunce will profit by his action.

We are still carrying a picket banner in front of Charlie's Place, 404 Market street. Among the ones who are constantly crossing this are barbers from E. C. Harrison's Barber Shop in the building with this non-union restaurant; Hoppe Bros., from the Hoppe shoe repair shop next door; Black and White taxi drivers, and Rainbow Cab taxi drivers. When riding in a cab be sure to call a union cab as Mr. Steil, owner of the Black and White, we believe, is sponsoring Mr. Franklyn in his trying to get an injunction against us to keep us from picketing him.

Busy Bee. Home Plate. Chattanooga Steak House, Harry's Place, S. & W., Maypole and Ellis Restaurant are non-union.

Attend meetings of your union. The union is what you make it.

Patronize only union concerns. Buy union label goods whenever possible. By helping other unions we help ourselves.

Notes From Candy Workers

(By J. P. Hughes)

Hello, everybody. How are you doing? We are still at the same old stand. We have two on our sick list: Miss Maud Cramer and Miss Myrtle Rothwell.

Mrs. Mamie Henry is off on account of the illness of her mother.

We are moving along nicely, and let us hope that business will be good for every line of business and we will have peace and good will throughout all our country in spite of wars and rumors of war, and let us hope that there will soon be peace in all the world and we will have what men are willing to realize that.

Everyone should be his brother's keeper.

So long.

Remington Rand Agrees to Withdraw Support of Company Unions, Stop War on A. F. of L. Workers

New York City.—Settlement of one phase of the four-year controversy between Remington Rand, Inc., big manufacturers of typewriters and other office equipment, and a group of American Federation of Labor unions, was announced here by Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, regional director of the national labor relations board. The controversy led to a bitter strike in 1936.

By terms of the agreement, the company will disestablish nine company unions in six plants. The company undertakes also not to discourage membership or activity in unions of the A. F. of L. or of any other labor organization. Nineteen A. F. of L. unions combined in the Remington Rand joint protective board of the district council of Office Equipment Workers are covered by the agreement, which affects 6,000 workers.

One Phase of Fight Ended.

The settlement provides also for arbitration of seven discharges, some of which date back to January, 1937. David A. Morse, formerly regional attorney for the national labor relations board, will be the arbitrator.

Vincent Scamperino, attorney for the A. F. of L. unions involved, issued the following statement:

"The stipulation of settlement reached marks the end of one phase of the labor struggle involving the A. F. of L. unions and Remington Rand, Inc.

"The stipulation provides merely for the disestablishment of company dominated unions which were an outgrowth of the 1936 strike. The company has agreed to do what the NLRB would ultimately have ordered it to do. There remain other labor controversies between the company and the A. F. of L. unions which it is hoped may be settled by amicable negotiations

A. F. of L. Ready to Negotiate

"Until other pending disputes are settled and a collective bargaining agreement is effected concerning wages, hours and working conditions, we are not ready to say that the company has changed its present labor policy.

"The A. F. of L. stands ready now to negotiate a complete settlement if the company is so disposed."

The nine company unions to be disestablished under the agreeement are in Elmira, Tonawanda, Ilion and Syracuse, N. Y.; Middletown, Conn., and Marietta, O.

"TO THE EDITOR!"

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Somebody who knows the labor world and is familiar with the development of the church once said that the average working man reads his labor paper as the early Christians read their New Testament. However, this may be, a practical advertising manager has said that as an advertising medium a labor paper is fully ten times as valuable as the ordinary daily newspaper, largely because there is no waste circulation—every copy is eagerly read.

There are several very good reasons for the high regard which workers themselves have for the labor paper. It is their own publication. It deals in a straightforward fashion with the general subjects in which they are most vitally interested. It views the world and national affairs, as well as local conditions, from the standpoint of labor. It tells about the leaders in the labor movement. It keeps them posted about the trends in their own trade. It shows what their fellow workers in other occupations are doing.

The labor paper indicates how its readers may become better workmen through the use of modern methods; it is an exponent of American democracy, leading its readers to think broadly on current issues, quickening their sense of tolerance and justice; although it deals primarily with the question of making a living—the most important problem which confronts the average worker today. And withal, it is fairer to the employer and his organization, than the bosses' trade paper usually is to the workers and their trade union.

But what about the man who makes the labor paper possible, and who is responsible for all that the paper contains—the man whose name appears at the masthead—the editor? To him we owe a debt of gratitude. He fights our battles sometimes risking all that he possesses. He expresses the will of the workers far better than they can do it themselves, becoming "the voice of the people." Often he fights the battle alone, carrying burdens which no one knows about. He doesn't tell about them in his editorial column. It's his job to keep up the courage of others, so he cannot ever lose his own.

Actually, he is a man of our own flesh and blood. He is subject to disappointments and heartaches, and he suffers because of the failures of others—just like you and I. And so I say: "Here's to the editor!" Let's tell him what he does well. Let's help him carry his burdens, just as he helps lighten our own. And let's keep from taking him for granted, as we do most of the gifts of Divine Providence.

Bakers' Scraps

Very glad to report that Bro. Thomas Lovell of Colonial Bakery has returned to work after being off sick for a couple of weeks.

I am told that the latest styles in men's clothes is women, and speaking of latest styles have you seen the latest in men's hats as styled by Ed Wilkey? Some of the boys have kidded Ed telling him that he must have been under the weather when he bought it but he tells us that he just wanted to keep in style.

By demanding labels, house and shop cards of other unions we promote respect and encourage patronage for our own labels.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Newbille spent the week end in Riceville, Tenn., with Mrs. Fannie Hunt, Mrs. Newbille's mother. You should eat some of that fried chicken that Mrs. Hunt cooks. I was up there not so long ago with Bessie and Ernest and I am looking forward to taking another trip up there in the near future with them.

We are still fighting the non-union cakes and pies that are made in and out of the city. They are: Wards, Dortch, Hostess, Holsom, Virginia Dare, Frank's Cookies, Jack's Cookies, Malbra, Alton Park cakes and pies, Amrosure cakes. One hundred per cent union-made cakes and pies are: Grennan, Erskine's, Mercer's, Hooper's, Stone's and Dolly Madison. Help your local baker by not buying any of the non-union cakes and pies.

Bro. Fred Carr of Cameron and Barr Bakery, is on his vacation this week but I didn't get to find out before Fred left where he was going.

Glad to see the article that J. P. Hughes wrote in the Labor World last week and was my face red when it said that there was never anything about the Candy Workers or the so-called "sweet" crowd. The Candy Makers happen to be members of Bakers Local 25 and I would be glad to print any news about them that I can get, so if any of the "sweet" crowd has any news drop me a card in care of Doughboy, 511 Hamilton National Bank Building.

I am reading a grand labor book entitled American Labor. I borrowed it from one of the labor leaders of our city and I am sure you can get a copy of it at the library. I recommend it for every unionist to read.

Jack Peek is vacationing in Savannah, Ga.

Garland Tyrell has left the hospital and is at home now. Glad Brother Tyrell is doing nicely.

Mrs. Alma Helton has returned to work after being off for several weeks.

I leave you this week with this final word that you be sure that the union label is on all bread, cakes and pies that you buy or that it is union made. Help your local bakers and in turn help yourself.

Old Age Pension Bill Passed.

Jackson, Miss.—A bill passed and signed provides an old age pension of $30 a month for all over 65 years of age. The law goes into effect June 1. Organized labor backed the measure.

Ice in Sixty Seconds!

AN entirely new and revolutionary development in the ice industry is the York "Cold Magic" FlakIce Machine, presented to the public at a recent New York preview of air conditioning, refrigerating, and heating equipment. This machine actually begins to make ice sixty seconds after the switch is turned on and is capable of producing 2,000 pounds daily. Visitors to the preview are shown here watching the machine in action as it turns out its unusual ice flakes—ribbon thin and slightly curved—which provide an agent for rapid cooling of food displays, iced drinks, bottled milk crates, cold food dishes, packed produce, and innumerable other applications.

Jobs Antidote for Communism

On her way from Seattle to Los Angeles, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told reporters at San Francisco that the important thing to worry about in connection with American youth, is "jobs" and "opportunities," and not their little experiments with communism and radicalism.

She said, "The thoughts of these young people are pliable. They are, if left without guidance, good material for communists. They may be molded and influenced in a manner which will ultimately be reflected in a manner injurious to our democratic form of government."

She directed attention to the fact that the communists presented "a definite program" to the young jobless folks. She continued, "If we are really interested in democracy, we will be out working for and with the youth in the same ardent way. We're the stupid ones."

She called the tactics followed by some, "practically the same as handing our youth to the communists. Where are our young people going to get help and guidance if we don't provide such things for them?"

Her belief was that 90 per cent of those who attended the Youth Congress in Washington recently were most of all interested in jobs. But if you were to ask the other 10 per cent what communism is, "they couldn't tell you for the life of them."

Sound American Sense

By Franklin E. Wolfe

Straw votes and Gallup polls have their uses. One of the latest showed that the American voter is not so dumb. When sixty propositions were put up to a large number of voters, they disregarded the mass of questions and centralized on two. The question was: "What do you think is the most important problem before the American people today?" To this 47 per cent said the most important thing was to keep the United States out of war and 24 per cent thought unemployment was the biggest issue.

This much is certain. The American man on the street hates fascism, communism, nazism and all other European isms at this hour. They would like to see Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini overboard with a ton of lead for life preservers. The whole situation is well summed up and a political platform is condensed in the line: "Keep this country out of war and solve our own greatest question—unemployment."

Half Century of Service

Fifty years is getting to be a long time, in labor union service. And that is the period which Martin Lawlor has served the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International union, as label secretary for a large part of that time.

If you have ever attended a labor union meeting, at which the sergeant-at-arms asked to see the labels in the hats of those present, you will understand the value of the label as a weapon for the hatters' union.

And so, when they gave a jubilee dinner to Martin Lawlor at New York recently, and presented a golden loving cup to him, it really stood for something in the history of the half century of labor battles which he has gone through. So full of meaning was the event, that a duplicate meeting was held in Chicago at the same hour, and telegrams were exchanged.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

While those Alton Park Refiners are beating the bullrushes, and looking for Moses, I will write up a few of the happenings of the Paper Makers.

Bro. Lew Hosteter is still on the sick list. All members who can should go to see him. He is at home now. Bro. Willard Smith is improving, and we hope to see him at work soon.

Bros. O. T. and Paul Maynard had the misfortune of losing their father last week. We extend to them our sympathy, in their bereavement.

Bro. Glen Key has been absent from work the last week. His baby is very ill.

Just found out why Buck Lawson was on the water wagon last week, and why he got home every night before the curfew blew.

Buck's father was down to see him from Berea, Ky., so Buck had to be a good boy.

Shorty Lamon said if he could win the Tum's Pot o' Gold he would start another meat market. Said he would see that Buck Lawson wouldn't bankrupt him again.

Roy Wells is seriously thinking of going into the dog business. Don't know if it is hot dogs or just dogs.

Charlie McRoy said Pudville isn't the same since Shorty Johnson moved to White Oak.

Skunk Travis said White Oak isn't the same since Shorty moved there.

Would like to know who put the bug in Herman Taylor's pipe.

Arch Douglas said this is animal week, and looking at Charles McRoy, he said he would be kind to dumb brutes.

Just heard some dirt about Si Perkins. When he was a great deal younger than he is now, his father ran a grocery store. Said Si was a scrappy youngster. He nearly broke the old gent by throwing eggs at some colored playmates. Now isn't that just like Si?

The Paper Makers had the pleasure of having President Hallmark of the C. L. U. and Bro. T. R. Cuthbert, editor of the Labor World, at their meeting last Saturday night. Brother Hallmark made an interesting talk about the advantages of belonging to the Tennessee State Federation of Labor, and wished that we would affiliate with the state federation.

Brother Cuthbert made an interesting talk on why we should patronize the firms that advertize in the Labor World, and why we should tell them the reason we patronize the firms that advertise the benefits that an organization gets from the state federation cannot be measured in dollars and cents, and to make the labor movement in Chattanooga the best in the state, it will require the assistance of every local in the city. The cost to affiliate is five dollars, and five cents per capita.

I would like to assure Brothers Hallmark and Cuthbert that Local No. 362, I. B. of P. M., is in the labor movement to see it go forward and I believe it will do its share.

After the meeting Saturday night all the engineers of the paper mill presented Bro. Ike McKissick with a beautiful loving cup. Brother Ike is the oldest engineer in service in the paper mill, and he loves to tell about his saw mill days. If you would listen to him he would tell you about those big trees he used to cut up, way down in Georgia. Brother Ike is also a member of that club where the truth isn't always sacred, and if he ever gets you cornered you just listen and take it with a grain of salt.

I guess those boys over in Alton Park have Moses located by now.

Lord Plushbottom feels that tinge of spring in the air, and can hardly wait for an opportunity to go fishing. You should hear him tell about those fish he caught in Florida.

I will be seeing you next week.

Federal Old-Age Survivors Insurance

Under the Social Security Act as Amended in 1939

Part I of a series of 8 articles based on a forthcoming pamphlet to be published by the Social Security Board.

HOW THE SYSTEM WORKS

...e federal old-age and survivors insurance program is a contributory system of social insurance. ...rovides monthly old-age insurance payments for wage-earners in ...ce and industry, and for their ...ies. The wage-earners and employers contribute equally ... fund in the United States treasury out of which insurance payments are made.

The contributions are a percentage of the worker's wage—for the present, 1 per cent paid by the worker and 1 per cent paid by the employer. This money is collected by the United States bureau of internal revenue in the form of social security taxes. Employers deduct each worker's tax from his pay, and turn it in quarterly with an equal amount of their own, and with a report which shows the worker's account number and wages, as well as his tax.

"Account" for Each Worker.

The worker's wages, as reported by his employer with his taxes, are credited to his "social security account," which is maintained by the bureau of old-age and survivors' insurance. His "social security account" is given a number, and the wage report which the employer makes for the worker is identified by this same number, to make sure that the wages are credited to the correct account.

The insured worker has a social security account number card, issued to him by the bureau of old-age and survivors insurance. The number on that card, together with his name, is the key to the identification of his wage record when he files his claim. When a claim is filed, the wages credited to that worker's account are used to compute the amount of his insurance payments.

Payments Matter of Right.

The amount of the insurance payments bears a relation to the wages earned by the worker and therefore to the tax he has paid while working in jobs covered by the law. Insurance payments are weighted, however, in favor of three classes; namely, the worker now elderly, the low-paid worker, and the worker with dependents.

Insurance payments come to the worker or his family as a matter of right because of his earnings in covered employment.

STRIKE CLOSES PLANTS.

Seattle, Wash.—A strike of union polishers and buffers closed two stove factories here and one in Everett. About 175 men were made idle, including molders and stove mounters. The strikers asked a wage increase from 90 cents an hour to $1.

Visiting Housekeepers Aid Poorly Housed In Cincinnati

Washington. — Hired by the city's Better Housing league, six visiting housekeepers are assisting Cincinnati's unemployed families, many of whom are on relief, with their housing problems, the National Association of Housing Officials report.

The job of the visiting housekeepers is to improve home management and living conditions wherever possible. They try to help families given eviction orders, and move those who are ill into better homes when they are available. They also attempt to secure condemnation or repair of uninhabitable houses through the local building department.

Families in the city's public lowrent housing projects are also being aided by the housekeepers.

Peaceful Picketing "Basic Right," Colorado Supreme Court Holds in Sweeping, Clear Cut Decision

Denver, Colo.—Peaceful picketing by labor organizations is a "basic right," the State Supreme Court ruled in a decision hailed by union leaders as one of the most significent ever handed down by the court.

Outstanding among the legal points established by the decision are:

1. Constitutionality of the state Norris-La Guardia act which forbids courts from issuing injunctions to prevent peaceful picketing is upheld.

2. The right of a labor organization to use a secondary boycott thorugh its associated members and friends is recognized as legal action.

3. A labor dispute is defined as any controversy over working conditions, hours, wages and negotiations for unionization regardless of whether the employer recognizes the existence of a dispute.

4. Outlawing the "yellow dog" contract by which an employer, prior to hiring a person, requires him to sign away his rights to join a legitimate labor organization.

The opinion, written by Justice Otto Bock, was acclaimed by labor leaders as one of the clearest, most complete and fairest to come out of any court in the land on the question of picketing.

No "Labor Dispute" Claimed

The decision grew out of the injunction against Truck Drivers' Local Union No. 13 issued by District Judge Henry A. Hicks forbidding the union from picketing the Perry Truck Lines.

Judge Hicks' order was based on the contention of the firm that no "labor dispute" existed, since the employesof the Perry lines were not on strike, but were merely seeking to unionize the employes.

"Counsel for the plaintiffs argue that there can be no labor dispute where the sole purpose of the union is to compel an employer to coerce his employes to join a labor union." Justice Bock said, "because an attempt to compel an employer to sign a closed shop contract against the will of his employes is illegal under former decisions of the court. We canno' say from this record that this was the sole purpose of the union. Many contracts exist between employer and union which relate to wage schedules and hours, but do not provide for a closed shop. Assuming, however, that this is the sole object of the agencies used by defendants herein to obtain a closed shop, is there any merit to that argument?

"Yellow Dog" Held Target

"It is generally conceded that the purpose of the state law on this subject was to outlaw what was known as the 'yellow dog' contract by which an employer, prior to hiring a person, required him to sign an instrument in which he would promise as a condition of his employment that he would not join a labor union during its continuance and that if he did he would be discharged.

"It is now contended by the plaintiffs that by the enactments of these laws a union contract for a closed shop without the consent of the employes is also outlawed.

"Such a construction of the act is entirely contrary to its legislative intent and purpose, which was to give labor collective bargaining strength unattainable by the individual worker owing to his economic dependence and helplessness. The measure was enacted to assure his full freedom of association without any coercion by the employer."

Lower Court in Error

Justice Bock declared the finding of the lower court that a contract whereby the employe promises the employer to join or remain a member of some specific labor union is illegal clearly was erroneous when applied to the evidence in this case.

"Aside from the statutory provisions which we have discussed, the legal of peaceful picketing has its basic roots in constitutional guarantees of liberty and freedom of speech," Justice Bock said.

GEORGIA LABOR MEETS MAY 1

Atlanta.—Charles B. Gramling, president, and Rufus Johnson, secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, have issued the official call for the forty-second annual convention of the organization, to be held this year in Macon, convening Wednesday, May 1.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

CONGRATULATES HALLMARK

To the Editor of
The Labor World:

I was delighted to see that the Chattanooga Central Labor Union had honored my good friend Vic Hallmark by electing him president for the new year. Vic is one of the finest and equarest men I know, and I congratulate the Central Labor Union upon its selection. Men like Vic Hallmark, and his predecessor, Curtis Sims, have and are doing much to further the cause of organized labor.

With good wishes, I am

Cordially yours,

ESTES KEFAUVER, M.C.

The War Spreads

President Roosevelt was vacationing at Hyde Park, and Secretary Hull was having a few days rest at Atlantic City, when news of the German blitzkrieg of Denmark and Norway was received. Both hurried back to Washington on Monday to consider what America should do to meet the situation arising from the spreading conflagration.

The President issued a proclamation, under the power given him by the recently enacted neutrality legislation, extending the hostility area to include all of Scandanavia and the Russian port of Murmansk. This means that no ships sailing under the Star and Stripes can enter this area, and that American citizens must come home and are prohibited from travel in that section.

The chief executive also froze Danish and Norwegian credits and deposits in this country so as to prevent their use by the third reich.

The extent of the war has been the chief matter of concern and discussion among legislators this week. Strangely, though, almost no comment has been made on the floor of the House or the Senate. The feeling of most legislators and commentators is that Herr Hitler's invasion was a colossal mistake; that the possible benefits were not worth the cost and his action is likened to Napoleon's the disastrous invasion of Spain in 1807.

The determination of all representatives is to prevent hysteria in this country and to keep America out of war.

House Busy With Important Legislation

The House was exceedingly busy this week considering important, though not spectacular legislation. Among the matters presented to the House was the bill of Judge Sumners of Texas, to set up a new tribunal other than the Senate to try proceedings to remove United States judges for bad behavior. The bill was defeated. Next week the Walter-Logan bill, giving right of judicial review to decisions of administrative agencies, will be debated. Following that will be the bill to amend the National Labor Relations Act. Also looming in the background for early consideration is the chain store bill, sponsored by Mr. Patman of Texas.

It is very helpful to have comment of constituents on these important bills. Your representative is glad to have your letters about any matters of great public concern.

Adjournment

Your representative joins with many others in hoping for early adjournment of Congress. Administration leaders say that the business of this session will be concluded by June 1 or 15. But with the possibility of even more extended trouble abroad, it is impossible at this time to predict, with any degree of certainty, when the adjournment date will come.

Rural Electrification

Almost every county in our congressional district is being served by REA lines. I desire to strongly urge all the people who are not receiving the benefits of electricity and are interested in obtaining the benefits of this great service to join with their neighbors at the earliest opportunity and take the necessary steps in the direction of obtaining it. This Congress will make additional appropriations for REA. I hope to see the day in the near future when every farm home, as well as every home in the towns and cities, is provided with this great service. As an REA customer, you will be privileges to buy electrical equipment and supplies at reasonable prices and on long terms at a very low rate of interest.

NO 700,000 SLASH IN WPA ORDERED

Washington.—Press reports that WPA had ordered areduction of approximately 700,000 in employment in the three months period beginning April 1 were denied by Col. F. C. Harrington, commissioner of work projects.

"No decision on WPA employment, beyond the authorizations for April, has been reached," the commissioner said, "and the April quotas were announced some time ago. They provide for 2,120,000 jobs. Our employment, as of March 20, was 2,311,512."

Labor Head Joins In Asking Nation To Aid Census

Washington. — William Green, Mayor La Guardia, of New York; William Allen White, noted Emporia, Kans., newspaper editor, and other leaders of American life, joined in an appeal for the co-operation of the American people in the 1940 census. In a statement made public by the department of commerce, they said:

"The United States census is the oldest and one of the greatest scientific undertakings of our government. . . . It provides impartial, factual evidence of the successes and failures of our political, social and economic policies over the years. It is a dispassionate, detailed compilation of the facts about ourselves as a nation.

"A complete, accurate census for 1940 is vital. Its compilation is difficult at best. Its totals are composites of individual inquiries, and that is the only way they can be obtained. Resistance and unnecessary delay in answering the inquiries will increase the difficulty, the cost and the time required, without any compensating advantage. This is not a partisan matter, but one of deep concern to American men and women of all partits.

"We appeal to the American people to co-operate in making this census a full and honest statement of fact, and to convince their neighbors of the advisability of similar co-operation.

Communists Stripped of All Influence In International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Dubinsky Says

New York City. — Communists and their followers have been decisively beaten in "a most impressive job of spring housecleaning" by International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, President David Dubinsky reported here.

Only eight of the 1,147 posts filled through the votes of 100,000 ILGWU members in this city had gone to communists or the "disgruntled groups that trailed behind them," stripping them of all influence in the union, the union head declared.

Dubinsky ascribed the "total eclipse of the Moscow-inspired group" in the union to the Stalin-Hitler agreement of last August and the subsequent hostility of the communist party to President Roosevelt. He said the results of the local elections in New York City had been duplicated in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland and other garment centers.

The union balloting in New York City, according to Dubinsky, resulted in the election of 200 delegates to the union's convention next month, 232 paid officials and 715 local executive board members. Out of this number, he said, the communist forces elected two convention delegates, two paid officers and four executive board members. Last year sixteen paid officials were identified with the communists, he said.

"The meaning of this overwhelming defeat is quite explicit," he declared. "The great majority of the women's garment workers never had any special love for the preachers of Stalinism, but in the past few years maintained an attitude of tolerance toward them because the communists put on an act of a 'united front' and paraded with labels of constructive unionism.

"The alliance of Moscow with Hitler and the subsequent invasion of democratic Finland has torn the mask off their faces and our people turned away from them with disgust and anguish. This balloting gave our members a chance to express what they thought of the Stalinites and they said it with an avalanche of votes."

Federal Government Held Inconsistent In Hiring Policy

Washington. — The civil service is discouraging government employment of men and women over 40, Representative Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, declared, while the government is seeking to encourage their employment or retention in private industry.

A trend toward hiring younger persons in civil service has been increasing, he told the Americans Over 40 club, while the government "is preaching" against such practices in industries.

"It ill behooves the United States government to speak ill of the practices in private industry," Randolph said, "when it fails to practice its own preaching. I've seen the civil service shove aside older persons for younger ones."

He suggested that the government organize inventive genius to discover new industries to employ persons displaced by technological unemployment.

Chicago Printers Win Higher Pay In Job Shops

Chicago. — Typographical Union No. 16, International Typographical union, has signed a new contract with the Franklin association of Chicago, a representative employers' group.

Under the contract, the rate of pay, per 5-day, 40-hour week, will be $56 for day work, $60 for night work. This is $2 a week higher than the old scale; and provision is made for an additional increase of $1 a week, which will take effect March 4, 1941, and will make the rate of pay the highest in the union's history.

The new wage schedule will be incorporated in agreements with shops which are not affiliated with the association and will affect some 3,500 or all of the union's members who are employed in Chicago commercial shops.

CTU Charters Local Of W. U. Employes

Chicago.—Employes of Western Union at Huntington, W. Va., have been issued a charter, covering all classifications of employment, by the Commercial Telegraphers union, American Federation of Labor affiliate, Frank B. Powers, president of the international union, has announced.

According to Powers, the CTU has issued twenty-one charters to Western Union employes and about 7,000 of them are members of the union.

Supreme Court Agrees to Review Two Labor Cases

Washington.—At the request of the American Federation of Labor, the supreme court has agreed to review two important cases affecting A. F. of L. unions.

Under an order handed down by Chief Justice Hughes, the court consented to consider a protest by the Milk Wagon Drivers local union of the American Federation of Labor against an injunction restraining picketing of the Lake Valley Farm Products stores in Chicago.

The Seventh circuit court of appeals granted the injunction against the union, holding that the anti-trust laws had been violated and that no labor dispute existed within the meaning of the Norris-La Guardia anti-injunction act.

The court also promised to review an order of the national labor relations board canceling a union shop contract with the Serrick Corporation, Muncie, Ind.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

U. S. Judge is "Little Light" for Job And Would Do People Big Favor by Quitting, Labor Editor Suggests

Memphis, Tenn.—The Memphis Labor Review, J. Cohen, editor and publisher, sharply rebuked Federal Judge A. M. Lumpkin for a recent attack on Federal laws designed to protect free labor from the destructive competition of prison-made products. The rebuke, in the form of an open letter to Judge Lumpkin printed on the first page of the Labor Review, was as follows:

According to the newspapers you made the statement that laws preventing state-to-state shipment of convict-made goods were "utterly without reason."

Twelve defendants were before you awaiting sentence for breaking these laws. Well, we won't much about the sentence you passed — suspended fines of $25 each—but when you apologized for doing it, we decided we ought to write you a letter.

Not Fitted for Job

"The law is utterly without reason in my opinion," you said. "It passes my comprehension to draw good people into court under such a law."

Well, judge, if you can't "comprehend" why convict-made goods should be banned from the open, competitive market, then, judge, you haven't got any business sitting in a Federal court attempting to rule wisely and judiciously on the other laws of the land. And the people responsible for setting you up in a Federal judgeship should hang their heads in everlasting shame and do all in their power to depose you before the sun sets again.

Ground for Law Plain

You see, judge, when a flood of convict-made goods is loosed upon the market, it does two major things: (1) It deprives good American citizens of the right to produce those goods, and (2) because prison-made goods are minus the labor costs on bona fide products, the work done by the convicts pushes down the selling price of the goods, and begins a circle of unfair competition which ultimately lowers the standard of living of the bona fide competitor.

(Your failure to comprehend a law against such a practice, incidentally, comes at a time when good American citizens are doing all they can to find jobs for ten million unemployed.)

Resignation Suggested.

Now, judge, we aren't saying there was anything malicious in your statement that the law is "utterly without reason." We just think that your understanding and comprehension of the social needs of the day isn't great enough for you to realize the practicability and wisdom of such a law, then you are a little light for the job you hold.

If you would quit, judge, you'd be doing the people a big favor.

Benefit Payments Made To Chicago Street Railway Workers Rise

Chicago.—Funeral, disability and old age benefits paid to members or beneficiaries of members of Divisions 241 and 308, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1939, totaled $253,719.89. This was an increase of $13,009.39 over the payments in 1938, which totaled $240,710.50.

In 1939 there were 214 funeral benefits paid to beneficiaries and 28 old age claims paid to members of Division 241; the totals for Division 308 were 85 funeral and two old age benefit claims.

Building Trades Stabilizes Wages As Housing Aid

Cleveland, Ohio.—Decision of 23 Cleveland building trades unions to maintain wage scales at their present level as an aid to housing was announced by Albert Dalton, Cleveland Building Trades Council business agent.

Calling on prospective home builders to start construction without fear of increased labor costs or jurisdictional trouble, Dalton said: "Once more labor has shown its willingness to do all in its power to encourage home building in Cleveland."

William Carroll, executive secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association, joined Dalton in the statement, saying: "The public now has every incentive to build."

Negotiations for contract renewals have been in progress since March 1. Only affiliated union seeking higher wages is the Painters' union, which is asking fulfillment of its contract which calls for the average rate paid all the building trades, having waived the increase the last two years.

WORKERS PROTECTED IN U. S. CONTRACTS

Washington, D. C.—The Department of Labor announced that during the past week 173 supply contracts representing a value of $9,954,330 were awarded by nine federal agencies under the provision of the Walsh-Healey public contracts act.

The act requires that contractors shall apply the eight-hour day and 40-hour week, pay the prevailing wage rates determined by the secretary of labor, refrain from employing convict and child labor, pay time and one-half for emergency overtime in excess of 40 hours per week, provide sanitary buildings and decent surroundings, eliminate sweatshops and homework, and ban kickback practices.

Judge Foust Denies Injunction to Cafe

Charley Franklin's restaurant was turned down last Friday by Chancellor Lon Foust in a plea for an injunction that would prevent picketing of his place of business. The Cooks and Waiters union has been picketing the non-union restaurant for several weeks and apparently the patroling has played havoc with his business. The management asked the chancellor to run the pickets away. The chancellor said "Nothing doing," or words to that effect.

And Charley's place of business is still being picketed.

Printer's Wife Dies At Her Home Here

Dan Carruth, an old-time member of Chattanooga Typographical union, and now a proprietor of the Arcade Printing company, suffered the loss of his wife last Sunday. She had been ill for a week.

Mrs. Carruth for the past twenty years had been prominent in civic and church work on Signal mountain. She was a member of the Signal Mountain Presbyterian church. She was the first president of the women's auxiliary of the church and a charter member at the time of its organization twelve years ago. Until her illness she continued active in all circles of Presbyterian church work on the mountain.

She was the daughter of the late H. C. and Mrs. Mary Curtis Dwiggins, of Petersburg, Tenn.

Surviving are her husband, three children, Mrs. T. R. Stapleton, Hal D. Carruth and Dan A. Carruth, Jr., all of Chattanooga; two sisters, Mrs. E. O. Anderson, Ardmore, Okla., and Mrs. C. M. Crawford, Peterburg; two brothers, H. C. Dwiggins and C. I. Dwiggins, of Lakeland, Fla.; two nieces and four nephews.

All delegates and members are urged to be present. Bring a visitor with you!

Anti-Picketing Laws Land in Ashcan

Labor's Right to Picket Peacefully Strongly Upheld in Two Decisions By Nation's Highest Court

Washington.—Organized labor's right to picket was upheld in two emphatically worded decisions by the supreme court on Alabama and California anti-picketing laws.

The court declared the two laws unconstitutional on the ground they violated fundamental guarantees of free speech and free press.

Justice Murphy, newest member of the court, wrote the two opinions. Justice McReynolds, diehard conservative, was the only dissenter.

"The safeguarding of these rights to the end that men may speak as they think on matters vital to them and that falsehoods may be exposed through the processes of education and discussion is essential to free government," Justice Murphy said in his opinion on the appeal of Byron Thornhill, a union member, from an Alabama state law.

Peaceful Picketing Upheld.

Peaceful picketing is a means of disseminating information "within that area of free discussion that is guaranteed by the constitution," Murphy said. The rights of labor on the picket line might be compared, he added, to the property rights and business rights of employers and must be protected as carefully.

The Alabama case involved picketing of a company in Tuscaloosa county. Thornhill, president of an A. F. of L. union of creosoters, asked a nonunion worker not to return to work during a strike. It was agreed the picketing was peaceful but the Alabama courts sustained the law under which Thornhill was convicted of "loitering and picketing."

Labor Supported Appeals.

In the California case John Carlson, a CIO member, was convicted after carrying a banner before a tunnel project.

Appeals by the two men have been supported by organized labor. Joseph A. Padway, general counsel of the A. F. of L., recently appeared for Thornhill, while Lee Pressman, general counsel of the CIO, spoke for Carlson. Both attorneys fought the contentions that prohibition of picketing was a correct use of police power.

Justice Murphy felt that the Alabama and California cases were so much alike that only one needed exhaustive comment. He chose the Thornhill, or Alabama case.

The Alabama law, justice Murphy commented, had been construed by the state courts to stop one man from walking slowly and peacefully along with a sign.

"Area of Free Discussion."

"In the circumstances of our times the dissemination of information concerning the facts of a labor union dispute must be regarded as within that area of free discussion that is guaranteed by the constitution," he asserted. "It is recognized now that satisfactory hours and wages and working conditions in industry and a bargaining position which makes these possible have an importance which is not less than the interests of those in the business or industry directly concerned.

"The health of the present generation and of those as yet unborn may depend on these matters, and the practices in a single factory may have economic repercussions upon a whole region and affect widespread systems of marketing."

Brewery Workers Renew Agreement

Local 79, Brewery Workers, announce that negotiations have been completed with all soft drink and beer concerns in Chattanooga for contracts for the ensuing year.

And once again, Chattanooga is a 100 per cent union town as far as all drinks are concerned. Says Erskine Fischer, secretary of the local union:

"We do not know just how many years we have had union contracts with all our firms, but for a number of years we have belonged to the hundred per center group. Our dealings with our employers are friendly, and we want always to give efficient and profitable service for the work we perform."

Nashville Culinary Workers Organize

(Trades & Labor News, Nashville, Tennessee.)

A flourishing local union of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and now totaling more than 100 members, is operating under its own charter in Nashville, according to an announcement by Gerald Foley, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, who assisted local employes in this work toward organization of their local union and gave them valuable counsel on how to go about securing contracts with their employers.

100% Union Made "Lookout" Brand Products Under Contract to Q-S-S

The following is quoted from the news letter issued by the Quality Service stores, operating in Chattanooga:

"Our stores have requested that we secure as many union-made products as possible for distribution through Q-S-S and we are pleased to announce that we have a fine contract now with the Lookout Preserve company, Taylor st., East Chattanooga, covering all their 100% union-made jams, jellies and syrups.

"Established in Chattanooga a year ago, the Lookout Preserve company, is owned by J. L. Kelley and J. C. Roberts. L. C. Bowman is city salesman for the firm. Mrs. Roberts is an assistant.

"Lookout preserves are constantly advertising in The Labor World and are known throughout Tennessee as a fast selling group of quality products sold at reasonable prices . . . and these facts backed by the use of the union label assures our Q-S-S of a line of merchandise they can sincerely urge their customers to purchase.

"If your store does not have a complete stock of these union-made products, we suggest you telephone Mr. "Jim" Kelley at once and place your order. Telephone 2-7426 —N-O-W!"

PLEASE HELP, UNION MEN!

The garage mechanics of this city are organizing into a good union of machinists, and they need your support. When you have any work to be done on your automobile, please insist that a union mechanic must do the work on your car. By doing this you will make the task of securing union conditions much better.

W. R. BARNEY, Bus. Agt., Machinists' Local 56.

TEACHER TALK

Notes on the activities program, which is getting off to a fine start:

The bridge group met for the first time Saturday evening, April 20, with Mr. and Mrs. Stanton E. Smith. Those persons not present at this meeting missed a good time. It is always fun to visit the Smiths, and this evening proved no exception. There was just the right amount of jollity and good fellowship to start the club off with enthusiasm. The head tables boasted experts, the foot tables those of lesser ability, while one table had a coach, but despite this diversity everyone pronounced the evening a success and voted hereafter to meet every other week. It was decided to make the regular meeting place the Hotel Patten in order to have plenty of room for all who want to come. Twenty-eight people were present, and everyone predicts the size of the club will grow.

The badminton group meets every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at Central High school. Twenty-four were present last time. There are three courts and both singles and doubles are played. Here again we find diversity of ability, but plenty of fun.

The handicraft group will hold its first meeting Friday evening, April 26, at the apartment of Miss Lassie Munsey in the Hogshead. Mary Lou Derryberry is the enthusiastic leader. She has many suggestions for projects which will prove interesting to the rather large group who have signed up for this activity.

The parliamentary law group will meet at the union office in the Ferger building on Tuesday, April 31, at 7 o'clock.

The tax problems group will meet Friday evening, May 3, at 7:30 at the union office.

Almand Crawford Is Seriously Ill At Hospital

Almand Crawford, business representative for Operating Engineers Local 917, has been seriously ill for the past week. He became ill while out of the city in line with his duties and was immediately brought back to his home, 209 Jargigan avenue. Thursday he was taken to Campbell's hospital, and The Labor World is informed he was no better at presstime.

Very Low Percentage Of Industrial Workers Found Syphilitic

New York City.—Tests by the state labor department show a far lower percentage of syphilitic workers in industry than is commonly supposed, Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller said in announcing an industrial hygiene survey of syphilis in four industries.

Only seven men or 1 per cent of nearly 700 workers in aliline dyes, rotogravure, printing, felt hats and fur dressing, dyeing and manufacture were found to be infected, according to Dr. Harry Heimann, industrial hygienist, who conducted the study. This is much lower than the 10 per cent usually assumed to suffer from the disease in any unselected group. Women constituted about 10 per cent of those tested and were found free of infection. Two were negroes, both of whom have negative Wassermans.

"To industry the syphilitic worker is a grave liability," Dr. Heimann reports, but says that "in general industry does not object to the employment of persons with syphilis, or to retaining in employment those discovered to be infected. However, the employer is anxious to know if such persons are receiving adequate therapy. In some large plants therapy is supplied by the employer. In this way he has better control over the treatment and control of the case."

Buy union label goods—made in U. S. A.

The Modern Literature group held its first meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Milton McCafferty on Anderson avenue. GwenB ristow's "This Side of Glory" was reviewed by Miss Bonnie Willbanks, and Nevil Shute's "An Old Captivity" by Mrs. H. B. Robinson. Next meeting of the group will be the second Tuesday in May at the home of Mrs. Almeda Jones.

Notice To Street Car Union

There will be a meeting of the wives of members of Local 1212, Street Car and Bus union, on Monday, April 29, at 7:30.

The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. E. Mayfield, 2805 Easton avenue, in Red Bank.

Purpose of the meeting is to form an auxiliary to Local 1212. Please attend.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

«« Beulah Ogle, Correspondent ««

As time rolls on and we try to find something to write about we find we have on our sick list this week Marion Freeman from Smiths Cafe, also Mr. W. W. Davis of the Lunch Box has the "flu." We are sorry to hear you are sick Mr. Davis, but hurry up and get back on the job as we miss you.

All Crystal Lunches are non-union.

The picket is still walking around Charlie's Place and we started one at the National Lunch Wednesday, so let's all pay our assessments as these union girls who are out there fighting for us need their pay day as much as we need ours.

Attend Your Union Meetings

Mrs. Marie Jones is working again—glad to see you out again. Marie, and know Mr. Silas of Times Square Lunch is glad to have you.

By helping the other unions we help ourselves.

Sure glad to see the sun out again as this cold rainy weather has just about frozen we pickets off the line.

Mrs. Louise Petty says the reason we don't see her around any more on Sundays, she is working and has invited us down to lunch next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hodges are celebrating their second wedding anniversary next Sunday. Have a nice time, Irene, and save me a piece of cake.

The Eureka Club has remodeled and Joe says the work was all done with union labor.

Patronize Only Union Concerns

We want to thank the members of other locals for their support and loyalty—sometimes we don't know what we would do if some one didn't pat us on the back and give us the encouragement we so badly need.

Buy union label goods whenever possible.

Louise Lester, formerly of the Rathskeller, is the proud mother of an eight-pound baby boy.

Busy Bee, S. & W., Chattanooga Steak House, Harry's Place, Ellis Restaurant and Dennis Restaurant are non-union.

Be a real, loyal union member, help make the union better and stronger.

Tuesday night, May 7, is the next meeting night. I trust you will be present as it is to be a special meeting.

The Union Is What You Make It

A young lady came to the office to ask about work the other day when told I was on the picket line she went down there to see me. Not finding me there she went inside to wait for me. While in there she decided to have lunch. After eating her lunch she came outside and told me who she was and that she needed work, that her husband was a union man and she would like to work in a union house. Husbands please carry your unionism somewhere else besides your pocketbooks.

If you are not receiving your Labor World please notify your secretary of your change of address.

Hope to see our delegates at Label League Friday night.

Payments of Out-of-Work Benefits Nearing Billion-Dollar Mark

Washington.—Insurance paid to unemployed men and women under the social security act's unemployment compensation system is nearing the billion-dollar mark, Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt announces.

The social security board submitted a report to McNutt showing that $910,398,418 has been distributed by the forty-eight states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, and Hawaii, during the approximately two years this plan has been in operation.

New York Leads in Payments.

The board said that New York has paid out $181,723,394 to insured workers; Pennsylvania, $134,191,418; California, $73,034,732; Indiana, $28,258,533; Ohio, $28,189,891; Michigan, $80,765,191; Illinois, $24,101,772, and Texas started paying benefits in January, 1938; Indiana in April, 1938; Michigan in July, 1938; Ohio in January, 1939, and Illinois in July, 1939.

Administrator McNutt was informed by the board that $44,328,375 has been paid out by the states to 1,334,982 insured workers during February. This was 8 per cent above the January payments. Benefit payments in February rose for the fourth consecutive month.

Job Placements Rise.

Meantime, the board reported that 202,900 jobs were found for unemployed workers in February. It stated that this was a higher total than for any previous February on record. The board said about 5,800,000 continued claims for benefits were received during February, repeating the unusually high level reached during January. A weekly average of 983,000 unemployed workers received benefits, compared with 877,000 in January.

Five states—California, Illinois, Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania—accounted for approximately 45 per cent of all total weeks of unemployment during the month, and for 51 per cent of the benefits paid for total unemployment, indicating the relatively higher weekly benefit amounts in these states.

Fleeting Prosperity

In the latter part of 1939 the course of business was influenced by the outbreak of war in Europe. It seems appropriate to state that, quite aside from the humanitarian and moral issues, war orders represent only a fleeting prosperity and war business is certain to result in a disruptive shifting of our economy. War is certain to cause a destruction of capital that can not be replaced for years and of lives that can never be replaced. The management of the United States Steel Corporation is convinced that the first requisite for the attainment of a lasting prosperity is peace and the prospect of enduring peace.

WHAT LABOR CONTRIBUTES

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

"Before business can absorb the jobless, employers must have the money to create new jobs," it is said by employers of labor, and just now it is being repeated by certain politicians. There's no doubt about it—but it should not be forgotten that workers themselves would be making a most valuable financial contribution in such a transaction.

We are informed that for each worker employed, the steel industry must furnish $11,000; the manufacturing industries must furnish $8,000, and the ordinary business must put up $4,000. But each worker as he enters industry represents an approximate outlay of $10,000 by the parents of the worker, the state, and other public institutions. Thus, the average worker comes into the plant as the equivalent of a $10,000 machine, and he usually more than matches what the investor is asked to spend in order to create a job for him.

Furthermore, the worker must spend most of his wages to pay for his personal "upkeep" and "repairs." He provides his own food, clothing, and housing, and he is responsible for keeping up his health, so that he may continue to be a good producer. A very small percentage of his wages is spent for his cultural life and for his "leisure activities," although, it should be said, there also add to his value as a worker. If he should drop out of the plant for any reason, another worker, of equal or even greater value, may be secured upon the same terms. Upon this basis, the approximately 40,000,000 wage earners in the United States to whom this would apply, have a value of $400,000,000,000. According to latest reports, this equals the wealth of the United States as ordinarily calculated.

Whatever may be said regarding what others have paid to help support the public institutions which had a part in the preparation of the American worker, all of the arguments fail when they are applied to the millions of foreign-born workers in industry who came to this country full-fledged, ready for a job. They were prepared at the expense of the countries from which they came. This is particularly true of the so-called "refugees," large numbers of whom are technically trained men and women.

It is reported with great concern that the fifteen largest banks in New York City are "waging a losing fight" because 42% of their cash assets, amounting to something over $7,000,000,000 are "idle." If 10,000,000 workers in this country are unemployed, they represent an "idle" cash value of $100,000,000,000, and many of these, too, are "waging a losing fight." The biggest problem facing America today is how to put the "idle workers" and the "idle money" at work, so that they may both win their fight. But don't let us forget that all real wealth is simply stored-up labor.

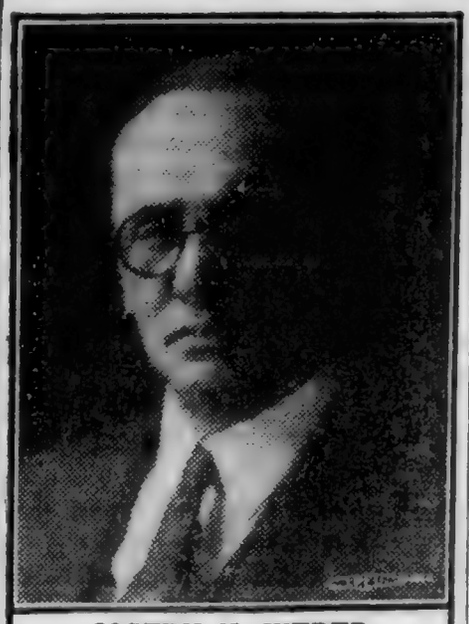
WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS



JOSEPH N. WEBER

Joseph N. Weber, President of the American Federation of Musicians of the United States and Canada, was elected President in 1900 and has served in that capacity since that date.

He was born in Austria and came to this country at the age of 14 as a clarinet player in a boys' band. At the close of its first tour of the country he was so impressed with the "Land of the Free" that he refused to return to Europe, having decided to make his home in this country.

Early in life Mr. Weber settled in Denver, where he played a clarinet in the famous Tabor Opera House. He helped to organize the Denver Musical Union and served as its President and Secretary.

He soon realized that musicians could not remain aloof to organized labor. Despite the fact that musicians are artists, he knew that they were subject to the whims of employers and were exploited by them in the same manner as any other workers.

Being one of the pioneers in the organized Labor movement, Mr. Weber's long experience and services in the Labor movement have proved most valuable in the councils of the American Federation of Labor.

The American Federation of Musicians, through his leadership, has built up the highest standards for its members. It has never hesitated to use the most modern methods to obtain better conditions for the musicians and to meet the competition of recorded or "canned" music, such as phonograph records and electrical transcriptions. The Union prevented the use of these mechanical devices in theatres, clubs and on the radio, thus preventing "canned" music from becoming a substitute for living music.

Mr. Weber is a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor. He was appointed a member of the National Emergency Council by President Wilson during the World War. He has taken an active part in Labor's Chest for the Relief of Persecuted Workers in Europe from the date of its inception.

"Joe" Weber has truly been a pioneer crusader in the American Labor movement.

His address is: Mr. Joseph N. Weber, President, American Federation of Musicians of the United States and Canada, 1450 Broadway, 41st Floor, New York, N. Y.

MUSICIANS' LABEL

The Union Label of the American Federation of Musicians of the United States and Canada was adopted in 1897, only one year after its first convention in Indianapolis. The call for this convention was issued by Samuel Gompers. Only 26 local societies were represented. At the 1939 convention 458 Locals were represented by 645 delegates.

As soon as affiliation with the American Federation of Labor was granted, this official Label of the American Federation of Musicians was adopted.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Republic Steel Loses Fight Against NLRB Order to Rehire Strikers

Washington. — Republic Steel corporation's long fight against an order of the national labor relations board directing the corporation to reinstate 5,000 CIO strikers and reimburse them with back pay ended in defeat when the supreme court refused to review the NLRB order.

By declining to act, the court automatically upheld a unanimous decision of the Third circuit court of appeals that the company was guilty of unfair labor practices in the "Little Steel" strike in 1937.

Under the NLRB order the company was required to:

Withdraw all recognition from the plan of employe representation and its successors at the Ohio Republic plants in the Massillon, Canton, Youngstown, Warren, Niles and Cleveland districts.

Give back pay to employes who allegedly were locked out at Canton May 5-24, 1937, and at Massillon May 20-23, 1937.

Cease discouraging membership in the Congress of Industrial Organizations or any other labor organization.

Dispatches from Cleveland said that Republic, the nation's third largest steel company, announced that compliance with the NLRB order would "not involve any serious re-employment problem, since "the greater number" of 1937 strikers had "long sincee been returned to work."

Concerning Coercion

We read strange headlines in the daily papers this week . . . how welfare agencies are demanding aid and threatening . . .

On the one hand we have the president of the National Association of Manufacturers asking for relief from the "strong arm of government."

And on the other hand we have the report of a House [illegible] which accuses the Ford Motor Company of "ganging together with the police" to block unionization of Ford workers. Some of the manufacturers' coercion were "blackjacks, loaded [illegible] and [illegible]

[illegible] the manufacturers [illegible] government [illegible] Labor [illegible]

The [illegible] who "interfere" [illegible]

Which, do you think, is coercion?

Wage Collections Law Needed

Wage payment and wage collection laws have been passed because some employers fail to pay the wages of their workers regularly, some do not pay in full, and a few do not pay at all. Many of these defaulting employers are financially irresponsible, some are careless, others are downright unscrupulous. In states where machinery for wage collection is available to workers, free or at low cost, tens of thousands of claims adding up to several million dollars are filed each year. These are apart from claims for back wages filed under state minimum wage laws or the federal fair labor standards act.

Most of the individual claims are for sums so small that no lawyer would want to bother with them, nor would workers have much left if they had to pay lawyers' fees. eYt even $10 or $20 may help a family to bridge the gap between one job and another; or to pay accumulated bills of tradesmen or doctors.

State labor commissioners receive many of these complaints. And the state labor department is the most logical agency from which help might be expected, for it is the department charged with "fostering and promoting the welfare of wage earners," and with enforcing laws relating to employment. Nothing is more basic to the wage earner's welfare and to good relations between employers and employes than the regular receipt of wages earned. Nothing is more conducive to discontent and resentment against society than to be cheated of just compensation for work performed, and sometimes to have to apply for relief because of it.

Perhaps one reason why wage payment laws are not found in all states, and why those on the statute books aren't more uniformly effective, is that it is generally taken for granted that employers pay for work they get. And in fact most of them do. But chiselers are found in every industry. Thus most offenders are likely to occur among resort hotels, small restaurants, employers of domestic help, farmers, operators or logging camps, and other seasonal enterprises.

Freedom to Criticize Vital

Organized labor knows that the American press is not all it should be. Most newspaper men are also aware of the fact.

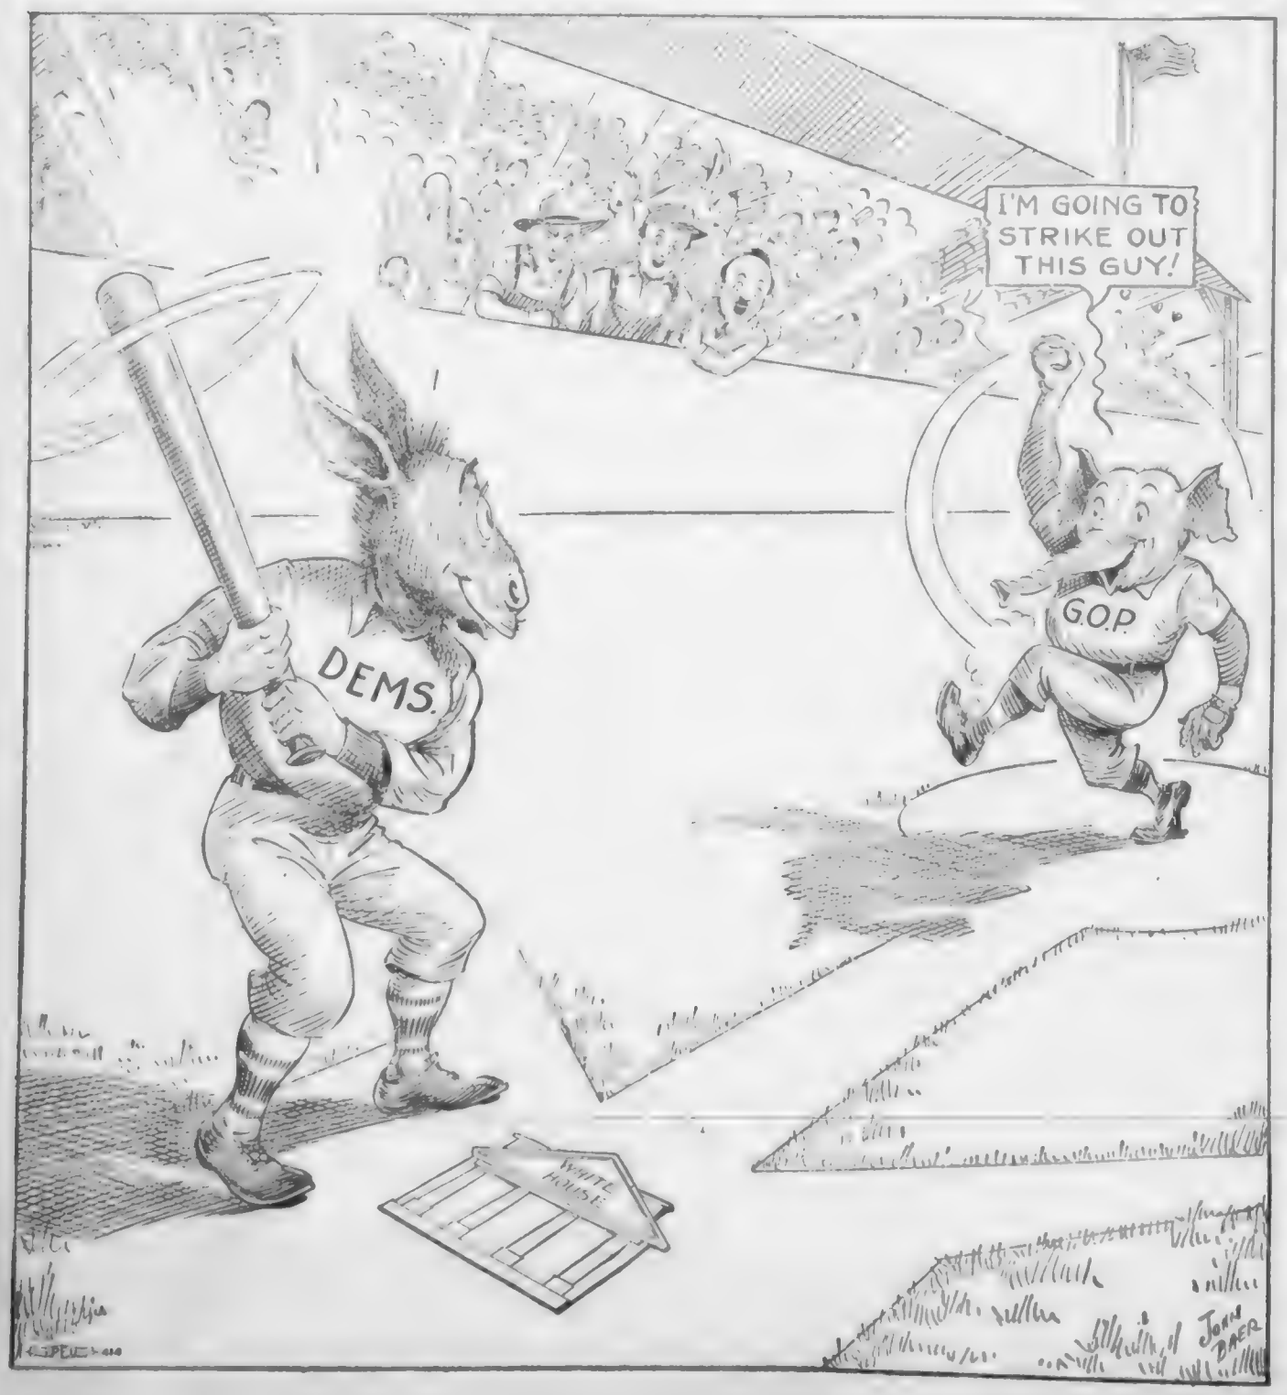
The press is often unfair, just as individuals are often unfair.

But it's a mighty good thing that the press is free to criticize, unfairly or fairly.

If it was not, freedom in America would soon vanish.

BIG LEAGUE SEASON OPENS!

By Baer



Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

Several weeks ago I noticed in The Labor World a clarion call by the big chief, Sitting Bull, for his braves (Alton Park Refinery Workers), to assemble for a special pow-wow. By reliable authority, I learned that when the time arrived for the special pow-wow, Sitting Bull was seen nodding in front of his wigwam, and had to be awakened so that his warriors could hold counsel. How about this, Brother Gossett? Tell me if this is the truth, or have I been misinformed?

* * *

Since our last writing to The Labor World, our local had a visit from the Grim Reaper and called Brother Luther Hostettler. We wish to extend to Mrs. Hostettler and family our deepest sympathy.

* * *

C. L. Kelly is on sick leave.

Brother Leonard Smith is back at work. Glad to see you back, Leonard.

Roy Wells was telling me the other day that he didn't think the dog business would be profitable. It seems that Charley McRay was in the dog business, and the dogs would not eat acorns, so Charley let them starve to death. Shame on you, Charley. As smart as you are, you should know better.

* * *

Old Man Ike said he thought a great deal of Paul Lex, but wouldn't believe a word he said.

* * *

I won't vouch for the veracity of the following statement, but talking to the boys in the machine room, I was told that Shorty Lamon is pretty much worried. Shorty is feeling bad. Old Man Time is about to get him. Shorty's hair is getting thin and wrinkles are showing in his face. Brace up, old man. Life begins at forty, you know.

* * *

I wish someone would tell me what is the matter with a man when he can't see his car. Just when Lewis Williams' boys were about to win a ball game last Sunday at Meadow View, Buck Lawson came hollering about someone getting his car. Said ball game was stopped, so they could catch the thief, but Buck's car was just where he had left it parked behind another car.

* * *

If it is a boat you want, see those Maynard boys. They can build you anything.

I received a surprise Monday. I didn't think any outsiders read The Labor World (for there is a lot of insiders that should read more of it). A lady called me on the 'phone and told me how much she resented the write-ups about the little settlement over the hill from the paper mill, called Woodland Heights, or, as some call it, Pudville.

I like to see our citizens civic-minded, but I like to see them broad-minded also. It never was my intention to antagonize anyone in my write-ups. It was all done in a spirit of fun. Goodness knows how drab life is anyway and if we can't have a little clean fun now and then, this life wouldn't be worth living. I hope the party that called me would see it in that way and not be an old meanie.

Herman Norris—that's one of the mountain boys—took his annual spring bath the other day. You should have seen what he had on—two union suits and a pair of rubber boots that he hadn't seen since last fall. Page Lord Pushbutton. Someone wants to know who he is. We have a Baby Dumpling and a Wimpy here also.

* * *

George Durham said he can make that new chimney smoke as good as Kelly can.

Nice meeting we had at C. L. U. Monday night. Missed my delegates, and they missed a good meeting, too. I believe C. L. U. is going places this year. Secretary Mabee's suggestion how we could raise funds to buy or build a labor temple was a good one, and if every labor unionist would donate a day's pay, we could have a labor home. It seems that Chattanooga is the only large city in the state where we don't own our own labor hall.

The talk made by the international representative of Iron Molders was interesting, especially about the different isms that confront us today, and how we should go about combatting their evil influence, or give up our freedom.

The speaker stressed the point about how we should safeguard our public school system, and give to our school teachers more support. I was interested in a remark he made about a Christian and a Baptist. You know, I can remember when a man belonged to a labor union he was classed as a bolshevik or infidel. When our leaders in the labor movement say they are Christian men and women, then I say we are on the right track. That is, if they prove that they are Christians.

I would like to see more co-operation between the church and labor. In some instances I believe the church let labor down. If we all get more God-minded I think we can overcome that difficulty.

ederal Old-Age Survivors Insurance

Under the Social Security Act as Amended in 1939

Part II of a series of 8 articles based on a forthcoming pamphlet to be published by the Social Security Board.

THE BENEFICIARIES

r the provisions of the so- ecurity act, as amended, y old-age and survivors in- e payments became payable 0 and thereafter to:

ified wage-earners at age 65 r; and bers of the qualified wage- 's family as follows:

es who are 65 or over;

dren who are under 16, or 18 if still in school, and un- ed;

Surviving dependents of qualified wage-earners who have died since Dec. 31, 1939, as follows:

Widows who are 65 or over; widows of any age who have in their care children (of the deceased wage-earner) under 16, or under 18, if still in school; children who are under 16, or under 18 if still in school and unmarried;

Parents who are 65 or over, and who were wholly dependent upon and supported by the wage-earner at the time of his death (if there is no widow or unmarried child under 18 surviving).

If a worker leaves no survivor qualified for monthly benefits at the time of his death, a lump benefit may be paid to a widow, widower, or certain other relatives; or if there is no such relative, the person who paid the burial expenses will be repaid, up to an amount equal to six times the worker's benefit.

Claims payable to wage-earners during 1940 include the claims of those who, under the original law, could qualify only for lump-sum payments because they reached age 65 before 1942, when monthly insurance payments were scheduled to begin under the old law, any of them had wage credits which, under the amended plan, are sufficient to qualify in 1940. Others may have earned enough since they were 65 or may yet do so.

Others now eligible are workers who were 65 before 1937 when the original law went into effect, but who have been working since and may soon meet the qualifications now required for insurance payments.

DO YOU KNOW . . .

The Bureau of Home Economics experts have devised two simple tests for wool. Touch a match to a small piece of the fabric. If it is all-wool, it will smoulder and give off a disagreeable, acrid odor, like that of burning hair. The crisp ash will ball up along the edge into an irregularly shaped mass. If there are other fibers present, the fabric will not burn in this manner.

To tell more accurately if there is cotton, linen, or rayon present in the fabric, boil a sample of the fabric for 15 minutes in a solution of one tablespoon of lye to one pint of water. The wool will dissolve in this solution, leaving whatever cotton, rayon, or linen that may be present. This test will not work for silk or wool mixtures since the silk will dissolve also.

Coal ashes are valuable for loosening and improving the physical condition of heavy clay soils when spread on the garden. You can use a layer three to six inches thick on clay soil provided the ashes are thoroughly mixed with the top foot of soil. Two or three spadings are necessary to complete the mix. Since there's no feeding value to coal ashes apply complete plant food in the spring before planting.

To remove grease spots from a rug or light colored upholstery try pouring Fuller's earth, cornmeal or even talcum powder on the spot. Allow it to stand for a while to absorb the grease then brush off.

Shop Hound

If your neighbors make too much noise you can now purchase Nod's noise mufflers to protect your ears. They are made of soft lastex rubber, waxed on one end and are easily inserted and removed.

Glamor

The new spring clothes are strictly feminine. They are soft in design instead of strictly tailored. They are cut to show curves, are alive with color, show a fondness for jewels and such.

Bigest fashion news in their cut lines in the fact that they have loosened up the winter's wasp waist. Most talked of silhouette is the long torso to give a long-waisted look, but even so waistlines are neat and still small; necklines often fairly high. shoulders still widened and slightly padded, although dresses show less exaggeration in this respect than last year. Sleeves are generally fairly simple.

Suits promise to be the favorite costume again this year but with infinite variety. Among the aces are costume suits composed of a soft frock and fitted jacket of light weight wool in gray, beige, or cadet blue. New tailleurs, less severe than formerly are either short fitted or long torso jackets, accented with large pockets. Dark silk suits of faille, bengaline and cravat silk worn with frothy white blouses will be popular, while wool suits will be worn with checked taffeta or white pique blouses.

For Better Homemaking

If you're tired of your eighteenth century bedroom furniture but feel you can't afford to purchase something modern try making your bedroom as daring as possible. Paint one wall rich crimson and the other three midnight blue. Use cream colored toile figured with red for your window hangings and bedspreads. The change will delight you.

One of the best ways we have seen lately to do away with the pesky moth is to use the attachment for spraying that comes with your vacuum cleaner. All you have to do is screw on the handy pint jar size spraying mechanism and the blast of air which comes out is laden with lethal anti-moth material. Armed with this you can go over a three-piece living room suite in no time and with no manual labor involved other than wielding the sprayer.

Women in Industry

Women will play a larger part in the 1940 census than in any previous count. When the count is over a great deal of hitherto not available information will be in Uncle Sam's files. Questions will deal with income for women as well as for men. Treatment of the sexes will be on an equality all the way. Women who are chief homemakers will be so designated. It is expected that a tremendous amount of information will be gathered regarding substandard wages. Part-time workers and part-time wages also will be uncovered and added up.

The final picture will be a sweeping one, showing what has happened to the status of women in the last ten years. Probability is that more hapepned than happened in any previous ten years in all history.

Add to this the 1940 housing census, which will record details about housing, with facilities and conveniences, and the life of American women will be portrayed as never before, in this or any other nation. But it will be about two years before the results are all tabulated and ready for use.

Baby Talk

How your children develop depends a great deal on how they are taught. This you must learn by actual study. There are no hard and fast rules about children. Some children benefit by a strict amount of routine, but it is a better rule to conform to indications given by the child rather than enforcing a rigid schedule.

"Helping Children Learn" by Warring and Johnson (the Wilcox Press, Ithaca, N. Y.) is a new book which describes how actual situations were met. Each type of behavior is discussed, as well as the skills involved in a child's learning to use language, to adjust to other children. Eating, sleeping, dressing and toilet behavior are each made as a separate chapter. This will be found an easy textbook for parents because of the simplicity and sympathy with which the underlying principles of learning are discussed.

Chef's Hints: To make celery curls cut inner stalks into three or four-inch lengths. With sharp knife cut each piece down into thin strips, stopping when within an inch of the end. Drop into ice water and strips will curl up as they become chilled.

Carrots may be cut into thin strips and curled the same way.

Add sardines to eggs as you scramble them for breakfast, or luncheon. Or, make a sardine paste by mixing sardines with a quarter cup of chili sauce and spread between folds of an omelet before serving.

Handy Vitamin Chart

We read so much about vitamins these days and I find it often difficult to remember which foods give us the much publicized A, B, C, D and G, so perhaps memorizing the following chart will help:

Vitamin A: Milk, other dairy products, liver, fish liver oils, leafy vegetables and carrots.

Vitamin B: Cereal, whole wheat grains, all-bran, nuts, brewer's yeast.

Vitamin C: Raw fruits, especially citrus (lemon, orange, grapefruit), cabbage, tomatoes and other fresh vegetables.

Vitamin D: Fish liver oils, eggs.

Vitamin G: Kale, spinach and other leafy vegetables, dairy products, liver, kidneys.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

JAMES M. DUFFY

POTTERS' UNION LABEL

James M. Duffy, President of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, took up employment in a pottery at East Liverpool in 1903, and became a member of the Potters' Union in 1909, when he became an apprentice. Later he served as President of the East Liverpool Trades and Labor Council. In 1927 he was elected President of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, which office he now holds. He has been a delegate to the American Federation of Labor conventions for the past 12 years.

Mr. Duffy served on the Labor Advisory Committee of the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Commission and on the National Labor Advisory Board of the National Industrial Recovery Administration. In 1937 he was the American Labor delegate to the International Labor Conference in Geneva, Switzerland.

Mr. Duffy is one of the outstanding leaders in the "Buy American" movement. At the American Federation of Labor convention in Denver he introduced a resolution for the boycott of Japanese goods. Later, in 1937, he organized and sponsored a mass "Buy American" rally. In every field of Labor activity Mr. Duffy has distinguished himself as an unusual leader. He has participated in round-table discussions on Labor in coast-to-coast radio broadcasts and other public discussions on the subject.

Under his guidance the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters has grown in strength and membership, and the pottery industry has received the protection of his effective fight against foreign-made products.

His address is: Mr. James M. Duffy, President, National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, Box 6, East Liverpool, Ohio.

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters was organized in 1890 after the withdrawal from the Knights of Labor. In 1899 it became affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

A lapel button with the eye and handclasp was adopted in the early days of the organization. In 1936 the Potters adopted the Union Label shown above. It is displayed on all Union-made pottery.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Walter-Logan Bill

With the creation of dozens of bureaus and administrative agencies by the federal government during the last twenty years, there have arisen the problems of how the rules are and what he can do the average citizen is to know what to test the legality of the rule.

It is well recognized that in this complex age it is impossible for the details of administration to be written into every law. The best Congress can do is to set up the aim and general principles of application of a law and leave the rest to the agency charged with administering it.

In an effort to meet the problem, the House this week passed the Walter-Logan bill which attempts to set up a system by which an interested citizen who is aggrieved with an administrative order can appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Representative Sumners, chairman of the judiciary committee, well indicated the chief objective of the bill in a concluding speech before the House. The choice, he said, is either to subject the American people "to the governmental power of an appointed personnel which has all three powers of government under its control," or "to make it possible for the citizen to resort to the only place under the Anglo-Saxon system of government that an agrieved person can go to, that is the courts."

The bill in its present form is defective in some respects but is a pioneer attempt and before final enactment, changes no doubt will be made so as not to unduly hamper nor restrict the discretionary powers of administrative agencies.

Patriotic Meetings in Washington

Early in the week 5,000 ladies attended the forty-ninth annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, meeting in Washington. During the week the Colonial Dames had their yearly conference and as the week ends, the Daughters of 1812 are in session.

All groups gave consideration to alarming events in the world today and urged stronger national defense as insurance for "peace in the Western Hemisphere."

Many distinguished ladies from the district were present to attend the meetings. Members of Congress from Tennessee enjoyed the hospitality of the D. A. R. on Tuesday night at a beautiful banquet at Washington's famous Mayflower Hotel.

Tradesmen Protest W

Members of Congress ha week been receiving hund cards from employes in t struction industry protesti doing of permanent const work by WPA. The cards lessens my chances of getti ular work and is wasteful Construction work should by regular construction and companies under cont PWA did."

Congress will undertake the problem by limiting th of work to be done by WP at the same time not elimin usefulness of WPA activity.

There is a strong deman PWA program which would isfactory to employes in th struction industry, but congr all eaders say it is unlikely session.

Bakers' Scraps

Your Doughboy correspondent, Charles Mabee, spent the week end in Monteagle, Tenn., visiting relatives. I sure did enjoy myself and am looking forward to going back real soon.

Norman Cooper of Cameron and Barr Bakery spent the week end in Gadsden. I don't think it was with relatives as it was in my case but time will tell, if you know what I'm hinting at!

Mrs. Elizabeth O'Dear of our Tracy City branch local is celebrating her birthday the 28th of this month just four days after mine. I would like to take this opportunity to wish her many happy returns of the day.

Here we go again this week about the non-union cakes and pies that are made in and out of the city and that are detrimental to our working conditions and wages. Non-union cakes and pies are: Holsum, Dortch, Hostess, Frank's Cookies, Jack's Cookies, Wards, Ambrosure, Virginia Dare, Malbra, Alton Park Cakes and Pies. One hundred per cent union-made cakes and pies that deserve your patronage are: Erskines, Mercers, Hooper, Stones, Dolly Madison, Grennan and Dutch-Maid. The Dutch-Maid cakes that I am adding this week are made in Tracy City at the Baggenstross Bakery. I ate one of them while I was up on the mountain and boy was it good!

Have you seen the new car that Norman Cooper has bought? I think he practically lives in it. It is a nice looking car and I wish Brother Cooper much success with it for I am told that car owners need lots of success and money, too.

Had a very interesting talk last night over a cup of that good Fleetwood coffee, with Henry Chastain, charter member of our local. I learned quite a bit of the beginning of our local and the struggle in which it was started. We owe a great deal to the boys who started the bakers' local of this city.

Let us help the Culinary Workers in their fight against the non-union restaurants of this city by not going into them. This is a very promising organization and deserves your support.

Most of you have heard of the little man who wasn't there, haven't you? Well, have you seen the little man who was there? If you haven't you've missed it all.

Written Union-Employer Agreements Makes "District Contribution to Industrial Relations," NLRB Finds

Washington, D. C. — Written agreements between employers and organized workers have steadily increased in number and coverage, the National Labor Relations Board reports in a bulletin prepared by the board's division of economic research.

The bulletin reports a big increase in the automobile, electrical and steel industries in recent years.

Written agreements are described in th bulletin as aiding society by making for stable industrial relations. Summarizing the significance of such agreements and their effect upon industrial relations, the bulletin says:

"In effect the written agreement is a means of institutionalizing the whole collective bargaining process. It serves to extend union recognition, to establish a clear and indisputable record of the terms of agreement and to provide for continuous dealing between worker and employer representatives.

"By providing for businesslike conduct of labor relations, the agreement encourages responsibility on the part of both management and labor. With provisions limiting use of the strike and lockout, with provisions for improving and maintaining standards of employment and production, and with provisions for stabilizing labor costs, the written agreements make a distinct contribution to industrial relations.

"All collective bargaining, based as it is on written agreements, is in its very nature rooted to democratic procedure. To the extent, moreover, that liberty for working people is attained through industrial democracy, collective bargaining performs valuable service to society as a whole."

Machine Age Declared Only Dawning--

Impact of Mechanization Just Beginning, Economist Asserts

Washington. — Investigation of the problems caused by the mechanization of industry was begun by the monopoly committee here as part of its comprehensive inquiry into the operation of America's economic system.

Theodore J. Kreps, economic consultant of the committee, officially known as the temporary national economic committee, was the first witness. In a general analysis of the situation, Kreps said that the impact of the machine age upon American civilization would be even more severe in the future than in the past. Technical advances are scheduled to outstrip anything witnessed in the past history, he declared.

One of the major problems posed by technology, Kreps testified, is that of unemployment among youths and adults alike. The problem of unemployment among men between 45 and 64 years of age, he said, is greater than in all past history.

On the other hand, he predicted, the percentage of gainfully employed persons will increase from the present level of 40 per cent to 50 per cent, because the average age of the total population has been rising steadily since 1870.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be among the forty or more witnesses to be questioned by the committee. A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, will be another labor witness.

State Subsidies Found Necessary In Social Insurance Systems Of Six Nations Studied by ILO

Washington.—A survey of the special techniques demanded by compulsory social insurance, just published by the International Labor Office in Geneva, Switzerland, throws light on the working of such system in six countries. The survey is believed the first of its kind.

Entitled "Actuarial Technique and Financial Organization of Social Insurance," the work is the fruit of 20 years' experience of observing, advising and collecting in the field of social insurance by the ILO.

The study consists of monographs describing six representative systems, those of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Great Britain and Italy. The scope is limited to the fields of invalidity, old-age and survivor insurance.

Systems Found Changing.

Social security systems change in accord with developing social standards and varying price levels, it is brought out in an introduction. Thus, in the six countries considered, original actuarial plans have long since been replaced.

Unlike practice in the United States, all six are found to insure not only industrial and commercial but also agricultural workers. Alone among the others, Belgium provides only old-age and widows' and orphans' pensions, omitting invalidity benefits, it is noted.

State subsidies, according to the analysis, are required in all six countries, primarily to supplement the pensions of persons who entered the system late. In all cases, both employers and workers contribute, the average payment being from 2 to 3 per cent of wages.

Funds Aid Social Welfare.

Pension reserves in the countries studied are available for loan to national and local authorities and occasionally to private interests. A companion ILO study, "The Investment of the Funds of Social Insurance Institutions," relates that these funds are generally regarded as a patrimony of the insured population and thus are commonly dedicated to the improvement of social conditions. Where safety and yield are assured, it declares, insurance contributions are frequently invested in housing, health and welfare projects.

Copies of the English edition are available at the Washington branch of the International Labor Office, 734 Jackson Place, Washington, D. C.

STATE ALIEN RECOVERY ACT BEFORE SUPREME COURT

New York City.—Intervention as friend of the court will be sought by the American Civil Liberties Union in a test before the U. S. Supreme court of the constitutionality of Pennsylvania's alien registration law, which was to go into effect last year. The high court has agreed to review a decision of the U. S. circuit court at Scranton last December holding the law a violation of the federal constitution.

The law, enacted last June, provides that all aliens 18 years or over, with a few exemptions, must register with the State Department of Labor and must carry identification cards. Until its validity is decided, the state will not attempt to enforce the law.

Pennsylvania officials maintain that the act was intended simply as a census measure. The Civil Liberties Union holds that under the law aliens would have to live under a "passport system" and be compelled to remain "visiting foreigners."

Decisive Part

When the real conditions of a lasting peace come to be discussed, the international labor organization will be in a position to play a decisive part . . . It is conceivable that it may become a pattern and starting point for the future organization of world relations.—Gaston Tessier, general secretary of the French Confederation of Christian Workers.
